

ANNUAL COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING

One of the Best Ever Held in Twin Falls County

OF THE 150 TEACHERS IN THE COUNTY 137 WERE PRESENT.

Spalding Addresses Group by Visiting Instructor and Members of Twin Falls County Schools.

The annual county teachers' meeting held in Twin Falls Friday, the 9th of January, was one of the best held in the county. Of the one hundred fifty teachers in the county, one hundred thirty-seven were present at this meeting. The majority of those present had a sufficient reason for not being there. It is to be regretted that a number of teachers did not show up. It is to be regretted that some of those who were present were unable to remain throughout the session.

The valedictory address by Miss F. A. Alford, Miss Viola Affande and Mr. Curtis Dwyer were much appreciated by the teachers. Mrs. W. H. Spalding, visiting instructor, addressed the group by a valedictory address which was well received.

The primary class exercise in reading, which was held in the afternoon under the direction of Miss F. A. Alford, did credit to both teacher and class. No number on the program was neglected. The paper on "Reading from a Rural Teachers' Standpoint" by Miss Bernice Barker of the Deep River school and the address by Miss Alice Sealla gave many excellent suggestions for the teaching of reading.

Miss A. M. Sealla gave many excellent suggestions for the teaching of reading. The number of trained and experienced teachers such as these two in the rural schools.

Mr. M. J. Dwyer held the audience in forceful and practical talk on the "Teaching of Agriculture in the Upper Grades." Mr. Dwyer was along the line of the agricultural work of the school.

Miss A. M. Sealla, a former writing specialist, gave an interesting talk on the "Teaching of Penmanship in the Primary Grades." She urged a considerable amount of penmanship by her talk and demonstrated the same.

COUNTY TRUSTEES MEET

Session Very Successful, Though Not Largely Attended.

The trustees' meeting held here last Saturday was a success though not largely attended. If every trustee in the county had been present it would have resulted in much good to the schools.

Mr. Faris spoke on the subject, "Some of the Problems of a School Trustee." From his long and successful experience in schools and school affairs, he gave one of the most practical and helpful talks of the day, and one that was freely applauded by the trustees.

Mr. E. H. Ripper spoke on the subject of "Reports of Clerks and School Trustees." He talked for some time on the subject of reports and records of the trustees and school trustees.

Miss Peck favored the audience with a vocal solo and Miss Perkins with a recitation, which were highly appreciated.

Mr. J. M. Marshall gave a most interesting talk on "The Qualifications and Duties of School Trustees." He called attention to the fact that a trustee should be a citizen of the county and a resident of the school district.

Mr. E. O. Sisson addressed the trustees on the subject of "Educational Problems." He called for the cooperation of all school people in solving these problems.

BIRDS' KEEN SIGHT

Rapid Motion and Powerful Vision Go Together.

Eagle Has Telescopic Eyes—Even the Familiar Robin and the Jay Have Been Singularly Endowed by Nature in This Respect.

Chicago. The eye in the bird kingdom is telescopic with the retina microscopic, in the more rudimentary. The eagle and the vulture have the faculty of adjusting the eye to distant objects at a great distance. The vulture from the far off mountain tops the nearest in the valley below and accurately surveys the situation for his descent. As the wings are near and nearer to his victim, the lens of the eye steadily retreats back to the eye creating distance and when he strikes the lamb already chosen for his dinner the long distance vision has narrowed down to the scope of a few yards. The vulture is equal to the eagle in vision as he is sight of every faraway object. He kills a blue jay and leaves it by the roadside. A vulture soaring overhead comes down and approaches it in South America where the condor lives. He attacks it and leaves his game long exposed and unprotected. At that time a condor can be seen but it is a dark speck in the upper air and it grows larger and is soon followed by another. The vulture swoops down and has been decimated to the feast. Those have the telescopic eye. From the height of a mile or two these birds survey the earth beneath and objects at the feet of any faraway creature below. Man's eye can equal such vision only by artificial aid which is an artificial addition to the process of nature. The eagle possessed a telescope before Galileo's invention. As far as the eye is concerned, it is a long one. It has been found to be a hawk perched on the dry limb of a tree can testify to the sharp vision of these birds at long distance. It is the eagle-eyed hawk that is the one to be feared. It is the eagle-eyed hawk that is the one to be feared. It is the eagle-eyed hawk that is the one to be feared.

SHEEP ON CHICAGO MARKET

Western Come From Ranges; While Native Are Raised in the Central and Eastern States.

