

STATE HIGHWAY IN GOOD CONDITION

Engineer Booth Inspects Portion of Highway Traversing County.

WANTS TWIN FALLS COUNTY TO SURFACE WITH GRAVEL.

Bridges and Culverts Will Be Widened. Plan of State Operation Is Explained by Commission Representative.

The state highway commission would like to co-operate with the county of Twin Falls in surfacing the section of the state highway running east and west through this county. Mr. Booth, state highway engineer, pronounced sections of the highway in Twin Falls county, particularly that portion of the highway northwest of Buhl to Owsley's ferry, to be in as good shape as any portion of the highway in the state.

The proposition presented by Mr. Booth for the surfacing of this road will no doubt receive a great deal of consideration during the next few months, as the advantages of a splendid highway, such as has been completed in several parts of the county and is under construction in other parts, cannot but be apparent to all.

Under the arrangement that exists between the county and the state, the county stands two-thirds of the cost of constructing the portion of the state highway running through the county, and the state stands one-third. The highway is constructed under the direction of the state highway engineer, according to standard plans and specifications adopted by the state commission. After the highway has been constructed, the state takes over the road and maintains it without further expense to the county. Unfortunately, the highway commission has been hampered by financial difficulties, but the confidence which the commission and Engineer Booth have placed in the county's ability to construct, on the condition that the highway commission pay to the county the commission's one-third share of the cost of the highway, has resulted in the construction of these roads by the state has proved unusually efficient and economical and several instances might be cited where highway districts expended large sums of money without any equivalent results, only to appeal to the commission in the end to take over the work and push it to completion. The construction of good roads is rapidly proving to be science in itself, and, as Mr. Booth pointed out to a representative of THE TIMES, who accompanied him on an inspection of the highway in this section Monday afternoon, the average farmer or road overseer usually knows no more about the proper construction of highways than high-

WOUNDED AT COLUMBUS

Second Lieut. Clarence Hanson, Thirteenth United States cavalry, who was wounded in Villa's raid on Columbus, New Mexico, is the foundation of his military training in McKinley school, Washington, D. way engineers know about farming, which, Mr. Booth admitted, was apt to be very little. "We have made many mistakes," said Mr. Booth, "but we are learning much from our mistakes and try not to repeat them. As a result, we are rapidly standardizing the specifications for the state highway and in a few years should have an excellent highway running across the state from east to west, as well as from thence to the state line south of Twin Falls." Illustrating what Mr. Booth meant when he said several mistakes had been made in the past, he pointed out, for one thing, that concrete culverts had been made too narrow and that new specifications had been adopted calling for wider culverts and bridges, easily permitting two vehicles to pass on the bridge or culvert, and by dividing the traffic on two tracks instead of one, reducing the probability of chockholes and ridges on the culverts or at the approaches to the bridges. Mr. Booth said that the narrow culverts on the section of the highway in this county will be replaced probably next year with wider structures. Already the highway is being widened in many places and is being widened in a manner that encourages two tracks of traffic, one on each side, a foot of the one track in the center of the road. Mr. Booth says that this reduces maintenance costs 50 per cent as the wear on the road is only half as great as where one track has to handle all the traffic.

The highway district in the southern part of the state is divided into three sections, with headquarters at Pocatello, Twin Falls and Boise. The Twin Falls section extends from Owsley's ferry, 20 miles northwest of Buhl, to American Falls, and from Idaho to the north to the state line. Substantial mistakes are being set up indicating the number of miles in the section from the headquarters at Pocatello, that is, that as one travels to or from Twin Falls the distance is indicated every mile along the road.

A great deal of work is being done between Twin Falls and Buhl and, with the exception of a few miles around Buhl, included in a highway district which has become involved in financial difficulties, the road is in excellent condition, although Mr. Booth says the work and proper treatment by the maintenance force in this county the highway will be greatly improved. Northwest of Buhl, down the Buhl line to the ferry, is one of the finest sections of road which can be traveled anywhere in the state of Idaho. Not only from the point of view of road construction, but also of scenery. Anyone wishing to take a lesson in the scientific construction of roads can well afford to make the trip northwest of Buhl for the purpose of seeing what the highway is doing in the elimination of Entertainment Best Yet—Music, Jokes, Songs and Comedy Gain Applause of Large Audience.

CAPACITY HOUSE ENJOYS ELKS' MINSTRELS

The Elks' minstrels played to a capacity house at the Lavering theatre Thursday evening and the popular verdict seems to have been that they have surpassed anything that the Elks have ever produced. The first part of the program was the minstrel, with Mayor Sweeney as interlocutor and Charles Mearns, Ned McCracken, W. S. Wagner and H. Hurst as the black-face ends. The chorus, which consisted of a large number of local singers, and the orchestra, stationed on a platform in the background, completed a stage setting that had an unusually artistic appearance. A few local hits and comic songs by the ends kept the audience in good humor during the first act. The songs by the chorus were very pleasing. The program included several solos, "Mother," by Mr. Logan; "If It Takes a Diamond Years," by Mr. Cutting; "I Won't Know Where I'm Going," by Ned McCracken; "When Sunday Comes to Town," by Mearns; "Floating Down the Old Great River," by Mr. Roberts; and "Are You From Dixie?" by Mr. Wagner. Mr. Robinson, formerly of Salt Lake City, and a recent addition to local musical circles sang "I Love You," and the applause the number received was ample proof of appreciation. "Memories," sung by Mr. Peck, and "My Little Girl," by Mr. Teber, were also especially well received.

