OPINIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

Member of Interstate Commission Makes Interlining Report.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The Supplemental Opinion and Suggestions of S. Thimister Ballard, made public here today in connection with the report of the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, in addition to other things says "The commission shall seek to discover the underlying causes of dissatisfaction in the industrial situation and report its conclusions thereon."

The causes of industrial unrest may be put under five main groups:

"First—Low wages.

"Second—Unemployment, through seasonal occupations, periods of depression, accidents and sickness.

"Third—The development of large industries.

"Fourth—Long working hours and insanitary conditions.

"Fifth—Unsatisfactory rural conditions.

"I will analyze each of these groups separately.

"First—Low wages with all the attendant evils. I consider the principal cause for industrial unrest.

"One of the chief factors in wage depression is undoubtedly the unorganized, unskilled and probably native immigration which has brought to our shores millions of unskilled workers in the last few years. These immigrants coming from those countries where yearly wages are lower than in America—a wage competition of which the employer naturally takes advantage.

"The European war will probably relieve this immigration situation for the next few years, but it is a question to which our government must give serious consideration in the near future.

"Inefficiency of the unskilled worker is also a contributory cause of low wages. The average applicant for work is irresponsible and untrained.

"With all our boasted free school system, our industrial education is deplorable. In our large cities, they are beginning to consider the education seriously, but our rural schools are lamentably inefficient. This inefficiency, which tends to lower the whole standard, can be corrected only through improved educational facilities.

"Government assistance should be given to aid in the establishment of vocational, trade and continuation schools, as part of our public school system.

"The gravitation of industries into large units has caused the skilled worker to be supplanted by the unskilled, who can merely accept the wheel of the great machine, performing the monotonous duties that anyone could easily do after a few weeks practice.

"The wages of the unskilled laborer are so pitifully small that it is almost impossible for him to maintain a family over with the most rigid economy.

"I suggest as the only remedy for low wages due to these conditions, the enactment of a national minimum wage law.

"Second—Under the second cause of industrial unrest—unemployment—we have seasonable occupations, as, for example, ice cutting and logging in winter, harvesting and fruit picking in summer.

"This problem will always be with us, and should be dealt with through an efficient system of national employment agencies to be administered by the federal government.

"Private employment agencies have proved inadequate, have even in many cases been used to exploit the worker. I, therefore, strongly recommend that all employment agencies be managed by the government.

"We have also, unemployment due to periods of depression. The federal employment agencies would take care of these cases, bringing when possible the man and the job together, but in periods of long depression, when no work is to be found, government aid and maintenance work, which has been held in reserve for this purpose, should then be provided.

"Should all these remedies be exhausted and there still remain unemployed workers, there should be government concentration camps where work with a small wage would be provided, supplemented by agricultural and industrial training.

"The fear of unemployment because of accident or illness fosters a feeling of discontent which tends to cause industrial unrest.

"Workmen's compensation laws and sickness insurance, with proper restrictions, would be the proper corrective here.

"Workmen's compensation laws thus far developed protect the man only when accident occurs during working hours—and this is paid for entirely by the employer. If an accident occurs causing injury to a man just before entering his work place the consequent loss to his family is just as great as though he had been hurt five minutes later within the factory walls, and yet he receives nothing.

"I, therefore, recommend that the workmen's compensation act should provide insurance against accident, wherever and whenever caused. This insurance, however, should be paid by the man himself, his employer and the government jointly. The same idea should apply also to sickness insurance.

"The worker himself should feel these responsibilities and should not share the expense of such insurance.

"We have as the third cause for industrial unrest, the development of large industries and the consequent loss of ownership. Large business, properly controlled, is an economic benefit, but the very size makes coordination between the employer and worker most difficult. There is no personal contact, hence a lack of sympathy and understanding.

"While a few cents per day in the wage of the individual workman means hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the business, and where there are so many units that one firm can be pitted against another to maintain the cost of production at the lowest possible point, the natural tendency is to depress the wage.

"As to the remedy, I would suggest that all corporations doing interstate business be required to take out a national charter that will ensure certain responsibilities and possibly grant certain immunities from state control.

"This charter should not allow over capitalization. Each board of directors, in addition to the other committees, should have a labor committee, whose duty it should be to become thoroughly acquainted with the actual conditions of the business, and make regular reports thereon to the stockholders. This committee should be held with the financial and other reports and thus give the stockholders a thorough understanding of the business.

