M. C. McClellan, an irrigation engineer from Nevada, spent Monday in this city and gave us an interview on this country and its irrigation that is worth giving your readers.

For the last three nights of this week the management of the Orpheum has been offering a fine picture program. The headliner is "A Hostage of the North," a story in two acts of the gold fields of Alaska.

The Times in receipt of a communication from some of the motorcycle drivers in this city protesting against the claim of this paper that they do not observe road rules and making the counter claim that automobile drivers do not give the motorcycles half the road. The Times will stick to its first statement regarding the non-observance of road rules by a great many of the motorcycles. It will admit that possibly some of this violation is due to the automobile road hogs who will not turn out. The Times would suggest that the motorcyclists gather a little fund and prosecute some of the automobile drivers who will not do the right thing. It would also suggest to the motorcyclists strictly observe road rules regardless of the other fellow's shortcomings and lend their part toward better conditions.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE? According to the late dispatches Germany has made instant and complete apologies to the little country of Denmark for violation of neutrality and at the same time asks for more time and delay in investigating the killing of American citizens. The difference in the two should fill every American citizen with a feeling of humility. America has in no uncertain terms demanded protection for the lives of her citizens and these demands have been flatly refused by the German government in the notes interchanged between the two countries. Now as a crowning insult, Germany wants further time to make excuses which will not better conditions. The Times does not want to see this country plunged into war, but if the whole series of incidents affecting the lives of our citizens and England does not constitute ground for severance of diplomatic relations, then none of our past wars were ever justifiable. How is this government to protect its citizens and their rights when the idea is fixed in the minds of other powers that America is not in earnest in any of her demands and can be bluffed out at every turn. President Wilson said that unless Germany did certain things, she would be forced to take the action Germany refused. What is the answer?

HUMANE SING SING UNDER FIRE The threatened shutdown of the Osborne "new idea" administration at Sing Sing Prison is a matter of "nation-wide interest" in the view of many observers, who feel that the whole future of the prison reform in this country was involved in the issue. On the other hand, there are those journals who with the Hartford Courant hold that even if Governor Whitman had removed Warden Thomas Mott Osborne the best part of the warden's work could not be undone, for he has given such an impulse to humaneness in the management of prisons as to render it a recognized duty of those in charge of penal institutions. Less sympathetic critics, while conceding the value of Mr. Osborne's prison ideas, say that he has only himself to blame for his troubles because he is an "agitator" rather than an "executive." Meanwhile, Governor Whitman states to the press that he has no intention of removing Mr. Osborne or John B. Hiley, New York State Superintendent of Prisons, with whom the Sing Sing warden clashed. Superintendent Hiley represents the old-fashioned "several" editors, Mr. Osborne the new, and hence the conflict. "The old prison idea," Mr. E. Keat Hubbard, a penal authority of Connecticut, is quoted as saying in the New York Globe, "was punishment and nothing more." "The new idea is to

KNOW THY COUNTRY

II—Railroads

In discussing the commercial achievements of this great age, we shall approach the subject on the historical chronicle events. This article will endeavor to record in writing the supremacy of American men and industries in the world's affairs and perpetuate an appreciation of our marvelous industrial achievements by presenting simple facts, figures and comparisons that are overpowering in their convictions.

America has her proud place among the nations of the earth today on account of her supremacy in transportation facilities. The mighty minds of the age are engaged in the problems of transportation, and the greatest men in the history of the world's commerce are at the head of the transportation systems of the United States.

In the discussion of transportation, let us consider separately our Railways, Telegraph and Telephone, Express, Public Highways, Steamships, Street Railways, Interurban and other forms of transportation, and this article will deal with railroads. The United States has the largest mileage, the best service, the cheapest rates, pays labor the highest wages and we have the most efficiently managed of the railroads of the world. The United States is a monument to the native genius of our marvelous builders, and most of the railroads in foreign countries have been built under American orders.

