PEACE TALK IN GERMANY

Indications That War May Come to End in Spring.

FRANCE TO PAY MONEY: RUSSIA TO LOSE POLAND

Berlin Will Demand Big Indemnity and Restoration of All Her Foreign Possessions.

Berlin. "But by the spring, we probably shall have peace." This remark by one of the most highly placed and prominent state officials of the German government, who was speaking to the press, is taken as an indication of the view on the probable duration of the war in the German government quarters. It is also taken as an indication of the view on the probable duration of the war in the German government quarters. It is also taken as an indication of the view on the probable duration of the war in the German government quarters.

Pressed to give a reason for his opinion as to the time the war would end, the official replied that he based his expectations largely on "the sound business sense of the British," which would lead them to more for peace as soon as they saw nothing was to be gained by continuing the war. "I have much confidence in the business sense of the British," he said, "and think that when once they have found the Dardanelles cannot be forced, they will lead them to take steps in the direction of peace."

Statement Refused. The correspondent suggested that business men usually are unwilling to make a contract wherein all the advantages of condition are on the side of the other party to it, and that it was customary in business circles to have some definite idea of the upshot of which an agreement would be possible before sitting down to draw up a contract.

The official said that for Germany to make a statement at this time on the conditions of peace might possibly be interpreted as a confession of weakness and for the present, preferred to wait overtures from the other side. Considering France. Since the conversation the correspondent of the Associated Press has heard similar remarks from other officials. The view with which the various political groups and big industrial circles connected in Germany are regarding the resolution of the war is the subject of this discussion and the official utterances of the German government. Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, and other responsible persons are possible in the present condition of peace, give color to the suspicion that something may be going on behind the curtain.

Will Not Talk

No statement whatever as to Germany's peace conditions. The Associated Press has reported any formal communication as to the terms of peace for the future. The German government has refused to answer any questions which the correspondent has asked in public utterances. "Should it be permitted to make any statement on this subject," the official said, "it would be a violation of the principle of non-interference in the peace negotiations."

JUDGE WALTERS' FRIENDS URGE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Conditions are ripe for assuring the election of a good candidate next year.

Judge E. A. Walters, of this city, who since the first of the year has been in private life and private law practice in the firm of Longley & Walters, is being urged to make the race for governor on the Republican ticket.

So far Judge Walters has turned a deaf ear to such an idea and has said to his friends that he will stay in the state as long as he can.

Judge Walters would make a strong candidate and good governor. He has the decision of character and the ability to weigh values. Judge Walters would be governor in every sense of the word and a credit to the state.

The political situation is such that the Republican voters are going to demand a good clean candidate for their leader. The North has two men of them well known as a wet supporter, the other comparatively unknown.

The Southern party of the state has plenty of tentative candidates, but most of them have serious handicaps, due to associations. Judge Walters is popular in the South and is well known in the northern part of the state where he has often held court.

All of the candidates mentioned to run in the coming year are well known in the state. The best of it is by all odds.

NEW FAULT THE CAUSE

Earth's Crust Drops Twelve Feet for Distance of Thirty Miles.

That the big earthquake which occurred on the night of October 2nd, was due to a hitherto unknown fault in the Sonoma range of mountains along the foothills of Mount Toba.

Professor James H. Thompson, of the state university, is of the opinion of J. C. Jones, professor of geology of the state university.

Professor Jones, who is a member of the engineering department of the university, arrived from Reno Saturday morning and left for Pleasant Valley, accompanied by Attorney L. C. Campbell, with Roy K. Brown as driver of their auto.

They returned last evening and Professor Jones and Board left for Reno. Speaking of their observations along the fault or break in the earth's crust, which they examined from one end to the other, Mr. Campbell said to a representative of "The Star" this morning:

The northern end of the fault is in the foothills of Mount Toba, about three miles from Mud Springs, and it extends continuously almost due north about thirty miles to a point a few miles below the Cooper and Unalaska ranch. At the southern end, the fault shows it to be from twelve to fifteen feet. The angle of the fault in 64 degrees, the dip being to the west, the earth having moved in that direction. The trend is almost due north and south.

