THE INDEPENDENT-REPUBLICAN is the first newspaper in the country to represent the old school of journalism.
What it publishes can be seen in the old school of journalism. In her day the most powerful warship in the United States navy, serving out her last days as an immense coal barge. The fire engine service, no longer compelled by enlightened communities to spend their de-cimating years in the shanty of an ad-eater, but is made an honorable pensioner in some grassy meadow where the chime of the midnight alarm no longer disturbs his rest. A ship, a great battleship—think of it, will you?
America's first Fleet, the old Independence, is as honored as any living animal, and there is something in the action of the navy department in permitting her to reach this illustrious and then seem singularly cold-blooded and parsimonious.

It had been intended that she should be one of the chief exhibits at the San Francisco exposition, docked beside the latest and most modern of super-dreadnoughts, but a consideration of a paltry $3,515 has been sufficient apparently for the navy department to ignore her claims to an end befitting her services to the flag in three wars. And so her bulwarks have been knocked out, and she will carry coal on the Pacific coast until a merciful gale sends her at last to rest. How much better if she had been towed out to sea and sunk with a shot through her rugged old timbers, while the band played her funeral dirge.

As a lesson in patriotism it would have been worth far more than the few sorry dollars for which the government sacrificed her.

America is entitled to have, and has an interest in the old ship, for she was built just one hundred years ago this year. Here's hoping she may not long serve in the ignoble service of carrying coal, but sink in the waters of the Pacific—the she will be at rest and at peace forever.—Idaho Falls Register.

AMERICAN CHARITY NOT UNDERSTOOD

From Switzerland comes the wall of the newspapers that Swiss children were not remembered in the Christmas giving of American money, with the U.S. funds, Switzerland is not at war and was supposedly well able to care for its own unfortunate. But from the outcry from that country it can readily be seen that the American attitude is little understood. American pity is for the homeless and beregued of little Belgium, yet sympathy for the war which has involved that country against "its will." America's giving was a spontaneous outburst of generosity for the little children made homeless and often fatherless by a war. That generosity is no doubt broad enough to include the Swiss and any other nationality whose plight is similar. Yet there is a risible entiment in this country today against further donations even to the Belgians while the poor of our own land continue in need. Germany is exacting tribute from the rich men of Belgium as a war indemnity, while America undertakes a problem which belongs to the victorious nation or to the people of Belgium. In all the years past, wealthy Europe has never seen a step out of the natural selfish way to help American starving. Even today Europe has more unused wealth than America. Let her spend it caring for her own. True American sympathy goes out to the innocent sufferers from the war. Their condition is pitiable and must continue that way as long as the war collects its awful toll.
Yet if the food and the funds sent from this country only help to prolong the war until every vestige of national prosperity is gone from that land, what then? What benefit is such charity? Better leave the charity until the end of the war and know that it is applied toward peaceful ends. Europe's starving people is Europe's problem and should be solved in the same manner as the war is being solved—out of national war cheats.

LET THE PUBLIC KNOW THE FACTS.

Following the publication of the Capital News on Monday, December 7, giving an outline of the purported contents of the Ramsstedt report upon the treasury investigation, which had just before been turned over to Governor Haines, a hasty conference was called in the governor's office.

Who attended that conference?

Why was it called? Who called it?

What was said there relative to a demand for the suppression of that report? What reasons were assigned at that time leading to convince the governor that he ought to break his promise to the people and to the press to publish the results of Ramsstedt's investigation?

What effort was made to induce Mr.

Ramsstedt to withdraw the report he had filed and make a new one eliminating a portion of the facts that he had discovered while making his investigation of the treasury department?

Did Mr. Ramsstedt consent to make those changes? Or did he refuse to be a party to any such demands?

Mr. Ramsstedt's refusal to alter his report have anything to do with the subsequent determination not to let the public see the report at all?

If Ramsstedt had withdrawn the report he did make and had made a new one eliminating certain facts that he reported he had found, would not that new report have been published long before this?

This conference was held in the state house; it lasted until late into the night; it took place between state officers and their friends and advisers in the office of the governor. It must, therefore, have been a confidential meeting. Should not the public be fully informed as to what transpired at any rate to the public, in accordance with the report of Mr. Ramsstedt, in accordance with the prompt that was made?

