REFORM IN COUNTIES AND LOCALITIES.

There were evidences of unimpaired activity in a vast number of local centers throughout the country. In the air. A new set of men is coming forward determined to put back efficiency, and public motives into the business of managing counties, towns, and villages. Groups of men and women are awakening to the needs of their immediate localities, and striving to make the local government not merely free from dishonesty or neglect, but positive and intelligent agencies of service to their communities. In most parts of the Union the system of county government is hopelessly bad. This magazine initiated an article not long ago which showed the absurd lack of all principles of efficient organization in the average American county government. The counties have been the peculiar prey of Republican and Democratic party rascals, and the court house rings stand for entrenched evil. Good citizens ought to redeem county government by making it free from the shackles of parties. An attempt at such deliverance has been made in the suburban county of Westchester, New York, lying just north of the metropolitan. Westchester has been victimized for two or three generations by rival party machines which have been more or less in partnership with the county government. This year the Republicans ran a straight ticket, and the Progressives, Democrats supported a fusion or non-partisan ticket, the subject of which was to get the great county offices out of the hands of professional politicians. There was much splitting of tickets, which in itself was a hopeful thing and which points to the need of a ballot that does not allow party designation upon county, town, or village tickets. TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 29.—FOR YOUR CHILDREN'S SAKE.

"I should think that all of my man who did not leave his children a little better off materially than himself," Theodore Roosevelt. Children are expensive. It costs a good deal of money to bring them into the world. It costs more to bring them up—to feed, clothe and educate them. Nevertheless, there are very few parents who would not do anything in their power to promote the well-being of their children. But parents do not always know what is best for their offspring.

In providing for the present necessities and comfort of your children, do not forget the needs of the future. Tomorrow's young people cannot be too well prepared for the battle of life. You are a wise parent, therefore, if you have some income, however small, to provide for the thorough education of your children, and, if possible, to give them some financial assistance in making their start in life. While realizing that the success of your children to a large extent will depend upon the start you give them when they are young, do not overlook the fact that it is not only the saving of money you leave them that counts, but also the kind of habits they learn from you.

The dollar they save out of their own pocket money, if placed in the bank, where they can see it grow, means more than just a little money of Republican and Democratic party saved up. It will mean the firm establishment of the habit of thrift, which will mean a great deal to them when they are grown up.

Thus it is important both to save for your children and to teach them to save for themselves. Parents ought to co-operate in this work. House-hold economy naturally will develop upon the wife, who, if she is also a mother, may be trusted to save money. It is her mother instinct which bids her care for her children, and this year the Republicans ran a straight ticket, and the Progressives, Democrats supported a fusion or non-partisan ticket, the subject of which was to get the great county offices out of the hands of professional politicians. There was much splitting of tickets, which in itself was a hopeful thing and which points to the need of a ballot that does not allow party designation upon county, town, or village tickets. American Review of Reviews.

The larger planning and economies will fall to the lot of the husband and father. While the wife is saving on the household expenses by judicious buying and careful use, he is likely to be carrying out some such plan as was adopted by a merchant who wanted to provide a fund for each one of his children when they reached the age of twenty-one. When each child was born he deposited a dollar in the savings bank in the child's name. On the child's second birthday he deposited two dollars, and he kept this up each year making a deposit on each birthday of as many dollars as the child's years. When each one of his children reached the age of twenty-one there was $206.16 to its credit in the bank. The putting aside of this small sum of money each year was a very small item and was not felt, and yet it added up quite a respectable sum.

These bank accounts had a very satisfactory effect on the children. As soon as they were told of it they took a great interest in them. The consciousness of having a bank account had the effect of making them want to improve it. The result was that they began to save on their own account at an early age. One child had saved a hundred dollars long before she was sixteen years old, largely money which other-wise would have been wasted in useless luxuries.

Teaching children the value of money is a very important part of their education and one which is sadly neglected in many homes and schools today. Too many of us make the grave mistake of assuming that children who have spent the most impressive part of their lives in careless disregard of thrift will suddenly become frugal and provident as they grow up. Thrift does not come at our beck and call, nor can it be slipped on or off like an old coat. It is established by practice rather than theory, by example more than by precept.

The school savings banks are doing a lot of good, but there are not enough of them. Even where such institutions exist, parents cannot escape the responsibility of teaching their boys and girls to appreciate what money means. When a girl arrives at the age of twelve or thirteen years, she can well begin to learn from her mother the principles of wise buying, so that eventually she will be of great assistance to her mother in the marketing and other household purchases. Girls, as well as boys, should be encouraged to earn money by real service, and both should early learn what banks are and how money grows when it is planted in the right soil, as to speak.

There is a broader aspect of this subject because if our children are not trained in the principles of thrift our nation as a whole will suffer for it later on. Germany, France and England are educating the young to save in a sensible manner, and are finding that great additions are being made thereby to the national wealth.