In a few places along the break we find slickensides, as found on the walls of veins, proving the plane of action. The slickensides showed a slight movement of the sliding mass to the north, but our observations to break where it intersects fences, roads and irrigation ditches showed the drop to be straight downward.

In the valley and along the hillsides near the Cooper and Unalaska ranch there were many light fractures, some of which were caused by the tremendous force when the slip occurred. This fracturing, occurring on the surface for several miles, surface water came up through these cracks and the ground had the appearance of being swept by an enormous cloud-burst.

From our examination we found no evidence of the great fault or slip which caused the earthquake was a new one. However, there were indications of an old fault where a new break, the old fault scarp showing quite plainly.

Professor Jones, speaking of the probability of other earthquakes, with this section as the center of disturbance, gave it as his opinion that there is no danger and that it will probably be years before another similar drop will occur on this fault plane like those of the afternoon and night of October 2nd.

He said that for two or three weeks, however, light jags would probably occur, the result of the settling of the great mass of rock which has been adjusted to its new position after the great movement which occurred. This settling is due to the light shocks which have occurred since the big one of eight days ago.

It is probable that Professor Jones will come to Winemucca at an early date and deliver a public lecture on earthquakes, when he will fully and clearly explain what caused the great shake-up of October 2nd, which he said was great enough in violence to be felt in Mount Toba, usually about five miles in depth.

U. P. NOT BUREAUCRACY

General Manager of Idaho Lines Has Supreme Power.

R. S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific system, arrived in Boise Sunday afternoon on his annual inspection trip. His coming was unannounced and few Boise citizens were at the train when he was received. Mr. Lovett chatted with them for half an hour and continued his journey. "I have been told," said Mr. Lovett, "that there is an impression that our railroad does not come close enough to the people, that it is necessary for instance, to come to the executive committee in New York for action on any requests for changes in the operation of the Oregon Short Line. If such an impression does exist, it is entirely erroneous."

"Mr. Calvin, though he does not now enjoy the title of president of the Short Line, is in absolute authority regarding every phase of its operation. The only questions that come before the executive committee regarding the Short Line are those involving the expenditure of new money and, as this money has to be raised through the executive committee, it is only in line with proper business methods that they should have the power to distribute it."

"Once each year I meet the heads of the various units of the system and go over with them their estimates of the amount of money they require for their part of the system during the year. Often they ask more than the system has to give and we work out where the cuts can best be made and how the money can be placed to the best advantage. In other respects they handle the business of their lines without bringing each matter before me or the board."

"I am unalterably opposed to centralization in the Union Pacific system and my first acts in connection with the system as its head were to begin the elimination of any forms of centralization which I found existing."

Bureau System Out of Date.

"Each head of the various lines of the Union Pacific system is supreme in his own field as is Mr. Calvin as head of the Oregon Short Line and I am anxious to correct any impression which may have gone out to the contrary."

Mr. Lovett said that the proposed short cut through Oregon to California will be completed this year as far as Payne creek gap, in Harney county, Ore. The appropriation for this part of the road was made some time ago, he said, and expressed the belief that work on the road was in progress at this time.

Inspect Idaho Roads.

The party has visited the Pocatello branch, the Victor branch, the Snake river belt and the Twin Falls line. They left Twin Falls Sunday morning and came directly to Boise. Leaving here, the special continued westward and hit Huntington, the members of the party contacted with the Short Line will give place to the executives of the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, another part of the system, and Mr. Lovett will be shown over that line.

Accompanying Mr. Lovett in Boise were E. E. Calvin, vice president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line; N. H. Loomis, general counsel for the Union Pacific System; D. E. Adams, consulting engineer; W. A. Whitney, general superintendent of the Short Line; A. B. Stevenson, superintendent of the Idaho division of the Short Line; D. B. Burley, general passenger agent; J. A. Reece, general freight agent, and A. C. Hickley, superintendent of motive power.

CHOLERA UNDER CONTROL

Farmers of Tract No Longer Afraid to Raise Swine.

