While the United States is being so busy with Germany it would be well to remind Secretary Bryan that a little firmness with England will not come amiss. Politic notes to the dominating English government have not been wanted and have produced little of permanent good. England's policy has been and always will be, so just as far diplomatically as possible and then bluff for the rest. Practices that are objectionable in one warring nation should not be over-looked in England because of Bryan's easily distinguished pro-British leanings.

TREATING AID ALIKE Deputy Game Warden Fitzsimmons for this county is doing splendid work in stopping the violation of the state game laws. Mr. Fitzsimmons is utterly fearless in arresting every person who fishes without a license and prominent citizens must take their medicine when caught violating any section of the law. The sportsmen of this section should give the new deputy loyal support in any measure he may take in the performance of his duties.

The silent traffic policeman on the corner of Main and Shoshone is an innovation of the new administration that apparently is accomplishing a vast amount of good. Most of the automobilists are very carefully avoiding the knocking over of the sign in order to do so must make the turn in the right direction. Even the drivers of the horse driven vehicles by reason of the instant of the horses have so far automatically obeyed road rules which hitherto they have for the most part ignored. The silent policeman is working well for the reason that the average speed demon is not going to forget the warning of the sign for several blocks after it has been passed. The Times would suggest to the police force that the pedestrians should be warned against the practice of cutting corners at the busy intersections of the business district.

WHERE THE GERMAN-AMERICANS STAND "Entirely Justified" is the verdict that is passed by German-American papers upon the sinking of the Lusitania. Germany's right to sink without immediate notice, a merchant vessel carrying contraband of war, is, in the section of American opinion, so obvious that it hardly merits discussion, though a number of papers argue that the warning issued by the German embassy fulfills that obligation of giving notice demanded by international law. Three other subjects of no little importance are next considered: the question as to who is really responsible for the loss of American lives, which all deplore; what is the proper action, if any, that should be taken; and finally, what would be the attitude of American citizens of German blood in the event of any conflict between the United States and Germany—an eventuality regarded as extremely improbable.

There seems to be an almost universal opinion that upon England rests the responsibility for the loss of so many non-combatant lives. The "Tribune" writes: "The German Government within her rights after giving preliminary world-wide notice to shipping interests by establishing a war zone, which action was supplemented by special public notice to American travelers prior to this sailing. Responsibility rests with England and the Cunard line for attempting to use Americans as human shields to guard ammunition supplies on an English auxiliary cruiser."

The New York state Zeitung goes further and asks if the loss of the Lusitania was not deliberately planned by England to obtain the assistance of neutrals:

"Was it part of the plan by means of the sinking of the Lusitania, with its many American passengers, so as to unite the neutrals of the world—Italy, Holland, the Scandinavian countries, the Balkans, and even South America—into an anti-English alliance that should be directed either the way of the rights of neutrals against Germany and against Germany's submarine warfare?"

The New Yorker Herald holds that the loss of Americans on British ships can not rightly be used as a basis of a protest as there is no doctrine of international law stating that the presence of neutrals on belligerent ships confers immunity from attack. It then proceeds:

"If it were really the case that the presence of one or more Americans on board a British ship could confer immunity upon the ship, its crew and cargo, then Germany's sea offensive against England would be completely nullified, an England would entice upon every ship a pair of Americans."

This is simply absurd. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch notes warningly that England is trying to embroil us:

"Because England herself is powerless, the United States is to be provoked into war with Germany. As it stands today the chances of such an eventuality are very small, but the Washington government will not very carefully before taking decisive steps."

The German-speaking labor papers are strong for peace peace at any price—and manifest as they have done since the war began, a strongly anti-English tone. A good example is found in the views of the New York Volkzeitung, which says:

"The workers can have no interest in a war. They stand to lose their all—lives, homes, jobs, families, happiness. Therefore it is the duty of American workers to oppose this war with all their might and hate. It is not a question of excusing the German act. That cannot be excused. But we can not bring the dead American passengers to life by sending unknown thousands of soldiers to an early grave. After all, there are other methods of punishing Germany for her wanton slaughter. 'Down with war! Peace at all costs!' that must be the slogan of the American workman."