The example of these other nations along this line is one which we would do well to follow in this country.

members are not so greatly lessened as next spring, that the farmers in those sections where bunny's depredations have robbed them of their crops this year, cannot reap a crop after sowing his seed.

A letter was received this week by O. G. Zuck from the secretary of agriculture at Washington with reference to carrying on in this section experimental demonstrations in poisoning them, in which the secretary says that an agent of the biological survey is now at Cottrell carrying on just such work, and that he has been directed to proceed to Kimberly as soon as he is finished there. This will probably be about the first of the year.

In the meantime arrangements are going right ahead for a big drive in the neighborhood of Rock Creek about the first of the year. A letter was received this week from a commission house at St. Louis offering to take a carload of rabbit carcasses at $2.50 per dozen. This is the price quoted by the Chicago house in the Call last week.

Ed. Deane and G. W. Hamblin were in from Rock Creek on Monday, and they say it will be an easy matter to get every able-bodied man in that region to take part in the big drive and help rid the country of the pest. Mr. Deane thought the entire 6000 or 7000 carcasses required to make a carload could be rounded up in a couple of days. They are so thick in the neighborhood that they fall over one another.

Approx of the demonstration to be made by the agricultural department, the famous pamphlet, now going the rounds of the state press, would show that other sections of Idaho are suffering from the pest as well as this: "Congressman Smith has arranged for demonstrations to the farmers in the vicinity of Aberdeen, Blaine county, and near Kimberly, Twin Falls county, of the methods which the agricultural department has found to be most efficacious in the extermination of Jack rabbits. The experiments show that the rabbits can be eliminated at a cost of less than a cent an acre. The poison formula is made with oats, on a base, and is said to be most effective when scattered on the snow."—Kimberly Call.

CHRISTMAS BAGS AND FANS ARE HANDSOME

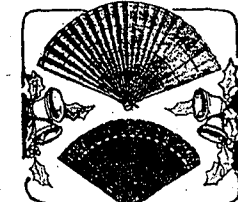

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

The immense variety in ribbons permits an unending variety in fancy bags, and they will play their usual prominent part at Christmas time. The rich brocades and heavy weaves in plain ribbons are used for open bags and for the handsome shopping bags which city women find it convenient to carry with them when they have small purchases to make and intend carrying them home. Ribbons in lighter weight, such as the Dresden, in taffeta, which are found in so many beautiful designs, are chosen for all those bags that form accessories to the furnishings of the home. Among these, those with reversed patterns on a plain silk ground having wide borders of gauze are the newest and most beautiful of the season's offerings. Such a ribbon is shown here in the pretty corset bag pictured below.

A new design in a shopping bag, which may be made long enough to answer for a mule roll as well, is pictured. It is made of brown ribbon and a desired ribbon stitched together. A narrow silver braid is placed over the stitching. The top of the bag is edged with the same braid and a little flange of silver braid trimming is placed along the bottom. The bag is not gathered at the top, but is provided with four cords by which it is held. It is laid in a few places at each side, held in place by an ornament made of the silver cord. A substantial ribbon is required for this novel design.

A collar bag of figured silk suitable as a gift to a man is provided with a paneboard bottom, with sides two or three inches high. The lid of a round, oblong box is used for this foundation. It is covered with the silk. A strip of silk ten inches wide forms the bag; one edge is sewed to the bottom around which the silk fits smoothly. The upper edge is gathered on an elastic cord run in a casing in the hem. Silver cord provides hangers and the bag is furnished with an ornament made of it at each side and a bit of silver braid outlining the support at the bottom. This is a convenience that any man will appreciate.

The fine art of Japan puts even the least expensive of Japanese fans in a class by themselves. If one must look for gifts which have an artistic value to make them attractive, and at the same time may be had at a small price, the products of the Japanese are more likely than any others to meet the requirements of fine taste. Here is a little group of fans which illustrate this fact.

A fan with white enamel sticks, finished out with gold, has a shaded ground in clear, beautiful blue, morning in white.

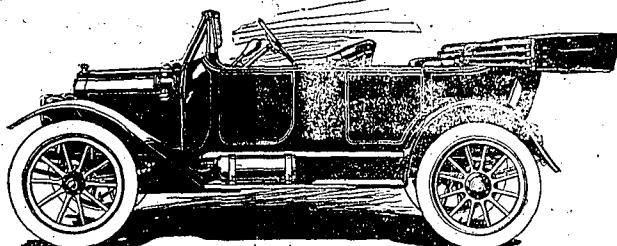

Carved sandal wood makes a fan for a lifetime, which depends for ornamentation upon the way in which the sticks are cut out in a lace pattern. They are held together by a narrow ribbon. The faint and delicate color of the wood makes this a fan to treasure.

