GOLD DISCOVERED AT HAGERMAN

Assay of Ore Runs Twelve Hundred Dollars to Ton

FILINGS ARE NOW BEING MADE ON FARM LANDS IN VALLEY

Prospectors Said to be Rushing to Scene From All Parts of the State. Farms Plastered With Locations.

Hagerman, Idaho. The excitement over the discovery of gold in Hagerman valley continues to increase. There has been a rush to the valley since the discovery of the gold. The discovery came about in an unusual manner. Ed. Aves had a claim about 12 miles from Hagerman. He went to Salt Lake and secured employment in the Murray smelter.

One day he was talking with his foreman about some rock he had discovered on his place. He thought to be sure, the foreman induced him to send for a sample which he did. Much to the surprise of both of them, this rock assayed $1200 to the ton in gold. The matter was taken up with the smelter assayer, who sent a prospector named Robinson, to Hagerman. He made an investigation and, after assaying himself that there had been no mistake, located a group of claims.

Robinson is quoted as saying that the showing here is equal to the initial disclosure at Cripple Creek. Among others who have inspected the section in "Dunc" Anderson of Woodbury, the three owners of the property, and even that degree of heat was sufficient to bring metal out of it. The original discovery is said to be a large piece of rock about the size of the locations made so far are below it.

Approximately four sections of land have been located in the valley between Hagerman and Thousand Springs. The upper ranch of John Curran has been plastered with mining claims.

RANCHER LOSES BARN

Perry Faldness of Artesian City, Has Disastrous Fire

A large barn together with several stacks of hay adjoining, nearly a carload of calves stored in the barn, and all of the harness was destroyed Sunday evening on the ranch of Perry Faldness, near Artesian City. The horses had not been put into the barn at the time, the burning was very heavy. The owner, a number of men in the house were taken out. In sorting and getting ready for shipment a carload of calves were being loaded when the fire broke out. The barn was insured for $700.

HONOR RETIRING JUDGE

Haley Attorneys Pay Signal Tribute to Judge Stockinger

Yesterday the following resolution of respect and esteem for the Hon. Judge Charles O. Stockinger of this judicial district, passed by members of the Blaine county bar, was filed with the clerk of the district court. The document is self-explanatory, bearing as follows:

To the Honorable Charles O. Stockinger, Judge of the District Court of the Fourth Judicial District of the state of Idaho:

Dear Sir:—The undersigned, members of the bar residing at Hagerman, realizing the importance of an impartial judiciary, the value of the opinion of one long experienced in matters pertaining to the duties of a judge of a court of general jurisdiction, the real worth of a judge before whom all men are equal and the value of your services to the profession and to the community, desire to express to you our sincere appreciation of the service you have rendered during the period covered by your occupation of the bench which began prior to the time any of us became attorneys of this court, and appreciate your services not only for the uniform consideration, courtesy and patience shown to each of us but also the spirit of fairness and justice which has prompted and guided your decisions, and your untiring efforts to simplify the practice in your court and to strip a case of all immaterial and irrelevant matter, and to focus the real merits of the controversy, and the promptness and ability which you have exercised in all matters and things coming before you.

It is with honest and extreme regret to you that you leave the judiciary but you go with all the best wishes and prayers for you in any place you may be.

We respectfully request that a copy hereof be spread at length upon the minutes of this court at Hagerman, Idaho, dated at Hagerman, Idaho, November 19th, 1914.

AN EIGHTY DOLLAR A MINUTE RECORD

Presbyterians Clean Up Church Debt in a Hurry

WILL START NEW YEAR WITH PERFECTLY CLEAN SLATE

Over Thirty-two Hundred Dollars Raised in Forty Minutes at Enthusiastic Meetings.

With enthusiasm undimmed by the prevailing scarcity of money, the members of the Presbyterian church, at a very rapid pace last Friday evening for church edging. As a result, the entire church building indebtedness has been wiped out and the approaching year will be met with a clean slate. At a meeting Friday evening in which the members were the guests of the church, trustees and other officers, the matter of church building was the chief topic of discussion. A plain statement of the present financial conditions, the trustees stated that in their judgment the proper course was to clear up all outstanding indebtedness against the church building and to defer for the present the attempt to build a new church. In response to the appeal from the church officers, the members entered heartily into the plan to clean up the debt and in forty minutes $3200 was pledged which will free the present office free from all encumbrances.

ATTENDS APPLE SHOW

Rev. S. S. Neher Still Believes in Twin Falls

Coeur d'Alene, Id., Nov. 20, 1914. Mr. W. S. Hill, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir:—It was my privilege yesterday to attend the great apple show now being held at Spokane. I ran away from my work here yesterday and spent the day seeing red apples. It reminded me of the big Land Show at Chicago, with the high quality of apples this year in the Northwest. It was well imagined that the apples on display are par excellence. One of the great sources of attraction was the price grading and rating machine. Accommodations were good with a strong patronage.

I came to Coeur d'Alene from Moscow the first of this week. Am engaged in revival meetings throughout the northern part of the state. Expected to be home for Christmas and return to the regular work afterwards. Many converts are being made throughout the meetings.

This is a pretty city alongside the river and just west of the city with the many vacant buildings. Last night I counted 13 vacant buildings or "store" rooms in a walk of three blocks.

Regards to all.
S. S. NEHER.

TWIN FALLS MAN ON COMMISSION

John W. Graham Will Replace D. W. Standrod

CITIZENS HERE PLEASED WITH HAINES' APPOINTMENT

Local Attorney Will Fill the Four Year Vacancy on Public Utilities Commission.

Through the announcement first published in the Boise paper, the citizens of Twin Falls and their first information of a signal honor conferred upon one of the local attorneys, John W. Graham, in his appointment to a place on the public utilities commission. Mr. Graham's appointment is to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of D. W. Standrod of Pocatello. The appointment is for four years and carries with it an annual salary of four thousand dollars.

Mr. Graham, who is at present a member of the state central committee and an active worker in the Republican ranks of this county, has been prominently identified with the very active fight put up in the past for the creation of a state utility commission. Before coming to Twin Falls he was for a number of years a resident of Fremont, Nebraska.

Mr. Graham, who is closing up his business in this city this week, will leave Saturday evening for Boise, where he will enter immediately upon his new duties.

ADVANTAGE ON RUSSIA'S SIDE

Germans Have been Checked in Advance on Warsaw

(Special to the Times.)
Salt Lake City, Nov. 23, 1914.

Washington dispatch says that the bombardment from German airplanes for many days has been checked at Warsaw today, several persons standing there were killed, but none of them were Americans.

Press official statement today says generally speaking, no important changes in war situation on western front.

Advantage in great battle between Yutsk and the Warta rivers in Poland appears, according to the latest dispatches, to be on the side of the Russians. Official reports from both German and Russian war office indicate that General Von Hindenburg has been checked in his second advance on Warsaw.

Grand Duke Nicholas, who for two days in succession has been recording military successes, received reinforcements, and against the reinforced army General Von Hindenburg is trying his troops.

British secretary for India reports that the Turkish fleet in the Persian gulf and admits victory for Germans over British force in British East Africa.

Germans have suffered two naval reverses. Submarine U-18 was rammed off north coast of Scotland by a British patrol ship and foundered. All men on board, with the exception of one, were rescued. German torpedo boat destroyer has been run down off coast of Sweden by Danish steamer. Crew saved. Petrograd reports say that Germans have bombed Lbaur and that a great many women and children were killed. Newspaper dispatch from Petrograd says that British embassy in Constantinople has been checked and hospital pillaged, and that all foreigners have been subjected to abuse.

Panders correspondent says Germans are preparing high power motor boats for use on Belgian canals.

