AN ABUNDANCE OF WATER

Abundance of water for irrigation on the Mindoko project is assured.

An abundance of water for irrigation on the Mindoko project is assured. The project is approximately 400,000 acre-feet and Lake Taitors, with another 50,000 acre-feet, will now furnish the water which is more than sufficient to care for the farm here during the irrigation season.

Furthermore Snake river is now rising and there will be a supply for a time from the natural flow of that stream. Much water is being pumped to the project this week. The farmers here should realize that the early cutting of the crop will bring the irrigation water on at about the same time as the early water and in order to avoid the rush season in the demand for water, are irrigating areas which is the proper thing to do. While our water right is first class, we must not forget that the water right on the South Side must be pumped and the supply at any particular time limited to the capacity of the pipe. -Barley Bulletin.

INTERESTED IN CONTACT

Kimberly Men to Start in Business in Copper-Camp.

Contact is going to make good, and no better proof is offered of this fact than that business men of years of experience are backing their faith in the camp and the future of the district by purchasing Contact property through its prospect.

A couple of weeks ago there came to Contact a party consisting of John M. Beck, Ralph McBride, W. F. Breck, and Dr. B. Bremer, all from Kimberly, bent on seeing the camp and learning for themselves just what the opportunities were for business enterprise.

With the plans of these men have not fully matured, it is safe to say that Contact will soon enjoy a fine modern home, it being the intention of Beck and McBride to immediately begin the erection of a building for this purpose. Mr. Beck has been in charge of the construction of the house-site near town to his firm and as soon as a deal can be completed for same the necessary buildings will be erected.

McBride, Breck and Bremer are real estate dealers of Kimberly, where Mr. Breck has resided for a number of years. They are all interested in business in Contact, but at this time definite plans and arrangements have not been made, and no definite announcement will be made until a later date.

POWER-MERGER IS VALID

Public Utilities Commission Rules On Consolidation of Fire Companies.

Boise, June 10.—Consolidation of the five big hydro-electric power companies of southern Idaho is not in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, according to the public utilities act, but is in the best interest of the state and those who have invested money in the utility companies.

This is the ruling of the public utility commission of Idaho in an opinion handed down here today, following an extended probe into the merger. The companies included in the merger are the Idaho Power & Light, the Idaho Shoshone Light & Power, the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Water Power, and the Southern Idaho Water Power.

PROJECT OPEN TO ENTRY

Haft River Land Has Been Relinquished to Government.

One of the most important developments in land matters to occur in southern Idaho for some years was the notice from the United States land office at Boise, Idaho, that the negotiations in Cassia county under the Carey act would be thrown open to entry on June 8, 1915, and that entries would be held suspended until June 28, when the date of cancellation becomes effective.

CARELESS ABOUT FLOODING?

It is apparent to the people who are using the highways that flooding of the roads with irrigation water is too prevalent and should be stopped. A ditch may break and get away from the most careful irrigator, but it should not be allowed to flow over the roads for three or four days at a time until the ditches have been cut into that road. Accidents will happen repeatedly but the man who continually opens his eyes to flooding of the roads and pays no attention to the damage done, should be given a lesson for his carelessness.

With the great amount of money expended for up-building of our highways, it is not right for the careless irrigator to destroy that work with impunity. Every taxpayer who is helping to pay for our roads should bear in mind the fact that flooding of the highway is hitting everyone's pocket book for the unnecessary repair because one person's lack of care.

WORTH WHILE TO THE COMMUNITY

The people who attended the opening number of Twin Falls' first chautauqua were both surprised and delighted and left the big assembly tent chautauquic boosters. While the chautauquic is no new thing in the Eastern and Middle States, it is new for this state and especially for a large number of the citizens of this city. The first entertainment wholly purely amusing was of a high class and well worth the time and money which it cost to attend which is a common occurrence with many of the shows visiting cities the size of Twin Falls. The boys and girls who watched the Floyd were no doubt amused and interested but at least were not picking ideas which later would corrupt their minds. The other part of the big week's program should prove an inspiration to every person, young and old, who attend. Fine and various educational programs will be so intermingled that no one should become bored with the whole.