Nothing but a satin-like paper and brown wood sticks form the ground upon which some artist has distinguished himself in the last fan.

Such fans may be found ranging in price from about 50 cents to $2.

The Maxwell 25 has Arrived

The first of the 1914 models—the 25-4—reached Twin Falls this week and you have a chance to see it NOW. Come and look at the "biggest" automobile in the world.

The Maxwell 25-4—$750 f. o. b. Factory

Why You Want It

It is the Most Formidable rival other cars have ever encountered. Its conquests have embraced the territory formerly held by both the very cheap, and the overly-large, inferior-styled cars, selling for $1000 and more.

It conquers because it meets the needs and the ideas of the majority of informed buyers. It appeals at the same time to the logic of common sense and the sense of the beautiful.

Its beauty is shown in looks and in performance—handsome is its handsome does—and handsome as is.

The Buyer who must take a peep into the purse before buying, here finds a car within his reach and made to his heart's desire.

On the other hand, the buyer who is easily able to pay the first cost, but whose experience has taught him to look still more closely into maintenance cost afterward, finds in this 1600-pound, five-passenger car the one he has been looking for—because it will do all any 2000-pound car will do—and more—and at half the upkeep cost—or less.

Why You Want It

Cost of Up-keep increases as the square of the weight, the tire mileage tells us. And standard tire dividends confirm the statement.

Cut the Weight in Two and you divide the upkeep cost by four! Get that—its the kernel.

So Strong it will withstand the usage and neglect such a car receives at the hands of the average owner who drives—but hasn't time or inclination to care for it—himself.

So Light that the tire bills and the maintenance cost will, like the purchase price, be within the reach of that "lot" of people who insist an automobile should be an economy, not an extravagance.

And Finally, of external design to conform to the current mode of "carriage" body, and finished and upholstered by hand for the owner's eye, it is just as proud of the appearance as the owner is of its performance.

Then Don't Delay—get your order in. Pay a deposit to guarantee delivery and to insure it at a time when others will be offering "last call" bargains. Then you'll be the "next" car in line—because that you've secured the greatest automobile value ever known.

The Car of Comfort

Check the measurements—leg room, depth and width of seats—and you will see why this is called the "Car of Comfort."

From heel board of front seat to dash—27 inches.

Width of front seat between cushions—38 inches.

Width of back seat between cushions—31½ inches.

Front of back seat to back of front seat—26 inches.

Brief Specifications

Motor—Four-cylinder, L-head type, cast on block—three 3½-inch stroke 12-inch. Cylinder head cast separately with valves.

Power—25 h. p.

Ignition—11½ volt, single system, magneto.

Clutch—Cone type flywheel, motorized lined.

Transmission—Selective sliding gear type, three speeds forward and one reverse.

Control—Left-hand drive, center control, foot accelerator, 16-inch.

Wheel base—102 inches.

Tires—30x3½-inch clincher, front and rear.

Tread—56-inch.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Club

Dec. 21, 1913.

Copyright, 1912, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.

Christmas Lesson—The Word Made Flesh, John 1:1-18.

Golden Text—And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, John 1:14.

(1) Verses 1-2—What is the meaning of "Word" as here used?

(2) "The Word of God" or the "Logos" is the inward being of God and God's outward expression. How then is John that "Word"?

(3) Did Jesus as a human being exist from all eternity or did he begin to be at his birth? Give your reasons.

(4) How are we to understand that the "Word" existed from the beginning—that is, presumably from eternity?

(5) In your thinking of and your approach to God do you conceive of him as more than one God? Why?

(6) I firmly believe in the Deity of Jesus, and if you do, how do you reconcile that fact with the other fact, the belief of Roman Catholics and all evangelical Protestants, that there is only one God?

(7) Is it necessary for there to be any more mystery about the doctrine of the Trinity than there is, for example, about the being of God? Why?

(8) Verse 3—Why, among the world? Give the Scriptural ground.

(9) Verses 4-5—What does John mean by the expression, "In Him was life"?

(10) In what respect is the "life" of the Creator different to all other life?

(11) In how many ways is the life of the "Word" of God "the light of men"?

(12) Why have men in the past and why do they now shut their eyes to the light of God as manifested in Jesus?

(13) Verses 6-9—What was the substance of the teaching of John the Baptist concerning Jesus?

(14) What was Jesus already accomplished to be called the "Light of the World"?

(15) What is involved in believing in the "Light"?

(16) How is every man born into the world influenced by this "Light"?

(17) Verses 10-14—How do you account for the sad fact that both the organized church and the world rejected Jesus?

(18) Seeing that most men today who know of Jesus speak highly of him, how is it that they do not become his true followers?

(19) Verses 15-18—What does it mean to receive Jesus? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(20) When a man receives Jesus what right or privilege has he that he did not have before?

