While the men were last Friday anxiously waiting the eighth avenue ditch looking for a lost child and all the mothers in the neighborhood were wrought up to the highest pitch of nervous dread from fear of a little life lost in the uncovered ditch, possibly the uselessness of such continued-anxiety may occur to all.

The eighth avenue ditch should be covered just as fast as men can be secured to do the work, or some day the whole city will mourn the loss of somebody's child. There is no use of hesitating over a matter which is not even debatable. All of the men covering the ditch will not atone for the slaying of some innocent child. It is little short of murder to allow a menace to public safety, to stand for years with no action toward its remedy.

The Times would suggest that the Twin Falls Canal company and the City of Twin Falls, through their legal departments make a stipulation to each stand half of the cost of covering the ditch immediately. Then at the same time, start a suit to determine the responsibility and speedily carry it through to the supreme court without the usual legal quibbling.

RIGHT TO FAIR TRIAL While numerous attacks have been made from time to time upon the American jury system, that part of the law courts has stood the test and without doubt will be always a part of our methods for obtaining justice.

While personal prejudice will often make one desire earnestly the conviction of some offender, yet the most people realize that true justice is not based upon prejudice, but upon the clear establishment of guilt so that there is no room for reasonable doubt. That is justice in its essence.

The prisoner at the bar of time faces public prejudice to the extent that a fair trial is impossible, due to forces which mould popular opinion. Newspaper write-ups of the crime unless carefully guarded, tend to their mould opinion and prevent the meeting out of justice in the courts. Even editors of ordinary newspapers are tempted to allow this influence, and to the allegations made in the complaints filed with the courts, the prisoner at the bar is entitled to justice uninfluenced by any forces. Such argument is acknowledged to be sound if the courts are to continue to do justice. No newspaper has a moral right to jeopardize the liberty of any individual because of its power to mould public opinion.

In Twin Falls, a peculiar situation confronts the district court because of such a criticism by a local newspaper of a verdict by a jury. The jury acted on an acquittal and before the eyes of the law Pettigill is innocent of the crime charged. Such was the verdict after an impartial trial. Ordinarily that ends the case, but here we have a newspaper that such verdict not only indicting the defendant anew with the statement of "guilty as hell," but also indicting the judgment of the jury which acquitted him, and building down up to the scorn of the public. By what right has any man to say his judgment on the case, obtained by roundabout, hearsay methods, is superior to that of the judge and jury sitting attentively upon the whole evidence introduced pro and con? It would seem to be out of place to say the least.

As far as affecting the case already settled and beyond the reach of the court, it can have no weight. But as affecting other criminal cases it is a weapon in every defendant's arm which come up for trial at this term of court and to the extent of the paper's influence mitigates against his right to a fair trial. Newspaper influence should not be used to tear down the integrity of our jury system or of the court, but should be wielded toward seeing that the dignity and honor of both judges and jury are fully sustained and that its influence shall not be impaired.

AMERICA UNREADY As the war flares higher, involving more nations and creating "firestorms" that cause war-talk even here, our readiness condition grows more and more emergency. Leaders of national thought are urging action, though it must be said that most of the suggested plans would make us ready for war many years hence, perhaps too late, or after the danger is past. Since the slaying of the Lusitania and the review of the Atlantic fleet at New York, men of high authority in State, Army, Navy, Church and educational and business circles have been expressing their views. "A change has come over the spirit of officialdom," says the Brooklyn Eagle, and the topic of defense "is no longer taboo." Some papers are predicting that "preparations" will be the dominating issue of the national campaign in 1916. Here, says the Boston Herald, "in one response to the sort of warfare, now waging." Referring to Secretary Garrison's speech at Lakewood, the Washington Post finds it significant that a member of the military administration, directly in charge of the military branch of the government, should speak so plainly in behalf of strengthening the country's defenses at a meeting supposed to be called in the interests of international peace. The day before President Hibben, of Princeton, had surprised and stirred the same meeting with the declaration of his advocacy, not of "preparations for war," but of "preparations against war."

General Wood has defined the American ideal of preparedness against war as a large number of men, trained and ready for service in time of need, and the smallest possible number with the colors at other times. The Brooklyn Eagle hears that in a few weeks "the secretary of war is expected to present a staff recommendation for a system of 'intensified training' such as will create in the shortest possible space of time a reserve army of about a million." And it thinks they will receive prompt and serious consideration. Members of Congress, observes the New York Times, will return to Washington next fall in a changed mood. They have heard the voice of the country demanding "unmistakable terms for peace" for a nation of 100,000,000 people.