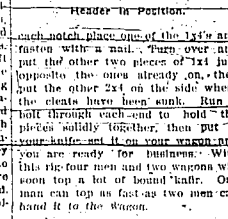

The greater number of sheep reaching Chicago market are produced on the western ranges and are known as western sheep. The sheep produced on the eastern ranges are known as native sheep and are raised in the central and eastern states. The sheep from the western ranges are known as range sheep and are raised on the open ranges. The sheep from the eastern ranges are known as native sheep and are raised in the central and eastern states. The sheep from the western ranges are known as range sheep and are raised on the open ranges. The sheep from the eastern ranges are known as native sheep and are raised in the central and eastern states.

The number of lambs received by the markets greatly exceeds the number of the sheep. The sheep were raised to maintain production the reverse was true, but now it is estimated that lambs constitute 80 per cent. of the total receipts of the Chicago and other large markets. A change in the relative number of lambs marketed, but there has also been a change in the distribution of the lambs through the different seasons. For during the summer and early autumn months only, but now they are received every week in the year. As the larger number received would in the winter months are preferred and the rest of the year is greatly stimulated consumption.

Now is the time for the farmer to see that his stock is protected from frost nights and chilly winds. The cost of tightening up the stables is but a trifle compared with the loss that may be incurred if the stock is not properly sheltered. It required a great amount of feed to keep up the animal heat, to overcome the cold winds.

Our Business is Your Business

THE LONESOME DOLLAR

There is nothing in this world so lonesome as a single dollar.

It can't even jingle
A single dollar doesn't go very far in serving a big territory like ours (over one-fifth of the area of the United States)
A lot of little railroads, not related and not connected, can serve only a small part of the people
It's only by connecting them together with standard tracks and cars and methods that all the people can get service of a high grade
So it is in the telephone business
A lot of unrelated, isolated, local telephone exchanges, each with different methods and equipment, could only serve a part of the people
It's only by joining them together with uniform methods and equipment that all the people can best be served
Yet each little railroad and each local telephone exchange requires more money than one man can furnish
It's only by means of the combined money of many men that the big trunk railroad and the big public telephone company is possible
It's only by combining a great many "lonesome dollars" that the public can best be served
That's capital
In most lines of business the investment, once made, needs no additions
In the telephone business new capital is needed every day to meet the ever increasing demands for service
In our business the construction is never closed
In the last twelve months it cost us approximately $1,500,000.00 to make additions to our plant alone

SAN STEFANO TREATY

SIGNING OF RUSSO-TURKISH PACT VERY IMPRESSIVE.
Witness Tells of Famous Historical Event That Occurred on Sunday, March 3, 1878—Peace of War Hung in the Balance.

I am inclined to think that I witnessed the most impressive sight of my life Sunday, March 3, 1878, the day on which the signatures were attached to the treaty of peace between Russia and Turkey at San Stefano. In order to arrange terms of peace an armistice had been declared January 31, and Sunday the rumor spread that when Sunday, March 3, a treaty was to be signed in honor of the czar's acceptance of the throne, there was more than a possibility that peace might also be concluded that day. In consequence, a large number of excursionists from Constantinople arrived at San Stefano by steamboat shortly after dawn, and when, as early as six in the morning, the whole of the Imperial guard—a magnificent body of some 35,000 men—pranked by the czar's quarters, the Grand Duke Nicholas, even at that early hour, a crowd of over twenty thousand speculators had assembled.
Slowly the hours passed, and two o'clock in the afternoon came and went without any movement from the crowd, so that as the grand duke began to provide the expectant watchers that even now some "dumplings" might have arisen which would prevent the signing of the articles of peace.

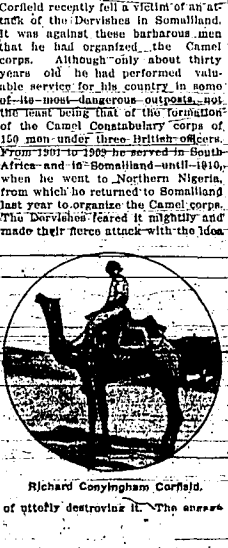

Happily, however, this fear proved unfounded. War, after all, was not to break out. The review was delayed owing to the fact that the grand duke was waiting for the signatures to be attached to the treaty, which could not be done until the Russian and Turkish copies of that document were complete.

Whether the delay was caused by the well known dilatory tactics of the Turk I know not. The rally, however, that it was not till close on five in the afternoon that the grand duke rode up to the diplomatic chancery and asked at six o'clock if the treaty was ready. As he stood for a reply the agitation of the crowd grew intense as, almost rock breaking point, groups of anxious watchers whispered nervously: "If it to be peace or war? Was the protestant and papist that he was called upon to give more put on the best defense but to the relentless and ever-advancing Russian forces?"
The grand duke, wheeling sharply round, stalked off to the hill on which

MAN MADE A DARING LEAP

Pittsburgh Iron Worker Has a Close Call From Death When He Jumps From Bridge.