The railroads represent a larger investment of capital than any other branch of human activity. The mileage in the United States exceeds the accepted distance from the earth to the moon. We had in 1911, the last year in which figures for all countries are available, on the earth's surface 629,981 miles of railway divided as follows: United States 241,199, Europe 207,432 and other countries 191,350. The United States has 28 per cent of the world's mileage, seven per cent of the estimated population and about five per cent of the area. The total capital invested in the railroads of the world is $60,000,000,000, divided as follows: United States $13,000,000,000, Europe $25,500,000,000, and other countries $11,350,000,000. Reduced to a mileage basis the capitalization is as follows: The world $75,000, United States $45,000, Europe $124, and other countries $60,000. A comparison of rates is equally as interesting and the United States takes the lead in economy and service. The average rate per ton per mile is as follows: United States 2.63, France 3.14, Germany 3.44, Russia 2.26, Austria-Hungary 3.10, Italy 3.20, and Switzerland 4.82.

The average yearly pay of all railroad employees in the principal countries is as follows: United States $767, Germany $392, Italy $345, Austria $322, Great Britain $279, France $260 and Russia $204.

Of the 20 per cent or 18,000 miles of the railroads of the world are government owned. About half the railway mileage of Europe is government owned. A comparison of the economy in travel will be made in a later article.

The Osborne administration issued the order, and signed by certain authorities, for the "open prison" among whom are Ben Lindsay, Robert Brinkley, Ely, Henry de Forest, Baldwin, Oswald Villard, Samuel McCune Lindsay, and others, we quote the following:

"The work has progressed for eight months in Sing Sing, and was begun in Auburn thirteen months ago. At the end of this reasonably long period there is much positive evidence of success, and there are no charges of failure, which would really discount the experiment even if they were proved.

"The change, both physical and mental, in the prison population is marked by every visitor and most marked by those who thoroughly know the conditions which prevailed in Sing Sing before January.

"The number of escapes is actually less than the average for a similar period during the last year, and although the number of prisoners toward escape has been absolutely reversed.

"The output of work has positively increased, although as yet the prison management is not able to offer any of those incentives which normal men are accustomed to in their work of every day.

"Insanity has fallen off about 30 per cent."—Literary Digest.

No. 12.—ESSENTIALS OF SAFE INVESTMENT

"In making any investment, I recommend great regard for the security of the principal and not so much for the amount of income to be derived therefrom."—G. S. Bowdoin.

Just how to invest money with absolute security and for a definite income cannot be told in a few words.

It must be learned from experience and probably some one else's experience.

Usually one's safest guide in investment matters is his banker. His experience in investing, safety, the bank's funds, his knowledge of the pitfalls, and his observance of money successes and failures, qualify him to give advice.

If one is to get anywhere as an investor he must make a beginning—take the first step—and in doing so, he should consider these cardinal points:

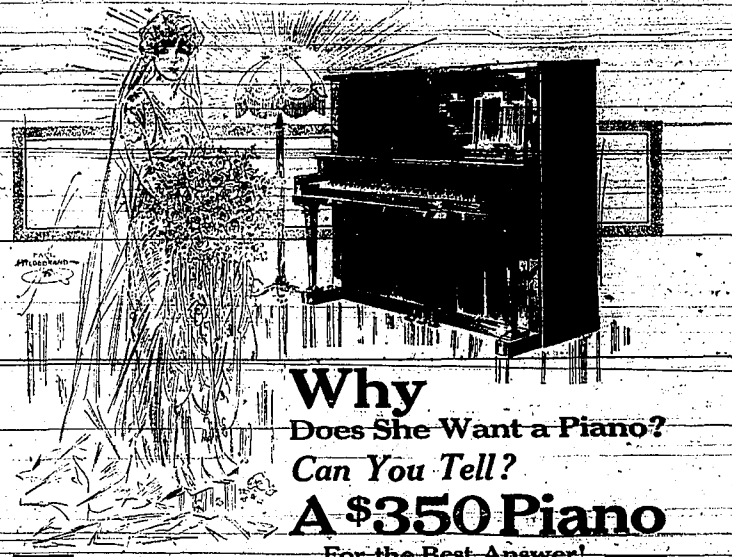

FIRST: Security of principal. It is utterly futile to invest money without having this point passed upon competently. One should go no further until he is sure he is right on this point.

