

MODERN ADDITION FOR I-D STORE

W.S. McCORMICK LEARS DOWN ONE BUILDING TO ERECT A BETTER

EVERYTHING OF MODERN PATTERN IN NEW STRUCTURE.

Result Will Be General Rearrangement of Idaho Department Store—Officers and Apartments Upstairs.

Owing to increased business and the prospect of a tremendous growth in Twin Falls during the coming year, the Idaho Department store will extend into a new building, the construction of which will take place at once, on the site of the two-story structure adjoining, recently occupied by the Hat shop and owned by W. S. McCormick. Work on tearing down the old building began Thursday morning.

The new structure will be 25 by 125 feet in size with a full basement, and will be built of Salt Lake dressed brick. The structure which it replaces was 25 by 30 feet, and while a good building in every way, was not considered up to date enough to keep pace with the new Twin Falls. Nothing in the way of modern convenience will be left out of the new building.

When the new addition has been completed it will be occupied by the clothing department of the Idaho Department store. The ready-to-wear department will go into the present clothing department. These changes will be accompanied by a general remodeling and rearrangement of the interior of the present store along the most approved modern lines. Manager Sinclair said Thursday that he was not prepared at present to announce the details of all the changes, but that they would be quite extensive. There will be two suites of offices in the new structure, while the rear will contain McCormick apartments fitted up to the minute. The construction work on the building is being done by Reed & Co., architects, who will push it to completion as rapidly as compatible with good workmanship.

WILCOX ENTERS RACE FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR

J. W. Beauchamp, Republican, Present Assessor, Not a Candidate for Re-election.

With the announcement this week that J. W. Beauchamp, who has served two terms as assessor of Twin Falls county, would not be a candidate for re-election, the race for the office has narrowed down to two candidates, insofar as republicans are concerned. John P. Hansen of Rock Creek, whose name is reported to be in the race, was first announced in THE TIMES a few days ago, and George W. Wilcox, present deputy assessor, formal announcement appears in another column.

Mr. Beauchamp, it is reported is considering placing for a further development of his farm on the north end of the Salmon trail, south of Filer, and expects to build and move upon his place at the expiration of his term of office.

George W. Wilcox, who will be a candidate in the Republican primaries, has served as Mr. Beauchamp's deputy during his entire administration, as well as having had considerable experience in Michigan, where he served two terms as county treasurer and two as assessor.

No Democrats have as yet cast their late into the ring for the assessor's office, although it is reported that Lee F. Johnson, who made the race last year, is being urged to run again.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following marriage licenses have been issued the past week by County Clerk Finch: A. S. Perrenberg to Nettie Mary Anderson, Kimberly; B. F. Williams, Filer, to Ruth E. Bury; Herman Giese to Ella Buchanan, Twin Falls; Leslie J. Malone, Filer, to Luella A. Johnson, Twin Falls; Elmer Bell to Myrtle Morgan, County Treasurer; D. Bryant to Beanie Carter, Buhl.

Balladyn and Wilkinson have begun work on their new building in the rear of the First National bank, taking advantage of the fine weather to push the construction.

LAMB PRICES STILL ARE GOING UPWARD

Top for Long Time Reached Monday—Little Hauler Weak But Holding at Good Prices.

The top lamb sale of the season was made today on an exceptional double dock of lambs from Union Junction, Ore.; and the Portland Live Stock Journal Monday. This toppey little hauler weighed on an average 102 pounds. These lambs would, had they had the same stail and weighed less, no doubt brought as much as $3.25. They had a little too much weight for this market.

Lamb prices are being forced up at quite a rapid rate. The shortage is acute and the rise in values has been of the phenomenal order. Since the first of January the advance has been $1.00 per hundred. The nine-cent rise now prevailing for tops is 80 cents over the rate of last year, and $2.25 two years ago.

Arrivals of sheep and lambs according to the first reports of the day were only 251 head, of which part consisting of two decks of lambs from the Eastern Oregon Experiment station at Union Junction, Ore.—They brought $3.95 per cwt.

The sheep market generally is steady too strong in every division. The market is not so strong as it was a few days ago, but the demand exceeding the receipts many times.

Shippers, especially, have had to go short, many of them being unable to pick up any of their supplies although they have had buyers on the ground constantly. Plain clothing is in demand, but the market did not open with any snap. The general tone was drab at the start, but after a slow opening closed better. Plain clothing ruled about steady, especially for the best and poorest in this class, the medium stuff probably suffering a little.

OLIVER MEETINGS ATTRACT ATTENTION

Letters of Inquiry From Surrounding States Received—Big Crowds Came On Excursion to Attend.

The tabernacle meetings conducted in Twin Falls by Dr. French E. Oliver and his seven associates are arousing the interest of not only the people of Twin Falls but also of the surrounding communities. In adjoining states as well, as evidenced by numerous inquiries received daily from contiguous portions of Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington. On the other hand, local ministers and lay members of the Christian churches connected with the conduct of the meetings have received letters of commendation from people in more than a dozen other states, where Oliver meetings have previously been held.

Those attending the meetings describe Dr. Oliver's sermons as being pungent, humorous, practical and powerful, and insist that they cannot fail to result in a great moral uplift to the people. In Twin Falls and about there have been over 200 conversions, and the subject of the meetings has been talked of and thought of by the people generally in unusual degree since the meetings started.

Sunday a special train brought about 250 from Boise, Kimberly and Murtagh to the services. Tuesday evening another special arrived with more than 200 from Filer, Buhl and Maroa; Wednesday speakers came in with large delegations from Tugerton, Hollister and Berger and other points along that line; and a large representation came from the North Side will come in early next week. Rev. Frank A. Miller is almost every night at some of the meetings, preaching, singing and leading the interest which is even now proving the surprise of Dr. Oliver and the people of Twin Falls, i. e., the commercial character of the meetings and the overflow meetings being held in the nearby churches. One of the most interesting features of the meetings is the appearance in a body Wednesday evening of more than 175 of the business women and young ladies of Twin Falls, headed by their leader, Miss MacLaren, held.

ROBIN HOOD PROMISES TO BE EXOTICALLY GOOD

Robin Hood, who plays at the Lawry Monday evening, is receiving most flattering press notices all along the coast. He promises to be unusually bright spot in Twin Falls, theatrical history.

Among the cast are such stars as: Leroy Scott, Ralph Brashers, Roy Martin, James Stevens, W. C. Hunter, Phil Branson, Tilly Salinger and Sol Solomon. The company will be in the Twin Falls commercial excursion, including a chorus of thirty girls and male chorus.

