Gov. Alexander Makes Announcement in Spokane

COMMISSION TO REPORT ON FEASIBILITY OF RAILWAY

Will Be Parker and Day, Expecting to Name Third Man After Consulting Prominent Engineer.

Spokane, April 15.—Announcement of his backing for the construction of a state railway to be paralleled by a state highway and to run from the northern part of the state to the southern part, necessitating the calling of a special session of the Idaho state legislature, was made today by Governor M. Alexander of Idaho, who spent Tuesday and Wednesday in this city.

WANTS POSITION KNOWN

Attorney C. O. Longley Explains City Legal Matters

C. O. Longley takes issue with the Times concerning its statement about delays in pushing the legal matters concerning the waterworks controversy and stated that there had been no delay will regard to filing bills in the case before the public utilities commission. Mr. Longley stated that the evidence in the case was heard on February 10th, and that the transcript of the evidence was to be returned to the attorneys here February 10th. Instead, however, the transcript was received at the city clerk's office March 25th or forty-five days late. Only three weeks have elapsed since that and he thinks a move in the case of the hands of the stenographer. Mr. Longley stated that it would be ready this week.

GRAHAM-BROWNE

Well Known Twin Falls Young People Married Wednesday Afternoon

On Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. William Graham, second street, east, occurred the wedding of Mr. Charles H. Browne, the words which made the young couple one. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of a goodly number of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom. After the ceremony a delightful luncheon was served to the guests by the hostess assisted by a number of young ladies. The bride is the well known in this city having come to Twin Falls with her parents from the east several years ago and has made a large circle of friends among the young people. Mr. Browne is at present deputy county treasurer under the late Howard Heine, for the Shoop county, and is now in the employ of the Idaho State Highway Commission. He will be at home to their friends after June 1, at 618 Second avenue east.

THREE VAUDEVILLE ACTS

All Star Acts to Be Seen at Orpheum Last Three Nights

For the last three nights of this week the management of the Orpheum will put on three first class vaudeville acts. How and Lowell will be seen in a grand new act, featuring character changes, singing and dancing. Edith and Kurtis Kuo, introduce an extraordinary feature—a white-faced circus. Wright and Andrews will appear in a comedy on "Nobody Loves Me Anymore." This is said to be the second edition of John Bunny, the original fat man. The photo plays will be the best, showing "The Fire" (featuring Vivian Hitch, supported by an all star cast. Fatty and Mabel will be at the top of the bill. This is a comedy with a plot. NEWSPAPER RAILROADS

Idaho Threatened With Railroad Epidemic

BUTTE POST HAS WONDERTFUL DREAM OF FUTURE ACTIVITIES

Four Transcontinental Lines Mapped Into Center of Big Gem State in the Present Year

With Idaho forming a converging point wherein proposed railroads fanlike strike off towards the west and south following the lines of least resistance to find a tidewater outlet, railroad men see prospects for activity in actual construction work in the immediate future. The Daily Post published at Butte, contains a railroad map showing the routes of the four great transcontinental lines in connection with which it says: "That the next few years will witness a period of unprecedented railroad building and that the adjoining states, seems to be the consensus of opinion among railroad men of the west and those who are watching closely the development and rapid settling of the agricultural districts of these states. The recent acquisition by the Northern Pacific of the 'mystery line of Idaho,' the Gilmore & Pittsburg, has given an added impetus to speculative railroad construction. Few markets are so open to the great productive regions of Montana, Idaho and Washington as Idaho. The Northern Pacific projects are now under consideration by the executives of the Northern Pacific and it may be stated with accuracy that some of these same projects are also being considered by the cities of competing railroads. The city of the Northern Pacific for the little isolated Idaho railroad with its occasional passenger service and its occasional freight train, caused great surprise for the Northern Pacific secured title to that property just at the moment when several other large systems were considering the same territory. This little line is the key of several positions in the country of central Idaho. The Northern Pacific now holds that key and it works out the surveys already made for outlets across the hills to the Pacific coast. MRS. JESSIE M. BURGESS DIES

Pioneer Lady of City Passes Away After Lingering Illness

On Wednesday of this week occurred the death of Mrs. Jessie M. Burgess, after a lingering illness of Bright's disease. Mrs. Burgess was born in Illinois fifty-six years ago this coming July and was married to Mr. Burgess thirty years ago in December. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess came to Twin Falls in 1905 and have made this place their home since that time. There was no children from the union. She leaves to mourn her demise her husband, a sister, Mrs. Thos. Costello, of Los Angeles, California, a brother, John Malole, of Dayton, Washington, and a brother, J. L. Malole, living near Filer. Mrs. Burgess was a life long member of the Baptist church, having become a Christian when a little girl at Orano, Illinois. The funeral will be held from the little home Friday afternoon, the services being conducted by Dr. J. F. Shopton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. B. C. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church, with interment in the Twin Falls cemetery.

WALKING AROUND WORLD

Boston Man in Twin Falls on Long Trip Around the Globe

George E. Plino arrived in Twin Falls Tuesday on a walking trip which will take him around the world. Mr. Plino, who is a young man, athletic build left his home in Boston, Mass., February 2, 1914, having been a little more than a year on his journey so far. He started out on his long quest for the benefit of his health and says that he is in a better condition now than when he left home. He has visited the municipalities of all the governors of the states which he has passed through and will go to Boise to visit the Governor, Dr. C. H. Bennett, Alexander, of the state of Idaho. He carries with him a complete camping outfit, which weighs seventy-five pounds, and whenever a night overtakes him he pitches his little camp. He says that he is enjoying his trip to the utmost.

