Italy's plunge into the European war has been made at last after months of needless diplomatic jangle in effort to adjust the old feud with Austria.

The declaration of Italy will mean the Greece with the number of nations in Europe will be cut down to five: Switzerland, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Spain.

Germany, Austria and Turkey is a complete ring of active, well equipped armies, which it would seem more further strategic moves on the part of the German allies.

Combed arms millions numbering practically sixteen millions of trained men will be placed in the field and led by more skilled numbers crash the Teutonic alliance.

which has been in existence for two months been fighting desperately to turn back the tide of invasion.

It does not look as though the people of Europe will be able to stand the drain much longer and that the demands for peace will become much stronger and make some kind of adjustment other than the war toll now being taken.

Even the well-known actor of German origin, Barham, met after a while rode down to a soldier's camp, and returned with a waste of lives taken from industry and the attendant loss of industrial wealth.

The predictions made by Lord Kitchener that the war would last another year does look like a good guess.

Considerable complaint is being made by the farmers coming to this city via the Shoshone falls ferry and by those who have occasion to use the route to the North Side over the costly charges for ferriage.

The ferry, owned by the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Waterpower company, has been doing a lucrative business for some time and last year applied to the public utilities commission for an increase in the tolls.

This increase was granted with apparently little investigation on the part of the utilities commission.

Twenty-five cents per person and twenty-five cents for the vehicle is too much. It is higher by far than any other ferry charge on the Snake River.

Oswaley's ferry on the new east and west state highway charges only fifty cents for any vehicle with a lower rate for the round trip.

The Great Shoshone Power company since getting the ferry has made money and could still make money if the rates were cut in two.

The actual investment for ferry and equipment is not more than $500. The operating expenses are less than one hundred dollars a month.

Figured conservatively, the ferry is making better than six hundred per cent on the investment during the seven months of tourist travel.

The citizens of Twin Falls, Jerome and Shoshone should make a strong protest to the utilities commission for a review of the rates and a big reduction in the present unjust charges.

A BOON TO FARMERS

The move of the Lincoln Produce and Refrigerating company in placing an up-town produce station on Shoshone street south is one that should meet with the approval of the farmers and with their hearty support.

For a good many years the produce of the tract has been shipped out to the commission houses with an attendant lower profit to the rancher, poultryman or dairyman, because of the large profit demanded by the commission house.

With the plan adopted by the Lincoln Produce company, the cash is paid directly to the farmer, thus putting real money into circulation and by thus saving the middle-man's profit more money stays with the farmer.

On the other hand, the Lincoln Produce company is concerned in employing local people and spending its profits within the county.

For these reasons its policy of that for any other company paying spot cash for produce should be consistently supported by the ranchers.

FOREIGN VIEWS ON THE "LUSTITANIA" TRAGEDY

A great chorus of the law goes on from the press in foreign lands over the sinking of the Lusitania and so far as we can judge from the cables, the net has excited universal condemnation in all European countries except, of course, in the dominions of the Teutonic powers.

In Germany and Austria, while the consequent loss of innocent lives is deplored, the newspapers consider it a purely justifiable act of war, and both the official account of the German admiralty and the press verbatim claim that the great liner was an auxiliary cruiser armed with guns and this description of the vessel is not only confirmed by the statement of the collector of the port of New York to the contrary. The official statement of the German government runs in part: "The Lusitania naturally was equipped with guns, as is every modern vessel of the English or American navy. Moreover, it is well known that she had large quantities of war material in her cargo."

The "owners," therefore, knew to what danger the passengers were exposed. They alone bear all the responsibility for what has happened. "Germany on her part is not to be blamed. It is to be blamed, therefore, to warn them repeatedly and solemnly. The imperial ambassador in Washington even went so far as to issue a public warning, so as to draw attention to this danger."

The government further "facilitated" after expressing its "deep emotion" at the loss of the Lusitania, by the fact that the vessel was carrying a large quantity of munitions. Winston Spencer Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty, who, by consoling instructions which must bring the curse of mankind conjured upon this cruel warfare. The Lusitania was a warship on the list of the British auxiliary cruisers, and carried armament of twelve strongly mounted guns. She was more strongly armed with guns than any German auxiliary cruiser which had been reported for attack.