PEG O' MY HEART

Company Hired for This City Playing to Crowded Houses

"Peg O' My Heart," Oliver Morosoff's marvellous success recently concluded a two year engagement at the Cort Theatre, New York City, will be the attraction at the Lavering theatre on Friday evening, November 27th, with Marlen Dentler in the title role. The companies presenting the play on tour are displaying the standing room only sign at every performance, and frequently theatregoers of a town will petition Mr. Morosoff for a return date in order that they may see it again—and that others, who failed to take advantage of the first opportunity, may have the pleasure of attending.

In this play Mr. Morosoff has written the first Irish-American drama which does ample justice to all people concerned. His chief character, Peg is an Irish-American girl—staunchly American patriotically, yet lovingly and sweetly Irish in her nature. Her English relatives are not caricatures, but are genuine Britons, such as are seldom found behind the footlights on this side of the Atlantic.

Peg's part is that of the daughter of a cast-off English mother, whose relatives, through the terms of a will, have inherited the home of her mother for the purpose of educating her and polishing her. She is hardly welcome there, yet the fact that she has inherited a portion of the estate makes it necessary for them to endure her presence. Peg, however, is not a non-entity by any means. She has her own ideas of things and she does not care a hang for conventionalists such as are found in English homes. Her one friend is Jerry, a happy-go-lucky fellow whom she meets in whom she confides all her troubles.

In the end Peg makes a change in that home in a way that is delightful.

"Peg" is a wonderful success, such as the American stage has not often seen in years and which may not be duplicated for many years to come. The Marion Dentler company gives charming presentation of this little comedy and you will not regret it. It is like a breath from a rose-scented garden.

SHOOTING SCRAPE AT BICKLE

Negro Section Men Get Mixed up in Serious Trouble Friday

Word was brought to the city Friday that a shooting had taken place at Bickle siding, near Murtaugh. Afternoon, it was learned that a man who had been shot there was a steel gang for the railroad, had gotten peaved at one of his companions, taking a shot at him with thirty-eight Colts. The bullet hit the man's leg, blowing a blow on the head, doing but little damage. Deputy Sheriff Herrington went to the scene and discovered that the man who did the shooting had been shot. Saturday morning the officer was on the train going to Burien, where he was shot. The man who did the shooting was shot in the head and was seemingly ready for business. He had his preliminary hearing before Judge Shank Saturday evening and was held in the county jail. The man who was shot went back to his work but little the worse for his use as a target.

HAVE NOT GIVEN UP THE RAILROAD

Gould System Still Has Eyes on Idaho

HILL, DANKERS WILL INSPECT ROUTE WITH PRES. BUSH

President Swift of Commercial Club, Throws Light on Present Railroad Activities.

The Gould System is still looking for feeders for its isolated railroad main line between Oden and Frisco, according to the good news brought back by President E. L. Swift of the local Commercial club, who returned the first of the week from Denver after attending the hearings on the closing of the Oden gateway by the Union Pacific. Mr. Swift was more than a little encouraged by the little information given him by the highest officials of the Missouri and Western Pacific lines, who attended the hearings.

Mr. Swift stated that from the Vice President Brown, of the Missouri Pacific, he obtained the information that the Gould system has not given up its intention of running feeders into Idaho and that in addition that the saying him will be a number of the officials. It was further intimated to Mr. Swift, that the approaching visit of President Bush with the western railroads, would be a landmark in the history of the Gould system.

After bearing upon the question of Idaho lines, throughout the hearing on the railroad officials, in conversation with Mr. Swift, Mr. L. E. Danks, persistent questions regarding tonnage, distances and topography, which showed a genuine passing interest in the subject of southern Idaho.

The following article which appeared in Monday's Salt Lake Herald-Examiner, but the "Gould" system of renewed activity and the entrance of the Hill forces into the fortunes of the Gould railroads.

THREE CHAINS OF STRONG FORTS PROTECT PARIS

Defenses of France's Capital
Have No Equal Anywhere
Else in the World.

THEY COST FIFTY MILLIONS

Total Area Encompassed by These Tremendous Fortifications, Referred to as Bunkers, is at Least 500 Square Miles.

Ever since the terrible days of November and December, 1870, when the German army camped at the very doors of Paris, the French have been building forts to withstand the German army.

All of France is heavily fortified, but about the city of Paris in particular has all the ingenuity of French engineers been applied to annihilate any army that might again reach to the capital.

Should invading Germans break through the network of frontier forts, should they elect to skirt the heavily-fortified cities and hills and strike at Paris, then these invaders would meet a line of fortifications the like of which the world has never seen.

Surrounded by Network.
The network of forts about Paris contains 46 many minor forts that none but those who have been of- fice know their actual number and strength.

The tourist who visits the country frequently comes upon a little clump of trees about which the ground is uncultivated, the grass uncut and the weeds rank. If he moves close to the clump of trees he gets a glimpse of a block of masonry that reminds him of some neglected ruin.

If he tries to go up to what sort of ruin it is and looks up the clump of trees he does not see a neglected ruin laid low, but a bit of clean-cut masonry sunk into the earth some thirty or forty feet, in the center of which is a prison like building with huge eyeholes out here and there.

If the visitor has any imagination, while he sees no guns and no soldiers, he can fancy that behind those huge eyeholes big guns lurk.

Walked by Forts.
If he attempts to go up to verify his fancy, by following the footpath that leads through the bushes and grass up to the square wall of masonry and earth thrown up loosely, carelessly, he will find himself suddenly facing a French soldier, who cries: "Halt!"

The visitor is very sure that he has stumbled upon a fort, the guns of which in peace time are merely guarded by a squad of artillerymen, but which in war would be guarded by a half regiment ready to hurl missiles through the air hideous, death-dealing projectiles with the precision of a sharpshooter.

These artillerymen know that every bit of ground for miles around just how their guns must be pointed to reach a certain spot and annihilate an enemy.

While Paris has had her walls, drawbridges and flanking towers and trenches for a thousand years, it was in the year 1840 that the growing city was first protected against artillery fire. The celebrated fortifications of Paris within five years were completed at an expense of $25,000,000.

May Still Be Seen.

These fortifications which are still to be seen today, are 21 miles in length and have no less than ninety-four bastions. The ramparts are 32 feet in height, with a parapet 19 feet in width. The moat, in which grew grass in peace times, is 48 feet wide.

BQI the range of modern artillery has practically made these fortifications useless, except to repel an assault of old-fashioned hand-to-hand fighting, when, perhaps, a half-million men would try on all sides to force an entry into the city. It was these old fortifications which held back the Germans in 1870.

To keep back the invaders, however, to a distance of at least thirty miles on all sides, the French have built a series of the chain of outside forts, which have been built at an expense of at least $50,000,000.

Small Army Needed.

There are three great chains of forts about the Paris of the fortifications, the second on the higher plains two miles distant from the city, and the third at a distance of twelve to fifteen miles, according to the lay of the ground and the hills that are points of strategic defense and offense.

Were any army to dare to come within reach of the outside chain of forts, it is not too much to say that the invaders could be held off and perhaps utterly destroyed by a few hundred guns. And other French troops would be employed merely as a safeguard to hold back any stray body of troops that might steal up to one of the forts.

While the actual number of these forts—and even their position—is known to only a few hands, it is estimated that there are no less than a total of two hundred. They are planned to work together like the crew of a boat. Each big one has a particular bit of territory to guard, and about this big one his little arranged a system of cross-fire through which it would be next to impossible to break. Every contingency has been provided for. Should one fort be silenced by guns of the enemy, there is another French fort that in turn play on its own fallen fort and prevent the enemy from occupying it.

Like Trap for the Mouse.

For an army to venture to Paris is like a mouse walking into a trap. In the second great chain of forts there are no less than thirty, each of which is considered impregnable, to charge by troops or from bombarding cannon. The defender can stay under cover practically and yet continue his fire.

Between the line of forts and the outer line are said to lie all kinds of dynamite pitfalls which can be fired by electrical wires, as the mines in a harbor, should an enemy break through the outer chain of forts.

