BIPLANE FLIGHT IS SUCCESSFUL

Birdman Has Perfect Weather for Event

DR. FRANK BELL DRAWING CARD FOR BIG CARNIVAL

Flights on Friday and Saturday Witnessed by Thousands of Spectators.

Under the perfect weather conditions, Dr. Frank J. Bell, flying with a Curtis Biplane, created amusement for thousands of visitors to the three-day carnival which, closed Saturday night. Friday afternoon, Dr. Bell started promptly on schedule and for thirty minutes made spirals and glides enough to convince the most skeptical of the value of the flying machine. Some times a thousand feet in the air and in long easy flights the slight figure of the doctor balanced on his small support seemed only part of a great bird which was pursued in its steady flight by real birds attracted by its unusual appearance. Aside from the steady hum of the big eight cylinder motor which drove the plane there was little difference in the flight of bird and the man driven machine. A slight leak in the water tank caused Dr. Bell to land more quickly than he intended in a field just outside of the city.

Saturday, with the machine in the same field, Dr. Bell attempted to get off the ground with the plane, but after several trials was obliged to make his start in a road girted about with telephone and electric light poles and where an extra hazard to himself and machine was occasioned. He got up successfully and again demonstrated his perfect control over the machine, ending with a perfect descent into the ball park.

Dr. Bell will make flights this week at Oakley and Albion and expects to drive his plane from Burley to Albion.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGERS NABBED

Sheriff's Office Grab Three Men Saturday for Selling Boozes

Last Saturday the sheriff's office arrested William Pitney and Bert Chaney and they have been charged with having boozes in their possession contrary to law. Pitney was arrested in town while driving along the street in his wagon and a search disclosed several bottles of beer. The discovery caused a search warrant and went to his house east of town where a quantity of liquor of all kinds was found. The officers also searched the place. Bert Chaney came to the house and he was arrested for having something to do with the liquor. Pitney released and Chaney held in jail. Jar bond and will have his preliminary hearing tomorrow. Chaney was in the county jail to await his hearing.

On the same day J. E. Henley was arrested at the Elmer Hotel and a ton of whisky was found in his possession. Henley waived his preliminary hearing and is being held in the county jail to await trial in the district court.

HEAVY YIELD OF CLOVER SEED

Ward J. Blackledge of Filer Gets More Than 14 Bushels to the Acre

One of the heaviest yields of clover seed ever reported on the Twin Falls tract, was raised by Ward J. Blackledge on his farm four and one-half miles north of Filer. From seven acres, Mr. Blackledge threshed 101 bushels of alfalfa clover seed, as was ever seen in this country. Mr. Blackledge says that in his 11 years experience he has never seen finer seed either in quality or color. He also states that he will continue to furnish an affidavit of himself engineer and haulers in regard to the yield.

S. S. CONVENTION HED LAST WEEK

Prominent Speakers Present and Addressed Meeting

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR COUNTY EXECUTIVE BOARD.

Sessions Were Held in Presbyterian Church—Delegates Present from All Over County.

A very enthusiastic Sunday school convention was held at the Presbyterian church in this city on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Sept. 16th. At the afternoon session Mrs. E. C. Knapp presided and the very interesting and instructive address "Ways of Making the Sunday School Bigger and Better," and "The Graded Work in the Sunday School," by W. A. Brown of Chicago, also addressed those present and conducted a get-acquainted conference. Following a short business session, two round table conferences were held, one for elementary workers, conducted by Mrs. A. Brown, the other the adult work, by W. A. Brown.

While the attendance at the afternoon session was not as large as it should have been, Dr. Brown made the statement that it was the best representative audience they had addressed during their tour, so many schools being represented and nearly all present being officers or teachers in Sunday schools. A recreation of all present was the conference. At the evening session the church was well-filled and Dr. W. A. Brown delivered his lecture on "The Boys and Girls of the Sunday School." His plan and practical address will surely bear fruit in the school representation. The very enjoyable feature of the evening program was a song by a chorus of about thirty little girls from Filer.

