Daily Star takes the president to task and reminds him that "great self-confidence, based upon past successes, under far different conditions, is a frequent forerunner to disastrous failure." Canada, to judge from the tone of the Dominion press, wants us to be well armed because it may become necessary for the United States to enter actively into the war in defense of those principles to which the allies and America, we are assured, are alike committed; and it is claimed that many Americans endorse this view. For example, the London (Ont.) Advertiser says:

"Quite a few people in the United States have expressed the belief that their government and congress should come out frankly in favor of the allies, and enter the war against Germany. Their belief is based not only on the ground that the allies are fighting for the cause of freedom and democracy, of which the United States is professing a champion, but that it is necessary as a matter of self-defense against the possible results on this continent should Germany win."

This view finds an echo in England, where the London Daily Express is little annoyed at our "state of unpreparedness" and thinks we shall ultimately be forced into a coalition with Germany. "We agree that it may be wise for the government at Washington to maintain its position of inactivity, but it is not possible for any nation or for any individual to be impartial in this great war. Great Britain and her allies are fighting for exactly the same cause as Washington fought for in the war against France, Holland, and Lord North. If Great Britain and France are beaten, it will not be many years before the United States will have to fight Jackboots."

Less subtle is the comment of the Montreal Daily Star, which bluntly warns the president that "safely detests that upon plaudits and prostrations, but upon weight of armaments and the dread machinery of war," and says that unarmed pacifism, while a delightful doctrine, is a little dangerous as a deliberate national policy. It is convinced that we are definitely committed to such a policy, and continues: "Well, the United States is a sovereign nation, and it is privileged to take the view of the matter. It is willing to take the risks attending it, as well. But any nation is on a highly perilous ground which depends upon the excellence of its political principles and institutions, or any other domestic virtues, to protect it from the hazards of outside attack. Unfortunately, domestic virtues, which do not get themselves translated into powers of self-defense, are of little assistance against the brutal consciousness of less virtuous but more virile military nations. . . . If the American nation proposes to continue to live in this wicked world, and to preserve their risk domain intact, they must resolutely shoulder the burden of previous preparation to defend it."

Japan, however, is thoroughly pleased with the Wilson policy, and the "Chicago Evening" advises us to drop any imperialistic ideas, remain at home, and attend to business. "The president and the secretary of state have avoided that they have taken on to heart the instruction of Washington in his farewell address. Why forego the advantages of so peculiar a situation? Why quit our own to stand upon 'Toreian' ground? It follows, therefore, that if America would avoid nothing to the established international position she now holds, but would rather be a source of misunderstanding by other nations." Similar advice, rather more delicately expressed, is offered by another Tokyo paper, the Nichi-nichi, which thinks: "If America, steadfastly pursuing its anti-imperialistic policy, by using her orgies to the improvement and development of the enormous resources she has at command, both at home and abroad, she will surely become so great and prosperous that no country will dare attack her." Any increase of armament at this moment would weaken our influence for peace, thinks the London Daily News, which sees in America the mediator in the present war. "It is quite certain that the States of Europe, for all their present concentration upon war, will one day desire an end of the slaughter and return to some such state of things as the advice and assistance of some impartial mediator, whose zeal for peace and whose equity are equally above suspicion."

"To the short view it might seem something gained by a partition to create the impression that the American people or government was identified. It is Wilson's view that it would be a heavy loss to the world were America to lose her reputation as a friend of all nations, precisely at the time when that reputation is most necessary. His view will be shared by every far-thinking man in this country."

The London Spectator, however, while approving the president's general attitude, feels bound to urge: "Our flesh and blood urges the Atlantic to make good sure that the president's attitude is the utmost not of courage, chivalry, and moral determination, but of material, for in these days a man whose courage is not supported with good arms goes like a sheep to the slaughter." "The president says: 'It is not necessary for America to have a huge standing army; she can trust to her citizenry trained and accustomed to arms.' 'We must remind the president, however, that at present the American people not only are not trained or accustomed to arms, but what is worse, they do not possess the arms and ammunition to put into the hands of the citizenry, trained or untrained.'"