"Long working hours and insanitary conditions are additional factors in the problem of industrial unrest. Nothing affects the man's physical well being and consequently his earning power more than these conditions. The state should legislate and legislate with factory inspection by competent government officers.

"Personal experience for a number of years convinces me that in most work and better work on an eight hour basis than on twelve, and that one day in seven for rest would be allowed if the man is to develop the fullness of his ability.

"I, therefore, favor a national eight hour law for continuous labor.

"Sanitary conditions of work, I have found, are a direct result of attention to the employer, as well as just and beneficial to the worker.

"Unsatisfactory rural conditions.

"I view with real concern the fact that our small landowners are becoming tenants, and the small farms are passing into the hands of a few.

"Everything possible should be done to aid and encourage our farmers. The United States government should adopt a plan for the scientific distribution of our agricultural products, and for a rural credit system.

"The present tariff in some foreign countries.

"Unsatisfactory rural conditions are a most difficult for the small farmer to earn a decent livelihood for his family, cause many poorly equipped young men and women to flock to the cities. As a rule, they are thoroughly inefficient and lamentably ignorant of the temptations of city life and are rarely able to earn a life on the farm.

"Life on the farm should be made sufficiently attractive and lucrative to induce these boys and girls to remain there. This can be done only through our rural schools, which are now most inadequate.

"The education of country children must fit them for country life. No love of the beautiful, no patriotic gratitude to his country for his education can be felt by the child who spends weary months in uncomfortable hovels, where he receives impractical and frequently useless instruction.

"Our government should aid the states in establishing comfortable rural schools with longer terms, better paid and better equipped teachers.

"In every rural school there should be departments of household arts, cooking, sewing and millinery, also manual training and agriculture. These schools should be open for agriculture in fact, each one should become an experiment station for the neighborhood. The school—house should be the social center—the meeting ground for instruction and social pleasures.

"In order to satisfactorily carry out the suggestions contained in the report, it would be necessary to have a non-partisan commission in charge of industrial questions, as suggested by the majority report of this commission.

"This would require large additional revenue, which might be derived by some form of taxation.

"The highest of all taxes are the income and inheritance tax. This question, however, must be carefully studied and weighed since the tax by one class, while the benefits are largely enjoyed by another.

"Care should be taken that it does not become confiscatory and thus stifle individual incentive and effort.

"In addition, I believe that every individual should pay his proportion, no matter how small it may be. It will inspire in him a feeling of citizenship and make him an integral part of our nation."

SCHOOL WORK OUTLINED

September 1, 1916.
 During the summer, the janitors have been busy putting the buildings in excellent shape for the opening of the school year. By the time work begins, everything will be in splendid shape. A new boiler is being installed and the whole heating plan will be very much improved. A plan of ventilating that will make a splendid improvement will be installed. Additional toilet facilities are being provided which will double the toilet facilities in the high school. The auditorium is being fitted up for the seventh and eighth grades. Two rooms in the old frame annex to the high school will be used again next year. Before the year opens, those rooms will be very materially improved. Nearly 50 per cent. more heating space will be provided. Ventilators will be placed in every room. The walls will be tinted inside with a color that will tend to diffuse light. The roof will be repaired and two 2x2x8-inch transoms will be placed in each and to aid in lighting and ventilating facilities. Early in the summer it was a planned to abandon the shack and use a frame portable school. A committee was sent to Pocatello to investigate the 15 portable schools in use in that city. This committee found that the portable schools in use in Pocatello were very little, if any, improvement over the wooden annex that has been used at the Biokel school for some years. In the light of this judgment, it was felt that an investment to place the frame building at the Biokel school in better condition would be better than to make a greater investment to buy portable buildings that offer very little improvement over the wooden building now in use.

