"Buy a bale of Cotton to help the South" might be changed by the Northwest states to "Buy a Bushel of Spuds to Help the West." Just as reasonable as the cry to aid the Southland, which helped to bring about the conditions which confront the whole nation. Idaho at least, can eat potatoes, while the South is splitting cotton.

Wednesday was Edison day and throughout the nation those in closest touch with electrical work by some means paid tribute to the greatest inventor the world has produced. Americans are said to have little reverence for the noted head of the light and heat for the living, and this probably does not hold true in the case of Edison, who has by his wonderful mind made so many homes comfortable by his useless, delving into electrical mechanics. His one success, the incandescent light, will make his name a household word years after the "Edison" connection has passed away. A great many ideas, literary and political, now occupy niches in the Hall of Fame, who have not by any stretch of imagination, accomplished one-half for humanity as the Wizard of Electrical Science.

DOING WITHOUT GERMANY

The assertion of the German Government that the export trade of that country will shortly be resumed ought to be "bearing news" for according to The Engineering News (New York, September, 17), there is probably no other nation in the world whose sudden isolation commercially would cause such wide-spread loss. And, more than any other nation, this paper goes on to say, Germany has won its place, not by natural resources or location, but by the skill and intelligence with which its people have attacked modern technical problems. We are now learning what it is to go without the things that are "made in Germany," and The News says that some people are having their eyes opened to the extent and importance of the field covered by these articles. While engineers and chemists, we are told, are generally aware of Germany's leadership in science and technology, the average of the past few weeks have been a great object lesson to the general public. We read:

"Few men have realized the extent to which the whole world has relied upon German scientists, chemists, engineers, and manufacturers for the supply of many materials necessary in the arts. Manufacturers in America and in England who were congratulating themselves on their enlarged markets for foreign trade commerce where the supply of German goods was cut off have in but a few cases found their own productive operations seriously hampered by these articles. No longer obtain certain materials from Germany."

"As is well known, steel manufacturers were greatly worried to know what they were to do for their supply of ferromanganese. Manufacturers of fertilizer have had to face the possible shut-down of their works through the cutting off of the supply of German potash. In the textile industries, manufacturers suddenly realized that with access to German ports blocked by war ships, there was every prospect that the supply of dyes and dyeing materials would be seriously interfered with. In the drug and chemical trade, prices doubled and tripled when it was realized that, with further supplies from Germany cut off, the world would have to get along for a time without certain drugs and chemicals which have become well-nigh essential both in the pharmacy and in certain industries."

"The above fact might be extended greatly. But can we not furnish at home something just as good as most of these German products? Possibly. The News thinks, if we are granted time enough; but this would mean a very long time indeed, in most cases. It would take many years, for instance, to bring our facilities for supplying potash up to the demands of our own farmers and manufacturers—what are they to do in the meantime? Says the writer:

"The same thing holds true of numerous materials in the dye and chemical trades. Physicians and druggists accustomed to use some of the varied products of coal-tar, most of which have originated in and are solely produced by Germany, are in a quandary to know what they can do if the source of supply is entirely shut off."

"It is of particular interest to note moreover, that the manufacturers of England, Germany's great commercial rival and present enemy, are almost as badly hit as some of the United States by the 'cutting off' of the supply of German products. Our English exchanges reveal that while English manufacturers are making large plans for capturing the export trade in many lands which Germany can not now reach, they find themselves handicapped at every turn by the cutting off of supplies which they themselves have been accustomed to obtain from Germany."

"Fortunately the war has not yet closed all the avenues by which Germany can send out its product to the world. Through Holland, a neutral nation, shipments from Germany can reach tide-water and be distributed by neutral vessels."

