

THE BACHELOR'S HONEYMOON

At the Cottillon Hall, Tuesday Evening, December 2.

A sense of humor is the saving quality of many a man. In many instances he, who would otherwise be a very commonplace individual, becomes a prince of good fellows, because he is the embodiment of life, love and laughter. This is true because it is the natural. Nature is not a mourner. She is glad and joyous and free, and anger and sorrow are the results of unnatural conditions. Sorrow and tears, hatred and anger arise from the things, the unhealthful, the unhealthy, the life and its surroundings. Life and love and laughter, the smile, the joke, the song, are but the spontaneous expressions of all that is good and true; the heralds of a natural life.

Not only is this true in life, but also in life's mirror—the stage. The playwright, the artist, who paints a word picture of life's incidents with a brush of merriment, has laid the foundation of a masterpiece, for he plays upon the heart-strings of his auditors with a masterhand and strikes a chord that is in tune with the hours of joy and life, and each and all of us, the chord that rings true with the gladness of living and is an accompaniment to the song that nature sings.

Of the modern playwrights none have had a deeper realization of this than George Stapleton. Grasping the simplest of themes he would roll and tumble and coat it with laughs until his audience and his critics were carried away by the contagion of his enthusiasm and not only the first nights, but each succeeding performance became a riot of appreciation and applause.

Without question "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" is his best comedy. Replete with sparkling, witty lines, and lively, laughing comedy, it carries its audience with a whirlwind of enthusiasm, joyousness and laughter, and crows the evening with a halo of light and mirth.

"A Bachelor's Honeymoon" under the direction of A. Mayo Bradfield, will be the offering at Cottillon theatre on December 2.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE

Geo. S. Corlew Leaves Home on Business and Has Not Been Heard From.

One week ago last Wednesday night George S. Corlew left Burley on the evening train for Ogden. The trip was on business and he intended coming home on the following Friday. Saturday would be a busy day at the First National bank, at which place he was assistant cashier and bookkeeper, and he expected to be back for that day. On Saturday, his wife, feeling some uneasiness, wired his father John Corlew in Ogden, asking if George had started home. He answered Saturday afternoon that he had not seen George and did not know he was in town. He was known to have left his business to transact at the First National Bank of Ogden and immediately his friends called up this bank over long distance and learned to their amazement that he had not been there.

A search was at once instituted but so far nothing has developed showing any trace whatever of him. The Pullman porter with whom he rode to Ogden says that he is positive that George left his coach at Ogden just as his ticket read and the diagram showed. This is the last that has ever been seen of him. His father at once began a search in the Ogden area, assisted by detectives but gained nothing more than what was told him from Burley.

His wife and friends are at a loss to understand his absence and can only suggest that his mind has become temporarily unbalanced, possibly from ill health. His books balance perfectly at the bank and no matters were known to have been pressing in any way. At present, with the mystery yet unsolved, his friends can only hope, that in event it is a mental derangement from which he is suffering, he will, upon coming to himself, let them know of his whereabouts.—Burley Advocate.

RAILROAD FOR HAGERMAN

A Sure Thing This Time—Contracts Are Signed Up.

Hagerman Valley will soon be connected with the outside world by hands of steel. What a great period of development, in store for the man alert to the possibilities of this age. The "Little-Wonderland of the Northwest" will mature as it by magic. The contracts are signed for the completion of the railroad from Tuttle on the Oregon Short Line, to Hagerman. The road will be completed and equipped as soon as arrangements are made.

The continuation of the railroad from Hagerman into Castleford and the Twin Falls country is now an assured fact. This opens up the greatest and most productive country in the west, with the Hagerman Valley.

In an interview with Mr. Welby, he states that he is authorized to say that the parties taking over the contracts and bonds for the first eight miles are ready to underwrite the bonds for the remainder of the road as fast as the railroad company is in position to issue same. Mr. Welby is pleased with the interest manifested at Buhl and speaks highly of its citizenship and believes the Hagerman Valley to be poised with the same class, because promises made during the month of August have been carried out in November by its people.