SECOND: Certainty of interest return. Thousands of investors are misled by vain promises, with disastrous results.

THIRD: Availability of invested funds in case of an emergency. Too many find, all too late, that they are in possession of securities for which there is no market, which no bank will accept as collateral, and which the promoter who sold them refuses or is unable to redeem.

A point which is often placed first but really belongs last is the interest rate. As the interest rate rises, security, interest return and availability usually recede, often to the vanishing point.

Do not take chances with your money. An unusually high return for a short time will not compensate for the loss of your principal.

Experience gained at the cost of reduced capital is too dearly bought.

Mining stock "investments" are typical of many speculative schemes that small investors are invited to get into "on the ground floor."

You remember Mark Twain's definition of a mine—"A hole in the ground into which a lot of fools throw their money."

There are many wildcat schemes promoted for the sole purpose of separating fools and their money, but the lure of getting rich quick seems to be especially strong in the case of mining stock.

If your subscription to any such "investment" is solicited, you will have an difficulty in refraining from putting your money into the proposition if you bear in mind these facts:

The stock of a mine known to be good does not need to be peddled around.

It is hard to turn into money the stock of any other kind of mine.

Every ton of ore removed from a mine reduces its value just so much. If the mine is exhausted before your principal has been returned to you in dividends, you are a loser.

A safe rule to follow in choosing an investment is to go to your banker and inquire what proportion of his face value he would loan upon it as security. Being stern critics of collateral, the officers or loan committees of your bank can give you a pretty good idea of the degree of safety, convertibility and the availability of the proposed investment possesses.

A savings bank account itself offers an ideal investment. It has the cardinal features of security of principal, certainty of interest return and availability in an emergency.

It has an additional feature which is often denied the investor in securities, namely the possibility of collecting small odd amounts, and immediately reinvesting interest return by adding them automatically to the principal.

On Friday night, the home of John Toth got a fire from what is not known as Mr. and Mrs. Toth were away from home on the way to a dance. They had four children, the oldest eight, whom they had left at home in bed, also a neighbor's little girl, by the name of Harris, was with them. The house was all ablaze when seen and by the time help arrived the roof was falling in. The children were all burned to death, so there is none to tell how the fire started. The entire community extends their sympathy to both families in their bereavement.

TOO MUCH WATER IS BEING USED

duce the best results from. Look at it. The soil sections are receiving from 9.60 to 13.90 inches for crop purposes now. An addition of a little over half an inch carries us out of the arid zone—into the moist zone. This, in fact, puts us into middle California with a supply of 16.60 inches. Our best agricultural country—especially from 24 to 26 inches of water for the crops. When you increase to 27 and 30 inches the crops are not as good.

The editor here interjected the reply to these tables by stating that irrigation produces far better crops than the best agricultural part of the United States, and was confronted by the reports from the Agricultural College of Logan, Utah, showing that irrigation did this thing, but that they produced the best results by irrigation of less than 24 inches to the acre, and that this was due to the fact that man applies for that very reason and not money, and that actually from eleven to eighteen inches applied partly by man and partly being in the ground in the same amount of water in the irrigation season, produces the results than 26 inches applied irregularly as nature generally does it. In fact that the plants that are watered an average from this irregular supply made by nature, but man can cut off the excess, and by making the supply regular, produce the best results with a less amount than nature gives.

A second point that Mr. McClellan brought out is this—in this country of large areas of agricultural land, not a small quantity of water to be applied to create proper crop-producing results and limited water supply the point we should strive to attain is not the amount that can be produced per acre, regardless of the water supplied to it, but the amount that can be produced per acre inch or acre foot of water. The Agricultural College at Logan, Utah, has taken 30 inches of water, and applied it in amounts to three, four, five and six acres—of ten, seven and one-half, six and five inches per acre—and proved that while the amount per acre was less when the water was spread over more than one acre, the yield per acre inch was far more for each acre cultivated.

