

TWIN FALLS TRACT GARDEN OF EDEN

Gov. Alexander Tells of What He Saw on Recent Trip

BENTONS PRAISE ON COUNTRY AND ON ALL THE TOWNS.

Declares That Language Is Inadequate
To Do Justice To City of Twin Falls.

"The Twin Falls tract is the 'Garden of Eden' in the opinion of Governor Alexander, who is back from a three-day trip over that most remarkable section of the state, says the Capital News. In an interview the governor told of the rapid growth of that section of the state. He said:

"Have I been to the Twin Falls tract? Well, you may call it the Twin Falls tract, but I have been to the Garden of Eden. If you do not believe it, go down yourself and look it over and you will find a good deal more than I do. Besides that, if you want to see real Democratic prosperity, unexcelled and in full swing, go to the Garden of Eden of Idaho and you will have no doubts about it. If you want to see a bunch of boosters, men, women and children, go to the Garden of Eden. I have named it, and you will find it."

"I went to Twin Falls Thursday morning and took a car and went to Kimberly. It does a perfect good to go down and see Kimberly. They are doing more substantial building than any other town of the state. It is a fact, up-to-date in all ways, and the buildings will all be completed this fall. There is not a doubt but the population will double in the next year. The business blocks in construction are from 50 to 100 feet frontage of concrete, steel, pressed brick and division walls of hollow tile. In fact, up-to-date in every way. Everyone in town is working energetically and just think, the place is only five miles from Twin Falls."

"On the surrounding farms, plowing and seeding is being done and the orchards are being sprayed, and everyone is doing his best to get the spirit of activity in the air. I did not see any idle men and everyone is talking $150 per acre and one fine brick block, and there is now under contemplation the construction of a $400,000 high school building. There are more than 100 head of cattle from off their lands. Alfalfa and clover seed has been a source of revenue and cattle, hogs and sheep are prosperous industries of the tract, and that best of all basis of wealth, industry, is making the people wealthy for there are no failures of crops in the fall. It is now in the spring and ready to sow in the spring and reap their harvest in the proper season. Now can there be any shortage of water on that tract where they have to do to raise the headgates and let the water of Snake river, when never short, run into the canal to carry it to the different parts of the tract, so that all there is to it."

"Every home from Kimberly to Buhl presents the same picture of investment. There are up-to-date cottages to palatial homes. You feel like you are in a new world when on that tract and I came back feeling like a rich man in the possession of vast land I own in Idaho. It was an inspiration."

"Thursday night I attended a Jeffersonian banquet at Twin Falls, provided for by L. F. Hanson of Hansen, an old pioneer. We talked a little politics and local prosperity and good fellowship at the banquet and everyone had a most enjoyable time. I beg to be excused about speaking of Twin Falls. It would take a wonderful tongue that mine to recount the many good points and conditions of that magic city of the west. As ever, it is prosperous and busy, building and increasing in population since last year, in fact, about doubled. The civic pride of the town is the highest. The ladies of the town have started parking."

"They are putting up a sugar factory across two miles from town and hundreds of acres of land are being prepared for the raising of the sugar beets."

"Also went to Filer by automobile and found a great deal of completed buildings there and a wonderful increase in population since last year, in fact, about doubled. The civic pride of the town is the highest. The ladies of the town have started parking."

MANY ATTEND OLIVER.
MEETINGS IN BUIL SUNDAY
A large number of the Oliver services in Buhl Sunday afternoon and evening, the total number present from this city being about 75. The service was up to the highest standard maintained by the company while in this city. The vaudeville was a success and many conversations were reported.

Following the close of the services in Buhl, Dr. Oliver and his party will hold a meeting in Filer.

KIMBERLY TO HAVE BIG M. E. CHURCH

Present Structure to Be Enlarged and Improved

PEOPLE TURNED AWAY DAILY AT BOTH OF THE SERVICES.

Most of the Money Raised Sunday and Rest Expected by 10 o'clock Thursday Night.