FAST GAME AT BULL

High School Ball Team Defeats Bull High by Close Score

One of the fastest ball games of the season was played at Bull Friday, when the Twin Falls senior team defeated the Bull high by a score of twenty to five. The game was a pitcher's duel from start to finish and the Twin Falls boys were fighting an uphill game until the eighth inning when by hard work they managed to keep things coming their way until the game was over. The pitcher for the Bull team was a very fast ball, striking out eighteen men during the game. On Friday afternoon the game will go on to Kimberly where a hard game is looked for. The Kimberly team a short time ago defeated the Bull team by a good score.

PROTEST AGAINST A PRIVATE SLATE

Pure Water Party Puts Ticket Into Field

EVERETT M. SWEETLEY NOMINATED FOR MAYOR

Platform Makes Water Problem the Paramount Issue. Good Ticket is Selected.

A protest against the methods employed in placing the citizens of Harlan ticket up for nomination, a regularly called caucus for the purpose of electing delegates to a nominating convention was held Tuesday evening in the First and Second wards. The meetings were held attended by people interested in the water problem. The caucus was held in every way. In no way was a slate put up and in each meeting twenty-one nominating convention for delegates and the ten delegates picked from this number by ballot. The First Ward was presided over by Mayor W. Sweetley, and Barton E. Morse elected secretary. The following delegates were chosen: E. B. Williams, A. H. Ostrander, D. B. Mooreman, Len Rendahl, A. J. Fenvey, J. H. Wila, C. D. Thomas, M. J. Sweetley, H. W. Falling and W. H. Weaver. The Second Ward selected P. E. Hoher and W. J. Hill as delegates. Secretary and placed the following as delegates—Dr. Channing P. E. Hoher, J. Woods, J. J. Woods, C. DeLoach, Reese, Williams, W. R. Freligh, H. E. Rounds, H. L. Dinkacker and W. J. Hill. Wednesday evening the twenty delegates assembled in Jewel hall in a public meeting and selected nominees for a city ticket to be known as "The Pure Water Party Ticket." The convention was regularly called to order by Mayor W. J. Sweetley. The convention form was faithfully followed and every effort was made to give free choice to the candidates. The following ticket was placed in nomination: Mayor—E. J. Young; Councilmen, First Ward—R. P. Logan, and C. M. Smith; Councilmen, Second Ward—R. E. Hoher and W. J. Hill; City Clerk—R. M. Williams; City Treasurer—H. E. Rounds; City Engineer—D. B. Mooreman. For purely personal reasons W. J. Young, as nominee for Mayor and J. Hill for Police Judge, declined to accept the nominations and their places were filled by Everett M. Sweetley and W. E. Malloy, respectively.

A committee on matters reported during the early part of the convention with plans covering most of the items of the city and county, but making the vigorous prosecution of damage suits and procuring a supply of good, pure water the great issue. The committee will be made to the voters of the city. All of the men selected are good, clean, honest men and will carry out any duty in the city and in which they are called upon to do.

On All of Your Printed Matter, It Represents Good Workmanship, Good Wages, and Good Conditions.

The proposal for a North and South railway made by Governor, if not the usual political press banquette spread to tickle the ears of the people, sounds mightily good. It is the hope of the Governor, Alexander, will push the matter and thus aid in binding the two isolated sections into a united state. The fact that North Idaho is separated from this portion of the state by over a thousand miles of railways running through three states, is to be overcome by the main portion for the diversification of interests in the welfare of each and the lack of knowledge of the conditions of each is the lack of harm-doing which is today operating to the detriment of the entire state. Three hundred miles of a direct line will put the northern part in closer touch with this section. It will mean a great amount of interchange of the products, so widely varying, which will build up real home industry for both sections.

It is true that there are many difficulties in the way of the project which will take the united efforts of both sections of the state to solve. Funds for railroad building are not usually available and in this case the matter is nearly solved in a matter by the government, it is a long article toward its successful production. Those who are most familiar with railroad building claim that the proposed route is almost ideal from the matter of easy grades and with some exceptions not difficult nor expensive. The proposal calling of a special session of the legislature does not look necessary, owing to the fact that much of the preliminary work and preparation must be completed before the legislature could act intelligently upon it. By the time such work is accomplished it will be time for another session—it is like most railroad projects.

In connection with the argument which has been started by the Times stationers regarding the prosecution of the city suits against the company, a little more analysis will not come amiss. In the first place the time which has elapsed since the filing of the mandamus suit cannot be altered with respect to its bearing upon the fact that prompt legal steps have not been taken. If in the process of the filing of the case mentioned it was found to be faulty as it was claimed why was not some other form of legal protection adopted which would bring matters to a test? It was not done. One suit was filed and purpose by to drop as admitted by the city legal department. It may be said here that this suit was filed prior to Mr. Burleson's retention as an advisory counsel to aid the city attorney. He cannot be blamed for that failure. But the fact remains just as true that the city council as the administration over that department can be criticized severely for not attempting immediately some other means of bringing things to a real test. It would not have cost any more four years ago to have brought a straight suit for damages than it will now if the Harlan administration keeps its campaign promises. In the meantime, however, the damage has steadily increased. If on the other hand the city cannot collect damages as has been claimed by some attorneys, then the quicker the people should file the letter. The delay has not helped the case in the minds of the people. If we have to knuckle under to the water-works company for all time because of their legal entrenchment, then it is time to know that too. To sum up the argument, there is little excuse for the minds of the taxpayers for any sentiment about injustice to the water-works company. Its course has not been at any time directed by any degree of consideration for the people. Why then, should the people step at any procedure that will relieve the situation and make way for a municipal plant. "Days" have not run when they built the situation. The Harlan ticket is like the professors and lackers in two past administrations, putting out a waterworks platform and a promise to attempt early settlement of the question. It is viewed from the fact that for four or more years the same pledges have been made. The Times will let its readers judge as to the fulfillment. In the coming election the waterworks system is the only issue at stake. It is vouchered for by the old administration which partially is on the new ticket and which is back of the Harlan ticket. It is not worth while trying an entirely new group of men, unaffiliated by the old group to see if they cannot accomplish something toward a solution desired by all where the others have failed?