Will the report of Mr. Glensom also be the subject of a hasty conference, demand that it be modified, or a refusal to let the public know what it contains? Capital News.

DIFFICULTIES OF AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

America can not be neutral, is the message sent to England by a well-known publicist, Mr. James Davenport Whipple, who sets forth his explanation of this theory at some length in the pages of the London Fortnightly Review. He considers that the economic interests of this country are so involved that, however much we try to preserve the shadow, we actually lose the substance of neutrality.
He argues:

"It is a simple matter for a government to issue a proclamation of neutrality, to pursue or compel a nation collectively and individually to observe such neutrality as has always been difficult, and under present conditions the United States Government is finding it almost impossible task."

The countries at war are all large importers of foodstuffs, raw materials and manufactured goods. America has been the source of supply to a large extent hence the effort of all belligerents are now concentrated upon America, in an attempt in one way or another to secure more especially a continuation of shipment of food, raw materials needed in manufacture and of gold. In a war like the present practically all supplies are contributed, for the efforts of combatants are directed toward an economic as well as an armed defeat of the enemy. The recent increase in imports reported from the smaller countries of Europe not yet involved in the war is indisputable evidence of increased exponiture in some direction, for the tendency of industry at this time is toward stagflation, and imports would naturally show a decided decrease if the demand was based upon normal home consumption and trade."

In accounting for this increase trade he thinks that:

"The pressure brought upon the American Government to facilitate rather than to hamper commerce is enormous. The country is officially neutral, hence the business man sees no reason why he should not at least be allowed to conduct his ordinary business without hindrance and without fear of punishment.

Neutral for a producing country like America is an costly war, if it means cessation of trade and business.

When America realizes how deep are the issues involved, he considers that a frank abandonment of neutrality, as an effort to secure peace, is more than a possibility:

"It has not yet fully dawned upon American just how deeply they are and will be affected by this struggle among the powers in Europe for the political and economic changes now begun absolutely international. In their full meaning, the greater realization of these things will come soon; there are already signs that it is on the way, and then these much-discussed questions as to the blame for the beginning of trouble or for subsequent destruction and the sufferings of the civil population will be dismissed from the American mind, for the time at least, and the greater question, one upon which the entire nation will be concerned, will be to ameliorate the suffering of the people.

"In order to defend this country the navy must be free to fight the enemy's ships, and the army must be free to fight the enemy's land forces. We have not yet fully appreciated the cost of this right-of-way such subscriptions and right-of-way as will be needed to procure the necessary ammunition and other war material for the defense of the country.

"We must realize that the naval police which will keep the American navy on the defensive in guarding the coast in the event of war."

"In order to defend this country the
navy must be free to fight the enemy's
ships, and the army must be free to fight the enemy's land forces. We have not yet fully appreciated the
cost of this right-of-way such subscriptions and right-of-way as will be needed to procure the necessary
ammunition and other war material
for the defense of the country.

"In the case of our army, the needs can be classified under three heads: the men, the horses and the equipment. The men are to be supplied by our regular army, the horses by our regular cavalry, and the equipment by our regular supplies.

"Second, we need to lay the foundations upon which we can build our regular army, and to organize the large citizen or volunteer army with which the war must be fought.

"Third we must once acquire a sufficient number of the field guns and ammunition and other war material which will be required for the employment of such a citizen army, and which cannot be extemporized and which must be obtained from abroad.

"Mr. Stimson said the training of University students from boyhood to manhood in the art of war is of great importance.

"I am informed that we have now 800 guns," continued Mr. Stimson, "and ammunition to serve them about one and one-half days. To send out more infantry will require protection of the gunners against an enemy armed with four thousand men."

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Bulletin From State Headquarters
Pratt, Local Company

December 16th had arrived but to date Governor-elect Alexander has not announced who he will appoint Adjutant-General vice General Patch and Major Jeffreys, present incumbents, whose terms expire with that of the present Commander-in-chief; Governor John M. Halnes. No doubt the future commander-in-chief will be Governor-elect Alexander, his adjutant-general and all the officers and men of the Guard a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

No changes are announced in this issue but several are contemplated. General Patch, the adjutant general, has announced that he will not be a candidate for the position of Adjutant-General and will be filled by Governor-elect Alexander upon taking office. Upon the retirement of General Patch the Guard loses an officer of great ability and a man that has given the Guard some fifteen years of his services. He has been promoted to the rank of Captain from Company I to Brigadier General in the Idaho National Guard. Another change to take place within the next few days is the return of Captain George W. Miller, U. S. V., who had during the last year been with us as Inspector-Instructor. This officer has worked wonders in Idaho. He is a tireless worker and brought the Guard to a high standard.

