BORAH SOUNDS WARNING NOTE

Preparedness for Peace Is Important to Nation.

REVENUE MONEY NEEDED BUT IS OPPOSED TO A BOND ISSUE

Should Pay as We Go and Prepare to Give Protection to the People When Peace Comes.

Washington. "It is probable that the most difficult part of the program of preparedness will be that of the manner of raising the revenue to take care of the expense," declared Senator William Borah of Idaho in an authorized interview. "We certainly ought not to be called upon to raise bonds," he added. "It would be unwise and unwise to do so. It seems to me that in a time of peace and when we are enjoying tremendous profits from the sale of munitions and other war goods, we ought to be able to take care of the expense of a reasonable program of preparedness without resorting to the selling of bonds. It is a wise rule in these matters and certainly in times of peace to pay as we go and not put upon posterity our expenditures. I can not speak for anyone except myself and do not propose to, but I am opposed to the issue of bonds and shall not be a supporter of any limited inflationary program."

Senator Borah's warning that the nation is not prepared for peace is a warning that the nation is not prepared for peace. He says that the nation is not prepared for peace and that the nation is not prepared for peace. He says that the nation is not prepared for peace and that the nation is not prepared for peace.

CLEAN-UP DAY

The City of Twin Falls is one of the cleanest in the state from a sanitary standpoint and for this reason, if for no other, should take great pride in keeping-up the reputation. The fall clean-up from the trees and a certain amount of rubbish allowed to accumulate since the cooler weather, causing a lapse in the summer watchfulness of the garbage, make a great many of the usually beautiful residential lots unsightly. Let's make the Clean-Up Day a real clean-up for the winter months. It will mean less work during the busy months of next spring. It will cut off many breeding places for the flies, while you are getting time to do the usual spring cleaning. Twin Falls has had sixty little typhoid fever and mighty few flies, owing to the sanitation of the past two years. It's worth while.

On All of Your Printed Matter, It Represents Good Workmanly Good Wages and Good Conditions.

The article by Nels Darling on the front page of this issue is right to the point and well worth the serious consideration of the Times readers. There is so much of truth in his statements that unpalatable as they may be to some, both merchants and purchasers, should be given a lodging place in the minds of all people. The man who for selfish reasons thinks he can ignore his community duty, is not a rare type but exceedingly common. There is a little of the same idea in the minds of all. If given dominance over the action of all, the community reliance can, then easily be seen. The trouble, however, is that each individual sneaks over the dead line thinking that he or she is the sole patron of the main street long. The army thus grows without any recruiting station or extensive advertising of the fact. It is a mighty big army and contains many wives of business men, many business men themselves who take advantage of business connections to evade paying a just profit to one of their fellow business men. If you belong to the mail order army, you are also joining the community suicide club. Think it over.

The conditions in the county hospital which has been conducted in cottage Inn for the past six months are said to be so bad that the state health officer demanded its close in justice to the patients and to the public who may occupy the hotel. For some reason the county commissioners are not working very readily in an attempt to remedy the matter. If the conditions found by Inspector Elrod are true, then the situation demands a prompt remedy and change. The county patients are human even if poor and should be given the very best of care so that their inability to care for themselves may speedily pass. Even if the humane treatment does not appeal to the board they must realize that every added week of care for such patients costs the county a great deal of money unnecessarily spent.

It would seem that if Mr. Witte deems that public safety and sanitation is above the claims of party politics and is condemning the choice of his party colleagues, the county commissioners, in a pest house and

This was surrounded with clusters of California poppies and autumn leaves. Mrs. Greenhow was well remembered with many beautiful gifts.

On Wednesday evening Miss Margaret Williams entertained sixteen guests at the Smith home. In the two hundred game, Mr. Dormer Johnson received first prize, a book, "K." and Miss Yesta Thomas was awarded the consolation prize. Dainty refreshments were served after the game by Miss Williams, assisted by Mrs. McLane. The house was decorated in autumn colors. The guests were Misses Thomas, Hornaday, Culver, Paris, Pratt, Taylor, and Mrs. McLane. Misses Bailey, Ostrander, Smith, Benoit, Macintyre, Johnson, Beck and Magie.