The following officers were elected to complete the county executive board: Superintendent, Mr. C. H. Stinson; Supt. of Adult Dept., Mr. W. A. Brown; Supt. of Missionary Dept., Miss Alice Gibbs; Supt. of Evangelistic Dept., Dr. J. P. Shepherd. Following the election of officers, the three year state convention will be held in Idaho, and an invitation was extended for one to be in Twin Falls.

The last address was by W. A. Brown on "The World's Sunday School Convention," which was held this year in Zurich, Switzerland, where Dr. Brown delivered an address. He gave an interesting account of the convention and showed a picture of the beautiful Swiss landscape.

All who were present at these meetings feel that we owe a debt of gratitude to the workers at Twin Falls and Mrs. B. C. Knapp.

THE ODD FELLOWS PICNIC

On Account of Bad Weather Adjournment Taken to the Hall.

Sunday, which was the day selected by the Odd Fellows of this city for their picnic in the city park, but on account of the high wind adjournment was taken to the Odd Fellows hall, where a very enjoyable picnic dinner was served. After the good things to eat had been dispensed with the gathering was called to order and the exercises opened with prayer and the opening ode. The address of welcome was made by Noble Grand J. W. Thompson. It was then that the Odd Fellows Grand Master J. P. Allshie, who delivered a glowing address on Odd Fellowship which was listened to with wrapt attention by all those present.

CARNIVAL OF SPORTS ENDS

City Gets Back to Normal Conditions

PADADERS OF THE CARNIVAL SHOW GREAT PREPARATION.

The carnival spirit faded out with the close of the street dance last Saturday evening, leaving the pavement covered with evidence of the grand finale—the Oh-Ad celebration, which brought out thousands of spectators and many gayly dressed characters to participate in the revels. For three days the city was given over to revels of one kind or another, while the holiday spirit was shown by the many business houses in decoration of the national colors. Six base ball games in three days interested many staid business men who do not take kindly to the more jovial part of the carnival. Twin Falls was satisfied to its full of amusement for at least a week.

Many other people waited on the streets day after day to view the wonderful parades provided for their amusement and were enthusiastic over many of the features shown during the different events. On Thursday the industrial and civic parade brought into the lime light the immensity of the public school system when fifteen hundred boys and girls on foot and in the school wagons filled the blocks of the city as they marched in review. Many beautifully decorated floats for this occasion were prepared by the business men.

Friday afternoon the automobile parade or a more part of it, at least, passed along the streets for the edification of the crowds. Three or four of the lot showed evidences of hard work in the matter of decoration and were heartily applauded by the spectators.

Saturday evening the grand event of the carnival was the Oh-Ad parade and it was in every way a most carefully planned and cleverly executed affair. It was the last of the high school in its keen rivalry between the classes for the prizes. Full credit, too, should be given to Herbert & Spencer, who, with the assistance of Messrs. Donald Kunkley, Revere Taber, Will Macanney and Harry Benolt, it is a seldom that a city of Twin Falls has so many of the big, well balanced parade given in this city Saturday evening.

Following is the list of the prize winners in the parades for the three days.

TWIN FALLS BAND PRAISED

Band Boys Are Complicated by Visitors for Splendid Music.

During the three days of the carnival no harder working bunch of men could be found than the members of the Twin Falls band. The boys were always on the spot when called upon to enliven the time with their music. Commencing at nine o'clock in the morning they were up to the most of the time until 11 o'clock. A most favorable comment was heard from visitors from out of town for the Twin Falls band. The boys were always on the spot when called upon to enliven the time with their music.

Bees and Farm Notes

Learn how to disinfect and then do it.

Seed sweet corn needs attention as well as field corn.

Store onions in a dry, airy place—not in the cellar.

A light sharp hatchet is the best tool for cutting cabbage.

Better grease the work harness after the heavy fall work is done.

Lime should be applied after plowing, as it is bound to work down.

The best location with a good fertilizer in preference to coarse manure.

Watch the roof leak. A patch now may save further destruction and save some feed.

Fertile handling of potatoes and apples means careful harvesting and proper storage.

Manure exposed to the weather for three months will lose one-third of its fertilizing value.

Now, after all has been said, don't leave the seed corn hanging out on the windmill frame through the winter.