Turning to the needs of the navy, we must note President Wilson's endorsement of Admiral Dewey's report in which the admiral declared his confidence in the fleet's efficiency, but added: "However, we need more ships, more officers, and more men, and should continue the wise policy of increasing the size of our navy, which must, ever grow our first and best line of defense." This opinion, unless adequate is important, and its tendency is to persist until the navy is strong enough to meet on equal terms the navy of the strongest probable adversary.

The declarations of some naval critics that we need more scouting cruisers and battle-cruisers was justified in the opinion of the New York World's Washington correspondent by the remark of the admiral "war-games" in the North Atlantic. Admiral Fletcher, in command of the Atlantic fleet, was unable to keep the "money" fleet from being virtually land-locked in the waters of Chesapeake Bay. "All that stands between the invader and the capital of the nation is an army hastily organized and poorly trained," says this writer, describing the situation as if the war-games were a real battle. He says further that the lesson, according to naval strategists, is that the navy needs development of the United States are inadequate to prevent the landing of an enemy boat on invasion by either the east or west coast—the same demonstrated in theory that it is entirely practicable for at least two powers of Europe to defeat the present Atlantic fleet and land an army on American soil.

"It is the opinion of naval officials that both the speed and the power of the Atlantic fleet is the task that might at some time be assigned to it

In preparing the United States from November were put to the test." The Sun correspondent also points out that the navy department admits that the same maneuvers showed that the Atlantic submarine flotilla to be defective in many respects. But the department intends to find out where the trouble is and to procure submarines which will "do the hot work" in such craft." Says Secretary Denham: "Of the twelve submarines which went to New York for the maneuvers, one was unable to proceed and various others suffered from breakdowns necessitating repairs of greater or less importance, which took them out of the fleet for varying lengths of time. Reports, unofficial, give a number varying from five to seven as the total submarines effective during a certain period of the maneuvers."

President Hibben's "militaristic talk" at Lake Mohonk, as the New York Evening Post calls it, is quoted as follows in the columns of that paper: "I do not advocate preparedness for war, but a preparedness against war—a preparedness which in the event of the catastrophe of war itself will prevent the enormous initial sacrifice of human lives which has characterized every war in which the United States has been engaged throughout our past history."

"Let us not forget that there are some things which cannot be done by force, but which can only be done by peace. We are not trade honor for peace; we dare not induce ourselves in the enjoyment of the blessings of peace while the sword hangs by the cry of distress or to the summons of a righteous cause."

When Secretary Garrison appeared the following day he delivered an address on "The Problem of National Defense." He did not attempt to solve the problem, or even offer any practical suggestions. But he argued at some length to prove that it is the right and duty of a great, peace-loving and righteous nation to be prepared against attack. "The secretary of war is entirely sympathetic with every sane and sensible movement that tends to abolish conflict and to insure peace; but he is utterly out of sympathy with the idea that we should neglect or postpone consideration of what is now the existing condition, because of a hope or belief or even conviction that it may be altered even radically altered in the future."

Further on he said that it is the duty of a great nation to be prepared against attack. CARRIERS OF GERMS

Healthy Animals May Spread Disease

The medical profession has known for a long time that one of the menaces to which health is exposed is the infectious material often carried and unconsciously excreted by seemingly healthy persons and animals, but the true importance of this fact has begun to receive the wide recognition it merits only in recent years.

Today we know that many persons after recovery from typhoid fever continue to discharge typhoid germs from their bodies and that such persons cause numerous cases of typhoid fever unless they are properly secluded, and we know that exposure to diphtheria, even when it does not lead to the development of disease, means that the exposed individual often becomes a carrier of diphtheria germs, which are located in his throat, a region from which they are expelled in a way dangerous to the health of susceptible persons. And we also know that this same problem of seemingly healthy carriers and disseminators of disease germs must be given careful attention because of its bearing on the health of our domestic animals.