BENGER (By H. C. Erickson.)

As we are entering upon the threshold of a new year, no wishing and no magic spells for its human beings, may it be a year of peace, happiness and prosperity. We wish the Times and its many readers a happy New Year. Old times has been a sticker. Still they come. Two more families have been added to the population of Berger since our last communication. They are John Dickery and family, with two carloads of household goods, stock and farm implements, last week Thursday, from the Lost River country. Let them come, an abundance of room here and on the Salmon River tract for all good people and they're welcome. A. A. Joller, our miller, was "doing" Twin Falls Thursday.

Mrs. Miles went to Twin Falls for a few days last Thursday. There seems to be a demand for vacant buildings but as there are none in Berger, it seems to us that it would be a paying investment to "berger" capitalists to erect a few buildings for rental. E. J. Hornbrook took his departure for Charlotte, Iowa, his former home, Thursday to meet his wife and little son there, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Hornbrook was called in the middle of her journey, who is seriously ill, expected to live, at his home in Conterville, So. Dakota. J. M. Humphrey and family departed for North Idaho Thursday for an extended visit with their parents and "acquaintances" in that state. Louis Kimbrough and Henry Green will have charge of their ranch during their absence. C. T. Doran, of Kansas, who recently purchased two lots in Berger, is erecting a new domicile and as soon as completed will move his family from Twin Falls into this new home.

Mrs. H. E. Lydum and daughter, Miss Judith, were over from Twin Falls to the Pleasant Valley district of late. That joyful evening, our untrivial, Rox Lammers, is frequently seen in the Salmon river land, consulting to engage in that noble calling, agriculture, to help and supply the needs and wants of a happy world. What is to happen, Rox? He also returned to spend Xmas and New Year's with his family. They report that there is no more snow in the hills than there is here.

Berger school closed Wednesday and the children will have a vacation until Jan. 4th, 1915. Mrs. J. F. Logie, principal of the school, will spend the holidays with her parents near Piler, and Miss Fanta, teacher of the primary class, will spend her vacation with relatives and friends near Kimberly. The community Christmas tree and entertainment, the first ever held here, which took place in the new school auditorium was an event which will be long remembered. The exercises conducted by the children were very good, color, justice to themselves and teachers. The teachers of Berger, Mrs. Logie and Miss Foster, had been hard at work drilling the children and credit is due them and the children for making the affair a success. Also the committees who worked hard and faithfully, contributing their share to making it a success. The song by the male quartette, consisting of H. F. Lydum, first tenor; Will Sumner, second tenor; A. A. Joller, first bass; and H. C. Erickson, second bass, was well received. The program is as follows:

- Song Invocation Bro. Lydum Welcome address Emma McGregor Recitation Dick Hollway Recitation Nola Cardia Recitation Dorothy Evans Recitation Clinton Harvey Recitation Clifton Evans Song Mixed Quartette Recitation David Parrott Recitation Male Quartette Song Mrs. Rox Lammers Xmas play Grouch Family Song State Holiday Reading Mrs. John Pierce Xmas Tableau "Jehovah is King" Reading S. S. Choir Drill John Dogue Drill "God be With You." Recitation Lloyd Ryan

The program was concluded with the appearance of Santa Claus, that generous, whimsical, jolly, kind, his burden and distributing gifts, the delight of the children who were all remembered by Mr. Santa. The play was well received, being containing candles, nuts, etc. Between two and three hundred people were in attendance. Mrs. Pierce was shopping in Twin Falls Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Logie and son drove over from Piler Thursday evening and spend Christmas with relatives. Robert L. Forbes spent a few days with friends at the country seat last week. A construction crew has been here for the last few days putting in the crossings for the O. S. L. on the sections that were closed by the railroad company. A meeting has been called to organize a literary society Saturday evening, Dec. 26. Everybody turn out.