Now that the final contract is executed Hagerman Valley is to have a railroad, which means the opening of the richest and most fertile valley in Uncle Sam's domain. A country that will eventually develop to the leadership of any valley its size in the northwest, it ranks second place for the richest soil in Idaho.—Hagerman Sun.

NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED

Case of L. C. Smith vs. R. A. Graham, Constable, Sent Back for Trial.

Liability of a constable or other peace officer with regard to the performance of his duty in the matter of attachments is the question the supreme court was called on to decide in the case of L. C. Smith, appellant, against R. A. Graham, respondent. The court reversed Judge Stockdale of the Fourth judicial district and decided the case in favor of Smith, remanding it for a new trial.

Graham is a constable. Smith secured judgment against Dora Parlo for $272.50, interest and costs. A writ of execution was issued, directing the constable to sell her property.

The constable levied on the property. Then one W. L. Cherry claimed the property levied on. Graham then summoned a jury to try the right of property, as is provided for in the statutes governing such situations. The jury found in favor of Cherry. Graham then required Smith to put up an indemnity bond, which he did. The constable proceeded with the attachment but was unable to make a sale, and Smith brought an action against him on the ground that he had failed to perform his duty. The trial court found in favor of Graham and an appeal was taken from that decision of the ground of error.

Technical construction of the statutes was involved in the opinion. The supreme court finds that the trial court erred in its construction of those laws, and orders a new trial.—Statesman.

signers are flocking to the coast in large numbers. They see the possibility of being bottled up in Mexico City and every train to Vera Cruz is loaded to capacity. The commander of the Orizaba garrison is fortifying strategic points about the city and reports to the government that he will be able to resist any attack.

A battle was fought yesterday at Ariz de Rosales between a small force of federalists and rebels. The rebels are said to have withdrawn from the field leaving 22 dead and many wounded. Ciudad Victoria, the capital Tamaulipas, reported several days ago as captured by the rebels, is alleged in dispatches published here to have just been attacked and fighting is said to be going on in the suburbs. The garrison of the city is believed to number 600.

The completion of the preliminary organization of both branches of the main congress is regarded here as putting the final touch to Huerta's defiance. Surprise was caused by the publication of dispatches from Washington indicating that President Wilson does not contemplate any active measures to support the warning given by John Lind against permitting the new congress to convene. Talk of the possibility of Huerta resigning is still heard but all the acts and utterances of the provisional president are calculated to dissipate the idea that he has any such intentions.—Capital News.

In company with Professor Carlyle of the University, Senator Brady called upon the secretary of agriculture and he agreed to co-operate in every possible way before the opening of the exposition, on February 24, 1915.

EXPOSITION NOTES

Items of Interesting Events at San Francisco.

It is probable that the exposition guards from February 20 to December 4, 1915, and for some days before and after those dates, the opening and closing days of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, will consist of detachments of troops of the United States army. The strength of the force has not yet been determined, but it is thought that it will include a regiment of infantry and a troop of cavalry. At any rate, the guards will be a strictly military body. The United States public health service will care for the exposition hospital service of the exposition.

Twenty thousand dollars will be offered for the chief chair competition and $10,000 for the male chair at the International Hotel at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915. Other large prizes will be offered for competitions in solos, recitations, musical and poetic compositions. A half dozen male chairs will compete from Wales. Many lands will send picked choirs to participate in the song festival.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition has nearly completed the installation of its new standard gauge railway system for use in the expeditions delivery of material and exhibits before the exposition opens and their removal upon the close of the exposition on December 4, 1915. By means of this railway, in connection with the exposition freight ferry wharf, exhibitors may have the cars loaded at point of shipment and delivered in the exhibit palace at San Francisco. This will be the first of the great American exhibitions to be held at a sea port and the largest and heaviest foreign exhibitors will be able to ship their exposition grounds from ocean-going steamers. Many of the exhibits will cost $50,000 to $100,000 and upward.

Construction upon the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, to open in San Francisco in 1915, has broken record in rapid expenditure building. The main exhibit section is now under way and millions of feet of lumber have been shipped to the place. An army of workmen is employed at the grounds. According to a recent statement of Director of Works Harris D. H. Connelley, the expenditure is eleven per cent ahead of the definite schedule adopted more than one year ago. All the exhibition palaces will be completed before the opening of the exposition, on February 24, 1915.