"Gills and Fever," in three acts, was the second part of the program and proved to be a blood-and-thunder playlet, acted by children. In which the Angles Beckwith starred. Helen Fisher, as a new arrival, played her part in a most approved fashion. The roles filled by the boys were all well handled and the audience was kept in terrible suspense until the dramatic finish. "In a Runaway Match" a number of local people appeared who have been seen before on the local boards, and all handled their parts in their usual capable way. A. W. Wallington, as Solomon Short, went through his antics, capturing the admiration of the entire house, for Mr. Wallington proved to have unusual ability as a character comedian. Mrs. E. J. Johnson, Mrs. A. M. Bowen, Mrs. E. J. Walter and Messrs. Benoit, Fuller and Thorpe completed the cast. The musical numbers by the orchestra contributed much to the success of the occasion. The play was staged under the direction of Willard McKay, and in production by those who have seen other productions staged by Mr. Olsen to be his best.

PROMOTOR ARRESTED IN SEWARD ALASKA

Deputy Sheriff Thompson Returns With James McCoy, Charged With Embezzling $5000.

Deputy Sheriff W. G. Thompson returned to this city yesterday on the noon train from Seward, Alaska, bringing with him James McCoy, who was wanted on the charge of embezzlement. Thompson left here March 6 and sailed from Seattle for Seward on March 9. The voyage was stormy and he was days on the water. He arrested McCoy, who was surprised at his visit, and had a better return voyage, getting back to Seattle in seven and a half days. He says he saw but little sun while away, as it was stormy most of the time and the thermometer ranged from 40 to 70 degrees below zero. Mr. McCoy is charged with having embezzled the sum of $5000 from Ira Brackett on or about May 10, 1914. The warrant for his arrest was issued shortly before Mr. Thompson left for Alaska. He was formerly a mining promoter in the Jarbridge district.

Deputy Sheriff Thompson was supposed to have gone on a trip to his old home in Omaha, but his real destination was never made public until his return from the little port on the far northern sea.

grades and the construction of permanent roads. The state highway is maintained by maintenance forces, constituted principally of good roads enthusiasts, every man having charge of a three-mile section and provided by the state with a drag and a road plane. It is paid by the state for maintaining his section of the highway and dragging it after every rain. The different sections are under the supervision of a road engineer. Mr. Cornell having charge of this section, with Twin Falls as his headquarters.

After a thorough inspection of the highway in this section, Mr. Booth leaves today for Burley, from which point he will visit the Snake river and doctor, the highway engineer takes his own medicine, travelling through the state where he is called on by many matters over the road construction he supervises. Mr. Booth was accompanied on his trip Monday by Mr. Cornell, district engineer, County Commissioner Monte of Elfer, Charles Mott, Thomas Dorey of Twin Falls, Judge Ostrem of Buhl and a representative of THE TIMES.

On Thursday evening of last week at 8 o'clock, at the bride's home, occurred the marriage of Miss Charlotte Wilker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilker, and Mr. Willard McMaster of Kimberly, Idaho. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Shepherd of the Presbyterian church and was witnessed by only the families and intimate friends of the bride and groom.

The room was beautifully decorated for the occasion in green and white. The four windows on one side of the living room were draped in smilax. A semi-circle of palms made a snug enclosure, in which the wedding party stood. In the center was a white lily on a pedestal. While Miss Emily Wilker played the wedding march, the maid of honor, Miss Doris Hamilton, and the best man, Mr. Lynn Beauchamp, descended the stairway, followed by Miss Wilker and Mr. McMaster. Mrs. Wilker was given away by her father.

Miss Hamilton looked very charming in a pink gown of organdy and silk. She carried pink carnations. The bride was lovely in a gown of taffeta and lace. Her veil was arranged in a cap effect and she carried a bride's bouquet of red roses.

After the ceremony a delicious course supper was served in the dining room. Here the motif of pink and white was carried out in detail. Pink shaded candles and pink flowers made an attractive setting.

Mr. and Mrs. McMaster will make their home in Kimberly. These well-known young people have the best wishes of a host of friends.

The Mothers' Surprise club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. L. Reed on Wednesday. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to a lively debate on the subject, "Resolved, That women of today work harder than women of 100 years ago." This was followed by a discussion of the management of children. The music, furnished at intervals by Mrs. Reed on the Victrola, afforded great pleasure to all. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Charles Hobbs was hostess to the members of the Luncheon club at an antebellum affair last Thursday. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Marshall Ross of Spokane, who is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Everett Swelley. The luncheon table was centered with a basket of sweet peas in pastel shades. Keeping Twin Falls Clean

The First of the HOME INDUSTRY SERIES, Which Will Appear in THE TIMES From Time to Time.
A MODERN LAUNDRY

"ANTICIPATING the inevitable growth of this city, we have installed machinery which will take care of twice our present business," said W. M. Peck, manager of the Troy Laundry, as he completed an inspection of the plant with a representative of THE TIMES-Saturday. "Our business is large and growing," he continued, "and extends over the entire tract and to such outside towns as Jarbidge and Contact. We do not solicit any work beyond Shoshone, in this branch, though some comes to us from other parts of southern Idaho. We employ about twenty-seven people weekly and have a payroll of over $300 a week."

A trip through the laundry, and dry cleaning works when the employees are all busy, is interesting and educational and shows how the most modern machinery can take the place of the human hand. Yet it also shows that the man or woman behind the machine is necessary, and that the intelligence of the worker, no less than the product of the brain of the inventor, is necessary at every step.

When the laundry wagons return from the different parts of the city, bringing their loads of soiled clothes, in separate packages, they are unloaded at the counting room of the laundry. Here they are counted and slips for each made out separately. Then the work goes into the flatwork room where a further assortment is made and the slips are verified. From there the laundry goes into one of the five big washers, two of which are double, each bundle going in separately, so that there is no mixing of clothes belonging to different people. The laundry has completely discarded the use of acids in washing and relies solely on the cleaning virtues of soap and water. The company makes its own soap, buying large quantities of tallow for that purpose. Harmless acids are utilized in certain sorts of bleaching but in no other way. In the engine room the immense 80-horse power boiler is used only for steaming and drying, the machinery being driven by four large electric motors. The use of steam in drying prevents the burning or scorching of any of the articles.