Another change to be made is the removal of the Inspector-Instructors. It is regretted that he becomes a Major just at the time his two years' work is beginning to bear fruit. Lieutenant Max B. Garber, U. S. A., who relieves Lieutenant Dannemiller, has the same things to do and if he carries out the programmes of instruction outlined by Lieutenant Dannemiller, he will bring great credit upon himself, not only to the personnel but from the War Department as well. We know Lieutenant Dannemiller has given his best to the Guard and we trust him to continue to do so.

He has given his best to the Guard and we trust him to do so. We have no doubt that he will do so. He is a man of great ability and will be a credit to the Guard.

FOR LOWER TAXES

County Commissioners of State Please TaxeTopics.

Listening to a lengthy speech by Governor-elect Alexander, taking dinner at the Children's Home and adopting the report of the committee recommended by the commissioners of Idaho spent a busy day Tuesday in their second day's session of the sixth annual convention of the body.

Several other addresses were made before the adjourned meeting day by Gov. O. P. Christian, superintendent of the Children's home, J. D. Hobson of Weiser, secretary of the state tax commission, and H. W. Hochbaum, director county farm bureau of the state.

The "convention" convened at 10 o'clock at the Commercial club. Governor-elect Alexander was introduced. After this address the commissioners adjourned to the Children's home for luncheon. They held a session down to late afternoon. Superintendent Christian and his guests during the time informed them costs two and a half cents per plate. The menu consisted of tomato soup, roast beef, mashed potato, pumpkin pie, water, coffee, punch, pie and coffee. The commissioners voted the lunch fully worth the price.

After the lunch Superintendent Christian told of the work of the home and gave a short history of its existence. At about 2 o'clock the commissioners again met at the Commercial club and then heard a short talk by J. D. Hobson of the tax commission.

The convention then took up the report of the resolutions committee. The resolution concerning the program was the address by H. W. Hochbaum, director of the county farm bureau of the state.

The report of the resolutions committee which was adopted is given below:

Section 1. Your committee on resolutions, would recommend that the legislature pass an act submitting to a vote of the people of Idaho the question, "Shall the county commissioners be allowed to serve for terms of 2, 4 or 6 years, and at succeeding elections one commissioner be elected?" Would also recommend that counties be classified at first, second, third, and fourth class and a maximum salary of county commissioners be fixed at $5000 per annum, minimum salary at $500 per annum.

Section 2. We would recommend that each and every county in the state be required to have a map of all timber lands and classify all lands. We believe that a more equitable assessment of property would result if we would recommend that the assessors of the various counties familiarize themselves with town and city property.

Section 3. We would recommend that the state license of automobiles be reduced to $1 and that the automobile be assessed the taxes paid in case it is found elsewhere located.

Section 4. We would recommend that section 5 of the re-vised code of the state of Idaho be amended by the session of 1912, requiring the road

The King Hill project and its extension, which is controlled separately are located near King Hill and Glenwood, Idaho, and since their beginning have been involved in litigation between the government and the land owners in that state and have excellent water rights. The government estimates that the springs of the Malad river have a constant flow of 1000, second feet. Most of the difficulties have been overcome by the entry of the contractors which necessitated the hill-construction.

The state of Idaho recently bought the King Hill main project for a consideration of $30,000 after the federal government had given a guarantee of the sum of a bond issue. The extension project is in a receiver's hands now.

The two projects total about 30,000 acres, much of which was Carey act land. If the government takes them over, both will be placed upon a sound basis and the money will be well put to first class shape.—Salt Lake Herald.

U. S. MAY BUY PROJECT

Report on King Hill Will be Made by United States Officials.

George B. Archibald, Carey act inspector of the United States general land office, Denver, and George L. Lovell, attorney-at-law to the Lone Pine, Calif., where he made an extensive investigation of the King Hill irrigation project for the purpose of determining whether the government should take over that project. He has been retained by the Idaho Association to submit to Washington a report on this and the report made as a result of investigations by officers of the United States Reclamation service will depend the government's decision in the matter.