(21) What takes place in a man who receives Jesus of the nature of the supernatural?

(22) Verse 14—What is your mental conception of the fact contained in the statement, "And the Word was with God"?

(23) Verse 15—What is the difference between the Gospel term "law" and "grace"?

(24) Verses 15-18 What is the difference between the Gospel term "law" and "grace"?

(25) Are there Christians now privileged to see God as Jesus did? Why?

STOP CATARRH!

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomel This Disease May Become Serious.

If you have catarrh, indicated by sniffing, stopped up head, droppings in the throat and morning coughing, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow these dangerous germs to begin the destruction of your health.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomel. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomel inhaler, directed by following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitality restored.

SOME SELECTIONS IN COLLARS AND JABOTS

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

There are so many designs in neckwear to choose from! Here are a few of them, which are so faithfully pictured by the camera, that it seems almost unnecessary to describe them. They set forth some of the attractive styles that the season has brought into vogue.

The berthas and collars combined, made of net and lace, are among the most popular of styles. Plain or not, net alone, or not combined with shadow lace, makes the body of the collar and jabot as a rule.

Flattings are usually of net and are unhemmed on many of the flukes. The finest and alrichest of machine made laces, as white as snow, in shadow lace and other patterns, make it possible to produce these pieces at a trifling cost.

For wear with either dress or coat the sailor collar with flange ends is made in the designs pictured here. Plain blue net is liked for edging the all-over lace. It is used as a flat binding in place of a hem and the addition of a fine cord of silk make an elegant finish at the top of the binding.

Little buttons, nearly always covered with silk, are liked on neckwear and they answer to all the fashions.

Two points with silk turn-over collars are handsome designs for older women. These collars are lined at the sides and often adorned with small sparkling rhinestones bottom or silk-covered buttons matching the collar. Laces and nets are used for the jabots and when very sheer the platings are made double—that is, one falling over another, as shown in the picture.

High, close-fitting collars of net and lace are liked by young people. They are easy to make and a small bit of net and lace will furnish material for any one of a number of designs. They are usually finished with a tiny cravat bow of velvet or silk ribbon. Buttons, too, play a part in their make-up.

Neckwear should be hung at the sides and back. They fasten either with tiny hooks and eyes or beauty pins.

Very elegant little cravats of velvet ribbon serve as a background for medallions of hand-cut lace. These are worn by all the grown-ups, young or old, and make most acceptable Christmas gifts. The medallions are in the Irish lace patterns and very durable. They will outwear the bit of velvet and stand laundering week in and out. The same medallions may be tacked to cravats of different colors from time to time. Bright green velvet ribbon, black and also vivid red are favorite last now.

Small flat cravat bows of silk are liked. They serve as a background for the new brooches and bar pins in novelty jewelry.

Neckwear will help out the Christmas shopper and any one who has time to make up these attractive finishing touches to the toilette at home will be able to gladden many hearts at Christmas time with little expenditure of money.

PICTURE FRAMES OF CRETONE

Picture frames are out of heavy cardboard and covered with Cretone. The back is covered with a strong plain paper. Blinds are added by which to hang them or to make them made with a support, hanging on the back by means of a small hook, like a book.

CANCELLATION OF ENTRIES ASKED

Entrypmen Fail to Comply With Rules Requiring Cultivation of Land.

Cancellation of 120 Carey act entries comprising approximately 10,000 acres or about one-eighth of the land entered under the Idaho Irrigation company's tracts surrounding Richfield, Dietrich, Gooding and Shoshone, was taken under serious consideration by the state land board at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon. Application for the cancellation of the entries was made by Norman M. Rulick, attorney for the company. Grounds for the cancellation are that the entries failed to comply with the law in the matter of cultivation and proof, or failed to show that water was not available for the lands included within their respective entries.

Attorney Rulick explained to the board, and his statements were corroborated by Carey act Manager Stephen D. Taylor, that every one of the entriesmen are non-residents of the various tracts in which they made their filings; that they have been duly notified by registered letter that they had not made proof of cultivation and complied with the Carey act laws and that none of them has made an attempt to do so although the time limit has elapsed in which this is required, both by the law and the rules and regulations of the land board. These entriesmen made an initial payment of $3.00 per acre to the promoting company and 25 cents to the state at the time of entry. Many of them are non-residents of the state and their lands stand unimproved today.—Capital News.

HANSEN, IDAHO.

Hansen, Ida., Dec. 15, 1914. The Ladies' Aid met Thursday afternoon at the church. Quite a number of the ladies were present, and everyone enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon. Mrs. Oro McVay was appointed as secretary of the society.

There will be a Christmas tree at the school house Christmas eve. Everybody come and see Santa Claus. August Wellner is erecting a fine dwelling on his ranch north of town. Miss Mary Clayborn of Kimberly, was in Hansen Tuesday collecting for the Christian church to be erected soon in Kimberly.

