ANOTHER CHAPTER IN BRIDGE STORY

Martaugh Bridge Work Held Up By Injunction

ACTION TAKEN ON REQUEST OF HILLSDALE HIGHWAY VOTERS

Another chapter in the bridge story was written last week when Judge Babcock of the state court issued a temporary injunction restraining the Hillsdale highway commissioners from further action on the Martaugh bridge. The injunction was issued because the petition of the voters for the dissolution of that district could be acted upon by the county commissioners of Blaine county. In connection with the case, the Hillsdale highway commissioners who have been appointed are about to be taken this means of getting rid of them.

ROCKY-FORD SUGAR FACTORY

Celebration of Sixteenth Annual Opening of Factory a Community Affair. Promptly at seven o'clock Monday evening the whistle at the local factory of the American Beet Sugar Company announced the fact that the sixteenth annual campaign of the factory was starting. A few minutes later the whistles in the plant began to turn and once more the mammoth industry which means business and prosperity to Rocky Ford and the entire Arkansas valley began the annual task of converting beets into sugar. Every man was at his post, every piece of machinery was oiled and ready for use, every screw and bolt in the immense factory was ready to do its full share of the work.

REPORT ON IRRIGATION

Commission Aims Troubles of Three Idaho Projects.

Advise Cutting Down of Acreage on Salmon Tract—The Building of Larger Reservoir for Idaho Project.

Three reports were handed to the governor Saturday by the irrigation commission, which has spent the past ten days co-ordinating the results of its investigations of the various larger irrigation projects of the state which are not now on a substantial basis.

The first of the reports dealt with the King Hill and King Hill extension projects, the second with the Twin Falls-Salmon River project, and the third with the project of the Idaho Irrigation company.

In its report the commission discusses the needs of the projects, their worthiness of aid and the possibilities of granting such assistance, and concludes by suggesting some of the forms this aid might take.

King Hill Project. An examination was made of the King Hill project by four members of the commission—Messrs. Walter E. Elliott, Anderson and Carter. They walked over the bad part of the flume drive, over the greater part of the canal system and over the land included in the project, interviewed numerous settlers and held a public meeting at Twin Falls. Since that time they have learned more or less through interviews and by correspondence.

The report shows that the commission was greatly impressed with the King Hill tract and comments on "the unusual fertility of the soil and splendid conditions for the growth of fruit, grains and vegetables."

"It is apparent," the report states, "that this section is admirably adapted to the growing of such crops as vegetables, which can be put upon the market from one to three weeks earlier than from any other part of the northern Idaho and thus compete with the tropical sections. This section also has the further advantage of being large quantities of annually produced."

Settlers Discouraged. With the present condition of the water and the prospect for its completion, the settlers on the project are discouraged. Many of them have left their land, and others are about ready to do so. The commission finds that some portion of the canal system, which lies along a steep hillside, will be greatly worthless within two or three years, if the project is not immediately done to rebuild the project in the manner of the five plans whereby this might be done.

COMMISSION AIMS TROUBLES OF THREE IDAHO PROJECTS.

The irrigation commission has advised the governor that it is necessary to cut down the acreage on the Salmon tract and to build a larger reservoir for the Idaho project. The commission has spent the past ten days co-ordinating the results of its investigations of the various larger irrigation projects of the state which are not now on a substantial basis.

The commission states that it is strongly opposed to state aid for large irrigation projects, but in view of the fact that the state has already taken over the project and held out hopes for the settlers that it would bring them relief and because of the great benefit which it believes would accrue to the settlers by means of the completion of the tract, recommends that an exception be made of the King Hill tract.

The commission also recommends that the state should take over the project and hold out hopes for the settlers that it would bring them relief and because of the great benefit which it believes would accrue to the settlers by means of the completion of the tract, recommends that an exception be made of the King Hill tract.

POTATO BULLETIN

Estimate Given by Idaho Producers' Association.

United States short-over last year, 38,000,000; Idaho long over last year, 79,000; California short over last year, 272,000; Colorado long over last year, 2,165,000; Oregon long over last year, 1,347,000; Washington long over last year, 1,450,000.

