No Compromise Such as a Vote of Confidence Acceptable

INSISTS ON CLEAR CUT ACTION BY CONGRESS.

Makes His Position Plain and Will Drop Negotiations With Germany Until Question Is Settled.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson served notice on congress Wednesday night that he would consent to nothing but a declaration of war against Germany. Administration resolutions to wage war on Germany, and to seize the German ships of European belligerents armed who goes on to the point of a declaration of war.

No compromise proposition, such as a vote of confidence in the president's foreign policy, will be accepted. Such a vote would be a full and complete endorsement in Berlin as justifying the opinion that the president lacks the power of congress and thus party in his domestic policy. A full endorsement of international law, while its only purpose would be to inform members of congress of the president's position, their positions before the country, on the straight out-and-out question.

President Wilson made his position clear to congress Wednesday night. Wednesday night in unequivocal terms, as the climax to a day of confusion, uncertainty and doctinal maneuvering in the senate. The president of his first real fight with congress.

As if to emphasize that the president absolutely refuses to continue the discussion of the declaration of war, the attitude of congress has been jotted. It was made known that the United States does not consider the latest German proposal for a suspension of the German ambassador. As broad or as satisfactory as these originally given. The president's position was taken, however, while the president was in congress. Meanwhile the pending Louisiana agreement will not be finally accepted.

The president's friends openly charge that resistance to his program is purely political. They make it understood that the president is intended to let the question be passed over by a compromise and risk being embarrassed later in his negotiations with Germany. They are saying of his hands come up again to weaken his hand.

tion removed once and for all from the field of possibilities, and point out that the extent of the opposition which the president faces may be judged from the fact that the chairmen of the foreign affairs committees in both

The administration whips in their canvass have satisfied themselves that a majority of the rank and file of the Democrats and friends of the Republic will stand by the president if he can succeed in forcing the question past the opposition of the leaders.

SURPRISE PARTY AT WATERS HOME

Blue Lakes Boulevard Club Honoree
Fifty-second Birthday of Mrs. A. J.
Waters in Pleasant Manner.

A delightful surprise party was given Tuesday evening at the Blue Lakes

Boulevard club, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Waters, in honor of Mrs. Waters' twelfth birthday. She was fifty-two years old Feb. 29th. Fifty-four friends and neighbors met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Long and went in a body to the Waters home, where they received a warm welcome. Mrs. Ennes, secretary of the club, presented Mrs. Waters, the president, with a beautiful for him, a present from the club, and expressed her appreciation in a sweet, pleasing manner. She was then presented with a large bouquet of carnations, to which Mr. Waters responded with a most interesting explanation of what flowers meant to the recipients from the giver. A most enjoyable program followed: Club song, by the ladies; piano solo, Miss Kate H. Jones; Mrs. James Long; vocal solo, Miss Essie Walker, accompanied by Miss Zora Waters; reading, "Voice of the Poor House," Mrs. B. B. Sibley; Mr. and Mrs. James

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Waters, and Mr. Waters also gave several recitations. A social hour was spent in old-fashioned games and recitation. Delicious refreshments were served. All wishing Mrs. Waters many more happy birthdays and boys and friends parted for their homes, feeling Blue. The club had the right thing, and

ROCKEFELLER'S PLAN

THE PLAN is in the form of a copy of a pamphlet sent by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with his compliments, to the press, containing the "Industrial Constitution" and agreement for employee representation, entered into between the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, of which he is the most prominent stockholder, and the workmen in the service of that company. The pamphlet contains an article from the Atlantic monthly written by Mr. Rockefeller, two addresses made by him in Colorado, besides a copy of the plan and the final agreement. The plan includes the "open shop" without discrimination against either union or non-union men, and, over and above this, provision for a local organization in which all the employees are included, through which delegates to confer with the company and present grievances are to be selected. Provision is made for the carrying of any grievance by any employee, to the president of the company if necessary. Mr. Rockefeller is evidently right in saying that the success of the plan will depend on the good faith displayed by both sides in carrying its terms into effect.

While the plan should be considered on its merits, and time will be necessary to determine what they are, and while Mr. Rockefeller appears to desire to let bygones be bygones, part of the pamphlet is in a measure an attempt to justify the course and the course of his father in the past. He naturally speaks in terms of warm approbation of his father and this is no doubt sincere. In his effort to put the Colorado Fuel and Iron company in a good light before the people he falls into an ambiguity which if cleared would either place him in a better light than he places himself or would leave a suspicion that he was trying to induce in sympathy. Evidently trying to create the impression that the company stockholders had not made any profit during the 14 years that he held stock, he declared in his address to the miners that there had been "not one cent for the common stock." The circumstances under which the declaration was made left the impression that all the profits had gone to the workmen, the directors and the officers of the company.