Thomas A. Edison, in The Iron Age (New York), told how he gets along without one German product, and incidentally offers a bit of good advice. He writes:

"Carbolic acid is not obtainable in this country, as our laws contain scarcely any; hence we are dependent on England and Germany. I am the largest single user of carbolic acid here, and the embargo placed on shipments by England, together with the impossibility of obtaining any from Germany, has put me in a pretty tight place. However, by massing a big gang of men in three shifts, I have erected all the machinery and apparatus for making phenol synthetically from benzol, and my plant is now working but I shall manufacture only for my own use in the production of phonograph records. It occurs to me that there are many things we are short of in the chemical line that could be made here quickly, if some people in the trade would act—not talk."—Literary Digest.

NO APPOINTMENT YET

State Engineer Will Not be Named Until After Election.

The appointment of a state engineer to succeed the late Frank P. King, who died suddenly, will not take place immediately—probably not until after election, according to authoritative information received at the state house. Herbert A. Wong, deputy state engineer, has been temporarily appointed by Governor Haines to take over the duties of state engineer and will remain in charge of the department until Mr. King's successor is appointed. The death of State Engineer King came so suddenly and at a time when the state campaign was in full swing that Governor Haines found it difficult to either name his successor or definitively settle the matter before he was required to take the stump in the interest of his candidacy for re-election.

Many aspirants for the appointment have become known. From all parts of the state applications are pouring in to the governor's office in letter form. They are being carefully sifted for consideration of the governor on his return to the city. Many of these applications are from engineers of prominence and have the backing and support of various men of influence. That the position is one to which engineers aspire is evident from the unusually large number of applications.

The position is one that requires exceptional training along engineering lines, especially in the handling of irrigation problems that demand intricate engineering. It is said to be felt by the governor and members of the land board that the position is of unusual importance, particularly at this time and in the immediate future because of difficult engineering problems that have and will present themselves in the reclamation of irrigation projects which so far have been a failure. Members of the land board are free in their statements that in their opinion State Engineer King was the best state engineer Idaho ever had.

Unusual confidence was placed in his reports on various irrigation matters and upon his views in the solving of engineering problems that presented themselves from time to time. It is said of the late engineer that he never made a statement from an engineering problem without first becoming familiar with the facts, which he had given study on which to base his answer. It was for this reason that his advice always carried a great deal of weight with the land board.

Mr. King was also very popular with all who knew him. While conservative in making acquaintances he was a warm friend and held friendship as one of his closest assets. The governor and land board believe that his place will be difficult to fill in an attempt to secure the services of an engineer who will have the same ability and in whom the same reliability can be placed. Capital News

BOISE BOY KILLED BY AUTO

Alfred Pearson Killed by Machine Driven by F. M. Mickey.

Alfred Pearson, aged 5 years, in death and Frank M. Mickey, a chauffeur is under arrest charged with manslaughter, as the result of another automobile accident on the valley road last evening at 6:10 o'clock, when a machine driven by Mr. Mickey, struck the little boy, who was following in the rear, breaking his neck and killing him.

The unfortunate lad was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pearson, residents of the Humbolt Home addition, this side of the valley. Mrs. Pearson had gone to church and Mr. Pearson was coming toward the city to visit his brother. His son was following him about 100 yards in the rear. Mr. Pearson did not see the accident, but heard the crash and at first thought the automobile had gone into a ditch. He turned around seeing it had struck someone and ran back, receiving the lifeless body of his son which was pitted into his arms by James Pearson, an old soldier, who witnessed the accident and had picked up the child's body.

Death was instantaneous. Mr. Pearson did not believe at first his boy was dead, and he rushed to the hospital, but it was found his was extinct. When it was learned that the neck was broken it was certain that death was instantaneous. Mrs. Pearson was summoned from church to the hospital and upon being informed of the death of her child, she fainted, but later revived and was able to go home.

According to Mr. Pearson, the automobile which struck his son passed him going at a high rate of speed. Mr. Pearson, who was probably the closest eye witness of the tragedy, was almost directly across the road when the accident occurred. The boy, who stated, was in the rear of a buggy and had stepped to one side as the automobile came toward him. The crash came almost instantly, the machine knocking the boy down and running over him, stopping a short distance beyond.