When plenty of good corn stalks or straw is used for bedding, all the liquid manure can be readily absorbed.

Give the lawn a dressing of well-rotted stable manure before the ground freezes up and let it stay on all winter.

By simple figuring the difference between the return to your fertilized and unfertilized crop you can see the value of fertilizing.

A decrease in the sales of commercial fertilizers over the country indicates that better use is being made of barnyard manure.

Parley plants still in the garden may be potted and taken into the house where they will furnish a garish for the table all winter.

The illustration represents the greatest labor saving device on this farm. The "dumpy" is 90 feet from the barn. At the dump we took a scoop of manure and averaged a pit 3 1/2 by 3 feet deep in the center, rising to nothing at the edges, writes W. I. Raymond of St. Charles, Ia., in the Missouri Valley Farmer. This is as large as a manure pile is expected to be. This pit is in dry soil and was smoothed and puddled until it is watertight, thus preventing any leakage of the liquid manure. There is 200 feet of track going along all gutters and into the barn stalls through gates which open for that purpose and the litter carrier goes around the exhibit.

HISTORIC SPOTS OF AMERICA

"Learn One Thing Every Day"

No. 1. JAMESTOWN

Copyright, 1912, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

Slowly up the river three vessels, of the men and killed a boy. The thunder of muskets had driven them away, but the settlers left it necessary to keep continuous watch, and each man sat on every third night to take his turn. Those first few months were hard, and many died. Then cabins were built, and there was more comfort.

Captain Smith, later governor, was absent much of the time, buying food from the Indians. Two years afterward he went home, and the months that followed were cruel to the starving men, when all but sixty of the four hundred settlers died.

Yet, through many tribulations, Jamestown lived. In 1698 it was burned, and other cabins were built. In 1649 word was received that a representative government had been granted. The settlers were ordered to have a portion of ground, and plantations were gradually laid out along the James. In spite of Indian massacres the colony and all Virginia grew.

In 1676 Jamestown was burned by Nathaniel Bacon, who had risen against the governor. The settlement was removed from Jamestown to Williamsburg, and the importance of the colony ceased, until it is now but a site of ruins.

It was on low and marshy ground that later became an island. There are monuments erected to commemorate the colony, of Captain Smith and Pocahontas, a church that resembles the one first built.

The Jamestown Exposition in 1907 was held near Norfolk, forty miles down the river.

No. 2. PLYMOUTH

The little ship hove in and the sails were furled upon the yards. The journey was over. There, on the harbor's edge, rose the hill that was to be poor and scarce, and none was to be had from the surrounding country. Sickness came, and death broke into the ranks. Indeed, before the close of that first winter nearly half of the colonists had perished. They were buried upon the hill near the harbor, at least was freedom in a new land, and in the spring grain was sowed. And the voyagers were jubilant. And the voyagers were jubilant.

Many fires brought with it the odor of burning pine. But the buoyant spirit of the colonists could not long withstand the penetrating cold. The food was poor and scarce, and none was to be had from the surrounding country. Sickness came, and death broke into the ranks. Indeed, before the close of that first winter nearly half of the colonists had perished. They were buried upon the hill near the harbor, at least was freedom in a new land, and in the spring grain was sowed. And the voyagers were jubilant. And the voyagers were jubilant.

The story of strife, his hearted Miles Standish, the military captain of Plymouth, and Pocahontas in his disability connected with the colony. Captain Standish had many encounters with the Indians. A fort was built, and while in general the Indians were friendly, the men of the little army under his command were constantly on the lookout for trouble that might arise. Once a conspiracy was detected, and the Indians were put to death with the very weapons they had brought to use upon the people of the colony.

In 1624 each member of the colony received a parcel of land, which he was to work for himself. After that there was always plenty of food in Plymouth. The colony was united with that of Massachusetts Bay in 1631.

Today Plymouth is a busy city of more than 15,000 people. The great boulder there at the harbor's edge, and a protecting canopy of granite has been placed above it. The bones of some of the Pilgrims have been placed and to clear the land; the smoke of within the caspary.