The above figures represent information just now received by wire from the government. This somewhat conservative prediction we made more than two months ago, at a time the government was estimating the crop for the country 25,000,000 bushels more than last year.

We advised the growers in a bulletin at that time that we were confident the short crop was 40,000,000. You will observe, however, that they still estimate Idaho 79,000 above last year. Recent reports convince us that the crop will be close to 75,000 cars short of last year's shipment.

Moral: Every grower who can possibly arrange to do so should store the maximum amount in anticipation of higher prices later. Those who cannot make arrangements to store or pit should be shipping at this time.

The demand for extra selected large baking potatoes, either sacked or boxed, is unusually strong for this season of the year, and those who can arrange to put this stock up right should do so at present market, not from 30¢ to 40¢.

Splendid Entertainment at the Orpheum the First of the Week. The management of the Orpheum is putting on a fine show for the week. The headline is Richard Hamblin, the mad scientist, who is America's foremost original entertainer of artistic fun. He is delighting the patrons with wonderful dancing and old and new stunts.

Goetz and Duffy in singing, comedy, character changes and dancing is pleasing all who see him. Chapter Eleven of "The Sign of the Cross" is very entertaining. "One Minute of Gaiety" is a true story of life on the "cane" "What and So" is a Cinderella plot with the price and dialogue reversed. The entertainment is a pleasing one from start to finish.

AUTO CATCHES AFIRE

Plier Auto Stage Caught Fire Monday Morning on Main Street. What might have been a serious gasoline explosion was averted Monday night when the plier bus burning between this city and Dubuque, caught fire. The cause of the fire was the gasoline leaking from the tank. F. A. Ripley, the owner of the plier, had started from the Adams rooms on his way to the Lind garage and knew nothing of his machine being on fire, until it was noticed by some of the employees of the garage. He stopped the machine and the blaze was quickly extinguished with hot lye. The department was called and made a quick run to the scene.

ISIS THEATRE MAKES CHANGES

Change of Program Each Night Commanding Motions Eyeing. Commencing Monday evening of this week the management of the Isis theatre adopted a new policy in regard to the program. A WONDERFUL DRAMA

"Calling of Dan Matthews" a Real Gripping Live Theme. The public today are critical and are taking great care in purchasing their amusement. They are looking for great things that they want and are willing to see it, but what to give them is the question asked again and again by the producing managers.

Messrs. Gaskill & MacVitty seemed to have solved this puzzle by giving the world's greatest dramatist, a play of popular novels. This season they have had with startling success the "Calling of Dan Matthews," dramatized from H. H. Wells' great book by Mr. Wright and E. W. Reynolds. Striking as was the popularity of the story it is small compared to the favor with which the play has been received. "The Calling of Dan Matthews" has made a wonderful dramatic story of a man who is struggling with a great evil.

The bringing into this city of two complete teams of big league ball players will make a welcome event for the fans of this city. It should be the means of bringing here ten thousand people of properly advertised. To the men promoting the venture in this city, should be given the hearty co-operation of every business man. Ball players of national fame like Coombs and Alexander and many others are not often seen in cities of this size. Twin Falls should make the most of the advantage. The merchants should include it in their advertising and try to make it a big day in Twin Falls.

The national defense plan of the Wilson administration is bound to meet with the hearty approval of the loyal Americans because it is the best safeguard toward peace that the nation can have. The expenditure of four or five hundred millions of dollars does not sound big for this government, but when that money must come by taxation in excess of the present tax for revenues, it will hit all of the people. But it is necessary. The terrific loss of property and national art treasures in Belgium would be compensated in this country ten-fold by the landing of invading forces in one of our big seaports. Better a heavy tax for four or five years than to spend fifty years building up our shattered resources after an invasion.