SUBTERRANEAN OMBLION IN GERMANY

While England permits its labor and other agents to criticize the government openly, there is working in Germany a subterranean spirit of criticism and protest against the designs and methods of her governing classes. This is seen indicated by steps that now and then become vocal. It would be amusing if it were not deplorable to note the pseudo faith which English and some American papers display in the reports and editorials published in German newspapers, says Prof. E. R. Hedrick, of the University of Missouri, in a long letter in "Defense of the real Germany," published in the New York Evening Post. Professor Hedrick holds a degree from the University of Gottingen and is a member of the Deutsche Mathematik Vereinigung. He finds it hard to imagine "an intelligent German" expressing "in cold words in a German newspaper his real opinion of the invasion of Belgium or of the sinking of the Lusitania." Moreover, he declares that "German-horn friend who holds a position of honor and prominence has received within a week a letter from his brother in Germany begging him not to believe what the German papers are printing about the conditions and opinions in Germany."

That such letters are written in protest of the known risks is evidence in Professor Hedrick of the strength of the suppressed opinions—in support of this view he writes:

"I claim that Germany has had little to say about her government, that she has been highly suspicious of that government and that she is responsible for the recent acts of which we disapprove only in that she has not yet extended herself to alter that government. I claim that no reasonable opportunity now exists for reliable expression of German opinion and that the German government is as humane, as trustworthy and as honorable as any nation. Those who are leading men to think otherwise, are enemies of Germany, whether they frankly avow it or whether they stand by and seek the favor of the present government of Germany."

"It was a German, and by no means an Englishman, who forced the German government to announce in the Reichstag long before the war that under no conceivable circumstances would it permit any one to invade Belgium if other powers were to do so."

"It was a German who exposed the rottenness of a clique who disgraced German court circles a few years ago."

"Real Germans as well as Alsatians voiced protests that were as dangerous as they were futile against the arbitrary acts of German military officers in Alsace."

"Yet the government which stands in reality not for the Kaiser so much as for the whole hierarchy of officers and officials, has been a faithful friend in defense of Germany. It is said that any 'real alteration' would not be so easy a matter as in England or in America. We need merely vote against the existing government and return a majority of congress unfavorable to it. If anything, the corresponding action in England is swifter than in America. While revolution would not be strictly necessary in Germany, it is true that serious changes in the organic law would be necessary before even an enlightened trial of the Dreyfus matter. The book is published in Lausanne, Switzerland for obvious reasons, but a correspondent of the New York Tribune, Gordon Gordon-Smith, asserts that its author is 'not only a German, but a Prussian, born as he himself declares, on German soil, of German parents. German in language and sentiment, who loves his country better and more than any other.' Rumors of the large secret circulation of this book in Germany, despite of the prohibition by the government have appeared in the press from time to time, but Mr. Gordon-Smith is the first full account of its contents to appear in English. He declares: "The author not only writes as a German, but thinks as one. His reasoning is that of a German dialectician. It is written by the author, not against, but for Germany."

"He is a German Liberal. What he says does not differ sensibly from the language we were accustomed to hear from the leading organs of the German Liberal press; such as the 'Vossische Zeitung, the 'Frankfurter Zeitung, or the 'Berliner Tageblatt before the war. It is difficult to understand their complete 'voice-fake.' Perhaps if they were free to write as they please we might hear a different language from that they now employ. The author of 'J'accuse' has at any rate preserved his independence and remained master of his ideas and of his pen."

"He declares—and proves—that the war was plotted, prepared, and declared by the German military party. It had its precursors and its prophets: General Bernhardi, Treitschke, Frobenius and others. He shows the methods used to work on public opinion, to keep it 'as one kneads dough. He cites the effort made to obtain the introduction of international arbitration and the reduction of armaments by the Czar, Nicholas II, and the effort to develop a treaty of alliance, signed on the condition of the unyielding opposition of Germany and Austria. This checkmated the loyal co-operation of the other powers, great and small."

"The writer proves that Great Britain was untruthful in her attempts to bring about a simultaneous reduction of naval construction, but the Berlin cabinet refused to entertain these proposals. Why? The author of 'J'accuse' gives the reason without hesitation, because of all the powers in Europe Germany alone was plotting and preparing war."

