GOV. HAINES STRIKES BACK

Why Taxes Are Higher Than Last Year

ISSUES STATEMENT IN DEFENSE OF PRESENT STATE LEVY.

Legislature Made Larger Appropriations for Things Demanded by the People.

Governor Haines does not intend to charge his administration with extravagance; with being false to its professions of economy and retrenchment. From the beginning the governor has prided himself on bringing the business of the state to a better business standard; to the establishment of a system of better management in every department of the state government.

In an "Open Statement to the People of Idaho on the State Tax Levy," the governor has submitted facts and figures that will be of interest to every taxpayer in the state. In this statement he says:

Why Statement is Made.
The announcement by the board of equalization of the state levy and the amount which will have to be raised this year by direct taxation from the various counties, has been made the occasion by the opposition newspapers for a declaration that the present administration has failed to reduce its promises of economy and giving the people an economical, business administration of state affairs.

It is pointed out that the board of equalization is raising through direct taxation $24,328.73 more this year than was similarly raised in 1912, and that the increase is due to the fact as proof of extravagance and breach of faith on the part of the state officers.

People Should Have the Facts.
It is my belief that the people should be fully informed on the exact status of the question and are entitled to know for themselves whether or not the state government has been economical and businesslike in its operations. It is true that direct taxes have been increased by the amount named, but it is also true that those who have attempted to make capital out of this fact have not been true enough to the facts from which the reasons might be deduced.

It is a well known fact that the last legislature considerably extended the operations of the state government and that the board of equalization was forced to provide for meeting many expenses which heretofore have not been a charge against the state.

What Legislators Did.
For instance, the legislature, at the expense of the state, has authorized a public utilities and tax commission for which expenses during the current year were forced to provide $40,000 not previously required. It also created a state board of education, for which we have had to provide $10,000 for current expenses. It appropriated $70,000 to pay for a silver service for the battleship Idaho, an obligation coming from the previous legislature. It also increased the expenses of a state exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition, all of which under the terms of the law must be available within the next year.

Big Additional Burden.
Taking these items together, it will be seen that we were forced to provide $167,600 to meet expenses which were new and unusual, but which were demanded by the people or incurred in such manner as to relieve the present state administration of responsibility therefor. If we had not appropriated $700,000 to raise the large amount of new revenue, instead of calling for $24,328.73 more than last year, we should have been able to call for $133,261 less.

Only Part of the Story.
But even this does not tell all the story. The legislature, owing to the increased cost of maintenance, found it necessary to increase the appropriations therefor. It is presumed that these increased appropriations were all approved by the people at the legislative caucus at the time they were critically considered, but more particularly the senate, for deferring legislation for enlargement of these institutions.

For the capitol building and grounds and for the penal and charitable institutions, the legislature has appropriated $55,000 more for the biennial period than was appropriated in 1911. Similarly, appropriations for our educational institutions $177,043.20 more than in 1911. Half of this increase amount must, of course, be made available for the next year, and the board of equalization was therefore forced to raise this year for our state

BIG CIRCUS: HERE OCT. 4

Great Array of Wild Animals—Many Sensational Features.

The Al C. Barnes Big 3-Ring Wild Animal Circus will exhibit in Twin Falls, Saturday, October 4, presenting two performances, and a mile long four-hand street parade, at 10:30. Much can be said about the originality and genuine merit of the Barnes show. There is all the pomp and splendor of the circus, we have shown in the past. There is the grand entry of performers and animals; all the thrills, glitter and inspiring music. The superb boys and the lioness vendors, who cry their wares add to the general good feeling. Yet, when the performance starts, one instantly recognizes its wide departure from the conventional and stereotyped routine which has prevailed since the earliest days of tented amusements.

Instead of the usual, one sees the very unusual in the acts displayed. The principal acts are done by animals in two rings, and a big second barred arena. These animal acts number over 350, and are trained to do things which are done by men and which they put into their work that not a dull moment is experienced from the grand cavalcade entry until the final group of man-eating lions are driven to their cages.

There are acrobats, jugglers, aerial performers, high divers, back back and back and all other features which, for years have made the circus the most popular form of amusement. But, instead of people appearing in these roles, trained wild and domestic animals take their places. Lions, bears and leopards ride prancing horses; seals jump through hoops while on the backs of galloping horses; dogs and monkeys jump from the top of the tent into the air; elephants stand on their hind legs; groups of Shetland ponies do chorus-girl dances and drills, and on and on.

This is why this Barnes circus ranks as "The Show That's Different."

FATAL SHOOTING AT MULDOON

Sheepherder in Jail at Hallett for Killing Fellow Herder.

Hallett—A sheepherder known only by the name of Shaw, dead and Roy Dingley is in jail here as the result of a shooting affair which took place a few miles from here. The two men were sheepherders in the employ of Skilling and Gray, and the killing is said to have been the result of a drunken quarrel. Daley blew the top of Shaw's head off. Owing to the absence of County Attorney Angell in Hallett, no charges have been placed against Daley and details of the affair are meager. It is claimed that the shooting was accidental.—Statesman.

CLUB WOMEN

IN NEW YEAR

Sessions Will Begin Next Tuesday Afternoon

PROGRAM FOR YEAR IN HANDS OF PIONEER THIS WEEK.

Mrs. Sweeney, Redburn President, Gives Resume of Work of Last Year.

The Twentieth Century club of this city will begin its active work next Tuesday, when Mrs. A. D. Norton, the new president, will take up the work for the year. Programs for the year are now in the hands of the printers and will be put into the members' hands next week. The club, due largely to the energetic work of the retiring president, Mrs. M. J. Sweeney, is in a flourishing condition with a number of new members voted by the board of directors all ready to participate in the work. An interesting article on the achievements of the club for the past year, by Mrs. Sweeney, is herewith given:

As the hour draws near for calling the 20th Century club together under the new administration, we feel that a report of what was accomplished under the old should be given in order that the citizens of Twin Falls should know what we have done, and from work accomplished gather some idea of what we intend to do.