Dr. W. A. Sullivan, of Twin Falls, who is in charge of the station maintained there by the bureau of animal husbandry for the suppression of hog cholera in that section of the state, reported that the situation with respect to hog cholera in that locality was well in hand.

As illustrative of conditions prevailing before and after the establishment of the station, the doctor mentioned that in 1913 the Twin Falls farmers had lost 10,377 hogs, or 56 per cent of their swine, through cholera. The station was installed in June, 1914, and since then the loss has been reduced to 2 per cent. From January 1, 1915, to September 30, the station treated 36 herds containing 6932 hogs. Of these 1543 showed pronounced symptoms of the disease when they were treated. Out of this number 256 died. In affected herds the saving by

The work is felt safe in embarking in the business, not only because it is profitable, but because they are assured protection from the ravages of cholera and other diseases. Their alling animals are treated free of charge and the owners do not hesitate to immediately inform the station when they suspect disease in their herds.

SAFETY FIRST PETS

Union Pacific System Has Three Highly Intelligent Animal Assistants.

In the construction of a second track through Weber canyon a few miles east of Orderville, the Union Pacific is expending a large amount of money. The company's employees numbered three of the most intelligent horses in the business, if the latest reports from the seat of this activity are to be credited.

Approximately 750,000 cubic yards of earth and 100,000 cubic yards of rock will have to be moved to complete this work. Steam shovels handle practically all of this material. A tunnel through over 250 feet of solid rock on a point near the Gateway Hill known as Sheep Rock is a part of the great endeavor, and when the new line is completed it will give the Union Pacific a sixty foot grade per mile as compared with the present old line grade of thirty-three feet, nearly all of the undesirable curvature of this present line being eliminated.

The three horses which have won renown in the gigantic work at hand have become famous among the human employees. There is Keno, a nine-year-old black; Jumbo, a ten-year-old gray; and Bob, a seven-year-old black.

Each of these bright-eyed Union Pacific animals seem to know when the work-truck switches are properly lined and has been known to stop of his own accord when such is not the case. Any error by a careless driver has thus been made impossible by these horses, by actual observation. No side-swiped cars and no personal injuries—thanks to Keno, Jumbo and Bob.

In view of the heavy work handled there must be considerable blunting, and it is the custom for the team shovels to give a "gentle signal" when a bit is to be discharged thus warning the workmen. A series of short whistles announces the coming of explosives and a number of longer blasts of the whistle indicate the number thereof.

When the "weather whistle" is blown the three intelligent horses plainly show by their nervousness that they expect to be fired from their frame, and when snatched below the workmen and down the hill. They likewise seem to count the number of blasts to be fired, and stop the budge from safety until the last has been discharged.

Keno, Jumbo and Bob are the best and the heroes of the big Weber

THEATRICAL NEWS

A HIGH CLASS ATTRACTION

Oscar Fleiman in "A Pair of Sixes," at the Laverling, Oct. 28.

The familiar significance of the title "A Pair of Sixes," in American theatre, as well as in the popular mind, has made it well known the country over, apart from the fact that the farce enjoyed a run of nearly a year at the Longacre Theatre, New York, and is now being played North, East, South and West.

The play, received by the metropolitan critics with an expression of praise that almost exhausted the superlatives and the hilarious farce has made good everywhere despite this avalanche of praise. It has made the average expect much and they have not been disappointed. For ingenuity of plot, brilliant dialogue, hilarious complications and most surprising situations, it has been declared the best play of its kind ever seen on the Broadway stage. It is the work of Ward Pople, the author of "The Little Rebel," and "The Prince Chap," and is in three acts.