Finding their fine church wholly inadequate to accommodate the church and growing congregation, the Methodist of Kimberly determined Sunday to start a campaign to be waged until Thursday night at 10 o'clock to build the necessary additions and make the required improvements for the taking care of the increased attendance. There were 100 new members admitted Sunday. For several Sundays standing-room has all been occupied, and it was necessary to turn people away at the different services. Under such conditions, Rev. A. Stewart, who has been pastor in the town for the past five months and who has been working assiduously for the upbuilding of the church since his arrival, consulted with members of the congregation and decided to put up the proposition to build the required additions. It was deemed necessary to raise $2500. Of this sum, $1500 was secured on the spot, leaving only $1000 to be raised, and no difficulty is anticipated in securing all that is needed. The improvements contemplated are the raising of the present church 25 inches, the erection of a large addition and a study, the installation of a modern heating system in a basement which shall be constructed under the entire building, and complete furnishing of the reconstructed edifice with new pews, organ, etc. It is planned to make it one of the most commodious and comfortable churches in any town in the state outside the larger city, and not second to any of them in the matter of convenience. There will be sidewalks on all sides and other outside improvements.

Since Rev. Mr. Stewart took the pastoral charge a few months ago the Sunday school has increased from 60 to 101 and all branches of church work have shown a marked degree of advancement and activity.

The committee in charge of raising the funds and pushing the work of reconstruction, are R. T. Newberry, J. W. Hardin, William Van Houten and wife, Carl Wright, J. E. Hattery, John Taylor, W. E. Lewis, W. Combs and J. H. Hattery.

This improvement will add much to Kimberly, which has now a dozen brick storehouses and many residences in course of construction.

BOY SCOUTS GET MANY OLD BOOKS SATURDAY

Only One-Half Quantity Wanted Is Received and a Further Campaign Will Be Made.

The campaign for old books, magazines and the like by the boy scouts last Saturday resulted in getting together about 15,000 pounds, or nearly half of the amount required. Many who promised did not have the books prepared. The boys are determined to try to raise the rest by next Saturday night if possible. They desire to have anyone who has anything of the kind to telephone to R. L. McVicar, scoutmaster, at telephone 14, and the boys will go after them.

LOCAL MEN HELD UP BY LONE THIEF

W. B. Amshary and H. E. Failing
Have Exciting Experience.

AMSHARY'S PRESENCE OF MIND
DISCONCERTS THIEF.

Lone Highwayman Who Made Good
Warning Had Plans Blocked by a Locked Pullman.

H. E. Failing and W. B. Amshary were among the passengers held up on the Union Pacific train, No. 21, near Laramie, Wyo., on the evening of April 21, the latter contributing $4.50 to the thief. "Shorty" after supper he went to the story this way:

"The robber, as the dispatches show, was the man who previously robbed two trains, one of them No. 1, on the Union Pacific a short time ago. When he robbed No. 1, he stole a watch and chain from a California man and later sent the chain to Denver, with a letter, in which he said that he would rob another Union Pacific train about April 20, and would on that occasion return the watch to the guard."

"He got on the train at Greeley, Colo., and rode all day, attracting no attention. Shortly after supper he went into the observation car several times, returning to the Pullman each time, evidently waiting for the guard, who got on at Laramie, to get in the place he wanted him. Finally, a little after 8 o'clock, he found the guard in the rear of the observation car and made him throw up his hands. Then he made the guard 'dig up' and made him take the contributions from the passengers. The conductor felt completely promptly, but a shot over his head made him put up his hands. Mr. Amshary started for the observation car and as he turned the corner the thief shouted 'Hands up, there!' Amshary threw up his hands, but as soon as the robber turned his head he suddenly emerged from behind the train and hid himself in the brush. Amshary then went to the front of the train and hid his pocketbook, after which he went back to see what was going on. Before he knew it, he again ran upon the thief, who held him up and demanded his money. Amshary was not at all deterred, but explained what he had done with his pocketbook. In the meantime the passengers in the Pullman, where I was, had locked the door and prepared for a defense. When the robber came to the locked door he did not try to break it, but waited to slip up and steal it. Before going, the robber gave the guard the watch that in his letter he had promised to return. Not only about $400 from the passengers."