The visitor is next introduced to the tumbler, which is not a circus performer, but a modern piece of machinery. In this the underclothes, linens and articles of clothing are placed and the revolving process starts. In the case of clothing the machine shakes all the dust out first, and after they have been cleaned and tumbled they are again put in and shaken around so that they come out without the slightest odor. For the underclothes and similar articles the purpose is different. The shaking up in connection with steam heat dries them and at the same time keeps them soft, while under the old system they would become rather hard during the drying process. The next thing that attracts attention is the big flatwork iron, which weighs 15,000 pounds, and which has a capacity of 25,000 pieces a day. It is absolutely the latest thing of the kind in existence, so simple in its operations that a child can handle it, and like the rest of the machinery in use is based on the principle, "Safety First."

The starching department has a special machine, though the finishing is completed by hand. There are also special machines for cuffs, yokes, seams, bodices, bosoms, and collars. The collar is run through two separate machines and finished by hand, being the most particular and difficult of all. Wool shirts and all fancy work is done by hand.

When the pounds are complete, mending or repairing is done on the underwear and woolen goods, and missing buttons are replaced. This is a special woman's department, where garments are taken care of by experts and in which new machinery has been installed within the past two months.

The finishing department for dry cleaning work was the last visited. After that a glance told of the simple system by which packages which have been followed by the slips are taken care of before being sent to the customers, and the reporter passed through the busy office out to the street.

The building of the Troy Laundry is 100 by 125 feet and is all equipped by active folks who are getting results every minute of the time.

LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE WIN HONORS IN CONTEST

Ralph Morse and Miss Alice Sanderson Among Leaders in Declamatory Contest Held at Pocatello.

Ralph Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Morse, graduate of the local high school, who is now attending the Albion State Normal school, won first place in the dramatic division of the declamatory contest, which took place in Pocatello, and in which were represented the Albion State Normal, College of Idaho and the Pocatello Technical college.

Miss Alice Sanderson, another graduate of the local high school, won honors in the humorous division of the contest.

Speaking of the contest, the Pocatello Tribune says: "In the dramatic division of the reading contest Ralph Morse, of Albion, was given the first honor. His reading, entitled 'The Centurion's Ring,' was especially well rendered. Second place went to Earl Elhart of the College of Idaho, whose selection was 'Song of the Man of Letters.' The Tech gave 'Spartacus' to the 'Gladiators' and was given third place."

Miss Whitlen Kinney of Tech took first place in the humorous division with her rendition of the 'Raggle' Christian Dinner. Miss Dora Gonyea of Albion was second choice and gave as her selection 'Miss Millie's Creche.' The third place was given to Miss Alice Sanderson of the College of Idaho, who gave 'The Hazards of Valiant.'

PARKING ORDINANCE SWELLS LICENSE FUND

Rigid Enforcement of Ordinance Requiring License Anticipated by Many Machine Owners.

The activities of the police department in enforcing the new parking ordinance has had a stimulating effect in securing the payment of licenses on automobiles, as indicated by the following figures in the office of the county assessor. Police Officer William J. Taylor, who has done the greater part of the work incident to educating the auto drivers as to where to head in, says that the work has been comparatively easy and that there is a general disposition on the part of everyone to obey. No special effort has been made to enforce the ordinance relating to the payment of licenses, but next week the police will get busy. The auto license is a state tax, from which the city derives no revenue, but in order to properly enforce the speeding ordinance it is necessary to see to it that this law is complied with and that the machines are properly numbered. It was thought well to let the rigid enforcement of this ordinance wait until after the close of the auto show, when the police will turn their attention to it at once, beginning Monday.

SECRETARY DANIELS' WISE COURSE.

The public will generally sympathize with Secretary Daniels in his endeavor to prevent the naval officers from becoming gossips and carrying their tales of woe to the members of Congress privately. Hearsey evidence is seldom good, and when the ambitious naval commanders had whispered their stories into the ears of a number of congressmen, the result would have been as many constructions of what had been said as there were conversations. The investigation has developed the fact that the average congressman has but a very inadequate idea of naval matters, and the construction which he would be apt to put on highly-technical information would be far from instructive, however edifying it might be.

However, if the officers were all agreed upon naval policies and needs, they might by persistent reiteration get to the statesmen an intelligent idea of naval requirements. But such is not the case. During a discussion of the subject on the floor of the House, the question as to what was the most powerful battleship afloat came up for discussion. Congressman Butler, ranking Republican member of the naval committee, of which he has been a member for eighteen years, was asked by Speaker Clark if the experts were agreed on this matter, and the veteran congressman replied that they were not and that he desired to add that they were not agreed upon any other subject. The plan of the secretary of the navy, to oppose indiscriminate and unilluminating private conversations of peered and varying experts with undisciplined statesmen is altogether right. Let the experts testify in the open as they are now doing, and let Congress and the country try to sift from the mass of contradictory evidence such information as can possibly be derived in this way. Newspaper readers will remember that some experts have testified that this country was a great third among naval powers, while others have sworn that it was a bad fifth. The country will probably strike a balance something like that arrived at by President Wilson, who gave it fourth place, somewhat below Germany and perhaps a shade under Japan. If all this testimony had been given privately to sane and ambitious politicians, the country would never have known what was said and could form no intelligent idea of naval conditions.