Mrs. E. P. Hinton was in Murtaugh Thursday on business. Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Laycock were in Twin Falls calling Wednesday. J. A. Felton and family were visiting their son and family at Kimberly on Thursday of this week.

Little Eva Berkhalter is on the sick list this week.

T. J. Autery purchased a fine piano this week of Mrs. E. P. Hinton, who is agent of the Denver Music House.

Miss Susie Hildy was in Twin Falls Tuesday to take her weekly music lesson. Charles Palmer sold a carload of hogs Thursday.

The Literary at Bichel Saturday crowd were entertained, and everybody enjoyed the evening.

Dr. Clouchick and wife were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colner Sunday, also to care for the little son Charles, who is quite sick at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Zumwalt were in Twin Falls shopping Tuesday.

The Hansen local met at Ed Smith's Saturday night. A large number were present. A call meeting of the men's club will be held Saturday the 20th for the purpose of business transactions.

Miss Goble Smith is quite sick with influenza at this writing.

Fred Scherrupp and brother were on a big hunt Tuesday.

We learn that Mrs. W. A. Shively is very low in the Boise hospital. We hope to hear of her improving soon.

J. T. Hansen of Rock Creek, was in Hansen Tuesday enroute to Twin Falls.

Mrs. W. A. Hidy was shopping in Twin Falls Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kimberly was a business caller in Hansen Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Zumwalt and T. J. Autery and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Avery Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Berkhalter of Kimberly, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Soule, Dietrich.

J. E. Hinton recently purchased the west forty of the Castle place north of town.

On account of the floating ice the canal has been giving, the ditch riders a lot of extra work, and it became necessary for the company to put on an extra man.

The Twin Falls callers this week were as follows: Messrs. J. M. Goodman, Lincoln Rugh, Ed W. Smith, L. J.

Prior, Joe Scherrupp and P. S. Rounds, Meddages Mabel Smith, Mabel Scherrupp and Prior.

Tex Wilkens of Kimberly, shipped out two carloads of hogs from Hansen this week.

Martin Wiswell Jr. on the sick list this week, threatened with pneumonia.

Sunday, the Vanderpool home was the scene of a pretty Christmas dinner party, when Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpool entertained for their son Ray.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King, the Misses Pearl and Merle Simmons, Mary Claiborn and Betty King, Messrs. Lloyd Hayes and Chas. Claiborn, all of Kimberly, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith. Needless to say a good time was had as usual at this hospitable home.

USE OF PARCELS POST

Hints Which Are Useful During the Holiday Season.

Parcels mailed at the local postoffice cannot exceed 72 inches in length and 16 1/2 in circumference.

Parcels must be securely wrapped and tied, and must have the sender's name and address on the upper left hand corner.

Fresh meat and articles of a perishable nature will not be accepted for mailing beyond the second zone and will not be accepted at all unless securely wrapped and marked "perishable." Fragile articles should be plainly marked "fragile."

Parcels can be insured for their value not to exceed $25 for 5 cents in stamps and for not to exceed $10 for 10 cents in stamps in addition to the postage.

The Christmas rush at the local postoffice will be on in force this week and the officials and employees are preparing for it. They furnished the above important hints to those mailing or who expect to mail packages. The fact that a parcels post package can be insured warrants no risk on the part of the sender and assures safe delivery or if not the sender will be reimbursed for his loss. Special insurance tags are issued.

The following instructions, if carried out, will be of great help if followed:

The patrons are kindly asked to endeavor to mail parcels as early before Christmas as possible in order to avoid any possible congestion and probable delay in the receipt of the parcels by the addressees. Patrons are also asked to mail their parcels and letters as early in the day as possible as it is more convenient for them to be waited upon at that time as many of the patrons do not come to the office until the afternoon.

A repetition of your want ad—again and again if needed—may be good business sense if you're looking for work.

CROPS COVER 1-7TH OF U. S.

Corn and Cotton Crops Most Valuable Ever Produced, Says Second.

Washington—With the most valuable crops of corn and cotton ever produced and the second most valuable crop, the value of the nation's 14 principal farm crops has been aggregated the enormous total of $1,930,291,600, the department of agriculture announced Monday in its final estimate of increase, production and value. This is an increase of $125,568,000 over the value for the same crops last year and $350,772,000 over those of 1911, based on the prices paid to farmers on December 1.

The average of these crops is equivalent to a farm one-seventh the size of continental United States. The exact acre planted to these 14 crops which is more than 50 per cent of the total of all crop area, was 299,435,000 acres, an increase of almost 5,000,000 acres over last year's area, and of more than 2,000,000 over the 1911 area. More than one-third of the total acreage was planted to corn.