For illustration, take the Twin Falls tract of say 240,000 acres of land and given three acre feet per acre. The precipitation of twelve inches makes a yearly supply of 48 inches per acre. This is nearly twice what nature gives for the best part of the United States, and when properly applied by water the 24 inches is more than sufficient. Nine inches is ample with the nine inches nature supplies, and that amount can be properly applied without too great an expense for ordinary crops. There would then be 800,000 acres of land that can be irrigated with the same amount of water as is now guaranteed the Twin Falls settlers for their 200,000 acres.

Now, Mr. McClellan says this is no pipe dream, but he proved it on his father's ranch for eight years; agricultural experiment stations in different states of the west region are proving that it is the limited amount of water supplied to the plants that produce the best results in food values and consistent with the best irrigation, and are showing that there is a very small margin of water supply between crop failure and crop success. A study of these two tables proves the same thing. And there is not one proof that can be brought forward that will show that the water supply furnished by nature and added to by man should exceed 26 inches for the best results when there is an ample supply of water; and when water in any way scarce, as it is in this country, the less water man supplies up to the point where the cost of application would be excessive, the better crop would be the result.

Mr. McClellan ended his interview by stating that in his opinion any man who wanted the main asset of the agricultural part of our country was as great a criminal as the man who robs a bank. In some ways, a worse one. He can hide behind the fact that his neighbor is doing likewise, and that the laws and the state is backing his robbery.

INSTITUTIONS OF STATE READY

Interest in School Work This Year Owing to Changes in Courses.

With the rapid approach of September, plans are being made for the opening of the state educational institutions and the public schools in all parts of Idaho. The 1916-17 school year is looked upon as one of the most promising of any in the history of the state due to the advancement that has been made along all lines.

General Dates Set

At a recent meeting of the state board of education full determination was reached as to the approximate sessions of the various school institutions of the state. In addition to the state university at Moscow, with its colleges of arts and sciences, agriculture, engineering and law, there are two splendidly equipped normal schools at Boise and Idaho Falls.

State University at Moscow—Registration, September 20 and 21; classes begin, Sept. 22.

Lewiston normal school—Registration, Sept. 14; classes begin, Sept. 15.

Albion normal school—Registration, Sept. 13; classes begin, Sept. 14.

Idaho technical institution at Pocatello—Registration, Sept. 20 and 21; classes begin, Sept. 22.

Idaho school of dentistry and blind at Gooding—Opens Sept. 16.

School of practical agriculture at Moscow—Registration, Oct. 11; classes begin, Oct. 12.

The history of all these institutions during the year recently closed was one of gratifying success. It is felt by the members of the state board of education that the state is securing a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction from the excellent work of these institutions and there is to be a determined effort made by the board and the different faculties to make even more advances during the coming year.

Attendance Satisfactory.

With the Lewiston normal and the state university, the faculties of both have been practically completed with the exception of the dean of women of the Lewiston normal. Her position has also been, in all probability, filled, but no announcement of the fact has yet been made. It is known that President Blaine of the Lewiston normal has given a good deal of attention to this matter, and that he has felt for some time that it was certain to secure a dean capable of valuable service in this important position.

The normal school at Moscow is already known that the opening attendance will be entirely satisfactory, in numbers at least, and it is believed in the personnel of those who will represent themselves for registration. The record of the school, as it can be read in the report of its graduates, has been a wonderful one. It is believed that the school has now been established in existence long enough so that its graduates have been given opportunity to impress themselves on the lives of these and other states. As a consequence the school is now being sought more and more every year.—Capital News.

THE COWS AND THEIR CARE

To have healthy cows is one of the first essentials of the production of clean milk. If the cows are diseased, their milk is apt to contain disease-producing bacteria or to be otherwise abnormal. Such milk is not clean and is not safe as an article of food, even though it is no visible dirt in it.