There are some fifty outer fortresses numbered in the outer chain lying at a distance of twelve to fifteen miles from the heart of the city.

The total area encompassed within these great fortifications is no less than five hundred square miles. It is estimated that if an invading army were held at the outer line of forts, vegetables, produce—could, in summer, be grown on the land of this outer chain to feed the vast population of Paris and the French troops defending the city.

FOUGHT TILL THEY DROPPED

Medical Observer Says That Many
Belgian Soldiers Collapsed
From Sheer Exhaustion.

London.—Medical observations in the war now being fought will be perhaps more complete than in any previous conflict. A French medical correspondent stationed at Brussels has sent a report part of which follows:

"I have had an opportunity during the last few days of visiting several of the great Brussels hospitals and ambulances and seeing some of the wounded who have been sent down from the front.

"Two facts have struck me very forcibly. First, a very large number of the Belgian soldiers are wounded only in the legs and, secondly, many soldiers seem to have collapsed through sheer exhaustion.

"Some of these Belgian soldiers were at work and on the march during the strenuous days of Wednesday and Thursday of last week, practically without a moment's respite. They went literally till they dropped. Only with actual loss of consciousness was duty relinquished. The victims presented a very alarming appearance when first they were brought to the most dead. They are limp and pale and cold. After a time, however, strength began to return and recovery is usually not protracted. In every case the man who had been knocked out in this manner expressed the keenest desire to return at once to the ranks. The fact that so many of the Belgian wounded had been shot in the legs aroused considerable surprise on the part of the medical circles. It soon became clear that this was merely a matter of chance. When the German prisoners began to come in and were interrogated, the explanation was forthcoming. It transpired that orders had been given to fire every bit of ground for miles around just how their guns must be pointed to reach a certain spot and annihilate an enemy.

While Paris has had her walls, drawbridges and flanking towers and trenches for a thousand years, it was in the year 1840 that the growing city was first protected against artillery fire. The celebrated fortifications of Paris within five years were completed at an expense of $25,000,000.

LONDON HAS FOOD IN PLENTY

Supplies for One Hundred Days on Hand, WITH MUCH MORE on the Way.

(International News Service.)

London.—There is today in London only food enough to provision the city for 100 days. Inquiry showed that the English cities to be in about the same situation. About the only commodities of which there were a noticeable shortage were bacon and eggs, the staples of the British breakfast table.

But there is little alarm over the situation, as it is known that freight vessels are on their way from Australia and Canada with foodstuffs, which, barring accidents of war, will arrive in time to meet the demand. The freight traffic between the United Kingdom and the United States will be largely restored before the 100 days elapse.

Coming to actual figures, J. G. Broadhead, chairman of the stocks and warehouse committee of the port of London, said that the present stock in the port warehouses and in ships discharging cargoes included 36,000 tons of meat, the supply being so plentiful that it was necessary to use a new warehouse for a part of it. The houses were having a very busy time, said the chairman.

One Exploit of Belgians.
Masterpieces of the fighting about Liege being told here by wounded men who were in the garrison of the besieged city. One said that a half-dozen Belgian carabinieri came upon 700 German who were escaping through a tunnel. As they emerged the Belgians shot them down one by one. When four had been killed the remaining Germans surrendered, believing they had a large force.

NATION'S LABOR PROBLEM

OVER A MILLION AND A HALF
WOMEN WORK AS FARM HANDS
IN THE UNITED STATES

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

Our government never faced so tremendous a problem as that now lying dormant at the doors of congress and the legislature, and which, when aroused, will shake this nation from cradle to circumference, and make civilization hide its face in shame. This problem is women in the field.

The last federal census reports show we now have 1,614,000 women working in the field, most of them south of the Mason and Dixon line. There were approximately a million negro slaves working in the fields when liberated by the emancipation proclamation. We have freed our slaves and our women have taken their places in bondage. We have broken the shackles of the negroes and we have put them upon our shoulders.

The Chain-Gang of Civilization.
A million women in bondage in the southern fields form the chain-gang of civilization—the industrial tragedy of the age. There is no greener quilt to cover so vast a social wrong. It is a whip that stings like the lash of suborned destiny, and we auctioneer's block quite so revolting as that of organized anarchy.

The president of the United States was recently asked by the press, and very properly so, for suggesting mediation between the engineers and railroad managers in adjusting their schedule of time and pay. The engineers threaten to strike if their wages were not increased from approximately ten to eleven dollars per day and service reduced from ten to eight hours and a similar readjustment of the overtime schedule. Our women are working in the field, many of them barefooted for less than ten cents per day, and their schedule is the rising sun and the evening star, and after the day's work is over they milk the cows, split the hogs and rock the baby to sleep at the threshold, over their problems and to whom shall they threaten a strike?

Congress has listened approvingly to those who toll at the forge and behind the counter, and many of our statesmen have been the flame of unrest among industrial laborers. But women are as surely the final victims of industrial warfare as they are the burden-bearers in the war between nations, and those who arbitrate and mediate the differences between capital and labor should not forget that when the expenses of any industry are unnecessarily increased, poverty follows.

The bill by drafting a new consignment of women from the home to the pinch no crumb from Women's Crust of Bread.

No financial war can be made without someone footing the bill, and we can't let those who reap the responsibility of the distribution of industrial justice, the still small voice of the woman in the field as she pleads for mercy, and we beg that they pinch no crumb from her crust of bread or put another patch upon her ragged garments.

We beg that they listen to the scream of horror from the eagle on an American dollar that is wrung from the brow of toiling women and hear the Godless of Justice his at verdict that increases the want of woman to satisfy the greed of man.

The women behind the counters and in the factory cry aloud for sympathy and the press that hounds out the defense and the pulpit plauds for mercy, but how about the woman in the field? Will not these powerful exponents of human rights turn their talent, energies and influence to her relief? Will the Godless of Liberty enthroned at Washington hold the calvaried hand and soothe the feverish brow of her sex who sows and reaps the nation's harvest and will she permit the male of the species to shove women—weak and weary—from the bread-line of industry to the back alleys of poverty?

Women and Children First.

The census enumerators tell us that over 1,514,000 women who work in the fields as farm hands 109,000 are sixteen years of age and under. What is the final destiny of a nation whose future mothers spend their girlhood days behind the plow, pitching hay and hauling manure, and what is to become of womanly culture and refinement that grace the home, charm society and enthuse man to leap to glory in noble achievements if our daughters are raised in the society of the ox and the companionship of the pig?

In that strata between the area of sixteen and forty-five are 800,000 women working as farm hands and many of them with suckling babes "tugging" at your breasts, as drenched in perspiration they "wield the scythes" and guide the plow. What is to become of that nation where poverty breaks the crowns of the queens of the home, despair burles a mother's love and lit thorns and hunger drives innocent children from the schoolroom to the hoe?

The census bureau shows that 155,900 of these women are forty-five years of age and over. There is no more pallid sight in civilization than these mainly mothers and old women, with age, dragging in the field from sun until sun and at night drenching their dingy pillows with the tears of despair as their aching hearts take it all to God in prayer. Civilization strikes them a blow when it should give them a crown, and their only friend is he who broke bread with beggars and said: "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Oh America! The land of the free and the home of the brave, the world's custodian of civility, the champion of human rights and the defender of the oppressed—shall we permit our millions to be torn from the heart-strings by the ruthless hand of destiny and chained to the plow? Shall we permit our faithful wives, whom we vowed to God to cherish, love and protect, to be hurled from the home to the narrow field and send mothers dear to be driven from the old arm chair to the cotton patch?