CHAUTAUQUA SET FOR JUNE 19-24

Many First Class Attractions Are Promised for Program

Word of Ellison-White Chautauqua Tells of Course.

Several Lecturers, Fine Musical Numbers and Many Special Features Announced With Others to Be Added.

Many good attractions are promised for the chautauqua course which will be put on in this city by the Ellison-White system, June 19 to 24. In a letter to Secretary James McMillan of the commercial club, received Wednesday, announcing the dates, J. R. Ellison said:

Portland, Oregon, Feb. 21, 1916. J. McMillan, Secretary, Commercial Club, Twin Falls, Idaho. Dear Mr. McMillan: "Chautauqua tones down the horrors of acquiring an education." The coming Chautauqua is going to do some "toning," but what is intended to say is that the Chautauqua will be there about June 19th to June 24th inclusive. These dates are not definite as yet, but very shortly you will receive their confirmation and then they may be definitely announced.

The talent list is a notable one, among others are the following:

Lecturers: Sylvester A. Long, Dr. W. A. Hunsbarger, Hobart Parker, Moses, Francis Labadie, Lou Beauchamp.

Music: New York City Marine Band (concerts); The International Operatic Company, The Skibinsky-Welch Company, The Sequa Male Quartet, The Riner Sisters, The Kaffir Boy Choir.

Special Features: The Comus Club, The Mawson South Pole Pictures, Donald Boucher, Tenor; While one or two numbers are yet to be announced, we mean to use our best to get the best. All that for one ticket! How can you do it?

Some fine new features for advertising are being planned. It's going to be a great chautauqua. You'll hear from us again soon.

Cordially yours, The Ellison-White Chautauqua System, J. R. ELLISON.

SALMON APPEAL BEING ARGUED

Salmon Company Takes Federal Court Decision to Appellate Court

Asks to Be Relieved FROM ORDER OF FEDERAL COURT

Seeks to Maintain Position That No Water Rights Were Sold, But Only Proportionate Share in System.

Today is the date set for the Salmon River case before the court of appeals at San Francisco, in which the Twin Falls Salmon River Land & Water company, the promoters of the Salmon River project, are asking of the appellate court that they be released from the interlocutory order issued by Judge Nelson of the Federal court last July, whereby the promotion company is restrained from attempting to make any collections from the city of Twin Falls for the due installments on the purchase price of water rights, until the company can satisfy the court that it has provided 2 1/2 feet of water for each acre of land sold.

The action was originally brought by the Salmon River Settlers' association, not only for the plaintiff named in the bill, who are A. E. Caldwell, W. F. Mikesell, V. E. Morgan, J. E. Folsom, W. C. Jones, J. M. Hunsbarger, Carl Washburn and Harold M. Sims, but on behalf of all settlers and water contract holders upon said tract. The settlers are asking the court to set aside the order of the Federal court, which they claim is a violation of the terms of the state contract, which, by reference, became part of the settlers' contract. The company has sold water rights for an "excess of the appropriation of water therefor" and that for this reason the company is unable to comply with the terms of its contract and cannot furnish or deliver the water right purchased.

The settlers are refusing to pay the installments due under the contract, and for relief asked that the company be set aside from the contract and collecting such installments until the water right sold is delivered. It is the further claim of the settlers that the company has sold water rights for an "excess of the appropriation of water therefor" and that for this reason the company is unable to comply with the terms of its contract and cannot furnish or deliver the water right purchased.

The company has issued bonds to secure the payment of which it asks the court to set aside. The company has issued bonds to secure the payment of which it asks the court to set aside.

DROP IN HOGS WAS OF SHORT DURATION

Slight Fall in Portland Caused Prices Report on Local Market—Prices Again High.

A slight drop in the Portland hog market Tuesday, a report of which reached this city in a greatly exaggerated form, resulted in a sudden and decided fall of prices for a few hours in this city, from which the market speedily recovered. Prices are now better than before the temporary fall, the very best being $11.00. Wheat and oats are down about 10 cents. Prices are as follows:

Gen. porks, new bring $1.00 and white five cents less. Wheat in bulk is $1.40; in sack, $1.45. Oats bring from $1.20 to $1.40. Steers bring from $10.00 to $11.00. Hogs, $10.00 to $11.00. Cows, $8.00 to $9.00. Butcher's stock, $7.00 to $8.00. Sheep, $6.00 to $7.00. Poultry, $5.00 to $6.00. Eggs, $1.00 to $1.20. Butter, 20 cents; eggs, 25 cents.

G. G. Chas. Morrison of Buhl, traveled across this city Wednesday morning on his way home from Pendleton, Ore., where he went on business a couple of weeks ago.

MRS. ROSS REPRIVED BY GOVERNOR ALEXANDER

Sentenced Here for Receiving Stolen Goods at Albion, She Is Released After Appeal to Pardon Board.

BOISE.—Mrs. Mamie Ross, who pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods, and who was sentenced to a term of not less than six months and not more than five years in the penitentiary, left Boise Tuesday evening with her month-old babe, to return to her home in Albion, having been granted a reprieve by the governor on Monday.

Mrs. Ross, who was sentenced with her husband, son and step-son, arrived in Boise Thursday evening and there being no place for the babe in the one room allotted to women at the penitentiary, the infant was placed in the care of the children's home. On Saturday Mrs. Ross appeared before the pardon board and told her story and on Monday the governor granted her a reprieve. This was not brought to the ward at the penitentiary until noon, however, when she was at once released and arrangements were made to send her home on the first train which was called at the home for her baby on the way to the station.

Mrs. Ross' brother sent word that he would pay for his sister's ticket and see that she was met on her arrival at Albion, where she will be reunited with her other eight children, two girls and a boy, who are being kept by relatives.

"What do you expect to do when you get back?" Mrs. Ross was asked. "The first thing I hope to do is to get my children under my own roof again. Our things are still in the house that rented. What I shall do after that I do not know."

Mrs. Ross told the pardon board that she did not know that the goods were stolen but that the officers said she had received the goods because her son and step-son had brought them. She said she was away when the goods were brought home, but they both had to suffer for what the boys did.

Mrs. Ross was sentenced with her husband and three other members of the family a couple of weeks ago. The information from Boise does not state what investigation was made in the pardon board to verify the story told them by Mrs. Ross.

GREAT DRIVE BY GERMANS

Seven Army Corps, 280,000 Men, Attack on Wide Front

GERMANS CLAIMING NUMBER OF IMPORTANT ADVANCES.

Paris Admits Some Ground Lost and Describes the Engagement as Progressing With Increasing Intensity.