The cows should be treated for tuberculosis by a capable veterinarian at least once a year, and if diseased animals are found the herd should be tested twice a year. All cows which react, showing that they are infected with the disease, should be removed from the herd and the stable and premises thoroughly disinfected.

No additions should be made to the herd—no new cows or calves should be purchased to the tuberculosis test before they are brought to the farm. They should then be kept separate from the other animals for at least sixty days and restested. No animal other than cows should be allowed in the stable.

Special attention should be given to the condition of the udder, and any milk which appears slimy,ropy, watery, or otherwise abnormal should not be used as food. The milk should not be used within fifteen days before milking or during the five days after milking. It is well not to use milk from cows which have been given powerful drugs, for these may pass through the tissues of the mammary glands into the milk.

The external condition of the cow is a most important factor in the production of clean milk, and dirt on the outside of the animal's body is one of the great sources of contamination. It is therefore essential that extra care be given to keeping the cow free from accumulations of mud and manure. Cows on pasture usually keep cleaner than when in the barn, but thought they appear clean they may be very dirty, and it is well to give them a good milking. When kept in stables they require a thorough cleaning at least once every day. It is a good plan to clip the dirt from the cow's flanks, and tail in order that dirt may not cling to them. It is desirable that the bedding be clean, dry and used in sufficient quantities to insure the comfort of the animal, especially where the floor is of concrete.

The cow should not be groomed, bedded or fed immediately before milking, as these operations fill the stable air with dust and bacteria. Frequent attention to the distribution of bedding is just as important as to the removal of manure. Often, a tour through the stables the last thing at night and a few minutes attention to the distribution of the bedding in the morning, will remove a considerable distance from the stable, bad odors. will be kept from tainting the milk, and the danger of contamination from feed-water will be diminished. The manure should be removed at least twice daily and never immediately in the stable immediately before milking. The fly nuisance is caused by accumulations of manure in which the flies breed, and when conditions permit, the manure should be removed daily to the fields. Flies carry bacteria and filth, and earnest efforts should be made to keep the stable free from them. If the stable and its surroundings are clean, free from accumulations of manure and other filth, the flies will be kept from the stable by the use of fly poison and traps. In addition to removing the accumulations of manure, the stable should be sprayed with kerosene, the soiled bedding under the cow should be taken back into the gutter and replaced with clean bedding.

The feed for cows should be palatable and nutritious. Moldy and decayed feed and such feeds as may injuriously affect the cow's health or the character of the milk should be carefully avoided. The odor and flavor of the milk are readily affected by rape, cabbage, turnips, and if these are used they should be given after milking, in which case the odor of the milk is not so objectionable. The odor of milk from a cow which has been on a foddering of hay in the barnyard.

Due to the dust and odors which arise from the feeding of hay, grain and silage in the stable, it is best, from a sanitary standpoint, to feed the milk cows in the barnyard. A liberal supply of water should be provided in a place where the cows can have ready access to it. It is of prime importance that the cows have an abundance of fresh, pure water. Cows which produce twenty-five pounds of milk require only twenty-five pounds or more of water daily, and instances are on record in which heavy milkers have produced over 300 pounds of water a day. This large quantity of water is necessary not only for the digestion and assimilation of the food, but also for the milk, which is roughage. It is not wise to permit cows to drink large amounts of ice-cold water, and in order to encourage them to drink a sufficient amount of water in extremely cold weather, it is necessary to warm the water slightly.—Rural Spirit.

Dr. Froom Receives Letter From Brother-in-Law in Mexican Capital.

Dr. J. C. Froom, of Boise, has received a letter from his brother-in-law, Alfred Cooper, of Mexico, a subject of Mexico City, dated August 8, which contains many interesting details of conditions in the Mexican capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper were engaged in the fruit canning business in the city of Mexico. Since the death of Mrs. Cooper in Mexico City eight years ago, Mr. Cooper has been engaged in the fruit canning business. He was the first to start canning in that part of the country and has developed a large enterprise. He employs the same native help each year and they have learned to respect him. Their loyalty is shown by their actions mentioned in Mr. Cooper's letter. He writes: "I received yours of March 18 about two weeks ago, but as the trains only ran for two days I could not get in before before I could stop."