The negotiations are being conducted by the government men and by Benjamin P. Shawhan, receiver for the King Hill project, which is now an Idaho property. One is the complete purchase by the United States of the land in the government would return the state of Idaho for its buyout and buy outright the other project, which is now in the hands of the receiver. The other is that the government and state cooperate to make available funds for the construction of roads.

much about. I'm just eighteen. By some stroke of fortune I have been endowed with supernatural powers of deduction, hypnotism and scientific analysis. I've come here to show you, in motion pictures, twenty episodes of my life—twenty baffling mysteries. These episodes are full of thrills and excitement. They have been idealized by Daniel Carson Goodwin and Harold MacGrath—two of America's foremost authors. They depict many of the tense situations into which a young American girl may fall. They illustrate the strength and daring of girlhood when opposed by powerful forces. You are invited to see these baffling, scientific and instructive motion picture episodes of my life, at the Orpheum theatre,

The Beautiful, Mystic, Girl Detective in Thanhouser's Greatest Photoplay—ZUDORA

A Stupendous Production of Love, Mysticism and Science in 20 Baffling Episodes.
3000 Scenes—Cast of 1000.

MONDAY starts the most elaborate motion picture story ever presented—a Thanhouser production created by Daniel Carson Goodwin, author, philosopher, scientist and originator of the modern school of realism in motion pictures—and novelized by Harold MacGrath—famous author of The Million Dollar Mystery, Kathyin, The Man-on-the-Box, etc.

This mammoth production—idealized by two of America's greatest literary lights—will be presented in 20 baffling episodes of 2 reels each. A new episode will appear every week for 20 weeks. It will be different from anything that has ever preceded it because each episode will be complete in itself, although a master plot will be carried throughout the entire series.

Every installment will reveal a complete episode from the life of beautiful ZUDORA—the mystic girl detective, whose powers of deduction and scientific analysis seem superhuman. In each case of these 20 episodes you will witness the baffling mysteries which develop in ZUDORA's life. You will see the cunning ZUDORA display more genius than Sherlock Holmes or Lecoq. You will see her use the newest methods of science—the X-ray, liquid air, novel electrical appliances—in her daring attempt to solve weird mysteries. These scenes will not only be an extraordinary recital of adventure, but an education as well.

The Thanhouser Film Corporation of New Rochelle, New York, has engaged a cast of 1000 for this master photoplay. 3000 scenes will be used. The cast is headed by Marguerite Snow—star of The Million Dollar Mystery—who will interpret the part of Zudora. James Cruze and Harry Benham—two of Thanhouser's leading men—will be seen at their best in ZUDORA.

This great attraction will be exceptionally fascinating because of the intense, interest-compelling scenes, because of the baffling mysteries which confront beautiful ZUDORA, because of the wonderful scenic and mechanical effects and because of the dramatic acting.

EXPENSE DUE TO CHOLERA

State Veterinarian Reports Expenditure in Excess of Appropriation.

It actually cost the state of Idaho $42,763.84 to operate the state veterinarian and sanitary and livestock departments during the past two years prior to the final session of that legislature. The amount includes the present month of the present year, the department collected and remitted to the state treasurer $80,700.00. The estimated appropriation it will take to meet the expenses of the department during the next two years is $62,920. The last legislature appropriated $61,650 less the balance on hand or $21,068 leaving the actual appropriation for the 1913-14 biennial $46,472.

State Veterinarian V. C. White submitted to the state Board of examiners through the state auditor the required statement from his department showing the expenses for the past two years and just estimated appropriation for the next two years. The amount appropriated by the last legislature for the period 1913-14 was $62,920. The last legislature showed an itemized account of the expenditures from the predatory animal fund appropriated by the last legislature together with an itemized account of the possible expenditures to carry on the predatory animal work for the years 1915-16. The expenditures from this fund for the last two years amounted to $38,179.37. He estimated the total expenditures for the next two years as $77,616. He advised the repeat of the predatory animal law.