The possibility that animals may become persistent carriers of disease germs is not limited to any one or any kind of disease. For example, if we take three diseases, southern cattle fever, infectious abortion of cattle, and foot-and-mouth disease, we have one which is caused by an animal micro-organism, one by a vegetable micro-organism and a true bacterium, but only by an unaided eye probably ultramicroscopic organism or germ too small to be seen, even with the aid of the most powerful microscope. Regarding southern cattle fever, the bureau of animal industry proved some years ago that recovered cattle continue to carry its specific cause in their blood for years so that the injection of a small quantity of such blood under the skin of a susceptible animal almost invariably causes a typical attack of southern cattle fever. Fortunately, this disease is not transmitted through contact directly from animal to another.

The only known method of transmission under natural conditions is through the agency of the cattle tick. Later the bureau demonstrated that cows affected with abortion disease, long after they have seemingly recovered and resumed the normal process of lactation, continue to expel abortion bacilli with their milk. One cow now under observation has continued to discharge such bacilli with her milk without showing a symptom of the disease for more than six years. And recently the claim was made by European investigators that animals recovered from foot-and-mouth disease may expel the infectious material of this serious plague as long as eight months later.

There are other diseases of which it is definitely known that seemingly recovered cases remain carriers of their specific causes, but it is unnecessary to speak about them here as the object of this short article is to call attention to a source of danger in general way rather than to discuss it in detail.

We may say that what is true of three infectious diseases, the character and specific causes of which are as familiar as those of the three animals must be assumed to be true of all infectious diseases until the contrary is proved. Hence the animals which have recovered from or have never exposed to infectious disease must be regarded with suspicion. Farmers and animal husbandmen who come into serious trouble among their animals by making careful inquiries relative to the history of the animals they complete purchasing for introducing into their herds or flocks. The purchase of an animal having a clean bill of health from its birth and the due care in effort for sale, or of an animal from a herd or flock to have occurred, should be regarded as a serious trouble.

First, we've reduced the price by another $200. That makes $1400--23 per cent since this new type first came out.

To grasp that, remember former conditions. Only a little time ago, $4,000 was a low price for a six. The cheapest Six cost 2-1/2 times Hudson's price today.
Men bought 10,000 of the 1915 Model. They forced us to treble our output, to build enormous factory additions. And now we are able to quote you $1350 on this famous Six.

THE EVER-LUSTRE FINISH

Now we have a finish of wondrous lustre, which will keep its newness. We have built in our factory enormous ovens, large enough for hundreds of bodies.
The result is a baked-on finish, brilliant, deep and enduring. We call it the Ever-Lustre finish, found only on this new Hudson car. Experienced motorists, who have seen cars quickly grow DULL AND SHABBY will consider this a great innovation.
See this car early if you want early delivery. Every new Hudson model brings an over-demand. Last July found us 4000 cars behind orders. This 1916 model has no real competition. It is sure to over-sell.

MAJOR JOHN M. BURKE

ular combination, in San Francisco lately. Considering conditions and conditions of the country, it is a notable one forever in arctic albatross. The Major says, "When one considers the magnitude of the wealth of nations, the multitude of that colossal history unfolding Panama Exposition and the multitude of exploitation of functions occurring every minute in the world, the primitive medium of peace and joy--through exhibitions of human and animal feats of daring and skill, physical culture and intelligence intensified, the oldest form of amusement, the circus."

This year the standards without declining they have been enhanced by new tricks, new styles, new achievements; the new features are of an extraordinary nature. Principally, Miss Ross' mounting the highest into a meter outlines the recorded stars and as a debutant here before unknown except in society, she takes the palm as an equestrian in grace, poise and tours de force in acrobatic stunts. Principally, our prizing thrills as some sailing, dipping, leaping from the ground to a perch in a split second--an aerial sensation truly reaching in her art to the superlative. This season the Wild West numbers with Buffalo Bill and the Arizona Show, the circus of Twin Brothers, Cheyenne Frontier day farm executing, will be full of ginger and so with Young Trew's trick riding and Buck O'Neil's circus of cowboy clowns leading the bunch in laughing and buck riding.

The free street parade is sure to be an endorsement of all claims--see it and judge or yourself.
Dr. Fred Snook, who in touring Europe was an eye in old Buffalo Bill Wild West camp in Paris, autoed the Major to the Falls and environs of the city. The developments of Twin Falls and the surrounding country's attractive natural scenic wonders in canyon, river and cataracts, makes this rival to any visitor from the Alps, Switzerland or the Rockies, a "real surprise."
Perrine's foresight, old-timers, such as Doc Mackey, who visited Buffalo on the prairie and Dr. Snook, who has sampled the fields of Europe is proof to me that you have as good a chance of getting a better country, plenty grain, fine timber, good grazing.