RAILROADS ACCUSED OF "LOOTING"

It would seem that if the railroads are not paid enough for carrying the mails, they are paid either more than enough or less than enough. If this is a question of fact that can be settled by diligent and disinterested experts, why, then, ask several newspaper writers, should there be any violent disputes between the railroads of the country and the postoffice department of the government over the question? Here, remarks the New York Journal of Commerce, for instance, "is a simple business proposition of rendering a certain service in transportation for the benefit of the public and being properly paid for it." But we find Postmaster General Burleson making the grave charge that "the railroads are looting the postal revenues," and a responsible railroad spokesman retorts that Mr. Burleson is letting the United States government "rob the railroads of at least half what is due them for carrying the parcel post." In short, as the Brooklyn Eagle puts sums it up, each party is accusing the other of robbery. And this is, evidently just the beginning, not the end, of the controversy. For Mr. Burleson pledges himself to renew his prior recommendations on the subject when congress convenes, and the railroads announce that in the meanwhile they will present their case as aggressively as they know how in every congressional district of the United States.

It will be recalled that the postoffice Appropriation Bill was one of the measures which failed of enactment last fall. The Congress in this bill provided for certain changes in the manner of estimating railroad mailpay and also gave the postmaster general discretionary power to reduce it. When the measure was under consideration, as a New York Sun correspondent remarks, "the railroads charged that it was the plan of Mr. Burleson through the exercise of this power to saddle about $10,000,000 of the postal deficit on the railroads of the country." And it is the railroads' share in the defeat of the Appropriation Bill that apparently "moved" Mr. Burleson to the action of March 21st. In his statement, the postmaster general says that the desirability of retaining the laws governing railway mail-pay has been recognized for two decades, and that the need has become more acute since the advent of the parcel post. The change he recommended to congress proposed the substitution of the space basis of pay for the weight basis. This new system would be much more simple, accurate, and economical; and the new rates would have "assured the railroads a somewhat larger revenue per car-mile." But Mr. Burleson continues: "Notwithstanding the equitable and liberal character of the legislation it was bitterly fought throughout its several legislative stages by the so-called Railway Mail Committee, an organization representing certain of the railroads."

"A vote was not reached in the senate. The opportunity to dispose of this vitally important subject was foreclosed not only at the cost of the defeat of this legislation, but of the entire postoffice Appropriation Bill."

"Through the Mail-pay Committee certain of the railroads now are saying that 'the postoffice department' attempt to remedy this situation was an attempted railroad confiscation; no, we were wrong, we were right, well-considered effort to end a system under which the postal authorities are compelled to stand helplessly by while the railroads loot the postal revenue."

The postmaster general denies statements which have been made to the effect that the railroads are not being paid for the increased weight of the parcel post. And he specifies an additional four-million-dollar payment to be made next June. He further declares that "although the railroads contend that they are overpaid, and that they are receiving from it and similar services." For instance, whereas the roads got $2.58 per 100 pounds for carrying the mails from New York to Chicago, they got only $1.80 per 100 pounds for their share of the first-class express rate.

To this President Peters of the Long Island railroad replies as chairman of the House Railway Committee that Mr. Burleson, "through lack of understanding of the postal service" and through bad advice "is going to permit the government of the United States to rob the railroads of at least half what is due them for carrying the parcel post. And 'the railroads' deny the postmaster general's point to a single act of their Railway Mail-pay Committee, in its efforts to present the facts of this case to the people, which has not been absolutely legitimate."

It is noticeable that several influential papers are not only friendly to the administration but to Indiana in this dispute. Referring to the New York Post, the Times says, "The Times is showing that it may be a fair prospect," says that "even the ordinary observer is struck by the fact that 100 pounds of express matter will cost some deal over $200 if mailed in twenty separate packages, and that 100 pounds of mail represent hundreds of units occupying a space vastly larger than one bulky parcel."

And the Philadelphia Record, a Democratic paper very friendly to the administration, remarks in the same connection: "Letter-mail transportation ought to be paid for at much higher rates than the express-package transportation. The government itself makes this distinction in its rates of postage. The postage on a letter weighing ten pounds would be $16; a package of the same weight would be carried 200 miles by parcel post for $2.04—Of the $11,466,030 received by the railroads in 1913 for railway mail-pay, $40,000,000 may have been earned in the transportation of 'free' and 'most-of-class' mail matter, leaving only $11,466,030 as the carriers' reward for the enormous increase of merchandise sent by mail after the advent of the parcel post. On a conservative estimate the pay earned by the railroads last year for the transportation of parcel post calculated on the basis of non-military express rates amounted to about $26,000,000; and they probably received only one-third of this sum for their service."

Turning now to Republican comment, the Boston Transcript's Washington correspondent, after some uncomplimentary remarks about the postoffice department statistics, calls attention to the danger of bureaucratic domination of private activities as seen in this case. He mentions certain earlier arbitrary postal rulings as he considers them, such as the "blue tag" order and the abolition of the parcel post stamp, and continues: "Now comes the paid proposition that the postmaster general, in addition to all the other powers he can exercise over the railroads to get something for nothing, be authorized actually to pay such railroad rates as he pleases, not a mill more or less. The question now becomes a very broad one—whether or not it may be a beautiful thing that Postmaster General Burleson shall have authority to cut railroad compensation below the cost of service, some other postmaster general in the very near future may feel impelled by motives of equal patriotism and justice to make the railroads a present of five or ten million dollars a year, as conclusively he might under the law."