Troops belonging to seven German army divisions and one Prince Frederick William, are engaged along a 25-mile front north of Verdun in a desperate effort to drive back the French defending forces, probably with the capture of the great fortress of Verdun in view.

There had been heavy fighting for a considerable period in this district of the French war zone, but within the last few days the attacks of the German have been with added strength. The battle line has been extended and now reaches from Muzenecourt, on the west, to Etain, on the east, with Verdun in the center, only a few miles southward.

The Germans claim to have made important advances and to some extent these are admitted by the French war office, which describes the battle as one of increasing intensity.

The German preparations were extensive and the bombardment of the French positions with thousands of shells was interrupted. As the French were unable to resist the onslaught of the attacking forces along much of the front, according to the French communication, the attacks were well sustained and heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans.

$50,000 IN AUTOS TO BE SEEN AT AUTO SHOW

One Hundred and Ten People Working to Make Coming Event Huge Success—Other Details.

In the Twin Falls Automobile show to be held at the Oliver Tabernacle March 20th to 25th, the people of Southern Idaho will see a greater spectacle than has ever been seen in this section of the country. When one stops to consider the values involved in the exhibition, it is not too much to say that it is an affair of much more than passing interest. It has been estimated that the value of the automobiles to be exhibited will be approximately $50,000, not to mention the many accessories which will be exhibited. About 110 people will be on hand to show as exhibitors, musicians, entertainers, etc. One thousand four hundred yards of cloth will be used in the decorations; the decorations will be in what has been called having been chosen as the official colors of the auto show.

Some of the automobiles which must be carefully considered in order to give such an exhibition its fullest power for success, have been forgotten or overlooked. In the view of the fact that no expense is being spared to secure the best possible artistic decorations, it is certain that a visit to the tabernacle during the show will be well worth while if only to admire the scenic effects.

From an education standpoint, however, it is from the standpoint of interest and pleasure, every southern Idahoan should avail himself or herself of the opportunity to see the Twin Falls Automobile show offers.

TECHNICAL ERROR

Judge Babcock Monday decided a legal question resulting from an incorrect description in a mechanical lien, holding the lien to be good although according to its terms it was on a house on the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of a certain section. All parties to the case were present at the hearing and the defendants accepted the judgment and promptly paid the judgment, costs and attorney fees, to all $449.75.

Herman Giese and Ella Buchanan were married Wednesday morning at 8:00 o'clock at the Catholic church in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Giese, the pastor. At 1:30 p. m. a wedding dinner was served at the Buchanan home. Both young people are well acquainted in the community.

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR

LOST RIVER PROJECT

Land Board Concludes Negotiations With Utah Construction Co. For Completion of Project.

By a vote of four to one the members of the state land board in special meeting held in Boise recently, entered into a contract with the Utah Construction Co. for the completion of the work on the Big Lost River project. Governor Alexander is the only member of the board who did not agree to the terms of the contract.

All factions and parties interested were represented by attorneys. Representing the recently organized Big Lost River Water Users' association, Chas. E. Clark, Wm. A. Broadhead and Senator Ravenna Harbo appeared. The board was not properly guarding the rights of the settlers in the Mackay district who are getting water from the Big Lost river and Antelope creek, and whose water permits were subsequent to the filing of the construction company.

All is not harmony among the settlers in this regard, however, which is proven by the fact that the settlers already on the project were represented by a committee among themselves and of their own selection. They contend that unless the Utah Construction company or some other company does not carry out the original contract that the water rights are useless as the settlers are unable to do anything themselves in the matter.

With the signing of the contract for the completion of the Big Lost River project, the state land board has selected one of the most vexatious problems that state officials have had to deal with.

More than seven hundred settlers, residing in practically every state in the Union had purchased water rights from the Big Lost River company, and the disastrous failure of the company has been responsible, in a large measure, for the unfortunate reputation gained for the project in Idaho. The settlers have their claims protected under the new contract with the Utah Construction company to the extent of all moneys they have paid in on their old contracts with the defunct company.

The completion of the Big Lost River project will be a big step toward rehabilitating the arid projects in Idaho, in the opinion of those well versed in irrigation matters. It will also mark the introduction whereby the danger of opening large tracts of land to settlement before water is provided will be averted. The water supply is still undeveloped and the land is disposed of only after it is demonstrated that there is water for its irrigation.

The interests of the Utah Construction company are more or less closely allied with those of the Oregon Short Line and the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, and it is predicted that the completion of the project will result in the construction of the Big Lost River branch of the Oregon Short Line through the tract and the establishment of sugar factories in that region—Idaho Falls Register.

OAKLEY SETTLERS OPPOSE

ACCEPTANCE OF WORKS

Land Board Complies With Entry-men's Wishes and Requests Government to Withdraw Patents.

BOISE—Complying with the petition of the settlers on the Oakley project the land board has requested the government to withdraw patents on the lands embraced in that project until a more satisfactory showing is made as to the adequacy of the water supply.

The settlers on that project are also opposed to acceptance of the works of the project as complete and believe that insistence of patent by the United States should be delayed by the state until all of the project troubles are settled, with the Twin Falls-Oakley Land & Water company should retain control of the project and should not be permitted to turn it over to the Oakley Land company. They also want the land board to set aside the demand of the irrigation company requiring the settlers to make all payment in advance before they can secure water for the 1916 season. Having had a crop failure last year because of the shortage of water the settlers declare they are unable to meet the payments the company is insisting upon.

These were the facts brought out at a hearing of the state land board held recently at Oakley with the settlers and representatives of the Twin Falls-Oakley project regarding the project conditions. Governor Alexander, Attorney General Patterson and Secretary of State Baker made the trip.

The investigation brought out the following additional facts: The original segregation was 55,472 acres, 5832 were private lands and 1250 state lands, making a total of 67,250. The amount of land actually sold by the company was 28,000. Private lands were 10,000 and state lands 2,000, making a total of 40,000. Lands subject to cancellation amount to 10,000 acres. The amount of land under cultivation in 1915 was 11,700 acres; 1914, 17,400 acres; 1913, 21,500 acres. The water supplied by the company in 1915 was 138. A similar amount was supplied in 1914.

Speaking of the progress of the dry farmers in the country between Burley and Oakley, the governor said on his return to Boise:

"The country between Burley and Oakley is being taken up by dry farmers with fair chance of success. It is one of the biggest, best and richest strips of country lying out doors. On the Oakley project water has to be carried to the highest duty under any project in the state for there is one and one-half acre feet of water with a water right price of $65, six per cent interest—this is a heavy burden. Maintenance charges which make it very hard for settlers, in an unusual year like 1915, when the water supply was insufficient."