"And what did she want with it? The empire was enjoying an unexampled period of economic progress and prosperity. It was known to be the strongest power in Europe, and every body bowed to its will. It developed unceasingly its power, its riches, and its force. No one dared to face it resolutely. This was seen during the Morocco crisis and the Balkan wars. No one dared to attack it. No one had the courage or even the desire."

"It was a powerful party in the empire, dreamed of a still greater omnipotence; and it managed to make a great people, laborious, intelligent, and at bottom, peaceful, believe that the war was a 'Hiefreue' (a war of liberation, like that waged a century before against Napoleon. A war of liberation from what?—Germany? This question will never find an answer."

"From this point the author proceeds to study the crisis itself. "He examines, in the light of all the documents published up to the present time, the action of Austria, of Germany, of Russia, of England, and of France. For him no doubt subsists. The German chancellery seized upon the crime of Serbia to let loose on Europe a war already decided on in principle, the new military law, which brought to the maximum the armed force of Germany, having then had its complete application. He then sums up the logical arguments contained in the powerfully written pages of his book by affirming that 'Germany and Austria are responsible for the European war which they provoked knowingly and with premeditation.'"

"The terrible massacre goes on without rest, piling up daily fresh mountains of corpses, fresh ruin and devastation. And end must be made to this. The people must impose peace."

"The author, however, demands that it shall be a real peace, and not a mere armistice. No clause of the treaty shall constitute an act of violence, a germ of future conflicts. The people must unite, but there must be no annexation. Standing armies must be reduced to the number necessary to prevent and defend the bellicose enterprises of the people who do not adhere to this attitude. Europe has need of a long period of security to undertake the work of binding up her wounds and extinguishing the hatreds to which the unpardonable aggression of Germany has given rise."—Literary Digest.

Several little guests gathered at the home of Mrs. A. S. Martin last week to help celebrate the ninth birthday of her son, Bernard. Games were played on the lawn and at the close of the afternoon, the children all gathered around a table, such one as little boys love to sit down to, with its high birthday cake and candies for a centerpiece. Those included Isabelle and Frankie Clark, Edward Walshaw, Orville, Leslie and Margaret Cayender.

The little son of Charles Newbury, who had the misfortune to get two of his fingers crushed by the cog of a wringer two weeks ago, is getting along nicely, and his fingers will soon be as well as ever. Born to R. E. Newbury and wife, at Edgewood, a big boy, Mr. Newbury once lived here and is well known.

Dr. Clouche was called out on a C. Rutherford home last week to prescribe for Mr. Rutherford, who has been on the sick list for the past six weeks, but who at this writing is much improved.

The writer had a pipedream the other day. Thought the farmers in this neighborhood all took a notion at the same time to work the roads, and they were to be paid for it.

Also each man owning land along the road planted a few poplars. Didn't cost much, but what a change, and yesterday said I just love to drive along this way, as it is such a pretty drive. Waydala drive is, with its nice asphalt road and shady lane. Mr. Goppenhaver is home again, after an absence of several weeks.

Mr. William Kirch was a visitor here last Monday. She lives at 'Rock Creek.' Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Herron have returned from an extended trip in Iowa, Washington and California, and say they like the Twin Falls country the best of all and it is good enough for them. They visited the 'fairs at San Francisco' and San Diego.

D. F. Clark and wife gave a dinner to guests Sunday. Besides the family were here for John Platt and wife, J. M. Cookley and Porry Walshaw, wife and son, Edward.

Frank Johnson was a caller in our office last Monday. Still looking after beets and Hindus. George Walters and wife, of Oakley, were guests at the Clark home Saturday.

Galen Copenhaver and Lloyd Gardner were callers in Twin Falls Saturday.

Franklin Brown and wife were the guests of J. M. Cookley at the Perry Saturday evening.

The Hindu working in the best fields here, had a general mix-up with a hoe playing an important part. They rubbed and fought and the husband's head bobbed about. A fine was paid, then they all 'kissed and made up' and settled back into the same old 'Sunday' and 'Monday' and 'Tuesday'.

Ivan Price, wife and son, Vaughn, were guests at the home of F. T. Turner Sunday.

Fred Hills was a business caller here last Monday.