The plot deals with the affairs of George B. Nettleton and T. Boggs, John in a pill manufacturing business, who are constantly at loggerheads, each longing to be rid of the other, but neither willing to sell out. They summon their lawyer, but decline his various propositions for dissolution until in despair he suggests a contract with numerous conditions by which a hand of poker is to be played, with the penalty that the loser shall give the business for a year just in the interval serve as a servant in the household of the winner. The lawyer is involved personally, because he hopes to see T. Boggs, John lose and with his lips sealed by the contract he will be humiliated before the girl with whom he is in love, and in whom the lawyer is also interested. The breaking of the contract means a forfeiture of $5,000 and sacrifice of his share of the business. John loses and the lawyer and the lawyer both feel he will break the contract rather than attack it out for a year. But he grinds his teeth and breaks his word and the lawyer is as bitter in the Nettleton household. He is found here performing his menial duties as his sweetheart, who arrives as the guest of the Nettletons. He cannot explain his position to her, and there is more trouble for him through the attitude of a eccentric English housemaid, who pursues him for a husband. This comical complication is developed through the rapid series of hilarious situations, the fun rattles along until the unfortunate partner's sweetheart takes a hand in the game and rescues him from the clutches of his partner. The latter, too, is glad to end the agreement, for he has mistaken the sympathy of his wife for the loser and believes that she is in love with him, and his assiduity creates an uproarious entertainment of his own.

THE PRICE OF FAME

Youth Comes up With Fame and (Laughs Her Jealously).

Fame, with her scorching finger, touches lightly the forehead of youth, and the youth, in a moment, is a star. So starts the story of the first drama in the "Why Pava" series, to be shown Monday and Tuesday night, October 25th and 26th, at the Laverling Theatre.

Each drama in this series is a complete in itself. This is not a serial production. These plays have caused a great deal of comment in other communities and will no doubt meet with appreciation here. "Auntie Night" will also prove an acceptable comedy offering on these nights and the ladies will be interested in the fall fashion section, in color, of the Pacific Weekly News.

WORK ON SHOSHONE GRADE

Warden Snook Reports That Convicts Are Performing Well.

Warden Snook returned Wednesday from the convict road camp at Shoshone falls, where he visited with State Highway Engineer Booth. The men are getting along in the shape of work making considerable progress, he says, notwithstanding the fact that a large part of the work is through the "haze rock." While at the camp Mr. Booth held a conference with the highway commissioner and it was decided to increase the force to 35 men. There are 20 in the camp now and the other 15 will be sent out the latter part of this week. —Steelman.

TO ENTER COMBINE

Great Shoshone and Southern Idaho Power Company in Big Merger.

Arrangements were completed by S. Z. Mitchell, president of the Electric Bond & Share company, admitted head of the hydro-electric power merger in southern Idaho, before he left Boise a few days ago for New York, by which the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Waterpower company, the former Kullin enterprise, now in the hands of a receiver, will enter the combine. This will add a fourth company to the merger now composed of the Idaho-Great Shoshone Light & Power company, the Idaho Railway, Light & Power company and the Idaho Power & Light company. The fifth company to be included in the Southern Idaho Power company is the southeastern part of the state. Mr. Mitchell announced before he left that the total capitalization would be $14,000,000. While here Mr. Mitchell went carefully over the plans of the central organization, now being perfected, with Manager Wallace. He also took an active part in the recent conference before the public utilities commissioner in the presentation of a new schedule of rates for power purposes both for the mills and the irrigation pumping plants. It is understood to be Mr. Mitchell's plans to develop the market in southern Idaho as rapidly as possible, and as it enlarges and the return warrant, to lower the rates thereby increasing the demand. All of the plans for the merger, it is believed will be completed by Nov. 1. An early result of the combination is the complete unification of all the power plants, or the Ox Bow, the Swan falls, the Malad, the Boise-Payette, the Shoshone and the Thousand Springs, all of which are either on the Snake river or its more important tributaries. The first four are already in the combination. The last two will be included when the Great Shoshone company is taken in. It is claimed a great saving will result in harnessing the plants together. They control the more important power sites in the Snake river basin. By the combination one alternative unit can be made to serve all six plants, whereas heretofore when the plants were operated separately this was not possible. —Capital News.

MINERS BLOWN TO PIECES

Five Hundred Pounds of Giant Powder in Butte Mine Explodes.

Butte, Mont.,—Fifteen men are known to be dead at the Granite Mountain mine of the North Butte Mining company at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday the result of an explosion of 500 pounds of giant powder. Fifteen bodies have been recovered. Eight other men, all working at the surface, were seriously injured, one of them, Ed Bray, a shift boss, will die. It is feared four and probably five others are dead.