The Berlin Lokai Anzeiger says: "The fact that the vessel was fully armed renders completely justified her destruction under the laws of war." "Though most of the German papers regret the loss of neutral citizens, they find that the victims were themselves to blame; for example, the Kreuzzeitung says: 'The sinking of neutral ships was not with the sinking ship; they must bear the full blame, and Count Reventlow, in the Tageszeitung, observes:—

"The American government probably will make the case the basis for diplomatic action, but it could have prevented the loss of American lives by appropriate instructions. It is the American government's fault, therefore, if it did not tell Germany's warships that they were forbidden to attack neutral ships."

The Berlin organ of the Catholic Center party, the Germania, discounts the "attempts by Germany's antagonists to make moral capital" against her out of the sinking of the ship, and proceeds:—

"We can look forward to such efforts with a clear conscience, for we have proceeded correctly. We can only anticipate above justice that war is war."

Another view of the moral value of the act comes from the Kolnische Volkzeitung, also an organ of the Center party. It runs:—

"The sinking of the Lusitania is a success of our submarines which must be placed beside the greatest achievement of this naval war. The sinking of the silent German steamship is a success of our submarines which will still greater than material success. With joyful pride we contemplate this latest deed of our navy. It will not be the last. The English wish to abandon the German people to death by starvation. We are more humane. We simply sink an English ship with passengers, who, at their own risk and responsibility, entered the zone of operations."

The Frankfurter Zeitung says:— "The German navy has sunk the ship. It has done its duty."

"For the German navy the sinking of the Lusitania means an extraordinary success. Its destruction demonstrated the last battle with which the people of England consoled themselves when hostile shipping reached which it dared to defy the German warnings."

"We do not need to seek grounds to justify the destruction of a British ship. She belonged to the enemy and brought us harm. She has fallen to our shots."

"The enemy and the whole world were warned that who ventured to trust himself within her staked life."

"In neutral countries the sinking of the great liner is condemned, and in many cases by papers which have heretofore been championing the German cause. In fact, the Observateur Romano, the Vatican organ, which, despite the neutrality of the pope, has never concealed its pro-German sympathies. The Rome Messenger looks for serious consequences and thinks that it is 'worse than a battle lost' for Germany. All Scandinavian seem against. Expressions of strong disapprobation are found in the Christiania-Aftenposten and Morgenbladet, while the Norwegian remarks:—

"No policy of neutrality can rule the Germany of to-day, and perhaps, Germany is not strong enough to dispense with the friendship of other nations."

Similarly, in Denmark, the Copenhagen National Tidende, Politiken, Socialdemokraten, Venstre and Koebenhavn have bitter comments, while in Sweden the strongly pro-German Stockholm Nya Dagligt Allehandan writes:—

"A cry of horror and indignation will rise from the civilized world. If Germany have sunk the floating palaces, because it was a warship, it was an unmanly crime against humanity. One can hardly understand how an officer of the German navy could be able to perpetrate such a deed. We must presume that the German navy intended that there were men and munitions aboard. But that remains, nevertheless, revolting and horrible."

The Russian papers are horrified. The Petrograd Novoye Vremya actually suggested that the Allies should supply 'rightful' vengeance against the Germans, the Birzhovaya Vremennik claims that the Kaiser should be held personally responsible, and the Courier says:—

"The right to punish criminals who violate the laws of humanity belongs first and foremost to the great American republic. America knows and how to use this right. The sympathy of the allied world is with her beforehand. The world is being suffocated by poisonous gases of inhuman cruelty spread abroad by Germany, who in the madness of her rage, is committing needless, purposeless and senseless murder solely from lust of blood and horrors."

Generally speaking, the French papers refrain from offering any advice to America, and this stand is taken by such Paris organs as Le Temps, Le Figaro, and Le Genou. Other important Paris Journals expect a strong line to be taken by President Wilson, not, for example, the Matin, Journal des Debats, and the Echo de Paris. La Liberte calls upon the United States to take a place among the belligerents and La Guerre Sociale thus concludes its comments:—

"The brave Yankee who sailed in the Lusitania makes the demand: 'If President Wilson has your punks, Bernhardt will get his hands on them twenty-four hours.' 'Intransigent adorns its tale with the following moral:—

"Will the United States permit German terrorism to cut her off from Europe, a civil prisoner of Germany? We can not advise the United States. The present case only shows the disadvantage of being a great nation unarméd. There is no diplomacy without armées, no prestige without the means of making oneself respected."