"What the political results may be when the chief executive of the nation is trying to soothe and help the railroads and one of his cabinet officers is doing his best to put them in the bad-mannered form of subject for a 'terrifying speculation.' Literary Digest.

Ford owners drive their own cars. Ford simplicity gives this pleasure. Simplicity in construction. Simplicity in control. It doesn't require an expert mechanic to understand and operate a Ford car.

The Ford is easy to care for. Wonderfully inexpensive to maintain and operate—less than two cents a mile. Economy, simplicity, comfort, convenience, make the Ford car the utility for everybody in city and country—more than 700,000 now in use—the useful car for all the people.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August, 1914, and August, 1915.

Runabout, $410; Touring Car, $490; Town Car, $500; Coupelet, $750; Sedan $825, fully equipped. Cash, or Detroit.

CHAPTER XIX.
THE PRISONER IN THE PILOT HOUSE.

"Can we make them?" asked Baird of Hunt, as their motorboat sped up the river in pursuit of the mugglers. "I can't tell you. I think of them yanking that water bottle out of my hand! I'll bet it had a hundred gems inside. Well, well—that's what comes of being overconfident. Hey, engineer, what speed are we making?" "About sixteen miles." "Is that a higher powered boat than our?" "Don't know nothing about her, sir." "She's pulling away from us slightly," growled Baird. "But you can't take it from me, mister that she won't pull so far away that we can't get her—and when she's going to land, I got plenty of oil." "Well, keep her right where she is and duck for shore when they do," commanded Hunt.

"They're making for the Jersey shore a few points. I guess she goes about twenty-three. I'll take her an hour to lose us entirely." "Since we can't overhaul her, keeping her in sight is the next best thing," replied Hunt. "Think of filling a water bottle with diamonds and accidently dropping it overboard into the hands of confederates! Some head that man Radcliffe has got. I don't know how he got away with it, but I bet but for the stumbling onto that code message. That was luck on our part. They certainly are leaving us behind. I can see that man Bruce's face. And, hang it, I know there are diamonds in that bag and yet I can't prove it. I don't propose to let them get away with it. I wish you'd kick on when we got shore. Why didn't I draw my net and cover them while I picked up the bag?"

"Search me," said Baird, smiling. "Now don't get a grouse before dinner. At least we got Zadora out of their clutches and that's worth a bag of diamonds any day in the week." "And now Storm went to the same hut and never smelled a rat! Well, if they get her again, I'll give the job to you. I've warned those two enough about keeping their eyes open. She and Mme. Du Val wore both made prisoners, but evidently madam escaped days ago. Peculiar, huh?" "Could you arrest her?"

"Not on this deal. O, they're slippery citizens. They don't take the same sort of bait as the rest of them. Still gaining on us. Well, we'll have to take our chances on land. I'll do the work. You stay by the boat and don't propose to walk to Jersey City. We wouldn't get into New York until midnight. Ha! there they go! Jersey shore it is. I wish you'd come let's you can cut down a little bit of their gain."

In the other boat they seemed to be enjoying the voyage. "Right from under Hunt's nose! That's what pleases me," said Bruce. "Ike, when we land you slip behind the warehouse. Gyp and I will cover the old house on the hill. If one alone follows, let him be; but if three of them start, the red muss on my back bit. We're got to get those stones out of the water bottle in a hurry." "Any game play?" asked the man called Ike.

"Not if you can avoid it," said Bruce. "Make that landing by the old salt-bush engineer. The minutes lead when they landed. Ike slipped behind the warehouse, while Bruce and Gyp ran toward the road. Through rear of the glasses Hunt watched them, carefully noting the direction of their flight. But in his eagerness he did not notice that only two men came in. Forth. The minute the boat made a landing he jumped out and began running to-Zadora ran into the office, throw her arms around John's neck, and hugged him. "And to think this morning I was a prisoner, wanting to die and be free of it!" "Temporarily, John. But it all looks a bit fishy to me. Here's the postman! Let's see what he brings." He opened up the letters one by one. "Why, here's a letter from that man Marcus Villiers, who is managing your mine in Montana." "I failed in my last effort to deliver to you some valuable papers concerning your late father's estate. I am now sending them by express and trust they will reach you safely. I hope to—leave these papers will show us some light. We need it, girl." "O, let's look in more about the money. It's only brought misfortune and I'd have been married to you long ago but for a stupid idiot. Come on, marry you inside of three months, no matter what happens." "Will you, honestly?" "Honest? Well, nothing less than a tiptop dinner tonight will match up a promise like that. I've taken care of your girl; and we'll have our happiness and our honeymoon in the West Indies somewhere. Now, let's get out of this stinky old Hoop!" "Come on." "When they were gone Mme. Du Val slipped out from behind the screen and stood listening intently. When she was assured there was no possibility chance of the two lovers returning, she walked over to Storm's kitchen and unlocked the door to the drawers. So they were beginning to suspect her! She smiled. They could not find the least proof in the world. And more than this, in the end they would surely be beaten in trying to recover the property. But in some manner she must get hold of those papers the man Villiers was sending from Montana.

To return to Hunt. He had heard a word or two now and then, but nothing definite. But he saw them put the diamonds back into the water bottle, and he felt sure that he would see them. What now? He wondered. Bruce opened up a plank in the floor and hid the bag. That he and Gyp left the house, then crawled in at the window. He saw the Joanna and a girl enter and he realized the chuckle. Here was the goods, all right. He was surely a lucky man. He was sure to get the diamonds in one. A fine day's work; Zadora freed and the smuggled diamonds under his vest. As he came out of the house he noticed Baird hotfooting it up the path.