Mr. Mickey, who was driving the car, refused to make any statement concerning the accident. He has been in the custody of the M. H. C. C. and was also driven by Dr. Towle and was using the physician's car last night when the accident happened. In the car with him at the time was his sister and brother-in-law and some young woman who he was taking out for a ride.

Mr. Pearson states that, owing to the speeding down the valley road, he has often warned her not to be careful of automobiles and declares he was very watchful.

The valley road on which the accident occurred, is an extremely dangerous one. It is much traveled by soldiers and civilians and there are no sidewalks on either side of the paved roadway. The accident last night makes the fifth which has occurred on the paved road down the valley, three of which have resulted disastrously.

An inquest is to be held this afternoon at which all details of the accident will be brought out. After making some investigations of the tragedy, Mr. Pearson sought Judge W. C. Boyer and there were out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Mickey upon the charge of manslaughter. He was placed under a $2500 bond, which he was unable to secure last night, but furnished this morning at 9 o'clock. His preliminary has been set for Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock—Capital news.

RESERVOIR WILL BE BUILT

Contract for Construction Work in Oneida County.

Confident that at least 2500 acre feet of water at $50 per foot will be sufficient for the state land board, the reservoir company will proceed forthwith in the construction of what is to be known as the Malad reservoir in Oneida county. The state land board having approved the contract. This construction work means the employment of a large crew of men and many horses. The first work to be done is to be constructed immediately. It will be 40 feet high with a concrete core wall running its full length and height. The outlet tunnel will be in solid rock and will be concrete-lined. The spillway will be 20 feet wide and 10 feet deep and have a carrying capacity of 2000 second feet of water. The water contract approved by the board provides that where water payments are made in cash the water will cost $10 an acre. Where the water payments are made in installments the first payments will not become due until May 1, when certification is made by the state engineer that the 2500 acres called for is impounded behind the dam. Board approved in September.

The contract was approved by the land board last month at which time the land board passed the following declaration:

"We, the highway that the Malad Reservoir company, limited, a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Idaho, having duly complied with the requirements of house bill No. 276 of the acts of the tenth session of the legislature of Idaho, approved March 12, 1909, and the state engineer of Idaho having filed his report in writing with the board, and having approved the plans and specifications for the said company's irrigation works, consisting of a dam and storage reservoir on the Little Malad river in Oneida county, Idaho, and the state board of land commissioners having at a meeting held on the 15th day of September, 1914, by resolution approved the form of water contract hereto attached and authorized and directed this certificate to issue:

"Now, therefore, said Malad Reservoir company, limited, is hereby authorized to sell water rights in said irrigation system under the form of water right contract hereto attached as aforesaid, to the extent of 2500 acre feet for the irrigation of 2500 acres."

In witness whereof, the said state board of land commissioners has caused this certificate to be executed in its name signed by its chairman, and attested by its register, and the seal of said board attached this 20th day of September, 1914.

EXPOSITION PLANS EXPANDING

Servants of Miss Mulkey Secured for Idaho Next Year.

Commissioner Reed has secured the services of Miss E. L. Mulkey of San Francisco to assist J. W. Jones in installing the Idaho exhibit at San Francisco. Miss Mulkey has numerous previous most unusual for a woman, but one in which she has made the greatest success—that of designing and carrying large spectacular parades. She has put on the last five of the Portland "Rose" carnival, the "Parade of the World" of Seattle in 1912, the last two parades of the "Wizard of the Wascata," and many large parades on the coast.

Asked how she happened to take up so unusual a profession, Miss Mulkey said, "well, to begin with, I came of a family of artists and then I was born and lived until recently in New Orleans, and you know that that means being fairly steeped in Mardi Gras atmosphere. It really came natural, with my artistic training and my acquaintance with the late Mr. Harper, who put on all the Mardi Gras parades for the past 40 years. I fell naturally into it." Miss Mulkey received her training under Mr. Harper. Miss Mulkey is highly imaginative and she first makes her sketch of the parade as she wishes it to be as a whole, then she commences her working drawings and finally she actually builds the floats. She has a special process of making models from papier mache which have all the appearance of genuine sculpture. She has been commissioned to make a reproduction of the Utah copper mine for the Utah building at San Francisco. This work is to occupy a room two floors deep, and a five foot basement. She will also model one of the big coal mines.