Among the Journals of the British capital the liveliest interest in America's attitude is displayed, and almost all the papers have asked the question, "What will America do now?" The London Daily Mail writes:—

"To the American people, who have suffered from this felon blow equally with ourselves, we address no words of impudent counsel, but we do venture to offer them, from the bottom of our hearts, a message of profound sympathy. We share their indignation, their loathing and contempt for the assassins who sneak under the waters and wage a campaign of murder against unarmed and defenseless passenger ships, merchant vessels, and fishing trawlers, and we promise them that so far as is in us, the deaths of these American citizens shall be avenged."

Similar sentiments are expressed by such influential organs as the Times, Morning Post, Daily Telegraph, Daily Chronicle, and Daily News, but one and all seem to expect that America will take swift and vigorous action. Quite contrary views are held by The Observer, which in the course of a long and interesting leader, remarks:—

"The course which the American people should follow in by no means clear, and the obstacles in President Wilson's path are many and so dangerous that no one can fairly expect him of persistently to be willing to take forceful action. We shall certainly not rank ourselves among those who urge the United States to abandon their neutrality. Great and grievous as is the wrong done them, we hold every reason for prudence and restraint. It would in our view, be a blunder if they permitted themselves in a moment of indignation to further the deep-laid plans of Germany by picking up the quantity thrown down to them. A man of proved temper and tried courage is not bound to return a madman's blow."

He gave a very able talk along the lines of the condition of the home. He met with fairly good success among the business people in subscribing for the home.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Price have traded their two town residences to Mr. Dunlop for his southwest twenty and adjoining town. They expect to leave for Texas about the first of June when they will reside for a while. L. O. Hughes and family will occupy the Pier residence while W. W. Taylor will occupy the other.

The high school pupils are to be congratulated on the annual "The File." It is certainly a handsome piece of work and reflects creditably on the Twin Falls Times printers. The cuts worked up good and clear, and are so very well done as to cause comment. Probably no school in Idaho will come within gunshot of equaling this file. Not only are the pupils to be congratulated but also at what may well be proud of the issue.

Electric Iron $2.75

A Large Shipment of ACME Armored Electric Sad Irons. GUARANTEED For All Time.

Here is the secret of the wonderful iron. Here is the reason why it does the work quicker, cheaper, easier and better. Figure it out for yourself. It's just simple, plain common sense.

An electric iron receives a set amount of electric current just as an electric lamp does, therefore the supply of heat to it is just the same in amount. It does not vary, but the amount of heat taken by the work does vary. Some pieces take so much heat that the iron cools down in working. On the other hand, other pieces take much less heat, therefore the iron gets hotter while working. There are no two pieces of work that take the same amount of heat as the iron receives, therefore the iron must be a reservoir for heat. It must absorb the constant supply and hold it where it can be drawn on as needed. It is the heavy base which the ACME IRON has that acts as the reservoir. The ACME IRON has twice the weight in metal than any other iron has, therefore it takes twice as long to cool down. You don't have to nurse it along on heavy work, but can plug right along on practically any piece and not be delayed.

To get a smooth, easy running iron, you have to have an even heat while working and that means a hot point and hot edges when standing idle. Half the entire supply of heat goes into the edges outside of the Element Slots. In the ACME IRON there is just as much heat going into the iron where it narrows down as there is in the back where it is heavier.

The ACME gets the most heat where the heat is needed most.

It not only shows a perfect hot-point but it shows hot edges as well.

The ACME IRON has the Armored cord, a patent feature which no other iron has and which makes you the whole cost of the iron in the carrying of food repair cost.

Actually it is far cheaper to buy the ACME ELECTRIC IRON at its cost price than it would be to accept any other iron as a gift.

Owing to the fact that we are able to purchase these irons in large quantities, we are able to sell them cheaper. Therefore, we are selling the ACME ELECTRIC IRON, which retails for $3.75 at a reduction of $1.00, making it cost the consumer but $2.75.

Idaho Power & Light Company

137 SHOBIONE STREET

TALK COLONIZATION

Upper Salmon People are Entitled to a Share of the Valley.

According to the contract entered into by the Idaho Power and Light Company and the Upper Salmon Valley, the latter is to receive a certain company plans to colonize the lands at present devoted to the raising of grain and forage for their cattle, especially in this valley. In the event that all the plans for contact materialize, and the contact becomes a big mining center it is not surprising that it will.

In the last issue of the Miner the proposition to discontinue the colonization plan was discussed. The contract entered into by the Idaho Power and Light Company and the Upper Salmon Valley, the latter is to receive a certain company plans to colonize the lands at present devoted to the raising of grain and forage for their cattle, especially in this valley. In the event that all the plans for contact materialize, and the contact becomes a big mining center it is not surprising that it will.