"It is said that a confederate had been hiding in the brush for about 30 miles further on, on which he hoped to escape, but the locked doors disconcerted his plans. Posses came out after him from all directions and he was captured a short time later."

BAPTIST TO BUILD A $25,000 CHURCH

Sell Present Building to L. D.
S. Church for $3,000

NEW STRUCTURE WILL BE ERECTED ON SIXTH AND SHOSHONE.

Will Be 65 by 100 Feet and Will Seat
200—Presbyterians and Methodists
Expect to Build.

The Baptists have sold their church and its site to the L. D. S. church of this city and will shortly begin the construction of a $25,000 edifice on the corner of Sixth avenue and Shoshone street. They will give possession of the property sold on August 1 and expect to have their new church ready for occupancy by that time, at least to the extent of serving their purposes during the period of completion. Several contractors are figuring on the building, which will be 65 by 100 feet in size and will seat 200 people. The vote for building was unanimous.

The Methodists and Presbyterians have not yet finally decided on what they will do. The Presbyterians are figuring with parties looking to the sale of their property, but no bargain has yet been struck.

LITTLE GIRL BADLY HURT BY AN AUTO

Helom Johnston, Five Years Old, Carried Under Rear Wheel of Machine
In Recovering.

Run over by the automobile of C. D. Channel, near her home last Friday evening, little five-year-old Helen Johnston was carried by the car and as she ran out she did not notice the approaching Channel machine, and she suddenly emerged from behind the Baker auto. Channel tried to swerve his auto and succeeded in getting the front wheels over her, but she was running with such momentum that she could not stop herself until she struck the machine and was carried beneath the rear wheel, which ran over her breast. Nobody was to blame for the accident. The little girl has always been extremely cautious and no doubt was confused by the presence of the standing auto.

PRISONERS BREAK JAIL AND ESCAPE

Two-Liquor Vendors Shove Bars
From Cell Sunday.

CLIMB FROM ROOF INTO COURT-HOUSE THROUGH KITCHEN.

Both Were Waiting Trial on Federal Charge for Violation of Liquor Laws.

A daring escape from the county jail was made Sunday afternoon by C. N. Jowers and James Beckwith, two prisoners awaiting transference to a federal prison on a charge of importing liquor into dry territory in violation of the law. Shoving the iron bars away from the windows of their cell, they went around behind the blind wall to the kitchen and then out the stairs and walked away to liberty. The men were confined in a cell with W. Walters, who is awaiting trial, and were let out of the cage into the body of their cell during the daytime. There are heavy iron windows on the cell leading out to the alley, which runs around the building between the blind wall and the main structure, but those are so tightly fastened that a vigorous push could shove any one of them out. They appear to be firmly fastened with steel plates extending about a foot on each side, and the men were covered with mortar, but since the mortar has dried it serves only to give an appearance of things and holds the prisoners by looking bars in place when there is no strong pressure on them. The prisoners evidently discovered or suspected that they shovelled out the bars on the side facing the high school by climbing up on top of the steel cage in the center and pushing the bars out. This let them out into the alley.

They were in their cell at 2 o'clock, when Deputy Sheriff W. G. Thompson opened the door, with Sheriff Middleton of Billings, Mont., to take out a prisoner named J. Bowers, who was wanted in Montana. As he checked Bowers and Walters, who Sheriff Kendall made one of his frequent rounds of inspection, Jowers and Beckwith were gone. Walters is reticent in regard to what happened.