At the beginning of the club year, May 1st, 1912, the club voted to buy a lot for future club home. Suitable lot was secured, and the club voted to build a new club house. The lot was to be paid for in three payments, first one of $100 to be paid at once, second payment of $25 to be paid Sept. 1, 1912; third and last to be paid April 1st, 1913.

Mrs. Mary Norton, incoming president of the club, loaned the $100 and became responsible for the rest of the money. At this important meeting the club also voted to incorporate. That has been done. The club voted to buy the lot for the purpose of building a new club house. The lot was to be paid for in three payments, first one of $100 to be paid at once, second payment of $25 to be paid Sept. 1, 1912; third and last to be paid April 1st, 1913.

The splendid ways and means committee, with Mrs. Geo. D. Alken as chairman, brought us another $50. A card party given later in the year by Mrs. Robert McCollum also a member of the club, and means committee, netted almost $30.

The club was divided into six committees to serve dinners at the Commercial club during the month of September. Needless to say that the work was splendidly done. The result swelled the proceeds for lot fund.

The club had no dishes with which to serve the dinners; to rent dishes meant a great shrinkage in money. Realizing this the board voted to solicit donations from the club members. The president asked each member for dishes, silver, etc., to serve one person, if possible, but this was not so successful as we had hoped. The result—dishes, silver, etc., to serve 100 persons. The estimated value is $150.00. The dishes are now being put by the club.

A dance was given in mid-winter under the supervision of Mrs. C. H. Burton, also members of ways and means committee, netted almost $60.00.

The departments gave as follows: History and Literature, $25.00; Domestic Science, $50.00; Art, $25.00; Music, $25.00; Physical Education, $25.00; Parliamentary and Civic, $15.00; Miscellaneous, $25.00.

Beside the donating of $25.00, the Musical department under the president of department, Mrs. B. A. Baker, and the splendid leadership of Mrs. Regan, gave the equivalent of $25.00 in the form of a gift. From the proceeds of this opera was turned over to lot fund, $175.00, making the sum of $300.00 from this department.

The club is under the greatest obligations to the musicians of the city who so generously donated and talent and time during the "whole year."

The Apollo club were also ready

FOR FAIR FUND

Commercial Club Takes Up Important Matter

COMMITTEE URGED TO PUSH ISSUE WITH BUSINESS MEN.

The Commercial club, having waited until all the attractions and distractions were off the board, is now planning to get organized for the purpose of securing permanent fair grounds.

At a meeting held Tuesday afternoon the board of directors called into conference with them the old fair grounds committee, consisting of C. J. Hahn, J. M. Maxwell, S. H. Kaylor, W. H. Eldredge, C. L. DeLong, chairman.

The members of the committee were heartily in favor of beginning some sort of a movement for better grounds near this city. With that purpose in view articles of incorporation will be prepared for a stockholding association. At a later meeting of the committee these articles will be considered together with all available facts near this city. When a good, reasonable proposition can be submitted to the citizens, the campaign for funds will be started.

BORAH FOR PRESIDENT

Senator Brady Launches Boom For Idaho Senator.

Senator Brady of Idaho was brought out as a candidate for the presidency Tuesday by his colleague, Senator Brady, at a luncheon given in Senator Brady's honor by the Boise Commercial club. The bare mention of Senator Brady as a presidential candidate brought forth a storm of applause.

Senator Brady himself, in making his audience that it was not a visionary conclusion he had reached about Senator Brady's chances, but a conclusion founded on what he had heard of his colleague's standing at Washington.

"I am convinced from what I have seen and heard at Washington," said Senator Brady, "that the Republican party will nominate as its candidate for the presidency a man who has gained signal recognition for honesty, uprightness and capability."

Almost a hundred business and professional men were present at the luncheon, but at this statement from Senator Brady the company broke out in a shout of cheering and applause that would have been a noble effort coming from a thousand.

The launching of the Borah boom came as the coronation to a short but pointed address made by the senator. In the course of his talk he outlined some of the things he hopes to gain for the west.—Statesman.

BUCKEYES, ATTENTION

Meeting Place Changed to the Commercial Club Rooms Saturday Eve.

Owing to the large number who have signified their intention to be present at the meeting of the former residents of Ohio Saturday evening, it has been thought advisable to change the meeting place from the residence of Rev. Dr. Shepherd to the Commercial club rooms. Dr. Shepherd would be present at the meeting at his residence, but it is thought that all could not be accommodated at his home. Remember the meeting will be at the Commercial club rooms, Saturday evening, commencing at seven o'clock sharp, and all former residents of the good old Buckeye state are cordially invited to be present.

First Electric Thresher in Idaho in Hagerman Valley.

The Hagerman Valley can boast of the first threshing machine run by electricity in Idaho, as far as the power company knows. Native Meeting-Places in Sumatra.
Every district of importance in the towns of Sumatra, says the Wide World Magazine, possesses a baid, or native meeting-place, which the Dutch Regent visits periodically in order to discuss with the natives the affairs of the district. These Sumatran equivalents of a County Council hall are decorated with beautiful inland work at the ends and a tapering roof of pine palm, ornamented with bright brass work, which glitters in the sun, setting it off most picturesquely against a background of rich coconut trees and a forest of tall tropical plants.

LETTER TO MR. J. F. HOGAN, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir: A gallon saved is $1 or $2 earned. Devotee saves 2 or 3 gallons in 10. How much is it worth a gallon?

A gallon saved saves the painting too; and both together cost $4 or $5—$4 where labor is cheap; $5 where labor is dear.