SUNDERLIN FAVORS SHORT BALLOT PLAN

Candidate for Attorney General From Burley Wants Authority Concentrated in Responsible Hand.

BURLEY—The short ballot for state officials, resulting in the concentration of power in the hands of a single state, is the best and most efficient method is centered, in the central plank of the platform of principles put forth by Charles A. Sunderlin in announcing his candidacy for attorney general subject to the action of the Republican state primaries. Mr. Sunderlin declares himself against "irreconcilable" prosecutions and persecutions, which he says has turned the state assessor for years and resulted in attacks, litigation and public men of known integrity.

"The office of attorney general calls for a lawyer capable of large constructive action, one who is not office-are far beyond that of a prosecutor. There is a great work to be done in the way of welding together the conflicting interests that are represented on our uncompleted irrigation projects, efficient attendance upon the public land business, besides the ordinary and regular legal work. The harmonious solution of our irrigation problems in a way that will preserve every reasonable right of both the farmer and the construction company will go far in re-establishing prosperity and financial stability in southern Idaho."

His plan for the short ballot follows:

"The state is not now in need of any prosecutions and undesirable legislation. Idaho is so rich in natural resources—timber and mines—and its agricultural lands are so productive that the farmer, the stockraiser, the sheepman, the lumber and mining interests will abundantly take care of themselves and provide public officials with a reasonable opportunity."

"We don't want more laws. What we do need are fewer laws rightly administered."

"We don't want more public officials, we could get along just as well, if not a great deal better, with many less. But what we do need are officials with the power to conduct the business affairs of the state efficiently."

"We want a business government, not a political government."

"The trouble with our state government is that we have too many officials, each of whom is at the head of some commission, board or bureau acting quite independently of his fellows. As it were, running a little show of his own."

"We can't obtain an efficient state government in that way; for it is lacking in leadership and responsibility."

"Our village or city clerk is virtually run by the president or cashier. And at the head of business corporations, large and small, there is a directing hand. If it is a success, his assets and is capable of assuming all the responsibility. The fathers who trained our federal government then recognized the necessity for the application of this principle of efficiency."

COLLEGE ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN BEGUN

Meeting of Methodist Pastors at Pocatello Prepare for Work for Gooding College Fund.

Rev. C. L. Bent, pastor of the Methodist church returned yesterday from Pocatello where a meeting of the Methodist preachers was held Tuesday for the purpose of planning the final campaign for the raising of the final $150,000 necessary for the $400,000 for the endowment fund for Gooding college. The ministers were unanimously in favor of the plan adopted, which was to divide the district into eight divisions, with a pastor for chairman a layman for secretary. The Twin Falls division comprises Twin Falls, Buhl, Piler, Castelford, Kimberly, Hansen and Murtalough. Rev. C. L. Bent is chairman and J. E. White secretary.

Among those present at the meeting were Dr. J. W. Hancher, of the general board, from New York, Dr. Murphy, secretary of the publicity committee, and S. J. Cheney, president of Gooding college. A general committee consisting of Rev. H. W. Furrer of Twin Falls, Rev. A. J. Howard of Gooding, Rev. E. E. Deal of Rupert, D. W. Davis of American Falls, and George Ridgeway of Pocatello, was appointed.

The campaign which was begun on February 3 will be continued until April 1. A number of meetings will be held and lectures and talks delivered in different parts of the district and considerable personal work done. Dr. Murphy will have charge of the public end of the campaign.

WELL CAVE-IN BRIBES

MAN AT POCATELLO

POCATELLO.—Planned beneath many tons of earth and stone, Daniel Aker, a well-known Pocatello contractor, lies at the bottom of a 42-foot well while the rescue work is being carried forward with as much speed as possible by a large crew of experienced excavators. Hope that he is still alive has been practically abandoned, though no effort is being spared to clear the debris as fast as possible.

Since four o'clock yesterday afternoon the man has been at the bottom of the cave-in which occurred at the well which he was digging on the John Aldred ranch in the vicinity of Tybee. Exact cause of the accident is not known, though it is stated that the excavation was passing through a gravel formation which made easy digging and the precaution of keeping the well lined to the bottom was overlooked.

TWIN FALLS FOLKS IN NEAR-TRAIN WRECK

Mr. and Mrs. F. Grievs Were Marooned by Floods and Were in Head-on Collision in Storm.

In a letter received Tuesday by The Times, Fred Grievs states that he and his wife are in Salt Lake City, on their way home from a three months' visit to southern California, where they had a number of rather uncomfortable experiences with floods, being marooned for some time at Santa Clara and being unable to get mail for considerable time. On their way to Salt Lake City the train on which they were riding met another in a head-on collision in the desert in the recent storm, but nobody was seriously hurt, though Mr. and Mrs. Grievs were joined up considerably. They will be home soon.

PRESIDENT INSISTS ON NON-PARTISAN TARIFF BOARD

WASHINGTON—President Wilson prefers having the proposed tariff commission consist of members appointed by himself and entirely non-partisan. He made this clear today to Representative Barnhart of Indiana, who suggested that the commission consist of one man appointed by the president and others named by the senate and house. Mr. Barnhart said many members of the house, both Democratic and Republican, favored the plan he suggested.

The president informed Barnhart that because of conditions created by the war, he believed the commission should be removed entirely from politics.

WASHINGTON PROGRAM ENJOYED BY CLUB

Members of Twentieth Century Club Attend in Colonial Costumes, Music, Children's Drill and Dances Features.

While there have been many splendid programs given at the Twentieth Century club meetings this year, one of the very best was that which was heard at the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon. Being the birthday of the mother of his country, it was decided by the leader, Miss June Maxwell, to make the numbers patriotic in their nature and as such they were the more appreciated. Many of the members appeared in Colonial costumes, making a very pretty effect. The guest of honor, "Mama Washington," being represented by Mrs. M. J. Sweeney, who was accompanied by her little granddaughter, Jean Sweeney, also in appropriate costume.

The president, Mrs. Dortha G. Morse, presided and a short business meeting followed. The program, during which committees having to charge various duties connected with the state federation, were appointed. When the meeting had been given into the hands of Miss Maxwell, she announced that following a solo by Mrs. Kirk Root, the audience would be entertained by "songs of the most famous personages in the history of the country. Mrs. Root, who was accompanied by Mrs. G. Gilbert, sang, by request, the beautiful song so greatly enjoyed at the colonial ball, and, if possible, sang more sweetly than on the previous rendition.