No. 3. TICONDEROGA

It was cold, for Christmas was only four days off; but the spirits of the Pilgrims were not dampened. The armed men went ashore to reconnoiter, and soon returned with the word that there was no danger. For many days there was the sound of axes felling trees with which to build houses and to clear the land; the smoke of within the caspary.

Darkness had fallen long before the logs. Now at the lakeshore they were men of Vermont came to the lakes. Through woods where giant trees reached upward and made the dark- ness only a little less dark, the way had marched, and the roar of the falls. Just a few boats could be found; but they were ten bumping into trees or filling over filled and rowed across in silence.

brought back, filled again, and again rowed across. When dawn broke in the east, eighty-three American soldiers had been forced over, and it was too late to save for others.

If the attack was to be a success it must be made without more delay, the men moved forward and up the slope. The rumble of the falls behind them, drowning out all other sounds. They reached the sally port. There a sentry pointed his musket at the leader of the Americans and pulled the trigger. The piece did not go off, and the sentry fled. In a few moments the little army of invaders had formed a hollow square within the fort, facing the barracks about them, their muskets ready to fire. The Indian warriors were river, and Ethan Allen, who led them, made his way to the quarters of the commandant, and demanded the surrender of the fort.

"In whose name," asked the commandant.

"In the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress," replied Allen. And the surrender was made. So easily and quietly did Ethan Allen and Benedict Arnold capture Ticonderoga from the British on that early morning in May, 1775, without the loss of a man or the firing of a gun, and the army of the colonies was enriched by many precious cannon, muskets, and a large amount of ammunition for the struggle for freedom that had but started.

"Sounding waters" is the interpretation given to the Indian name, Ticonderoga. Here, where the waters of Lake George descend tumultuously into Lake Champlain, falling thirty feet in one mile, the first of the voyagers from Canada to New England had to leave their boats and portage their loads, a fort had been built by the French twenty years before. Three years after it was put up Ticonderoga was attacked by six thousand British regulars and ten thousand provincials. The four thousand men of the French garrison repulsed the attacking army, and among the killed was Lord Howe. The memory is kept green by a tablet in Westminster Abbey erected by the people of Massachusetts. Three weeks after this repulse, when Montcalm had gone to Quebec to oppose General Wolfe and only four hundred men were left in the fort, Lord Amherst, with eleven thousand British, beset the place. Realizing the hopelessness of their task, the garrison blew up the fortifications and abandoned the place. It has been in English hands since that time up to its capture by the "Green Mountain Boys" under Ethan Allen. Two years later, when General Burgoyne descended from Canada, the fort fell into his hands, the Americans retreating with scarcely any regulars left. The fort was surrendered after the battle of Saratoga. Ticonderoga again fell into American hands.

In 1801, on the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain, the owner of the ground where the ruins of the fort stood, began its restoration.

The waters will roar at the falls as they did on the night Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys made the bloodless attack upon the fort.

In each issue of The Times three different human interest stories will appear. You can get a beautiful illustration reproduction of the above picture, with five copies, equally attractive, 12 1/2 inches in size, with this week's "Mentor." In "The Mentor" a well-known authority covers the subject of it pictures and stories of the week. The Times believes that right now is the right time to start a movement for a permanent fair association and the purchase of fair grounds. Twin Falls has been flirting around with the fair proposition for the past seven years, while the price of land about this city has steadily risen in value to the point where it is a real financial problem to raise sufficient funds to buy the forty acres needed within right distance of this city or on a car line. The Times believes that unless something is done within the next year that a fair around will not be possible for this city and that it will eventually go to some other part of the county. The Times is willing, together with the business houses of this city, to start next month on a campaign to raise money for that purpose. By getting each business man to pledge a certain sum each month toward stock start a corporation for buying fair grounds and running an annual fair. Make the shares ten dollars each and as fast as a man pays in dollars issue stock to that amount to him and keep on issuing stock up to the total amount of his yearly subscription as it is paid in. In a short time by this method the money for an optional payment on forty acres could be made before railroad developments start land prices soaring again. The fact that carnivals do not interest and attract the farmers should be apparent to all and it should be patent to all that it is the farmers who are really making this country and tract what it is now and the wonderful country it is destined to be. Therefore something that will interest the farmers is what the business men should work for. A good county fair will create that interest. There is no question but what a great many farmers will subscribe to stock for such purpose.