Six days later in an address before the Denver Chamber of Commerce, held, speaking of his father, "During the 14 years since he made his first investment except for one payment made on preferred stock on account of an accumulation of dividends, there has not come back to him or the common stockholders one single cent of return." As in his previous speech he had illustrated the division of the proceeds of the company by sweeping it into three corners representing respectively the workmen, the directors and the officers, and that there was nothing left for the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the payment to preferred stockholders not previously mentioned of accumulated dividends makes some difference. Still as only one such payment was made the inference which he still intended to draw was that there was practically nothing left for the stockholders, already or indirectly. If such was not his intention, his address had no purpose. Now the thing required to make his whole matter clear, was a statement to whether the company instead of declaring a dividend to common stockholders, turned back a large annual profit into the business, thereby increasing the value of its holdings and the market value of its stock. If it made no profit for 14 years it was indeed a poor business, and this fact should be taken into consideration by all who attempt to discuss the subject. But if the business did pay and the stockholders instead of getting a money dividend, got increased market value for stock, Mr. Rockefeller's plea was plain. Mr. Rockefeller's plea, the more reprehensible because unnecessary. If there was no profit for capital invested in the business, then it is a pity that this fact was not made clear for the sake of Mr. Rockefeller, no less than for other reasons.

MR. BURKETT ON LIGHTING

The explanation of the proposed plan for lighting the city by Mr. J. M. Burkett, is made clear in this issue of the TIMES, makes clear the advantages as well as the limitations of suggested improvement. The plan seems a thoroughly commendable and unless something not heretofore suggested should develop, its adoption would seem advisable. The utility of a park within the city itself, such as could be developed at trivial cost, would be of great value, and would do more to attract people here than can easily be imagined.

It is clear from the statements made by Mr. Burkett that at the minimum the power from Rock creek would be sufficient to furnish lighting as good as now in use in Twin Falls, for a city of at least 100,000 inhabitants, and should it be necessary, further power could be obtained by raising the stand of water. It will be noted that the engineer seemed inclined to discourage the idea of entering the commercial field. This was doubtless due to two causes. In the first place, Twin Falls is about to become a great manufacturing center, and the power received would not be sufficient to run even a large percentage of machinery used in a city of factories. The wisdom of entrance of the city plant into the competitive field under such circumstances, would be problematical. Then the city would not be required to secure a certificate of necessity to install a plant for its own use, nor would such certificate be required in order to establish a plant for the joint use of this and other municipalities that might unite for the purpose of establishing a municipal plant under the terms of the law enacted by the last legislature, but there would always be a question, until finally decided, as to whether the public utilities commission would grant a certificate of necessity to allow the city to enter the commercial field. Should the city later decide to enter the competitive field, should the power be deemed sufficient, it could secure a certificate of necessity then in form for the city, and would be quite as reticent in regard to the matter of uniting with other municipalities, the wisdom of such action depending on the probable future growth of this city, and being a matter of legislative and executive detail to be worked out by those concerned.

The bridge across Rock creek has been condemned as dangerous. Should an accident of the Rock creek class should occur, certainly the serious, the cost to the city might easily be more than the total sum required for the construction of the bridge.

MR. SCHIFF TAKES

(Grangeville Free Press)

At the banquet of the Republican Club of New York the other day, Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, well known banker of that city and a shrewd business man who has the country's best welfare at heart, said something which Republicans generally should ponder seriously. We quote him:

"I am a Republican-Democrat. I voted for President Wilson, the first Democrat for whom I cast my vote for president in fifty years. I want to explain that I am not for the Republican party, but my common sense makes me a Democrat. 'I didn't expect that much,' Mr. Schiff said in response to the single handclasp that greeted his remarks, 'but I want to explain further that nothing can stop that great prosperity we have now except a renewal of tariff agitation in the next campaign. 'Standing here on holy Republican ground, I say without fear or favor, if you renew in the next campaign the tariff agitation of the past; if you threaten the country and if you want a renewal of special privileges and high protection, the people will have none of it. The people have learned; the workmen and the farmers have learned, and they can not be misled any longer.'"

COMMUNITY CHURCHES

(Boise Statesman.)

The failure of the community church plan at Jerome indicates the continued preponderance of denominationalism over non-denominational. The advantages of a church union in small communities, however, will be more and more impressed as the weakness of the prevailing system is made more and more evident.

Efforts to light separate church organizations in towns of 1500 to 2500 population is hardly productive of the best results in the opinion of many leaders of religious thought.

Such extreme denominationalism does not enter in to the field of foreign missions, and there appear to be fully as good reasons for avoiding it in the smaller towns of the United States, many of the churches of which are supported wholly or in part by home mission funds.

One or two strong churches attracting a higher degree of ministerial ability apparently would be better than half a dozen weak churches, each with a corporal's guard of members.

The devil, we are told doesn't run his business that way.

A GUBERNATORIAL OPINION.

(The New Freedom, Boise.)

We predict that John M. Haines will be an easy winner of the Republican gubernatorial nomination with Taylor, Crum, D. W. Davis and Captain E. G. Davis dividing the opposition.