With original verses, at once clever and appropriate, Mrs. M. W. Kunkley introduced the characters, which were presented as follows: "Columbia," Miss Mildred Conway; "Uncle Sam," Robert Nixon; "Betsy Ross," Mrs. I. H. Purrier; "Pocahontas," Miss Nellie Tensdale; "Priscilla," Mrs. V. L. Grunby; "Mollie Pitcher," Mrs. E. J. Crozier; "Ann Lee," Mrs. A. W. Husted; "Barbara Fritchie," Mrs. W. E. Nixon; and the "White House bride," Mrs. G. T. Murphy.

Two numbers of especial interest were the drills given by the little tots. First came the flag drill by pupils from Miss Peterson's room and, after a very pretty old-time solo, sung in Mrs. Dwight's sweetest manner, a class from Mrs. Warren's room stepped the colonial minuet. These were in miniature colonial costumes and exceedingly cunning. Both classes were perfectly drilled and displayed not only the painstaking work of the teachers, but the interest of the mothers whose efforts were apparent in the costumes of the children.

A beautiful trio, "Kerry Dances," was sung by Mrs. Dwight, Miss Tensdale and Mrs. Bowen, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert, which closed the program.

The president then invited all to refreshments and a parade of refreshments, announcing that through the kindness of one of the club's most energetic members, Mrs. Willet Hines, they would be permitted to partake of ice cream as well as enjoying a cup of tea, and so ended a most enjoyable afternoon.

Tuesday, February 29th, will be an open day, the last day the club will be open to the public this year. The program will be devoted to music.

Let prices did not come off as much as was expected. The fair quality, no doubt, acted to hold up the price to some extent.

Pulp-fed steers were very much off in quality today. The price obtained, $7.35, was 15 cents lower than last Monday, yet they could not be considered anything but steady, owing to the quality of the country.

Hayed steers sold higher than pulp, one load going early at $7.40. Most other steers were of fair quality and with the exception of the one medium kind were on a steady basis.

Very few head of the stuff came forward today. Cows were mostly at $5.50 for tops. Taken as a whole, this section showed up about steady. Butcher bulls were in fairly good number for the week-end trade. Quite a few dairy bulls that have served their best days went over the scales at fair prices. There was also a small sprinkling of old beef bulls. Prices ranged steady and for the same class as South Portland prices ranged well below the middle western market.

Very few calves are coming into the yards, but the few that are, are of fair price. Arrivals have included for the greater part dairy types.

There was no over supply of stockers and feeders in the yards since Thursday. Staff of fairly good quality had a moderate demand. Prices paid were very good for the quality. There were no supplies left over in first hands at the close of the week. The bulk of stuff usually offered in this class went to fillers.

Dairy cows of good quality have been in fair demand. Supply has been only moderate. Offerings of the better class are still scarce while the poorer class of animals are as drab as usual.

The hot market reversed the usual order of affairs Saturday and instead of receipts being made up of "tag ends" as was the case in the middle of the week, quality of an outstanding class was on the bill.

Several loads of Idahoes went over the scales at $8.15, fifteen cents over the top sales of Friday and ten cents over Thursday's high spot.

TALK ON GLOVES

A man who has been in the mercantile business for many years, and is familiar with this market, said to me recently: "You have more kinds, and a larger stock of gloves than any other store in town." I do not know whether he was correct, but I do know that we sell a great many gloves, and our customers as that our prices are lower and our gloves wear better than those they have bought elsewhere, and paid more money for.

There is no question about our having a good line of gloves, at least any style wanted, for street wear, driving, or for work, in light, medium and heavy weight, with and without gauntlets, for men, women and boys.

With gloves, like hosiery, underwear, towels, sheets, pillow cases, aprons, house dresses, overalls, jackets, work pants, bed spreads, counterpanes, belts, suspenders, and other lines, I did not wait until prices were high before buying, (and there has been a big advance in gloves.) When I say to you that we are selling gloves at the same prices as last summer, you will understand just what it means to buy gloves here, where prices are ALWAYS RIGHT.

MUNITION TRUSTS AND REPUBLICAN LEADERS.

A majority of the Republicans on the naval committee of the senate voted against a proposal to report to the senate for favorable consideration the bill providing for the government manufacture of armor plate even after the threat had been made by the armor plate trust to open single through its defender, Senator Boise Penrose, that it would raise the price of armor $200 a ton on the United States government if a law were passed establishing a government armor plate factory. This threat, if the trust could make it good, would mean an extra charge of $24,000,000 to the people in the carrying out of the five year naval program now planned.

That the trust is making an enormous profit as the thing stands goes without saying. Under ordinary conditions it would not dare make such a bluff. Were the world at peace, the government would be able to buy armor plate demanded for immediate needs abroad as Cleveland, during his first administration, threatened to do when the trust demanded an exorbitant price for its wares, and could delay in a measure part of the naval program until new government factories could go into operation. Under present conditions the factories in the countries at war are running to their fullest capacity for their own governments, and those in neutral countries are far behind with orders resulting from the war. At the same time there is a general feeling in this country that immediate action toward preparedness is imperative. Hence, the opportunity of the armor trust. We expressed our opinion a couple of weeks ago that the manufacture of armor plate was an industry which should be treated as a public utility. This is especially true when conditions like the present make of it an artificial monopoly. In a case of this kind the manufacture of the article in question by the government would not encroach upon anyone engaged in any normally competitive industry. There is a strong suspicion among people that the armor plate trust and the munitions trust would be willing, should the occasion offer to help provoke a foreign war in order to get war orders, and whether this suspicion is true or not (and the present attitude of the armor plate trust seems to furnish corroborative evidence that looks bad) the fact that private industries might take such stand is enough to make government ownership of their products advisable.

So much for the theoretical principles involved. The practical consideration for voters in general and for progressive voters in particular is the fact that at this time when an appeal is being made to Republicans who left their party to join the Progressive party to return to the fold, the old leaders of the Republican party against whom and against whose policies the standard of revolt was raised in 1912, still appear to wield a controlling influence in that party in congress.