SALE OF THE HOUSE BASIN, TWIN FALLS.

The Boise Statesman, as will be seen by an article on the first page of this issue, is authority for the statement that the state land board has decided to put the Boise Basin timber on sale in accordance with the terms laid down by the Barber Lumber company, of which Lyon Cobb, son of Calvin Cobb, editor of the Boise Statesman, is the general manager. Just why this action was taken while Mr. Lafferty, who left here last Saturday, and Mr. Bush and another engineer, are in the Basin cruising the timber we cannot understand. Just why the report was not awaited in order that the board could form some idea whether the timber is worth the price offered by the Barber Lumber company or three times as much is a question the members of the board instead of the Signal will have to answer.

The Barber Lumber company demanded that the timber be sold in a body and not in forty-acre tracts, and the board will sell it that way. This will preclude the possibility of smaller companies bidding and will leave the way clear for the big fellows. It is announced that the sale is to be advertised in a couple of timber journals, but it is doubtful if this will help matters. The big timber men are together and there is little possibility of their competing with each other, especially as the Barber Lumber company already has large holdings in the Boise Basin.

There are some members of the state board for whom the Signal has the highest regard, and as they have reserved the right to reject any and all bids, we will await the outcome before saying some things, but a word of warning at this time may not be out of place. If John M. Hansen expects to be reborn and elected governor via the Barber Lumber company route he will be a really disappointed man. The same thing is true of others who will likely ask a return on their record. If the timber in question is sold at $25.00 to $27.50 a thousand, what it is actually worth, well and good, but if it is to be sold at $8.00 an acre, less than one-third of what it is worth, the day of reckoning will come as the people of Idaho are growing tired of our industries and resources being exploited for the benefit of a few.

Just stick a pin here, Captain, and you might also whisper it to Chairman George, that the state of Idaho is not bounded by the city limits of Boise, and there are patriotic citizens who are willing and ready to carry the fight for a square deal to the people in the next campaign—Wesley Sign.

A TOTTERING "HOUSE OF GOVERNORS"

The futility of the governors' conferences, of which the sixth has just been held at Colorado Springs, Colo., causes certain editors to wonder whether these gatherings might not better be ended. Epigrammatically recording the progressive decline of an institution founded by Theodore Roosevelt "to discuss questions of public importance," the Springfield Republican says: "First, it was the 'House of Governors,' then the 'Conference of Governors,' and now it is merely a few governors hearing themselves talk." On the latter point we are informed by the press that out of forty-eight governors of the states only twenty-five attended the Colorado

Spring meeting, which, according to the New York Evening Post, "is not a sign of a special vitality in the institution from which much was hoped." "The most obvious error of the conference," The Post points out, lies in its program of subjects for discussion. It is all very well, we read, to take up matters that involve, or may involve, federal action, but the great purpose of the conferences was "uniform state legislation." Nevertheless, in examining the list of topics proposed as subject to such legislation, The Post is moved to ask whether all or even the most of them are in reality suitable to adjustment by uniform state laws. For instance, inquires The Post, "why should all the States make haste to have the same system of direct primaries?" and if Oregon wishes to try "the extreme of direct legislation," why should not her sister states stand by and profit by her experience? Looking at the matter from this point of view, The Post begins to doubt whether or not "the field apportioned to the house of governors be more limited in extent than was supposed"; and, in referring to the so-called "outside topics" introduced into the conference, it cites the proposal of Governor Hunt, of Arizona, to abolish legislatures and replace state administrations through a governor and his cabinet, and the proposal of Governor Hodges, of Kansas, for "commission government of states" as tending "to make of the conference a body for the discussion of the theories of government."

Instead of attempting to cover "a wide range of big subjects," thinks the New York Press, more might be accomplished "if emphasis were thrown upon one topic considered thoroughly," but, adds The Press, questioning in its conviction of the value of the annual conference, "what ever is done by way of formal action or discussion, these congresses of governors have become a notable institution in furthering of intelligent treatment by the different states of the many problems which are common to them all."