The increase in expenditure for the past two years is largely due to the cholera epidemic among hogs in this state to control which the state legislature appropriated $2,200 to the predatory animal fund. The last legislature appropriated $12,000 for this purpose and $5000 to the experimental station at Moscow to manufacture cholera serum. The amount appropriated by the legislature in 1913-14 for the money the department was then forced to spend to assist toward control of the situation, according to the report of the state veterinarian was taken from the Livestock sanitary fund and is exclusive of the $5000 item appropriated for the experiment station. In 1913-14 the amount appropriated for the experiment station was $7200 and the amount appropriated for the predatory animal had no sooner abated than the situation on the foot and mouth disease broke out among swine herds stuck in this country and precaution had to be taken to prevent spread of the disease to Idaho. The Department of Agriculture and stock cars in the state had to be assembled together with all cars that have since come into the state at an expense of $500. It is pointed out the intensive requirements with reference to the movement of stock are very strict—Capital News.

The report touches on the situation that came up after the discovery of glanders among horses at Arco and it was necessary to call all horses from Arco to Challis with the result 3156 horses were tested on 373 places and 116 reactors were found and destroyed. The cost of this work was $2000.

The department had no sooner abated than the situation on the foot and mouth disease broke out among swine herds stuck in this country and precaution had to be taken to prevent spread of the disease to Idaho. The Department of Agriculture and stock cars in the state had to be assembled together with all cars that have since come into the state at an expense of $500. ### GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT

Hoosier Production of Varieties for the Northwest.

As the November crop review just issued by the department of agriculture, the government, endeavored to show the proportion in which the principal varieties of apples are raised in the United States and in the different sections including Washington, Oregon and Idaho. According to its figures the Baldwin is the leading variety throughout the United States, while the Jonathan and Empire are the second, Jonathan mainly in the West, Empire in the West and Idaho; while the Mac Davis ranks second throughout the United States, the Rome Beauty in Washington and Idaho, and the Yellow Newtown in Oregon.

The relative production of varieties in the United States and the Northwest according to these figures shows in percentages of full or normal crops of all kinds, but only such varieties as show above 2.5 per cent being included, is as follows:

U. S. Wash. Ore. Idn.

	Washington	Ore.	Idn.
Red Delicious	18.2	7.4	5.3
Granny Smith	7.8
Chesteran	4.1	7.8
Spartan	8.1	13.8	4.4
Mac Davis	8.1	3.8	7.4
Empire	5.1	12.2	6.6
Rome Beauty	2.7	7.1
Yellow Newtown	2.0	11.3	4.6
Other varieties	60.1	35.6	12.4
Total	106.6	100.0	100.0

In a statement of the five-year annual production of the leading varieties for states, Washington occupies with 783,000 bushels of Washington out of a total of 6,405,000 bushels for the United States. Washington is the only variety of which the state produces over 500,000 bushels.

Missouri grows 1,700,000 bushels of McIntosh alone, which is less than a third of this state's crop of Bush Delicious, according to 3,840,000 bushels. New York is second in the crop of McIntosh variety with 9,731,000 bushels of Bush Delicious. Its output of Northern Spy is also over 3,297,000 bushels. Moreover, it produces more than twice as many apples of all kinds as any other state in the Union. Idaho and Montana combined "New York" crop being estimated at 49,000,000 bushels.

"The Northwest is presented by them to show that in a year of unusual abundance there is no lack of market for the surplus. It is the fact that the Northwest apple crop is merely normal and comparatively small would have little effect upon the general market conditions, in as far as Northwestern apples are sold in competition with Eastern apples.

Production, Quality and Price.

In comparing 1911 with 1912 in point of production, quality and price to the grower, the government's recent apple crop report, while it may be approximately correct for the country as a whole, varies somewhat from actual conditions in the Northwest, according to more recent statistics prepared by the North Pacific Fruit Distributors, the largest organization of growers. The department of agriculture estimates the 1914 apple crop for the United States at 263,802,000 bushels, which is an increase of 135,420,000 bushels over 1913. The average price paid to the grower for apples from all sections of the United States was 29 cents under last year at the same time and that for the Northwest apples was 23 cents under the 1913 figure.

Just how the fruit shippers of the Northwest are affected by the internal revenue tax which went into force December 1, is pointed out in the circular issued by the Pacific Distributors. The distributors say:

"The burden is not heavy. It is estimated that the so-called "war" tax will cost the growers' central organization merely about $10,000,000, and the amount of the discount on all shipping associations affiliated with it somewhere between $10 and $12 more. These figures in all probability will be slightly higher in the future."