In rescuing our citizens from the forces of civilization, can we never apply to our fair Dixieland the rule of the good "women and children first?" There must be a readjustment of the wage scale of industry so that the woman can be taken from the field or given a reasonable wage for her services. Perhaps the issue has never been fairly ruled, but the Farmers' Union, with a membership of ten million, puts its organized forces squarely behind the issue and we now enter upon the docket of civilization the case of "The Women in the Field" and demand an immediate trial.

The head of every family owes it to herself or himself to read every word of this vitally important message

FACTS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW

This Is True

When you are sick—the best medicine is none too good. Protect your system—be sure the medicine you take will help and not harm you. Great harm has come through the indiscriminate use of drugs and medicines of unknown value and unknown contents. In taking medicines—have a care—use judgment.

Our Position

We serve to satisfy; knowing we can only hold your trade as long as we sell you drug merchandise that produces satisfactory results. As professional pharmacists—we are always pleased to give you the full benefit of our pharmaceutical training. Do not be afraid to ask questions. You can always rely on our judgment. We want your business because we deserve it. Anything that you might expect to find in an "up-to-the-minute drug store"—you'll find it here. In our store, "customer is king."

Our Confidence

We have the exclusive sale of those world renowned Nyal Family Remedies. These are the remedies that "unlike good" all the time. We sincerely recommend these Nyal Remedies—we know just how good they are. When we sell you one of the hundred or more Nyal Remedies you may know you are getting the best the drug world produces. When better remedies are made they will carry the Nyal label.

The Reason Why

When buying a family remedy, your natural preference should be for Nyal's. These remedies, though vastly superior to all others cost no more than the rest. Then, too, we know just how these remedies are made, of what they are made and who makes them. There is nothing secret about the reliable Nyal Family Remedies—we are pleased to tell you all about them. Back of each of these Nyal Remedies there is a half century of flawless success. We know what benefits Nyal Remedies have brought to thousands; we know how well they will satisfy you—that's why we sincerely recommend them to you.

Our Guarantee

We have such confidence and faith in these Nyal Remedies that we guarantee each Nyal preparation we sell to give desired results or refund your money. You can't ask for a fairer guarantee. We can afford to make this guarantee on Nyal's Remedies—they never fail to satisfy. If you would be safe, sure and satisfied, use Nyal's Family Remedies—the kind we guarantee to give desired results. We can only hold your trade as long as we continue to sell you remedies which produce results.

ATTENTION

If your system is run down and you want to tone up the entire system—use Nyal's Tonic. Equally good for man, woman and child, Nyal's Tonic is far superior to all other reconstructive remedies. There is a big volume of health in one of these large dollar bottles. Brace up. Enjoy perfect health. Try Nyal's Tonic. It's mighty good.

FOR THE OLD

Get a bottle of Nyal's Cherry Cough Syrup—it cures a cold quickly. It's easy to take and contains no harmful drugs. Along with this exceptional cough syrup, use Laxawold Tablets. They keep the bowels open.

A PERFECT COMPLEXION

Nyal's Skin Soap is emollient and antiseptic. It keeps the skin clear and free from blotches. This is soap that produces the big labor. Be good to your skin. Try Nyal's Skin Soap. It only costs a quarter.

TO WOMEN

Wherever there are women or growing daughters in the home, there also belongs a bottle of Nyal's Vegetable Prescription. There is a wealth of comfort and relief in a bottle of Nyal's Vegetable Prescription.

GOT BOWEL TROUBLE?

For constipation there's nothing so good as Epsom. It's positive in action and quickly corrects constipation. Epsom is sold in three sizes—10c, 25c and 50c.

The Home of Nyal's

The Nyal Family Remedies are made in one of the world's largest and best equipped laboratories. Not only that, but these self-producing remedies are manufactured by trained chemists and pharmacists. Nyal Remedies are made from the best procurable drugs and chemicals—they are quality remedies. You take no chances when you use any one of the Nyal Family Remedies. You know they are good—a half century of phenomenal success has made them so. Pin your faith to the Nyal Family Remedies—you can't go wrong. There are no "care-alls" among these remedies. Each preparation is carefully and scientifically prepared for the treatment of an individual ailment. Money can't make better remedies than Nyal's.

Remember

When we sell you a Nyal Remedy we sell you the best we've got. Next time you are in need of a good household remedy ask us to show you the Nyal preparations. Ask us to tell you the Nyal story. Nyal's cost no more than the rest—they are much to be preferred. We are agents for these, the world's best family remedies. Satisfaction or money refunded—that's our Nyal guarantee. When you buy Nyal's, you buy big medicinal value. If more people knew the real merit of the Nyal Family Remedies, there would be less sickness in this vicinity. To be safe, sure and satisfied—use Nyal's Family Remedies.

About a Sign

Note the disk sign. You'll find it in the windows of all Nyal Stores. Wherever you see this sign displayed, you will find one of the best drug stores in America. This is the sign which directs the way to better drug merchandise at better prices. Make the Nyal Store your drug store and you'll always be sure of absolute satisfaction. The reliable Nyal Family Remedies are only sold by drugists who show this sign. Let this sign be your guide and you'll never go wrong in your drug purchases. For years the Nyal Family Remedies have led in quality and satisfaction.

An Example

Buy a jar of Nyal's Face Cream. It's what particular people use for chapped skin, cracked lips, tan, freckles and sunburn. There is nothing quite so good as this. Being greaseless, it is readily absorbed by the skin, leaving it soft and smooth as velvet. Containing no acids, it is thoroughly antiseptic. Then, too, that flowery fragrance of this beautiful face cream makes it truly delightful. When use it after the shave, it relieves skin irritation. We sell this cream in two sizes of ornamental jars, 25 and 50 cents. Take a jar home to-day. You'll find it superior to any thing you have ever used before. For your complexion's sake—USE NYAL'S FACE CREAM.

The Times would suggest to the Boise Statesman the hanging of the following motto upon the walls of the editorial sanctum:
"A railroad a day—Will drive the Blues Away."

The appointment of a Twin Falls man on the public utilities commission is highly pleasing to his many friends here, who believe that he will make good in one of the most difficult positions in the state. He has been a close student of the work of similar organizations and has some very firmly expressed ideas on the subject of corporation control, and will no doubt become an influential member of the commission. When the first commission was created, Mr. Graham was an aspirant for a position and had the backing of all the business men of this section, who had faith in his strong character and unimpeachable integrity. The Times believes that the appointment of Mr. Graham will immeasurably strengthen the commission in the minds of the people who know his ideas on the real work of the commission. To the people of this section in particular, the appointment of a man thoroughly familiar by actual residence with the situation is pleasing in the belief that at least the true situation will be made plain and relieved, if possible, to a condition that has brought all electrical development to a standstill in this section.

It seems that corporations have their troubles, too, from the fact that the street of the next month, the utilities commission will hear the arguments of the power companies and the telephone companies on the requirements which the commission will make for the construction work in the state in the matter of line crossings and parallels. Under the present conditions it is proving a mighty hard thing for the power companies to comply with the specifications while the construction work of the telephone companies is made comparatively easy. Owing to the fact that the field telephone and telegraph companies were the first in the field, it has been a case nearly every time of getting advantageous positions on the highways. If the contention of the latter companies is made the common procedure, there will contain many places where the power companies will be forced to make the highways and make to purchase private rights of way with an almost prohibitive cost to themselves and to the customers. The matter of power line crossings is nearly in the same category because of the elevation of power lines above telephone lines to a point where it makes construction doubly expensive. It would seem to the Times that the state should at all times aid in all development work and when the utilities commission should regard such proper safety for the citizens that technical rulings should be made only after the closest investigation into the needs of the community and the conditions which confront all utility companies, rather than adhere to a hard and fast rule which embarrases without accomplishing any good.

A ONE BODY LEGISLATURE—When the Republican state plank form was being considered at the convention in June the editor of the Signal, who was a member of the committee on resolutions, fought strenuously for the adoption of a plank pledging the abolition of our present legislative system, and the substitution of a one-body legislature with one member from each county in the state. After a debate of a couple of hours the resolution was only defeated by the narrow margin of 19 to 14 although at the beginning it had few supporters.