For the crops as a whole the average production per acre was valued at about $10.50. The corn crop averaged $15.96 per acre; cotton $2.19; sugar beets, $29.64; wheat, $12.14; oats, $11.44; sweet potatoes, $26.60; rice, $26.50; potatoes, $22.18; tobacco, $106.23 and soy, $12.84.

GIFTS
FOR TWO
Katherine Hopson

(Copyright, 1913.)
L.L. the stores along Main street were gay with Christmas decorations. Even the window of Scarvin's curio shop bravely flaunted some brilliant holly wreaths.

Katherine Lander paused before this window
and stood for a long time apparently lost in contemplation of the illustrious display there. At last he roused himself with an effort and opened the door. At his entrance, old Scarvin, the dealer, came smiling forward rubbing his wrinkled hands.

"What may I do for you this afternoon?" he ravedly asked, while his shrewd, ready eyes noted every detail of his customer's tall, well-developed figure.

"I should like to look at something that would be suitable as a Christmas present for a lady," Lander answered briskly, but a keen observer would have noticed that his cheerful mood was forced, and in his eyes was a look of utter weariness.

"Certainly, certainly, right over here," said Scarvin, leading the way to a case where some quaint necklaces were displayed. "This amethyst one with her sympathetic voice and restful ways had made it seem so. No matter how tired she might be with her day in the schoolroom, she was always ready to rejoice or sympathize.

"I'll send her some roses—the finest
I can find," he declared with a sudden rush of generous tenderness. He entered a flower shop and bought a huge bunch of velvety American Beauties.
"Send them to this address," he told
the dealer and gave him a card.

Next door was the establishment of an expensive furrier, and a Lander paused the window, he saw Marguerite
Penton looking at a net of brown lynx.
The rich tones went well with her brown eyes and tawny hair. As she stood there with the soft fur about her, she reminded him of some barbaric princess. Ever since he had first met her at a dinner given at the home
of the mother member of the firm, Lander had been greatly fascinated,
and felt that her beauty and position
fitted in with his ambitious dreams.

Yet, strangely enough, today her beauty
did not make its usual appeal to him.
The thought that mingled with her grace, was also something of a fellow creature.

"Those furs probably cost more than
my monthly salary," he muttered, "other than the craving for luxury would foster itself, vampire like, on the life
blood of the man who marries her!"

He strode down the street, feeling that the crowded cars would atone him,
and longing for the sense of physical motion and the stinging air against his face. When he reached his rooms
he found on the table an invitation from Mrs. Dane, a prominent society leader, to attend a dinner
she was giving that night.

"That doesn't fit in with the load of work I must get through with tomorrow," he muttered, "I'll have to decline." He glanced at his watch.
"What does it all amount to? he thought despondently. "These people who invite me do not really care for
me. It is merely because I fill in and make an agreeable dinner guest, and
for that I have practically given up
my old friends."

He realized that his present mood
was the result of reaction from celebration
of conquest which the past year of almost spectacular success had given him.

"I'd like to chuck the whole thing and go back. It only costs me a talk with Alice in the old way. I'd feel myself again." He set up with new energy. "I wonder if she'd let me
come!"

There was need to look in the telephone
book for the family number.
With breathless suspense he waited
while the landlady called Miss Gleason to the phone, and at the sound of
her voice his heart began to pound heavily. She was so sweetly gracious, yet he detected a note of surprise as he asked permission to call. Then she spoke of the roses, and added:

"I can't begin to describe my delight
over that quiet old English book. It filled a long-felt want for the possession of a real first edition." Mechanically
he responded, questioning himself the while: "What book? Did I make a mistake and send Miss Penton's Christmas gift to Alice?" In my dogged weariness I must have given the dealer the wrong address." He thought of Marguerite's demand of the book as her due, and a sense of implied
loyalty swept over him at the mistake
which had defeated the usual order.

He sent a messenger boy with a note to Mrs. Dane containing regrets for the dinner, then dressed and hurried to the lodging house on Fleet street.

"Shure, and you're a stranger
these days," Mr. Landers' remarked the maid who opened the door. As she stepped up to hand Miss Gleason
her room key, her face reminded him
of a cheery, full moon. He glanced at the worn old hallcoat, and a table strewn with magazines, the familiar shabbiness of the little parlor made the past year seem as unreal
as a feverish dream.

When Alice entered she seemed to bring with her an atmosphere of serenity and peace. Eagerly he rose,
then sank back on the sofa, his face went white and everything blurred before him.

"What is it, Edwin, are you ill?" she cried, in her alarm the old name slipped out unconsciously.

He passed his hand over his eyes in
a dazed fashion. "No—it is nothing,"
he muttered. Then, earnestly, "I am tired—very with life as it is. It is you only I want, Alice, you alone in this wide world that I love. Is there any hope?"