A regular old-fashioned party of pluckers and shored at the falls (Sho-shone) Sunday, with lunches and kodaks and smiling faces. The feast was spread on the grass in the shade and enjoyed by fifty-four people. Plenty of glorious scenery and a jolly bunch-made time. Those present were Mr. Shroff and wife, J. A. Mitchell and wife, Grandpa Oake, George Oake, Benj. Holland and family, Henry Cannonhaver and family, William Busard and family, M. H. Vail, Cleve, Charley Shroff and family, O. Armstrong and family, Tom Shroff and family, Glen and Mary Copenhaver, Mrs. J. W. Humphrey, Mrs. J. E. Neroby and family of Eden, and also the members of the Shamrock club across Rock creek.

Those shopping in Twin Falls Saturday were Myrtle McGinnist and Edith Mrs. Lohman, whose home is on Hamilton, Hunt, Clark, Martin and Walshaw.

Mrs. Fay Hunt left Sunday for Albion, where she will attend the teachers' school for the summer.

"JAPANESE CANE"

The name "Japanese Cane" has very unfortunately been applied to two different sorts of well-established in the United States. The name was first used in connection with a variety of true sugar-cane introduced from Japan by the Department of Agriculture in 1878. This is a slender stemmed sugar cane that was not found profitable to grow for sugar until it was now extensively cultivated in Florida and along the Gulf coast mainly for forage but to some extent for candy. Since 1888 other similar varieties have been secured from Japan. Japanese sugar cane is highly valuable for forage where it is adapted, both because it produces very large yields and because plantations remain profitable for 6 to 12 years without replanting. It rarely produces flowers and seeds in this country except in northern Florida.

The second plant to be called "Japanese Cane" or "Japanese Sudan" is a variety known as "Honey Sorghum." This variety is of unknown origin but it did not come from Japan. It is one of the sweetest varieties of sorghum yet found, and south of the Ohio river is one of the best of all sorghum for candy and forage. This sorghum produces large, loose heads of seed, and the seed is as cheaply grown as any of any other sweet sorghum. It is this plant which has recently been most advertised as "Japanese Cane" but on account of the confusion that this name makes with the Japanese sugar-cane, producers are urged to call it by its older name, "Honey Sorghum." It is a very desirable inter-planting cane, and grows well when it is better known.

Man in Jail at Blackfoot Killed by Deputy Sheriff. Blackfoot, June 11.—Ed S. Streeter, who was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Thompson officers some time ago and who was sentenced to the Idaho penitentiary for horse stealing, was shot and killed here last night by Deputy Sheriff Thompson. Traveling Guard Danielson of the Idaho penitentiary was here to take Streeter and another man to the pen, and was on train No. 2, early this morning. About 9 o'clock last night Thompson went to the county jail to lock the two men up for the night. After waiting for some time the other man grabbed him, pinning his arms to his body, and Streeter hit the deputy over the head with a mallet. Thompson succeeded, however, in getting loose and shot Streeter, killing him instantly. The other man was then backed into the cell and locked up.

MacDonald Watering Chautauqua Lambs

Great news for usually-forgotten humans, although with some of them we do not come closely enough in contact with them to find this out. A famous baritone who has pleased thousands of people in hundreds of cities on both sides of the Atlantic is here showing his friendly side to our children at a Chautauqua. MacDonald is the famous baritone, Canada's favorite singer. He will appear at the Chautauqua here this summer, which he will sing such oratorios as "The Messiah," "Samson," "The Creation" and "The Redemption." One never forgets his powerful yet sympathetic voice who has attended a Macdonald concert. This baritone is equally at home with humorous and descriptive songs, folk songs and ballads.

A Characteristic Pose of Nelson S. Darling of Oklahoma

Did you ever hear of Nels Darling, the Town Doctor? Well, he is just that. He will spend a day here during Chautauqua and will be at the disposal of the business men except during his lecture in the big hall. A favorite plan is for him to be guest at a luncheon in the meantime. In his own way, he has been "sitting up" that town, and then he tells the people plainly, yet with marvelous wit and good humor, just what the matter is that locality and what to do to put things on a go ahead basis.