Because of the crowded conditions of the school wagons last year, the Board of Education found it necessary to add another wagon to the number used last year. This will make a total number of 22 school wagons which will be used next year to transport rural children to the town schools. The following is a list of the wagon drivers selected to drive the wagons:

J. B. Lecheltler, route 3; Mark Bristol, route 5; Roy Lesdon, route 8; Gladstone Woodhead, route 7; Dillard Regua, route 8; R. L. Shaw, route 9; L. S. Ayotte, route 13; Adolph Roy, route 14; J. W. Patton, route 15; E. B. Field, route 13; J. S. McCracken, route 14; R. H. Patton, route 2; J. W. Smith, route 4; K. N. Osborn, route 15; M. K. Keller, route 15; J. W. Middle, route 17; J. W. Stepp, route 18; P. M. Train, route 19; J. A. Swenson, route 20; Charles Sewbery, route 21; William Simons, route 23; J. A. Jenkins, route 23. Route No. 1 is the Twin Falls Electric Railway company.

The superintendent is also receiving his office letters from several boys and girls who need employment in order to continue their education. These students are worthy in every particular and every step should be taken to give them the opportunity to finish their education. These students will work in homes, in stores, on farms, and other places for their board and room. The superintendent would like to cooperate with the people interested in boarding and rooming country in finding locations for these ambitious students. He will be very glad to furnish names to anyone interested. He will also be very glad to file in his office the names of any persons who can offer out-of-school employment.

Several teachers are writing and asking for desirable rooming and boarding places. It is the wish of the superintendent that persons who are interested in boarding and rooming teachers file their names and description of their rooms with him. He will be very glad to accommodate both the teachers and the pupils.

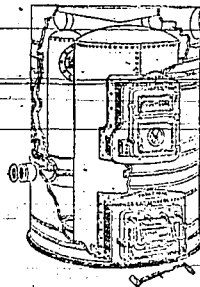

It is going to be difficult during the school year to adhere rigidly to the boundary lines separating the Lincoln and Biokel districts. This is because of the crowded condition existing in practically all of the class rooms. For the purpose of organization, Shoshone street will be accepted as the dividing line between the Lincoln and Biokel districts. Boys and girls will go to the school located in the district in which they live. The first and second grade rooms in the high school building will be for the use of beginners and second graders who live nearer the high school building than they do either the Lincoln or the Biokel buildings. These arrangements will not need to be changed when the school year opens. The policy of the superintendent and the principals will always be to act without prejudice in the matter of admission, and justly in every case and to try to work to the best advantage of the entire schools system and at the same time to meet the need of every child. Parents are very kindly asked to talk over these matters personally with the superintendent and the principals. Every attention will be given to them.

It is always advisable for mothers to come to the building the first day with the little children and help in getting them classified and enrolled. This means everything to the little pupils. It is very essential that parents come with the little school pup, particularly those just entering the high school, to aid and counsel them in their selection of courses. A small bulletin has recently published that will give a great deal of aid to parents and high school students. These bulletins will be sent out by the office of the high school principal. Because of the teachers' institute, it will be impossible to enroll high school students before Monday, September 13, the day actual school work begins. First grade beginners who will be 6 years old on or before Monday, October 23, 1916, may enter school at the beginning of the first semester, Monday, September 13. Beginners who will not be 6 years old until after October 23 must wait until the beginning of the second semester in January. No first grade beginner will be permitted to enroll for the first semester after Monday, October 11. Pupils who do not enroll by October 11, must wait until the beginning of the second semester in January.

To be an economical heater, a furnace must have a large amount of radiating surface in comparison with the size of the fire pot, and this surface must be arranged so that the air in passing upward must come in close contact with every part of it.

It will be observed that the FRONT RANK STEEL FURNACE is built on STRAIGHT VERTICAL lines, thus causing the air in its ascent to pass directly over its entire surface.

BOARD OF EDUCATION BULLETIN

Regulations for School Buildings and Grounds

Regulations

- All plans and specifications must be approved by the state board of education and the state board of health before contracts are let. Plans and specifications must be sent direct to the state board of health, Boise, for approval. The board of health in turn submit them to the department of education. Full information concerning source and location of water supply, location and type ofouthouses, and a description of the heating and ventilating system must accompany each set of plans.
- All contracts for buildings shall be in writing.
- All buildings in common school districts shall be inspected and approved by the county superintendent of public instruction before full payment be made therefor.
- Windows must be "banked," that is, made close-titting, and should reach as near to the ceiling as possible; this prevents dark spaces and shadows.
- Floor area must equal, not less than 1 sq. ft. for each pupil, in addition to space for teacher's desk.
- Buildings must not be more than two stories in height.
- Light must come from the east or the west. North windows get directly on sunlight, south windows get too much and a glare is the result.
- Stairways must be at least five feet in width—set-hand right and left side. They must be located at opposite ends of the building and lead directly to exits.
- Doors must open outwards.
- The school house must be made as nearly fireproof as possible, due precautions being taken to separate the heating plant from the rest of the building, by fire proof walls, ceilings, and doors.
- Basements or cellars must be well ventilated.
- Separate drives for the sexes must be provided. They must be placed at least five feet apart and screened from view and be at least one hundred feet from the well or other water supply.