Besides arranging the background for the Idaho exhibit, Major Reed wishes Miss Mulkey to make a large model of Arrow Rock dam and of Shoshone falls, believing that both will prove a splendid advertisement in bringing tourists visiting the exposition to this state. Miss Mulkey will go to Arrow Rock tomorrow and examine the dam and if it is decided to make the model she will obtain working drawings from the engineers and make it exactly to the scale. She will then go to Shoshone falls and from there to Salt Lake on route to San Francisco.

Miss Mulkey will carry on the Idaho and Utah work together, since the two buildings are closely situated. She is highly enthusiastic over both states and hopes to achieve something worthy for both of them.—Statesman.

The Washburn Piano--

Leader in Popularity

The Washburn piano is essentially high grade in every respect. Ordinary instruments selling at about the same figure do not compare with it in any particular. This is the reason for the popularity of the Washburn.

The Washburn is sold by over three hundred piano dealers throughout the United States and is endorsed by them as unequalled in value.

The Washburn method of construction was evolved in the Lyon and Henry factories and presents features that must appeal instantly to every unbiased purchaser. Very easy terms, in fact, payments as low as $8.00 per month may be arranged on the Washburn piano.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. B. Watson entertained at a sumptuous luncheon. The decorations of the house were yellow and in keeping with the occasion.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ideal Bible class, which is conducted by Mrs. J. H. Brockner, was held Wednesday evening in the basement of the church. For a variation of the regular meeting, every member brought light refreshments and an enjoyable social time was spent during the evening.

The initial number of the dancing parties planned by the club composed of the married people of Twin Falls, was held Tuesday evening in Collihan hall and proved to be a decided success. Despite the inclement weather a large crowd was in attendance.

A very pretty luncheon was the one given by Mrs. W. S. Hill Tuesday afternoon of this week. The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves and sweet peas and nasturtiums formed the effective centerpiece for the three tables around which the guests were seated.

On October twentieth, after a short business session with the president, Mrs. Pike, presiding, Mrs. John White opened the program by a short talk on timely topics. Miss Hamilton, chairman of the dramatics program, then took charge of the meeting and told of the founding and growth of the Dramatic League of America. She introduced Miss C. B. Herr, of Chicago, a very talented English scholar graduate of Wellesley college, who talked on George Bernard Shaw and his eccentricities in a most fascinating manner.

Miss Hamilton then read a synopsis of "Fanny's First Play," by Shaw, and told of it as she saw it in Chicago, last winter. Mrs. Boyd Fuller interpreted Miss Hamilton's description of the play by short readings, given from it, in a charming way. Mrs. Fuller shows her eastern training and her finished work is always a delight to her audience. A short description of the "Little Theatre Movement," by Miss Hamilton was also enjoyed. The music for the afternoon was in the form of an English folk song, which was sung by the Misses Dwight and Martin.

Judge Forney of Moscow, was present as a guest and addressed the ladies briefly on "Educational work in connection with our State University." The meeting closed with the singing of America by the club. This brings another day, a large basket of the ray fruit temple club members to celebrate in a fitting manner.

Saturday, October 24, Miss Kelly, of the Household Economics department of the State University, spoke before the club members at 2:30 in Jewel hall. All agreed to hear her. Tuesday, October 27, eighteen from the club to Ellers have been asked as guests of this club to hear the Lecture on Day program in Jewel hall at 2:30. They will be served after the program.

A Few Dollars Wisely Expended

May Make Your Parlor a New Place to You

Your friends "sit in judgment" upon you when they sit in your parlor. They judge, chiefly, your taste in home-furnishing of which your parlor must always be the highest evidence and example. They judge, too, your means—although this point is not emphasized in their thought if your taste is faultless.