"Hello! Where did you come from?" cried Hunt. "Got lost. Saw Bruce and his man leaving and concluded that they had done for you," answered Baird, rather breathlessly. "Not so, you'd notice it. Jim, I've got the diamonds." "By George, that's great work! Suppose you'll let me see 'em. Bruce and me him while life nothing is good." "My idea."

"They ran down the walk to the road but the quarry had disappeared. They hunted thoroughly, but for a long time failed to make any headway. They searched around the boat-landing. "Hate!" Near the dock where they had landed was an old steamer. They arrived in time to see two men enter the pilot house, evidently to hide.

"This was act of in pursuit. From the pilot house came Ike, who pounced upon Baird's back and downed him. Bruce and Gyp came to the steamer's aid, and they trusted Baird up like a Christmas tree in the pilot house."

"It was about the nearest success I'm afraid, unless Hassam Al's ever had. He was badly burned about the hands and throat." "Hunt I'm going to run those fellows down if it takes ten years of my life," he declared as the postman and Hunt assisted him into the motorboat. "I know the whole bunch now." "So do I, Jim. But you won't have to wait ten years; take it from me," replied Hunt sternly.

On the opposite side Radcliffe ran full tilt into Hunt, who wasn't expecting him. Radcliffe struck first, and Hunt crumpled up on the deck. Radcliffe coolly searched him, and found the water bottle with the diamonds, and concluded that his presence on the boat was no longer necessary. He had urgent business in town. They tied up Baird up in the pilot house. In one corner was a large box of excelsior. "This guy put around Radcliffe's feet."

"All over old top! Jeered Ike. "You are going to do a little stunt like that in Quo Vadis, 'member?" That Nero knew his business, all right. Burn 'em up when you don't like 'em, says he. Baird struggled.

Gyp the gunman lit a cigar and carelessly tossed the match into the excelsior. At this moment Hunt came to his senses. He reached for the water bottle. It was gone. Then he sought his automatic. That was gone also. He got up. Three men to one; he replied that he must get help quickly. The motorboat engineer would help. Ike and Gyp had no real intention of setting fire to the old steamer. They had made the threat merely to add a little more torture to their victim's predicament. But excelsior is very inflammable. The flames swept up gustily. The two rogues began stamping on them, but to no avail.

"For Gawd's sake, Ike!" screamed Gyp. "Get 'em out for it. We can't do nothing. What do you throw that match the fire, you fool?" The two turned head and ran. They wanted to be far away when the flames attracted attention. It was one thing to struggle to pick pockets, or sneak away at an early hour, or to tie up a man and roast him to death. This was rash, and did not stop running until their legs began to give out. Hunt dashed to the landing and was aped toward the motorboat when he saw a policeman.

"Officer, quick! That steamer is on fire, and there's a man tied up in the pilot house!" It was about the nearest success I'm afraid, unless Hassam Al's ever had. He was badly burned about the hands and throat.

CHAUTAQUA DATES

Twin Falls Will Put on Attractions, June 11-20 Inclusive.

Secretary notification of the Twin Falls Commercial club, has received information from the bureau managing the Chautauqua circuit that the dates set for the big attraction in Twin Falls will be June 14 to 20, at an early date the announcement will be made of the attractions assigned to this city. It is sufficient to say that the program will feature musical events far beyond the ordinary and that the lectures and other events will prove a rare treat to the people of the Twin Falls tract. The prices charged for the season tickets (fixed by the Chautauqua association) will be low enough to permit the whole family to go to city events. Some attractions booked, if seen in the big cities would cost two dollars per ticket, but under the rules laid down by the association sold at wonderfully low prices as the result of grouping the attractions into the entire big Chautauqua program.

Protest Against a Private Sale

supply and our rights as against the waterworks company.

For a long period, we have been promised satisfactory and prompt action but promises have been broken, pledges have been forgotten. We are still using water of an inferior quality from an uncertain supply delivered through a faulty system that is ruining our streets, and furnished by an outside private corporation. We have grown weary in waiting and justly feel that we can expect no relief except from a change of policy through the election of men who are not in sympathy with the things of which we complain and whose nomination has not been made or dictated by a few interested individuals.

We insist upon an abundant supply of pure water from a source other than the irrigating canals through a system devised by the city and installed without further delay.

We demand the immediate bringing and vigorous prosecution of actions to determine the rights of the city in its ownership with the water works company and particularly in regard to the damages done to our street pavements.

We believe that appointive city officers should be selected because of their fitness and ability to do the work required of them, and that assistance should be allowed them at the expense of the city only when demanded by actual necessity.

We not only believe in a fair apportionment of public funds among the banks, but demand that public money on deposit draw interest at the highest rate that can be obtained, and in this connection we give voice to our objection to the attempted control of the public affairs of our city by any private interest.

We favor the extension of our street lighting system and of the permanent pavements of our streets as rapidly as financial conditions warrant.

The Eighth avenue lateral is and for a long time has been a menace to life and although demand has been continuous and insistent that it be favored in order that lives of children might be protected, action has been delayed either for private interests or through indifference. We direct public attention to those who are to blame for the delay and declare our opposition to the election to office of any person who has been in any manner responsible for the existing conditions or who is not pledged to immediate steps to relieve it.

We rejoice in the passage of the law which provides for state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic, and pledge our active and earnest support to all efforts to enforce it to the end that crime may be lessened and public morals increased.