"I was sorry to receive the news of their bills. If it were not so tragic, the state of things would be laughable. The Mexican soldier gets only $1.50 per day (Mexican money) less than 10 cents in gold, and must feed himself, and corn is one dollar per pound.

Arco, where they were camped with some horses, when the attack was made on them. Mr. Hohn and Mr. Pershall being in bed together. They awoke at 1 o'clock in the morning to find the coyote on the bed. According to the story of Mr. Hohn the animal first attacked his son-in-law, biting him on the nose and forehead. Mr. Hohn attempted to grapple with the animal and it bit him on the hand. It then turned on Mr. Pershall's hand and bit him severely, but the third member of the party finally killed it with a butcher knife. Mr. Hohn has gone to remain with friends in the Gem irrigation district pending the arrival of the serum from Washington. After his talk with Dr. Laubach, he wired his son-in-law to come to Boise. The treatment is expected to arrive Saturday morning, and both men will be on hand to take it. A repetition of your want ad is often wise, when it's important to find the most desirable tenant.

GERMANY TO AVOID A CRISIS (Continued from Page 1.) Arable that his ship when attacked was at least two miles distant from the steaming Dunley, which already had been fired upon. The attack was regarded by officials as important because of its having bearing upon suggestions that a torpedo directed at the Dunley might have struck the Arable. Some of the first statements said the Arable was steaming to the assistance in the straits and gave rise to much speculation as to whether the German submarine commander might have been fired upon. An attempt was being made to ram him. Secretary Lansing declined to state whether he would invite Count von Bernstorff to come to Washington to confer with him. He has made no reply to the ambassador's message of Tuesday transmitting instructions from the Berlin foreign office stating that the United States take no stand in regard to the Arable until Germany could be heard from. BORAH A FACTOR

Subscribers of Burton of Ohio Favor Ohio Man as Second Choice.

Washington—If Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, is not nominated by the next Republican national convention, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will be the nominee.

This is the declaration of one of Mr. Burton's most loyal and earnest supporters; a man who is one of the most intimate terms with the former senator from Ohio and who has been in close touch with him since he left the senate.

Whether large significance attaches to the remark, or whether it is the personal view of a single individual, can not be positively stated, but the remark occurred in the midst of a discussion of the presidential outlook, during which the Burton supporters indicated that there was great friendship towards the Idaho senator in the Ohio camp.

It is Senator Burton finds himself unable to lead the nomination and throws his support to Senator Borah, the Idaho senator will have a fair nucleus around which to build for Burton unquestionably will have the Ohio delegation back of him and he will have many delegates from other states, notably in the Ohio valley, and scattered throughout the east.

Senator Borah will go into the Republican convention with support other than that of his own and neighboring states," declared the friend of Senator Burton. "In Massachusetts, recently, I was assured by men who are well informed on political matters, that Senator Borah will have some of the Massachusetts delegates, notwithstanding Massachusetts will put forward Senator Weeks as her favorite man. I found that Senator Borah is popular and well regarded in New England and I would not surprise me if, on the first ballot, Senator Borah got a number of New England votes other than those he will get from Massachusetts."

In view of the fact that Senator Borah has declared he is not seeking the nomination and remembering the further fact that he is making no campaign it is significant that he should be so favorably regarded in the Burton camp and that New England should be evaluating a senator interested in him. It would be an unprecedented thing for a national convention to go to the far west for a candidate but when the next convention assembles the senator Borah will be recognized as the ablest member of the United States senate. Senator Root having retired from that body and that distinction, together with the support he will unquestionably have, will most certainly make him a big factor in that assemblage.

RAISE IN PRIVATE CAR VALUES

Lincoln Company Will Pay Tax on More Than Twice Former Sum.