Divergent opinions among military and naval experts is nothing new. Themistocles and Aristides fell out about the matter in Athens. The rival Spartan generals kept that bellicose state in an uproar with opposing military theories.

The two Roman consuls were always at variance as to policy. When the French directory proposed to send another famous general to reinforce and divide authority with Napoleon, the latter wrote that if this course were followed he would resign. "The man you would send is a good general," said the great Corsican, "but an enemy he would do better. If all this testimony had been given privately to sane and ambitious politicians, the country would never have known what was said and could form no intelligent idea of naval conditions."

Any one of the admirals who testified before the naval committee would take the navy as it stands and make a better showing than he did before the committee, and much better than he would as a gossip, had he been allowed to air his grievance privately to a sympathetic statesman anxious to extract campaign material from his confidential information.

THE FLIGHT OF CARRANZA.

Those who imagine that the de facto president of Mexico is having a picnic these days have another guess-coming. That much-bewhiskered philosopher has other things to concern him than stargazing or dreaming of the millennial dawn. Plain common sense must make him wish for American success, for it is only through the annihilation of Villa that he can hope to keep the Mexican presidency in power, or at all. And while war would for the moment rally the Mexican people behind him, he would know that war with the United States would result with him as it did with Huerta, a flight within a few months. The policy which he must pursue is to convince the Mexican that the American is not there to take something from him. Some of the Americans with whom the Mexican has come in contact have not been of the sort that would encourage this confidence without proof, and the reading of the press has not been extensive since the letters of the alphabet are usually entire strangers to him. That the whole country is not in a flame of war against our soldiers is an evidence that Carranza is playing square as far as he is able. Of course, this was to have been expected, since it would have been the height of imbecility for him to have done otherwise.

Still, the fact that the ignorant Mexican feels that we want to annex him is not surprising. A considerable minority of the American people do want to annex the country. He has had the idea that the majority of the American people want annexation, and he is suspicious. Nor is this sort of suspicion confined to our neighbors on the south. When a generation (Carranza wanted reciprocity with this country. Finally the desired treaty was signed and confirmed by the United States. President Taft spoke warmly of our future closer relations with the people of the Dominion, and Speaker Clark, in an eloquent peroration about nothing in particular, incalculably remarked that he hoped to see the day when the American flag would float over the territory from the Rio Grande to the Arctic ocean. The Hearst newspapers which were ostensibly at least supporting Clark for the presidency, took up the cry of annexation. The people north of the line took alarm. They bought the Hearst papers by the thousands to ascertain what American sentiment was, and took Hearst's interpretation as the true one. Not one American in fifty was thinking of annexing the Dominion, but the assurances of Speaker Clark that he had no intention of intimating that they should come in at once or come in at all against their wishes, and the like assurances of President Taft, were without avail. The Canadians, among the most highly enlightened and civilized people on earth, decided that "safety first" was a good motto, and voted down reciprocity, for which they had fought for a quarter of a century. After this object lesson as to what a highly-educated people will do to avoid the remote possibility of being annexed by us, it is not surprising that the poor Mexican people should question the wisdom of His Deftship in letting American troops across the line without a fight.

The mercantile houses of Twin Falls have discontinued the giving away of trading stamps as a premium after a thorough experiment. It will be remembered that several weeks ago the trading stamp people tried to get them in here and the Club of Commerce took the matter up and called on the business houses, asking them to turn the proposition down. It is a scheme that benefits no one but the house that puts the stamps on sale.—Idaho Falls Register.

MACK SENNETT TALKS

ON KEYSTONE PLANS
Mack Sennett, manager of the Keystone Film company, announced in a recent interview that plans had been virtually completed for the increase of Keystone comedies, and that even more money would be spent in the future than had been in the past to produce satires considered of the highest order. Mr. Sennett said H. B. Aitken, the president of the Triangle Film corporation, had met with himself and Adam Kessel, Jr., the president of the Keystone Film company, and had entirely agreed with the plans he had formulated for the coming year.

"We believe in film preparedness," Mr. Sennett said, when asked if the fact that three of the executives of the Keystone company were in the city had any especial meaning, "and we are only laying our plans to be ready to meet coming conditions." Mr. Sennett was asked if these plans would mean a cutting down in the present cost of the features, and with one of his characteristic, forceful answers, gave a hint of what the company, founded by him was considering for the coming year. "By no means," the manager said, with a characteristic smile. "We are perfecting plans which, instead of meaning a smaller expenditure of money, mean that we will produce many times more than we have in the past."

"The styles change in comedy screen productions just as quizzically as they change in women's millinery, for example. We have always set the comedy fashions for the world, just as Paris sets the millinery ones, and it is only because we intend to continue to do so that I asked Mr. Kessel and Mr. Aitken to take advantage of the weather break and meet me here at this time."

"Our 12 producing companies will be increased to 15 just as soon as possible. We will do the same with the stories I have in mind for summer and fall production will mean a greater outlay of money and will require more actors than any we have done in the past."

"Will the increase in the number of producing companies mean the Keystone will raise more comedies per week than in the past?" Mr. Sennett was asked.

"Not necessarily," he replied. "At the present time we are releasing two comedies a week. When you stop to consider the time necessary to produce a story, you will find the answer to more companies needed."

Mr. Sennett then spoke of the almost impossible task of finding people who would make up the personnel of the three companies he wants to add to the producing forces at the first opportunity. He said his past experience had shown him it was not only because we intend to continue to do so that I asked Mr. Kessel and Mr. Aitken to take advantage of the weather break and meet me here at this time."