Our agent in Bridgeport, Conn., Hinchell & Wade Co., tells us: "There are a great many workmen's houses here who are used to paint lead-and-oleo and take ten gallons. We have been selling them ten gallons Devotee, and have had, in every instance, two gallons returned." The proportion is often higher than that; we have known it five in ten; but that is exceptional.

This is the explanation: Devotee is ground by machinery, and is ground fine; lead-and-oleo is mixed by hand, and has ground at all. Yours truly, P. S. Peterson Idaho. Co. sells our paint.—Adv.

CASTLEFORD ITEMS.

Castleford, Ida., Sept. 23, 1913.

Quite a dust storm visited us Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lillybridge of Twin Falls, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Gen. Lillybridge Sunday.

Ben Harrison made his return to Castleford Saturday.

Ed Kinyon made a shopping trip to Huhl Saturday evening.

The Canal company is doing quite a lot of work near here. Dr. Crook is being widened and straightened and the lateral tributary to Deer creek will also be enlarged and cleaned out.

H. H. Sefton has been quite busy doing carpenter work. He just completed the addition to D. H. Thomas' home and has begun some repair work at Van, Idaho.

T. W. Porter sold and delivered 225 bushels last week at five cents per bushel. They made an average of $1.05 per bushel. Mr. Porter says he will undertake to make more than $1.00 per bushel next year and has leased Ler Parker's ranch for that purpose.

Howard Helm and E. O. Spillburg were here last week looking over their big ranch and stiding up for more needed improvements.

N. C. Carter is improving his property by building a new stable. Everybody that has any stock should follow Mr. Carter's example and get shelter for their stock for the winter.

Emory Cowles and wife spent Sunday at the county capital coming home Sunday evening.

Geo. Lillybridge was very pleasantly awakened Sunday night about eleven o'clock by some one rapping at his door.

Mr. A. L. Wyman is one of Hall county's progressive farmers, living near Wood River. A year ago last fall when hail struck his corn crop he decided that something must be done, so he constructed a silo to save the remnant of the crop. The returns from this first silo were so satisfactory that last fall he built another.

Mr. Wyman is in the dairy business and keeps a record of the performance of every cow in his herd. He describes his operations as follows:

"The writer was raised by a dairy mother, who used to feed and clothe and school a family of six children by milking cows and selling butter. So I am not to be blamed for going into the dairy business—I was born that way. But the last six or seven years it did not take much of a father or mother to figure out that with the price of grain and hay and price of butter fat or milk the old cow was not paying for the feed it took to keep her; so it is no wonder people dislike to milk cows. But the writer will give you the figures on a new feed for old Spot, that will make her a paying investment and you can milk a small dividend twice a day.

"This new feed is called ensilage or 'canned corn.' You have all read of it and looked at pictures, but if you want to see the real thing drive down to Dr. Smith's farm and I will show you. Now you have all seen the tables of the cost of a ton of silage in the silo. If not, the cost, including expenses, such as rent of land, help, interest on cost of silo and everything, is not quite $2 per ton.

"An acre of corn that will buck out forty bushels will make eight tons of silage that is worth $5 per ton, which makes your land bring you for ensilage $5 per ton, or $48, while the corn at 15 cents per bushel would bring but $15. Besides, you have saved the cost of husking, hauling to market and selling the corn and your fodder is in the silo, and when fall returns to the land the manure to both grain and stalks, instead of being shipped out of the country.

I am giving below a test sheet of common grade cows—Holstein grades—which does not look so big in yield perhaps, but when you follow it through you will readily see it. Alfalfa is not working for me—just any money. Now, you milk sellers or farmers who are feeding grain, bran and oil meal with your alfalfa and corn stalks in the field to your cows do as I have done and figure the cost of your product and you will find that your profits, if any, are on the wrong side of the ledger. Get you a libber's tester, weigh and test your milk and weigh your feed and you will be surprised to find your pot-rows is only a boarder—not paying for her feed.

"Now, the writer is not the only smart guy—look down at Lincoln—your farm and my farm—and see the records of the dairy cow testing and you will find that without this new feed they would not be in it in making their records. But you don't have to go to Lincoln to see one of these silos, for I have two of them. So in closing invite you who are interested to call and ask questions—there is a seven-day record of milk, butterfat and butter from nine Holstein cows, showing the record and profit in feed.

GOOD telephone service depends largely upon mutual courtesy. The telephone is more useful to those who talk as if face to face, for civility removes difficulties and facilitates the promptest possible connections.

As in other intercourse, it often happens that two or more people wish to talk with the same person at the same time. Without courtesy confusion is inevitable, and the confusion is greater when the people cannot see each other.

The operators must be patient and polite under all circumstances, but they will do better work if they meet patience and politeness on the part of telephone users.

The Bell Telephone Service enters intimately into the social and business life of each individual. The best results come through the practice of mutual courtesy.

Harry Shaw, pampered pet of the so-called aristocracy of our land, seemed almost certain to land back in the New York prison shortly from which he fled a few short weeks ago. Riches seemed to be of no avail in aid, only to provide him with the freedom. To Harry Shaw the fact that the mills of the Gods grind slowly but exceedingly fine must have distinct meaning by this time, as the luxurious justice of life has brought forth the harvest from his gilded youth in a broken home and national disgrace to the faithful mother.