Advisory

- The following suggestions are not mandatory, but are earnestly recommended to school trustees:
  - Stuffy or tower should not be placed on building. Money spent for this would be better spent on building or equipment.
  - Country school buildings should provide for work rooms where manual training and domestic science may be taught.
  - Schoolroom colors: the best color for the schoolroom in relation to lighting are: Ceiling, white and light cream. Walls, light gray, green.
  - If possible, should be painted so that it may be washed. The paint should have no gloss and when put on should be striped to prevent reflections. The walls must be smooth finished that they may not catch dust and that they may be easily cleaned and kept sanitary.
  - Blackboards should be placed across the room back of the teacher's desk; if more are needed, they may be placed in the open end of the windows. (See also, Rule 39 State Board of Health.)
  - School grounds:
    - (a) Site: For site for school buildings and grounds, here is good, but ten is better. The school grounds should afford two well-labeled and well proportioned play grounds and be set apart from any luxury, but a necessity. A school without a playground is an educational deformity and presents a gross injustice to children.
    - (b) Arrangement: The school building should be set well forward and near the center, leaving an open space in front for lawn and flower bed flat in the middle of the ground as it interferes with the best use of the whole area. The school grounds should have trees, plants and shrubs grouped with artistic effect but without interfering with the children's playground.
    - (c) Ventilation and heating: The schoolroom should always receive fresh air coming directly from out of doors in one of the following arrangements:
      - (a) Through wide open windows in mild weather.
      - (b) Through window bank ventilators, or through other conditions, except when a furnace or one of the modern school room heaters is installed.
    - (d) Through wide open windows in mild weather.

Three Cigarette Faults to Avoid

First, avoid cigarettes that don't suit your own taste.

Second, avoid those that bother your throat or tongue.

Third, avoid those that make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

If Fatimas, for instance, seem to you to be guilty on any one of those three counts, we say, avoid Fatimas.

We mean what we say— for when it comes to the taste, Fatimas can't possibly please everybody—the cigarette can do that. But Fatimas do please more men than any other cigarette costing over 5c.

That's one reason why you should try them.

Another reason is because they are so SENSIBLE—so free from any "after-feeling."

If you want to know exactly what a "sensible" cigarette is, just try Fatimas by these two tests. Do that little thing today—you'll be glad.

Export Agent for the U.S.A.

TWO TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to a leader, that there are other qualities that you should look for in your cigarette. First, you should look for the taste of the cigarette. Second, you should look for the "after-feeling" of the cigarette. Fatima cigarettes are the only cigarettes that are so "sensible" that they do not bother your throat or tongue, and they do not make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

HOW MANY INDIANS IN IDAHO

Washington—How many Indians are there in Idaho? Nobody seems to know. The census bureau has just completed and published its report on the Indian census taken in 1910, and asserts that the total Indian population of the state in that year was 2488. The Indian bureau statistics for 1910 show 3988 Indians in Idaho. It would naturally be presumed that the census bureau would find more Indians than the Indian bureau, inasmuch as it undertakes to enumerate all residents, whereas the Indian bureau deals only with Indians under its own jurisdiction, but as a matter of fact, taking the country as a whole, there are more Indians than can be that the Indian bureau is adding its rolls to get more money out of congress.

Table with 2 columns: Location and Number of Indians. Includes Umatilla (22), Walla Walla (1), Warm Springs (1), Yakima (1), and Not Reported (12).