"Our comedy is different from any other in the world," Mr. Sennett said. "It is individual to such an extent that the average director would be lost when given a scenario to produce. His first remark would be that the story was a drama rather than a comedy, and in a measure he would be correct. Our stories have certain situations. They have a thrill, or, rather, they must have a thrill, while we have comedians who can put in the comedy. There are a number of Keystone directors who have gone to other companies especially with the understanding that they were to produce Keystone comedies. It cannot be done when they leave the Edendale plant, and in this I will stand by any audience in the world.

"This makes it necessary that we train our directors and actors. The three companies which I shall put to work in the near future will be headed by people trained in Keystone ways, while the others necessary to fill the gaps will be placed a few in each company, where they will begin their course in Keystone comedy."

"When you speak of lessening expenses, you can quote me as saying 'The Keystone was never in such financial condition.' We have enjoyed a most prosperous year. We have never been able to supply the exhibitor with all the comedies he asked for, and my aim will not only be to make Keystone comedies better each day, week and month, but to continue to set the pace in the comedy film world. This will all mean money, and the Keystone Film company will spend much more in the future than it has in the past. That is the Keystone motto for the future, and we shall spend huge sums to prove it to the theatre-going public."

"THE GREAT DIVIDE" AT THE ISIS THEATRE

The long-haraladed and much-talked-of photo-play version of America's greatest western play, "The Great Divide," has been completed by the Lubin company, and with Ethel Clayton, the popular Lubin player, and House Peters in the leading roles will be shown to patrons of the Isis theatre on Friday and Saturday for three performances.

The story of the play follows: On the brink of the great divide lives Stephen Ghent, an untamed man of the west. To the great divide lives the land left by their father came Ruth and Phil Jordan with Phil's wife, Polly, and Dr. Newburn, a doctor for Ruth's hand, whom Ruth has refused repeatedly, claiming that the man she chooses will be an undeveloped character of the west.

Steve with his wife, Pedro and Dutch, returning to their cabin one night, see a light in the Jordan shack and force an entrance, finding Ruth alone, for her people have gone to the west for a trip. Ruth is overpowered and Dutch and Steve fight a duel for her; then Pedro is bought off by Ghent, who, realizing the helplessness of Ruth, suddenly comes to his senses and agrees to her proposition that she will be his wife in name only until he has proven himself a man.

Ghent agrees and the justice of peace in the valley is sought. Then he takes her to his cabin, where as days roll on she begins to see better things in this rough character. One night, with drink his master, he violates the promise he has made to Ruth, and for it she learns to loathe and hate and begins her work of weaving baskets that by her own hands she may earn the money necessary to buy back the nuggets from Pedro which bought her for Ghent. The Jordans have planned to leave when Ruth coming upon them introduces Ghent.

She, refusing to go back east with her people, is one day caught in a landslide and Ghent rushes to her rescue and is severely injured. For days he lingers between life and death, finally recovering to build a happiness for the noble woman, who learned to love him and made him the man she had idealized.

Dear good Daughter:

A week ago I little thought I'd be packing my trunk to go to see you. I have attended to my few errands and I'll be leaving tomorrow.

The large picture I am having made for you at The Bisbee Studio is not quite finished. This morning Mr. Bisbee was putting it through the last solution in a great concrete chemical-vat in the work-room. All the big vats and massive concrete sinks are chemical-proof, polished and smooth, free from stains and corrosion. They are all kept so clean, too, which is probably an aid in the producing of such fine photographs.

This is what Mrs. Bisbee said to me when I left: "You remind me of my child-hood; when I look at you, I think of a big, sunny kitchen, of blooming geraniums, of snowy linen, of good old-time ginger-bread, fresh from an old-time oven; everything about you suggests so vividly the old-time motherhood."

I want nothing finer, Daughter Dear, than to mean just Mother to you and your brother and occasionally to remind another of her own mother. In the evening of life that is a satisfaction. I'll telegraph you from Salt Lake for I'll spend two days there. Good-bye till I see you.

MISSING-NURSE IS FOUND IN CANYON

As it was known that she had no money, the theory that she had gone to a neighboring town and taken the train was discounted. The officers visited several houses in the city Wednesday night, in one case, where the occupant refused to answer questions, a search warrant was secured by Sheriff Kendall at 4 o'clock Thursday morning, while Constable P. O. Merriam kept watch on the premises, but the search proved fruitless. Sheriff Kendall announced at the auto show Wednesday evening that a general search would be made Thursday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock. Several hundred men and all the boy scouts were on hand. The scouts were divided into three parties. The members from the high school were sent to the river, while those from the grades were divided into two parties, one going up and the other down the canyon. At least a dozen men are known to have passed the nook in which the body was found, before the 12-year-old scout, Russell Husted, made the discovery.

The relation of the supposed breaking of an alleged engagement with Nell McKay to the death of the girl, if any, is not known. McKay lives in the town of Rogerson, where Mrs. Reynolds, a sister of the girl, and her husband, Lloyd Reynolds, also live. He recently built a house and her brother-in-law says that he told the girl that he was building it for her and that he had bought the new automobile which he had recently purchased for her. The family, he says, supposed that the wedding would take place shortly. Miss Nesbit stated yesterday that the girl expected to be married during the present month, that she was making her wedding trousseau and that all the nurses were interested in the event. McKay was a frequent caller over the telephone and told Miss Frakes that she was teaching her to drive the machine, so that she would know how to use it. Mr. Reynolds confirmed the report with reluctance of her active preparations for the wedding, which he supposed to be approaching. The contents of the letter are not known. Miss Nesbit stated that she did not see it, but said that some of the nurses understood that it was in the nature of a notice that the alleged engagement was breaking off on account of a previous engagement to a girl in Scotland. It was not in the room occupied by Miss Frakes in the nurses' home, and if it is in the possession of the officers the fact has not been made public. It is understood that McKay denies the existence of any engagement and declares that he wrote indicating that any such would be broken.