The Chicago Worker is strongly against any idea of war. Says the Deutscher Journal:

"It is terrible that women and children and other non-combatants should be sacrificed in the horrors of this war, and it is just as horrible that men should be killed and maimed. It makes no essential difference whether these men wear uniforms or not. We must not forget that the sinking of the Lusitania is merely an incident in this conflict of war. The differences between the United States and Germany can be settled by diplomatic means, and the most rational would be to stop this world-war altogether."

The Fatherland calls for the impeachment of the secretary of state: "Instead of urging the president to take steps against Germany, he should impeach the secretary of state for his neglect of duty in not warning the Americans of the peril of power traffic in the war zone, especially under the flag of a belligerent nation. If the secretary of state, in accordance with the Mexican precedent, had issued such a warning, not a single American life would have been forfeited."

This editor, who predicted, specifically the sinking of the Lusitania a few days before the event, now proceeds to further prophecies: "No innocent passengers should be allowed to embark on a vessel carrying explosives. It stands to reason that a fate not unlike that of the Lusitania will meet before long a vessel carrying an explosion of vast stores of ammunition within. While Germany is not bound to respect a flag of any ship carrying implements of murder, German submarines may discriminate in favor of a neutral flag. Spontaneous combustion recognizes no international convention. "When Germany determines upon a plan of action," she means business.

Of course, savings bank compound interest is not the only way to make money with money. Many fortunes were made and many more will be made through wise investments. And many fortunes are lost, too, through unwise investments. But thrifty habits and consulting with experienced persons like conservative bankers, will gladly give one the wisdom necessary to handle money wisely. When you invest in some things—stocks, for instance—you assume a business risk for the sake of sharing in business profits. But perhaps you are not in a position to take "business risks." Speculation is an expensive luxury. The wisest course for the person of moderate resources is to keep out of the stock market. What form it takes, when you speculate, you can only hope to win, but with your money in a sound bank you can know just where your money is and what it is earning for you all the time. Savings bank deposits are better protected than money in any equally profitable and equally available direct investment. The protection is as nearly perfect as law can make any investment of money. That is why the savings bank ought to be considered one of the foundations of our national safety and prosperity.

ONE OBJECT IN CULTIVATION It Best Conserves Moisture and Liberates Plant Food, Conditions Making Good Growth. The main object in the cultivation of a young orchard is to secure the growth of the ordinary or catalpa type. This allows working up close to and under low-headed trees, without injury to their trunks. A spring tooth harrow may take the place of the disk, but cannot be gotten close to the trees without injury to them. Harrow as free as possible from projecting parts, and short slanting spokes should always be used in orchard culture.

TALKS ON THRIFT No. 10.—SAFE INVESTMENT OF SAVINGS. "Thrift is the one investment that always yields returns." Isaac F. Macgregor. Many persons want to make money fast and often lose what they save by risking it on questionable ventures. The savings bank way is the best until one has accumulated some capital and acquired experience and judgment to enable him to make sound investments on a large scale. A savings account does not compel the investor to go back and start over again because of losses by speculation or otherwise. One can invest small, odd amounts in a savings account. He can buy them at any time, and his money will begin to earn interest at once. The interest, as soon as it is added to the principal, begins to earn more interest itself, and thus the account grows in two ways.