Confident also is the tone of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, which says that although "the ideal of the inviolable, yet it is not unattainable," and the New York Globe, praising the governors' conference as "an opportunity to exchange ideas and suggest reforms based on practical experience," calls attention to the fact that "these conferences . . . have always been productive of good in the past." Recalling that in the beginning there was talk of an authoritative organization of the house of governors which should make it an essential part of the government and that the idea ended in talk, New York Tribune notes with satisfaction "while the meetings have continued to be 'voluntary and unauthorized' they have not 'declined in interest or lack of profit.'"

Quite the opposite is the opinion of the New Orleans Times Democrat, which, as a failure, fanks the "House of Governors" with the Commerce Court, and says of the present conference:

"Far less attention has been paid to it than was paid to the earlier conferences—probably for the reason that the high hopes of practical results awakened when President Roosevelt branched the plan, have been disappointed. It had been expected that the assembled governors would find ways and means for closer co-operation, for securing uniformity of laws, etc. After several years' trial of the plan its expected good results are rather conspicuously absent."

Another New Orleans paper, The Picayune, finds that "it is not easy to see that any very useful or important can come from these meetings," but it hopes the governors "will have good time," while the New York Times says that, instead of a house of governors, we should have "a house of delegates, made up yearly of experts" specially charged to consider interstate measures covering some social field. Then there is the Providence Journal, which, speaking of "an institution fading away for lack of an effective," describes the house of governors as "proceeding aimlessly, but in the general direction of the setting sun."—Literary Digest.

TALKS ON THRIFT

NO. 5—THE STRENGTH OF COMPOUND INTEREST.

"Economy is near to the keystone of character and success. A boy that is taught to save 'his money will rarely be a bad man or a failure; the man who saves will rise in his trade or profession steadily; this is inevitable."—Gladstone.

Every once in a while you read in the papers about a savings bank account which has lain dormant for a number of years. The depositor has died or moved away and forgotten all about the account he started in the bank. Then a claimant for the account comes to light and it is found that compound interest has doubled or tripled the original account, and in some cases, what was only a small surplus has, by the lapse of years, and the steady operation of compound interest, become a modest fortune.

Did you ever stop to consider why it is that there are laws prohibiting banks from paying interest on such dormant accounts after a certain period—in most states about twenty years? Do you know why it is that in no state of the Union nor country in the world are interest-bearing financial trusts permitted in perpetuity, or even for any considerable length of time?

The reason is simply this, even one savings account or one trust, if allowed to earn compound interest indefinitely, would in time absorb all the money in the world!

That gives you some idea of the strength of compound interest. The illustration is perhaps a pretty big one to grasp. Here are a few simpler ones. Money earning four per cent semi-annually compounded interest will double itself the first time in about seventeen and a half years. One dollar at that interest, in fifty years will multiply itself more than seven times. In other words, if you could today put out $1,000 at four per cent compound interest and leave it undisturbed for fifty years, at the end of that time, in the year 1953, your thousand dollars would have grown to more than $5,243.

To get even more closely down to brass tacks, here is a table showing what weekly savings of one, two or five dollars will amount to at four per cent in five, ten and twenty years: Weekly Savings at 4 per cent.

Amount deposited weekly.	For 5 years.	For 10 years.	For 20 years.
$1.00	$293	$650	$1,614
$2.00	585	1,301	3,228
$5.00	1,462	3,252	8,070

If you have been earning money for some time but have not yet seriously considered this matter of saving, sit down at home this evening and figure out how much you would be worth to day if you had saved 15 per cent or 25 per cent of your income from the beginning, and had put your savings where they would have been profit, at work in your behalf with the aid of that tireless worker—compound interest.

Such introspection is good for one. It is so easy to follow the line of least resistance that many men have not the strength of character to do anything else. For most of us, spending, not saving, is the line of least resistance.

A good way to save money is to imagine that your income is smaller than it really is and put away the difference. For example, whatever your earnings are, conduct yourself as if they were one-tenth less and save the difference. Money saved is insurance against failure and saving it is good business training and a stiffener of the moral backbone. It is the strong and confident man that goes ahead, and nothing gives one greater confidence than to have money in the bank, honestly acquired.

THE TRI-COUNTY FAIR

To be Held in Jerome First Week in October.