Everett M. Sweeley, the candidate for Mayor, belongs to the younger generation of the business and professional men of the city and is very popular with all because of his well known integrity, legal ability and all around athletic record since coming to this city nine years ago. Mr. Sweeley is a big man physically and aggressive, one of the kind who will not only push things to successful conclusion but he never a quitter and is a candidate to fight for a principle to the last ditch. As far as experience in conducting city affairs, Mr. Sweeley is well able to care for his duties and will, with his legal ability, greatly aid the city in its problems. Mr. Sweeley was named in the petition for a candidate and had his petition already filed when he was made the choice of the "Civic Water League."

The men who ticked are representative citizens drawn together for a common purpose of making a hard fight for a better water system. There is not any thought of personal gain back of the idea to give Twin Falls a good, pure supply of water. None of them have any other job, any business or any other "general" job. They are men, mostly, independent of past administrations and untrammelled by any past associations, are asking the verging point for four railroad construction projects that during the past years have occupied acres of newspaper space. While nothing definite has been announced as to the start of work on either of these four projected lines, all of which have their inception in southwestern Montana, it is felt by the railroad men that the construction of the four roads is an absolute certainty and the only question that remains to be solved is as to when work will start on them. Surveys for all these routes have been completed years ago.

NEWSPAPER RAILROADS

"Railroad men who are asked this question reply: 'When the trade in the territories embraced in the proposed construction work justifies the expenditure of the vast sums of money and when the money is available—the business and the money are the two stumbling blocks, it is claimed; but when the time arrives, billions will be spent and nothing will be the matter of all the work beyond the shadow of a doubt; according to railroad men who are well posted on the situation. 'One fact stands out boldly from this map: Central Idaho has no railroad. Another fact is palpable—the Gilmore & Pittsburg addition to the Northern Pacific line, provides a connecting link. On this point railroad men are agreed—the country through which the two lines to San Francisco would run is very rich in grazing, agriculture and timber, and much of it is full of mineral wealth.'

Thomas Warner returned Wednesday from Long Beach, California, where he has forty-two next to the morning. Mr. Warner left the family, who will remain for most of the summer.

The ladies of the G. A. R. will give a musical program and silver tea Saturday afternoon, April 17, at the home of Mrs. W. W. Humphrey, 502 Main avenue north. All patriotic people are cordially invited to come and contribute a song or paper or talk to the program.

The funeral of Charles E. Marwood was held from the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended. The funeral was under the auspices of the Modern Woodmen of America and the Fraternal Order of Eagles, both orders of which Mr. Marwood was a member.

Members of the Presbyterian Sabbath school, old and young, are asked to meet at the church after school Friday evening that a photo for a new cut may be taken. We want a large attendance and, since we wish not to deplete the Sabbath day by work of this kind it will be necessary for a number to sacrifice in order to be present.

Prof. C. H. Downman, principal of the high school and student Boone left Thursday evening for Nampa, where Mr. Boone will speak at the state de-olomation contest.—Idaho Falls.

Members of the county of Macaulay from the club were the recipients of two boxes of very fine candy, which was enjoyed by all present.

SOCIETY NOTES

Society items for this column will be gladly received by The Times.

Mrs. Ware entertained the Ideal club on last Monday afternoon. The guests for the evening were Mrs. B. A. Baker, Mrs. Whitely, Larara and Mrs. Chalmers. Mrs. Ware received a beautiful hand painted plate.

Tuesday evening the members of the Queen Elizabeth society of the Methodist church were conveyed by means of a tug chuck to the home of Miss Ruth Fuller, where they were served with a supper. Preceding the usual course of study.

Mrs. Spieberg was hostess to the Auction Bridge club Wednesday. Preceding cards, the bostess served a delightful four-course luncheon, at one o'clock and spring blossoms were used for decorations. Mrs. Thos. Reed received the prize for high score.

Miss Thelma Senior was hostess to a few of her young friends Wednesday evening and cards occupied the evening. Present were Misses Elaine Spafford, Barbara McShea, Pauline Fields, Messrs: Galen McMaster, Donald Bonwell, Tom Patten and Roy Logan.

The Unity club met at the home of Mrs. B. A. Baker. Wednesday evening, where the members were graciously entertained by the hostess. Following the parliamentary drill, which was led by Mrs. Bolivio, Mrs. E. H. Wickcock presented Mrs. J. E. Wilder with a handsome set of salad forks as a gift from the club. The hostess served very dainty refreshments at the close.

Mrs. T. M. Starin, entertained at cards Wednesday afternoon in compliance to her house guest, Mrs. Ballou of Boise. Carrots and spring blossoms were used effectively in the decorations. Present to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Starin were Mesdames Skoels, Hance, Hale, W. O. Taylor,

PROJECTS MUST BE COMPLETED

Salmon and Oakley Irrigation Works Not Ready for Transfer.

State Engineer Smith will recommend the deal at this time of applications for certificates of completion of works filed by the Twin Falls-Salmon river and Twin Falls-Oakley projects when he makes his report to the land board. He made a statement to that effect Tuesday when he returned from an inspection of those projects.

Both projects appear to be in good condition, said Mr. Smith, but there are a number of minor construction details yet to be finished; and I will not recommend the issuance of completion certificates until those details have been attended to. I do not believe it would take the irrigation companies long to do the work, but it must be done before I will favor their turning the projects over to the settlers.

Mr. Smith found the projects he visited to be unusually short of water for this time of year. While they have stored some water the supply is short and unless it is augmented he said he feared the supply may prove inadequate. Statesman.

AN OPEN LETTER

By referring to the red ink spread in the Twin Falls Times of Friday, April 9, you will find some interesting facts about Idaho Home Industry Week.

Your particular attention is called to this in order to show you the cumulative effect of persistent hammering away on one thing. Home Industry Week is now a fixed event in Idaho's calendar.

