That the state should rigidly enforce the law requiring fish ladders in the streams of the state which have been dammed, is apparent to those who have visited the Wood river, below and above the Magic dam.

We are under pressure of the most cruel situations which an American citizen of German extraction may have to face, the which has always appeared to us not only as the direct calamity that could befall us, but also as the most heinous crime that could be committed against civilization.

WILL WILSON STAND PAT

The information that Germany refuses to accede to American demands is causing much anxiety among the nation and President Wilson today faces the hardest problem of his stormy term.

Every little added insult is adding to the sullen rage with which the average American views the conditions confronting this war.

President Wilson will have the nation solidly back of him in any measure. He will have the good will of all, whatever he may do that will uphold the dignity of the nation.

GERMAN-AMERICAN LOYALTY

The statement that there is no such country as German-America, and never will be, made by a German-American correspondent of the Chicago Herald, voices what the press are convinced is the spirit animating the masses of our citizens of German birth or descent.

After a similar extended canvass, the New York Herald's leaders of German extraction and the commonwealth of the United States.

In New Haven, Connecticut, the president of the local German-American alliance asserts that ninety-nine out of every hundred Germans "will be ready to answer any call that may come to uphold the American flag."

Eight thousand Baltimore German-Americans pledged their loyalty to President Wilson in a resolution passed by the German Catholic Young Men's Club on May 18.

When the cause you ought to be living in now is vacated unexpectedly, and is left ready to drift into war through the classified columns.

ed by the German Catholic Young Men's Club on May 18. In the national capital a prominent German-American, a gun-inventor, says as quoted in a New York Tribune dispatch that in case of war with Germany, "he would be more loyal to the United States than the German-American." The Kaiser would be wonderfully surprised if he expected any support from it.

As we turn further West, we find expressions of the same loyalty. We are Americans first and last," is the word from a leading German-American of Cleveland. The "king" of Cincinnati's German sporting societies tells a New York World correspondent that he and his fellows "would aid this country in case of a war with Germany."

Among representatives of the different classes making up Chicago's German population, a New York Herald correspondent found a distinct disaffection with the United States toward Germany, but a sharp and violent resentment toward any suggestion that they be found under any flag but the Stars and Stripes if the dice were cast for war.

In Milwaukee, called the "Munich of America" the same writer noticed three conspicuous facts regarding the Germans:

"They have a clinging affection for their Fatherland, which is marked in the native born, but noticeably unorientated in others. They have an overwhelming affection for America which can not be shaken and which would inevitably lead them into the ranks of the American soldier."

As a typical expression of German-American attitudes in this crisis we quote the Milwaukee Abendpost's declaration that:

"We are under pressure of the most cruel situations which an American citizen of German extraction may have to face, the which has always appeared to us not only as the direct calamity that could befall us, but also as the most heinous crime that could be committed against civilization."

Another German daily of the Middle West, the St. Paul Volkszeitung, "finds to the president takes such a strong stand for upholding the rights of American citizens."

"They have fought to uphold the flag in the past and they will do so again, against any enemy whatsoever. They deserve the fruits of past loyalty until they have retained the right to claim them. There has never been one flag under which the German-American can fight. There can never be one flag under which he will ever fight. And that flag is the Stars and Stripes."

"Germany is our mother country; America is our home. If our mother should be so unreasonable as to attempt to alienate us from our bride, we will turn a deaf ear to her and cling to our wife, as the Scriptures dictate."

To complete the country-wide expression of German-American loyalty was not the declaration of a representative of the St. Louis Protective Schutzen-Verein to the effect that, in case of trouble, all its members would be true to their country.

In considering this attitude of German-Americans, it must not be forgotten that they are almost unanimously convinced of Germany's cause as against the Allies, that many of them still disapprove of the administration's program, that many find justification for the sinking of the Lusitania, and that not a few find something to criticize in the president's note to Germany.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Will Paralyze Free Treatment For Rabies.

The state board of health will furnish treatment for persons bitten by rabid (mad) animals without charge, other than the small express charges for the rabies vaccine.

The only restriction placed on the treatment by the U. S. public health service is that it must be administered at the state laboratory, in Boise.

Persons desiring treatment should telegraph, or phone Dr. Ralph Falk, secretary, Dr. E. E. Labaugh, bacteriologist, Boise.

What is Best to do - The animal that has been attacked should be immediately cauterized with nitric acid and dressed antiseptically. If the wound is deep, involving the pericostum of the eye, it should be washed with bichloride of mercury solution. As the organism causing the disease is probably protozoan, theoretically an antiseptic solution of quinine would be an ideal dressing. However, this is purely problematical. DO NOT depend on peroxide or turpentine.