Signor Salvatore Circillo

No band leader of recent years has received greater ovations than Mr. Salvatore Circillo, who with his world-renowned Italian concert band will make his second tour to Twin Falls this summer. He is unquestionably the most interesting personality before the music world to-day and one of the most successful of all conductors, a musical genius of the highest order. In 1906 he toured the cities of the middle west with a boys' band, which was accorded great applause. His present band is the "midwife fruit" of that beginning, and many of his present followers have been with him since boyhood. Circillo began the study of music at eleven years of age in his native land, Italy. It was only a year later that he became leader of the municipal band of Capriano, his birthplace, asked Circillo's parents to permit the boy to play in his band. He soon afterward captured the Royal Conservatory of Music at Naples and graduated at eighteen. He came to the United States in 1902. His first tour was successful, and he has traveled extensively every season since that time.

I BELIEVE IN MY TOWN. I believe in her institutions, in her schools, in her churches and in her stores. I believe in the street broom and street sweeper and in the filling up I believe in order in the larder. Never again will I throw waste paper or rubbish in the street or alley. I BELIEVE IN MY TOWN. I believe in trees, God's first temples, grass instead of ash heaps and flowers instead of weeds. May God bless the tongue that gives honest praise and commendation, and may he doubly bless the ear that is deaf to scapular and gossip. If I cannot speak good of my neighbors I will hold my peace. When it costs me nothing at least, I will spend my money here and by so doing leave a part of the machine price to circulate in the channels where it is available. I believe in the originality of the goods that are sold among the folks who are a part of the community of which I am a part, in the place that I call home, sweet home. I BELIEVE IN MY TOWN.

Modern Chautauquas and American Business Methods

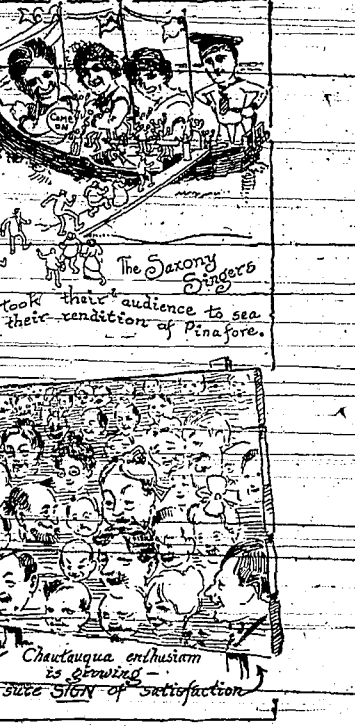

One cannot review the attractions composing the Chautauqua, which has been arranged through the unselfishness and public spiritedness of some of the people of this city, without wanting to attend every entertainment on the program. The Chautauqua had its inception many years ago at Chautauque, N. Y. which gave the institution its name. Other cities took it up, and as the time grew and the benefits were realized people went hundreds of miles to spend a week listening to great speeches and to entertainers and musical attractions of a high order. And finally the American principle of combination and co-operation was applied to it, and the whole country now enjoys Chautauqua. It is cheaper to bring the lecturer to a thousand people in a town than for the people to go to the lecturer. This is what makes possible for a small city to avail itself of the advantages of such a gathering and another important factor in its success. By a bureau which has ability, organization and big financial responsibility engaging the talent on a great scale is effected. High class people can be engaged through the whole season for much less than where each matter has to be arranged through the unselfishness and public spiritedness of some of the people of this city, without wanting to attend every entertainment on the program.

FROZEN FISH GOOD No Cause for Popular Prejudice. In Wholesome Substitute for Meat.

Recent investigations carried on by the Department of Agriculture appear to indicate that the prejudice against the eating of fish, especially frozen fish, because of its alleged danger of poisoning is quite unfounded. A partial decomposition of either fish or meat may result in the formation of certain substances that cause diarrhoea and other ailments. These substances are popularly known as ptomaines, although many of them have not yet been fully studied and their nature determined. The whole question is a very complex one, but there is, however, no reason for assuming that fish is any more unwholesome than meat. In fact, the likelihood of ptomaines in fish than in meat. No process of preserving fish by freezing, glazing and canning can result in the formation of food as meat. This popular prejudice has done much to hinder the development of what might be a far greater industry and has prevented the people from obtaining a wholesome, economical and attractive substitute for meat at the very time when the price of meat has been rising rapidly. Many people eat fish only on "fast days," and especially on Fridays. The idea that "Friday is fish day" has compelled the fish trade to do what amounts to a fish week every week. This, of course, has tended to make prices higher than necessary. With an increased demand the supply of fish would be larger, and the consumption were distributed evenly throughout the week the waste would be much less and the prices should consequently be lower.