THE PASTEUR SERUM State Prepared to Furnish Treatment for Rabies. "Dr. Ralph Falk, secretary of the state board of health, announced Monday that the board was now prepared to furnish treatment for rabies at the state laboratory. Heretofore the board's treatment has been obtained only from private laboratories at a cost of $60. The state will charge only the actual costs of the service, bringing the treatment within reach of every citizen. It will not be possible for us to distribute the serum throughout the state," said the doctor, "but it is only necessary for one needing it to notify us by telegram or letter so that we may order it from the public health service. When it arrives, the person needing it must come to the laboratory to be treated. We will also be able within two weeks to distribute silver nitrate solution to physicians and midwives throughout the state. This solution is for the purpose of preventing blindness among newborn babies, and is prepared in sealed tubes. The typhoid vaccine will be ready for distribution about the first of the week. It is distributed to physicians on application, and to the county health officers. While by the action of the state board of health in securing this serum, the cost of it is eliminated to the person vaccinated, the physician may charge a fee for administering it. Some physicians have agreed to administer it free, and this will be done undoubtedly where the "contingent" of the applicant warrants it. It will be administered free in Boise upon application at the offices of the state board of health. Applicants may charge a fee for 200 treatments, to immunize an entire community, in one of the northern counties. There is no charge for the plant and capable of purifying 4,000,000 gallons of water a day. It will be ordered by the state board of health for a term of a year during the construction of its own system. A permanent plant, using this method of purification, is the stipulation of the contract for a term of 10 years. It is to be located in the city for some time."

PRISONERS DOING WORK State Land in Gem District Brought Under Cultivation. With 400 acres of land cleared, 200 acres to be planted in corn, 15 acres of which is in alfalfa and some seven acres in potatoes the prisoners' camp on the state land in the Gem district is doing the work of working prisoners who can be trusted outside of the prison walls, in meeting with similar success and is not only beneficial to the men but is going to be profitable to the state in the end. If the prison authorities had sufficient state land to plant in alfalfa and corn, it is not more could have been seeded bringing greater returns to the state. A total of 12 men have done all of the work with, of course, the assistance of teams. Warden John Snook of the penitentiary has just returned from the Gem project having taken over a prisoner by the name of Workman to take the place of Redford, the prisoner who violated the rules of the camp, but was later recaptured. He inspected the camp and crops and returned well satisfied. "We have never had more than 12 men on the state land now," said Warden Snook. "There has been only one violation of trust in the state of Idaho. None of the other prisoners has attempted to get away. In fact they greatly resent the action of Redford in trying to escape for they do not want reflections cast on them. The crops are looking fine. There are 200 acres of alfalfa which can be found out of doors. The state alfalfa as well as potatoes are looking good. With the potatoes planted there and the alfalfa well established, the penitentiary the supply will be ample enough for the penitentiary for a year. We will, of course, have more grain than we can use, but we can dispose of and the alfalfa will not take care of the wants of our stock. If we could have had more state land we could have had a fine alfalfa crop and a good crop of corn. We have never had more than 12 men on the state land if not more could have been placed in cultivation. The men are well satisfied at the camp, with the work they are doing, their good food and as well profitable to the state. On the trip out to the Gem district we had shape Meridian owing to the heavy rain that had fallen, there just previous to the time I started."—Capital News.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Diseases of Adult Life.

Sanitation has achieved brilliant results in decreasing the diseases due to germs which for the most part affect children and young people, and the death rate among young people have notably diminished. It is true that attention was turned to the diseases of later life which are actually on the increase among us.

In England and Wales the death rates at all ages are decreasing. In the United States they are decreasing at ages under forty-five and rapidly increasing at ages over forty-five.

The diseases of later life are for the most part not germ diseases but diseases due to wearing out of the body and are directly or indirectly resulting out of the heavy and blood-vessels and kidneys. It is possible that the change in the racial composition of our population, due to immigration, has something to do with the increase of these diseases. It is probable that the "stress" and "strain" of modern life has much to do with it. The fact remains that such an increase is going on and that it can be checked by observing the laws of personal hygiene.

The breakdown of the bodily machine, before the attainment of old age is generally due to excesses of some kind, to too little air and too little exercise; too much work and too much food.

The body needs plenty of fresh air to keep it in good condition. People who live much out of doors and who sleep out of doors or with their windows open suffer much less from disease than those who shut themselves up in closed rooms.