HUDSON CARS STAY PUT.

To own a car that will stay adjusted once it has been put right in a car is a great thing to have. Mr. S. Johnson, local distributor for the Hudson.
Most of the disappointment and dissatisfaction experienced by some motor car users is because their car constantly must be tinkered with in order to keep it running. Many a car has come from the service station with all joints and gears lubricated, spring shocks tight, tappets adjusted, no squeaks or rattles, and in half an hour was making noises like a threshing machine or a corn husker. Illustrates the point made by the Hudson dealer that the confidence one never are bothered in this way. One of the right it stays right, in their experience. Many a Hudson owner of model three or four years old, hesitate to trade in his old friend for one of the newer models for fear he will not get expenditure of a single cent for a car as good as the old one that has pairs of adjustments. These are the served him as well. Of course this is things that make motor car owners quite an unnecessary thing, but it boasters for their car.

MOVING PICTURE CITY

St. Anthony to Have a Make-Believe City.

There has been a single man in the part of the country who would have dreamed that a moving picture city would ever be built at St. Anthony, but the fact is materializing and two gentlemen, Messrs. C. H. Byce and W. H. Kelley, are here negotiating the feasibility of locating a "movie" city near St. Anthony.

There is an object in locating this "movie" city, and it is near the Yellowstone National Park. There are here the most beautiful views in the world, and wild west features are common in winter and summer.

This picture city will take up a home of about 100 acres and will accommodate from 500 to 1,000 people. Hotels, physicians, living apartments, race track, real Indians and the best of the "cow-punchers" constitute a part of the "movie" city.

Messrs. Byce and Kelley are very well pleased with what they have shown around here and have already decided upon the land they desire to purchase upon the 32000 property, adjoining town on the east.

At a meeting of the Commercial club Tuesday evening these gentlemen were welcomed to the city and tendered all the possible assistance that the club could possibly offer. Several local business men are ready to furnish their cars to show the "movie men" all of our interesting points, and there is no doubt but what the city for the manufacture of moving picture films will be the turning out of home rule by the middle of August. WIND WRECKS BUILDING

School Structure at Rockland Blown Down by Wind.

Rockland, Idaho, May 30.—The handsome school building at this place collapsed yesterday afternoon in a violent wind storm. All the rooms except the primary department, taught by Miss Lida Grant of Salt Lake City, had been demolished, it being the closest of the school term.

Miss Grant, with a few of her pupils, was in the basement room in the basement and, while they were frightened, no one was hurt by the crumbling walls. Miss Grant faintly had to be carried from the building.

The building was just recently completed at a cost of nearly $40,000 and was one of the handsomest buildings in southern Idaho.

Had the storm occurred yesterday it would have entangled almost 300 pupils and a large crowd of parents during the commencement exercises. The damage is estimated at $12,000.

No other damage was done in or around the town with the exception of a few uprooted trees.—Idaho Falls Register.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Many Necessary Precautions If You are Going to Take a Vacation.

Vacation is the talk of the season. Every nine out of ten people are planning to take a vacation trip, sometime, somewhere during the summer.

Where to go is the question. The most picturesque and otherwise attractive resorts are not always the safest. Your first consideration should be: Where can I find rest and recreation without jeopardizing my health? On many a beach, the sea is so polluted that it is not safe to drink. These things are well covered against. That there are sanitary arrangements for the disposal of sewage. That these things are well covered against. HEALTH BULLETIN

Distribution of Preventive Vaccine for Typhoid Fever.

The people of Idaho are hereby notified that the state board of health is prepared to furnish free bacterin for the prevention of typhoid fever. The efficacy of this vaccine in preventing typhoid fever has now been proven and it is hoped that the people will avail themselves of the opportunity of taking this treatment in order to lessen the prevalence of typhoid fever.

Typhoid Fever.

About this time of year typhoid fever begins to appear in many of the counties of Idaho. Some people are beginning to believe that typhoid fever is "catching." Well, you do not "catch" typhoid fever like you do measles. You swallow it. Typhoid fever is caused by a germ which enters into the mouth from the fingers, or from something we eat or drink. We swallow it, the germs multiply and grow and cause a disease we call typhoid fever.

To prevent typhoid fever the greatest care must be taken to see that the well of the cistern or the spring, whichever be used, is a source of water supply, is protected from every possible source of pollution. A good well must have a sound, tight top.