Thus, knowing what you want, and aided by this special sale of parlor pieces and sets, you can make your parlor "fit for judgment" without making yourself "poor" in the process.

NEW RULING FOR POWER

Bill Introduced Limiting Tenure of Power Site Leases.

A new bill has been introduced in congress which has the approval of the secretary of the interior and has been favorably reported by the committee on the public lands, house of representatives. The principal features of which are a fixed tenure for the lease of a water power through a lease given for not exceeding fifty years, revocable only through proceedings in the courts for breach of law or conditions, regulation and control over service and charges for water by the states in interstate projects, where public service commissions are provided, by the secretary of the interior or other federal officer with authority over interstate developments and use of over interstate projects where no public service commissions are provided; option of the land of the United States at the end of the lease period to take over the dam, plant and accessories upon payment of the actual cost of rights-of-way, water rights, and lands and of the reasonable valuation of all other property taken over, excluding franchise values, good, will, or other intangible elements; or, in lieu of not taking over the property the right to renew for another period and upon such terms and conditions, if authorized by law, to the original lessee; or to take over and lease to a third party on condition that the original lessee be compensated for the new lease in the form and manner above described. The matter of charges for the use of the lands and rights is not regarded as of great importance, except as it aids in the proper control and development of the leased sites; but the bill, in the event that charges are collected in any project, devotes the entire proceeds to the reclamation of arid lands in the western states, and further provides that upon return to the reclamation fund of the money so expended—50 percent of the amount so returned shall be paid to the state within which the hydro-electric power occurs for the support of educational institutions or the construction of public improvements, or both.

Power First, Then Irrigation
A practical demonstration of the utilization of water and power resources in the enterprise of a power company in California, which has stored flood waters in a high dam, at an elevation of over 5,000 feet above sea level. After being released from the dam the water is passed through a series of six power houses, utilizing a total drop of 1,410 feet, for power purposes, generating more than 100,000 kilowatts of electricity, which is then discharged from the last power house into irrigation canals, which will accomplish irrigation of more than 60,000 acres of arid lands. One of the advantages of pumping by hydro-electric power is that the energy may be furnished by a large distribution plant which supplies the whole region and which will thus permit of dividing the work of irrigation among a number of successive stations, irrigating at the outlet only those that are likely to pay, keeping pace with the natural growth of the land from the power so generated. Thus the mere lifting of water to its lands, the same water will carry right for his house, operate his thrashing machine, sawmill, corn sheller, and churn, and eradicate much of the heavy and unpleasant labor formerly attendant upon farming. To the irrigator it means a steady and sufficient flow of water whenever desired and wherever pipes are carried up hill or downhill. There is no waiting for a "jump" of the water in a lateral which serves a half dozen farmers. There are no annoyances from clogged and weedy ditches or broken canals or laterals; water at the end of the irrigation season is it necessary to turn out and clean and put in condition laterals and canals in anticipation of the new season. Through clean, open pipes, which will not clog with vegetation or weeds, which do not break or get tramped or broken down by livestock, a continuous flow of water reaches the exact spot in the farmer's field where it will do the most good, and continues to flow until the complete irrigation has been accomplished.

The saving of water is an important electric pumping and of the pipes through which the water is forced, for it eliminates loss by seepage and evaporation. The experience of the irrigator has already fully demonstrated the value of this, the most important use of hydro-electric energy.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE

Three Mackay Girls Have Miraculous Escape. No One Seriously Hurt.