The body needs physical exercise to keep it in good condition. Half an hour's vigorous physical exercise each each day will tone up the lungs and heart and blood vessels as nothing else can do. Exercise in the open air is the best kind of all.

It is not hard work that kills, but continuous work, and rest and recreation between will enable a man to accomplish more and keep well. When the Yelta Optical Works in Jena changed from a nine-hour to an eight-hour day the employees accomplished more work in the short day than they had in the long day before.

Overeating is as bad as under-eating. When overeating, and particularly the eating of too much meat, is combined with lack of exercise the body may be half poisoned by probably eating out of the treasury and efficiency impaired and disease brought on.

Moderation is the key to health—moderation in work and play, in eating and drinking—moderation in all things. One should not wait until diseases of the heart and arteries have once developed to think of these things. The formation of healthy habits of living in youth is the best way to prevent the onset of middle life; but it is never too late to mend.

Sore Throat.

Take no chances with a sore throat. Call in the doctor—it may be diphtheria.

If your child has a sore throat be sure to call in the doctor. Only a doctor can decide whether or not the case is one of diphtheria. If you do not see that a child should be seen, see that this is done; if may save the child's life. In the days before you had antitoxin on hand, three children who had diphtheria died. Now, if antitoxin is used on the first or second day of the disease, ninety-eight out of every hundred children recover. The sooner diphtheria is attended to, the more certain is the cure.

A child should not be allowed to get out of bed until the doctor permits.

Diphtheria may affect the heart if the child gets up too soon after recovery. Do those things and you will protect your own and other people's children.

Wetting the Fingers.
I desire to call attention through the medium of your columns to a harmful practice of the frequenters of the reading room of the public library. I refer to the disgusting habit of wetting the fingers in order to turn the pages of books. This habit has the immediate result of softening the books, but also the ultimate effect of spreading all forms of disease. This may seem a trifling matter, but I believe many cases of sickness might be traced to this source. Notices prohibiting the practice should be posted in all libraries as conspicuously as those prohibiting spitting.—Richard S. Wormser, in N. Y. Times.

Does your neighborhood look brighter and cleaner this week than it did last? If not, why not?

This is the season when nature is busy beautifying things, and we should do our share in making our surroundings as clean and attractive as possible.

If babies are worth having, they are worth saving.

Get after that manure pile right away, for it has been there a long time and will soon be turning out swarms of disease-spreading flies.

By the way, a cold sponge and shower will do you good. It is strengthening, invigorating and will protect against colds and colds are the forerunners of pneumonia. Pneumonia caused our highest death rate last year.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION

Notice is hereby given that I, Grover C. Gardner, was found guilty of the crime of "grand larceny" on the 4th judicial district, in and for the county of Twin Falls, state of Idaho, and sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of 3 to 14 years, will make application to the Honorable State Board of Pardons, at its next regular meeting after the legal publication of this arguing necessity.

HANSEN NOTES

We are sorry to hear that there will be no graduation exercises in Hansen this year owing to objections offered by the school board. Miss Davenport worked diligently with the class, so as to be able to give the community a good entertainment and she is very sorry to have to give it up. Mrs. Honeyey who had charge of the school this year has been re-engaged for the coming year, all other teachers who taught here this year are going to leave. We dislike very much to lose them as they have done good work. Mr. Polygrove has resigned his connection with the school board.

Probably the largest shipment of binder twine ever received in this town was received by Grover Hansen this week. He purchased a car of 24,000 pounds.

Among those registered at the Overland Inn this week are I. C. Gallup, Omaha; J. B. Decker, Salt Lake; Geo. L. Dreuhl, Salt Lake; E. F. Malin, Ogden; Arthur Badge, Bear Lake; Wm. Baker, Twin Falls; J. C. Moore, Twin Falls; Herbert Kluth, Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble were surprised by a number of friends last Saturday evening. All present report a pleasant evening.