A well with a leaky top or with holes around the sides, or with a bucket which is touched with dirty hands, is likely to give rise to dangerous pollution.

Then, too, the outside toilet must be looked after, to see that there is no danger of pollution from it. The discharges from human beings constitute the most dangerous material on the farm, or in town in summer time. It should be cared for as carefully as if it were a deadly poison. Piles carry typhoid fever germs on their feet, and if the toilet is open that these or other domestic animals can get at it, they too will carry this dangerous material on their feet about the yard, into the well, which in turn, may be washed into the well or be carried on the feet of people into the kitchen, to there become a dangerous source of pollution for food or drink.

To avoid typhoid fever:

First: Wash the hands before eating, after defecating, and do not put the fingers into the mouth.

Second: Do not drink water that has been in contact with a cow, goat, sheep, chicken or spring, or from a good, safe city supply, unless it has been thoroughly boiled.

Third: Do not drink milk unless your "cow" where it comes from, and have reason to believe that it is safe and wholesome.

Fourth: Before taking your summer vacation have your physician immunize you against typhoid fever by giving you the typhoid bacterin.

Fifth: The state board of health will supply you with typhoid bacterin without charge.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT

Portland, Ore., June 3, 1915.

The market for live stock here was quiet, cattle, 418; calves, 19; hogs, 2781; sheep, 9283.

Cattle.

With depressed condition of the cattle market last week and Monday being a holiday, the receipts in the cattle division totaled 14 loads. The principal buying was done by out-of-town buyers from Oregon points, who took all offerings at slightly higher prices than those prevailing last week. Choice steers were sold at $5.50, strictly choice bulls will bring $5.00.

Hogs.

The quality of hogs being offered is not as good as should be available for the market at this season. Swine which have been allowed to run on waste, while fattening, or which have been fed fattening rations for only a short time, are soft and washy and do not make firm pork. One small lot of hogs brought $5.00 Monday, while the bulk went at $7.85.

Sheep.

A great many of the sheep offerings of the last few days have not been strictly standard and prices have ranged accordingly. Spring lambs 40-50 yearlings, $7.00 to $7.25; ewes, $6.25 to $6.50; wethers, at $6.75.

FARMERS CAN GET AID

How Bureau of Animal Industry Will Help.

Congress made its first appropriation to eradicate the southern cattle tick in 1904. At that time there were many farmers and others who doubted the possibility of such an undertaking. Still the work was commenced in a very modest way, as practically no provision had been made by the states in which the cattle tick flourished. During the first two or three years, much of the work was experimental, but many of the experiments proved satisfactory. The larvae in the Southern states gained courage and confidence in the proposition that the status of other domestic animals which the tick flourished in, in which the cattle tick flourished. During the first two or three years, much of the work was experimental, but many of the experiments proved satisfactory. The larvae in the Southern states gained courage and confidence in the proposition that the status of other domestic animals which the tick flourished in, in which the cattle tick flourished.

As large areas were freed from ticks each year, more and more people became convinced that ticks could be eradicated at a reasonable cost. Furthermore, they discovered that an area of ticks which in susceptible areas were gone, better cattle were at once brought into the country. Many yearling calves were produced that were worth more than the cost of two years of age raised under tick conditions. These plain, everyday facts have made it possible for the eradication fund to be developed in nearly all the states where cattle ticks flourish, until up to the present time there has been a total of 100 square miles of area greater than the combined states of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina.

The possibility of eradicating ticks is no longer doubted by the farmer. The question now is how to get the last tick eliminated from the United States.

Congress and state legislatures are each appropriating large sums of money to the aid that the work may be increased. In many cases where state legislatures failed to appropriate sufficient funds to meet the demands for tick eradication, the county courts have come to the rescue. In other cases, farmers have formed local live stock associations and have organized to build cattle dipping vats, to buy dipping materials, and received the co-operation and assistance of the county courts and other public bodies in carrying on systematic work.

The cost of tick eradication varies according to conditions and the percentage of infested stock. In some states the cost runs as high as $15.00 per square mile; others as low as $0.75 per square mile. When the farmer realizes that the same class of farm lands in a tick-free county will sell for $5 to $10 more than when infested, he can have no question as to whether tick eradication is profitable to the farmer and his neighbors.