Three top men were engaged early Tuesday afternoon in lowering powder to the 2800 foot level. Powder is sent down in the mine every other day. Tuesday all the powder except one mine carload had been lowered. One car containing giant powder was at the collar of the shaft waiting to be lowered after which a number of bosses and miners were to go below. Five of the men were waiting in the "hoist" a small room near the shaft.

John Davey, the only one of the three top men to survive the explosion, left the car to get a timber 400 feet back from the shaft. He was the last man to see the others around the collar of the shaft, before the explosion. Davey says that one was near the powder except Ed Bray, a boss, who stood about five or six feet from the car.

Bray had one side of his lungs blown out. Another man injured had his foot blown off, and without lacking an anaesthetic, he submitted to the amputation of his foot.

The blast swept away the frame structure in which the men were waiting at the shaft, together with the air shaft holder. The men were in the frame. Two painters were at work on this air shaft at the time of the explosion. Neither was killed but both were injured, one sustaining a broken leg.

Many of the bodies were fragmented and were picked up in sheets. Workmen who were searching the timbers in the ripped dog house found a dismembered leg. Others had found fragments of a skull, a piece of a jaw, a piece of a leg, a piece of a hand.

Robert Watson's body was found at the bottom of the shaft, 2800 feet below the surface. He had been blown into the shaft.

John D. Pope, general manager of the North Butte company, said Tuesday night that he had no theory as to the cause of the explosion.

The steer was killed by the impact and it was necessary to get a team from the Newman ranch with which to draw the car off the steer. HANSEN NOTES

The mother of Miss S. McCoy, Mrs. Stansbury, of Chicago, has been visiting at the home of her daughter for the past few weeks. Mrs. McCoy's sister, Mrs. W. A. Nichols, has also spent a couple of weeks visiting here lately. Mr. J. A. Felton, who moved from Hansen to Nyasa, Oregon, last year, was in town a short time ago visiting his children and attending to business connected with his ranch here. He says the Oregon crops have been fine, but that he is coming back to Hansen to see his place at Nyasa. When he returned to Oregon, his daughter, Miss Emmett, who had been visiting in Hansen for a few weeks, went with him. From Nyasa Mr. Felton expects to go back to his old home in Arkansas for a short visit and business trip.

The home of Mrs. M. B. Provost was the scene of a delightful gathering last week when Mrs. Provost entertained the ladies of the Hansen neighborhood at a miscellaneous dinner in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. T. Provost. About twenty-five ladies spent a very pleasant afternoon, conversing and enjoying the dinner. The volume of advice from the experienced to the bride, or the recipe of their favorite dish, a veritable shower of beautiful gifts of china, silver, aluminum and linen showed the esteem in which the bride is held. During the afternoon delicious refreshments were served.

Several parties from Hansen have been fishing and hunting in the hills, in the Wood river country, or to the Sawtooth mountains in the last few weeks since the threshing has been finished. Mr. H. M. Vanderpool and his brother, G. R. Vanderpool spent a few days there last week. On Saturday W. D. Felton, and family accompanied by M. B. Provost, motored to the dam on Wood river returning late Sunday after a successful session. They are planning a long trip in the near future.

Mr. C. E. Hansen, of Twin Falls, former manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, has spent some time in the last ten days in this neighborhood, signing up beet crop for next year. In the interest of the proposed factory for Twin Falls, quite an addition was made to the acreage already put in ground. Hansen and everyone seemed interested in helping to land the year for the tract. By having a year in which to arrange for it, many more farmers would be in condition to sign up for the beet, as it is not easy to re-arrange all of their crop scheme in a minute. Mr. Johnson, with Mr. Hansen, paid the first year, and was able to dispose of the questions that for a time were undecided. The beet harvest have been successful in the month now, and are keeping the dump red-hot. A shortage of cars has compelled them to dump on the ground, which will mean extra work for the beet company in rehandling them. The beet yield is doing its best to keep pace with the record crops of wheat and clover seed. Some growers have reported as high as twenty-two tons per acre, while twenty-ton crops are common. This is bound to give beet a boost on the tract and next year will see an even larger increase in acreage over this year than this year showed.