Mrs. B. A. Hamilton was hostess Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon of this week at two very enjoyable luncheons. On Tuesday afternoon the color scheme of green and yellow was carried out in every detail. Luncheon was served at the card tables. Each table had for a centerpiece, a Japanese basket tied with yellow tulle bows, and filled with chrysanthemums and ferns. Mrs. Hamilton's attractive home was made very artistic with autumn decorations. Mrs. Hamilton received first prize, an embroidered towel, for high score in the Auction Bridge game. Mrs. Burton received second prize, a card case. The money cards were symbolic of Halloween. The following guests were invited for Tuesday: Madamess Barton, Bullis, Stewart, Hill, Grier, Clench, Huber, Felt, Wright, Woods, Morse, Skeels, Woodson, Closs, Senior Greenhow, Walters, T. A. Reed and Miss Maxwell. On Wednesday, Mrs. Howard Skeels won first prize and Mrs. McLane second. The invited guests for the Wednesday luncheon were Misses James E. J. Ostrander, Dunlap, Longley, Warren, Nixon, Maxwell, J. Costello, Sprague, Milner, Pike, T. J. Woods, Grant, McClain, Booth, Deafly, Healy, Taylor and Padvey.

level. Yet in Europe, combined Europe, will be fighting to regain her markets. Our laborers will come in fierce competition with European labor. Our manufacturers, our farmers and producers will come in fierce competition with the manufacturers of the world.

Germany's Future.

"Germany will emerge from the war the best organized industrial unit in the world. The energy, the capacity, the talent of Germany, thoroughly organized, will yet be mobilized by a nation has ever had the energies of her people mobilized before. The merchants of England understand this perfectly. The other day when Lloyd George was seeking to interest certain manufacturers in certain lines of industry, they said to him: 'If the government will give us sufficient protection in the way of tariff, so that we may feel safe as against organized Germany' war in view, we will be glad to put our money into this enterprise.' England and France are both learning in these days how to unite, organize and mobilize the industrial energies of their people. When the war is over we will know a new Europe, industrially, and we are not prepared to fight for our own markets much less the markets of the world as against combined Europe, aroused as she will be to uncommon energy to regain her markets and pay off her tremendous debt. The pressure of Europe which will spur her to the highest endeavor will be no less in peace than in war.

Labor First to Suffer.

"Our laboring men will be the first to feel the effect of it, for we must bear in mind that at the breaking out of this war there were 5,000,000 working men out of work in this country, and they did not go to work until the war orders came in. We all recall that the Pennsylvania railroad the fields, the locomotive work, and the steel plants were laying off men continually. Of course, they are all busy now.

"The manufacturer and the farmer will feel the strain also, and this fierce competition in the same way. We shall be existing and able to return to the last degree if we do not prepare against these days. We should through a most thoroughly equipped nonpartisan board of experts, get the most effective data possible and the best judgment upon how best to meet the situation, and when this expert knowledge is in congress, do not act without delay. I feel sure we ought to readjust our tariff laws, but that we ought to do so only upon a broad scale and upon a plan commensurate with the situation which confronts us, and after a most thorough gathering of facts and the opinion of the subject. In the light of present conditions.

Would be Big Benefit.

"Such a program would not only help us in the future but it would help now. While our good crops, our war orders, have given us activity, in certain lines, yet outside of those lines men are starving. Most states are at a standstill all through the west and middle west. No private canals are being built; no funds can be secured for that purpose, so that as they are. There is no extension of railroads. The banks are plithoric with money, but there is no initiative, no development, no new enterprises outside of the lines affected by war orders and within the charmed circle of the war orders. It is by reason of just such feeling as the manufacturers of England expressed to Lloyd George—the people do not feel quite sure that we are sufficiently prepared against industrial conditions when the war shall have closed.

Advance of State Socialism.

"There is another matter which I am not going to discuss, but which is tremendously interesting and that is this: That war will have advanced state socialism in five years more than it has advanced before the war during the last hundred years. The next great political issue in this country is going to be that involving government ownership of public utilities, hospitals, in the minds of many people, has broken down. It is not satisfactory to the public nor to the owner of the property. Efficiency in this war has come from those most lightly and pronouncedly given over to state socialism, and even France and England have made tremendous strides in that direction out of sheer necessity. The question will be asked if given efficiency in war, why shall we doubt that it will give efficiency in peace? And we will have the question of public ownership up for consideration. "While I am in favor of any reasonable program of preparedness I must say that these questions which are of the nature of questions of preparedness for peace, are even more absorbing to me than any or all others. We sincerely hope, all of us, we earnestly expect that all preparedness we will never have any need for our warships—that they will in fact rot upon the sea unused—but there is no possible escape from these conditions and questions which are to arise from an industrial, social and governmental standpoint. We will have to meet them and we ought to get ready for them.