The repeated attempts made by anarchists in Los Angeles to wreck the business of Gen. Oils, owner of the Los Angeles Times, and to end his life were added to a short time ago when the prompt action of his servants saved his life from a bomb sent through the mails. While most of Gen. Oils' trouble has been with the typographical union, yet those most familiar with the tenets of that organization do not place the blame there, but with wild members of more fanatical unions who have become entangled in the attacks of Oils on organized labor. The typographical union, while standing for rights of its members has the reputation of taking better educated men in its ranks and the most conservative leaders of any labor union, but from such an organization must necessarily come the greatest effort to ward suppression of the acts of violence that have done much to hurt organized labor. It must be the leader in the general uplift of the laboring forces by means of the superior advantages, or eventually be dragged down by the more violent unions to the basis of absolute anarchy. There is apparent today an internal struggle among the labor forces, most plainly seen in the I. W. W., which has not only antagonized capital but the more conservative class of laborers. The result of this conflict is the life of anarchy, which cannot endure founded upon violence and which must settle the question within its own ranks before it can wage successful war upon the oppressors of the working men.

DEATH OF MAYOR GAYNOR.
"I have been mayor," These words of Mayor Gaynor, uttered a few days before his death at sea on September

10, might well be taken to sum up the editorial characterizations of the man and his administration in the New York papers. Political opponents were not a whit behind the most zealous advocates of the mayor's re-election in paying tribute to his courage, his independence, and his executive ability. Nor was the occasion sharply one for pointing the achievements of an administration now ended, for mourning the loss of a strong, original, and picturesque personality. For Mayor Gaynor died on the deck of the Baltic just one week after he had accepted an independent nomination for re-election on the steps of the city hall, and had begun a series of characteristically bitter attacks upon the political organization which had not seen fit to honor him with a second nomination. The Gaynor candidacy was clearly an anti-Tammany cause. Now the political experts in the great city are wondering, will the Gaynor followers flock to Mitchell, or to McCall, or to some new candidate who will suit them better? A nomination which the leaders of the Gaynor movement offered to McCall was at once rejected by him. There are now, say Chairman Haggard of the fusion committee points out, "only two tickets left in the field—one a straight Tammany ticket and one a straight anti-Tammany ticket." As many of the late mayor's active supporters "are honest in their opposition to Tammany will," declares the New York Tribune (N.Y.), "promptly declare their intention of supporting Mr. Mitchell, for he is now the only hope of keeping the plurality out of the house's hands." So, too, argues The World (N.Y.), and The Globe (N.Y.) holds that for these "Gaynor Independents" to vote for McCall or to be inactive against him would fault the mayor's memory in a glaring way. The Press (N.Y.), which by Gaynor in the running, "was emphatically for him and emphatically against Mitchell," is apparently convinced by the argument, and says:

"Yesterday has passed; another condition presents itself today. It is Mitchell or Tammany, and between these two the choice is for Mitchell."

So it appears to the Jersey City Journal (N.J.), just across the Hudson, that Mayor Gaynor's death, "should have the effect of making Mitchell's election certain by attracting to him the entire opposition of Tammany." Yet the New York Herald (N.Y.) reveals that much of Gaynor's backing in his campaign for re-election came from his conservative business men who "were out of sympathy with the radical views of John Purroy Mitchell and feared to place him in the mayor's office, while at the same time they could not count openly and advocate the election of the Tammany Hall ticket." According to The Herald the fusion leaders themselves do not expect to get the bulk of this support, and The Sun (N.Y.), which was supporting Gaynor, asserts that "very first news" of the kind "will save New York from the immeasurable disaster of the socialist or semi-socialist experiments perpetuated by the continued presence of Mr. John Purroy Mitchell at the head of the Hugonoff ticket."

Irrespective of their opinions as to the wisdom or unwisdom of his official acts, and whether they were attracted or not by the strongly individual personality of Mayor Gaynor, editors and men of prominence throughout the country and in all walks of life respect the passing of a great public character. The editor on those who knew the man are thus happily sketched by the New York Sun:

"There have been reformers dry as summer dust and austere as an old rural state grave-stone. There have been popular idols who were nothing but empty names and legends; there have been operators and writers who were nothing but word-and-gay style, personally hollow as drums. Mayor Gaynor had plenty of faults; he was irritable—there was plenty of physical excuse for it in his last days—he sometimes went too far and fast both on and off the bench; he fought without gloves; his humor and temperament did not always tempt him to be charitable to his opponents, who, to be sure, were seldom charitable to him; he liked to sweat; he was more than a 'good hater'; he was a pitiless scorner of many; he turned not the other cheek but the other fist to those who assailed him; he was hot-tempered, his many generous and plausible natures; he saw his enemies in hell's own black, his friends in rose colors; he was impatient sometimes; he seemed a little fickle politically sometimes; far enough from a saint and right down near the passions, prejudices, hatreds, affections, sympathies, and the halcyon of common men.

"He had a constituency, a public, which took in most of these United States. He brought that halting class, 'Elihu' down to the people; as Epictetus would say, his letters, at times bitter, humorous, ironical, saturated in the strong juices of his character, enriched with long verities, study and experience, ranging without effort from the so-called heights or depths of scholarship to the more difficult and dangerous art of saying the right thing to a child; there was no one monument of his ceaseless mental mind. He had more than a little of Dr. Frank in him, the shrewd, kindly, philosophic, life-study, and life-enjoying, tolerant, patient Franklin; and he had enough of that 'unquenchable instinct for the jugular vein' which Rufus Choate attributed to John Quincy Adams."—Literary Digest.

GRADING AND PACKING SPODS

Rules Adopted at Portcullis Meeting of Spud Growers.

The following rules for grading and packing the product for 1917 were adopted at Portcullis and will be sent to every representative of the Distributors' association without delay: Unanimously adopted at a potato convention held at Portcullis, Idaho, October 22, 1916, with five accredited representatives of the N. P. F. D. present and also delegates representing potato organizations controlling approximately 250,000 acres. Because of the lateness of the season it was thought wise by the officers of the N. P. F. D. to accept these grade rules for 1917 and to postpone until next season, a general convention from the four states to determine a more permanent grade and pack.

Potatoes shall be sold in two grades as follows:

Blue Grade—Pancy.