The progress made in so short a time in the convention leads the Signal to believe there is a possibility—if not an absolute certainty—that a constitutional amendment may be submitted by the coming legislature providing for the much needed change. At least the effort should be made and no stone left unturned to bring about a change which will mean so much to the people.

to both the matter of efficiency and expense. The voters will jump at the chance to adopt such an amendment and then the representatives from the several counties can meet as the boards of directors of the large corporations meet, and consider dispassionately, and without the usual pretexts, legislation for the government of the people.

Not only should a savings of almost two-thirds in the mileage and per diem of legislative members be made, but a horde of useless clerks and attendants could be dispensed with. The sessions would not cost the people to exceed one-third of what they do now, and the efficiency would be doubled. There would be less talk and more real work, less politics and more business and less trading and huckstering and more consideration of the welfare of the state as a whole. The argument may be made that this change is revolutionary and experimental, but it does not hold good. Considering that both claims are true, there is no reason for being afraid of a revolutionary measure which means better service and there is no justification for rejecting an experiment which will reduce the cost of government to the people and relieve them of some of the present burden under which they are groaning. Simplification should be the watchword and economy the slogan of every reform of the legislature. The way to reform is to reform and to embody legislation in a long step in the direction of eradicating some of the existing evils.

EUROPE'S CONCERN OVER OUR ATTITUDE

The importance of American sympathy appears to be recognized by all the warring nations. Judge from the strenuous efforts being made by some of the Powers to exert a direct influence upon public opinion in this country. For example, the London Daily Chronicle has sent a well-known English writer to this side to survey the field of American public thought and to find out how best to force a protective American friendship. So, too, the German government, influenced by the reports of the anti-German stand taken by the American press at least in the east, has sent a statesman of the first rank upon a mission to present the truth to the American people as it appears to German eyes. The recent appeal of Congressman Gardner, of Massachusetts, for a "state of preparedness for eventualities in the United States" has excited much comment across the water and Gabriel Hanotux, once "the French Minister of Foreign Affairs," says in an editorial in the Paris Figaro:

"This speech indicates a certain evolution in America in the past two months. Furthermore, private letters from the United States show clearly that not so per cent of American citizens have the opinion that Germany does not conceal her desire to rule England and dismember France. The result of her victory would be the destruction of the English fleet and the possession of one or more French and English ports on the Atlantic. That America would find herself a maritime neighbor of a colossal empire whose object before everything is economic triumph. How could the United States maintain first her economic and then her political independence? The found herself facing alone the greatest military and naval power known to the history of the world. * * * President Wilson is not unmoved by these considerations. Despite his firm determination to preserve the neutrality of his country he understands the gravity of the situation. * * * Perhaps still other preoccupations are already agitating his soul which has been moved by the sentiment of the menace to his country's interests and of which Mr. Gardner's resolution is a symptom. Mr. Gardner told Congress that he believed that God would defend Germany. That is all very well, but might he not add, by way of comment, the old proverb: 'God helps those who help themselves'?"

The French statesman considers that we are awake to the dangers of German ambition and have abandoned our traditional isolation and indifference to "well politics."

More cordial in tone are the views of the London Morning Post, which in a long article expresses regret for "the injury that was done to the relations between Great Britain and the United States during the American Civil War by the tone of the English press," and then goes on to say:

"We are certain that Mr. Wilson will do nothing that is not prompted by the highest sense of duty and that will not be for the benefit of the world, should the occasion arise when his friendly office can be employed. That is all we ask. We have been glad to have the sympathy of the people of the United States because we believed they were in a position to form an unbiased judgment and reach an impartial conclusion. Had this sympathy been withheld we should have been disappointed, not because a

WHAT IS A STOCK COMPANY?

A great many people, especially the smaller cities, who have dramatic stock has not been established do not understand to what branch of the theatrical profession stock companies belong. Many small companies are organized with inferior actors, start out on the road with a small capital, or none at all, to make two, three or six night stands, calling themselves "Brown's Stock Company." This company is nothing more than a very cheap "repertoire" aggregation with a few old time plays, but nevertheless, they term themselves a stock company, thereby leading the public to believe something that is entirely untrue. A stock company is one that is permanently located in a good theatre, producing good standard plays in the same plan that they were originally produced by "stock actors," especially engaged for one particular tour of parts. To be a stock actor, one must have a broad training, education, to be a repertoire actor, such as tour the smaller towns, requires "gall" and an unsuspecting amusement park manager is likely to be deceived for a while while that they are paying to see a stock company. The greatest actors—the stage favorites—have been stock favorites in the past. Those splendid opportunities offered in stock engagements fitted them for stellar honors; the stock actors of the world looked over the horizon for a stock engagement in the best known stock addresses in the west and who has surrounded herself by an excellent company of eastern stock actors. Miss Prince will be at the Lavington theatre for an indefinite engagement.

STOCK HAS HYDROPHOBIA

Animals Around Meridian Blown by Mad Coyotes.

There have been dogs and coyotes affected with hydrophobia in several sections of southwestern Idaho this fall, which were killed before the dread malady made its appearance here.

Mad Cows Appeared. After noon of Meridian, a cow and two dogs were after due inspection by the state veterinarian, declared afflicted with real hydrophobia. The cow had moved to the north of the mouth and was bent on driving her horns into other stock or anything she met. She had all the symptoms of mad cow and appeared in a frenzy of anger. She was killed by order of the state official.

The victim thrashed at the mouth and tried to bite and snarl at everything in reach. After studying their symptoms both were killed. It was not known how they became infected though mad dogs were reported in the neighborhood some time ago and were killed. Dr. Hostetler, of Nampa, was in attendance at the ranch and saw the diseased animals, a sight far from common. Nampa Record.

HOLLISTER MAN COMING

O. T. Duval Going Into Real Estate Business in Twin Falls.

Hollister is losing two of its pioneer residents in the removal of the Duval family to Twin Falls, where Mr. Duval will engage in the real estate business with J. S. Keel, a well known realty man of that city. Mr. Duval has been engaged in the real estate business in Hollister since the beginning of the town, being a member of the firm, the Hollister Realty company, in which Mr. Duval and C. R. Delvidier were partners. Mr. Duval has served the community in the capacity of justice of the Peace and on the board of directors of the town. He was formerly secretary and is at the present time chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Duval's friends on the tract are glad that they have moved to farther away from Twin Falls. The Duval home in Hollister is one of the first modern homes to be built in the city. Hollister Herald.

Mrs. E. J. Hornbrook left Tuesday morning for North Dakota, where she was called by the illness of her father.

F. F. Bracken, president of the Idaho State Bank, was called to American Falls Monday to look after business affairs.

D. C. Brown, of the Idaho Light and Power company, spent Monday afternoon in Piler looking after business for the company.

F. W. Chapman, who is engaged in the live business in Wendell, was in the city today from Twin Falls Monday. He was accompanied by his wife.

R. H. Denton, manager of the Kimberly-Wilting company, transacted business in the city Monday. He was accompanied by his little son.

John W. Graham returned Monday from Boise, where he has been for the past week on business. While in the Capital City he was introduced into the mysteries of the Magic Shrine.

D. O. Boyd, who has been one of the Oregon Short Line depot for the past eighteen months, leaves Tuesday for Hollister, where he will take the position of agent. He will move his family to the Salmon tract city in about ten days.

A quiet wedding took place Sunday afternoon, November 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Near, of Kimberly, when their daughter, Miss Alice P. Eaton, of Eden, and Miss Sadie Smith of Greenwood, Mo., were united in marriage. Rev. B. F. Shoemaker, of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

APPEAL IN DIVORCE CASE

Fred L. Keller Appeals for Change in Court Decision.