Every farmer in the tick region should inform himself on this subject by ordering and reading the "Circular on Tick Eradication," published by the Bureau of Agriculture, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. This circular explains what farmers who have actually eradicated ticks from their cattle have to say about it. Farmers may also procure a copy of a leaflet entitled "The Tick Eradication Campaign," published by the Bureau of Agriculture, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. NEW GRAPE PRODUCT

Method of Concentrating Grape Juice by Freezing and Centrifuging.

The fruit juice specialists of the department have recently developed a method by which the juice pressed from Concord and other grapes can be concentrated into a new form of grape syrup suitable for use in soft drinks and as an adjunct in cooking. The discovery of this process followed experiments in concentrating cider to the thickness of grape juice. The new method consists in freezing juice pressed from grapes into solid ice, cracking this ice into pieces the size of a walnut and whirling it in a centrifugal machine such as is used in separating the molasses from the sugar in sugar cane. The rotation of the grape juice ice in the centrifugal machine causes the sugar or syrup portion of the grape juice to be reduced by the elimination of water and to fly out into the receiving chamber of the centrifugal. By this method the grape juice is quickly reduced by the elimination of water to one-fourth its volume. The syrup content of a gallon of grape juice will make a quart of concentrated grape juice syrup. Experiments in making the product showed also that in the freezing and centrifuging a large part of the acid of the grape juice, which in the form of cream of tartar, is left behind in crystals in the ice in the centrifugal basket. After the syrup has been concentrated it is sterilized by heating and its special flavor the new grape concentrate, it is believed possesses certain commercial advantages in that it requires bulk making it cheaper to store, handle and ship.

The concentrated syrup from the Concord grape is a very thick product somewhat thicker than maple syrup. When it is mixed in the proportion of 1 part syrup to 2 1/2 parts of water, it makes a novel and different grape beverage with a flavor of the grape but with much less acidity than is characteristic of Concord grape juice as commonly found in the market.

While the process has not yet been developed on a commercial scale, the experiments indicate that where a commercial ice plant is available the new product can be made at a cost less than that of the concentrated grape juice. Experiments in making the concentrate with large grapes indicate that the same method removed practically all of the "rough" taste which sometimes affects grape juice made from this variety. The fact that the freezing process automatically removes much of the acid or cream of tartar from the grape juice will, it is expected, make this process especially valuable in cases where conditions of weather conditions or the fact that the foliage of grape vines is deficient, the grapes fail to develop their normal sugar content. In such cases it is believed that the freezing process, by separating out the crude cream of tartar, with more or less coloring matter, will enable manufacturers to make a desirable sweet juice of black grapes which have a high acid content.

The grape syrup, moreover, the experimenters believe, will be of service as a syrup for ice-cream sundae and other confectionery. It will therefore be adapted to many dietary purposes. Endeavor will be made to interest manufacturers in the use of this product and to test it during the coming season on a commercial scale.

the farmers of this country, as it is on the general farms that the great bulk of eggs are produced. A very great part of this loss can be prevented by the production of infertile eggs, which are laid by hens that do not have a male bird with them. The male bird has no influence whatever on the number of eggs laid. Therefore, as soon as the hatching season is over, the male should be removed from the flock.

The greatest trouble from blood rings in eggs occurs in hot weather. Special care should be given to the hatching and raising of eggs during the late spring and summer months. At these times the eggs should be gathered at least twice a day, placed in a room or cellar where the temperature does not rise above 70 degrees F., and marketed two or three times a week.

Blood rings are caused by the development of the embryo of a fertile egg and its subsequent death. It is impossible to hatch an infertile egg, or cause a blood ring to form in one. It is generally considered that eggs become infertile from 7 to 14 days after the male bird is removed from the flock. Repeated experiments have shown that fertile and infertile eggs are kept under similar conditions, the fertile eggs appear much quicker, due to the fact that they develop faster than infertile eggs in the average summer temperature.

The meeting will be in the nature of an instruction camp for handling high explosives, by employees of the road. As a rule, it is doubtful as to assume that a safe having a moderate slope in some direction is to be preferred for orchard purposes, other things being equal, to one having a level one. One having a slope will usually have better soil and atmospheric drainage than a level area. Mrs. Jas. M. Wall left Saturday morning for Washington, D. Everybody knows that birds when they migrate in the fall generally go South, but knowledge is seldom more specific. A new department bulletin states the fact that while some birds go to Florida or the West Indies or Mexico, others such as the bob-o-link and robin go to the north end of Brazil. A repetition of your want of birds a better offer than that hand article.