Percent of the total number of Indians found in Idaho by the census bureau, 2884 were full bloods, the remainder mixed.
There were in 1910 2704 Indians in Idaho 10 years of age or over, and of these 1607 were illiterate. This is 59.4 per cent. The Indian schools now are getting in their work for back in 1910 there were 2226 illiterate Indians in Idaho more than 10 years of age, or 79 per cent of the total of that age. Of the illiterates, 484 were unable to speak English.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, September 4, 1910, the following described tract of land, belonging to the State of Idaho, and situated in Twin Falls County, will be offered for sale at public auction at the Court House at Twin Falls, Twin Falls County, Idaho, at 1:30 P. M. of said day, to-wit:

Many Tribes Represented
The census report shows the classification of the Indian population by tribes. The great bulk of Indians in Idaho belong either to the Nez Perce or Shoshone tribes, but quite a number of other tribes are represented. The classification follows:

Table with 2 columns: Tribe and Number. Includes Shoshone (363), Nez Perce (1035), and others.

There is no need of feeding the ordinary calf for a longer period than one week on whole milk. Of course the change to sweet skim milk should not be made suddenly, nor without substitutes for the fat or cream. To replace the fat that has been removed from the milk, as well as to furnish additional protein, there is nothing that can take the place of strained jolly. This jolly should be added in small quantities at first and slowly increased until it is a necessary part of each feed, and gradually increase until about a cupful is being fed night and morning to the three-months-old calf. To prepare this jolly steep one pound of whole strained-in water all day, with a thick paste of jolly. It should be kept cool and sweet until fed. In addition to the strained jolly a little dry bran and whole oats should be fed. Some clean, sweet hay will be found a valuable addition to the ration of a very early age.

RIGHT FEEDING FOR CALVES
Flaxseed Jolly is Excellent Substitute for Fat or Cream—Give Some Bran and Whole Oats.

PRACTICAL HINTS PICKED UP IN ORCHARD

Wonderful Japanese Cherry Trees, Noted for Their Beauty.

Do not have the trees come until you are ready to put them in the ground. When they arrive, soak the roots a little while in cold water, then examine carefully, and cut off every damaged root. All dead wood or imperfect growth should be cut off just before the first outbranching rooted. Cut from under side in a slanting direction, so that the exposed surface will come in contact with the ground. In trimming the trees, do not leave any branch more than eight inches long. The practice of cutting back to within two or three feet, particularly on very young trees, is growing and usually gives very satisfactory results. In western Washington where fruit growing now has become a great industry, yearling trees are planted more than any other. They are cut down to about one-third of their growth, and are every year trimmed to grow low-spreading branches. Most of the apples in that country are picked by men standing on the ground—ladders seldom being necessary.

branches that have dropped from the trees, since they may contain injurious insects. In planting fruit trees, dig the holes large enough to receive the roots without crowding. Very few fruit growers realize that amount of plant food a crop of fruit extracts from the soil each year. A bill now before congress provides that windfall apples shall not be packed with picked fruit and regulate the size of packages requiring a standard bushel box and a standard barrel.

MATURE BREEDING STOCK IS FAVORED

Pork From Small and Undeveloped Animals Is Too Fat to Meet Market Demands.
(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)
Early maturity for the pork barrel is one thing, and early maturity for breeding purposes is quite another, yet the two are closely related, and it is desirable that we consider them together. The tendency must come from the small or dwarf varieties.

But we may produce pigs with an inherited tendency to make a rapid growth from birth to the time they are fit for market, and at the same time attain the size and vigor of our matured breeding stock. Another difficulty I have observed in producing pork from the small and undeveloped breeding animals is that the pork is too fat to meet the market, which calls for a carcass that will furnish pork that is well-marbled with fat and lean meat, and this kind of meat comes from pigs that are from matured parents and that have the inherited tendency to make growth rather than to take on too much fat at the period when they are being finished for market.

Probably the best results come from pruning the orchard rather vigorously every two or three years, but if one is not an expert at pruning, and cannot obtain the right sort of help, better let the trees alone until they can be properly pruned, even if this can be done only once every three, or four years. Peach trees which get frozen badly, sometimes can be saved by cutting off below the snow line, allowing them to sprout again.

Soundness should be the basis in the selection of draft stallions. Good Combination. Poultry and fruit make a good combination.