LAND BOARD DECISION

A PAINFUL SURPRISE. The decision of the state land board concerning the Salmon tract recently made comes to us poor settlers on the Salmon tract as a painful surprise, as we were counting on the promises made by some of the members of the state land board in its meeting at Hollister some time ago. We will never forget the words spoken by Attorney General Peterson, how blue he felt because of the poor circumstances we were in, and how he would understand how we felt for he himself had been born on a homestead and had to wear shabby clothes in his boyhood. I tell you he doesn't have to wear them any more. We are not past that stage yet. I still remember, myself, how the governor smiled and assured smile and turned to the other members of the board when he declined to call a special meeting of the legislature to take up this matter on request of one of the settlers. He said he would have no special meeting unless there came a great calamity, because such a meeting would cost about $40,000. The money could be saved and he would rather use some of it to help the settlers. If he could not agree with Mr. Edwards, the homesteaders' representative, the board would do. They had something better in store for the poor settlers. Yes, a feeling of relief swept over us poor victims of cowardice or cold-blooded indifference at that never-to-be-forgotten meeting at Hollister. We were not slow to bring the glad tidings to our homes, to tell our wives and children, who had suffered with us for so long. We told them our troubles would be over soon, helping eagerly, as poor, honest, hard-working, simple-hearted farmers generally do. "We could not believe them that they were peddling hot air to us. We took their word for nothing."

Can any fair-minded person blame us for being so glad that the state of Idaho never would go back on its pledge made to the poor, respected settlers on its irrigation project? How often did we hear the Idaho farmer say, by unadvised mistake! Read the decision of the board. Are they really unavoidable?

I should say no. Why didn't the state of Idaho complete the works or drive them out and let their own people have them? The state of Idaho was behind this proposition, and it could not fail—and truly, they stayed behind and never came out to help us to help the poor settlers, her own people.

The decision reads that the settlers must pay a new contract—reducing the water duty to 2.25 cents per acre. The water duty to 2.25 cents per acre. The company is to waive interest on all deferred payments, after Judge Dietrich ordered the company could not collect interest nor foreclose.

That period of five years in which we do not have to make payments, that is, the time to pay for the land, does not blind us to the fact that if we agree with the decision made by the board we will pay off $100 for our land before we have had it set up for the land, although I believe that many are willing to pay $40, notwithstanding the reduced duty of water and electricity are at least really stood more loss than the expense to cut down the tract amounts to, provided we drop our damage suits. Of course the faith was once broken in the state land board is gone, and unless they reconsider their decision and show that they really want to help us in such case I would take back what I have said, but it is useless to expect such a noble action; and therefore we appeal to the voters, men and women, to help in next election, and I am sure you honest people of the great, beautiful state of Idaho will respond to our call for help and support so nobly to the call of the starving Belgians.

THRIFT IN THE HOME.

THE BANK A PROTECTOR OF MONEY.

We are all obliged to carry with us a certain amount of money—the daily necessities of life require cash. How much you should carry is for you to say. As a rule, not more than you will need from day to day, for the man who carries great wads of money with him is not only taking the risk of theft and loss, but is doing himself, the bank and the community an injustice; himself in the risk he assumes and the loss of interest the bank would gladly pay; the bank the use of money to its profit, and the community in the loss of the money for the foundation of credit. In a business community the individual must protect his own money. And to protect it he hides it, often in the no-man's-land of his pocket, we would gravitate to a state of barbarism where strength was the only safeguard. But to the individual who has a bank, the bank is his daily needs require, the bank says: "It is our business to protect. For this we have strong vaults, burglar alarms and watchmen. We spend money to protect money. We know how—that is our function as a bank."

You will frequently read of losses running into large figures because someone has mislaid the bank, and assumed to be his own money protector. Misery in business towns are frequently robbed—so frequently that some who have learned their lesson will no longer trust the bank for safe that looks so formidable, but it is mere toy under the crackman's skill, and prefer to sleep on their money.

If "every man to his trade" is a good motto, then the banker, to his good which is, first of all, to safeguard money. True, he does not keep all his money on deposit in cash—that would be a useless and profitless task—he keeps only enough to do business with and loans the rest, which constitutes the second function of the banker, and that is to lend, which will be treated in number 3 of the Centennial series; but remember that that the place for the money you can use (and is in the bank, for this is what banks are for, and you had better find that place for the money you want your money will grow while you sleep.

HARD TO DESCRIBE STYLE

Matter is Exceedingly Difficult to Define, Chiefly Because It Is So Intangible.

What makes a woman stylish? Applied to dress style is a curiously elusive quality, either to define or to acquire, says a writer in Good Health. "A stylish garment!" we say, of one made in the fashion of the day. But when we ask, "What is the style of the garment?" we are inquiring for a description that may be of this year's style, or last year's, or of the last century's. A dress may be "in style," so far as its material, cut and trimming go, and yet yet still look stylish when worn, either because it is worn by the wrong person or in the wrong way.