Extra Selected Grade—Boxed.

Blue Grade—Should be of one variety free from mixture in each sack, sound, clean, same to be graded over 1 1/2 inches for round and similar varieties to round; 1 1/2 inch for long thumb type. This grade shall contain over 5 per cent of irregular shape, or growth, and extra effort must be made and in no instance positively shall there be over 10 per cent scab, and practically no second growth. The average of this grade is to be as uniform as the same time exact on all growers, but every man should strive to increase the quality of this grade by careful grading and sorting. The reputation of the northwest potatoes will be established in a great many markets that they have heretofore been unknown. This grade to be packed in uniform bags well filled; and in the mouth of each sack is to be sewed a cardboard, color blue, size 4x8 inch, and stick to be secured with one end of a half inch opening in the top of the sack. This card to be printed as follows, according to location. For Idaho same will be as follows:

North Pacific Fruit Distributors
Idaho Potatoes

Sales Agents, Spokane, Wash.

Extra Selected Grade Box—Should consist of the following: The finest of uniform type, all of a uniform size, each potato to be hand picked, free from any defect, uniform color, same to be properly washed with high pressure water, and paper wraps to bear the same printing as that of the blue grade excepting that the printing on this wrapper shall be all blue. White, same to be carefully packed in a box to hold not less than 50 pounds net. All boxes to be stenciled or labeled "Extra Selected Idaho Potatoes," and from other sections such as Oregon and other states the state name to be substituted for that of Idaho. The net weight to be marked on each box and no objection will be made for this stencil or label to bear the name of the grower and individual locality.

Nothing below blue grade will be accepted.

All growers should note that the graders must not be overlooked, this preventing good grading. Inspectors should give directions for proper operation of graders and sorters. Printed cards with inspectors' rules for operating said graders or sorters shall be tacked in a conference room on each machine and it shall be each inspector's duty to enforce the rules strictly. By doing this a uniform grade of quality will be assured and a reputation will be made in all consuming centers for your potatoes bearing the above brand.

SENATOR BRADY TALKS

Hopes to See Sound Currency Bill Made Law.

Senator James H. Brady, accompanied by his wife, arrived in this city Sunday evening, and registered at the Overlook. They will be in Boise until Tuesday night, when they leave for Lewiston and other points in north Idaho. From north Idaho they will go direct to Washington, where the senator expects to take an active part in the consideration of the currency bill when it gets before that body.

Senator Brady showed the effects of his long trip from the capital and strenuous times since he reached the state looking after matters of various kinds. He said that aside from being tired he was feeling fine and had enjoyed his work in Washington immensely.

"I don't expect," he said, "to be a candidate all the time, but when the proper time arrives I expect to be a candidate for the senate again, and when that time arrives I hope to be able to demonstrate to the people of Idaho that I am able to serve them well. By that time I shall have had two years' experience, and I know that experience is valuable in getting results in Washington. I have not been idle. On the contrary, I have worked hard with the department and I am confident that I am now in position to get results."

One thing I hope to accomplish, and Secretary Linn assures me that he is right with me in it, is to have every acre of the public domain in the state surveyed. Then I hope, and Secretary Houston has given me every assurance of help, to have all the public lands properly classified. After all this has been done, when a settler wants to take a piece of land, he will know just what his boundaries are, and he will know to what class it belongs without having to wait five years and then maybe be ousted."

Senator Brady has not a high opinion of the Democratic tariff bill about to become a law.

"But business might just as well adjust itself to the new standard," he said, "because the bill is going through. Any change that is now made will be for the better. When it left the senate it was as bad as it could be, and the only changes that can be made in conference is to restore some of the house bill rates cut out in the senate."

In his opinion the worst feature of the tariff bill is its rank discrimination against the west. Of the products of the eight Rocky mountain states $200,000,000 worth were placed on the free list. There is certainly no work to the injury of this section, and I am satisfied that the whole bill will prove injurious to business and will impoverish the rank and file of the west. I elaborated this idea in the speech I made in the senate."

Senator Brady is in favor of the enactment of a currency law. "The administration bill passed the house," he said, "just about as President Wilson said. When it reached the senate it was sent to the committee on banks and banking. That committee will wrestle with it for about three weeks, and then it will be brought before the senate for general discussion. I expect to be back in Washington by that time. There are good features in it, but I am sure as we see it we would prove a blessing to the west. It is not a partisan question any I sincerely hope to see a good bill enacted into law. I shall gather all the information possible on the subject while I am in the west."

The senator declined to discuss purely political questions. He did, however, express gratification over the outcome of the special election in Maine. He regards it as a fair indication of the drift of public sentiment.

On the Mexican question Senator Brady seems inclined to stand with the administration. He is opposed to intervention and in conflict the American people will never stand for Huerta. He thinks the administration has been lax in protecting the interests of American citizens in Mexico. He thinks this could have been done without embroiling the nation in war.

One thing in particular has impressed his arrival in the state and this is the excellence of the crops. "I have seen such crops in the state before," he said, "everywhere I have gone it is the same—tremendous crops of all kinds, and good prices. Business is bound to be good under such conditions just as soon as the uncertainty arising from tariff and currency changes pass away."

Senator Brady will give the guest of honor at a Commercial club luncheon on Tuesday.—Statesman.

LIVE NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

Items of Interest to Idaho Readers—French for Uniform Codes.

(Special Correspondence.)—Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—The recent horrible disaster on the New Haven Railroad which resulted in the death of 21 persons, again calls attention to some of the vital needs of the transportation question.

Representatives of Idaho have been pending for several months a bill requiring all railroads to adopt a uniform code of signals for the operation of all trains and which Mr. French has received much support. It looks as though the terrible disaster on the New Haven line would possibly constitute the necessary object lesson to force the measure through.