Roy Durr is wearing a broad smile these days owing to the arrival of a regulation size boy at his home last week. Both mother and son are, doing nicely.

Mr. J. D. Zollinger hauled an alkali crop of twelve bushels per acre on his place this week. O. B. Bille took a $5000.00 crop of red clover from thirty acres which he had seeded. Peter Newman, who is farming the ranch of Judge Lawrence Hansen, at Rock Creek, hauled in $7200.00 worth of alfalfa seed as the gross returns from a 150-acre field. This sold for 15c a pound and shows that a twenty-five year old alfalfa plant is still rather productive. Mr. Hansen says that as late as the roots of the alfalfa plants in the bottom of his well, which were as big around as his arm. The Sampson brothers have the only wheat yet to be threshed in the territory, but as they have about forty-seven stacks it will take about a week to clean it up. The threshing just moved into the field on Wednesday.

If experiments just begun, this spring on the Hansen dry farms prove

ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY AT THE CAPITOL.

"The state finances were never before in such excellent condition as they are at present under the efficient management of State Treasurer Engelson. During the first six months of his administration the sum of over a thousand dollars has been saved in the economy and efficiency system he has inaugurated in the administration of the Capitol building at Boise of which he is executive. He has required the purchasing of supplies; and the payment of all expenses, and keeps a close watch upon all expenditures and disbursements.

"During the last six months, the state has paid no exchange upon bonds; this amounts to over a thousand dollars saved.

"During the first two months of this year, Mr. Engelson saved the state over a thousand dollars in interest by a saving of over two hundred and fifty dollars upon telephone alone, by reducing the number in the building to a sufficient number and cutting out the unnecessary instruments.

"On various other little items of unnecessary expense he has saved the state over three hundred and fifty dollars.

"On the bond issue of 1915 for 'state highways,' which was authorized to be sold on a five per cent basis, he sold at such a premium that the interest was reduced to 4 1/2 per cent; and then besides this saving of over ten thousand dollars in interest, he contracted the deal so that even the expense of lithographing the bonds was borne by the purchaser.

"By his efficiency and economy and by his good management of the Treasury department, he has cut down the outstanding indebtedness of the state by $235,500.00, leaving now a balance of $2,236,700.00 still outstanding.

"This record is a splendid one for six months. It speaks loudly of the excellent work of our state treasurer."

He is a business man in every sense of the word. He is running the treasury department as a private man would run his business with economy and efficiency.

"The people of the state are well pleased with this record, and know that at least one more in the state capitol appreciates the obligation to the people of the state of conserving the public money of the state."

The above article appeared in a recent issue of the Oakley Herald. As it furnished real facts proving economy and efficiency on the part of the state treasurer, Mr. John W. Engelson, The Tribune was led to make a little investigation into affairs in the office in question. Among the many things

Mr. Engelson simply claims credit for fairness in his transactions with the banks, individuals and the state; for efficiency in handling the work of the office; and for the practice of rigid economy wherever possible. So far as we know the state treasurer has gone to work without saying a word to anybody. It was only by inquiry at the office, and during the absence of the state treasurer, that The Tribune was able to get these facts and figures. Comment upon the administration of Treasurer Engelson is unnecessary. The affairs in the office speak for themselves. Oct. 12.

investigations convince us that every word of praise spoken by the Oakley Herald is well deserved. — Caldwell Tribune.

we learned was that the present state treasurer's methods of doing business were with the hearty approval and sympathetic cooperation of all the state officers. These officers have the utmost confidence in Mr. Engelson. They feel that he is doing everything in his power to efficiently and economically handle the work of his office. This method in the office of the state treasurer is something new and novel in the history of the state treasury, and one which he feels is worth more to the state than the direct and immediate saving of $25,000, which he has made in administering the office. It is a new system of bookkeeping. When Mr. Engelson became state treasurer he received a new set of books; one that gave all transactions of the office in detail so that any one can see the day's business without trouble or delay. The books are balanced each night and a report of the day's work filed with the state auditor, who checks it up. A copy of the daily report is retained by the auditor and a signed copy returned to the office of the treasurer. This system, if kept up by succeeding state treasurers, will make it impossible for any error or delinquency to pass unrecognized for more than a few hours. Mr. Engelson has placed a check upon his office which makes error or embezzlement impossible if the state auditor attends to his duties.