Alleging violation of the affection of the three children and not satisfied with the decree of the lower court, Fred L. Keller carried an appeal to the supreme court yesterday in the suit filed for divorce instituted against him by his former wife, Eva L. Keller. The appeal is from the Fourth judicial court of Twin Falls county. Keller asks the supreme court to annul and modify the judgment.

The facts as set forth in the appeal show that Eva Keller brought suit for divorce against her former husband and a decree was granted. She was given, in addition, alimony of $30 a month and the custody of their three children, Luella, aged 16; Fred, aged 15; and Helen, aged 10. Keller says in the appeal that prior to the decree being entered, they had reached an agreement with reference to the community property consisting of a house and lot valued at $3000, located in Twin Falls, two and one-half acres of land located near Kimberly, Idaho, and $850.00 other property. This it appears from the transcript, to be in effect if the decree was granted.

Eva Keller married Paul Bauman shortly after the decree was granted and they moved with the three children away from Twin Falls. Keller says he has repeatedly tried to see his children but his former wife has not let him. He avers that their affection has been alienated. He asks that the court modify the judgment in his behalf. Capital News.

People Are Owning the Best Watches They Can Afford

Time was when people were satisfied with indifferent time pieces.

Today men and women, and young men whose time has a value put all the money they can afford into a watch.

But, as the amount that people can afford varies so, greater this store is prepared to please people at from $4.00 to $99.00.

All the best known and highest grade watches are shown by us in larger variety than you generally see.

And, while it is always preferable to pay enough to buy years and years of perfect satisfaction, still that doesn't mean that you have to do high in figures.

GROWTHS OF STATE SCHOOLS

State Board of Education Press Bulletin No. 6.

For the first time in many years, the state education institutions, which have been under the management of the state board of education for a little over a year, will all come before the legislature without a deficit. Furthermore, at least three of the six will have balances on hand aggregating not less than $15,000. These are the figures which were presented to the members of the board at their special meeting in Boise last week. It was pointed out that the figures were accumulated from the most creditable sources and would be found in the purchase of fuel and supplies. This is the showing that the board will make at the next legislature.

The absence of deficits will probably be more appreciated by the returning legislators than by the newly elected ones. In former years deficits have been the rule rather than the exception, and the actual surplus is a sign of the ordinary.

Turning back to the figures which have been presented, it is not surprising that the board has been questioned by some. But the board stands firmly to the principle that expenditures are wisely made only when the surplus is truly and necessarily.

The state board having determined from the beginning to have all institutions live within the appropriations made by the legislature, followed out a line of rigid supervision of finances, looking away at the same time every effort not to cripple or hinder the work of the institutions.

University President Teaches.
President Brannon, of the University of Idaho, unlike most college presidents, teaches classes himself, in plant physiology and plant pathology, chief, for Agricultural students. There are few men in the country who are his equal in these and similar subjects. As a matter of fact, the class in plant pathology, or diseases of plants, had been waiting more than a year for this advanced and technical instruction. These subjects are exceedingly practical in a broad agricultural state, but the board determined to rotate Dr. Brannon from part of this extra burden by employing a plant pathologist as soon as funds were available.

Deaf and Blind School Grows.
The large attendance at the Gooding Deaf and Blind School has made necessary the employment of an additional teacher. Not only is the school overcrowded, but a considerable number of deaf and blind children in various parts of the state are still unprovided for. The board continues to stand for Economy. The preliminary canvassing of requests from the six institutions for biennial appropriations showed that their work and their financial needs were growing. The deterioration of buildings and equipment made an important item of expense. The board stated as their belief that the people of the state desire that all things be given reasonable support in their educational institutions, and yet they have from the outset held clearly in mind the special laws for economy and adaptation to the state at this time of general financial stringency.

In December the board will meet to give finally up the request for appropriations for all state institutions under its control. The requests will then be presented by the board to the legislature at the next session.

The large volume of routine business of schools required day and evening sessions for four days.

GRANDEUR OF IDAHO'S SCENERY

Perilous Boat Ride Through Gloomy Canyon in Wild Country in U.S.

Telling tales of adventure experienced in taking the wildest boat ride in America and of miraculous escapes from being dashed to death on the treacherous rocks as their barges twisted and turned and shot through rapids and narrow and turbulent currents of the lower Salmon river, a number of Idaho miners have arrived in Butte for the winter. Montana friends, while enroute to their homes, the party is the first that ever risked the dangerous trip on what is said to be the "craziest" and "most dangerous" of central Idaho. Not more than a fortnight ago have made the death-defying journey.

Those who composed this adventurous party are Dr. W. H. Hart, Carl Clark, W. K. Harmon, Ray Irving, Martin Smith and George Bell. Most of the men reside at Salmon City and are engaged in business there. They are enthusiastic sportsmen and each year make extended trips into the hills in search of big game. Clark, who is manager of a hardware firm in Salmon, spent several years in Alaska in the late '90s, exploring that country with a party of United States geologists and miners. Dr. Clark has traveled extensively and has hunted in all the big game countries of the west and Canada, while the others have also had considerable experience in the mountains. Captain Harry Guleke, known in Idaho as the "conqueror of the Salmon river," and the only man who has ever successfully hunted his kill and returned against the sinister power of the rapids, was in charge of the boat, with George Smith, another experienced riverman, at the rear.

The boat in which the trip was made was built in Salmon. It is a flat-bottomed barge and had the appearance of being a rather clumsy affair, but it is the only kind that can be made to ride through the waters and skin the bars and rocks that lie close to the surface. It was 28 feet long, 8 feet wide and 5 feet high, and was equipped with two poles or sweeps 20 feet long and six inches in diameter. At the end of each pole a plank 10 feet long was attached. One pole was bent down a pin at the front end of the boat, and the other at the rear.

With camping outfit and supplies the party drifted from Salmon City on October 1st. The Salmon river flows through the largest canyon in the United States and for about 200 miles along its course the country is practically uninhabited. Between the steeply sloping hillsides are numerous "whirlpools" and "rapids," and where danger first lurks, the "Whirlpool" rapids, the last of the treacherous descents before the Salmon flows into the Snake, there are more than 100 rapids, in any one of which, had the men at the stern made a false move, the boat would have been crushed to splinters. All these rapids with one exception, were successfully passed.

It was in the Black Canyon rapids that death momentarily stared the voyagers in the face. They were drifting along the still water of the eddy into the channel. All on board were happy and singing lustily. An "old" snapper panning sand near the river bank heard the boisterous song and putting his hands to his mouth called out:

"Wait till you hit them riffles and you won't feel no durn funny." His prediction came true.

The current suddenly changed and the rumbling waters soon became a deafening roar. The water boiled and raged as it surged inside the narrow walls and great rocks, its course making a sharp double turn in the shape of a large letter S, where barren granite walls extend nearly straight up for a distance of 2000 feet. The boat abruptly shot out into space, then plunged downward into the torrent, as it made a sheer drop of eight feet. A blinding sheet of water broke over the boat, drenching all hands. A swollen current from fall rains had here changed the course of the stream. The barge dashed about the whirlpool as though it had been a feather, struck a rock crashing a hole in the side. Pulling their coats from their backs two of the men held them over the opening while others grabbed pails and began to bail out the craft. It was a perilous moment, and every one of the passengers admit that his heart stood still. It was no disgrace, they say, to lose one's color on an occasion like that. The engine alone was cool and collected and with quick tremendous action he threw his huge bulk against the sweep; the boat responded and before it had time to sink he guided it safely through the rest of the channel to a landing place below the rapids. The entire trip on the water covered a distance of 325 miles, from Salmon City to Lewiston, Idaho.

The hunters found big game plentiful, getting deer, bear and an abundance of chickens, grouse and fish. Dr. Hart caught a big large trout, one weighing 16 pounds and measuring 34 inches in length.