Among the interesting amusement concessions to be presented on the "midway" at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, will be "Toyland Growth Up," a wonderful show in which the children will be enlarged reproductions of children's toys. The concession will be presented by Frederick Thompson, the famous creator of Luna Park at Coney Island. Lumber Wins In Adaptability to all sorts of climates and it is especially favored by homebuilders in those sections where there is extreme moisture and wide variations in temperature. Ever since the landing of the Pilgrims it has been the universally favored homebuilding material, but the lumber we handle now would certainly make our ancestors rub their eyes could they see it. Why, it's so smooth and so much of it cut to exact lengths that there is scarcely more than half the labor required now to build a house. That makes a big difference in building costs you bet, and the mills we buy of have got their machinery scientifically adjusted and run that the additional cost for this fine material is hardly noticeable. If you're going to build, you'll want the best—we've got it—come in and see it.

Geo. Anderson closed the deal last week for the purchase of 80 acres of fine land four miles south of town. Mr. Anderson sold his farm of 100 acres last summer and intended to go to Canada, but thought better of it. It is said that he has sold every farm who has sold his land in the last year has purchased more.

Friends of E. A. Litterer gave him a birthday surprise Saturday evening at the home of Mr. Litterer. The surprise was a surprise in every sense of the word. Mr. Litterer was summoned home from town in the evening of the birthday of his wife. They prepared to make an evening of the occasion. Cards and a delicious lunch added to the pleasure of the evening. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Hubbell, Probasco, L. Wiseman, Harrier, Cassidy, Somner, Pearce, J. D. Wiseman, Fred Myers and Miss Lily Wiseman.

H. H. Payne, who sold his farm east of the city last summer and bought another south of town, is now building an elaborate set of buildings on his new ranch, including modern dairy barns and a fine residence. Mr. Payne has good ideas for his buildings, it being some forty or fifty feet lower than the low line canal a few hundred yards distant, which will give him fine water pressure. He had the water piped to the house and barn and will also be able to generate enough electricity to supply his own needs, as well as his neighbors.

The entrance of Congressman Burton L. French in the United States senatorial fight is regarded by most citizens who know his utter lack of qualifications for that office, with derision. But nevertheless he is a candidate and will make a strong fight, and can nearer to getting the popular vote than others more gifted with brains. The Times believes that Burton L. French has never while in congress, shown any good reason for his continuance there, but there is not the slightest question but that he is the best vote getter in the state of Idaho; that his reputation is unblemished and that he will loom up larger in the primaries than any other man in the state.

The whole city of Twin Falls was waterless for eight to ten hours as the result of negligence of the water company. A dozen fires could have started during that time and the whole city placed at the mercy of a bad conflagration, to say nothing of the attendant discomforts of the households in every case. The water company claims that it was never notified that the water was to be shut off from the canal. The canal company emphatically denies the statement and claims that it was. It is not essential to the point of view of the consumer which was at fault, the fact remains that the water company was remiss in not keeping its storage reservoir filled for just such emergencies as the one of Wednesday. It should have enough storage facilities to take care of this city for not only forty-eight hours but triple that time. It is not a question of the fault in the present case but the service which the company is giving at all times and its attitude toward the rendering of that service to the public. The city should compel some action on the part of the water works company which will prevent the repetition of the shortage of Wednesday.

PROFIT IN THE PARCEL POST.

An estimated profit of about $30,000,000 from the operation of the new parcel-post system for the year 1913 is professed by the Philadelphia Record that "the system is no longer to be deemed experimental," but "is here to stay." These figures are, of course, as the New York Times reminds us, "only a claim." For "the post-office put it out of its power to prove or even to know the profits when it abolished the parcel stamp and authorized its use for letters." Yet we read in the Times' Washington correspondent that the present estimates show just twice the profit that postoffice officials had expected. This will be interesting news to the railroads, which contend that they are entitled to extra remuneration for carrying the mails on account of the operation of the new service, and expect congress to give heed to their demands at the coming regular session. The Times learns "from a reliable quarter," that, even assuming that the contention of the railroads was correct, there still would have been a good margin of profit at the end of the calendar year 1913 after the payment of extra remuneration to the roads. If a parcel post adjustment were made along the lines suggested by some of the railroads, probably not more than $10,000,000 of this $30,000,000 would be due to the railroads as extra pay. The total income from the parcel post for 1913 will be around $30,000,000.

