ORDINANCE NO. 155.

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING LOCAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 16 IN THE CITY OF TWIN FALLS, FOR THE PURPOSE OF SPRINKLING CERTAIN STREETS AND AVENUES AND PAYING THE COST THEREOF BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT LEVIED AGAINST THE ABUTTING PROPERTY.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO:

Section 1. That there be, and there is hereby established Local Improvement District No. 16 in said city for the purpose of sprinkling the streets and avenues therein as follows:

Ninth Avenue East between Shoshone Street and Blue Lakes Boulevard.

Ninth Avenue North between Shoshone Street and North Avenue.

That certain street and roadway commonly called the "Kilbuck Road" from its intersection with Main Avenue, thence east one-fourth mile to the city limits.

Section 2. Said district shall include all of the lots and lands abutting on, contiguous and tributary to, the streets and avenues named, and extending to the distance back from said street or avenue, if platted in blocks, to the center of the blocks; if platted in lots only, to the center of the lots; and if platted in blocks and lots, to the center of the blocks, twenty-five feet.

Section 3. That the roadway in said streets and avenues and parts of streets and avenues and parts of streets and avenues in said district, each lot and parcel of land within the district, shall be sprinkled with water the full width thereof, between points hereinafter designated, during the year 1913, in accordance with the orders and under the supervision of the overseer of the city.

Section 4. That the cost and expense of the said sprinkling be assessed upon the lots and lands in the said district, each lot and parcel of land being separately assessed for the full expense thereof in proportion to the number of feet of each respective lot and parcel of land fronting on said streets and avenues and parts of streets and avenues in said district, and in proportion to the benefits derived to the said property by reason of said sprinkling; provided, that the cost and expense of sprinkling in the space between the junction of two or more streets, and wherein one main street terminates in crossing another street, and all other streets, and sidewalks, shall be paid by the City of Twin Falls.

Section 5. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 6. That the cost and expense of the said sprinkling be assessed upon the lots and lands in the said district, each lot and parcel of land being separately assessed for the full expense thereof in proportion to the number of feet of each respective lot and parcel of land fronting on said streets and avenues and parts of streets and avenues in said district, and in proportion to the benefits derived to the said property by reason of said sprinkling; provided, that the cost and expense of sprinkling in the space between the junction of two or more streets, and wherein one main street terminates in crossing another street, and all other streets, and sidewalks, shall be paid by the City of Twin Falls.

Section 7. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 8. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 9. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 10. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 11. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 12. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 13. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 14. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

Section 15. That upon the passage of this ordinance the Committee on Streets of said city, together with the City Engineer, shall make out an assessment roll, and cause the same to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, in accordance with the provisions of the State Legislature.

roll by parties aggrieved by such assessment.

Section 7. That all of the assessments hereinafter specified shall be known as special assessments for sprinkling, and shall be levied and collected as special assessments for the taxes for general revenue purposes, and shall be placed on the tax roll for collection subject to the same penalties and collected in the same manner as other city taxes.

PASSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, this 2nd day of June, 1913.

APPROVED BY THE Mayor of said city this 2nd day of June, 1913.

On all of Your Printed Matter, it represents Good Workmanship, Good Values, and Good Conditions.

While not greatly regretting the failure to celebrate the Fourth of July in this city, the Times most certainly does deplore the attitude of personal animosity which was the real nucleus back of the opposition, developed against such celebration, by a few present at the meetings in the Commercial Club. The city has been peculiarly fortunate in having its business men present a solid front for every measure advocated for the public good—and the divisions of opinion have usually had no effect on the boosting of every business man once the majority made its decision. The Times believes that every one should be accorded the right to his opinion and that, while differences of opinion are bound to come up in the affairs of the city, that personal animosity should not be given any sanction in arriving at a decision. Such action can only result in a widening breach among the business men of the city that will reap a harvest of disappointment later. If persisted in, it will lead to reprisals on both sides. A man's right to refuse to contribute to a bachelors or any other cause is solely his own business and should not make him a mark for any retaliation if Twin Falls is to keep its liberal and progressive spirit.

territory, it will be extremely difficult to stop the smuggling of autoseals unless the right of search for every vehicle is included in the state law. The Times does not believe that the change in the conditions in the north side towns is going to make as much financial change as these towns believe. Nor does The Times believe that the business thus obtained will be of unalloyed source of profit to the Jerome and Shoshone business men. In the first place, the cars which take the jug artists into those cities will dump down as regular residents a lot of saloon hangers-on who are no benefit to them, and from whose presence this city and the other dry towns will have joyous surcease. It will increase the number of disturbances in the wet towns who are, by virtue of their recent vote, putting up a strong bid for booze fighters and jacks who will scarcely re, train from getting outside of the booze while in Jerome and Shoshone, and give those cities the problem of maintaining order. It will in a great many cases drive out citizens with families who will not take kindly to the kind of moral atmosphere introduced by the saloons. It remains to be seen whether Lincoln county has the best of the bargain and the next year will reveal much to both sides in the liquor question.