The Salmon river is probably the only navigable stream in the world that requires a new boat for every trip. Boats are built in Salmon to take supplies and machinery to mining camps and summer ranches down the river for a distance of 60 miles. They are then torn apart and the lumber used to build mills, residences and for other purposes. There are no more boats in the course of the entire river where even a power boat would navigate up stream. It is impossible for any kind of craft to return upstream after it has once descended into the lower canyon waters.—Butte Daily Post.

CHAPTER XXI

A Tackles of Papers.
Jim said nothing at first about his adventure to Jones, whom he met half an hour later.
"Was it necessary to keep that invisible letter?" he asked.
"No," said Jones.
"Would it have given our affairs a serious turn if it had fallen into alien hands?"
"Absolutely," answered Jones.
"Wouldn't it have given the Black Hundred a long time under cover, if our friend Braine learned that Braine was now taking an active interest in the doings of the Black Hundred. And certainly all our work would have to be done over again."
"All!"
"You look a bit mused up. Anything happened?" asked the keen-eyed butler.
"Nothing much. I made a cigarette out of the letter and smoked it."
"Jones chuckled. 'I see that you have had an adventure of some sort; but it can wait.'
"Can."
"Because I want you to pack off to Washington."
"Yes. I want you to interview those officials who are most familiar with our activities here."
"A new kink?"
"What I wish to learn is this: Can a man formerly undesirable, take out naturalization papers and hold to the protection of the United States government? That is to say, a polestar, named by Sibire, becomes an American citizen. He is abducted and carried back to Russia. Could he look to this government for protection? That is what I want you to find out."
"That will be easy. When shall I start?"
"As soon as you can pack your grip."
"That's always packed," replied the reporter. "You see, I'm eternally shivering and you at a woman's notice. I always have an extra grip packed for quick travel."
"The Russian agent wants Braine, and the counts; and tonight I'm going to put them out to him. It would suit me more than anything I know to eliminate this precious traitor. Russian fashion. It's thorough; and once accomplished, good day to the Black Hundred in America. The organization in Russia has still some people to look after. But as this side of the water it is merely an aggregation of moribund thugs."

"I'll take the first train out. But you will tell Florence."
"Surely."
"And take care of your own legs. You were watched at the hotel?"
"Surely."
"Hurt Servan was a man who followed him. Besides, we both know that he was trying to peek through the keyhole. The office you know still retains the old fashioned keyhole."
"To keep the maids in good humor, I suppose," laughed Jim. "Well, I must be on my way to make that flyer."
The two shook hands and Jim hurried off. The butler watched him till he disappeared down the alleyway.
"He's a good lad," he murmured, "and a brave lad; and money is only a means to an end. He'll be a great man. I'll be a great man and let the two be happy, since they love each other and have proved it in a thousand ways."

For a long time the leather box across which was inscribed "Stanley Hargrave" lay in peace undisturbed. A busy spider had woven a trap across the handle to the quilt lock. The box was still badly stained from its immersion in the salt water. At a certain time it was quietly withdrawn from its hiding place. It was stealthily opened. A hand reached in and when it withdrew a packet of papers was also withdrawn. The box was again locked and the quilt and presently the spider returned to find that his cunning trap had been totally destroyed. With the infinite audacity of his kind he began the weaving of another trap. Perhaps this would be more successful than his predecessor.

Jim had added Jim's name to the telephone call. He was informed that his purpose in America would be realized by his presence at such and such a place. Further information could not be given over the telephone. Servan seemed well satisfied. He dressed carefully, shaved, and inquired if his box tickets for the opera had arrived. He was informed that they had. Instantly the spy, who had dared to "bug" about the hotel, overbearing this conversation, determined to notify Braine at once. And at the same time, Norton, in disguise, determined not to lose sight of this man whom he had set himself to watch.

The spy left by one entrance and Jim by another. Jim had arrived what he desired; that the Russian agent would be followed to the opera; and that it was going to be difficult to find the documents to him. The spy, who had dared to "bug" about the hotel, overbearing this conversation, determined to notify Braine at once. And at the same time, Norton, in disguise, determined not to lose sight of this man whom he had set himself to watch.

Ask us How We'd Buy Lumber and see

If we don't put a new aspect on this high cost talk. Sure, some lumber is high priced but in building a house you don't have to specify "clear" throughout. There's more than one grade of lumber and there's many kinds of wood. All you need to insure you full value for your money is a suggestion here and there from someone who knows lumber. We believe we can qualify in that respect. We've been handling lumber for a good many years and have watched its wearing qualities under different conditions. Most all lumber is everlasting when properly used and cared for; but right there is where you need discriminating judgment. If you're figuring close to get the biggest value for your money we'd like to talk over this question of lumber with you. Come in.

the white feather and common sense caution."

"I shall never give up. You are free to pack up and go if you wish. As for me, I'm going to fight this out to the bitter end."
"And take my word for it, the end will be bitter."
"Well?"
"I shall stay. You know that my future is bound up in yours. In the old days my advice generally appealed to you as sound; and when you followed it you were successful. From the first I have trusted you. The purpose Hargrave. See what has happened."

"Enough of this chatter. I've got to do some time; it will be with my face toward this man I hate with all my soul. You trust to me; I'll pull out of this all right. You just sit yourself up stunnily for the opera tonight and leave the rest to me."
"Gee-struck. She was something of a fatalist. This man of hers had suddenly gone mad; and one did not reason with mad people."
"What shall I wear?" she asked calmly.
"Emeralds; they're your good luck stones. You will go into the box before I do. I've got to spend some time at the curb to be sure that the Servan chap arrives. And it will be quite possible that our friend Jones will come later. If not Jones then Norton. I was a fool not to about him when I had the chance. We could have covered it up without the least difficulty. But I needed the information about that paper. With Norton going to Washington and Jones conferring with this Servan, I've got to strike quick. It concerns us that I'm certain. Perk up; we've lots of cards in our sleeves yet. Be at the opera at 8:30. Pay no attention to anyone. Wait for me. Remember, I shall write notes or send any phone messages. Be wary of any trap like that to get you outside. Now I'm off."

Jones approached Florence immediately after dinner.
"I have important business in the city tonight. Under no circumstances leave the home. I shall probably be followed. And our enemies will have need of you far more tonight than at any previous time. I shall not send you phone or written message. You have your revolver. Shoot any strange man who enters. We'll make inquiries after."

"We are near the end," whispered Florence.
"Near the end?"
"And I shall see my father!"
Jones bent his head. "If we succeed, there is danger?" (Thinking of her lover.)
"There is always danger when I leave this house. So be good," the butler said with a smile.
"And Jim?"
"He has proved that he can take care of himself."
"And it will not be necessary. And with this Jones set forth upon what he considered the culminating adventure."

The usual brilliant crowd began to pour into the opera. Braine took his stand by the entrance. He waited a long time; but his patience was rewarded. A limousine drove up and out of the door came his man, who looked about with casual interest. He glanced at the limousine, which wheeled slowly around the corner where it could be conveniently parked. Then Servan entered the opera.

Braine hurried round to the limousine. The lighter save those demanded by traffic regulations were out. The chauffeur was huddled in his seat.
"My man," said Braine, "would you like to make some money?"
"How much?" listlessly. The voice was muffled.
"Twenty."
"Good night, sir."
"Fifty."
"Good night and good morning!"
"A hundred!"
"Now you've got me interested. What kind of a job ride do you want?"
"No job ride, like."

Braine entered his box. In the box next to his was a handsomely gown woman. He threw her an idle glance which was repaid in kind. Later, Braine came in and sat down beside Oles.
"Everything looks like plain sailing," he whispered.
Oles shrugged slightly.