We do not want our readers to feel that we are burdening them with matter pertaining to the forth-coming Tri-County Fair to be held at Jerome the first week in October, but the importance of this event makes it necessary that as much publicity as possible be given to it. We have heretofore called attention to the deep interest that is being taken throughout the three counties in the way of exhibits, and from present indications the magnitude of the affair is going to surpass the most sanguine expectations of the officers and board of directors, and other loyal supporters, and it goes without saying that it will be the greatest event of the kind ever held in southern Idaho.

The potato and sugar beet display under the direction of Prof. Harry H. Shaw in charge of the government, potato and sugar beet farm at Jerome, promises to be one of the most interesting features of the fair. Prof. Shaw has this year been experimenting with over 3,500 varieties of potatoes at the farm and it will be interesting to witness these different varieties, and hear them explained. Prof. Shaw is considered one of the best experts connected with the U. S. Agricultural department on the disease of potatoes and will deliver a lecture each day along this line. This department of the fair alone should interest hundreds of farmers who are seeking the most successful methods of potato raising.

The interest in the fair is not confined to this district alone, but its importance is recognized in other portions of the state, and the faculty of the State University at Moscow have recognized the fact that such an exhibit means much to the state, and have gladly permitted some of their best experts to act as judges in some of the divisions. Prof. W. L. Carlyle, head of the University, and considered as among the best judges of stock in the United States, has kindly consented to pass judgment in the stock division, and in procuring the services of Prof. Carlyle the management of the fair may well feel highly honored, as the services of this gentleman are in great demand, and it is seldom that he finds time to devote to county fairs, but the interest taken in this fair, and the expected keen competition in this department is what lend him to respond, and the judgment of an expert like Mr. Carlyle should be an incentive for every owner of stock with any merit to display the same, as they can rest assured of having fair judgment passed upon it.—Jerome Times.

THE GIRL HE WANTED

Danville Gazette Man Wants Old Fashioned Girl.

Editor W. A. King, of the Danville Gazette, states it up about right when he says: "Backward, turn backward, oh time in your flight; give us a girl whose skirts are not tight. Give us a girl whose charms, many or few, are not exposed by a too much peek-a-bo. Give us a girl, no matter what age, who won't use the stretcher as a vanity's stage. Give us a girl not too shapely in view. Dress her in skirts that the sun can't shine through."

A THENA UNDERWEAR

For Women, Misses, Children

Combining for the first time the features that have given them the first sense of comfort they have ever known in knit underwear, these features are: The Patented Seat, The Three-cornered Gusset at thigh, The Perfect Shoulder Stay, The Fitted Shoulders and Sleeves, The Extra Elastic Cuff, The Tailored Shaping, and The Perfect Sizing of Athena Underwear.

In Athena the figure is smoothly, snugly and entirely clothed in every part.

Athena is made in twenty-eight shapes and in thirty-eight fabrics. The Athena shapes comprise high neck, long or elbow sleeve, ankle-length union suits; and high-neck, long-sleeve vests with ankle drawers for women who consider warmth as the first essential. Then there are low-neck shapes in union suits and vests for women who delight in these pretty and dainty designs. Union suits and drawers are made in either ankle, knee-length or umbrella styles.

Athena Underwear costs no more than the ordinary kind. Made in sheer light-weight, dale and cotton; light-weight wool, heavy-weight cotton, fleeced and unbleached, heavy-weight wool, silk and wool, of various patterns.

Try Athena Underwear for children. Perfect fit. Long wear. Comfortable and warm.

Sacred Rights Uncovered.

Excavations at Nazareth in Palestine have uncovered the spot on which stood the carpenter's workshop of Joseph, husband of Mary, mother of Jesus. The Franciscan monks, who possess the spot, have recently made, have bought all the adjoining buildings, and intend to erect a magnificent temple to mark the spot. It is also believed that the spot where Christ's transfiguration took place has been found. It is an imposing rough, brown rock, resembling an ancient altar.

NOTICE TO THE OWNERS OF LOTS AS HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED.