Altoona, Pa.—"Hollowing" that the Twelfth street bridge crossing the Pennsylvania tracks was on fire and that he was going to be burned up unless he escaped, W. J. Beals, an iron worker of Pittsburgh, plunged from the bridge to the tracks below and directly in front of an express train that was pulling out of the Pennsylvania station. The man's escape from death was miraculous. He sustained only a sprained ankle as the engine of the train shut off the power as soon as he saw the man leaping through the air, and the engine pulled the man off the tracks on account of the slow speed at which it was going. Beals was arrested for trespassing on the railroad property, but was later released and sent home.

IS RELIC OF THE "ICE AGE"

National Museum Curator Reports on Petrified Remains Found in West Virginia.

Marlinton, W. Va.—A report has been made by J. W. Huxley, assistant curator of the National Museum, Washington, on the petrified remains found in blasting the big limestone cliff at the boundary of the "Ice Age" in West Virginia. The specimens are remains of a pig-like animal known as "phocaenus". This animal is related to the pig we are living in Central and South Africa, but was much larger than the present species. They were very abundant in the eastern and central United States during the pleistocene or "Ice Age". A skull found among the fossils was in an especially fine state of preservation and looks not unlike the skull of a horse, though much smaller, with immense tusks. Mr. Huxley says the "phocaenus" is probably an "underdog" species and because it implements another recent discovery of somewhat similar character near Cumberland, Md. Arrangements were made with the stone company to protect the deposit until an experienced collector can be detailed to visit the place. Mr. Huxley expects to visit West Virginia soon to make a thorough investigation.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Warning by the Idaho State Board of Health.

Mighty Mrs. Four-Air and her household are about to pay their annual, unwelcome visit. They will take up their abode in the windows, doors, cracks, crevices, schools, theaters, and other places of public assembly.

To avoid their visitations, keep your windows open. These robbers of health never come in through an open window.

The open window in the sleeping room at night means pure air and restful sleeping.

It is not the number of babies that are born that counts, but the ones who grow up into healthy men and women.

See that your child is protected by vaccination. An unvaccinated child is always in danger.

Practically all the flies that are to furnish the next summer's crop are now in the houses, driven in by the cold air, every all the flies you find in the house.

Good habits are just as easy to form as bad ones; so choose the good ones.

Wash your hands thoroughly every time before you eat.

See that your cut is washed clean, unless it is thoroughly treated.

Fresh Air. An abundant supply of fresh air is necessary at all times. Clean air is absolutely essential to keeping the fresh and healthy.

Of the predisposing causes of sickness, impure air is perhaps the most frequent. As air is breathed into the lungs, the oxygen and is replaced by carbon dioxide, which is a poisonous gas.

We must keep breathing the air into and out of the lungs in order that the carbon dioxide be removed from the body; otherwise the body would die.

Each of us breathes from 15 to 20 cubic feet of air every hour, each cubic foot of air passing through the lungs is so impure when exhaled that it makes impure the air in the room.

The air in dwellings and schools is never as pure as the outdoor air because it is polluted by the products of respiration, perspiration and decomposition.

There is a condition physicians term "crowd poisoning," in which the symptoms are headache, dizziness and faintness.

To protect yourself against disease and decrease of mental activity, keep your body in good physical condition.

The committee will give special attention to the economic changes in meat production and distribution brought about through the centralization of packing and slaughtering establishments and the change in transportation methods.

The committee will also be interested in the question of animal husbandry which has to do with the actual breeding of cattle as this work will be left to the specialists in the department and state agricultural colleges in this field.

The appointment of a committee will not interfere in any way with investigations now under way by any of the state agricultural colleges or experimental stations.

FOR POISONING RABBITS

Government Agent Finds New Formula Effective

After a week of visiting in several localities which are badly infested with jack rabbits, a government expert says the poisonous solution devised by the government is a thoroughly effective one, and that its success in exterminating the pests will be measured only by the interest and co-operation of the farmers.

One farmer or half a dozen in a locality putting out poison, and the doing nothing, will not be affected. In fact, it is the people in any section will co-operate their efforts will certainly be successful. Since the county commissioners have agreed to furnish the poison, there is no reason why every one should not put forth some effort.