The vetoing by Mayor Sweoley of the gas franchise allowed James McMillan at the last council meeting while appearing rather hard on the promoters, is based on sound business judgment. Mr. McMillan is an old pioneer of this section, and there is no one whom the Times would be more glad to see get the franchise who properly tried to protect the city's interests. Mayor Sweoley's point of view is not necessarily the fact that several important details have been omitted. Mayor Sweoley is in favor of giving the franchise but wants the details cared for properly. He intimates that the franchise is a blanket one, and does not offer any compensation to the city for the use of its streets, and franchise privileges. The Times believes that the promoters of the company will readily see Mr. Sweoley's point, when they read the article, and that the troubles which this city has had because of too much haste in the giving of the waterworks and electric power franchises. The Times sincerely hopes that the company and the city can mutually co-operate to bring prosperity to both.

WHY THE COUNTRY MERCHANT

JOSES TRADE. "We are having the experience here that perhaps a number of newspaper publishers are having—i. e., the local business men criticize the local merchant out of love and admiration, but they will purchase very little of our goods themselves."

This runs the piquant of a letter from a New York state publisher to our advertising department, and it offers a wide field for comment. The writer also sends in an editorial in his paper on the same subject. Of course the fact that the local business men grumble will not deter the publisher from accepting out of town advertising, seeing that these local merchants will not support their newspaper themselves. Boosting local trade is part of the publisher's business, but he cannot undertake to boost all by himself. He must have the co-operation of the business men for whom, in fact, he is doing the boosting. Furthermore, he cannot legally refuse any lawful advertising. His columns must be open to all legitimate advertisers at the same rate for similar service.

On the other hand, the situation as presented by this publisher shows that newspaper owners have a duty to perform in their business communities, a duty which may not be light, but which nevertheless when performed will redound to their own financial benefit. That duty is to educate the business men to advertise. It can and must be done and is being done by hundreds of progressive publishers. At the outset let it be said that the publisher who attempts to educate the business men of his town has all the argument on his side. He need hardly use words. He can lay before those whom he is teaching any newspaper from a live business town, and local newspaper will tell the story, for will be full of advertisements of local and foreign business men. Let us quote for a moment from the above mentioned editorial:

"The country merchant deprecates the fact that the mail order houses are making inroads upon his patronage. How did they do it? Did they send representatives into the rural communities to solicit trade? Did they simply open their places of business and wait for customers? They did not. They 'bought' their part, but all of their patronage by the use of print or ink. They advertised. The average merchant does not seem to realize error with this gigantic object lesson before him, that the means employed by these concerns were also at his disposal. Through the medium of the printed word they tell the public what they have to sell. The importance of the village merchants do not.

"The above is another step in the lesson which must be taught local non-advertisers. The fact that mail order houses and other foreign advertisers have gained all their business through advertising must be told them again and again in editorials and verbatim when their advertising is solicited. It must be demonstrated to them that there is not a prosperous business concern in the whole country which today does not advertise. They simply must be made to see the light, or they must go out of business. For the business man who advertises will sooner or later get all the trade away from the one who merely keeps a store and waits for buyers to come in without advertising.

"We quote again from the editorial: 'The non-advertising merchant frequently advances the argument against advertising that every one knows where his store is and what he has to sell. He never sees the light, or he does not know what he has to sell. If he doubts this, let him compare his present stock with that of five years, three years or even one year ago and note the many new things he has on his floor and shelves, new things that are the product of inventive genius or of changing fashions. He keeps abreast of the market changes, but all his customers do not—hence they do not know what he has to sell.' To which we may be added the further argument that in the larger cities of the United States every body knows where the big department stores are, and still they spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year in advertising. Every person in New York or Philadelphia knows where Wannamaker's is and what that department store has to sell, and still John Wannamaker uses a page every day in every one of the New York papers, and spends the salaries of Macy's, Gimbel's, Marshall Field's, in Chicago, and in fact, of every department store in the country that is making money.—American Press.

TALKS ON THRIFT

NO. 31—BEWARE THE PROMOTERS

"We are going to have great prosperity in the United States, the greatest ever known. I predict that, when prosperity comes, all the promoters of big things who have been less in evidence for the past several years will again be in the field, more active than ever. If past experience is a guide, they will take millions out of the savings of people who are now working hard to get the money.—John Chapman, Minneapolis Banker.