The men, on getting out into the blind-alley, evidently followed it around to the kitchen of the sheriff's office and waited until the kitchen was empty. Mrs. Kendall was in the kitchen most of the afternoon, but was absent for about half an hour writing a letter. She heard no noise whatever. When the prisoners had once escaped from the kitchen into the court, they had a little further to go to get to the street. They were deserted on Sunday, except when the officers make the rounds to see that the prisoners are in their proper places. The men saw a way to walk casually out on the street and go. As soon as the flight was discovered, great officers were sent to capture the fugitives. All sorts of wild rumors were current in a short time, and it seemed as if every man in town was on the alert. The officers have a description of the men was given that he had seen two men who looked just like them hurrying some place in the afternoon. A large number of men on such reports, only to find that in every case the informant had drawn on his imagination.

The officers have been kept busy since the escape. They have been looking for the men, but have not yet been able to locate them. The men are believed to be in the vicinity of Boise.

REPUBLICANS END STATE CONVENTION

Large Gathering Hurries Through
Work and Adjourns

LIST OF DELEGATES, PREDICTED
ARE SELECTED FOR CHICAGO.

No Reference to Germany in Resolutions
Denouncing Foreign Policy of Wilson.

The Republican convention adjourned at 6:00 o'clock Thursday, just after an hour and a half, was called to order by Former Governor Gooding and the prayer offered by Rev. B. C. Miller of the Twin Falls Baptist church. Although a great part of the time was taken up in recesses, there were several stirring speeches delivered, and the delegates were urged to remain another day as guests of the city and to spend the night at the evening train.

The convention came to order at 2:30 in the afternoon after the noon recess. In the afternoon as in the morning, the delegates went to the hall under the great "Welcome" arch by a band, the Twin Falls musical organization furnishing the martial music. Fred S. Randall, whose excellent fitness in the morning presented his continuing his duties in the chair as temporary chairman, was recommended for permanent chairman by the committee on order of business, which also recommended that D. E. Burrell, the temporary secretary, be named the permanent secretary. The report was adopted.

The reading of an original poem by Burrell, which was read at the evening train, was a most interesting and original feature of the convention. There were all sorts of hits at the Democrats, including several at Moses, a tribute to Senator Hart and a reference to Roosevelt, which set the majority of the delegates wild and the room in a state of confusion. The speaker, a large number of Democrats, joined in the applause which frequently interrupted the speaker.

reception given to them, and the resolutions relative to that subject seem to have exactly expressed the sentiments of all.

The resolutions adopted by the convention follow:

"The Republicans of Idaho in state convention assembled at the city of Twin Falls, on the twentieth day of April, 1916, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Republican national convention, which convenes at Chicago on the seventh day of June, 1916; take this occasion to call the attention of the people of this state to the fact that never before in the history of our country has our national prestige fallen to so low a state and our affairs at home been managed with such deplorable incompetency as has been witnessed by the American people of the fall and unreflected Democratic control of the government. It has been a record of unparalleled incapacity, dishonesty and shame. Our men and women have been murdered, wounded and robbed both in Mexico and within the boundaries of the United States, and denied the protection of the stars and stripes by the Democratic president and servile congress. The honor of our government and the lives and rights of American citizens have been trampled under the feet of Mexican bandits. Our rights as a neutral nation have been outraged contrary to all international law, and nothing has been done by the present Democratic administration, except the preparation and delivery of notes of apology which have successfully retracted each position taken by our government. Our rights to the open door in China, which were firmly established by the McKinley administration, are being taken away from us by the Japanese government, and without a word of protest. Every consideration of public safety and honor demands that the government shall be rescued from the hands of the Democratic party, which has shown itself incapable to conduct it, and we congratulate the people of these United States upon the certain return to power of the Republican party.

"We view with satisfaction the changes of condition and thought, which have operated to re-unite our own great and useful party, and the work now necessary to it to do.

"We send hearty greeting to all our representatives in congress, and fully appreciate the able and faithful efforts made by them in behalf of the best interests of the state of Idaho.

"We congratulate Senator Brady upon the rapid improvement of his health and express it as the earnest wish of the people of Idaho that he may speedily be in possession of his usual vigor.