Republicans in the Breach.

"I expect to see the Republicans write the most advanced and liberal platform in this country since 1860. In the language of a brilliant editor of the West, there has arisen a new consciousness in relation to things both governmental and social, new ideas and new standards possess the mind and cause it to be in universal judgment. The views of the Republicans of the old commonwealth of Massachusetts, as evidenced by the broad and liberal platform adopted, indicate what we may fairly expect at the next national convention. The platform adopted in Massachusetts is plain, expressive and liberal. With such a platform, the Republican party will be thoroughly reunited and it can not be united in any other way. The widespread movement in this country is just as powerful as ever and will not be content with anything on the higher side of a promised declaration of liberal policies. We have moved on, and we do not propose to return to the practices and precepts which were set up under a long lease of power and by reason of the arrogance of continued success.

People are Awake.

"United as we will be, we have the vote with which to win the election of 1916. I find throughout the West and Middle West that those who voted the third party ticket in 1912 are returning or are ready and anxious to return to the Republican party. Fortunately they are returning in time to help write the platform and nominate the ticket as the action in Massachusetts clearly discloses. The campaign of 1916, in many respects the most vital and absorbing for years, it will involve many questions connected with our foreign policy, the rights and lives of American citizens at home and abroad, the readjusting of the tariff, a wise and sound system of rural credit, which by the way is an important question as we now have up for consideration, a merchant marine act, and I have never in my brief years of observation known the electorate more deeply interested in all these questions than it is now.

So, all ye thirsty, hungry, come, to 234 Main avenue, south, the Home; there you will find things clean and neat, best of all lots of good things to eat. Mother Diana. Adv. Oct. 29 1916

Twenty days of the most stupendous price cutting in the history of Twin Falls. Never before has such a bonafide Hardware Sale been witnessed in the county, and never again will such an opportunity present itself. It's your gain, our loss. Every article in our store, except a few lines protected by contract, undergoes the axe in our determination to move our stock to the homes of the county, and we'll accomplish this if price slaughter and special inducements will turn the trick. LISTEN! STOP! CONSIDER!

On every one of the twenty days of this sale we will give a straight 5 to 20 per cent. reduction on every article in our store not protected by contract with manufacturer, and to EVERY CUSTOMER ON ONE PARTICULAR DAY DURING THIS SALE

We Will REFUND Penny for Penny, Dollar for Dollar, the Full Amount of Every Purchase

You never heard of anything like it, no-one ever did, and we make this gift absolutely with no strings attached. We simply must turn our stock over before we move. We are determined to enter our quarters with a brand new layout---new fixtures---new goods and a greater stock than we have ever before carried. Plain price figures always have been our hobby and during our Moving Sale Sacrifice RED TAGS will tell the the story of the greatest cut and slash ever undertaken in an effort to move a hardware store, and we sure will move.

LIVING THEATRE NEWS.
"The Pursuit of Pleasure" will be the second of the "Who Pays" series to be shown at the Lavering theatre on Monday and Tuesday, November 1st and 2nd. These comedies are not a serial form, each one of the series being complete in itself.

Beth Roberts, who plays the leading feminine role in this series, was formerly a Kalam, star but was lured away by the Balbo company at the expense of a much higher salary. She ranks today one of the leading and most popular actresses on the screen.

A special added attraction will be offered at the Lavering Monday and Tuesday in the form of the Grand Novelty Concert Company. The company will themselves as "exponents of the art of music." This is not true, only of these two titles but a majority of the cities and large towns throughout the country. Twin Falls is one of its "rightful" places on the grand map with the advent of the Lavering.

An extensive use of the classical art cannot wait for good properties. In the out of season, and practically out of losses from seasons.

A repetition of your want to see "Jones' publications" of it would be a really constructive way of getting back property.