Chautauqua Closing Day

With true regard for climate, that intangible career artist, Evelyn Bargett, has been arranged as one of the entertainers of the closing day of the Chautauqua. A previous evening spent in watching her draw her lightning sketches, while she keeps up a running fire of humorous comment, or to listen to her readings, is one longer than there is any soul of in practice, and results of a margin of safety which should be sufficient for all purposes. It is essential, however, that the fish be frozen in their fresh state and jacketed with a coating of the ice which excludes the air. In practice, the fish are now dressed by the removal of the entrails as soon as they are caught, thoroughly washed and laid in shallow pans. These pans are placed on the ice-covered floor of the freezer, which usually is at a temperature a little lower than zero. After from 12 to 24 hours the fish has frozen solid. They then form a large cake held together by the freezing of the thin layer of water between the fish. This cake is removed from the ice and dipped into water which is at once frozen on the floor, forming a crystal plate of ice like a transparent varnish. This glass homogeneously seals them. No air can reach them from the outside and no moisture can evaporate from the "inside" of the fish. The temperature of the freezer is maintained from 15 degrees to 15 degrees F. until needed for consumption. Frozen fish is thus the only fish product that the manufacturer of fish is not altered in some way by the process of preservation. Canning, smoking, pickling, etc., all alter the flavor of the treated article. With frozen fish, however, the envelope of ice has only to be melted in order to give us the fish as fresh as when it was practically identical with that taken from the sea. If it were not for such a method of preservation fish could not be depended upon as a constant source of food. In the fish trade there is a succession of glutted markets and periods of dearth. In consequence, there are times when fresh fish bring so little that there is no profit in catching them, and there are other times when the market is glutted at any price. The freezing process serves as a "balance wheel" for the trade. Another objection raised by many housewives is the flaky odor which makes them undesirable company for the butter and other articles commonly found in the family refrigerator. Fish can be kept in a refrigerator without affecting other foods if it is first put in a tightly closed and a tightly fitting lid. As a matter of fact, however, fish should be eaten as soon as received from the retailer. They should be dipped into a little water, as a certain amount of their food material is thereby dissolved. Instantly they should be thawed slowly in an earthenware and cooked as soon as this process is completed. Where frozen fish are to be thawed in a refrigerator containing other food, especially in a cold, they should be first put in a tightly closed tin bucket or kettle.

A Permanent Community Asset

They Have Found That Chautauquas Pay In The Largest Sense.

It is generally admitted that there is no community enterprise in which a town can engage which pays so good returns as a Chautauqua. It is a permanent asset. It leaves behind it a permanent asset. It leaves behind it a permanent asset. It leaves behind it a permanent asset.

What a bird is beneficial or injurious is not about entirely upon what it eats. In the case of species which are very abundant, or which feed on poisonous crops of the farmer, the question of their average diet becomes one of supreme importance and only by stomach examination can it be satisfactorily solved. Field observations are at best but fragmentary and inconclusive and lead to no final results. Birds are often accused of eating this or that product of cultivation, when an examination of the stomachs shows the accusation to be unfounded. Accordingly, the biologists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have conducted for some years past a systematic investigation of the food of those species which are common about the farm and garden.

That the state should get behind the project financially, effecting the required reduction in some manner, and arrange a means for the reimbursement of those who have made the sacrifice of the opinion of several members of the commission. The matter will be taken into more carefully by the commission at Boise—Hollister Herald.