"We send greetings to our senior senator, whose wisdom has ever sought, for this nation, that course which will command honor and respect among the nations of the earth, whose firmness has never relaxed in support of the brand principles of government which Washington, Hamilton and Lincoln inaugurated and sustained among the governments of civilized people, and whose foresight, amid the dark clouds of international conflict, has ever seen clearly the way to humanity, independence and self respect, to William E. Borah, senator and statesman, who, with the firm grip of loyalty, the friendship of a grateful people.

"Confident in the history of our great party, and that our domestic and foreign policies should be at all times firm, vigorous and dignified, we feel assured that the coming election will bring victory to the Republican party and prosperity to the American people.

"Resolved, that we extend to the city of Twin Falls our hearty thanks for the generous manner in which the Republican state convention has been entertained, and congratulate the city and country of Twin Falls on its steady growth and development, and the enterprise of its citizens.

"We extend the thanks of the convention to the Twin Falls Commercial club for their untiring efforts and co-operation in entertaining the convention.

"We further especially extend the thanks of the convention to the Boy Scouts of Twin Falls, who have in their many and generous manner assisted in making our sojourn in Twin Falls a pleasure."

The delegates are: United States Senator, E. B. Borah, United States Senator James H. Brady, Postoffice, James F. Allshie, Grangeville; E. R. Whittle, Coeur d'Alene; Stanley Easton, Walla Walla; E. E. Hewes, Nampa; Fred W. Gooding, Shoshone; John W. Hart, Mullan.

The alternates elected, ranking in alphabetical order: H. C. Baldridge, Parma; R. C. Beach, Lewiston; Ezra Burrell, Montpelier; C. F. Koelsch, Boise; W. E. Lee, Moscow; J. B. Rockwell, Delmar; J. E. Thomas, Blackfoot; Oates M. Van Tassel, Idaho Falls.

RUPERT POSTOFFICE MOVES TO SECOND CLASS RANK
RUPERT, Ida.—That the Rupert postoffice soon will be in the second class, is indicated by receipts for the first quarter of 1916, in the postal department, which shows an increase of 41 per cent over the same quarter last year, says the Pioneer-Record of Rupert. The business done in 1915 was $1,753.17, as compared with $2,571.16 for the first quarter of 1916. The classification for a second class office is $2,000.00, while at the rate of the first quarter over $10,000 worth of business will be done this fiscal year.

The money order department also shows an increase of 40 per cent. The business for the first quarter of 1915 was $5,612.91, as compared with $8,679.16 for the same quarter in 1916, making an increase of $2,566.25.

Post office business in the past indication of the growth and activity of a town, and the substantial gains showed at the post office are concrete evidence of the progression of business life. Where the postoffice receipts remain the same, or waver there is a decrease from the previous year, the town will be found to be "dead."

WATER MEASUREMENT TO BE MADE BY NORTH SIDE

The Twin Falls-North Side Land and Water company will this season employ hydrographers to keep an accurate record of the water deliveries, says the North Side News. An office will be recorded and tabulate the data turned in.

Their measurements will show how much water is diverted to the canal. First place, how much at each lateral, how much at each company and settler headgate, etc., how much at the outlet and any other data that will show by actual measurements the amount of water received, how it was distributed and what became of it.

BIG ARMY BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

A Million Men in the Army and Reserve Forces Should Senate Bill Be Enacted.

WASHINGTON.—An army reorganization bill that would produce regular army and reserve military forces in the United States aggregating 1,000,000 men, was passed by the senate without a record vote. On the eve of the adjournment of the houses of congress to hear a message from the president on grave international issues, amid scenes of excitement.

The amendment making the army's strength 250,000 instead of 180,000, as provided in the bill as framed by the military committee, was adopted 43 to 37, twenty-two Republicans and twenty-one Democrats voting for it. A proposal to make the figure 150,000 previously had been rejected 56 to 13. A peace attempt of only 140,000 is provided for the army bill passed by the house and a sharp contest over that feature is looked for in conference.

Another amendment adopted would create a reserve regular army force in time of war to be composed of school and college youth, and to provide a means of recalling the proposed volunteer army force.