For the animal, it should never be killed. It should be confined in some enclosure from which it is impossible for it to make its escape, and kept in confinement for a definite length of time, and if the dog is rabid it will certainly die. Animals killed before death occurs do not show gross microscopic lesions, and the Negri bodies are exceedingly difficult to find without special inoculation which occupies so much time that it does not admit of early immobilizing treatment of the patient.

If the animal does not show any symptoms of rabies after being confined for a week or ten days, the matter may be dismissed.

In killing a rabid animal, do not shoot it in the head or club its brains out. The part of the brain where the Negri bodies are most easily found is in the hippocampus major or minor, and you can readily see that scrambled brains are difficult to examine.

After the animal is dead, separate the head from the body, and if possible, pack it in ice and send it immediately to the laboratory of the state board of health at Boise.

When sending by messenger, and never under any circumstances by parcel post. When the distance is great and there is no messenger, the laboratory it is better to remove the entire brain, place it in a clean closed jar and cover with a 50 per cent solution of formalin which occupies 20 per cent of the jar.

Preserve the brain and does not interfere with the staining of microscopic examination. Upon receiving the report that the brain has been examined, the person bitten should report immediately to the state board of health for "Twilight Sleep."

The press and magazines in their anxiety to put one another have published articles filled with extravagant praises of the so-called "twilight sleep."

One of the famous maternity hospitals of this country has issued the following on "twilight sleep": "The prolongation of labor, the induction of the placenta, the administration of the excessive-thirst and intense headaches that are so distressing, the difficult control of patients and the frequent hemorrhages, the frequent hemorrhages, the disturbed vision, the ghastly deliriums persisting for days, the masking of symptoms by hemorrhages, ruptured womb, and even gangrene, the violence and uncertainty of the whole treatment, the general bad impression given to women who are left untaught to approach 'the horrors of labor' in fear and trembling, constitute so serious and arrant a neglect of this treatment of labor cases that we feel compelled to condemn it."

The present method of obstetric analgesia "twilight sleep" is not safe for the child and not always safe or successful for the mother.

McClure's Explanation of Twilight Sleep - It is extremely unfortunate that a popular magazine such as McClure's, the stars of which in the past have been so influential for good, should have published such a sensational and misleading article without due consideration of the facts.

Notice is hereby given that I, Grover C. Garner, was found guilty of the crime of grand larceny on May 9th, 1915, in the district court of the 4th judicial district, in and for the county of Twin Falls, state of Idaho, and sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of 12 to 14 years, with the application to the Honorable State Board of Pardons, at its next regular meeting after the legal publication of this notice for a commutation of sentence or conditional pardon.

PUT IDAHO BUTTER ON MAP

Flower Plan of Mrs. Alice Cooksley Copied at Erlise Fair. San Francisco—Idaho's horticultural exhibit at the fair is attracting much attention. It is situated in the display covers the fruit products of the state completely. It is surrounded by magnificent displays from Oregon and Washington. The horticulture of Idaho here is taken the palm. It is arranged in a most interesting and well kept-up. One of the most remarkable and unique exhibits on the grounds is the Golden Gate butter exhibit containing all the various flowers mating from butter. There are lilies, roses and various other flowers in their native colors and colors placed before this exhibit and very many. Idaho has the glory in a large way of that remarkable exhibit. The horticulture of Idaho is of Twin Falls. The making of flowers from butter was an original conception of Mrs. Cooksley. She decorated the exhibit with flowers from the Twin Falls entertainments at Twin Falls a few years ago. It was Mrs. Cooksley's idea to make Idaho famous by the flower exhibit of Idaho butter, but through one of those mistakes that sometimes happen this opportunity was lost to the state. There is nothing like this exhibit on the grounds and one of the finest features is that after the butter has been used for decorative purposes in the most beautiful flowers it can be eaten with a relish. Mrs. Cooksley has received the assistance in the decorative line for anything in which Idaho is interested. She is a remarkable genius and her work is indeed artistic.—Statesman.

There's no better covering for a house, than the right kind of cedar shingles.

And if they are to be used all over, as they were in this case, it's especially important that they be good. Extra wide shingles tend to split and cup.

Like-wise if they are cut from cross, curly-grained wood.

If they are to be durable and weather-resisting, they must not be likely to death in the dry-kill. That drives the life out of the wood.

In short, there's a mighty difference in shingles.