This valley is at present owned by the Fish Construction company, whose chief business in this neighborhood is the raising of cattle for market. The development of this company are a part of an immense tract of 17,000 acres of deeded land and over 1,000,000 acres of leased land that extends from Rock Creek, Idaho, to Texoma and Montello, Nevada, a distance of about 200 miles. This form of the largest ranches in the entire west. In addition to cattle, herds of sheep are grazed on portions of this ranch.

Until about three years ago, the only crop that was raised in the river bottoms and on the lower benches capable of being watered, was what had depended upon to support the herds during the winter months. Late in an extensive ditch system was completed and several thousand acres of water were harnessed and water is available for irrigation purposes.

The Fish Construction company, who own the right of way for the proposed canal, have been unable to clear these away. Some clearing is now going on in the valley near Contact and around the company ranch at Salt Junction. The mountains of the valley are stupendous from an agricultural outlook it is estimated to have a capacity of about 200,000 acres of irrigated land. This is the generally assumed attitude of the Idaho Construction company. Much of course, depends upon the flood waters and the possibility for colonization are immense. In view of the fact that there are excellent chances for the construction of storage reservoirs on the upper river that will be capable of conserving the flood waters and turning them into a large volume of irrigation in the valley. Then, the waters of Thompson Springs valley creek and many other sources of supply are not under dispute at all. The lands of the valley will eventually support hundreds of persons where one now subsists.

DOG WITH RABIES KILLED

John Larce Kills His Dog, Who Was Affected.

One day last week John Larce, who lives in the city, noticed that his dog was acting strangely. Watching the animal for some time he concluded that he was infected with the rabies and at once killed it. This is the first animal that has shown any sign of the dreaded trouble which is going the rounds of Southern Idaho. Mr. Larce is of the opinion that his dog was struck by the vampire bat.

GUYER'S OPENS FRIDAY Summer Season at Popular Resort Begins With Big Dance. The Times is in receipt of a communication from Eugene Brownlee, the new manager of the Guyer's Hot Springs Hotel, near Ketchikan, that the hotel is now open and ready to receive its guests with everything in first class shape. To begin the season with a big dance in the big lobby of the new hotel was inaugurated last year with great success and for this year the opening dance is announced for Friday evening of this week. Twin Falls people who desire accommodations for that night or for the weekend are urged to send their telegraphic orders for rooms. Mr. Brownlee is thoroughly competent and courteous as a manager and will do all in his power to make things pleasant for his guests. All things will be arranged to the satisfaction of the coming of people from this section in order to give the best of service. YOU OLD TIMERS! Don't desert another old timer when the need of electric range fixtures, wiring or supplies. I came here nearly 20 years ago. Swiss Alpine Yodlers Coming With Chautauqua

To hear Frank Graub and his company of Swiss Alpine yodlers is like being transported for a short time to the valleys and mountains of picturesque Switzerland, for these people are not only from the famous Tyrol region, where they were simple folk and learned to sing the songs and play the instruments they use on the platform and stage, but they cling to the native costumes in their entertainments, and the stage set-up is a miniature alpine into their native village. They sing the songs of their native land, tell stories in the way you would hear them if you made an expensive trip to their country, and as talented musicians, they play all the common stringed instruments, such as cello, zither, guitar and the like. The Alpine Yodlers will close the Chautauqua week here.

Special De Luxe Train Chicago to Exposition

Will Arrive About May 25 in San Francisco Bearing Only Noted Lyceum Talent.

The special train that will leave Chicago May 22 over the Burlington line for the San Francisco exposition has a number of Lyceum circles and caused more excitement than anything in their ranks this year. This train will be fully equipped with every comfort that a first-class railroad officials can provide and the passengers will number among them some of the most famous names familiar throughout the United States, and many of these people are known abroad.

The train will stop for short visits in Chicago, St. Paul, Denver and Salt Lake, Reno, Sacramento, Stockton and other points, and the celebrities will continue their tour from city to city. It will be the greatest joy ride these celebrities have had, though they are not allowed to discuss their work, but they will be glad to discuss their travels in the past.