Mr. Engelson has introduced the plan of treating all banks who do business with the state upon an exactly equitable basis. There are 140 banks in the state. Each bank's deposits are in proportion to the securities it has deposited with the state and in an equal ratio with all other banks in the state. In the past state treasurers have played favorites to more or less extent, thus promoting private schemes and securing personal advantages at the expense of other banks and sometimes at the expense of the state itself.

Since Mr. Engelson became state treasurer he has made a saving of $25,000, reducing the interest payments $14,140 per year. He has paid the interest on considerable more than two million dollars on outstanding bonds without costing the state a dollar for exchange. A direct saving of over $1,000.00 has been made in this manner. Over $1,000 has been saved the state in interest on outstanding warrants by reason of the fact that reports were made in advance to the state auditor to make appropriations of money.

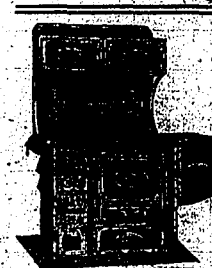

The governor has called for a comparison of the expenses of this office for the first six months of the term beginning in 1912 and of this year, which shows a saving in expenditures of this office of $783.70 over 1912. The treasurer has also called for a comparison of the expenses of the Capitol building and grounds and is directly responsible for the expenses incurred. For the first nine months of 1915 the expenditures were $27,686.82, and for the first nine months of this year they were $16,412.82, a saving of $11,274.00. In addition to this saving, the state has saved the cost of $300.00 in the new set of wagon scales costing $380.00 to which the coal on, put up new awnings on the capitol building at a cost of $300.00 which are expenses that will not have to be made again soon and were not made in 1913.

This office should have credit also for the saving of $10,000 interest on the state highway bonds that were sold; although Senator Rockwell of Blaine county is entitled to a great deal of credit on this sale also. The bonding company printed the bonds which meant $200.00 saved there, so that taking everything into consideration the saving of this office and of the state house cutting down or eliminating various items such as telephones, electric light bills, water bills, etc., he saved the state over $22,000.00 in the nine months of his term as against the same length of the 1913 term.

Mr. Engelson simply claims credit for fairness in his transactions with the banks, individuals and the state; for efficiency in handling the work of the office; and for the practice of rigid economy wherever possible. So far as we know the state treasurer has gone to work without saying a word to anybody. It was only by inquiry at the office, and during the absence of the state treasurer, that The Tribune was able to get these facts and figures. Comment upon the administration of Treasurer Engelson is unnecessary. The affairs in the office speak for themselves. Oct. 12.

I, W. Banbury for many years with the Boyce newspapers of Chicago, and until a short time ago publisher of the Indianapolis Daily Times, has severed his connection with newspaper life and will make his future home on his fine farm in the Snake River canyon north of Buhl. Mr. Banbury purchased this farm a good many years ago, making it one of the beauty spots of southern Idaho. It is highly improved and he is in the business to make it pay. He is in the cattle business to some extent and the present time is looking the country over for feeders which he will fatten on his Snake River ranch.

On his departure for the Gem state, the Indianapolis Star had this to say of him:

"The Star is glad to join with the many friends of J. W. Banbury in wishing him godspeed and prosperity as he leaves Indianapolis for his former home in Idaho. Throughout his residence here as publisher of the Evening Times, he has been a citizen of true worth, an enterprising publisher and a man who it was a pleasure to know for his many fine qualities of head and heart. His loss will be felt not only by the paper which he has given much able and conscientious effort, but by social and business circles generally. May health and happiness be his portion in the field where his lot is now cast."