DAIRY FACTS

WINTER FEED FOR THE COWS

Important for Dairyman to Provide an Abundance of Diverse Feeds to Keep Up Milk Flow.

By R. M. WEAVER, STONEYBROOK, N. Y. During the winter months it is generally found difficult to provide such food as is necessary for the dairy cow to keep up the regular flow of milk. At this season of the year feed is generally scarce—the proper kind for the dairy cow—and that which you have on hand is often of an inferior quality.

A Fine Type of Dairy Cow.

After coming off the green fresh grass they do not need much feed, and being of inferior quality one will soon notice a great decrease in the flow of milk.

For this reason it is very important for the farmer to try to provide an abundance of different feeds to make up for the dry or inferior feed. Of course the flow of milk cannot be kept up to what they give during the spring and summer when pastured, but with plenty of first-class hay, such as alfalfa and good clover, and fine feed—bran and corn meal kept on hand that it may be fed liberally two or three times a day as sops, there will not be so much decrease in the milk supply after all. That is, if it is given to them liberally and regularly. Do not think it is a waste to feed such feed when there isn't anything but dry hay of some kind to feed on.

TASK OF DEHORNING CATTLE

Operation is Most Frequently Performed to Prevent Animals From Injuring Each Other.

Cattle have been dehorned since about 1720. The operation sometimes is performed in accordance with the broken or otherwise injured, but most frequently it is to prevent horned animals from injuring one another. Usually it is considered justifiable on account of the benefits that are derived from the operation.

The growth of horns on calves may be prevented entirely by the liberal use of a strong solution of ordinary lye; or if the use of a solution is not desirable it can be purchased at drug stores in the form of sticks known as caustic potash. This should be applied immediately after birth to the place where the horn makes its appearance. Care should be exercised when using this remedy because the lye will eat away all the skin with which it comes in contact.

A single telephone connected with no other is about the most useless thing in the world, but connect it with one other and both at once become serviceable.

The more telephones connected together through an exchange, the more valuable is the service of each individual telephone.

Likewise, the service of a telephone exchange having no connection with the exchanges of other communities is of very little value.

To furnish service of the highest efficiency and greatest value every exchange must be connected by Long Distance lines with every other exchange, and every telephone with every other telephone.

These Long Distance lines, in this western country, must necessarily traverse rugged mountains and desert plains—lines expensive to construct and costly to maintain.

In the territory of this company, 82,918 miles of Long Distance lines connect over 367 exchanges and 237,000 telephones.

That is what makes possible Universal Service. That is what makes YOUR service valuable.

KEEPING CAR CLEAN

Important Matter—And Does Not Call for Excessive Amount of Time or Labor.

VARNISH NEEDS PROPER CARE

Immediate Attention at the End of Each Trip Will Do Much to Keep Vehicle in Condition—Best Method of Removing Mud.

Why is it that a man or woman, who in the matter of dress are immaculate, whose feet are always neat, and whose home is cleanliness personified, will drive around in an automobile that looks as if it had been out in the weather for a decade and had never experienced a bath or had but a coat of paint? The only answer to this is that they do not know how to keep a car looking neat.

All automobiles are turned out by the factories and sold by the agents looking as if they had just been turned out by a piano finisher. It is easy enough with a little knowledge, care and attention to keep them looking that way.

The touring season is about to open, and in traveling over the country roads the car is sure to accumulate considerable dust and dirt. As soon as the trip is finished it should receive immediate attention, and in the manner of washing the automobile lies the secret of keeping the car looking like new.

No varnish will endure being scrubbed with a brush or with hot water. No varnish will withstand the chemical action of ammonia or any kind of lye soap, nor any of the common washing fluids or powders. No varnish will stand being dirt or mud rubbed off, nor will it endure the grit of dust and mud driven into it by the water blast from a high pressure hose to which it is often subjected.

Use water at 60 degrees or lower and a soft, clean cloth or sponge. It is best to use no kind of soap unless it is pure castile. Mud, dirt or dirt should be removed with a high pressure hose from a clean sponge or flowing from a hose with little pressure—never with a water blast.

When not in use, keep the car covered with a soft cloth cover. All dust, sand and dirt should be kept out, and against these a cloth cover offers adequate protection.

However well varnish has endured weather testing, it may be seriously affected by instant extremes of temperature. A glass filled with boiling water, slowly, without cracking it, and may be filled with ice water, slowly, but it will invariably crack if plunged instantly from boiling water into ice water and vice versa.

Some useful "don'ts" follow: Don't allow curious persons to lay their hands on the varnish of your car—it creates instant change of temperature. Don't keep your car in a stable or near horses—Ammonia fumes are deadly to varnish.