If this is the case, perhaps the public will benefit as well as the railroads. The New York Press sees no reason why the parcel post should be operated at a profit. And it remarks: "It is not going to be necessary to impose unreasonably low rates on the railroads or excessively high ones on the public. The time is ripe for such readjustment, at both points, as will give a square deal all around."—Literary Digest.

OUR PECULIAR MILITARY POLICY.

Our government is antimilitaristic, our boys will not offer themselves as recruits, it is with difficulty that conscription is induced to make a naval appropriation, and rank political favoritism prevails among the naval and military administration, declares the Kreuzzeitung (Hoflin). This paper is conservative in politics, and orthodox to the core; and just as it ridicules all heresies without mercy, it also finds the fatal flaws in every military system outside of Germany. Its military editor, thus chosen the moment when our forces are almost on the eve of arming for the field to point out some of the "curious features" in our administration. To quote his essay: "In the present Democratic cabinet of the United States 'the offices of Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy are by no means enviable incumbencies. These positions may do their utmost for the development of the army and fleet, but the prevailing spirit of the military—from the president downward—is decidedly antimilitaristic. Congress will appropriate only the bare necessities for military and naval needs, and even this amount is granted with a sour face. In each regular session less and less is being appropriated for building up a complete fleet. The strength of the standing army is only 70,000, although the president has the right to maintain the military force at a maximum of 100,000; but as long as no foreign war is imminent the tendency has been to reduce instead of raising the strength of the military forces."

This writer proceeds to give the reasons why the fleet and army of the United States are so comparatively weak in numbers. Of recruiting he tells us:

"In both army and navy it is with the greatest difficulty that the requisite number of recruits is procurable. The trade of last year was good, and in New England a shortage of labor prevailed. Under these circumstances recruiting was a poor business. The young lads laughingly said: 'Uncle Sam must offer soldiers higher pay if he wants us to swallow the bait.' Under these circumstances the secretary of war suggested that it would be advantageous to change the terms of military service from five to three years. This was a disinclination which would deprive recruits of the last two most valuable years of experience, but Mr. Garrison thought it would bring more men to the colors. It might even end in introducing an arrangement similar to our one year's volunteer service which has induced many youths of the educated classes to join the army, and has provided an increased number of cultivated military men to serve in case of war. Mr. Garrison complains that youths of the upper class and the highly educated class avoid military service. To the present long period of military service these classes can not be reconciled, but to the service of three years or one and a half years the students might submit and at its close return to their studies. Then men with military education might be drafted either into the reserves or the state militia. This, as the specialist knows, is the capital point of the one year's service, and Garrison's proposal is interesting because it shows that Americans are not disinclined to take a leaf from the book of not much over-loved Germany. The war minister has declared to many prominent men that under the above conditions he would be glad to give his son a year's service in the army. Price Collier, the author, said the same thing. He went still further and declared he would gladly, if it were possible, give his son a year's service in the German army. If only for the training he would receive thereby."—Literary Digest.

TALKS ON THRIFT

NO. 26.—HOUSEWIVES, THRIFTY AND OTHERWISE.

"With the vast majority of young men and women, the life plan includes the economy of accumulation of a fortune. The first rule that they need to learn is to live within their means. The husband and wife should make their plans together; they enter heartily upon their work; she is as willing to sacrifice as he is to labor—and her willingness to save is an important factor in their success as is his ability to earn."—"Secrets of Success," by William J. Bryan. Probably ninety per cent. of the retail buying in this country is done by the women, and the great volume of "bargain sales" is proof that the merchants realize that the average woman is a thrifty person. Saving banks deal largely with women, not only because the men are busy during banking hours, but because as a rule the woman is the "saving element" in the family.