It is true that a large number of voters left the Republican for the Progressive party in 1912 because of their confidence in the integrity of Theodore Roosevelt and as an evidence of confidence that he had the organization of which he was the head were opposed not only to men like Penrose personally, but were opposed to the things for which Penrose stood. The personal elimination of the Pennsylvania boss would mean little if the principles for which he stood should remain intact. It is evident that neither Penrose nor the things represented by Penrose have been eliminated from the national Republican party. That Penrose should not only stand out against the interests of the whole people in this instance, but that he should command the majority of his party on his committee is significant. President Wilson repeatedly stated that he favored the manufacture of armor plate and war munitions by the government. The Democrats on the naval committee and two of its Republican members voted in favor of his policy. Three of the five Republican members voted the other way. These men have been grievously because we did not have "a vigorous foreign policy" which would have involved us in war, but they would surrender to a bluff of an opulent trust. Without disparaging their motive, may we not ask if the desire for a foreign war and a surrender at home might have been prompted by the same considerations?

However this may be, the trusts that are represented by Penrose will powerfully affect the control of the next Republican convention. Their representatives there, as their representatives in congress, will only stand for those who will take care of their financial interests. They will join in the cry "anything to beat Wilson," but they will demand that the "anything" mean something who will not antagonize their privileges. They expect to get what they want in the Republican convention and would not bother with that body if they did not feel that they would substantially secure their desires. Not all Republicans are on the same side on the armor plate issue, or other issues involving monopoly, but the point is that the armor plate trust and the munitions trust and their representatives are on the side of the Republican party bosses and that there is no reason to assume that they are prompted by patriotic impulses in dealing with the party power then in dealing with that country. The triumph of the same element in the New York state convention last week under the leadership of Barnes shows how powerful is its hold in the Republican organization.

Under such conditions, how can a thoughtful and sincere Progressive, who severed party allegiance because of principle, return to the Republican party under conditions that mean an endorsement of everything vital against which he revolted?

THE CASE OF THE PAY PHONE.

Telephone patrons generally will be interested in the result of the efforts of certain residents of Salt Lake City to compel the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. to allow the use of ordinary telephones by patrons of establishments doing business with the general public. A few years ago such establishments furnished free phone service to their customers but have since been obliged to discontinue it and install pay phones for public use, the telephone company threatening to disconnect the phones of business houses that permitted the use of their phones by the public. A business man in Salt Lake City has insisted upon his right to permit his customers to use his phone, and upon being advised that the company would take out the telephone, went into court and secured a temporary injunction restraining the company from removing it.

The issue is a live one almost everywhere, and while the telephone company may or may not be justified in its position, there is no question but that the company's position works a hardship upon merchants and hotel-keepers who are obliged to refuse a service to their patrons which they are perfectly willing to give, and to which their patrons feel with no slight degree of justification entitled.

The telephone, like the post-office, the water-works, the telegraph, etc., falls under the classification of natural monopolies, and the users cannot do as they can with the grocery store, the tailor, go to another if they are dissatisfied. Natural monopolies, if not owned and operated by the government in the interests of the public, should certainly be operated by whoever owns them—and be made to operate in the interests of the public.

The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company has always maintained that this is exactly what it is endeavoring to do, to give the people of the territory it serves the best possible phone service, and it no doubt believes its position on the pay phone justified on the theory that its service must necessarily be confined as largely as possible to its actual subscribers or patrons, and that it is manifestly reasonable and fair, and the only substantial grounds on which the policy of the company in this matter can be justified.

It seems to us, however, that so far from severing this purpose, the company's policy works just the other way, and restricts the use of the telephone not with respect to those who are not paying for telephone service, but with respect to those who are paying for the service. The man who pays for a telephone in both his residence and his place of business, finds it necessary when he is away from his office, to deposit a nickel in the pay phone if he would talk to either his office or his residence, and as the calls made at these so-called public phones are invariably to subscribers of the telephone company's, it appears that the company is very seriously restricting the service it is rendering its subscribers.

At least it is hard for the ordinary telephone user who pays so much per month, whatever it may be, for a phone at his residence or office, or both, to understand why anybody wishing to talk to him should be obliged to pay for the privilege of doing so. The "bug in the system" is not the nickel but the principle.

RESTORING SUPREME COURT TO PEOPLE.

(Salt Lake Tribune)

Some of us would never have paid very much attention to the process by which the United States judiciary is established had it not been for President Wilson's nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to succeed Justice Lamar.

Before confirming such an appointment, the senate must investigate a nominee's fitness for the post. In Brandeis' case, the ordinary opportunity to support or to oppose a nominee has developed into what is virtually a trial. The senate judiciary subcommittee has subpoenaed witnesses and taken testimony under oath.

Brandeis' qualifications are being attacked by various agents of big business. It is not possible to outline all of these attacks in this place.

The point is that the people are learning how extremely important the personnel of the supreme court is to Wall street and to all that Wall street stands for.

We are being forced to see what we have previously closed our eyes to, that special privilege always stands ready to wage a bitter battle to retain a hold upon the highest court of the land. A writer to a New York paper puts it this way:

"The supreme court has always been justly regarded by our people as the BULWARK OF THEIR PROPERTY RIGHTS and the safeguard of their liberties."

This whole controversy over Brandeis has made thousands of us see that the supreme court is NOT for part of the people, but for all of us, and that while half of us have no property, we still have liberties which it is the duty of the supreme court to safeguard.

Brandeis has two passions—one for justice and one for public service. He is known as "the people's attorney." He has defended the poor and he has refused the bribe. For this reason the brokers on the floor of the New York stock exchange professed to believe his nomination for the supreme bench a joke. A news item of that date says: "When the tickers announced his choice, the ground that arose sounded like the echo of a great national disaster."

Naturally, Wall street can see nothing but a joke or a disaster in any attempt to restore the supreme court to the country's one hundred millions.

THE SCHOOL BOND ELECTION SATURDAY.

The argument in favor of voting bonds for another new school building Saturday can be drawn in a few words: the school facilities of the city of Twin Falls, even with its three large, modern school plants, each in itself a credit to the city, are inadequate for present needs and will be insufficient to a calamitous degree by the opening of another school year, for caring for the additional pupils that will accompany the increase of population inevitable with the opening of the sugar factory in the fall and the other similar developments already under way.

The amount asked is small, and if the people who favor the issue will come out and express their choice, we predict an overwhelming majority. The polls at the high school will be open from one o'clock until five o'clock Saturday, which ought to be a case of "nuff sed" to assure a representative vote.

In South Idaho there is a large mileage of roads constructed by the state aid. In fact state highway funds are at present depleted. Splendid highways are a great asset. The north anticipates the early construction of a splendid highway that will connect us with the south and permit the use of the highways of Southern Idaho, by a trip of scenic grandeur via the canyon of the mighty Salmon and its tributaries. North Idaho congratulates South Idaho in its good fortune of present, natural enjoyment. There is no jealousy, although we perhaps are envious. What would be liked up in this section of the state is a turn at the like improvement in the near future. Good highways are much needed up north.—Grangeville Free Press.