The present condition of the alfalfa was attributed by one speaker, Dr. S. L. Loomis, partly to the frost, but others, notably those of the farm, stated that the frost was not the cause of the poor condition of the alfalfa where it is getting proper irrigation.
Members of the commission attended many questions and in other ways indicated a lively interest in the situation. Mr. Waters put the question to the meeting, as to what condition crops would have been in if there had been only a normal amount of rainfall this spring. The response from those present was unanimous—everything on the tract would have been lost. Mr. Waters said he believed it that the early grain crops would be brought through, more or less successfully, with an irrigation available. The people who have grains have been getting the water in available with the alfalfa until as late as possible while farmers who have been raising grasses principally, have been suffering from lack of water for some time. Most of the farmers seem to believe that the grasses should have had one good irrigation in April and another in May. It is stated that the grasses should already have been watered twice, whereas they have been irrigated only once.
The speakers of the Salmon River Irrigation Association for Monday afternoon which meeting was held in the hall of the school, and in the presence of all, Mr. Anderson, chairman of the commission, explained its purpose, and spoke particularly of the difficulties in dealing with the situation as exists here. The speaker said that the commission would get at the facts, and then to proceed to recommend to the board, and possibly to the legislature, some action to the relief of the situation at the special session which the legislature will call for next January.

REPORT ON LOST RIVER PROJECT
Plans Proposed by Utah Construction Company Approved.
The irrigation and drainage commission yesterday in its report recommended that the plan of the Utah Construction company, owner of the Lost River project, be followed out and that the water rights be sold to the settlers and the company for water rights calling for the delivery of two acre feet be adopted. It is further recommended that the water be the main bone of contention between the settlers and the purchasing company, the settlers bidding out for the water and the company bidding in at a price not to exceed the value of the water. Apparently the commission has decided to let the Utah company with regard to liability to deliver more water.
The commission has been in session for days going over the report and flow of the land department and the state engineer, gathering data for its report. Chairman Cassa A. Clark was present at the meeting. Also present were Senator Carter of Cambridge who attended yesterday's session and the members of the commission were in session today. Representatives Anderson of Canyon county and Senator Elliott of Blaine county, representative Anderson, who was minority leader of the house, was elected majority leader of the senate and presided at the conference.
This commission's report will deal largely with the recommendation of the Utah construction company. The important carry out project provisions pending. The Utah Construction company is prepared to invest a large amount of money in the project, but as soon as the new contracts can be approved. The company and the settlers are in a deadlock. The Utah Construction company has presented a plan for the project and the settlers have refused to approve any plan that would not give them a large amount of water.
The commission has been over the project with respect to the Utah dam. It has conferred with the settlers and has reached the conclusions stated above. The commission learned from its representatives of the Utah Construction company that it is the intention of the company to rebuild the dam and to increase the capacity of the dam. The engineers of this company are confident that the dam can be safely rebuilt. In order to do this it will be necessary to go down 60 feet below the present bottom of the dam to get through the boulder and gravel which are in the bed of the river. This will necessitate the expending of a large amount of money but of the engineer's plans the company is prepared to invest a large amount of money. They claim it will hold water when it is so rebuilt. Capital News.

A NEW IDEA
Editor, Twin Falls Times.
I note an article in your May 28th issue in regard to the accumulated sewer funds which are deposited in the bank and amount to $4600. If this money could be used for other purposes, it is my opinion that the best way to use it would be to make a tunnel through the south wall of Rock Creek, extending to South Hill. This would not only solve the sewer problem but it would also create a new and interesting feature for the city. I should like to see a plan of this project and possibly it would make an opening which would relieve the sewage question entirely.
Last fall when I visited Twin Falls several citizens went with me down into the Rock Creek and we noticed the water was trying to seep through the south wall of Rock Creek, and it was the only place where the water was seeping through the south wall extending into South Hill.

W. McMcGinness' farm of 160 acres all in one body and all in alkali clover is just now a sight worth going some distance to see. The clover is just in bloom and the prospect for the future is bright.
This is believed to be the largest individual tract of alkali clover in the country and likely in the world. There are larger farms owned by companies or syndicates, but likely Mr. McGinness is the largest individual grower of alkali clover seed there is.
The crop is heavy of straw as well as heavy blossoming and is a thick growth. Mr. McGinness has been successful in raising the crop and he expects the crop will be ready for harvest in about thirty days. The prospect for the crop are of the best and the value may be estimated anywhere from $2,000 to $10,000 with the latter figure not at all unlikely.

Mr. Editor: Are not the county commissioners supposed to have the authority to call for a county surveyor to do a county survey or for any way? I cannot understand some of the things that our well-beloved commissioners do. It was presumed that it is because I am a MATHANED.