Oyster shell bark louse attacks apple trees mainly. Sulphur-lime should be used when the leaves are off the trees. If this spraying is ineffective use kerosene emulsion or whale oil soap when the scum hatch. It will facilitate the work of planting the orchard if the land is laid out in straight rows the distance apart the trees are to be planted. The distance apart that trees are set is governed by the kind and variety to be planted. Wounds on trees heal from the downward flow of sap from the leaves, and not from the upward flow of sap from the roots. Pick up and burn all twigs and

GRAIN LOUSE DOES CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Excellent Results From Well-Cared For Field.
BY LEONARD HAGEMAN, Missouri Experiment Station.
The common grain louse is now coming to its share of attention along with the Army worm, the chinch bug and the Hessian fly. It is a small green or yellowish-green louse which collects in the head of wheat. The mature louse has wings. It attacks wheat by sucking the sap, injury to ripening wheat is usually quite slight even though the pest may be abundant. This is not the much dreaded green bug which comes early in the spring and which attacks the stems and leaves of wheat completely killing the plant. The grain louse develops very rapidly and when the weather is favorable for its development and unfavorable for its enemies, it is able to do considerable damage to wheat.

Packing House Demands. The demand at the packing houses for leaner pork and smaller weight hogs. The testers must cater to these requirements by feeding less corn and more protein feeds and shortening the fattening period. Give Pigs a Variety. Feed fatt pigs during winter a moderate ration of corn and supplement with bran, shorts and such other nutritious feeds as you have on hand to give variety to the ration.

FARM STOCK

NOTES FOR SWINE BREEDERS

Success With Pigs Cannot Be Attributed to Luck—Model Farm Should Have Natural Shade.

Progression is the order of the day, and in no direction is there more progress made than in the breeding and feeding of swine.

The time has passed when we can consider a man's success in swine growing based upon luck. Good drainage is essential on the hog farm, and no amount of tile or artificial draining will take the place of good natural drainage.

White hills and valleys make an ideal place for a hog farm, the herd should be kept as near to the source of the water as possible because of the danger of the stock becoming afflicted with cholera and other diseases caused by the stream being contaminated by swine further up stream.

A model breeding farm should be provided with a timber lot or large grove. There is no shade like natural shade, and trees soften the cold winds during the winter. Their value cannot be overestimated when properly utilized by the swine grower.

The breeder who would be successful in this age of close competition must have the closest and keenest discrimination of what is necessary to constitute an animal of individual merit, or more properly he must have a keen eye in mind the selection of a perfect pig. Then he must have an idea of the kind of breeding stock required to produce such a pig.

There are numerous breeds of swine varying not only in size, color, shape, feeding qualities and general characteristics, but also in the quality of their product.

It is not the great big fat pig that brings home the money, but the pig that will weigh from 300 to 400 pounds at from six to ten months of age that captures the top prices. The breeding animals of the herd should receive the very best care and attention at all times, but with all our knowledge of breeding and feeding, the science of swine growing is yet in its infancy.

KEEPING SWINE IN WINTER

Profit Can Be Made in Feeding Home-Grown Feces, Such as Clover, Alfalfa and Ensilage.

It is a common question to be asked if it will pay to winter swine. I can see but one way to winter swine at a reasonable cost, and it is to winter them on as cheap feed as is possible, and make home-grown feeds, clover, alfalfa and ensilage, form a prominent part of the ration.

Winter Comfort for Little Ones.

to grow a farm in the spring and see 100 hogs which will weigh the same in May as they did in December, and all of the corn crops empty. Something is wrong when we use that kind of hog, but no one will dispute the fact that the average feeder either feeds out more feed than can be fed with a profit or also has a bunch of scrub pigs in the spring. There is one advantage in wintering pigs, we have them in time to feed out and reap the benefits of a good summer market, and in that manner receive considerable more money than we would if we were compelled to market them while the market was overstocked in November or December. ## STORE NEWS

I have said very little about Suits and Skirts and Winter Coats, so perhaps you folks are under the impression that I am making no special preparation to take care of you in this line of goods for the coming fall and winter. But really it has been so warm for the past month or six weeks that I thought perhaps it would make you uncomfortable to even think about heavy goods; but I just want to say in a few words that I shall be ready for you when the time comes with a very choice line of good quality, well made, new and stylish Suits, Skirts and Coats for Ladies, Misses and Girls.

These are now beginning to come in and we shall be receiving them from time to time. They will not be extreme in style but the very latest and newest styles. Just the kind that it will be safe to buy with the assurance that they will not go out of style over night as is sometimes the case with extreme styles.

All of these will be here at my usual right prices. It will not be my aim to start in with a great big stock but with a few of a good many different kinds, with more coming all the while so as to keep up with the newest and latest things that are being brought out.