Miss Marion Weller, accompanied by Misses Ada Thompson and Ina Erickson, were enjoying a ride in the Weller Ford runabout last night, when the car near the Stewart ranch a half mile west of town the car turned turtle. Miss Weller and Miss Erickson were thrown clear of the car when it overturned, but Miss Thompson was caught and the weight of the car rested upon her until help was summoned. Several men gathered at the scene of the accident and when the car was lifted it was thought that Miss Thompson had been killed. She was taken to the Mackay hospital in a car, where she soon regained consciousness and was revived. Examination proved that no bones whatever were broken and no serious internal injuries sustained, although the young lady entered greatly from nervousness. Miss Erickson sustained a badly bruised hip and Miss Weller was also badly bruised and scalded up, but none of the three were seriously injured. Miss Thompson was removed from the hospital to her home this morning. All three girls are now safe from their brushes today. Mackay Miner.

POTATO FREAK EXHIBITED

Here Rancher Has New Variety of Hilltop Potatoes.

(From the Filer Journal).
—Price McCallister brought a strange potato freak to town this week. It was a hill of potatoes all grown together. There were 23 potatoes all connected together, some of them a splendid size.
Dr. Haack and Ray Lee were in Suit Lake last week when they saw the Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Allen were Twin Falls visitors Tuesday.
Dan Connor attended a political meeting at Bullhead Tuesday evening. C. J. Crosby, candidate for coroner on the Democratic ticket, has been working this territory the past week. E. W. Payne of Corvallis, Ore., was here the past week looking after his orchard tract north of town. Mr. Payne manages to get out here every year and thinks more of the tract on each visit.
W. W. Taylor, one of the proprietors of the new store, moved his family to Filer yesterday and will be getting his household in order. They have rented the Craven property on Yakima avenue.
R. H. Miller and family left last Saturday morning for Oregon, where they go to make their future home. It is probably a question of less than a year before they will return. When that time comes they will gladly be welcomed back.
—Trying to run for office and running a newspaper at the same time is a very clever joke. We ask those of our readers to bear with us for the next two weeks and the Journal will endeavor to be a bigger and better paper than ever.
Talk about an apple country! One day this week Geo. Drake brought a new variety of apple to town. It was at Case and Anderson's office that contained 22 apples on an 18 inch limb, all large sized.
Ex-Governor Hawley, Democratic candidate for United States senator, was shaking hands with old friends Tuesday. He addressed a large audience at Twin Falls Monday night, held an afternoon meeting at Hollister, Tuesday and spoke in the evening at Ruhl. His time was so taken up that he could not stop in Filer.
T. H. Harty returned to his home in Decatur, Ill., last Friday. Mr. Harty is closing out his business as fast as he can and his clerk of friends in Filer hope he will return and make this his permanent home. He has considerable interests here to look after and is hoping to find him as a permanent place of abode.
Local merchants are having a hard time filling their orders for apple boxes as the crop is so much larger than was anticipated that the supply has been exhausted. The tract looks thousands of apple boxes of having enough to put in the market. When a car arrives the farmers are right there to get the boxes. The last car only lasted four hours.
Mr. Harty was accompanied by his sister, who is over from Shoshone on a brief visit.
W. P. Hillebrand is a late arrival and has purchased the Merton Lyons residence.
I. S. Lambing, of Pocatello, dropped in on his friends yesterday for a short visit.
Hub Walters secured 480 sacks of potatoes from a measured acre. This is a splendid yield for this year.
The 40 acres lying just east of the Harry Daugh place. E. B. Ripley, the real estate, handled the deal.
—Summer Musser is erecting a new house on the 40 acres lying just east of the one he recently sold.
There are so many newcomers in this section that a person thinks he is in a strange town when he passes down the street.
James Erhardt has the belt so far on a ankle-bill of upstate. He weighed 15 pounds with only one cut. This is the top up to date.
The Eastern Star gave a reception to the members of the order at Twin Falls and Ruhl. Fifty members from Twin Falls and seventeen from Ruhl responded. Two candidates were given the work by the Filer chapter, which was pronounced as perfect as they had ever seen. A caterer's lunch was served and at a late hour the visitors returned to their several homes.
Al Holmes has the distinction of being the first man to ship a carload of apples from Filer. The apples were now in Shoshone and were raised on the Ben Lewis place. The apples were packed and wrapped by Ben Hartly and will be shipped to Dec Moines, and sold at retail by some of the Holmes family.