Mr. French says there can be no doubt that the National Association of Railroad Superintendents should not have a uniform system of signals instead of each railroad having a system of its own. "In one instance that I could point out on the crew of a train running from Spokane, Washington, to Portland, Oregon, are required to follow five different codes of signals in making a trip and bear in mind the particular track over which the train is running at every moment."

A signal which means "go ahead" in one place might not mean "stop" in another place, and it is after a particular station shall have been passed."

Barber on Investigating Trip.—Mr. O. H. Barber, state fish and game warden of Idaho, is here on an investigating trip to see if conditions in Idaho cannot be improved. He came here from Montana, where he was warden of that state.

After looking here he will visit some of the most fertile lands in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin on route home. He is very well satisfied with the results of his trip and he believes his investigations will result in better conditions in Idaho as to both fish and game.

He is particularly lingering into hares, hicks and pickers for which there is quite a demand among the sportsmen in Idaho for stock raising purposes. He is also looking for the introduction of any of these species into Idaho, contending that they will drive out the native trout which is in every way a better fish than those above mentioned.

Wisconsin has all these varieties of game and it is his plan that Mr. Barber has decided to pay a visit to that state.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

to help in every way possible, and those connected with the Conservatory of Music gave most generously. We are under special obligation to Mr. Winton Fred of Asolo, who did so much for us with programs at jubilee time and helped so splendidly with programs during club year.

Mr. Johnnie and his fine orchestra, and the talented violinist, Miss Alford, for help at this opera, without which the opera would not have been given. Then the soloists who helped in the production: Mrs. Buckley, who is member of club; Miss Galsford, Miss Conlin, Mrs. Tucker, Miss Liberty, Mrs. Wiley, last three members of club; C. J. Field, Arthur James, Dr. Hildesheim, A. P. Bonfor, Howard Higgins, Sherman, and the help of R. A. Read, Mrs. Kenney and Mr. Paulin, who have such valuable assistance in drill, stage setting, etc., and to the board of education and Prof. Ellick for use of auditorium.

The board recommended and club voted to use such money as could be spared from general club fund toward the payment of lot, $190.00 was taken from this fund, being the amount necessary to make the entire sum, $1650.00, complete, and on September 22, at the home of Mrs. Allen, the club met to incorporate the fund.

The hard work is forgotten in the joy of complete success. Not only the club but all of our club members of the club have been met. Our devotion to district fund of $300.00 being the largest in the district.

The club is out of debt with a surplus of $72.00 to hand over to the new district fund. The club members have all done splendid work. The Parliamentary and Civic has accomplished much in a club which has been in existence for the coming year. It has been a year of hard work of splendid achievement in all lines.

We mourn the loss of our charter member, Mrs. S. T. Hamilton, whom the dark Angel of Death called, and she went to "To be with Christ, which is far better."

Twenty-three active members have gone to other fields of action. We enjoyed 74 new members. The club now has: Active members, 100; honorary members, about 30; jurors about 40. May every success attend the club this coming year.

ALICE J. SWEETLEY, Outgoing President.

Institutions $11,024.10 more than was raised last year.

Make Both Ends Meet.—"If now we add the last named amount to the $10,000 which, as shown above, it was necessary to raise to meet new and unusual expenses, it will be seen that the board of education has a surplus of $1,024.10 for the payment of $28,524.10 more than was required in 1912."

"What it is necessary that in order to pay $28,524.10 additional asked for in direct taxes, the difference being saved elsewhere or met from the increased revenues earned by the various departments, it is believed that the administration which has brought such a result about is fairly entitled to the credit of the best both economical and businesslike."

What the People Gain.—"In other words, this administration is making it possible for the people to have a public utilities and tax commission costing for this year, $10,000, in state bond of education costing $10,000, to pay an old debt of $7500 for a school building in the city of Idaho, to place an exhibit at San Francisco costing $100,000, to expand on their charitable, penal and educational institutions, to increase the sum of $21,024.10, and to pay the whole additional bill aggregating $28,524.10 by raising a tax of direct taxes, the small additional sum of $24,238.13."

"I doubt if our people will ever ask or expect any state administration to make a better record than this."

No. 4. INDEPENDENCE HALL

Copyright, 1913, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

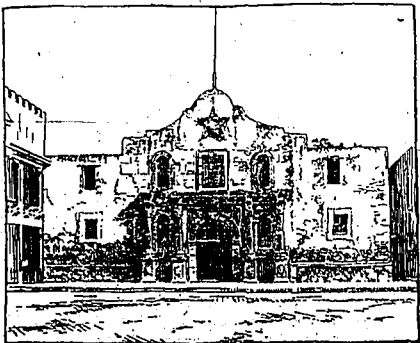

Of the sixty American gentlemen in the Continental Congress, there was no complete separation from the mother country, these men chose wisely, bravely, and confidently. It was a big step to take, and a dangerous one also. If the colonies had been merely fighting for "no taxation without representation," but now they would be fighting for liberty. And, if conquered, the leaders could hope for no better fate than execution as traitors.

It is related that when Benjamin Franklin lifted his pen after signing the Declaration of Independence he turned to the assembly and said with a grin: "Now, Gentlemen, we must all hang together, or we shall hang separately." The Declaration of Independence was adopted on July 4, 1776; but not all the members of the Continental Congress signed it on that day. A body they ruled higher for talents, great many signed at later dates.

The old bell that rang out this message of liberty is now kept as an almost sacred relic in Independence Hall. When the Pennsylvanians were building their state edifice they ordered a bell from England. But when it arrived they found that it had lost its voice and had to be recast. A quotation was inscribed on the new bell which, though chosen a quarter of a century in advance of the Declaration of Independence, showed the direction in which the thoughts of all the

No. 5. THE ALAMO

Two men riding up the heights dismounted, left their horses, and walked continuously to the top. The scene before them was one that tried their souls—a great circle of troops, here and there a battery of guns; in the center a tall, rambling building of bell adobe, at which their fire was directed. "It is no use, Bonham," said the elder of the two. "We can't do it. To try to get in now would be certain death. You have done your best to get assistance; you can do no more."