During the intermission between the first and second acts, Servan took the rear chair of his box, near the curtains. Braine watching with the eyes of a trained observer, observed the curtains stir. A hand was thrust through. In that hand was a packet of papers. With seeming indifference Servan reached back and took the papers, stowing them away in a pocket.

At the beginning of the second act.
"Where are you going?" asked Oles nervously.
"To see Gita."
A bold attempt was made to rob Servan while in the box, but the timely arrival of Jim frustrated the plan. So Braine had to rely on the chauffeur of the limousine.
"As Parra's last thrilling note died away, Braine and Oles rose.
"Be careful. And come to the apartments as soon as you can."
"I'll be careful, Braine declared emphatically. "You can watch the play if you wish."
When Servan entered the limousine he was quickly but forcibly seized by two men who had been lying in wait for him, due to the apparent treachery of the chauffeur. Servan fought valiantly for all that he knew what the end of the exploit was going to be. Oles, however, succeeded in getting the documents from Servan's pocket.
"Give him a crack on the coco and we'll beat it."
"Just a moment, gentlemen!" said a voice from the seat at the side of the chauffeur. "I'll take those papers." And the owner of the voice, backed by a cold, smiling looking automatic, reached in and confiscated the "spoils of war." And I shouldn't make any attempt to slip out of the side door.

"Thanks, my friend," said Servan, shaking himself free from his captors. "Don't mention it," said Norton amiably. "We thought something like this would happen. Keep perfectly quiet, you chaps. Drive on, chauffeur."
"Yes, my lord! To what particular police station shall I head this omnibus?"
"The nearest, Jones; the very nearest you can think of! Some day, when I'm rich, I'll hire you for my chauffeur. I'll be there for the occasion. I shall expect at least a box of Fartington out of that hundred."

Jones chuckled. "I'll buy you a box out of my own pocket. That hundred goes to charity."
"Here we are!" Out with you, said Jim to his prisoners. "It shouldn't be them into the police station, to the captain's desk."
"What's this?" demanded the captain.
"Holdup men," said Jim. "Entered this man's car and tried to rob him."
"Uh-huh. An' who're you?"
"I'm about as big as the end of a card."
"Oh. Hey there! I mean you!" said the captain, leveling a finger at Oles. "Lift up that hat; lift it up. Sure, it's Oles. You Oles! Well, well, we've been looking for you for ten months on the last forger's case. Mr. Norton, my thanks. Take 'em below, sergeant. You'll be here to make the complaint in 'mornin', sir," he added to Servan.

"It is necessary."
"It may be necessary against Gita's pal. I don't know him."
"Very well."
"And Jones and Norton and Servan dropped out of the station."
"You're a wonderful man, Jones, even if you are an Englishman," said Jim to his prisoners. "I shall be the best of friends to you. English! What makes you think I am English?" asked Jones with a curious glimmer in his eyes.
"I tell you on the night we put the rollers under Braine and company. Jones stared long and intently at his own partner. What did he really know?"

THE EAST SHIPS APPLES WEST

Western New York Has Invaded West With Its Dumper Crops.

Twenty-two million four hundred thousand bushels of apples are being shipped from the Western New York region to the West, according to the figures of the United States Department of Agriculture. The apples are being shipped in dumper cars, which are loaded at the Western New York region and shipped to the West. plant could be located on their ranch. The exonerated Burke so far as the counterfeiting charge is concerned, but stated that he had passed about all of the coins put into circulation. The dollars are crude and were easily detected and only about 20 of them put out here.

Find Moonshine Still.
In making the search for the plant the officers ran onto the moonshine still, which was located on another part of the ranch. They found about 10 gallons of liquor—a larger amount in course of manufacture and a great quantity of grain being fermented. The liquor had been disposed of locally.

The counterfeiting plant and the still were taken to Riley, the county seat, to be held as evidence. The elder Swinton lived in the Moonshine house for a number of years, returning recently from Arizona, where he has been engaged in mining. It is stated that most of the money was made there and brought here. He is 63 years of age and a feeble old man. Burke came here "twenty-four months" and claims that he did not know the Swintons previously to his coming here, and knew nothing of the liquor still.

RED-HAIRED STAR

How Peg and Michael Settle Down at the Chichesters.

The heroine of Oliver Morosoff's comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," is red haired, and Irish in her Tiger skin. She has just landed in London from New York, where she came to see her relatives, the Chichesters, a proud but impetuous London family. The family selector has just informed the family that a descendant of the family has just landed in London from New York, where she came to see her relatives, the Chichesters, a proud but impetuous London family.

Peg is a diamond in the rough and her ready answers to all questions are not of the sort to preserve civility in an aristocratic household, like the Chichesters. Moreover she is accustomed to the fact that a descendant of the family has just landed in London from New York, where she came to see her relatives, the Chichesters, a proud but impetuous London family.

Her stately countenance has one of those fairly barbed lips that are cherished by women of fashion, and her eyes are blue and look like a pair of diamonds. Michael is ready to annihilate the truth about the girl, while Peg remarks scornfully, "well, there's one thing about Michael, no one could ever mistake him for anything but a dog, while that thing looks like a bunch of kittens."

After some discussion and considerable caustic comment by Peg, her net is relegated to the rear of the house and Peg takes up her residence with the Chichesters.

Four Unknown Mexicans Wanted for the Crime.
Rialto Falls.—Late Monday night, the village of Shelley, six miles south of here, was the scene of a murder. The bodies of the four unknown Mexicans were found in the woods, where it was found Tuesday morning. The Mexicans entered the house of the Shelley Mercantile company and, while bargaining for some clothing, one of them was seen to get into their vehicle and driving toward Idaho Falls.

Searchers went out and mounting his horse, started in pursuit. Not returning after several hours, alarm was felt, and word was telephoned here and searchers from both places set out. The horse was found wandering by the roadside, but no trace of the man. Descriptions of the man were sent here and the animals located in a livery barn, and a description of the Mexicans secured. A number of arrests have been made and several more are being held.

Find the Body.
Searchers found Hampton's body at daylight. He had been shot through the head, the ball entering an eye. His revolver, with all chambers filled, was found strapped to his body. The local agent of the railroad company says that he sold a number of tickets to Mexicans to points south Tuesday morning.

Descriptions Sent Out.
A good description of the men wanted has been sent out and all officers notified. Hampton, the murdered man, leaves a wife and two young children. He was about 40 years of age and considered a good officer. "Want ads pull. Did you ever try the Times?"

BLEACHING BONES IN RIVER.
Identified as Those of Heburn-Woman Who Committed Suicide.
On the evening of November 12th, last Thursday, A. S. Bell, of Milner, found the bones and skull of a woman lying in a crevice in the lava rock about one mile above Milner dam. The man was at once reported and the sheriff and coroner of Blaine county repaired to the scene of the find. The skull was brought to this city and identified as that of Mrs. Anna Anderson, wife of John Anderson, formerly in business at Heburn with Chas. Holstein. They were identified also by her mother, Mrs. Erickson, who resides south of Rupert, and Mr. Anderson, who now resides at Lund in Blaine county. The bones were found in a crevice in the lava rock about one mile above Milner dam. The man was at once reported and the sheriff and coroner of Blaine county repaired to the scene of the find.

USED A HAMMER.
North Side Man Assaults Ranch Foreman.
Last Friday, at Overbrook farm, Hugh Cook assaulted William Beck, the foreman, with a hammer and inflicted a wound which for the time being rendered him unconscious. Mr. Beck was rushed to the hospital at Twin Falls for treatment. The news is glad to be able to announce that his injury was not so serious as at first believed, and on yesterday he was discharged from the hospital and has returned home.

The affair seems to have been the result of some friction between the two men combined with heavy temper, and the result was a tragedy. Mr. Beck was rushed to the hospital at Twin Falls for treatment. The news is glad to be able to announce that his injury was not so serious as at first believed, and on yesterday he was discharged from the hospital and has returned home.