Miss Frakes was 24 years of age. Her father, H. C. Frakes, and two brothers, Floyd L. and Leo Frakes, live at Three Creek. She has been in the city taking training as a nurse for the past two years. She was recently admitted into the Christian church in this city and was baptized about a month ago.

The New Case 40—$1090

Tomorrow's Car Today

Now comes the new Case 40. Born and bred in the midst of Case ideals, it looms forth as a car that is bound to carry the Case standard even HIGHER and HIGHER.

This new car is FAR advanced in its lines and curves—still it does NOT plunge into eccentricities. It is designed for the substantial sort of man—the one who is NOT swayed by passing innovations—for the man who wants a GENUINE car.

For 74 years Case executives and workmen have been building according to the Case STANDARDS—never leaving that straightforward path called QUALITY, which has brought such world-wide reputation. Case cars are ENTIRELY built by Case-trained workmen in the Case plants.

The new Case 40, at its price of $1090, is an unusual opportunity.

With its 120-inch wheelbase, new method of cantilever spring suspension, both to the frame and rear axle, its THREE-PIECE steel body, REMOVABLE upholstery and numerous OTHER features, you CAN NOT find its EQUAL in any other car at THIS price.

May we show YOU in detail this Tomorrow's Car Today? Your time so spent will bring you good results.

One great automobile expert says, "The Case 40 motor makes extra cylinders unnecessary."

Gooding, Idaho, has a display of three makes of cars, new to this vicinity. The Camels, the Chevrons, the Fords and the Marmon. The latter is the most expensive and one of the latest models of cars on display. All three of these cars are fast coming into wide reputation as splendid types of cars in point of construction, strength and durability.

The Pullman car, exhibited by the Pullman Sales Co. of Gooding, has on display two types, one being a four-passenger roadster. This make of car is graceful in appearance and substantial in point of construction, and is of medium price.

The Saxon, one of the most popular of the lower-priced cars, is exhibited by J. W. Laubenstein of Twin Falls, with three different styles, including two roadsters. The Saxon is a plucky little car and fully sustains its reputation for dependability and economy.

Two trucks displayed are the Service and the Jeffery Quad. The latter made a record trip from Salt Lake with two tons of sale for the Crozier Transfer company of this city.

A number of patent appliances for automobiles are on exhibit and demonstrations of these attract much attention. One of these is the Automobile Power Jack, exhibited by W. T. Howard of Middleton, Idaho. The Carlson-Lusk company of Boise has a display of Diamond tires and a new type of tire. The latter electric car company, the Citizens Electric Co. of Salt Lake City and the Auto Supply company all are represented. The booth of the Skeelin-Wiley Drug company is one of the popular booths for everyone, young and old, as it is the only soft drinks booth in the building.

Another special display booth is that of the Electric Investment company, formerly known as the Great Shoshone & Twin Falls Water Power Co. In this booth are the latest electrical appliances, especially along the lines of cooking. The latest electric ranges are on display and cooking demonstrations are conducted each day by Mrs. W. M. Bridges, a well-known demonstrator from Boise.

The attendance at the show, both afternoon and evening, has been very good and it is expected the capacity of the building will be taxed to the utmost during the last two days of the event. Today is known as Bull day and tomorrow will be Farmers day. A genuine imitation of a Convey Lincoln carnival will close the auto show Saturday night.

Nothing but the highest price is heard on every side whenever mention is made of the automobile show. It has proved a drawing card to Twin Falls and a welcome advertisement for the tract and for southern Idaho.

KING TAKES HEAVY GRADES ON HIGH

DETROIT—Chief Engineer T. P. Chase of the King Motor Car company, has added another Lookout mountain on high gear record to his string. This time Engineer Chase piloted an eight cylinder King over Lookout mountain, California. He already holds a record for taking a King over Lookout mountain in Colorado on the high gear. His friends look for him doing the same thing on Lookout mountain in Tennessee.

The King's chief engineer went to California to rest after the long hard grueling trip he made with the seven passenger eight cylinder King when he was in the experimental stage. King distributors in California, backed Mr. Chase to see things that are called hard for an automobile to do in their territory.

In Los Angeles they have a hill known as Grand avenue. Motorists get a good fast start, exceeding the speed limit, to make this grade. As a result the police have become active. Mr. Chase was able to pilot a King up this hill on the high gear within the speed limit and to bring the car half way up the hill, stop it and then start off in high gear and complete the climb.

His record for hard work on Lookout mountain in Colorado, had preceded him to the coast and he was taken over Lookout mountain, California, which is outside of Hollywood.

"Trips of this kind for engineers are highly beneficial," declares Mr. Chase. "I made my vacation trip one of business and pleasure for I had a good time and my work was restful. We get to know what the public demands in motor cars in certain sections and in building cars we can conform our specifications accordingly. Each section of the country has something different. In California a car is called upon to show power and the driver takes a great deal of pride in what their cars can do with the control lever in high."

"It is possible that I will start one of my experimental crews out on an overland trip. I will accompany this car, if it pleases which I have under way. The King Motor Car Co. is anxious at all times to be in the foreground and I realize fully that the best testing ground in the country is in that section where the rivers flow west."

SATURDAY NIGHT OF FUN AT THE AUTO SHOW

A CARNIVAL, resembling a Mardi Gras celebration on a big night at Coney Island will close the auto show Saturday evening. The horns and serpents, streamers will be very much in evidence and the young folks will put forth their best endeavors to draw the attention of the throngs of Bill Wagner's melodious voice. Most people who have attended the auto show have discovered that "Bill" is the chief entertainer of the show. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that Bill made the first sale of the show—he sold a package of chewing gum to Frank Magel.

"Pick that Box," the famous clown from Barnum & Bailey's circus, will be there "with bells on," and help to make things lively.