One of the country's leading bankers issued this timely warning against the danger of trying to get rich too fast. "This country is filled with fake schemes that get the people's money. The amount invested in them by hard-working people and inevitably lost every year would run into millions." "Recently I saw this matter summed up impressively in the life stories of three men all living in the same town, each about 40 years of age, each beginning with nothing. One was to make enough to make a big killing in a mining stock when he was a young man. Ever since then he has been putting his money into similar ventures, hoping to hit it again. All he has is the house he lives in which is heavily mortgaged. The second is a bachelor—free from family responsibilities, he has lived without the necessity for provision against the future, constantly staving him off a day. He is now driving his fourth automobile, but is selling for his salary his appreciable membership in some clubs and some reputation as a well dressed man he has nothing in the world.

"The third man married, had a family and was against it hard. Provision against the future was a live obligation with him. He had to think about wife and children and what would happen to them when he could no longer work. He saved all he could, persistently, but it hit a per cent investment, and he bought anything that he was not sure would bring him his money back, and at 45 has a good home, all paid for and well furnished. Besides he has money safely invested sufficient to insure him for loss of earning power, bringing in an income that is not large enough to live upon, is nevertheless a token of importance and one that is getting bigger every year."

A Geary county, Kansas, farmer, recently motorized to town with $7,000 in a grain sack. It took bank officials more than an hour to count the money, which was largely in one-dollar bills.

"The farmer brought in the currency as a result of a savings account advertising campaign conducted by a local bank. The farmer had done business with banks in years. Of course, this man all that time had run the risk of losing his money by fire or theft, but that was not his only danger. If you have some money lying idle, it often becomes known, and you are deluged with a multitude of opportunities to 'invest' it in speculative stocks or securities which it is claimed will yield anywhere from 8 to 50 per cent or more per annum.

"The prospective investor, with a limited sum available, you are apt to feel that there is no safe investment for you and therefore fail to increase your income, and at the same time to have your capital available in the time of necessity. You will find that everywhere the road is made easy for you to invest your money, with accommodating guides and money sign posts, but the way to get it back is often a dubious one, with no one in sight to help you.

Keep your money in the bank or in a conservative investment recommended by your banker and you will beat 99 out of every 100 'investment' schemes that are offered you. Men who have anything that is really earning big dividends are not selling it at bargain prices. They are not offering it to you at all. What they are offering to you is something that they do not want themselves, something they want to unload. Mislead the people who go into such schemes by things that are being 'unloaded' by someone, and by the modern processes of promotion the unloading is often done at enormous profit to the promoter.

The ordinary small investor has neither time nor expert knowledge to properly investigate securities offered to him. He must trust someone else to do the investigating. The man that is about investments, because he has a reputation to sustain in the community, and he is in a better position to know investments than you are for that is his lifelong business. T. D. MacGREGOR.

BERGER
Getting rich may be the dream that runs many in the sucker class. Many of the gringos have advanced many a man from the field of a friend.

Among those who attended the Sunday school rally in Berger's hall from the Haggard neighborhood, we noticed Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Tull, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smith and several others from that neighborhood.

F. W. Berger was a passenger for Twin Falls Friday returning Saturday. A. S. Henson, of Idaho, was a pleasant visitor in Berger the first of the week.

Landell Logan came over on his motorcycle from Murtaugh Monday. E. T. Moilan is back from the Clover district, where he has been putting in several seasons for the settlers in that community. The Dutch know when they have a good man and Moilan is that man.

C. L. Smith was transacting business in the county seat one day last week. The Land and Water company has had a force of men improving their ditches in the way of putting in drop and concrete "game" northward and Berger. The crew broke camp and moved a few miles east of Berger Wednesday to do some work on ditches there.

Geo. McGregor, one of our live wires and local grain buyers, shipped several cars of wheat from this station last week. Mrs. T. Sanderson, of Twin Falls, was visiting friends and relatives in Berger last week.

We have heard of no one registering any kick on account of prices on our principal product, namely wheat. Robert L. Forbes, of Berger Heights ranch was a sighter and visitor in the Magic City and metropolis of southern Idaho, Wednesday and Thursday.