MOVING PICTURE CITY

St. Anthony to Have a Make-Believe City

There isn't a single soul in this part of the country who would have ever dreamed that a moving picture city would ever be built in St. Anthony, but the fact is materializing and two gentlemen, Messrs. C. E. Byre and J. H. Kelley, are here illustrating the feasibility of locating a "movie" city near St. Anthony.

Where to go is the question. The most picturesque and attractive resorts are not always the safest. Your first consideration should be where you can find rest and recreation with out jeopardizing your health. On making your choice look well to these facts: 1st. That the supply of drinking water comes not from shallow wells or from other sources likely to be polluted. 2nd. That flies and mosquitoes are well screened against, and that there are sanitary arrangements for the disposal of sewage. Know these things and your chances of having typhoid and many other diseases will be greatly lessened.

The typhoidist by all means should be vaccinated against typhoid. This preventive measure is as simple and just as effective as no man of common sense should consider himself ready until he has taken this treatment. You can get the typhoid preventive by applying to your own physician. In three weeks at least are necessary in order to get the vaccine and take the treatment. If further information regarding this treatment is desired, write to the board of health.

Benefits of Anti-Typhoid Treatment. An anti-typhoid treatment will: 1. Make your life more secure. 2. Remove the chief health danger associated with vacations in travel places. 3. Minimize the health menace of travel. 4. Render you immune to a highly fatal, long continued and costly illness. 5. Save you worry and save you money.

HEALTH BULLETIN

Distribution of Preventive Vaccine for Typhoid Fever.

The people of Idaho are hereby notified that the state board of health is prepared to furnish free bacterin for the prevention of typhoid fever. The efficacy of this method in preventing typhoid fever has now been proven and it is hoped that the people will avail themselves of the opportunity of taking this treatment in order to lessen the prevalence of typhoid fever.

Typhoid Fever.

About this time of year typhoid fever begins to appear in many of the counties of Idaho. Some people are beginning to believe that typhoid fever is a "catching" disease, but it is not. Typhoid fever like you do not "catch" typhoid fever. Typhoid fever is caused by the bacteria which enter the body through the mouth from something, we eat or drink. We swallow it; the germs multiply and grow and cause a disease we call typhoid fever.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Many necessary precautions if you are going to take a vacation. Vacation in the state of this season. Every time out of the people are planning to take a vacation trip, sometime, somewhere during the summer.

FARMERS CAN GET AID

How Bureau of Animal Industry Will Help.

Congress made its first appropriation in 1914 to the Bureau of Animal Industry. The work was commenced in a very modest way. Practically no provision had been made by the states in which the cattle tick flourished. During the first two or three years much of the work was experimental and many of the experiments proved satisfactory. The farmers in the southern states gained courage and energy in a way that those engaged in the work gained knowledge relative to the life and habits of the tick and the best means of eliminating the parasite which had so long held sway over the cattle industry of the South.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT.

Portland, Ore., June 3, 1917. The receipts for the week have been: Cattle, 478; calves, 123; hogs, 2781; sheep, 928.

With depressed condition of the cattle market last week and Monday being a holiday, the receipts in the cattle market were small. The principal buying was done by a few buyers from Oregon points, who took all offerings at slightly higher prices than those prevailing last week. Cattle steers sold at $7.50 and cows are quoted at $6.00. Strictly choice bulls will bring $6.00.

The quality of hogs being offered is not as good as should be available for the market at this season. Swine which have been raised to run on pasture while fattening or which have been fattened on rations for only a short time, are soft and waxy and do not make firm pork. The price of hogs brought $3.80 Monday, while the bulk went at $3.25.

Sheep.

A great many of the sheep offerings of the late last week have not been strictly choice and prices were accordingly. Spring lambs $8.00 to $8.25, wethers $6.00 to $6.25, wethers at $6.75.

Table with columns for livestock types and prices. Includes entries for 2 Steers, 3 Cows, 1 Bull, 3 Hogs, 25 Hogs, 122, 335, 228 Lamb, 259 Yearling, 234 Yearling, 41 Ewes.

NEW GRAPE PRODUCT

Method of Concentrating Grape Juice by Freezing and Centrifuging.