regard to sect, party or school of thought... John M. Slipek, aged 40 years, died at his home in this city, Wednesday after a short illness of typhoid pneumonia... On Christmas day, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Byers, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Cecilia, to Mr. Wm. J. Hough... The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of the relatives and a few friends of the contracting pair. After the ceremony an elegant wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Hough will make their home in Twin Falls... The Christmas dinner presided over by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wood was one of the most enjoyable of the season. A large Santa Claus surrounded by numerous gifts was an interesting feature of the dinner. Ribbons attached to these gifts extended to the corners of the respective guests. Seated around the table were Messrs. and Mrs. A. G. Stoeckel, G. C. Connor, B. A. Hamilton, L. F. Morse, C. H. Burton, L. T. Wright and Eldon Bracken... Mesdames Warner and Bolton entertained a group of young people at dinner Wednesday evening, complimented by Miss Hazel Warner, whose bouquied the table, with small centerpieces tied with red ribbon and shell-shaped small nut baskets gave an effective touch to the festive decorations. The guests were Messrs. A. G. Stoeckel, G. C. Connor, Benton, and Master, Lansing, Benton... Mrs. Robert Steele was hostess at another delightful card party Wednesday evening of the week. Decorations of holly and mistletoe suggested the holiday season and were used in abundance. Miss Estelle Evans was the winner of the high score for the tables and Mr. C. L. Longely was awarded the songmaster's prize. A green and white color scheme was used in the refreshments in the serving of which Mrs. Steele was assisted by Mrs. A. Mullins. and conditional contraband as in the same class, whereas international law defines absolute contraband as consisting of these articles intended directly for the use of an army and navy, and conditional contraband as products susceptible of use by armed forces but whose destination must be the determining factor in detentions.

This is perhaps the broadest declaration of the American note. If it were accepted by Great Britain, American trade with Germany and Austria, virtually at a standstill now, would be resumed, including wheat, flour, livestock and other foodstuffs.

One of the complaints cited in the note is against the treatment by Great Britain of American cargoes of copper. It is charged that Great Britain is not according the same treatment to American trade in copper with the Scandinavian countries as to commerce in this product between the United States and Italy under the same conditions of shipment.

THE BENEFIT PLAYERS

Never before has the Twin Falls public been given the opportunity to hear two of Shakespeare's Great Comedies, in one season, but it seems the management of the Grets has arranged for a matinee Saturday afternoon, January 17, when the "Benefit Players" will appear in "As You Like It" and "Twelfth Night" in the evening performance.

The "Benefit Players" a company of twelve people—were personally trained under Mr. Ben Greeta and play under his direction. Mr. Greeta is considered today one of the greatest living authorities on the English drama and is world famous for his productions of Shakespearean comedy.

Scandinavian countries are not isolated. The American government further recognizes its position on consignments shipped "to order," or no specific consignee, stating that this circumstance alone is not sufficient to hold American cargoes and is of itself not suspicious.

Although the act of the note was not known to members of the diplomatic corps Monday night, and it is unlikely that the Washington government will be followed by other neutral governments.

The County Is Agog and Jenkins Is the Cause

What has happened? What will happen next? Jenkins' extremely sale is the one great big excitement it commences on Saturday, January second. Think of it—"Society" and "Kuppenheimer" men's clothing at one-third off... Boys' "Best-Ever" clothing all at one-third off. Everything in the Men's and Boys' section has been cut to sacrifice prices—Jenkins' Extremity Sale.

It Has Never Happened Before It Will Never Happen Again

In the Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, prices are reduced lowly low. All dry goods have been greatly reduced. Not a thing throughout the store has been spared. Shoes are selling at prices never before seen in Twin Falls for high grade footwear—all rubber goods are included.