It must also be admitted that the See Idaho First—now The New West Magazine—is responsible for Home Industry Week. The establishment of the week was not done in a month or in a year. We have been hammering away at it every month in the year for the past three years.

We believe that those who benefit from this campaign are fair-minded enough to be willing to help "pay the piper." We have spent a great deal of time, money and energy in making this week a success. We want to keep this work up and make it a bigger event every year—and train the people to observe it every week in the year.

To the manufacturers and merchants of Twin Falls, who have helped make it possible for us to issue a good magazine that is a credit to the Twin Falls, the State, and the West, we extend our sincere thanks. To their practical financial assistance our success in publishing a magazine in this limited field is largely due.

To those readers of The Times who have nothing to advertise in the columns of The New West Magazine and yet who wish to aid in the upbuilding of the Twin Falls Country and the West, we have this to say:

Send us a dollar for a subscription to The New West Magazine for the coming year, and we will place your name on the Honor Roll as one of those who want to see the West grow and prosper. We want to write "May, 1916" after your name on our mailing list.

A check, a money order or a dollar bill mailed to us will bring the optimism of "The New West" to you for a year. If you have already paid your subscription, send a dollar and the name of a friend.

Prizes for Best Window Display

The majority of the merchants of Twin Falls are making Home Industry displays this week. We want to know what the people think of these displays so we will give twenty prizes for the twenty best reasons why some particular window is the best.

Tell in fifty words or less why you think a certain display is best. Points to be considered are:

- Does the window attract people?
- Will it create a desire for the goods displayed?
- Was the desire strong enough to induce me to go inside and buy?
- Is it a good "Home Industry" win low?

For the best answer to these questions we will give the following prizes:

FIRST—$5.00 in gold:

SECOND TO FIFTEEN—Inclusive—A sealed envelope, each of which will contain an order for a cash or package of one of the articles displayed in the windows—for instance, a can of Pierce's pork and beans; a can of Twin Peaks tomatoes; a pair of Never-Rip overalls; a Schol-Wil cap; a can of McDonald's cocoa; a can of Crescent baking powder, etc.

SIXTEEN TO TWENTY—Each a six-months subscription to The New West Magazine.

Special Prize: To the store receiving the most votes for the best display we will give ten six-months subscriptions to The New West Magazine, to be presented to ten of their customers.

Look at the windows Saturday, April 17, and send or bring your "Reasons Why" to the office of The New West Magazine, not later than Wednesday, April 21.

There is no charge and no other restrictions. Everybody is invited to take a chance at winning one of these prizes.

FILER NEWS.

(From the Filer Journal)

A busy girl was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Slator. Chas. Reynolds and family were in from Bull the latter part of the week.

Mayor Reynolds is improving his handsome home property by building a cement auto drive into his premises.

L. S. Courtney living south of Filer, had the misfortune to be kicked by a horse Sunday evening and sustained a broken leg.

Ray and Henry Brown were in town the past week closing several deals with our farmers for pure bred sheep which they are handling.

Nothing improves our town so much as cement walks. The Journal desires to compliment the village board for their activity along these lines.

Mrs. Winkle, a new-comer, who recently purchased "the little cottage" west of Geo. Patton, left Monday evening for Boise for hospital treatment.

The editor of the Journal would like to do a little gardening of shares. We to furnish the ground and seed and some good husky to do the work.

Now let's begin to think about the water melon. It wouldn't do to have any shortages this year and we are securing a little that this important matter may be overlooked.

Arvid Johnson, who has been employed for 10 years, left the Gen. State lumber yard, has rented his uncle's farm, Andy Mattson, better known as the Price farm, and has moved onto the place. Claude Walker has taken his place in the lumber yard.

Miss Clair Navin gave an apron and the party at her home 6 miles south-west of Filer last Saturday evening. A large number of Filer's young people attended and all reported a pleasant evening.

The young people danced until midnight, when dainty refreshments were served after which dancing was held all night until the early morning hours.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schildman returned Sunday night from their visit to Boise. They report a very pleasant trip. The roads were fairly good, where they kept away from the highway now under construction, as they had not settled enough for good motoring as yet. Mr. Schildman says splendid work is being done on the highway and a little later it will be a great pleasure to ride over it.

Rev. Mr. fundow and wife of Nampa drove down the first of the week.

M. A. Smith had a week purchased a Ford car delivered to be made next Monday.

Rev. Mr. Finley attended the district conference at the M. E. church at American Falls this week.

B. F. Philly and Robt. Lerman have started the report on the 1915 census on the high line segregation.

H. I. Austin attended a meeting of the Gen. State Lumber occupancy managers in Portland last week. He reports an excellent time.

Rev. Mr. Parker, district superintendent of the Methodist, will officiate at the Sunday meeting at the M. E. church. A business meeting of the church board will be held Saturday.

Brady Pierce, who will be remembered as being in Filer's years ago, but who now owns a stock farm in Mexico was a Filer visitor one day this week.

Mrs. H. E. Corwin is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cleve Whitney. She and her husband are now residents of California.

A telegram from NORR Yakima yesterday morning announced the death of Mr. Rettig, father of O. W. Rettig, Mrs. S. D. Taylor, Mrs. Gardner and Mrs. Hartley. S. D. Taylor and wife, A. W. Rettig, Mrs. Bon Hartley and Mrs. J. W. Gardner left last evening to attend the funeral.

Monday was a big day for automobiles in Filer. E. B. Ripley, the local agent, sold and delivered three Ford touring cars on that day. But they don't reflect any great amount of credit on Rip, as a blind man could sell those new 1915 Fords. The purchasers were Wm. Spencer, A. A. Davila, and H. E. Brown.