You and each of you are hereby notified, that the assessment roll for sidewalk improvements covering the city of Gooding, Idaho, is on file in the office of the city clerk of said city of Twin Falls, Idaho, and that the city council of said city will meet in the council room over the First National Bank in said city on the 30th day of September, 1913, at eight o'clock P. M. on said day for the purpose of hearing and considering any and all objections that may be made as to the justice and correctness of the amounts so assessed.

The respective amounts charged against each lot, together with the owner or reputed owner of the same, the number of feet of such sidewalk constructed and the description of the property are as follows:

NOTICE.

Notice of the time fixed for hearing objections to special assessments for the purpose of defraying the cost of construction of a good and sufficient sewer system in Local Sewerage Improvement District No. 5, in the city of Twin Falls, Idaho.

To the owners of property in Local Sewerage Improvement District No. 5, in the city of Twin Falls, Idaho: You are hereby notified that the assessment roll of special assessments against the property in Local Sewerage Improvement District No. 5, of the city of Twin Falls, Idaho, for the purpose of defraying the cost and expense of the construction of a good and sufficient sewer system in said Local Sewerage Improvement District No. 5, as made out and certified to the city council of said city by the commission on streets and the sewer committee in said Local Sewerage Improvement District No. 5, is now on file in my office, the date of filing of the same being September 15th, 1913.

And that the city council of said city has fixed the 25th day of September, 1913, at 8 o'clock P. M. on said day, at the council rooms in said city, as the time at which they will hear and consider objections to said assessment roll by the parties aggrieved thereby at which time they will hear and determine all objections which have been filed by any party interested in the regularity of the proceedings in making such assessments, or the amounts levied against any particular lot or parcel of land.

The owner or owners of any property which is assessed in such assessment roll, whether named or not in such roll, may, within ten days from the date of the last publication of this notice, file with the city clerk his objections in writing to said assessment roll or any portion thereof.

Dated this 15th day of September, 1913.
Date of last publication September 19, 1913.
STUART H. TAYLOR, City Clerk.

$100 in Premiums To Our Patrons

In order to stimulate the interest in dairying in this section, we have decided to offer $100 in cash, to be divided into four premiums of $50.00, $25.00 and $10.00, to the four patrons of our creamery who shall keep a daily record of the weights and take periodical samples to be tested for the butter fat production of their herds of cows and who shall show the four highest herd yields per cow in their dairies for the period from

October 1, 1913 to June 1, 1914

The award to be made June 15, 1914. The cream to be delivered to our driver or agent, or to our creamery in Twin Falls, and all weights, samples and tests of milk made under our direction or supervision, and subject to a check by us of the cream so delivered.

We will a little later submit rules to govern this contest, which we shall endeavor to make fair to all. No results shall be published other than those winning premiums, and the general average of all herds, except that any contestant shall have the privilege of publishing the production of any individual cow in his herd. It is worth your while to know just what your cows are doing, both as individuals and as a herd. Let us help you. You ought to know your star-boarders.

Five Hundred New Subscribers Wanted in Next Five Weeks

In order to bring in subscription money during the slack season and to place the name of every resident in the county on our already large list, we will for the next three months offer the

TWICE-A-WEEK TWIN FALLS TIMES

To New Subscribers for One Year for

$1.00

This Offer Will Absolutely Close October 31

We want your name on our list and are going to give you the agent's commission. The result is you save one dollar on your year's subscription by sending or bringing in your name to us. It costs us no more for the reason that a solicitor would cost us that dollar. You get a live eight-page paper twice a week covering the best of the county, state and national news. You get a paper with an established policy of standing for the best interests of the whole people. Don't overlook this offer.

FOR THE OLD SUBSCRIBER

For the old subscribers who have stood by the Times through thick and thin in its seven years' existence, we have an equally attractive offer. Every old subscriber paying up to date and a year in advance, will have the choice of the following propositions.

You can have the advance year at one dollar or you can have the choice of a splendid wall map of this state, revised right up to date, or a pair of self sharpening scissors.

If you take the latter offers you pay $1.50 instead of the dollar.

Remember, this offer is only for three months and we have no intention of making one dollar the permanent price of the Times. October 31st is the last day and if you come in November first or any other day after that time you will pay two dollars.