Alice, my Dear:

Probably you read in the papers I sent you about our big show. It kept me indoors for a week but it's fine again now and I went for a long walk this morning.

As I was passing The Bisbee Studio I saw the windows were empty and I knew that the pictures of the dear little dimpled babies, one hundred of them, were to be changed for an entirely new display. Of course I was eager to see it and soon every picture was in place. What elegant portraits they are! Some of them are very large, and all show such natural poses and such unusual work. Bisbee portraits have the Bisbee originality, a quality that is individual, and far from the beaten path of the ordinary trend of portraiture.

I just wish you could see this last exhibit, Alice. I told Mrs. Bisbee I had never seen anything quite so splendid in studio show-windows. "I'm so glad you like it," she said, "for, taken as a whole, in some ways this display of portraits is the finest we have ever had. And doesn't it give a wide range of lightings and styles? There is every type of subject, you see, and we have interpreted each personality in the way we thought best suited to it."

And that is one charm of the Bisbee portrait—the bringing out of each one's best. For, call it pride or vanity, or whatever you will, we all like to appear at our best. If I thought I could get such a portrait, I'd be tempted to have mine made; but—suppose you send me yours instead.

Modesty.

When every pool in Eden was a mirror, That unto Eve her dainty charms proclaimed, She went undraped without a single fear or thought that she had need to be ashamed.

Twice only when she'd oaten of the apple That she became inclined to be a prude. And found that evermore she'd have to grapple With the much-debated problem of the nude.

Thereafter she devoted her attention, Her time and all her money to her clothes. And that was the beginning of Civilization.

And Modesty, as well, I must suppose.

Reactions come about in fashions recent. Now girls conceal so little from the men, It would seem, in the name of all that's decent. Some one ought to pass the apples round again!

Miss Georgia Maxwell recently returned from Pittsburgh, was the guest of honor at a Japanese luncheon given by Mrs. Everett Sweetley last Thursday. Twelve ladies were seated at the table which was very attractive in its Japanese decorations. The centerpiece was made up of pink and white chrysanthemums. The Japanese dolls, in a tiny design were used on the table. At each place beside the place cards, which bore dainty pictures of Japanese birds, were the fans, small Japanese fans and parasols. In the auction bridge game which followed, Mrs. George Allen received a Japanese tea set as a reward for the high score and Miss Maxwell was presented with a Japanese pillow top. Mrs. Larned assisted Mrs. Sweetley in serving. The guests, as well as the hostess, were in Japanese costume and some of these were very quaint and pretty.

The ladies of the Shamrock club and their husbands spent Thursday, Feb. 24th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Maltory, living five miles south of the city. The dinner was a unique affair, a "Covered Dish Dinner." The idea was that at pre-arrangements be made for the dinner, but each lady bring two covered dishes containing prepared food and the dishes not to be opened until the tables were set, when they were found to be beautifully laden with the best of good things. Plates were laid for thirty-three. The afternoon was spent in a social visit, the ladies devoting a short time to the regular business meeting of the club. After spending a most enjoyable day all departed for their homes late in the afternoon.

The members of the Winadous club were most delightfully entertained by Mrs. H. W. Wilson at her home on Eighth avenue North last Wednesday afternoon. At the expense of the afternoon Mrs. Wilson served a beautifully appointed buffet luncheon. The national colors were used as the motif. The table was covered with red curtains and smilax, surrounded by tiny red candles in glass candlesticks. A tiny American flag was inserted in each sandwich. Before the luncheon the ladies were asked to make caps of red, white and blue paper napkins. Mrs. Felling and Mrs. MacMartin had the most artistic results so they were asked to preside at the tea service. Mrs. MacVicar and Mrs. Stuart Taylor were guests.

At her home a mile and a half northwest of town, Miss Shovelwell, principal of the Lincoln building, entertained twenty-two guests at luncheon, Tuesday. The guests were limited to the teachers and substitutes of the Lincoln building. The centerpiece for the table consisted of crimson roses and the place cards were in patriotic designs. During the afternoon several Washington contests were held and Miss Peterson was given a prize of $10.00 for having the highest number of points.

Last Friday afternoon the girls of the Winadous Science department of the high school, under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Hargate, served tea to their mothers and friends. The room was very nicely decorated with plants, flowers and flags.

Mrs. McGraw entertained the members of the Addison Avenue Kensington club and their husbands last Thursday. The afternoon was spent with a very nice meal and at five Mrs. McGraw served a delicious luncheon to her guests.

The usual meeting of the M. C. B. club was held at the home of Mrs. Hollingsworth Wednesday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Bullen had high tea and Mrs. Peterson presented with a cut glass jelly dish.

Mrs. Savier was hostess to the members of the Frisella club last week. Mrs. Kate, Mrs. Savier's mother, was a guest of the club. Dainty refreshments were served.

The Friday Evening Bridge club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Booth last week. Mrs. Heath had high score for the ladies and Mr. Harry Allen for the men.

On Saturday night Miss Lois Stewart gave a theatre party, followed by a supper at her home. The table decorations were yellow. A pot of adonis was formed the centerpiece, and the place cards were yellow birds. The guests were Misses Corbett, Graybill, Bell, Mrs. Martin, Georgia Martin, Peterson, Mesdames A. B. Colwell, D. R. Young and L. H. Perrine.

Friday of this week the girls will entertain with a second Year party in Cotton hall. The affair will be a "hard time" costume party.

Mrs. H. F. Harder on Blue Lake boulevard, entertained eight friends at dinner last Friday evening at six o'clock.

The regular club dance was held in Masonic hall last Friday night. A large crowd attended.

NOTICE OF SALE
WHEREAS, I have been advised by Dr. H. G. Bodle, State Veterinarian, that the eradication of foot-and-mouth disease has progressed to the stage where it appears safe to allow the shipment of livestock from certain portions of the United States into the State of Idaho without endangering the livestock interests of this State.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, MOSES ALEXANDER, Governor of the State of Idaho, do hereby declare that all previous guarantees relative to the importation of livestock prescribed by the State of Idaho are hereby annulled and the following rules and regulations to be effective:

The shipment into Idaho of anti-hog-cholera serum, or hog cholera virus, from any other State, except upon a special permit from the State Veterinarian, is hereby prohibited.

The importation of livestock, including horses, mules and asses, cattle or other ruminants or swine from the State of Illinois is hereby prohibited, except upon a special permit from the State Veterinarian.