Unknown to other members of the family, a thrifty woman will save a dollar here and a dollar there, where a man could not or would not. Many a period of family misfortune has been tied over by the forethought of wife and mother. A Wisconsin man speaks thus enthusiastically of the co-operation of his wife in household economy: "A good wife is the best investment. When I was single I did not save a dollar. Now we are worth $10,000—and all from lessons of saving taught me by my wife."

This is the usual thing, but sometimes it is the other way around. Then again both sides of the house may be thrifty and still again, and unfortunately, both may be entirely thoughtless in money matters. A prominent judge in New York City says that extravagance in the home is to blame for many boys going wrong. "Parents have become accustomed to living beyond their means," says this judge, "and the ease and plenty they have grown used to they have encouraged their sons to expect, as a natural thing, to be got without hard work."

The vast aggregate of waste in the millions of homes in America could not be expressed in figures that would be at all comprehensive. Munsey's Magazine puts it this way:

Twenty million families—the big consolidated family of the United States—each needlessly burning one single match a day, at the price of five cents a dozen boxes—only one match wasted to a whole family—is the equivalent of burning down every year a house worth half a million dollars.

If so little a thing in the unit of the individual—so little a thing as a single match a day for each family of five persons—can mean so much in the aggregate of national waste, isn't all the rest of the possible and the actual waste as clear as sunshine?

There is the light that is left burning when not needed. There is the fire flaming under the empty kettle. There is the good food swept neglected from the table. There is the farm implement, the artisan's tool, the household utensil, misused and damaged. In all varieties there is waste by nearly all the units—and the aggregate is immeasurable.

Housewives Leagues are doing much to promote household economy of the highest order and as their work is extended there ought to be a satisfactory increase in individual savings bank accounts. The Associated Clubs of Domestic Science are working along this line also. Mrs. Winnifred H. Cooley, president of that organization, gives these twelve "Don'ts," which she heartily commends to women who want to save money:

- Don't be optimistic regarding the butcher. Have a scale in your kitchen.
- Don't market by phone unless you want seconds and left-overs.
- Don't forget there is much nutriment in cheap cuts of meat if properly cooked.
- Don't economize on cereals. They are the best and cheapest of foods.
- Don't buy fruit and vegetables out of season.
- Don't buy in large quantities if

 Crossing the Jordan. Josh. 4:1-17; Psalm cxiv.

Golden Text—Fear thou not, for I am with thee. Isa. xli:10.
 (1) Verse 1—What are the advantages of early rising and would you say it is a duty to do so?

(2) When we have a problem which must be solved, or very difficult experience to go through, what is the advantage of going right up to it, over an effort to keep away from it?

(3) In a day's work, which is the better, and why, to do the hard things first, or to put them off until later in the day?

(4) Verse 2—What is the probable reason why the Israelites tarried on the bank of the river for three days before going over?

(5) Verse 3—The ark of the covenant was the visible symbol of the presence of the invisible God, that significance therefore was it to them that the ark went before them? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(6) What reasons are there to believe that God is literally and always with every Christian?

(7) What is God's purpose in keeping company with each individual soul?

(8) Is it possible for Sunday school teachers, preachers and parents to go to work that they safely tell others to follow their example? Why?

(9) Verse 4—Notwithstanding the crossing of the Jordan was with supernatural help, why were they, and why are we, to be so careful of human conditions as if God were not present?

(10) Verse 5—Suppose these people or any considerable number of them had at this time deliberately done something wrong what effect, if any, would that have had upon the crossing of the Jordan?

(11) Give the particulars from the Bible of a great battle having been lost through one man's sin.

(12) What effect does individual righteousness have in these days of unbelief and national prosperity?

(13) Verse 6—Why does the Lord permit some leaders to have great popularity and other leaders, equally good, to be unpopular?

(14) Verse 7—Why does the Lord permit some leaders to have great popularity and other leaders, equally good, to be unpopular?

(15) How did the events here demonstrated, that God had really spoken to Joshua, and how does every modern Joshua demonstrate that God has spoken to him?