ATTACK WAR TAX

Republicans Continue to Fight Administration Measure.

WASHINGTON—A general republican assault on the Democratic administration and its policies with particular reference to the pending war revenue bill was made in the senate Monday, while the Democratic leader, were smoothing the way for early adjournment of congress.
Senators Smoot, Burton, Borah and Smith of Michigan, vigorously assailed Democratic legislation and Democratic administration policies, declaring that a $100,000,000 additional taxation now proposed was made necessary by Democratic blunders. They went into detail in their criticism of the Democratic extravagance in appropriations, providing ammunition for the fall campaign.
Silence on the Democratic side greeted the attacks. Democratic leaders planned to allow the Republicans to have their say, then pass the tax bill and adjourn. Senator Simmons, however, made a brief reply to attacks on the Democratic leadership. The demand of southern members

JEROME HAS FIRE

Wellington Home Burned Through an Electric Heater.

Last Thursday morning at 11:00 the residence of Mrs. See and daughter on Avenue F in the southeastern part of town, was destroyed by fire. The telephone from a neighbor's was used in turning in the alarm, and volunteers responded with the department. The fire was caused by the electric heater utilized to pull the car a greater part of the way, and autos readily joined in the run loaded with volunteers.
But the house was all ablaze when the department arrived, and nothing but a charred shell was saved. Mrs. See and daughter escaped unhurt when the fire started and none of the contents of the house to speak of were saved. Wearing apparel except that worn by the ladies at the time was also burned.
The origin of the fire appears to have been as follows: The occupants used electric heat for heating the house, and per contract, the company turned on the heat for the season that morning. October 22, about fifteen minutes before the fire, the company employee who turned on the heat as the custom, inspected the interior of the house and found just one heater. On this he said that the switch was open before turning on the heat. But it appears that two heaters were used and the second one in the bedroom, and as the heat was not used in summer it was covered with papers, magazines, clothing, etc. and was not used. The heater in the bedroom must have been left closed when the current was shut off last spring, if the fire originated there. And the investigation shows pretty conclusively that it did.
The dwelling consisted of four rooms and was the property of Rev. J. C. Kinney, formerly a resident here. There was no insurance on either house or contents. Jerome News.

ABILITY THE QUALIFICATION

Aspirant for County Treasurer World Submittal Record

George H. Smith, Democratic candidate for county treasurer, is asking that the voters of the county in an unbiased manner vote the qualifications for the office before making their decision. The office requires not only careful attention to the placing of the funds, but a great deal of technical bookkeeping, beyond the ability of the usual business man. As an employee for many years in the accounting and auditing departments of the great railway systems of the middle west, Mr. Smith received a training that particularly fit him for the difficult work of the treasurer's office. Also as deputy auditor for several years, Mr. Smith has had splendid training in the making up of the tax rolls and knows the inner workings of the tax system of the county. Mr. Smith will not have to get his experience at the expense of the county. He has already earned that experience and can make good.

Allen Charged With Embezzlement

have been notified not to pay any of the state treasurer's checks pending the audit of the books.

The state treasurer's office for the time being out of business.

There is a newspaper article today that developed yesterday and that caused speculation in Boise and all over the state as rumors leaked out early in the forenoon following receipt of instructions from the office.

It is apparent it was officially decided that these developments should not be made public until after a report had been made on the conduct of the treasurer's office, as Governor Haines left for the southeast Sunday without making it known that he had the resignation of Treasurer Allen.

The governor yesterday gave an explanation of his silence to The Statesman over the phone from Hoxburg.

Meanwhile, however, all sorts of reports were circulated in financial circles, but more especially in political circles, where rumor invited them in conformity with partisan disparagement of charges that had been made against Treasurer Allen in connection with matters separate and apart from his official duties.