The importation of livestock, including horses, mules and asses, cattle, sheep or other ruminants or swine from any other State of the United States, Canada, or Mexico must comply with the following regulations:

Horses, mules and asses: Health certificate, including Malign test card.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

The specifications indicate why the car is so splendidly responsive, so swift in getting into action, so comfortable, so silent, so steady; and they are also worthy of being carefully studied because they evidence how high was the standard the manufacturers set for themselves—

One-man top; jiffy curtains; real leather upholstery; deep, soft tuffing of natural curled hair; streamline steel body; oval moulded fenders, 30-35 h. p. motor with removable head; full floating rear axle; Timken bearings throughout; imported Swiss ball bearings in clutch and transmission; waterproof Elsmann magnets; 12-volt Northeast motor generator for starting and lighting; self-lubricating Chrome Vanadium steel springs; drop forgings and drawn work instead of castings.

The wheelbase is 110 inches.
The price of the car complete is $785.

held upon all of its interests in the system to the appellant Trust company as trustee. This trust deed embraces all of the property rights of every kind owned by the company as security for the payment of the bonds. Both the trustee and A. C. Robinson are attempting to collect the money claimed to be due under the water contracts and have instituted foreclosure proceedings for such purpose in the federal court.

The case was tried before Judge Dietrich in the federal court in February, 1915, and later in the year the court considered the contracts in accordance with the settlers' contention and ordered "that the said defendant and the Commonwealth Trust company of Pittsburgh, a corporation, trustee, and A. C. Robinson, be, and each of them, is, hereby enjoined from collecting or attempting to collect, or from enforcing payment upon said water right agreements, including any over-payment or installment on said agreements, until such time as the holders thereof have been provided with the water supply so contracted for, or are given trustworthy assurance, to be approved by the court, that said water will be provided, or until the further order of this court."

This particular issue now presented to the appellate court are: first, how far that court will go in considering the facts and law in reviewing the appeal from an interlocutory order, and second: the construction of the contract between the parties.

The appeal in this case having been taken from an interlocutory order, by which the lower court has restrained the defendant company, and its successors in interest from the collection of any of the installments claimed to be due under the water contracts until the final order and decree of the court, and the well recognized rule being that the appellate court will not disturb an interlocutory order, granting an injunction unless the trial court has clearly abused its discretion, presents an interesting question to the present case.

The company, on the other hand, claims that it never made any contract calling for the delivery of any specific amount of water; that it is a construction company only; that the existing water supply is entirely sufficient for the irrigation of some 57,000 acres. The company also takes the position that the trial court erred in refusing to investigate the "duty of water," holding instead that the contracts covered the point and the parties involved had agreed in their contract as to what amount of water should be delivered.

The defendants are being represented by S. H. Hays, H. R. Richards, O. O. Hays and P. B. Carter, all of Boise, C. O. Longley, of Twin Falls, is the settlers' attorney. The outcome of the hearing will be ultimately awaited by the settlers on the Salmon tract and by many other people who have property on that tract.

ATTRACTIONS FOR THE THEATRE GOERS

THIS PRESENTING "THE CUB"

World Film Corporation presents Miss Hedman in a two-part Wm. A. Brady photoplay, "The Cub," based on the stage offering of the same name. Thompson Buchanan, who wrote "The Cub" was the author of "The Girl in the Red Velvet" and "The Girl in the Green Velvet."

Miss Hedman, who had a distinguished stage career in Sweden, England and the United States, is one of the numerous clever and beautiful actresses who owe her principal opportunities to the late Charles Frohman, who brought her to this country. This is her first appearance in motion pictures.

The story of "The Cub" is a highly diverting one. At the time of some bitter feuds in Kentucky a newspaper editor desired a special story, and assigned a new young reporter to the job. He, clever and dandy, promptly got himself in a terrible mess by falling in love with one girl who was prominent on one side of the feud, and getting himself fallen in love with another girl who was on the opposite side.

The result, though disastrous to him, was provocative of a series of highly diverting but dangerous situations which were finally cleared up by the intervention of the militia.

John Hines, an extremely clever comedian who has made a great reputation for himself in World Film features, has a part in which he fairly revels as the cub. There are other highly finished players in the cast.

"The Cub" will be presented at the theatre tonight and tomorrow evening.

"BETWEEN MEN" WITH W. S. HART AT ORPHEUM THEATRE

William S. Hart, the popular actor of wild west roles, makes a highly appearance as a westerner who dons evening clothes and is quite at his ease in metropolitan society in the new two-act play "Between Men," to be seen at the Orpheum Theatre next Monday. To make the contrast more vivid Hart is first seen wearing the wide Stetson, the skin shirt and cowboy trousers of a mining man. Then he comes to New York to the rescue of a friend who is in the toils of a Wall street operator.

Hart then changes to the attire of society where he appears at the home of his friend and meets his charming daughter, played by Enid Markey. Hart seems as much at his ease with his dress suit and patent leathers as he did when in the rougher and more unconventional garb. He is still the cool westerner, ready for anything that may happen. Miss Markey is delightful to look upon, her dark beauty being set off effectively by filmy garments in the latest mode.

BLOWN UP IN "DIZZY HEIGHTS"

A big brick smokestack 200 feet high was bought by the Keystone studio for use in the thrilling, yet comic play, "Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts." It was a land mark, having stood a few miles from Tacoma for nearly a quarter of a century. It was purchased only to be totally destroyed in an instant by a big charge of dynamite. But it added realism and interest to a thrilling story dealing with many spectacular flights in aeroplanes and halfbranded escapades from sudden death. Chester Conklin, the villain, tried to wipe out the hero, William Mason, and the smokestack at the same time. Conklin had no grudge against the stack, but used it for a means to destroy his rival to the afflictions of Betty Anderson. Mason had heroically ascended to the top of the tall chimney to remove the wing of an aeroplane that had fallen on top of it. Then the dastardly Conklin cut the rope up the brave young hero could not descend. To complete a good job, Conklin placed a lot of giant powder under the stack, where it would do the most good. Presto, he laughed a match to the fate. It lacked like curtains for Bill Mason, but William Conklin hadn't figured on "pucky little Betty." She just flew her flyer up and took her lover off, just in time to escape sudden death. And the villain had to pay! Yes, it remained for Dave Anderson to make the villain get his. He fought to prevent Conklin from lighting the fuse but was unsuccessful. After a stiff fight he chased Conklin to the head of the chimney, where the villain was completely buried by the fragments of the stack, when it was shattered in a dynamite. This remarkable comedy is to be shown at the Orpheum Theatre Friday and Saturday evenings and at Saturday's matinee.