"A stylish woman," we say, of one dressed in a mode, and yet in the next breath we describe another woman as "good style," although she is not wearing the latest fabric or newest cut, and often is not herself beautiful. Style is not a simple quality, but a compound one. "We say style," says an old writer, "of anything in which form or matter is concerned to be, in however slight degree, expressive of taste and sentiment." And it is taste and sentiment more than a specific mode that go to the making of style in dress—that intangible something, so hard to define, so seldom acquired and so much desired because it is so widely admired.

The French word chic expresses, as Americans and English use it today, a good deal of what we have in mind when we say "stylish." It implies a certain knack in the selection and manner of wearing clothes. The meaning in French includes the idea of subtlety and finesse, and it is these qualities more than the matter of style, that are suggested by the best-dressed women, and are so often lacking in the appearance of expensively dressed Americans.

DESERT WAS ONCE A JUNGLE

Scientists Have Discovered Facts of Great Interest Concerning the Barren Hills of Wyoming.

That palms, figs, magnolias and other tropical vegetation once grew luxuriously on what are now the barren hills of Wyoming is proved by fossil plants found in the enormous coal deposits uncovered there. These trees and plants doubtless grew in the swamps of Wyoming when the climate was as mild as that of Florida.

Coal is fossilized vegetable matter. The tremendous extent of the coal fields indicates that the vegetation to produce this great amount of carbonaceous matter must have been luxuriantly luxuriant. The hills are now brown and bare; the flourishing jungles were long ago turned into arid deserts.

It is estimated by the United States geological survey that the amount of coal in the Rock Springs, Wyoming, field alone available for mining exceeds 14,000,000,000 tons. "Available for mining" means within 3,000 feet of the surface and in beds 2½ feet or more in thickness.

Cotton.

Cotton is usually differentiated in ordinary classification by the length of its staple. "Ordinary cotton" in the United States is of several kinds, chief among them the upland cotton, with a staple for from seven-eighths to one inch in length, and Gulf or Texas cotton, on which the staple is not usually quite so long. The longest-stapled cottons among the "ordinary cottons" here are the bottom land or border cottons, with a staple of from one and one-fourth inch, and the special fancy staple cotton, one and three-eighths to one and five-eighths inch in length. The sea island cotton, which is grown on the sea islands off the coast of South Carolina, has a staple of from one and a half to two and a half inches, the average length being one and three-fourths. The Egyptian cotton is being grown in southern California, New Mexico and Arizona, its staple is not so long as the sea island cotton, but compares rather with the upland cotton here.

say there is no physical peculiarity that exhibits such wide individual variation as the pulse. It seldom falls below sixty or rises above eighty, but an unusually slow or rapid pulse is not an infallible indication of disease as many suppose. Many times the pulse is counted while talking about the matter; in such cases the pulse is almost certain to be overestimated, for physicians all know that the heart is quickened by the excitement of conversation.

Daughter Dear:

Chicago is a long way from here but I think of you so often that you really seem much nearer. Because you are you, and are so precious to me, I am interested in all girls. Perhaps that is why I often like to look at the portraits of girls at The Bisbee Studio.

Mrs. Bisbee showed me so many pictures made during the Christmas season. "I think we never enjoyed making the portraits of young ladies more than we did last autumn," she said, "for we had provided so many pretty back-grounds that pleased the girls so well, and the results were delightful. Oh yes, that reminds me—Do come into the posing-room and see the changes we are planning for our spring portraits. The 'home effect' idea is emphasized more than ever this year and of course we are adding new designs for continual variety. For instance this cozy corner—"

Well, I can't describe it to you, Alice; I only wish you could see it. The Bisbee Studio has a posing-room which is said to present more possibilities for fine portraiture than any other in Idaho and it is considered as modern and as beautiful as any in the North-west. The room is kept quite free of accessories which are brought in from other parts of the building as needed. Therefore, for the most part, each subject sees only the necessary material for his own photograph—just this and the quiet restfulness of the room with its fire-place of cheer.

Your letter was a day late last week; are you working too hard?

SOCIETY NOTES

Society items for this column will be gladly received by the Times. Phone 126-W. The Society Editor.

The last "all day" meeting of the Ladies' Surprise club for this year was held at the home of Mrs. D. Brown on Wednesday, February 24. After the dinner, for which the Mothers' Surprise club is famous, the program for the day was taken up. The topic was Idaho and Her Laws. The discussion of which, handled in an impromptu manner, was about the best. The interesting Games appropriate to Washington's birthday followed. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Brown, Horgan, D. A. Bryant, Butler, Griggs, Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Decker and Mesdames Puckett, Cory, Butler, Duke, Eldred and Miss Gibbs.