The young people are welcoming this opportunity to assert themselves and are planning to show that they appreciate having the first hours of the big show set apart for their special benefit.

SUPER-SIX FULFILLS ALL CLAIMS

"As is always the case when a popular discovery is placed before the world, the new Hudson Super-Six, with its powerful patented motor, has been an absorbing topic of discussion from one end of the country to the other. That is true not only among automobile engineers, who long have known a six with vibration eliminated by the ideal motor, but among automobile buyers and auto owners, says Edw. S. Johnson, local distributor.

"The bombardment of admiration and questions that began at the New York automobile show, where the Super-Six made its debut, has continued ever since. How is this great motor obtained? What is the object of such a powerful motor? How does it compare with an eight or twelve? These are a hundred such questions or minor inquiries were asked at the recent big shows. Those who already have purchased a Super-Six say the car itself answers every possible question by its sterling performance. It is doing in the hands of owners everything that the company claimed for it.

"The company has emphatically emphasized the fact that there is nothing experimental about the Super-Six. It is a hundred per cent a practical system of balance. It is identical with the light, simple and familiar type of construction of the Hudson six-cylinder motor of the past. Its balance is in the newly-discovered and patented system of balance. It is identical in a new way the forces that manifest themselves within the motor in such a manner as to eliminate power waste (vibration and crank shaft distortion and the friction and loss of power they cause) which result from such forces, the efficiency of the motor has been increased 50 per cent. The motor speed is increased 50 per cent. Through this discovery and invention, on which a basic patent has been granted by the United States, the Super-Six motor develops 76 horsepower, as compared with 42 horsepower in the last year's Hudson Six, though they are identical as to the size. The Super-Six is the highest powered stock car ever made, and the only one of its kind in the world has known."

NEW HEALTH RULINGS CAUSE MUCH COMMENT

State Sanitary Inspector White Issues Statement of Rules Governing Ice and Drugs.

Twin Falls people are discussing the ruling of State Sanitary Inspector White, made public Saturday, that all ice sold must be plainly branded to show whether it is a natural or artificial product, and the opinion frequently expressed that it is fortunate that a modern ice plant, operated by the Lincoln Produce company, and large enough to accommodate the demands of all those who use ice, is located in this city. The ruling of Inspector White is supplemental to a previous ruling by the state board of health that natural ice should be used for cooling purposes only, and was elicited by complaints that a Boise firm was selling natural ice without branding it as such.

The story of the issuance of this ruling and of one relating to misbranded foods and drugs in general was told in the Statesman Saturday as follows: "New movements are being launched this week by State Sanitary Inspector J. K. White. The first deals with the practice of certain firms in retailing ice without showing plainly whether the product is artificial or natural. On Friday a number of calls were sent in to the sanitary inspector's office concerning a local ice company which is said to be selling ice without having any notice for patrons as to whether the ice is natural or artificial.

"A ruling of the state board of health demands that natural ice be used for cooling purposes alone. Some firms that get ice from the river or from lakes and ponds have been notified that they must clearly show patrons that their ice is not artificial. Only artificial ice may be used in direct contact with foods and drinks.

"The other movement is against the proper advertisement of patent medicines.

"According to Inspector White, the United States supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the Sherman amendment to the food and drugs act, which has to do with advertising and which may be false or misleading in any particular. In a recent decision the federal supreme court held that a certain medicine was falsely labeled; that the claim that it is effective as a preventative for pneumonia, or the statement 'We cure it has cured and that it will cure tuberculosis,' are false and misleading."

TIMES SPECIALS LATEST NEWS.
THE TIMES special still continues to give the latest news every morning. Information not to be found in Boise and Salt Lake papers arriving hours later. Today's special reports that Villa is said to be 60 miles ahead of American troops and fleeing, unharmed, to old Spanish ground; that General Pershing's forces have had another brush with the bandits' forces; that 10 were killed and 21 were wounded in Zeppelin raids in Scotland; that the French retook some trenches captured by the Germans, while the latter occupied some abandoned by the French; that the Russians and Germans are still fighting on the east front, and that the Cummins amendment to the army bill, permitting the creation of a national guard section of the general staff, had been adopted.

A. W. OSTROM CHOSEN

FOR PROBATE JUDGE

Commissioners Act Informally Saturday—John Kosarek Also Candidate, Ostrom Will Accept.

Arthur W. Ostrom was selected for probate judge Saturday afternoon by the board of county commissioners, though his formal election did not take place on that day, as the resignation of Judge Jacobus was not on file. Mr. Ostrom, who was in the city, stated that he would accept the position. He has been a resident of Buhl for several years and has been actively connected with the Democratic party. He is an attorney. The formal resignation and appointment will take place Thursday, it is understood.

A petition signed largely by Buhl people was presented in behalf of Mr. Ostrom. Another large petition in favor of John Kosarek was before the body.

The commissioners created a hard law district between Murtaugh and Hansen and adjourned. A delegation from Hansen and from the north side met in the city in regard to the Hansen bridge and conferred with Commissioner Allbee, but no action was taken in regard to the matter.

SHORT LINE BUSINESS MUCH

BETTER THAN LAST SPRING

That the Twin Falls business of the Oregon Short Line has increased greatly since last spring is the statement of Station Agent D. E. Sullivan, who says that it amounts from day to day from 25 to 50 per cent more than it did a year ago. Although the fall has always been far better than the spring heretofore, the total business last month was about equal to that of the best month in the history of the city.