The victory for the wet in Lincoln by a very narrow margin is to be regretted by the dry counties which surround that particular territory. With only fifteen votes separating this city from Jerome, the nearest Lincoln town, there is every reason to believe that booze will find its way into this section and in a large measure make the work of the local officers in enforcing the local option law very hard indeed. At present there is less than sold here illegally than at any time, and the recent election will practically re-open the whole struggle between the bootleggers and the officers. While the shipping of liquor in will be illegal, even if created by auto into the

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PRIVATE SALE

Under authority of an order of sale granted by the Probate Court of Twin Falls County, Idaho, dated May 12th, 1913, I will sell at private sale the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of Joseph W. Ford, deceased, to-wit: The Northwest quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section Twenty-nine (29), Township Nine (9), South, Range Fifteen (15), East of the Boise Meridian, in Twin Falls County, Idaho, on the following terms, viz: the sum of $1,000 in cash at the time of sale. The purchaser to assume the unpaid installments of the water contract aggregating $400 with interest at 6 per cent from December 15, 1912. The remainder of the purchase price can run for one year from the time of sale at 8 per cent per annum.

Also separate from the above: The Southwest quarter of the Northeast quarter and the West Half of the Southeast quarter of Section Fifteen (15), Township Nine (9), South, Range Fifteen (15), East of the Boise Meridian, in Twin Falls County, Idaho, on the following terms and conditions, viz: $1,600 in cash at the time of sale; the purchaser to assume the unpaid installments on the water contract aggregating $1,200 with interest at 6 per cent per annum from February 4, 1913. A credit of one year on the balance will be given, the purchaser giving a mortgage on the land bearing 8 per cent interest.

The sale will be made on or after June 25th, 1913, and bids, in writing, at the law office of Sweeley & Sweeley in the First National Bank Building at Twin Falls, Idaho.

AMERICAN BIRDS OF BEAUTY

"Learn One Thing Every Day"

No. 1. BLUE JAY

Copyright, 1912, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

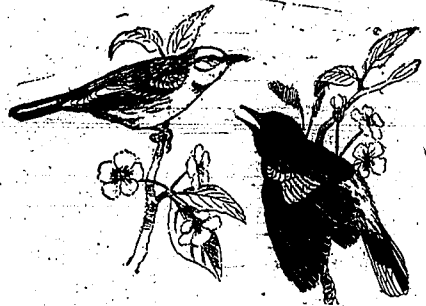

When Mark Twain wrote his famous story of the jay attempting to fill a hole in a cabin roof with acorns, he portrayed the bird with rare accuracy. Few more humorous sketches of bird life have ever been written, and the jay's curiosity and astonishment at finding the hole apparently not fillable are remarkably true to life. One of the blue jay's strongest traits is curiosity, and he may be called away from acorn gathering by simply drawing a breath in shrilly against the back of the head.

If this were his worst vice we could admire his jaunty manner and brilliant shades of blue without misgivings, but the darker emotion of nest-robbing is laid at his door. Yet in the spring and summer he does much to atone for his faults by destroying great numbers of grubs and harmful insects. And when he comes boldly around the farmhouse in winter, his azure coat giving a touch of alluring color to the sunny background, we forget his shortcomings.

Belonging to the crow family, he joins in its feud against owls, and right royally does he uphold his end. Follow up the next excited jay caution you hear in the woods, and you will probably find the flood of billings directed at an owl; visibly annoyed at the attention he is receiving.

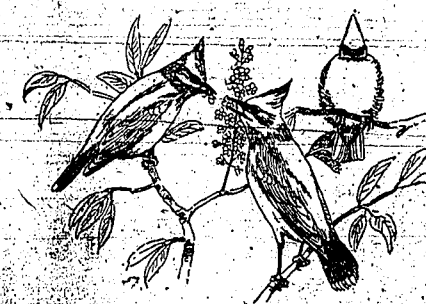

No. 2. BALTIMORE ORIOLE

"Cheerily—cheerily—cheerily"—a clear, rollicking whistle from the elm, drooping over a roadway, along which speeds a steady procession of Baltimore Orioles. Their bodies, a flashing streak of flame and black, and soon returns with a long strip of slender back trailing behind his widespread tail. A site for the new nest has been selected in the same tree, where hangs last year's pendent domicile, and both birds are hard at work home-building. The lady of the house, in her demure dress of dull, yellowish-brown, works steadily and quietly while her resplendent lord, bedecked in orange and black, cannot restrain his joy, painting between billings of nesting material to voice his happiness in song.