(16) Verses 14-17—In a river, with deep bars how could the feet of the priests touch the bottom of the water?

(17) If the priests had not walked right up to the overflowing banks and touched the water with their feet, would there have been the probable result?

(18) Why may every Christian be confident that every Jordan of trouble will be won? Will you open up a way for him to cross in safety?

(19) Psalm cxiv—What miracle occurs had God brought to pass for Israel from the coming out of Egypt up to the crossing of the Jordan?

(20) What are the evidences, which all true Christians have, of the certainty of God, of eternal life and that God is a very present help in trouble? Lesson for Sunday, Dec. 7, 1913. The Fall of Jericho. Josh. v:10-vi:27.

IDAHO IS HONORED

Commissioner J. H. Wallis Inspects Market Places of Washington.

(Special Correspondence.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—Idaho was distinctively honored at the conference held here this week between the federal and state food and drug officials, by the unanimous choice of Commissioner James H. Wallis of Idaho, to preside at the important deliberations. This conference was the most valuable in the interests of pure food products than all the rest to date. It was held behind closed doors, as in this way the "intruders" were kept out, giving the food officials more freedom in acting. After the conference, Commissioner Wallis was invited to meet the public service commissioners of the District of Columbia, with a view of setting his ideas on improved sanitary conditions in the public markets, restaurants and other public places. He then met the executive committee of the National Civic Federation, New York, and went over at the Washington conference. Idaho is pointed to in the east as the one state in the Union where the enforcement of the pure food laws is no joke. The Washington Times this evening at the conclusion of a long article on the subject says:
"Commissioner Frederick L. Siddons is now determined to make a desirable change in the work for pure foods, as will enable stricter health and sanitary regulations to be made regarding the handling of meat."
"Commissioner Siddons said that he had made a tour last week of the markets of the city in company with Commissioner James H. Wallis, who has the double distinction of being the state sealer of weights and measures of Idaho. Mr. Wallis, said Commissioner Siddons, suggested several changes in methods of handling and selling food in Washington, and many of these would be inaugurated."

HOTEL FOR GUYER SPRINGS

Erection of $20,000 Plan Planned This Winter.

Raymond Guyer of Halley was a visitor in this city last week in the interest of his new hotel under construction at the popular Guyer Hot Springs near Ketchikan. The Springs have attracted an increasing number of people from this city every year. Mr. Guyer stated that a new hotel is promised for next year will please all and increase the trade of that resort. Mr. Guyer stated to the Times that the hotel for the hotel of twenty rooms was already in, also for the new bathhouse and the power plant. Work on the superstructure of the hotel will be carried on this winter. The hotel will contain besides the twenty rooms fitted modernly, a big dining room, lounge room and lobby, billiard and card room, and many other things which will tend to make for the comfort of the guests. The old time kerosene lamps will be replaced with electric light from power plant generating enough power to supply all the demands of the new institution. Mr. Guyer assured the Times that he was going to improve the culinary department so that it would compare with any city hotel. While in Twin Falls Mr. Guyer secured an agent to sell some of the hot springs which will draw seven per cent interest and be a first mortgage on the property. Mr. Guyer has a place at least two thousand dollars in this city in small amounts to those who are interested in securing a good hotel there.

MUD LAKE MAN HELD

Puts Up $10,000 Bond to Stand Trial for Killing Neighbor.

A short time ago a shooting affair occurred at Mud Lake, in which one Sam Thomas was killed. Four individuals were implicated in the row, but it seems that the actual shooting, as stated on Will Williams, who, with Moose Johnson, met Sam Thomas and Joe Williams, when the shooting opened. Joe Williams got away, and Thomas was shot. A heavy bond has been exacted of the individual against whom the main charge was placed, ac-

ording to the following from the Right Star:

"Bill Williams had his preliminary trial in county court this week, and on the charge against him of murder in the first degree being charged to manslaughter, he was thus given an opportunity to furnish bail. His bond was placed at $10,000. Bert Miller came here Tuesday in Williams' behalf and secured eleven men to go on his bond, the parties being residents of Rigby and Lewistown. The case will come to trial here in Jefferson county, possibly in January."