Senator Hardwick's amendment provides for military instruction by commissioned army officers under direction of the secretary of war in every school and college in the United States having 100 or more male students over 16 years old, when authorities of such schools apply for such instruction and the requisite number of students agree to accept the training to become part of the reserve force of the army of the nation. Application for training would be purely voluntary, but all students over 18 years of age receiving training would be subject to a call to the colors by the president in time of war or threatened war during their training term.

Upon motion of Senator Thomas an amendment was adopted making an armed officer for civilians with certain exceptions to wear an army uniform or to refuse admittance to public places of entertainment to enlisted men in uniform. An other amendment adopted would require adjutant general of the national guard to be residents of the state or territory for which appointed.

GOODING COLLEGE SUCCEEDS IN RAISING BUILDING FUND

GOODING, Ida.—The campaign to raise $400,000 for the building fund of the college is being brought to a successful close. It also announced that building operations would begin in June, and that the cornerstone would be laid during the first week in September.

Trustees and campaign committee of the college extend thanks and appreciation to all churches and pastors which helped them in raising the necessary money, but there still remains $100,000 of which the institution is greatly in need.

It is the purpose of the trustees to make the college one of the most clean-cut denominational institutions in the west, and their message, as they begin the battle, is: "Whatever happens, there will be no turning back."

REPUBLICAN SHIP AT SEA.

The present state of political uncertainty was never better illustrated than by the entire course of the Idaho Republican convention in this last week. Inconsistencies, incongruities, and absurdities are manifested in all sorts of political gatherings. There will always be men who see the nation facing ruin, either of the terrible sort depicted by Colonel Thomas Hamer or some other brand, that is, "just as good." There will always be contradictory statements made by different orators, showing as wide a divergence as existed between the assertion of Frank S. Randall that the Underwood tariff law had eliminated all protective features, and was purely a revenue measure, and the statement of Peter G. Johnson, borrowed verbatim from the old time Democratic campaign books. Under the present tariff the rights of the producers are disregarded and they are compelled to sell in a free trade market and buy in a protected market. But while these more or less immaterial differences signified little in themselves, yet taken in connection with the atmosphere of the whole convention they showed that neither the delegates nor the leaders knew where they were at. Much was made of the reunion of a "disunited Republican party," a phrase more frequently used than any other by the convention orators. But in what the chastening consisted beyond the loss of offices there was not the slightest indication. Whatever the cause of the division three years ago it was, so far as the masses of the Republican party were concerned, a move toward social justice, so great that it even overshadowed the powerful personality of Theodore Roosevelt. "The contract with the people" was accepted in good faith by the millions of voters that cast their ballots for the standard bearers of the Progressive party. What has become of the long list of reforms enacted in that famous disunited document? Have they been enacted into law? If so, surely the Democratic party is entitled to the credit. Has the party in power failed to enact them? If so, those great and necessary changes have not yet been made and the Republican party which proposes to swallow whole another organization larger than itself should incorporate them and make them "flesh of its flesh and bone of its bone." Has it done this? If the reforms demanded by the Progressive party are still left unmet, surely the alleged deplorable conditions of which much was made at the convention must in a measure be due to the failure of Democracy to carry out the Progressive's "Contract With the People," and the first plank of a platform designed to win the support of the Progressives ought to be in the nature of an indictment of the Democratic party for failing to make the Progressive platform its own and a demand for the speedy crystallization and incorporation of the long program of constructive legislation demanded by that organization into specific statutes.

Did anyone advocate this? Not at all. The only positive reference to specific planks in the several addresses consisted in the celebration of Colonel Hamer that President Wilson had changed his mind on two issues and was now standing positively behind the plank of the high platform demand for preparedness and the demand for a tariff commission. Which raises the question: "What has become of the rest of the Republican platform of 1912?"