The Baltimore oriole has been quick to realize the friendly attitude of man, returning year after year to the same locality. Nearly all parks of the country contain one or more pairs, and because of the safe location of the deep basket nest on the extreme end of a pendulous branch where it cannot be deplored by cat or crow, their nest is perfectly safe. Though this is undoubtedly a factor in the struggle for survival of the species, in many individual instances it would not be necessary for the oriole to be a bird of splendid courage. Red squirrels have been badly beaten in attempts to despoil an approachable nest, and cats have been driven from the tree by the sharp thrusts of a needle-like bill.

No. 3. CEDAR WAXWING

What the cedar waxwing lacks in size among the most beautiful we have, makes up in grace. Though exactly what we know of the bird is brilliant, they are so commonplace on the ends of the new year's resolutions that these birds are for is not known. More rarely similar formation are found on the tail feathers. These sycophants of the bird world roam indifferently over the country, and are quite as likely to be found calmly enjoying the hawthorn berries in December as they are to be seen skimming themselves with cherries. They fit perfectly into the winter landscape, and a cluster of wild cherry trees in summer would hardly seem complete without a flock of waxwings among the branches. Their mannerisms are, notably different from the majority of birds, possessing few of the quick, nervous motions of the others.

The next time that you discover a flock of cedar waxwings among the cherries do not run for a gun, but get a fieldglass instead. See how dignified and polite they are even in feeding. No matter how to get the biggest mouthful. With a gentle inclination of the crested brown head, one seems to say, "After you are served, I will take a bite or two; but not before—no, indeed!"

It is a short-sighted farmer who begrudges this perfect little Beau Brummell the fruit he takes. The waxwings exact are far below what is due them for the thousands of canker worms, moths, and honey dew they devour. A flock of waxwings in the orchard when the codling moths are secreting themselves in the calyxes of young apples will accomplish more good in the same time than two men.

In common with the goldfinch, the waxwing does not think of nest building until all other birds have reared a family. Not until July do they select a home, site—maybe in the orchard or in a hole in the edge of second-growth woods. The structure is rather haphazardly put together. The pale bluish eggs are curiously marked with brown and blue. Both birds are devoted parents. A visitor to the nest is received almost as though expected. They sit quietly, without scarcely a nod, during the inspection, never for a moment ceasing to show that strange reserve and debonair manner so characteristic of the species. We have no objection to your looking at our treasures; but please remember a gentleman does not disturb the property of others, they seem to say. Lost indeed to all sense of fair-play would be the man who could break up such a home!

The only other representative of the genus is the bohemian waxwing, found in the more northern parts of the country. It is a trifle larger bird, but could easily be mistaken for the common waxwing. A dusky throat and deep cinnamon under tail feathers are the distinguishing marks.

No. 4. SCARLET TANAGER

"Chirp—chirp!" The emphatic note comes from the cool oak shade. There is the author among the new leaves, in a dress as pronounced as his call, an atom from the far tropics drifted back to us on the wings of May, with his gorgeous new suit of scarlet-trimmed with pure black wings and tail. What a contrast—scarlet against the new green and deep blue sky. It takes sharp eyes to discover this elegant's humble mate in her dress of dull green; but at last we find her, sitting, quietly, apparently absorbed in admiration of him, or perhaps speculating upon which branch to place the nest. Indeed, he is so preoccupied at times as to allow a very near approach without taking alarm. These birds are very susceptible to cold, and are sometimes so numbed by a sudden drop in temperature as to permit their being taken in the hand without resistance.

The tanagers are increasing in number, and the fact that the male makes the journey south in a protective dress is one of the most interesting of the species. While Nature strives to keep alive, man steps in and destroys. Every year the numerous lighthouses along the coast collect their toll of migrating birds, and not long ago hundreds of tanagers were killed against Fire Island Lighthouse.