The regular meeting of the Lunch-club was held at the home of Mrs. A. Poyer last Thursday. Yellow was the predominating color, and the yellow jonquils used as a centerpiece and the place cards in jonquil design were very effective. Miss Cora Hartigan and Miss Helen Sherman, both before lunch, Miss Margaret McAttee presented Miss Wilker with a pink and white Japanese parasol filled with many beautiful gifts—most of them embroidered by the guests. The afternoon closed with a two-course buffet-luncheon served in the dining-room. The centerpiece was a bouquet of pink and white mums on a mirror draped with willow of amber. Pink and white shaded candles were used. Miss Wilker presided at the tea service and Mrs. McAttee was assisted in serving by Mrs. G. Hecman, Miss Margaret McAttee in Japanese costume. The guests were Mesdames Lucille Cameron, Helen Sherman, Fern Gates, Mabel Banks, Josephine Hamilton, Cora Hartigan, Lucile Wolfe, Irene Knood, Edna Smith, Mrs. E. A. Isabel, Dosthausse, Stella Perrine, Pauline Field, Grace Bower, Eloise Pearson, Alvilda Odel, Florence Hill, Naomi Selma, Fiance Shara, Betty Spafford; Mesdames Wilker, McAttee, Hance, Wiley, Heap, Alvord, Webb, Greenhow, Ragan and Stettler of Kimberly.

Mrs. W. B. Ambury was hostess to the members of the Ladies' club, and their guests, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Bowles, last Thursday afternoon. The usual serving-hour was enjoyed and later daily refreshments were served by Mrs. Ambury.

A mothers and daughters party was given by Mrs. J. Poyer last Saturday morning. A dainty breakfast was served at eleven o'clock. Covers were laid for ten. Yellow jonquils and white carnations composed the centerpiece and each guest received a flower—the mothers a white carnation and each daughter a yellow jonquil. After the luncheon the tabernacle meeting later.

The regular meeting of the Blue Ladies Boulevard club, was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. Emes. The program for the afternoon consisted of instrumental and vocal solos by Miss Nellie Teasdale, Mr. Logan, Miss Dorothy Wright, Miss Fern Emes and the Mesdames Waters. A two-course luncheon followed the program. All members were present.

Saturday was Mrs. C. H. Eldred's birthday and some of his friends and neighbors surprised him with an evening party. Progressive five hundred was played during the evening and later a fine supper was enjoyed. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Brown, Neumann, Seals, Bryant, Beck, Decker, Buckett, Messrs. Walters, Hank and Tate.

The Wednesday Cozy club met with Mrs. R. E. Boller last week. Mrs. Henry Olson had high score and was presented with a beautiful hand-painted platter. Mrs. Felt and Mrs. Boyer were guests. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Boller.

The Friday Evening Card club met with Mr. and Mrs. Putzier last week. The usual bridge game was very much enjoyed and later a two-course supper was served.

A number of Twin Falls young ladies gave a Leap Year dance in Collium hall last Friday. The guests were in costume and many good make-ups were seen.

Mrs. Zenas Smith of Pocatello, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McWilliam. Mrs. Smith is organizing new chapters of the E. O. society. She has just completed a tour of several Idaho towns.

Invitations have been issued by Helen Sherman and Irene Woods for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Charlotte Wilker, Wednesday night.

The musical contingent of the Twentieth Century club, together with some of their accompanying friends, have been working hard under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. Dwight chairman, to prepare a program for the entertainment of the club and friends who were present, enjoyed a treat Tuesday afternoon. It was apparent that the ladies of the chorus which gave two selections at the opening of the program, had been earnest in the work of rehearsing and that they succeeded in pleasing was very evident. Members of the chorus were Mesdames Dwight, Norton, Root, Bowen, White, and Boyle, Misses Graham, Teasdale and Pitcairn, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert. "My Dreams," was the selection given by Mr. Logan and when an impatient audience demanded an encore, he sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling." Miss Teasdale was his accompanist. Mrs. Olson presented the Miss Nellie Pettum in three readings, "In the Morning," "The Goose Tale" and "So Was I." The feature most pleasing to her listeners was the song and her perfect composure. For an encore she gave "My Brother Will." Following this came a solo by Miss Teasdale, "Beloved Is My Name" and the hearty applause attended the appearance of those who heard "Heard." Mrs. Vesta Thomas accompanied at the piano. Dr. C. A. Lehigh was most fortunate, for the rich have a new music could not be "Mother O' Mine" and "Who Knows." A quartet cycle, "Morning of the Year," by Cadman, was sung by Mrs. W. H. Dwight, Miss Katherine Pitcairn, Dr. Lehigh and Mr. Robert Logan. While last this number was not least of a very fine program. Next week's meeting will be devoted to business of an important nature, among which will be the election of a nominating committee and appointing judges to serve at the coming election. Another matter which will come up for discussion is the advisability of departments for next year. Following business the will be served by the refreshment committee.

PULP STEERS GO TO HIGHER POINT

Cattle Command Good Prices—Sheep and Lambs Steady—Hogs High but "Up in the Air."

All of the steers today were of the handy weight variety which pleased buyers, says the Portland Live Stock Journal of Monday.

The pulp-fed today were from Lewiston, Utah, and were of fair quality. They brought $7.70 for two loads. This would indicate an advance of twenty cents in this class.