"Smith," replied the other, "I am going in. Travis sent me for help. It is right for you to turn back; but I cannot have whizzed past him; but he seemed to have a charmed life. On and on he went, and the fire against him grew heavier. But now the men of the garrison had seen the white handkerchief, which had been agreed upon as a signal, and a cheer went up. The gates of the fort swung open. The horse went faster. Smith saw horse and rider reach the fort, and the gates, awaiting to behind them. They had come unscathed through the entire Mexican army.

The Alamo at San Antonio, originally built for a mission, had been taken by the Texans in their efforts to gain independence from Mexico. Garrisoned by a few men under Col. William Barrett Travis, it was surrounded on February 23, 1836, by an army variously estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000 men, under General Santa Anna.

With his forces of 101 Texans, among them Colonel Bowie, David Crockett, frontiersman and ex-member of Congress, and James Butler Bonham, a Texas friend of the Texan cause, Colonel Travis, the last named made a gallant fight against overwhelming odds. Messengers had been despatched to summon help, and finally Travis sent his friend out to bring assistance. At his first destination his appeals were of no avail, and he rode on to Gonzales. There he found that Captain Smith and thirty-two men had come to the assistance of the beleaguered men, fighting their way into the fort. So he returned.

Three days after Bonham's ride the Mexican army made a general assault. All but six of the brave garrison were killed, and these, surrendering on condition of parole, were butchered in cold blood. The Mexicans lost 1,500 men. On April 21 the Mexican army overtook General Houston and his army of 750 men at San Jacinto. The battery of the Texans was "Remember the Alamo!" and the enraged men of the little army cut the Mexican forces to pieces, killing 630 and capturing nearly all the rest. Thus Texas won her independence.

No. 6. GETTYSBURG

Gettysburg was the high-water mark of the rebellion, and Pickett's charge was the high-water mark of Gettysburg. In that terrific engagement of the third day the advance of Lee's Confederates into northern territory was effectually checked, and the question of the Confederate survival was then in northern territory was pretty ten turned south with his defeated and broken forces, and as the heaving of the guns of Gettysburg died down from the north the Confederates began to run short of ammunition; then, on the third day, came a precipitate retreat. It was an ominous silence Down from the one hill surged a line of spray, and another, and another. The Confederate forces charged across the valley, and still the Federal batteries reserved their fire. The supreme moment was at hand. North and South hung upon the issue with drawn breath. Then as the gray army mounted the opposite hill, rifles and cannon thundered again. The effect was broken and fell; but still the charging body of the Confederates kept on. They captured the first Federal outworks, and staggered on toward the second. But the Union fire had been too deadly. No human bravery could withstand such losses. The gray lines fell back, leaving most of their men precipitated. Thus with the third day of the Battle of Gettysburg over the climax of the war was past.

The little town round which the battle raged was settled about 1740, and in 1800 it became the county seat. It holds the oldest Lutheran college in America, and likewise the oldest Lutheran theological seminary. Today the valley is a beautiful national park with the lines of battle marked by six hundred monuments, five hundred iron tables, one thousand markers, and hundreds of cannon. Observation towers enable the visitor to see the surrounding country.

It is a curious fact that neither side had intended to fight at Gettysburg. General Meade having determined to make a stand at Pipes Creek, fifteen miles distant. But Lee's troops, coming into contact with a body of Union cavalry near Gettysburg, July 1, 1863, precipitated the battle, and both armies hurried to the scene. The Federal troops were forced back, retreating through the field, and took position on Cemetery Hill just beyond. At one time in his march toward Gettysburg, General Lee was within a few miles of the Washington monument, stores of the Federal army, which had been known to be easily had captured. Both sides suffered tremendous losses. Of an army of 75,000 Lee lost 43,000 killed, wounded, and captured.

and Meade 23,000 in killed and wounded out of 99,000. In Pickett's charge, out of fifteen regimental commands, ten were killed and five wounded. The regiment lost 90 per cent of its members; of 4,500 officers and men 393 were left on the field.

PARLOR CARS ON SHORT LINE

Will Be put on Daylight Run Between Boise and Salt Lake City.

The Short Line is to have a Parlor car, commencing next Friday. The service is to be inaugurated between Salt Lake, Ogden and Boise on its daylight train between these cities. The Parlor car is a system which has been in vogue on eastern trains for some time, and this will be the first service of the kind in the west.

This Parlor car does not mean to imply that "chickens" is the only thing that may be had on the car, as there are plenty of other "eggs" to be had.

One portion of the car is fitted up with a sort of kitchenette, where meals will be served in a car to those who want them. The railroad will discontinue its Pullman sleepers and the dining cars on these two trains, which leave Salt Lake at 7:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m., making the daylight run between the two terminals.

The Parlor car is to be equipped with the chairs in a Pullman and a dining car service. There will be 23 revolving chairs of ample proportions, such as are used in the parlor cars of the eastern railroads on their daylight trains. In addition to the chairs there will be a lounge with four seats on it.

The meals will be served at all times during the run between the two cities. An extra charge of $1.25 will be made for the chairs in the car for the entire trip. Proportional charges will be made of 25 cents for fifty miles or less. Provision is also made for those who wish to take a car to the city, a car service at moderate rates, but do not occupy a seat in the parlor car.