In the case of the central exchange, arises from telegrams and long distance telephone messages. The sub-centrales in addition to the charge of cost must pay one cent stamp on every bill of lading for fruit shipped.

The traffic department's instructions state that on each express or freight receipt, bill of lading or manifest covering each shipment, where the charge exceeds two cents, the name of the shipper must be affixed by the shipper, his agent and canceller with the initials and date.

Also, telegraph and telephone companies add one cent to the regular charge on all messages and 10 cents to those where no account is carried with them. Companies can be collected at the end of the month.

At this advent season, the importation of fruit is at a standstill due to the closing of this church year, the main interest of all local Episcopalian bonds are assumed, converted and are awakened and renewed. The attendance upon this meeting and services of every congregation has increased considerably especially quietness and urged.

THE GUILD, ASCENSION CHURCH, By the President.

POCKET-FILLED WITH GOLD

Estimated Value of the Pint Put At One Hundred Million Dollars.

Gold is pouring like water from the crease strike at Cripple Creek, according to advice received here today.

From Cripple Creek:

"The local gold producers of Colorado have been permitted to inspect the bonanza chamber of the property and the sight of a chamber full of virgin gold, glittering under the dim lamp of the miners, has filled me with admiration."

Manager Smale of the Portland mine says that the Cripple Creek strike, according to previous theories of the United States geological survey, "The experts estimate a million of dollars of ore from 40,000 to 100,000,000."

"The chamber where the gold is being mined with picks, the ore being too soft for blasting is sealed with a heavy steel door, similar to a safe vault and the miners work in small cartilines in the silvante walls, and this golden grain pours in rivulets without being milled.

It is declared that the care of gold for such is, to make a large number of broken ore made up of decomposed quartz and pure gold nuggets of large size."

Suppose I do go to this Christmas reunion? Suppose I stay home and enjoy the day of peace on Earth in the way I want to? What will happen?

"We must bear that we will be single, solitary and of my relations, and will have to depend on others for help in finding a mate." What will happen if he is unable to find a mate? He has pointed the way.

"Suppose I do go to this Christmas reunion? Suppose I stay home and enjoy the day of peace on Earth in the way I want to? What will happen?"

"And I'll be responsible for this," added Mr. Simpson joyously.

"And I'll be responsible for this,"

stay away, just like one of the Christmas parties he'd been invited to!

"And things will be going on again to the dash, dash, dash," he added. "How great the trouble will be for me to get out the way to their own houses, to call on them, to see them, to leave them."

"Why, I thought, whether he does or not, he's a good boy. I'm the first man who stayed away from a family reunion in the history of the world," he said. "It's now labeled 'The Foolishest Christmas Party in the History of the World.'

So, "Clemie," he said, "What do you want most for Christmas?"

"And so, in pleasant reflection upon the perfection of his plan, he had carried his basket home, and sat down until Christmas morning.

It was Mr. Simpson's idea to eat the Christmas dinner, ordered in from a Chinese restaurant, in the solitude of his own home, bare as was ever a family.

At one o'clock the waiter arrived in the heavy dray. Mr. Simpson was seated on the floor, his chair tilted back on the table, and he waited for the waiter to bring him his meal.

"And so, as he sat there, he began to wonder what he would do when the meal was over.

"Dinner's over," burst out Mr. Simpson.

"What's that?"

He had not decided not to eat the door? Then he changed his mind and went downstairs, late at a time. It might be some bad news from his absent family.

He threw open the portal and stepped back into the hall.

And after Jim trotted a gayly shouting and laughing party of friends.

Mr. Simpson's relatives!

"We came to eat our Christmas dinner here!" cried one of his aunts. "You poor man—we knew you'd be alone!" quipped a first cousin.

"We didn't want you to eat our Christmas dinner all by yourself," chorused another female relation, "so we brought ours here, in baskets to eat with you."

Mr. Simpson looked over the crowd still streaming into his front hall. His mouth dropped as he started the way to the dining room.

But all his relatives, including his uncles and aunts, were there.

"Well, I guess we'll have to have a Christmas dinner," he said, "but that's all right."

Chief of the Austria-Hungary police force.