The formula follows: One ounce of strychnine put in one-quarter pint water, and one-quarter pint acid vinegar. Make starch paste by dissolving two tablespoonful starch in cold water, cook until clear. Take from stove and add two ounces soda in solution, one ounce. After drying three or four hours, add eight quarts clean oats. This should be distributed about a table-spoonful in a place along the traffic. Daily bulletins.

WILSON'S PLAN FOR TRUSTS

Fundamentals include Elimination of Uncertainty as Present Law.

Washington — President Wilson yesterday gave the members of the cabinet his views on the government's relation to big business. He held that anti-trust legislation should cover and the spirit with which he believed the task should be approached.

Peace and not war a feeling of conciliation rather than of hostile antagonism, and yet a constructive program that will eliminate uncertainty about the law and stimulate the growth of legitimate business—these are the fundamentals of the president's plan of action, to be embodied in the message which he will read at the joint session of congress next week. He presented the document to the cabinet. The members of the cabinet appear to be in agreement with the president's plan, and would reassure the business world of the sincere intentions of the administration to deal fairly with it.

Committee Hour Message

Wednesday the president will outline the message to the democratic members of the senate committee on interstate commerce and the house judiciary committee at White House conference. While the president has not revealed his views on anti-trust legislation, he hopes that his message will keep the scope of activity within a well defined compass, eliminating so far as possible any congestion of matter that might be misinterpreted by the outside world. So far as is known the cardinal features of the president's plan are:

1.—Simplification of the Sherman anti-trust law to reduce the debatable area around it.

2.—The prohibition of interlocking directorates.

3.—Location of individual responsibility and the fixing of personal guilt for all violations.

4.—The creation of an interstate trade commission to perform the functions now only of a bureau of investigations, whether decrees of dissolution or remedies of the courts are required.

Big Business Expects Changes.

The president is proceeding on the theory that legislation is necessary at this time and that there should be no delay in accomplishing these reforms on which public sentiment is agreed. This sentiment is being drawn from numerous directorates because of a change in public sentiment is slight, the anti-trust supporters as evidence that the business world expects interlocking directorates to be dissolved. In this connection Mr. Wilson believes the whole course of public opinion has undergone a remarkable change in the last few years.

From a point where doubt as to the existence of trusts was at first exaggerated and unreasonable combinations in restraint of trade were debated, he believes there has now developed an acceptance of the principle that private monopolies are indefensible and that trusts practice certain will not be punished. He is expected to recommend in his message that the law with respect to personal guilt should be extended to cover all violations of the law in all legislation for individual offenses.

Without Regulative Power.

One of the important features of the anti-trust program is the interstate trade commission. This organization differs from the kind of commission advocated by the national progressive party in that it would not be vested with powers of regulation, but would be the medium through which the government would keep the business world informed and eliminate "the twilight zone" in big industry.

There have been repeated requests for information from business concerns and the need of an authoritative repository of information has been demonstrated in the present administration's experience with the trust question. It is contemplated to place the commission as a corporation at the head of the interstate trade commission, but to include in its membership business men who would know business methods sufficiently to conduct the necessary inquiry and furnish the required information.

No Slowing Up Now.

With the president's discussion of the whole subject at the cabinet meeting, the talk of "slowing up" on the administration program and postponing trust legislation until the December session of congress apparently disappeared in executive quarters.

Administration supporters in the house and senate will endeavor to rapid completion so as to cut short the period of doubt as to what adjustments may be in prospect for the business of the country.—Statesman.

AVOID CATARRH

Breathic Hyomel—It Medicates the Air You Breathe as You Instantly Breathe.

Why continue to suffer from catarrh, stopped up head, husky voice and other troubles of the breathing organs when you can breathe clear and sweet Hyomel with a guarantee to refund the purchase price if it is not satisfactory.

Hyomel is a pleasant, harmless and antiseptic medication which you breathe a few times daily through a small inhaler. It effectively and promptly relieves all respiratory troubles, chills, coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, and the formation of crusts in the nose, or runny back.

A complete Hyomel outfit, consisting of inhaler and a bottle of Hyomel, costs $1.00, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, are only 50 cents.

Always use Hyomel for bronchitis, cold in the head, husky voice, croup of infants and any inflammatory disease of the breathing organs.—Adv.

Want ads speak for themselves; no arguing necessary.

Some Tasks Are Hard and Some Are Easy For Want Ads—While Few Indeed Are Impossible

The easy want ad tasks are usually accomplished through one publication of the ad. The want ad tasks may require repeated publications of the ad—sometimes growing into the dignity of "want ad campaigns."

And while purely "transient" classified advertising may not complete the task set for it, a "want ad campaign" does not fail, if sensible persistence is used. This means that such difficult want ad tasks as that of finding