Miss Elva Fox, of Tacoma, who is visiting here this week, and Mrs. M. Burkhalter spent the week-end at Burley with friends. On her return home Sunday, she was accompanied by Miss Grace Johnson, of Burley. They were entertained at six o'clock dinner Sunday evening by Miss Burkhalter.

The damage done to the Twin Falls Monday were Miss Claggett and Joe Frohlich.

Hansen was in a state of excitement Sunday evening because of the cause for the excitement was a large column of smoke that was issuing from the basement of H. S. Best's general store. The smoke attracted the attention of a passerby, who gave the alarm to the telephone office and in a short time a bucket brigade was formed and the blaze was located and extinguished before much serious damage was done. The damage amounted to about $250. It is believed the fire started in a case of matches.

Murlough sent their baseball team to Burley Sunday evening for a game or two with the boys here in spite of the rain wind and mud. Some of the Murlough boys were laid up and consequently they were greatly disappointed. The Hansen Kids walked away with the game to the tune of 14 runs. The game was called at the 5th inning on account of rain. Field will play here next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Everybody come.

Aggressive use of the cranified cushions will rent good properties, in or out of seasons, and practically cut out losses from mosquitoes.

MOON MOTOR

The timely models that have been produced by the Moon-Motor-Car company are responsible for the wonderful success that has been made by this company. The Moon-Motor company doubled its business in April over April, 1914, and may well be the biggest month in the history of the business.

The 1915 season brought out the Six-40, a six cylinder car at a moderate price. The Six-40 took the country by storm. It is this model that has brought the big increase in business this year.

That this knowledge of what the public wants is based on careful analysis is indicated by the fact that when the Moon company brought out the Six-40 in 1914, this car became a leader in its field and produced increases in the business almost as great as the Six-40 produced this year.

This analysis of the wants of the automobile public is the result of the experience of a man, who in addition to having distinctive engineering ability, has been judgment that comes with maturity.

Joseph W. Moon, president of the Moon Motor Car company, is past the age of usefulness, according to some theorists. Moon is past 70 years of age. Yet it is Moon's judgment that has produced the succeeding Moon models, each of which has been a market success. It has not been a matter of judgment entirely. Moon, with his engineering knowledge has guided step by step, the younger men in the

NEW STEERING GEAR
CALCULATED TO REMOVE STRAIN FROM DRIVER.

Makes it Easier to Keep Car in Path When the Road is Sandy or Muddy.

The driver of a light car that is not equipped with a worm steering gear finds it a problem to keep the car in its path when passing over sandy or muddy roads, or when one of the front wheels strikes a rut or chock hole, remarks a writer in Modern Mechanics. The nervous strain is great and at times driving ceases to be a pleasure.

A device designed to prevent this strain is illustrated here. The device is readily added to the steering gear of any light car and, once in

FENDERS REDUCE THE DUST
These Sweep Down Behind Rear Wheels and Protect Occupants of Vehicle.

One of the successful racing drivers several seasons ago was a leading position in a big Indianapolis event, because he took advantage of the suction behind the car of the favorite. Comparisons afterwards showed that this advantage was appreciable in the average speed of his own machine. This incident is mentioned merely to illustrate how powerful is the draft in the wake of a rapidly moving motor vehicle. Racing car designers endeavor to place the car bodies so far forward or turtle-back lines that the suction or air pressure behind the car for everyday owner's service has added materially to the draft behind the rear wheels. While the non-racing driver does not object to the small reduction in speed, he does dislike the resulting swirl of dust which hangs around the car and settles on his clothes and the muddy spray which bespatters the occupants of the rear seats in wet going. A new type of rear fender in typical of a common sense design by which these disagreeable circumstances are entirely eliminated.