Tuesday evening next at choir practice in the M. E. church, Prof. Skougard, of the Twin Falls conservatory of music, will be present to give what the chances are for a class of voice pupils here, and for revival of church life. Every singer in Filer is urged to be present and hear what the professor has to offer.

The "Rainbow Kimona" by the Doanettes Society was presented a fair good house. The play pleased the audience. We feel that a word should be said in commendation of the high school orchestra. The wonderful efficiency shown by the members was a marvel to those who had not heard them recently. Mrs. Traut at the piano helped out the youngsters and gave the people an evening of splendid music in connection with the play.

The 1915 class had very neat programs printed at this office for their Junior promenade tonight. The Peace Center has been organized and means that the musical end of the program will be in keeping with the other details. The class roll is as follows: Orle Lee, Noble Fisher, Cleve Mattar, Ruby Doolittle, Jack Muncie, Bill Keeler, Mary Musser, Raymond Hudson, Gail Musser, Harry Boor, Arthur Hawkins. The invited guests at the prom. may rest assured that the class will leave nothing undone to make the evening a pleasant one for those attending.

KIMBERLY

A large and excellent game of baseball was played on the home grounds Friday by Kimberly and Filer. The score was 10 to 0 in favor of Kimberly. Friday, April 16, at 8:00 Kimberly will play Twin Falls on the home grounds. This promises to be an interesting game as both teams have excellent players.

Mrs. McMaster's brother and family from the East arrived Sunday for a short visit.

Miss Stella Sutwicks and Mr. Wood were united in marriage in the temple at Salt Lake last week. These young people have the congratulations of their many Kimberly friends.

Soviet school children have been enrolled for the Better Baby Contest, to be held Thursday, April 15. This contest is given by the Pioneer Ladies, under the direction of the Woman's Home Companion. The committee in charge have worked hard getting everything in readiness. Each child has a definite tab for examination and it is hoped all can be examined.

The 1915 grade book quite relieved, having finished the second installment of examinations Friday.

Citizenship Sovereign was taken to the State Hospital Sunday for an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Joe Fitzsimmons has begun his work as deputy game warden for the counties of Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka.

Miss Margaret Newby and Miss Esther Swenson of the North Side, have been visiting friends here. Take that busted bike to Gloydson Brothers, they'll fix it. Mar. 9 ft.

TWO RANCH BARGAINS

160 acres, 1 1/2 miles from town, 80 acres alfalfa, no better soil on this tract, land easily watered, fair improvements, rented this year for $1250 cash rent, which goes to improve it next season. Price $4100 per acre. This ranch is positively worth $500 per acre, good terms on future payments.

A NATURAL SHEEP RANCH

160 acres 5 miles from town, 80 acres alfalfa, deep rich soil, good small house, price $60 per acre, easily worth $80. This is a natural sheep ranch, being well protected from west winds. Additional adjoining land, which is absolutely as good soil as there is in this county, can be had to make a ranch of 200 acres. If you are interested in sheep raising, investigate this proposition. It can be bought on very favorable terms.

CANNOT DISCRIMINATE

Opinion by Attorney General to Have Effect on Short Line Policy.

That a charge of discrimination will probably be made against the Oregon Short Line for issuing passes to some officials and refusing to issue them to others, by a state or county official who is on the latter list but has made application to the utilities commission for a pass and whose name has been certified by the commission to that road's officials since the ruling of the attorney general announced yesterday in which he holds that a common carrier cannot discriminate. His opinion follows the Abrams case decided by the commission some months ago wherein it was held that a railroad cannot issue passes to certain officials and refuse others. The constitution is quoted in support of the ruling—discrimination. In the Abrams case the Pacific & Idaho Northern refused Abrams a half fare rate as other ministers were receiving. The utilities commission announced that it will proceed to certify passes for county and state officials where a showing is made their issuance will result in savings to the state. Under the law requires. The commission takes the view it has no other alternative and there is no mandatory power vested in it to force the common carriers to issue passes. It is believed the Short Line will stand by the same position it has assumed, i. e. that it will issue passes only to members of the utility commission, to the state veterinarian and his deputies, the pure food commissioner and his deputies, the county sheriffs and their deputies.

This will, it is now believed, result in bringing an action of discrimination against the common carrier upon which the utility commission will be asked to act. If the commission's ruling is adverse to the common carrier a writ of review will be petitioned for in the supreme court and in this manner the last tribunal in this state will be able to place a construction on the pass law enacted by the last legislature.

There are 20 common carriers operating in Idaho. Of this number all except the Short Line, by far the largest in point of mileage within the state, have signified to the commission they will issue passes. Many of the applicants ask for passes on but one or two of the roads. Every state department head has asked for passes for himself and deputies, and many members of boards of institutions, etc., have asked for passes. All told, the number of passes petitioned for run into the thousands, considering all of the railroads over whose lines transportation is asked. — Capital News.

We don't ask you to take our word for it, all we ask is that you let us show you. We don't ask you to take our word regarding our mileages of from 20 to 24 miles per gallon of gasoline. All we ask is that you let us prove it to you.

When you buy a motor car you are spending lots of money; then why not take your time and make them show you just what their cars will do. Make them show you their gears and axle shafts. Then come down and compare them with the Buick parts. You will find the Buick parts the heaviest and the best made and finished.

The Buick parts are the cheapest in price for their weight of any car in their class.

That people are considering these facts is proven by our sales, the most of any automobile firm in Southern Idaho. Our tenth carload since the 20th of February is due here next Saturday.

Remember, the Buick is guaranteed to outpull any car made, weight, size of engine and gear ratio being equal. We back this guaranty with money, chalk or marbles.