The fruit juice specialists of the department have recently developed a method by which the juice pressed from Concord and Ives grapes can be concentrated into a new form of grape syrup suitable for use in soft drinks and as an adjunct in cookery. The discovery of this process followed experiments in concentrating older to one-fifth of its volume. The new method "consists in" freezing juice pressed from grapes into solid ice, cracking this ice into pieces the size of a walnut and whirling it in a centrifugal machine such as is used in separating the molasses from the sugar in sugar making. The rapid whirling of the grape juice in the centrifugal machine causes the sugar or syrup portion of the grape juice to separate from the crystallized water and to fly out into the receiving chamber of the centrifugal. By this means the molasses is practically reduced by the elimination of water to one-fourth its volume so that the average amount of a gallon of grape juice will make a quart of concentrated grape juice syrup. Experiments in making the product showed also that in the freezing and centrifuging process a large part of the acid of the grape juice, which is in the form of cream of tartar, is left behind in crystalline form in the centrifugal basket. After the syrup has been concentrated it is sterilized by heating and can be kept indefinitely. Aside from its special fitness for the grape concentrate, it is believed possesses certain commercial advantages in that its reduced bulk makes it cheaper to store and ship.

RAIRIE INFERTILE EGGS

Fertile Eggs Great Source of Loss in Summer.

It is generally estimated that there is an annual loss in fertile eggs in the country of $15,000,000. Practically all of this enormous loss is sustained by the farmers of this country, as it is on general farms that the great bulk of eggs are produced. A very great part of this loss can be prevented by the production of infertile eggs, which are laid by hens that do not have a male bird with them. The male bird has no influence whatever on the number of eggs laid. Therefore, as soon as the hatching season is over the male should be removed from the flock.

The greatest trouble from blood rings in eggs occurs in hot weather. Special care should be taken in the gathering and storing of the eggs during the late spring and summer months. At these times the eggs should be gathered at least twice a day, placed in a room or cellar where the temperature does not rise above 70 degrees F., and marketed two or three times a week.

A gate doesn't seem important enough to make much fuss about.

Still—if you had overheard the remark as we did, "By golly, that's a good gate—that farmer's up to scratch—but he has a good farm"—then you would probably look around and see in what shape your own gates were.

Little things like that certainly do a lot toward making a place look shabby or up-to-date.

BUFFALO BILL-COMING

Well-known Frontiersman Will Sell, Flojo Circus.

Buffalo Bill is coming to town again as the chief feature of the Seils-Flojo circus and Buffalo Bill's Original Wild West, which is to be here Monday, June 14. And with Buffalo Bill will come also many a good story of the older days in the West.

And if anyone should know those days, Col. William F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill) should know them. He lived them long enough; scout, plainsman, pony express rider, brigadier general, he served in every possible office there was in the younger days, even to the position of justice of the peace and the third man in more than one marriage.

"Marriages?" he asked recently, in a story-telling vein. "Of course. Why not? I've had Indians and guided troops and bigged trails. Don't see why I shouldn't perform marriage ceremonies. But I'll not forget the first one. It was justice of the peace then, with hardly anything to do but to look over for loss of order and bootleggers on the reservation. One day a man and a woman came in and said they wanted to be married. It embarrassed me but I had to go through with it. Looked all around the place and could not find any Bible. Found an old third reader though and so I picked it up and opened it to where I said something about the birds twittering in the springtime or something like that. Didn't make much difference though. I wasn't going to read it anyway."

CHAUTAUQUA-LECTURER

America is the True Peace-maker Says Remarkable Woman.

"America unites all other countries," says Mrs. A. C. Zehner, who is one of the most remarkable women on the lecture platform. She shows that one of the reasons the United States is such a powerful influence for peace in the world is because all other nationalities are well represented here. This kindly treatment that has been extended to all immigrants has endeared us to the nations these people represent, and their life here, whether they came from Ireland, England, France, Holland, Sweden, Italy, or anywhere else, acts as a bond between this nation and their respective homelands.

unusual gifts and attainments. One man who has heard her ten times says she cannot be beat on the lecture platform. She has a remarkable voice and stage presence. Her hair has something of red in it, she is large, vigorous and besides her handsome appearance, she has a voice that will carry a mile. She is instantly popular with the women of her audiences and her utterances are equally commended by the men. Mrs. Zehner was born and reared on a big plantation in the south and still loves the southland. She owns three large ranches in Texas and spends part of each year in the open life which she invites. This community is fortunate in being able to hear Mrs. Zehner this summer as one of the most notable visitors of the Chautauqua.