COMMERCIAL CLUB RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

We gave us great pleasure to assist in securing two domestic water for neighbors on the Salmon tract in case of need.
The annual potato breakfast at the Ferguson cafe was largely attended and was said to be the best ever.
We had something to do with Payson and the present auto show.
The child, first endorsed by the Ladiesbythe Merchants' association and the selection of Boyd H. Fulmer as champion, and we fully realized that no mistake was made in this.
We have put in motion and arranged a Frank H. Buhl Monument that will very soon become active, only waiting for approval by Mrs. Buhl of the photograph we have and wish to use as copy for the bronze statue we purpose erecting in the court house grounds.

The association of all of the commercial bodies in central southern Idaho was started in our rooms, and seems destined to be our best advertising medium, as it is working out plans for exhibits of our products where they will do the most good.
We became members of the United States Chamber of Commerce, thus becoming affiliated with about 800 of the strong commercial organizations of the nation.

Last, but not least, is the club's undertaking to look after the entertaining features of the Republican convention, consisting of 612 delegates.
Our rooms have been used by all classes of the community, from the council chamber of the city to the Hordors' association.
While this is just an outline of the larger events, there are innumerable things coming up daily that could not well be handled through any other source, all tending to give and maintain Twin Falls' good name and convincing us that the Commercial club is worth while.

ISSUES WARNING ON PAPER SHORTAGE

Advances on All Lines of Paper Nearly Twenty-five Per Cent—Dollies Uncertain.

The United States department of commerce suggests that old paper, rags and other material used in the manufacture of paper be collected and used again and again in order to relieve conditions which are greatly inconveniencing industry and causing a rapid increase in prices. The appreciation of the price of paper can be illustrated by the fact that the shipment of more than 20 tons of paper recently received by THE TIMES has increased in value more than $200 in the last two weeks, while bond paper and envelopes have gone up 25 per cent in the same time. Those newspapers throughout the country who failed to anticipate the shortage of supply and that their orders will be seriously delayed through inability to secure stock.

The following is the text of the notice sent out by the government:
"The attention of the department of commerce is called by the president of a large paper manufacturing company, to the fact that there is a serious shortage of raw materials for the manufacture of paper, including rags and old papers. He urges that the department should make it known that the collecting and saving of rags and old papers would greatly better existing conditions for American manufacturers."

"Something like 15,000 tons of different kinds of paper and paper board are manufactured every day in the United States and a large proportion of this, after it has served its purpose, could be used over again in some class of paper. A large part of it, however, is either burned or otherwise wasted. It is of course, true, to be replaced by new materials. In the early history of the paper industry publicity was given to the importance of saving rags and old papers, but of late importance now. The department of commerce is glad to bring this matter to the attention of the public in the hope that practical results may flow from it. A little attention to the saving of rags and old papers will mean genuine relief to our paper industry and a diminishing drain upon our source of supply of new materials."

FLAG DAY FOR BELGIAN RELIEF.
The national society of Daughters of the American Revolution is co-operating with the Belgian relief commission in the establishing of Saturday, April 8, as Flag day, this being the anniversary of King Albert's birth. One hundred small flags have been sent to D. A. R. members in this city to be sold and can be found at Packard's newsstand. The cost is 7 cents; Seven cents provides a day's food for one Belgian.

The following is a part of the letter from the president general of the D. A. R. and explains the object of the celebration:
"It is hoped that all will wear their flags over Sunday, the 9th, and that the churches generally will on that day give their aid to this cause. You could make it a personal matter to see that your own church lends its aid and also that other churches which may not have any D. A. R. members are given an opportunity to render service as well, it would be a great help to the cause which we believe is so deserving. The amount received will be used for both food and clothing. I believe this is a great opportunity to perform a valuable service to humanity and to uphold the honor and dignity of our flag. We are called upon by these stricken people to be kind and show us a great, rich, neutral nation, refuse?"
The commission has undertaken the expense of organizing the day and ask us only for service. Can we not give it with a will and in God's name? Faithfully yours,

"DAISY ALEN STORY,
President General National Society Daughters of the American Revolution."

BOY SCOUTS—GOOD WORK.

The search made by the Boy Scouts today for the missing body of Lulu Frakes brought forth many words of praise from the people of the city in general. The scouts worked systematically as soon as they went on the job. The whole search was conducted in an orderly manner, both by the boys and the grown people. Delegations of men scoured every alley and looked into every vacant dwelling and barn. A statement that the girl had made years ago in a light vein to her relatives to the effect that if she ever committed suicide they would never find her body made many think that the body would never be found.

—dollar for dollar, you get the BIGGEST value in a Studebaker

The Studebaker SUPERIORITY in value is so self-evident that all we want any man to do is to make comparisons—to set the Studebaker cars, either one of them, down side by side with any other cars on the market and go over them point for point.

—judge for yourself

Here, for example, is a list of the essentials on which to base comparisons. Go over them in detail—then, judge.

- POWER: a big 3 1/2-inch bore x 5-inch stroke motor that develops FORTY h. p. in the Four and FIFTY h. p. in the SIX.
- ROOM: big, roomy, inviting bodies built for SEVEN passengers' comfort.
- SIZE: 112-inch wheelbase in the Four and 122-inch wheelbase in the Six—enough to insure riding comfort but not too long a car to drive easily.
- Upholstery of the finest, straight-grain, semi-glazed leather.
- Finish put on with 25 body-finishing operations.
- DIVIDED and adjustable front seats, with completely disappearing seats in tonneau.
- Tank in rear with Stewart Vacuum Feed.
- Overlapping, storm-proof windshield.
- More handily arranged instruments on dash, indirectly lighted.
- The simplest and most reliable Electric lighting and starting systems, proved on nearly 200,000 Studebakers.
- Ample-size, equalized brakes and FULL-floating rear axle with complete Timken bearing equipment.

And what other car offers you as much, dollar for dollar of the price you pay? See these GREAT Studebakers here.