Some of our ranchers and others are having electric lights installed in their homes. Among those who have recently improved their homes with electric lights is Prof. J. F. Lawwill. Mrs. C. J. Curry went to Twin Falls Wednesday for a few days visit with friends.

T. A. Sanderson, Jr., one of Berger's live grain buyers, is a busy man these days filling his new elevator with grain that was stacked up in sacks outside the elevator which had been unloaded in this manner. Mr. Thomas A. Sanderson has been assisting in the installation and re-erecting of the Twin Falls Milling and Elevator company at this place. He is well and favorably known on the local home and up.

Eight young men, and the ranchers and the company will find it a pleasure to visit him. As the sign says "write-up" of it in the next issue of The Times.

Tom Hays, who owns an eighty acre ranch south of Berger which he had in crop this year, returned to his home in Leadville, Colorado. After spending the winter in the mountains with Ralph B. Foote. He is optimistic and has faith in the future of the Salmon river tract, believing that the settlers here will be eventually be corrected and adjusted. He will return next spring.

E. J. Hornbrook went to Twin Falls to visit his family and look after business matters Monday. Mrs. J. F. Lague, principal of Berger schools, was in Twin Falls visitor Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haggard drove to Kimberly Sunday to spend the day with relatives. Tom Callen was over from near Jerome to visit his brother, L. C. Callin, last week.

E. L. Schuler is rejoicing over the arrival of a little lady who came to A. J. Trofner, who has been farming near Berger, on his personal trip to Washington to look up a location. We certainly think to see some of our good, honest citizens who are well up to look up a location.

Deputy Sheriff Thompson and Arney Hazel, of Twin Falls, were Berger visitors Tuesday. L. Roberts and his family have moved to Artesian City after a year's residence on the Selmon.

After a year's farming on the Salmon river tract, L. Short moved with his family into the Twin Falls tract. Manager Breckenridge, of the Twin Falls Milling and Elevator company, saw L. Short after business in Berger the first of the week.

Supl. Hank, who had charge of the construction of the new elevator was appointed during the last week of the construction of the new elevator at that place.

Mrs. M. J. Jones and Lillian have moved to Amsterdam where her husband is employed in the construction of a new elevator. They will be gone a month or more. During the absence of Mr. Jones, L. N. Butcher has charge of the Berger mills.

Judge Berger has returned from a trip to Nevada where he is connected with one Young, a land representative, went to inspect some land. Mr. Berger was so pleased with the land that he purchased a tract of land. This land has not been opened to settlement, as under the Southern Pacific railway. Water can be secured at a depth of six to ten feet, besides numerous springs of hot alkali salt water are found in the tract. Surely some attraction.

C. L. Smith and land representative Tom Hays were over from Twin Falls Friday. John Beggsley and family, who resided in our midst for the past year, coming from near Astoria, Ore., Sunday, and moved in to the Twin Falls county Wednesday, where Mr. Beggsley had traded for a farm near North Idaho land. It is a matter of

PAISE FOR SOAP AND WATER

Best Means Known for Efficient Disinfection.

Soap, water, sunlight and fresh air are far more favorable in preventing the spread of infectious diseases than is disinfection by fumigation. This was the opinion expressed recently at the meeting of the American Public Health Association at Rochester, N. Y., by most of the health experts who took part in the discussion of the control of infectious diseases. It was declared that thorough cleaning with soap and water, fresh air and sunlight, and particularly Penovallol disinfecting and sterilizing wherever needed, were most efficient methods of disinfection than in fumigation.

As a matter of fact disinfection by fumigation has been discontinued by the department of health in New York City. Investigations were made as to the result of the disinfectance of fumigation, and it was found that absolutely no increase in the number of secondary infections followed. As a matter of fact, the number of fumigation was retained as the only means of disinfecting more numerous cases of infectious diseases.