Today's cows and heifers were with one exception cut-outs from other cut-outs. One load of sugar pulp cows were very fair. Part of a load of hay-fed weighed right after the opening bell at $5.50.

Other offerings were of ordinary quality and went at steady prices. The cow bulk sold Saturday at $5.50; 6.75, a week ago at 6.00; 6.25, a month ago at $5.75; 6.50, a year ago at $6.10; 6.25, two years ago at $6.25; 6.35, three years ago at $6.50; 6.75, and four years ago at $5.60; 6.40.

There were no sheep on the market Thursday to Saturday.

Both sheep and lamb sentiment presented a strong aspect all of the week, although nearly all of the week there was little trade upon which to base judgment of just what could happen in this section.

About five decks of sheep were unloaded over Sunday. The bulk were lamb- but there was also a sprinkling of ewes, wethers and yearlings.

Receipts of sheep:
Friday 450
Saturday 400

General—From Thursday to Saturday there were no sales made over the $10.00. The bulk of the week was the top prices. Demand has been only ordinary and quality fair to poor. Receipts both Friday and Saturday pretty good.

Status of the hog market continued on the "up in the air" order at the wind-up of western inquiry. Eastern markets finished the week's work at a strong level price.

Today's receipts were very light and of average quality. Outside of three loads there was nothing that would indicate anything but an effort on the owners' part to unload quickly.

Early sales were at $8.00 for prime stuff. Later some sales touched $8.10 and in one case $8.15, indicating a steady top with last Monday. Bulk of sales were at $8.00.

Heavy bulk packing 4.00; 4.00
Pigs and skips 3.90; 4.00

It is a far cry from the prices that were in vogue two years ago to those that prevail at the present time. However, they have done nothing more than realize the anticipations of shrewd observers, who, early in the history of activities when the war commenced, predicted war prices or famine prices for merchandise. There are many excellent reasons for the conditions that exist, notwithstanding the fact that the general public has been slow to realize the true situation. This, however, is not surprising when professional buyers, shrewd business men, in fact many sellers of cloth did not appraise the situation correctly. Before the war began it was consistently pointed out that inevitably there must be higher prices for wool, as the flocks of sheep the world over were not keeping pace with the demands upon them, and therefore wool was becoming shorter in supply from year to year, while the demand for it was increasing.

KIMBERLY NOTES
From the Kimberly (Call)
The school board met last Friday and adopted plans and specifications for the new school building. The proposed building will be a two-story brick structure with eight rooms, and will cost about $27,000. The board will meet again Saturday and fix a time for holding a bond election. The proposed bonds will be for about $30,000 to cover cost of building and site. Several proposals for sites have been submitted to the board, but no definite action will be taken in this matter until after the bond election. The board has been working overtime in their efforts to secure the best place to meet the requirements of the school at the least possible cost to the taxpayers. The necessity for the additional school is admitted by everyone, and it is expected that the bond election will carry by a large majority.

The Grand Union Tea & Coffee company of Twin Falls, who have a branch store in Kimberly. The buildings at the old Gem State Lumber company yards, owned by Mr. D. T. Turner, are being moved to the corner just north of the Kimberly Hardware & Implement company store, and when in place will be occupied by the new concern.

W. A. Gill has purchased the 50-foot lot on the corner of Main and Center streets, just across from the old bank building, and will soon begin the erection of a one-story brick building 50x100 feet, which he will occupy as a blacksmith shop and garage. The lot was purchased from James McMillan of Twin Falls, consideration $1,000.

Copies of the masterpieces will be shown at the school auditorium April 5-8. This collection, which will be an display comprises some two hundred subjects representing all of the principal schools of art as well as reproductions of the world's famous masterpieces. The collection is a most valuable educational picture, and to obtain some of your homes.

The Men's club met Monday night at the M. E. church. A large and enthusiastic audience was present to listen to an address by Colonel C. L. Longley of Twin Falls. The Colonel is a pleasure entertainer and his address was highly appreciated by those present. After the meeting the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church served a fine supper in the basement.

Considerable interest is being taken by the people of the east and in the west in the coming of the Kimberly train last Sunday afternoon, 325 tickets were sold from Murtaugh, Hansen and Kimberly—215 tickets from Kimberly alone. It is planned to run excursion trains from the east end each Wednesday evening and Sunday afternoons.

The students of the Kimberly high school are preparing to publish their first school annual. The publication will appear about the end of the school year. The expense of publishing the annual will be met through the publication and advertising by the business houses of the town. The size of the annual will depend upon the support received.

So far as intelligence goes, psychology experiments show that it is practically a dead heat between cats and dogs and monkeys. The dog has human morals, therefore people are apt to assume that he has little brains. But the cat, say certain persons, in sheer brains stands next to man. He has the adaptive intelligence that makes him equally at home in parlor or wild woods, and gets him a living as sure as the dog.