Treasurer Allen, when seen by The Statesman representative said he had no statement to make at this time and would probably wait until a report was made to the governor.

Mr. Haines declined to make any statement excepting that he had been placed in temporary charge of the treasurer's office by Governor Haines.

Governor Haines gave the Statesman the following authorized statement over the telephone from Hoxburg:

"I did not make any public statement as to the charges in the treasurer's office because I did not want to occasion any unnecessary alarm as to the status of state funds pending the audit now in progress."

"Any alarm is unnecessary for the reason that the state is a public institution under no circumstances can any harm be done to the people of Idaho."

"What I wanted was to first get the figures before making any statement or taking any action on the resignation. No harm could come from that course, as Treasurer Allen had voluntarily given up his position and I had put a responsible man in the office."

"The bonding company audits the books of the state treasurer at intervals just as it does the books of any other bonded for a large sum. Undoubtedly the political reports published here about the alleged actions of Treasurer Allen influenced the bonding company to make an audit at this time."

"As the auditors were to be here the treasurer thought it better to give them the books and have them resign his resignation was placed with me co-incident with the bonding company's auditing of the books."

"Mr. Allen told me he had the fullest investigation of his accounts as treasurer and freely turned over his office for my inquiry not only in connection with the resignation, but in the absence of any authority on his part to act officially pending my action on his resignation."

"To other men Mr. Allen, in view of the suspicion that had been aroused by the circulation of political reports covering matters having no direct bearing on the treasurer's office, decided to step out, temporarily at least, and give a free hand for investigation."

"I have not accepted Mr. Allen's resignation and I do not intend to do so, at least in advance of a report as to the condition of the office. I believe it is anything wrong, and there has not been time to yet determine that, and will not be until a complete balance can be struck. I will not stop with a resignation. That will not be enough. I do not say that there is anything wrong, the people can depend on it. I have vigorous action will be taken by my government."

"One reason why I will not accept the resignation in advance of completion of the audit is because it might jeopardize the state's interests as affecting the bond held by the state. I do not propose to take any chances on any feature of the matter and will protect the people's interests to the fullest extent. Nothing definite can be known until the audit is completed. I expect, however, that under any circumstances, the state is fully protected and will not lose a cent."

"In order to hold the business of the treasurer's office in suspension pending the early stages of the audit, so as to not complicate matters, the books over the state were notified not to pay any bills until further notice. This is an ordinary precautionary measure and will be helpful the investigation."

"The public will be given all the facts as soon as anything tangible is available."

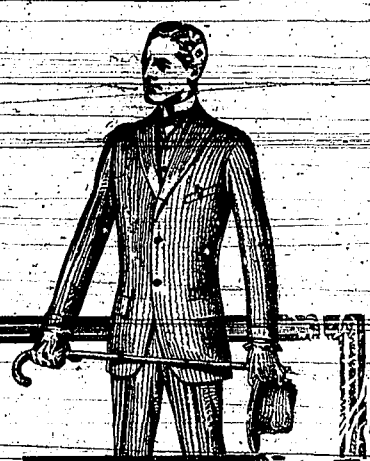

"Treasurer Allen's resignation should be accepted the governor would appoint for the interim."

"It is not possible to state how much time will be consumed in the audit for the reason that it may involve the inspection of accounts with various county officers for the purpose of comparison and verification."

Treasurer Allen will have served four years in the office if he shall go on until January 1 next. He was re-elected at the recent Republican primaries.

State Treasurer Allen yesterday authorized the following statement: "In an ordinary course of business, representatives of the National Surety company came to my office to make an inspection of the books. This is an ordinary course of business and it is possible the reflections cast upon my office through political reports concerning other matters may have caused ordinary course of business to be interrupted. They were on the ground and as these reports had been circulated, I decided to step down for the time being and also an absolutely free hand for investigation of any scope desired. I therefore, tendered my resignation to Governor Haines, and did it voluntarily."

"All I ask is that the people of Idaho suspend judgment until all the facts are made public."—Statesman.