It is evident that soap and water, sunshine and fresh air, are infinitely more valuable as real disinfectants whether fumigation is used or not. But as to the real value of either process the results depend upon the daily care and cleanliness exercised during the entire period of infection. Soap and water as valuable as they are as disinfectants, will not be sufficient in one splash or application to remove all means of further infection where there is carelessness with an infectious case. On the other hand, a "little" increase burnt to the odor of contagious disease at the end of the illness will not atone for all the careless coughing and spitting and careless handling of infectious material during the illness.

It is a mistake to think that the burning of sulphur or anything else, or that soap and water and sunshine will take the place of diligent, personal care in keeping down infection. Daily care and cleanliness are the best of means for men who have infectious diseases. Fumigation may help.

president commented most favorably on this kind offer of Mr. Brown.

Having been appointed at the last meeting to investigate the feasibility of the betterment of the city which the club calls "home," the committee made a most encouraging report, suggesting many things which the club may do.

Definite action will be taken at the next meeting.

On October 15th, the president, will ask Mrs. McRoberts to preside, and the day-current topics day will be in charge of Mrs. Hill. A letter from Mrs. Hill, written by Mrs. J. H. Beaver, will be read.

A number of strange faces were noticed at the meeting Tuesday, the membership increasing rapidly.

one appointee of the construction company, out from the settlers and 500 feet to the center of the project.

In getting the size of the project at 25,000 acres, the commission has taken the most liberal figures, especially those made by the engineer, who is a state engineer, which may be really as high as the amount of water available to the project for irrigation purposes.

The fact is revealed that, in constructing the project, a company which carries the money necessary to construct such an irrigation system should have had to base its plans on mere guesses, at available water supply.

Actual Water Supply.

Mr. Robinson's report which is included in the report of the commission, shows that the water in the Salmon river, Cottonwood and Chinoe creeks, to be 120,000 acre feet, and the weekly loss 2.7 per cent of the total water. In this report, the commission concludes that the quantity of water available at the headgate is 37,500 acre feet. Less in the canal and in the check basin bring this total down to 61,250 acre feet which he assumes is available for delivery to farmers.

Dividing the quantity available for delivery by 2.75 acre feet per acre, the contract duty, as determined by the food and water, is 22,273 acres, and adding 10 per cent to allow for yards and roads, the engineer fixes 24,500 acres as the amount for which there is water available, in the system.

Dut Down Account.

The commission advises the land board to pass a resolution compelling the contractor to cut the water out of the tract to that figure on pain of forfeiting its contract to the state. In the event that this solution is brought about either through the action of the arbitration commission or by the land board, the irrigation commission urges that the Idaho delegation in congress be instructed to lobby for such legislation as would give the settlers on land lying beyond the irrigated area, but which was formerly included in the project, patents of their entire.

Diminished Yields.

The commission includes the investigations of J. A. Wagon, a member of the board, in a report on the project at the close of the 1914 season, when but nine inches of water

In a Classy Novelty of Comedy, Singing, Medley and Eight Styles of Dancing.

A clever comedian who has played all the big circuits of the United States and Canada.

Richard Hamlin is conceded by the press, theatrical managers, theatrical agents and the public at large to be America's greatest and most versatile dancer. Having a complete knowledge of every style of step dancing, the proof of which is the fact that Mr. Hamlin has written a 200-page book entitled "American and Europe's greatest dances, past and present." The songs, medleys, parodies and musical arrangements are entirely original.

DRAMATIC DAY

Crit Reviews Famous Play "Everywoman" Attendance Large

Dramatic day at the Twentieth Century club brought out a large attendance, the principal attraction for which was the reading of "Everywoman," famous both in book form and dramatization. The hands of Mrs. W. B. Crozier, the review was at once entertaining and fraught with moral lessons throughout. She was assisted by one of Twin Falls' more popular readers, Mrs. Boyd Fuller, whose voice so full of pathos and expression was perfectly suited to the play and brought out every point intended by the author.

Studying South America through correspondence, the first letter was read by Mrs. S. Hart, who made the trip in an airplane, kindly loaned by the owner in exchange for a forty-acre Twin Falls tract, now to clover seed. If the writer overlooked any point of interest, it was because of her excited position. However, she seemed to have seen all worth seeing and gave her correspondents a