(12) Are grownup sons under obligation to God to care for their aged parents if they are needy? Why? (13) Would you say, and why, that a good father rejoices as much in the success of a son as if it were his own success? (14) Verses 14-15—What can you say in commendation of grownup men, brothers, telling, with tears, how much they love one another? (15) Verses 16-20—When we find such princely generosity in a so-called heathen, as in this Pharaoh, would you say, and why, that it was inspired by our God? (16) Verses 21-24—Seeing Joseph gave Benjamin so very much more than he gave the rest, did they have any right to be offended? Why? (17) Verses 25-28—Give a word picture of Joseph's feelings when he realized that Joseph was yet alive. (18) Chapter xlii: 7—How many persons composed Jacob's company which went into Egypt? (19) In what manner had Jacob been accustomed to have visitors of God? (20) May a Christian now expect God to reveal to him anything other than through his reason? Give your reasons. SOUND ADVICE TO 1913 CLASS

A few words to the class:

1. Be genuine. An Irishman, looking upon a gigantic monument, cried out, "Faith, and I wonder if it's polished that way came through." Character is the polishing stone through which the shining jewel of life to which we all look up and which we all admire, it makes the chasm which separates the man from the brute, the great gift, which the brute can not cross and the man should not cross, the link which binds him to the Divine. Be true to yourself and then you can not be false to anyone.

2. Have faith in God, in yourself and in others. Each drop has fallen out to others of doubt, they will measure to you. Many do not accomplish much, because they do not think they can. Looking through a hole in the stone wall in the enclosure of the Protestant cemetery at Rome you will see two small stones side by side. On the one you read:

"This grave contains all that was mortal of a young English poet, who, on his deathbed, in the bitterness of his heart, at the malice of his enemies, desired three words engraved on his tombstone. Here lies one whose name is writ in water—Feb. 24, 1821." Now look at the companion stone and read, "To the memory of Joseph Severn, devoted friend and doubtless companion of John Keats, whom he lived to see honored among the immortal poets of England."

On the wall, another has inscribed these words: "Keats, if his name be writ in water, Each drop has fallen from some mourner's cheek;

A sacred tribute such as heroes seek. Though oft in vain through daring deeds of slaughter,

Sleep on, not honored less for epitaph so meek."

What love and devotion breathes in the words of these two devoted friends. Why did not poor broken-hearted Keats find in this enough to make him forget the malice of his enemies? Have you found mercy in some? There is honor and love in the many. Believe in yourself, in humanity and in God.

2. Think for yourself. If you have in your course of study depended upon others to think for you, you are handicapped in the race. It hurts some to think:

"How few there are of those who think. Of all the thinking few, And some who never think at all, But only think they do."

4. Do yourself, not somebody else. How many are like peas in a pod, like the one next to them. We are often slaves of dress or other habits or practices not sometimes justified by common sense or high morals. Most of our evil originates in our dislike to be different from others, so we fall in line and lose power with men and often with God, frequently at the expense of health, wealth, happiness or health.

5. Be a dreamer. "Where there is no vision—the people perish." Encourage high ideals. Hitch your chariot to a star, but climb hard enough to fasten the bit and to watch it. Justice Brewer says:

"Men take the pure ideals of their souls,

And look them fast away,

And never dream that things so beautiful—

Are fit for everyday.

So counterfeits pass current in their lives;

And stonies they eat as bread;

And starvings and fearfully they walk.

Through life among the dead.

Though never yet was pure ideal—

Too fair for them to make it real."

6. Be persistent. Wendell Phillips said, "What is duty? Nothing but an education; nothing but the first step to something better." "Adversity is the demand that Heaven makes for the Jewels of the soul."

There are greater battlefields within the soul of each than are seen at Marathon or Waterloo—or Gettysburg. You may feel that you are a conqueror, but there is no failure save in giving up.

"The earth has its fields of a nobler strife.

There are known to the outward ear—

There are deeper cries in the battle of life.

That mortals could bear to hear.

There are myriad souls that the angels know,

Where, unseen by his brother's eye, Man has wrestled with his secret foe,

And risen to conquer or die.

No trophies tell where the trampled yield.

No mound in the trampled sod,

But sometimes a cross on the silent field.

Is reared by the hand of God."

God meant you to conquer. If your will is not strong enough to withstand so that it is reinforced by the power of the Divine will, so shall you be overcome, no longer a creature of circumstances, but kings and queens of circumstances. So shall you prove the words of Ella Wheeler Wilcox true:

"There is no chance, no destiny, no fate.

Can circumstance or hinder, or control

The firm resolve of a determined soul.

Gifts count for nothing; will alone is great.

All things give way before it 'noon or late.