PROPOSED LIGHT PLANT DESCRIBED

as now grace the city park. The total amount of $320 a month now paid by the city for lights would pay off the total cost of the structure and its own machinery equipment. It would not be necessary to secure a certificate of necessity for the city to do its own lighting, and in the event that it joins with other surrounding cities, it would not require such certificate, provided that none of the power should be used for commercial purposes.

"The total width of the canyon," said Mr. Barker, "from rim rock to rim rock is 411 feet. The canyon has a maximum depth—measured from the floor of the present bridge, of 71 feet, the sides of the canyon are of lava rock with a slight overhang of soil. The most cases not to exceed three feet in thickness. In some cases the walls are entirely bare of vegetation. At the base of the canyon, and examination, due to the preliminary nature of the work, I did not determine the depth of the soil at the bottom of the canyon, but from what I have been able to learn, the depth of the soil under it approximately 12 feet. With this type of structure in place, the canyon is placed on the stability of the structure which far outweighs the small saving which might be made by the construction of a cheaper bridge. The bridge without the concrete core could indeed be erected, but it would be useful only for a road way and its stability would be certainly less than that of the sort of structure under contemplation. The cost of the concrete core would be in the neighborhood of $7,000 or $8,000, which is insignificant compared to increased stability and utility derived."

"The type of dam proposed makes an impounding reservoir of Rock Creek bottom and opens up possibilities for power development, parks and a highway across Rock Creek as broad as the average street."

"At this time the flow of Rock Creek is at practically its minimum. There is no great amount of water entering the creek from the irrigation canals which is the case during the summer months. The stream is not affected by the rain, but to those which will occur a little later but carry only the normal winter flow. It is generally impractical to estimate the amount of water entering the creek. The use of instruments as due to the varying condition of a stream bed the quantity is very hard to determine. However, estimated that with the minimum quantity flowing in the stream and with the available head that will be possible when the dam shall have been constructed, enough can be developed to brilliantly light all of our city streets. At least five hundred cluster lights of the same power as are at present used around the city park can easily be taken care of."

"The impounding of water to a practical head in front of the embankment will make a lake of approximately a

MURAL LOVEMAKING IN NEW MERRY KEYSTONE

All the comedy effects of a rural wedding are shown in the Keystone Triangle, "Fatty and Mabel Adrift," so the shows at the Orpheum Monday evening. Fatty Arbuckle plays the part of a big, fat, jolly farmer-boy, who is wedding the smiling Mabel, the daughter of his employer. In the matrimonial between "chores" Roscoe waxes the girl. The farmer tries to keep the boy busy and acts him to wedding the garden or milking the cow, but Mabel always has some excuse to slip out where he is. Finally the old folks are won over and they have a big wedding. All of the neighbors attend and there are lots of rural games and a big feast. But the rival of Fatty has it in for him. He follows the pair, when they go on their honeymoon and even tries to break into their snug little cottage on the beach. Fatty's dog chases the villain away.

"There is a big storm at sea. The rival gets home rather late and tries to launch the cottage on the waves. Fatty and Mabel do not enjoy their impromptu voyage, but their struggle to mount above the waves. The villain is comical. They finally have to do a diving stunt and frantically swim to safety on top of the little house. Fatty and Mabel come to their rescue with the assistance of a real estate man and his yacht. Dog Fido is much petted for taking the message from Fatty to Mabel's parents, which brought aid. The villain is properly punished when a keg of powder goes off in his cage. Mabel was careless enough during a fight to drop a lighted cigar into the keg."

also long. With such a body of water to store parking, fishing and all water sports could be indulged in."

In the building of the embankment of the main object to be obtained will be the establishment of a permanent highway across Rock Creek with the expenditure of not a great deal in excess of the most accurate estimate to construct and maintain a steel bridge.

One point in favor of an earthen embankment at the location indicated which should not be overlooked when computing the costs of the embankment and the relative cost of a steel bridge is the fact that all the money spent for a bridge will go east while the greater part of the money spent in building an embankment will stay in the community and remain there. As the dam is a Twin Falls situation it should count considerable in favor of the dam.

The embankment was all on the theory of approximately a 40-foot stand of water in the reservoir. Should the water be less than this, the estimated, or should the flow be the same and more power be required, it would be possible to greatly increase the efficiency of the flow raising the depth of the water stand to a maximum of 55 feet. There is no doubt in my mind also the power being sufficient to furnish light for the city for an indefinite period, but I am not prepared to say that there would be enough to furnish this city economically and would not recommend that such attempt be made.

"The exposed side of the dam would be erected at a three to one slope and would be constructed of select material with a view of preventing water over reaching the concrete core. Should it rain and the water come through it, however, provision will be made for it to pass through the coarse material located behind the concrete without injuring the stability of the structure. The slope on the lower side of the embankment should be two to one. In order to provide for the extra water which might result from a trough, a spillway would have to be erected, the rock from which would be used for rip rap on both sides of the embankment. The structure recommended would provide for a roadway 40 feet wide and on the level with the grade in front of the reservoir. The embankment would be a familiar country place or business, while the steel bridge contemplated would provide only for a roadway 24 feet wide which is not large enough for the traffic crossing that bridge or which will cross it in the near future. Moreover, while it would probably never be needed, the bridge with bridge with concrete core could be made wider at comparatively small cost."