HOG CHOLERA DONT'S

Last week we gave Signal readers a simple remedy for the prevention of hog cholera, but now comes the Department of Agriculture and warns everybody against using "home concoctions." In order that our readers may be fully benefited of all the advice possible, we give the department's "dons" but suggest that the prompt use of coal oil may abrogate these recommendations. The advice of the Washington experts: Caution should be used at all times; but the Signal contents that coal oil will prevent hog cholera, and it is the advice of the department:

Don't wait when your hogs become diseased, but act quickly and promptly. Use a competent veterinarian. You may not have cholera, but if you have, you must not tuckily to save your hogs and your neighbors' hogs. You control of the disease here it gets your hogs and your neighbors' hogs.

Don't buy any so-called cholera preventives or "home concoctions" supposed to cure hog cholera. There is no cure for hog cholera, but it may be controlled until you and your neighbors work together to avoid infection and take prompt measures to stamp it out.

If your hogs have cholera use the serum treatment. Don't use anything but licensed, tested serum. If this treatment is given promptly, you can save the larger part of your hogs if directions are followed. Don't use any other treatment.

Don't let the disease spread. Move all well hogs to new, clean yards, but disinfect them and all troughs, pens and shelter sheds, yards, paddocks, feet your shoes by dipping in a 2 per cent solution of Cresol before entering yards where well hogs are kept. Wash your hands and feet in Cresol. Don't let dead hogs lie in fields or yards. Burn dead hogs at once, but water, hogs, swine, or other animals to "your neighbors' hogs."

Don't visit your neighbors' hog lots, and see that they keep out of yours. Don't allow butchers, medicine vendors, agents, neighbors away from your hogs. They may carry infection.

Don't let hogs and other stock run loose. Keep your fences tight. Don't put your hog lots near running streams. Keep them away from fields.

Don't let your dog run loose. Keep a shotgun for stray dogs, pigeons, crows, magpies. Over 25 per cent of cholera are carried by birds and dogs.

Don't lend or borrow breeding animals.

Don't neglect to clean and keep clean. Keep the hogs in a thrifty condition by providing clean quarters for them. Clean up any hog cholera, burn everything that may harbor infection, straw piles, rubbish, litter, manure. Spray all out buildings with good disinfectant. Likewise all pens and brood houses. Remove wallows. Plow and cultivate yards, fields and runways for a season. Water Signal.

Electric Iron $2.75

A Large Shipment of ACME Armored Electric Sad Irons. GUARANTEED For All Time.

Here is the secret of the wonderful iron. Here is the reason why it does the work quicker, cheaper, easier and better. Figure it out for yourself. It is just simple, plain common sense.

An electric iron receives a set amount of electric current just as an electric lamp does, therefore the supply of heat to it is just the same in amount. It does not vary, but the amount of heat taken by the work does vary. Some pieces take so much heat that the iron cools down in working. On the other hand, other pieces take much less heat, therefore the iron gets hotter while working. There are no two pieces of work that take the same amount of heat as the iron receives, therefore the iron must be a reservoir for heat. It must absorb the constant supply and hold it where it can be drawn on as needed. It is the heavy base which the ACME IRON has that acts as the reservoir. The ACME IRON has twice the weight in metal that any other iron has, therefore it takes twice as long to cool down. You don't have to nurse it along on heavy work, but can plug right along on practically any piece and not be delayed.

To get a smooth, easy running iron, you have to have an even heat while working and that means a hot-point and hot edges when standing idle. Half the entire supply of heat goes into the edges outside of the Element Slots. In the ACME IRON there is just as much heat going into the iron where it narrows down as there is in the back where it is heavier.

The ACME gets the most heat where the heat is needed most.

It not only shows a perfect hot-point but it shows hot-edges as well.

The ACME IRON has the Armored cord, a patent feature which no other iron has and which will save you the whole cost of the iron in the saving of cord repair cost.

Actually it is far cheaper to buy the ACME ELECTRIC IRON at its cost price than it would be to accept any other iron as a gift.

Owing to the fact that we are able to purchase these irons in large quantities, we are able to sell them cheaper. Therefore, we are selling the ACME ELECTRIC IRON, which retails for $3.75 at a reduction of $1.00, making it cost the consumer but $2.75.