The innovation is expected to become popular with the traveling public who use the daylight trains between these points. Poenteillo Tribune.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 19, 1912. Gentlemen: Receipts for the week have been: Cattle, 1446; calves, 52; hogs, 2337; sheep, 6422. The late cattle market manifested little if any change as receipts since the first of the week have been very meagre and business very slow. Monday had another local range which surpassed the record total seven days previous. Fortunately the ranch contained a liberal supply of fat steers and cows and trade was forced to bid strong prices to secure the good ones. Two loads of steers at $8.00 and $3.10 respectively at $7.25 and $7.50 and another at $7.00 were extreme quotations. All other sales were 15 to 20 cents lower and price range is unsettled. The beef market was quiet, the market temporarily and only in range cases does a better price than $7.75 appear.

The swine market was unsatisfactory from several viewpoints. Total receipts were comparatively small, quantity not of the best and demand slow. Prices generally 15 to 20 cents lower. Best light hogs selling $8.50 to $8.75. Trade speculative and a hand to hand proposition.

The one real bright spot in the stock trade last week was the sharp advance in the ewe division of the market. Receipts of 1200 ewes 50 cents higher and choice killing stock is selling $4.25 to $4.40. Weathers were not offering and a few poor lambs failed to create any sensation, but these classes are doubtless stronger. The exact price range will be determined when some choice stuff is liquidated.

Representative sales have been as follows:

DRY SWEEPING CONDEMNED

Idaho State Board of Health Issues Bulletin.

The state board of health in a recently issued bulletin calls attention to a condition of affairs which should be legislated against. In many cities cleanliness is framed which prevent the sweeping of dust and trash from stores and office buildings into the sidewalk and into the gutters and the sweeping of the sidewalks with dry that way raising a dust which is not only a nuisance but is a disease breeder.

"Dry sweeping of stores and sidewalks is an abominable nuisance to the public and an unsanitary condition long ago condemned by all authorities. Yet this is done every morning. The same applies to dry dusting, which simply scatters the dust from one place to another. So much has been said and written on this subject that it would seem as if everyone is familiar with it. Those who continue this practice show carelessness and indifference and create a public nuisance."

WHITE PLAGUE STALKING ABOUT

Canvassed 612-Per Cent of the Deaths in Idaho in 1912.

In 1912 over 612 per cent of all deaths in Idaho, or one out of every 14, were caused by the white plague. This is the most terrible infection given out by the state board of health. At the same time the board makes the claim that the danger from tuberculosis is more than from any other disease. The cure and preventive is simple. It is fresh air.

The statement issued by the board on the subject is of unusual interest. It is as follows:

"Your chances for consumption are increased, they are very real, too good. Here are some interesting facts about your chances. Last year over 612 per cent of all deaths in Idaho of one out of every 14 were caused by consumption. You run more chances of dying from consumption than from any other disease, excepting pneumonia. Then follows diarrhea and heart disease.

"Children and old people have the least to fear from consumption, but about one death out of every four occurring between the ages of 20 and 40 is due to consumption. Consumption exists and can be cured all the way from the equator to the pole. Your chances for consumption depend far more upon what you do than upon where you live. Those who work and live in foul, dusty, dirty places, such as cigar makers, tobacco workers, saloon keepers, or store clerks, run five times as many chances of dying from consumption as farmers or lumbermen.

"But don't lose hope. You can easily make your own chances against consumption infinitely better than those of the farmer or outdoor worker. Their chief advantage is in the fresh air they get when they are at work. But they don't work all the time, and so they don't get an abundance of fresh air all the time. Very few of them get enough fresh air in their bedrooms if they can keep it out. The same thing is true of their living rooms."

"If you want to have as good chances against consumption as the farmer, get fresh air 10 or 12 hours a day. If you want to have better chances, get it 24 hours a day. It has been found that the majority of those who have died from consumption are persons who have lived irregular or unhygienic lives, or who are compelled, in order to earn a livelihood, to work in unsanitary surroundings. Proposal in the Smart Set.

"I've just discovered that I can't do without you," said Sid Philip Herington.

"You can't do without me?" Judith replied slowly. "This is a comparatively recent discovery, isn't it?"

"Don't Judith," he said gruffly; "I'm in deadly earnest."

"I don't think I do quite understand," she said; "are you asking me to marry you—or—?"

"I'm asking you to be my wife, Judith," he said slowly, then, as the meaning of her question dawned upon him, he added, "You surely didn't suppose that—"

"Oh, don't apologize. I shouldn't have been in the least shocked," she smiled.—"The Other Woman's Shadow," by Lady Angela Forbes.

Must Have Three Certificates.

The Rev. Mabel R. Witham, pastor of the Church of Immortalism in the "exclusive" Back Bay quarter of Boston, has decided not to celebrate marriages unless the parties can produce three certificates. The first is to be one from a doctor stating that they have passed a medical inspection, the second must be from a banker or other responsible person to the effect that the would-be husband has demonstrated his ability to maintain a wife in decent circumstances, and the third should certify that the bride has received a proper training in domestic science and the mysteries of household management.—London Answers.

How to Keep Young.

Some women attain to a graceful old age by adopting the following rules: Forget disagreeable things, keep your nerves well in hand and infect them on no one; master the art of saying pleasant things; do not expect too much from your friends; make whatever work that comes to you congenial; retain your illusions and don't believe all the world's wicked and ugly; relieve the miserable and sympathize with the sorrowful. These few rules will, at least, make the world seem brighter to yourself and others.

Still Got Good Credit?

A ladyman, who often runs counter to the police, was picked up a few nights ago, almost literally, too, for he had difficulty in keeping the sidewalk and street from bumping together.

"Why, Thomas, Thomas," said the policeman in a reproving tone, "what in the world does this mean?"

"What does this mean, what does this mean, what does this mean?" said Thomas, with the rising infection, in an injured tone of voice. "Why, you'll order know 'sho' was 'dis mean! It means 'A still got good credit in 'tash home town—dat's what hit mean!"