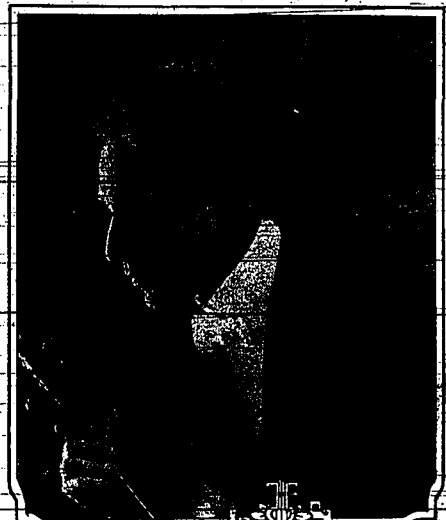

The train will stop for short visits in Chicago, St. Paul, Denver and Salt Lake, Reno, Sacramento, Stockton and other points, and the celebrities will continue their tour from city to city. It will be the greatest joy ride these celebrities have had, though they are not allowed to discuss their work, but they will be glad to discuss their travels in the past.

The oldest Chautauqua is at Lake Umbagog, New York. The largest Chautauqua for eight days or less is at Atlantic, N.H. The richest is at Winnetka, Ill., over $1,000,000 invested by the Chicago and North Western electric railway. One of the largest Chautauques of Chautauqua is that conducted by the Ellison-White Chautauqua System—110 Chautauques.

Chautauqua makes people read and think and do. It brings to our doors the best things taught, preached and practiced in schools, colleges, churches and social centers.—T. W. Stewart.

The Chautauqua will always endure, because it is in the blood of the American people.—William M. Ladd.

VINCENZO GULLOTA, Violinist

One cannot look at the above picture without being impressed with the anticipated attraction had disappointed thought that Gullota has the marks of the soulful artist. He will bring to the coming Chautauqua a trio that will be declared the real thing, only this isn't just the way these artists would describe it. Gullota made a big hit the first time he ever appeared at a Chautauqua. That was when he was fresh from Italy and did not know the ways of an American. But he went into a Chautauqua town in Illinois on a hot afternoon and was the "goat" for a much anticipated attraction had disappointed them, and the audience sat waiting when he and his company appeared. Before three numbers were finished his big audience was won over, and at the end of the program they contracted for his return the next year. Not only that, but a manager and critic who was present said it was the best of the kind he had ever heard, and he engaged them for a full season. That's the way Gullota makes good, and he will do the same here.

ROLAND A. NICHOLS, The Man Who "Discovered" Harold Bell Wright

BUT then it is no longer necessary to refer to Roland A. Nichols as the man who discovered and adapted and started on the way to fame that great author, Harold Bell Wright. Every one acquainted with the great lecturer knows of the rapid rise of this scholarly man. Fewer men are more strongly commended and less criticized than is Nichols. He has a body commensurate with the size of his humanity and his soul. He has a playfulness which any prizefighter or athlete might envy. He looks like the man who has just finished a lecture on "The Man Who Was" People who the country generally have heard his lecture on "Who Pays the Freight," a never lecture which has proved very popular is "Mind Your Own Business."

STATE LAND SALE table with columns: Section, Township, Range, Improvement, and Value. Lists various land parcels for sale.

TERMS OF SALE: One-tenth of the purchase price and first year's interest on deferred payments, cash on day of sale; the balance in forty annual installments at six per cent interest.

MRS. A. C. ZEHNER, Lecturer

Women are constantly attaining a more important place in American life. The woman who thinks and who has a live message to present is greatly in demand. Such women are called for on the Chautauqua platform, and one who has made a reputation in many gatherings is Mrs. A. C. Zehner, who will give a number of lectures in this state this summer and will be at the assembly here.

Mrs. A. C. Zehner, this summer and will be at the assembly here. Mrs. Zehner was born in the south, the daughter of a heavy slaveholding family. She was taught to abhor a Yankee, and her environment was such as to instill sectional feelings. Her breadth of thought is shown by the fact that she married a Yankee, and the keynote of her lectures now is that this nation will do things in proportion as it does away with sectional feeling of every sort.

WHAT JENKINS SAYS

I want the good people of this community to know that this is a WONDERFUL BARGAIN SALE, but a genuine MONEY RAISING SALE. We are in dire need of the cash right now. Had the weather not been stormy during the last week of our sale, I am sure that the desired amount would have been raised. We are compelled to continue this sale, compelled to continue selling at sacrifice prices. The malicious falsehoods, floated by rivals, do not trouble me the least. We are struggling to raise this money with an honest, straight forward sale.