CONVICT LABOR IS PROVING COSTLY

Costs About as Much Per Man as Free Labor Over and Above Keep and Due of Work Questionable.

Does "free" convict labor engaged in road work pay in Idaho? asks the Capital News.

This is the question state officials are now engaged in figuring out as a result of a report demanded by Governor Alexander of the cost to the state of work done by convict labor on the Shoshone Falls grade.

This report shows that this labor cost the state of Idaho an average of $1.50 per day per prisoner, not counting the cost of superintendence, construction equipment, team hire, camp equipment—such as—lumber, tents, tools, stoves, cooking utensils, blankets, soap, towels, etc.

The prisoners were worked eight hours a day. The going wages for like labor ranges from 25 to 30 cents an hour, or about a day of eight hours, without board, clothing, or other sustenance expense. So that, taking into consideration the well known fact that convict labor is not nearly so efficient or productive as employed labor, the state officials are seriously wondering whether it has paid to shut out labor in the state seeking employment in order to give the work to convict labor.

The report was made to Governor Alexander by E. J. Hildman, of the state highway engineer's office, upon the governor's demand for such a report after examining the bills presented to cover the cost of this "free" labor. The size of the bill led the governor to believe that the labor was costing the state an excessive amount and he determined to have a report upon the matter. This report sets forth the items of the expense. As an item of the average number of convicts would have to be supported at the expense of the state whether they were working or not. The average cost of maintenance of the penitentiary, as reported by the warden, for the last year was $44.36 cents per day per prisoner. The average number of convicts employed on the Shoshone Falls grade last summer and fall when this work was done, was about 23 men.

The wages paid free labor on the Shoshone grade in this county this winter has been only 10 cents a day higher than the cost of maintaining each prisoner at $44.36 cents. The figures furnished Governor Alexander are correct and the value of convict labor as compared with free labor is seriously questioned by many who have to do with both.

The commissioners of Twin Falls county had the question under advisement as to whether or not to employ it or would be well to employ the state convicts on the Shoshone grade. Investigation revealed the fact that it would cost all told, about $50 a month per man, which agrees with the estimates furnished to the governor. At present the labor gets $1.50 a day, and skilled labor 50 cents more, so that the average is about what it would cost to work the state convicts. The report also showed that the state convict labor would probably be found less efficient, so they turned down the project.

IN PRAISE OF THE ONION

One Writer, at Least, Brave Enough to Defend the Healthful But Odorous Vegetable.

Why is it that so beautiful and delicious a vegetable as the onion causes such horror among human beings when it has once been consumed?

Why is it that one's wife, shudders when she sees her husband gnawing at the juicy interior of a big Bermuda, when the scientific claps so strongly recommend the onion as a most healthful and proper form of grub?

Why, oh, why—does an onion taste so much differently in the morning?

Nobody knows!

There are a few people who absolutely detest the mere idea of an onion, but the antagonistic attitude is generally a precautionary measure.

Many people would like to eat onions, if they dared, and only refrain from doing so when under heavy pressures. They are told that the odor of a mild, and companionable onion upon one's breath stamps him as one of the rabble.

If he reeks with the perfume of a 15-cent cigar it is O. K. Likewise it is all right if he has been reveling in some of the more deadly varieties of cheese, but as for the onion—never!

Onions are mighty handy vegetables in the kitchen of the elite, and are used to flavor most salads and dressings and things, where they are fully appreciated—but, like the common workman, while useful about the house, they must not be brought into the drawing room unless in disguise.

This outrage against the onion—being studied, is likely to make a socialist of almost anyone.

Five Onion!—Omnia World-fide aid.

NEW THEORY OF EVOLUTION

Points Evolved by Author May Give Rise to Some Most Interesting Hypotheses.

In a book entitled "The Natural History of Evolution," J. N. Shearman pointed out that nothing in the Darwinian theory provides design. It only requires the supposition that the designing mind works slowly through many ages. As to those variations which have turned out failures—the dying reptiles and other extinct creatures of early periods—the author makes the suggestion that the direction of variation may to some extent be depicted by God to angels, in the same way as free will and power is granted to man; and that these failures are the experiments of the angel-subordinates. "But," writes the editor of Nature in recommending the book to scientific readers, "the author is not in the least a crank, and he puts forward this fresh and interesting hypothesis (which some would call fantastic) as a speculation only. His main point is that though the Darwinian natural selection is a true cause of change in species, the variations which tend to progress toward greater complexity cannot be attributed to chance. They are evidence of a guiding mind which sees and knows before it produces on the flat plane."

Science has ceased to sneer at the spiritual, and many of the deepest thinkers of today are turning to the "supernatural" for explanations of phenomena they cannot understand.