Each well-born soul must win what it deserves.

Let the feet grate of luck. The fortunate

Is he whose earnest purpose never swerves,

Whose slightest action or inaction serves.

The one great aim.

Why does one stand still?

And waits an hour sometimes for such a will."

7. Be humble. You have nothing that you did not receive. We are here, these last days, of wireless telegraphy, flying machines, heatless light, radium and allentium, out of which we hope for the photograph, and may see the faces of friends a thousand miles away as we now hear the dream of Joseph, the Hebrew boy, for the sun and moon seem to make obsequious to us. But after all, what is the worth of our knowledge? We have mapped a few square feet of space while immensity is unexplored; we have studied a few centuries while eternity is unfathomed; we have gathered a few stray stalks, but unsifted sheaves are all about us; we know how things appear, but not what they are; we know how certain rays of light affect us, but not where the light dwells; we are not able to tell the story of the simplest flower, roots and all, all—here are aunts, no hammer of human wisdom can crack it. Yet the human soul, it has touched high noon, and if these simple things surpass our knowledge, how shall mere human wisdom answer any questions, which I, reasoning and feeling, sinning and suffering, mortal and immortal must know concerning my origin, duty and destiny? Who shall unveil to the great God, my Maker, and roll back the cloud that enwraps His throne; what mechanic's skill will unravel the early experience? What scholar of the ages, treading the brink of eternity and death, in the night of death, can show me the mansions of eternal rest? Intellect has done great things, but the greatest it can not do, and your deepest investigations will always end with an interrogation point, therefore be humble. Prate not about what you know or can do.

D. Moody and Henry Drummond, two men who walked over the heath, or when Drimmond, slipped and plucked a Scottish violet, the symbol of humanity, on which he wrote these words:

"Humbility, the fairest, loveliest flower

That grew in Paradise, and the first

That died."

Has rarely flourished since on mortal soil.

It is so frail, so delicate a thing.

'Tis gone if it but look upon itself,

And who venture to believe in itself."

Prove by that thought they have it not."

Young ladies: What a blessed day is ours, contrasted with the days of ancient Rome, when the women, uneducated, were satirized by juvenile men: "A woman stops at nothing when she wears.

Rich ornaments round her neck, and in her ears.

Pearls of enormous size; these justify

Her faults and make all lawful in her eye."

Ruskin has said, "Queen you must be to all and to the higher mysteries of the world which bows itself and ever will bow to the myrtle crown and stiletta scepter of womanhood. Never trail either the crown or scepter in the dust. See that you possess independence without boldness; culture without pedantry; truthfulness without bluntness; breeziness without brusqueness; attainments which are not smatterings; beauty which is not health; health which is not prudery; benevolence which is not lip service; self-respect without pride; dignity without haughtiness; coolness without indifference; cordiality without gushings; faith without credulity, and practical religion without hypocritical cant. Let the world see in you sympathy without officiousness; tact without insincerity; frankness without impudence; mental strength which is not masculine; refinement which is not veneer, and usefulness without the suicide of personal individuality."

Young gentlemen—Remember the words of Dr. Maltby Balcock:

"Be strong, we are not here to dream, to drift."

We have hard work to do and loads to lift."

Be charitable to womankind; gentle to the erring; patient with the ignorant, kind to the aged; helpful to all; and the world will make place for you. You may be able to give twenty reasons for failure but the world will not note the reasons but only the fact of failure. Cultivate honest convictions and they grow and will finally possess you, compromise with them and they die. Blessed is friendship and love, less blessed is hate, but cursed is that indifference to principles and character in others which is neither love nor hate; which is but the misty miasma that men call friendship. The world will love and honor in you what God loves and honors in men—self-sacrifice first.

No one can stand at Calvary in rogarant meditation five minutes and not be impressed with the tremendous sacrifice of the only perfect young man; self-sacrifice which accords to compromise with self-indulgence, and strenuous endeavor arising from the conviction that there are sacred powers in every life, which must not be wasted in egotistical pride or narrow self-love.

As we are going out to now and undried fields, separating today from many whose lives have been a part of yours, and henceforth will be but a sweet memory, what better motto can give you at this auspicious moment than that of Miss Brigham of Mt. Holyoke:

"Put any burden upon me, only sustain me; send me any where, only go with me; sever any tie but that which binds me to Thy service, and Thy heart."

Miss O. L. Sloan left Tuesday evening for Seattle, Wash., where she has accepted a position with the Western Union Telegraph company. Miss Sloan was night operator at the local office in this city.