Don't assume that any varnish can last forever. Good varnish lasts a reasonable length of time even when carefully treated, but it lasts two or three times as long if you treat it well.

No varnish will withstand the chemical action of ammonia or any kind of lye soap, nor any of the common washing fluids or powders. No varnish will stand being dirt or mud rubbed off, nor will it endure the grit of dust and mud driven into it by the water blast from a high pressure hose to which it is often subjected.

Use water at 60 degrees or lower and a soft, clean cloth or sponge. It is best to use no kind of soap unless it is pure castile. Mud, dirt or dirt should be removed with a high pressure hose from a clean sponge or flowing from a hose with little pressure—never with a water blast.

When not in use, keep the car covered with a soft cloth cover. All dust, sand and dirt should be kept out, and against these a cloth cover offers adequate protection.

However well varnish has endured weather testing, it may be seriously affected by instant extremes of temperature. A glass filled with boiling water, slowly, without cracking it, and may be filled with ice water, slowly, but it will invariably crack if plunged instantly from boiling water into ice water and vice versa.

Some useful "don'ts" follow: Don't allow curious persons to lay their hands on the varnish of your car—it creates instant change of temperature. Don't keep your car in a stable or near horses—Ammonia fumes are deadly to varnish.

Don't assume that any varnish can last forever. Good varnish lasts a reasonable length of time even when carefully treated, but it lasts two or three times as long if you treat it well.

Escaped injury in Accident Which is One of the Oddest That Has Been Recorded.

The motor truck of a Los Angeles fruit rancher recently turned turtle on a high bridge when the driver lost control of the "machine" because of a tire flat and a deflated tire. The machine backed up the viaduct, it turned a somersault, landing upside down on the top of a water tank.

MEXICAN SITUATION BAD

President Wilson to Notify Factious War Must Stop

Washington, President Wilson has decided to serve notice on all warring factions in Mexico that conditions in that country have become intolerable and that unless they themselves remove the situation soon, some other means may have to be employed to accomplish the result.

The first intimation of the president's determination to take this step came Friday in his appeal issued at the head of the American Red Cross stating forth that "due to several years of internal disturbances, the unfortunate people of many parts of Mexico have been reduced to the verge of starvation and urging contributions to relief funds."

Later the White House gave out the following: "When the president's appeal for the Mexicans was issued it was also stated at the executive offices that a statement from the president on the present situation in Mexico would be expected in a few days."

This statement has been prepared and will be issued after the cabinet meeting next Tuesday and then communication to the leaders of all the Mexican factions.

Officials at the White House and state department declined to say what the president's statement contained. But denied that recognition of any faction was now contemplated. It was stated, however, that while friends of Carranza here had been pressing for recognition, the Washington government had not been impressed with the ability of Carranza to contend with the military faction at the expense of another, but to desire an early settlement of their troubles or at least provided for the maintenance of the military faction.

el-out that a similar utterance had preceded intervention in Cuba in 1898. For the present it is understood no notification to all the Mexican factions in the intolerable state of affairs and the desire of the American government of conditions will be allowed to stand without explanation while the relief work of the American Red Cross is undertaken in earnest.

The Relief was widespread in official circles given out last Tuesday night that an immediate effect of the forthcoming statement will be to give warning that the relief supplies must not be appropriated by the military factions and that they must assist in feeding the starving populace.

While the president's statement will not specify the alternative remedy—war has not been ruled out. The general trend of comment Friday night indicated that the United States government, as a first step in such a contingency, would insist on keeping the railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City open for the transportation of supplies and might even deliver its supplies to the people in other Mexican cities by governmental agencies.

The government's plan "it is said" will give several months to the warring out, and they are not expected to come to a decisive point while the delicate negotiations with Germany are in progress.

President Wilson stated Tuesday after his conference with Dr. Val West, his personal representative in Mexico, that he had decided on no change in the Mexican policy. The extent in the last 24 hours of the plan by Carranza authorities of large quantities of corn purchased by the international relief committee, and the inability of the authorities at Vera Cruz and Mexico City to provide transportation for supplies to succor the ever increasing bread famine brought about the determination to act.

Secretary Bryan announced that American consuls throughout Mexico had been instructed to keep the state department closely advised.

"It taken time," said Mr. Bryan, "to collect funds to relieve such a situation, and while the government is making arrangements for getting the goods there it is losing as time in arranging their collection."

most of the crops were failures, that the land had not been tilled and that the food supply was diminishing to such an alarming degree that almost the entire population was threatened with starvation.