His voice sank almost to a whisper,
and for one tense moment there was silence in the little room. Then, by way of answer, she looked at the poor, tired face against her breast with a gesture of ineffable tenderness.

In that moment, Lander felt that to his weary questioning as to what was worth while, the answer was not material success, but love which means
life in its fullness.

"Curious Christmas Superstition."
On Christmas eve, at midnight, country people in England believe that the Christ child revisits the earth. Sometimes, therefore, if it is a "sick" child
in the house, the mother will take the little one to the door, just before midnight, and wait till the hour strikes. If the child recovers, it is believed that the child is cured. If it has touched it with healing fingers during the earthward journey. "But if the child sickens and dies, all is well, for the mother heart is comforted by the thought that the little one was called by the Christ child to be his "playmate" in heaven.

The shabby old place seemed far
more like home than his new quarters
ever will," he muttered, and a realization came to him that it was Alice

with her sympathetic voice and restful
ways had made it seem so. No matter how tired she might be with
her day in the schoolroom, she was always ready to rejoice or sympathize.

"I'll send her some roses—the finest
I can find," he declared with a sudden
rush of generous tenderness. He en-

he found on the table an invitation
from Mrs. Dane, a prominent society
leader, to attend a dinner
she was giving that night.

"That doesn't fit in with the load of
work I must get through with tomorrow," he muttered, "I'll have to decline." He glanced at his watch.
"What does it all amount to? he thought despondently. "These people
who invite me do not really care for
me. It is merely because I fill in and
make an agreeable dinner guest, and
for that I have practically given up
my old friends."

He realized that his present mood
was the result of reaction from celebration
of conquest which the past year of almost
spectacular success had given him.

"I'd like to chuck the whole thing
and go back. It only costs me a talk with Alice in the old way. I'd feel myself again." He set up with new energy. "I wonder if she'd let me
come!"

There was need to look in the telephone
book for the family number.
With breathless suspense he waited
while the landlady called Miss Gleason
to the phone, and at the sound of
her voice his heart began to pound heavily. She was so sweetly gracious,
yet he detected a note of surprise as
he asked permission to call. Then she spoke of the roses, and added:

"I can't begin to describe my delight
over that quiet old English book. It filled a long-felt want for the possession of a real first edition." Mechanically
he responded, questioning himself
the while: "What book? Did I make a mistake and send Miss Penton's Christmas gift to Alice?" In my dogged weariness I must have given the dealer the wrong address." He thought of Marguerite's demand of the
book as her due, and a sense of implied
loyalty swept over him at the mistake
which had defeated the usual order.

He sent a messenger boy with a note to Mrs. Dane containing regrets for
the dinner, then dressed and hurried
to the lodging house on Fleet
street.

"Shure, and you're a stranger
these days," Mr. Landers' remarked
the maid who opened the door. As she stepped up to hand Miss Gleason
her room key, her face reminded him
of a cheery, full moon. He glanced at the worn old hallcoat, and a
table strewn with magazines, the
familiar shabbiness of the little parlor made the past year seem as unreal
as a feverish dream.

When Alice entered she seemed to
bring with her an atmosphere of serenity and peace. Eagerly he rose,
then sank back on the sofa, his face
went white and everything blurred before him.

"What is it, Edwin, are you ill?" she
cried, in her alarm the old name
slipped out unconsciously.

He passed his hand over his eyes in
a dazed fashion. "No—it is nothing,"
he muttered. Then, earnestly, "I am tired—very with life as it is. It is you only I want, Alice, you alone in this wide world that I love. Is there any hope?"

His voice sank almost to a whisper,
and for one tense moment there was silence in the little room. Then, by way of answer, she looked at the poor, tired
face against her breast with a gesture of ineffable tenderness.

In that moment, Lander felt that to
his weary questioning as to what was
worth while, the answer was not material success, but love which means
life in its fullness.

"Curious Christmas Superstition."
On Christmas eve, at midnight, country
people in England believe that the Christ child revisits the earth. Sometimes, therefore, if it is a "sick" child
in the house, the mother will
take the little one to the door, just before midnight, and wait till the hour
strikes. If the child recovers, it is believed that the child is cured. If it has touched it with healing fingers during
the earthward journey. "But if the child sickens and dies, all is well, for
the mother heart is comforted by the
thought that the little one was called by the Christ child to be his "play-
mate" in heaven.

The shabby old place seemed far
more like home than his new quarters
ever will," he muttered, and a realization came to him that it was Alice

with her sympathetic voice and restful
ways had made it seem so. No matter how tired she might be with
her day in the schoolroom, she was always ready to rejoice or sympathize.

"I'll send her some roses—the finest
I can find," he declared with a sudden rush of generous tenderness. He entered a flower shop and bought a huge
bunch of velvety American Beauties.
"Send them to this address," he told
the dealer and gave him a card.