The valuation on which the Pullman Car company pays taxes in Idaho was increased from one hundred and fourteen thousand to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars by the state board of equalization at its meeting Friday. Valuations of all other private car companies except the Pacific Fruit Express company, the bonded fleet of the Pacific Fruit Express company was increased from less than three hundred thousand to four hundred thousand dollars.

In 1914 all the private car companies in the state paid taxes on only $42,799.73. Reports made to the board of equalization by the special agent were to the effect that their valuations should be materially increased. Most of the companies had failed to submit any annual reports and the report of the special agent was accepted without discussion.

The board spent a considerable portion of the day wrestling with the problem of valuing the lines of the Boise Railroad company, and the Idaho Traction company. In the end it decided to leave the valuations as they were a year ago, and assessed the property at nine thousand dollars per mile.

The valuation of the Washington Water power company was increased from two million seven hundred and eighty-two thousand dollars to an even three million, and exactly the same valuation as the latter figure was placed on the property of the Utah Light and Power company, which had previously been assessed at two million seven hundred thousand.

The board has practically finished its work and after a short session Monday to clean up the details, will probably adjourn sine die. Statesman.

Aggressive use of the classified columns will rent good properties, in or out of seasons, and practically cut out losses from vacancies.

NATIONAL GUARD FOR BULL

Sergeant Bennett, U. S. A., Visits West End City.

Bull now has an opportunity of obtaining a national guard consisting of Sgt. C. F. Bennett, U. S. A., visited the city yesterday and stated that he had several other cities in Idaho that desired the company and that efforts and inducements made by those interested will be considered by the district commander in the selection of a city for the company.

No financial assistance is required to land the company in Bull. Those interested in the company should secure the moral support of every business man in town. The entire equipment, which includes the new regulation rifle, clothing, targets and ammunition, are furnished free by the national government.

The Federal Pay Bill, a bill to pay members of the guard, will be taken up during the coming session of Congress. Bennett says this is brought about every man will receive a certain amount of money for each drill or formation he attends, according to his rank. Bull has a number of ex-regiment and ex-regulars, which will make a nucleus upon which to build the organization if it is placed here.

Bull can readily support one of the best companies in the state and if the work is carried out as in Twin Falls, the city will get over lasting advantage through the medium of the company. For further information those interested in the movement should apply to C. V. Biggs, Robt. Sleser or B. A. Landon—Bull Herald.

the standpoint of theory and practice, I have found myself with my own eyes to study the course of the game and to qualify myself for efficient public service. I have found that the public is fortunate enough to enjoy a man of my character and reputation. I hope I need say but little. I have spent nearly twenty years in the law, less than public life. I have filled many positions of trust and responsibility, and it is with my honest or integrity that I have been questioned. This has never been brought to my attention. Even my political opponents, for as I know have never questioned my honesty or my loyalty to principle and conviction.

I was trained and educated in the greatest school for moral discipline in the world. I was tutored under such men as Goethals, the builder of the Panama Canal and I formed my ideals of public duty in a branch of the service where even an official statement which varies from the truth, is an offense.

My training and I believe, my natural talents should make me specially qualified for the administrative work which entails the governance of a city. If I am elected I hope to introduce a system of honesty, efficiency and dispatch into the transaction of the public business. I hope to get performance of duty on the part of every subordinate official, and I shall hope further, to be able to lend my work of an unassuming plain and unassuming and hollow pretense and lack of candor in public affairs, and in the work of the government. The life of Idaho every individual whose ideas of proper public service are not above reproach.

I expect, if I finally become a candidate, to make an active and aggressive but within the cleanest campaign ever made in the state. I shall do nothing to hasten to the polls, possibly bring a thought of shame or respect to anyone who may support me. I shall do nothing to offend anyone, and I shall endeavor to perform my duties in such manner as to merit the approval of every honest man and woman in the state.

Upon this basis I solicit the support of yourself and friends, and I should appreciate if you feel so inclined, an expression of your views.

Yours very sincerely,
E. O. DAVIS