Next door was the establishment of
an expensive furrier, and a Lander
paused the window, he saw Marguerite
Penton looking at a net of brown lynx.
The rich tones went well with her brown eyes and tawny hair. As she stood there with the soft fur about
her, she reminded him of some barbaric princess. Ever since he had first met her at a dinner given at the home
of the mother member of the firm, Lander had been greatly fascinated,
and felt that her beauty and position
fitted in with his ambitious dreams.

Yet, strangely enough, today her beauty
did not make its usual appeal to him.
The thought that mingled with her
grace, was also something of a fellow
creature.

"Those furs probably cost more than
my monthly salary," he muttered, "other
than the craving for luxury would
foster itself, vampire like, on the life
blood of the man who marries her!"

He strode down the street, feeling
that the crowded cars would atone him,
and longing for the sense of physical
motion and the stinging air against
his face. When he reached his rooms
he found on the table an invitation
from Mrs. Dane, a prominent society
leader, to attend a dinner
she was giving that night.

Dear Friend: Why don't you put yourself on the payroll? You pay the landlord, the grocer, the butcher, the coal man, and the electric light company every month.
How much is there in it for you? Who are you working for—the landlord, the coal man or yourself?
Next pay day why don't you bring your pay check down to the bank and get it cashed. Instead of all, put one dollar into a savings account. Then try keeping this up each pay day for a while, and if, later on, you get a little raise, try to pay the amount of that raise to yourself.
Try to add it to your savings account.

FOR NERVOUSNESS

Nervousness comes from nerve exhaustion, an unhealthy condition of the nerves of some part of the body, usually by lack of nerve nourishment. If you are nervous, you need a nerve food—something to tone and strengthen your nerves. Rexall's Olive Oil Emulsion is the ideal nerve-food tonic, a real medicine for the nerves, a real builder of strength and health for the mind.

It is not a stimulant. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. It is many so-called "tonics" do that stimulate your heart and muscles for a short time after taking, only to leave you weaker and worse off than before. It is a real medicine, containing ingredients necessary to overcome your weakness and nervousness, and give new strength and life and health to every part. It may not make you feel better the first day, because the nerve and tissue foods it contains need time to get into the blood before the good work of rebuilding can begin. But it will make you feel better and less nervous before you have taken anywhere near as much of it as you have of other things that did you nothing, but harm. If it does not—if it fails to satisfy you in every way, we want you to tell us so and get your money back.

You who are weak and run-down, and you who are apparently well now, but are liable to suffer from various cold weather ailments, use Rexall's Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired-out, run-down, nervous, emaciated or debilitated—the convalescent—growing children—aged people—it is a valuable aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health.

Rexall's Olive Oil Emulsion—king of the celebrated Rexall Remedies—in freedom from sickness of you and your family. Pleasant-tasting—unlike the cod liver oil preparations—you'll be an enthusiastic about it as we are when you have noted its strengthening, invigorating, building-up, disease-preventing effects. If it does not help you, your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of more than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain—Skeels-Wiley Drug Co., Perrine Corner, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Advertising has no value unless it is founded on truth. Every statement we make is absolutely true.

Our Business is Your Business

A FEW FACTS AND A FEW FIGURES

You have read our "Foreword" and you know we're going to tell you the truth about our business and our company.

When we say "our" company we mean your company, too—for you are a partner in the business.

Our company (your company), as now constituted, embraces the seven states in the Rocky Mountain region; it owns and operates 198,666 telephones.

The actual cash value of the wire, poles, switchboards, batteries and instrument (the "tools" with which we make your service) is $2,714,355.

The total issue of treasury stock—money with which we paid for these properties (these "tools") is $29,693,600, and we have no bonds.

You see, we have over three million dollars more invested in actual physical property and equipment than we have stock issued.

Your service is based on the larger amount—the actual physical valuation, but your rates are based on the smaller amount—the money invested in our business.

In other words, you get the benefit in service of over three million dollars for which you pay nothing.

The money you pay for telephone service goes to the operators, the linemen and other employees in salaries and wages.

It goes to pay for our supplies and material, our taxes, insurance, dividends and other necessities.

Not a cent of it goes to pay for extensions and additions to plants, new switchboards, new exchanges, or Long Distance lines.

The money for these things comes from the people who invest their savings in our business.

We pay them seven per cent for the use of their money.

You'll admit that this is only a fair return upon their money—and a great deal less than your grocer makes on the money he has invested in his business.

We realize that you are not an accountant.

We don't believe you would read a lot of figures if we printed them.

We have these figures, though, prepared under the direction and supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

They are ready for your inspection at any time.

We'll show them—explain them—and prove them to you any time you say.

Each of our advertisements will contain a few of these figures—not enough to worry you—but enough to prove the truth of our statements.