The lack of captain or rudder was manifest from the first. This does not mean that Senator Hart, and other leaders did not have a program and carry it out, for they did. But this program was itself a matter of immaterial detail and consisted in the getting through of a platform that was simply one of denunciation and generalities; and the election of a set of untried delegates, bound to neither man nor principle, so that they could trim to every passing breeze the sails of the Republican ship which Senator Rockwell so eloquently described as just putting to sea. The convention indicated that she was at anchor.

Take our foreign policy for instance. This was denounced in the strongest terms by Colonel Hamer and the resolutions, with this difference that the orator denounced our policy toward Germany more strenuously than he did our Mexican policy, while the platform said not a word about Germany and confined itself to a sweeping denunciation of the attitude of the administration toward Mexico. Though naturally and perfunctorily denied by leaders in the convention, there is no reason to doubt that the platform was at least rough hewn by the Idaho delegation at Washington and that it originally contained a scathing arraignment of our German policy, of which the publication of President Wilson's message to that country on the day before the convention compelled the delegates. Thus even the strongest plank in the platform was on the stage bearing evidence of mutilation.

Perhaps it was well. For on the same day that Colonel Hamer was upbraiding the national administration for failure to go far enough with Germany, Senator Lodge was telling the senate that President Wilson was pursuing the right policy toward that country and Republican Leader Mann and Senator Gallinger were denouncing him for going too far. Perhaps more chilling to the ultra warlike would have been the news carried in the dispatches of the same day that the Republican voters of Nebraska had in their primary probably joined Michigan and instructed their delegation to vote for Henry Ford for presidential nomination on an anti-war and anti-militarist platform.

Whatever hopes office-seekers, always a sanguine people, may have in leaving the Progressive and joining the Republican party at this time, it is hard to see where the members of that organization can hope to gain anything by affiliating with a party without a word about enacting into law a single measure declared by their platform to have been essential, and whose principal orator declared that unless a political despot can be found who will boss the whole party (and that boss not even Colonel Roosevelt) its case is hopeless and it had better "get behind the breastworks and run up the milk white flag." The deletion of every essential principle of progressivism and the enunciation of a boss must be an inviting program for sincere Progressives who fought for principle and who denounced all bosses.

THE PRESIDENT'S ULTIMATUM.

The president's note to Germany advising that our relations with that country would be severed unless immediate assurances were forthcoming of an abandonment of Germany's atrocious submarine activity, is the logical development of the plan which has been following since the beginning of the war, and places him alongside of McKinley and Madison as a man who will do much for peace and who is willing to accept the plight of a great nation until it becomes apparent that there is no longer reasonable justification for doing so; but who, rather than sacrifice upon the altar of reticence, barbarism, everything that pertains to civilization, will risk war with Madison and McKinley were denounced as cowards because they would not hasten into an armed conflict, one with England and the other with Spain. It was the irony of fate that both were forced into war after diplomatic victories had been secured.

Friends of France denounced President Washington as a coward for not going to war with England during the period of the French Revolution. We were brought nearer to war with France under John Adams than we seem to be with Germany now; naval battles were actually fought, and Washington placed at the head of an army of defense. Abraham Lincoln was loudly censured at the beginning of the civil war for waiting for six weeks after he took office to call on volunteers and for acting only after the attack on Fort Sumpter. Lincoln, like Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, McKinley and Wilson, entered war only when he saw that we must fight if our ideals were to be maintained.

Germany has made many promises relative to amending its policy of submarine warfare, and has offered many excuses. As a nation which had ever maintained friendly relations with the United States there was nothing to do but to give her the benefit of every reasonable doubt. To have done otherwise would have violated the principles of both law and justice.

President Wilson has now acted. That his attitude would be exactly what it is was what all who have studied his whole career should and did expect. That he shall suffer condemnation from the radical war party on one hand and from the radical peace party on the other, is to be expected.

It was said by some when he announced his intention to address congress on the subject, that he desired to shift the responsibility upon the shoulders of congress. That he had anything of the sort in mind should have been unthinkable. Only a few weeks ago he demanded and received what was virtually a vote from both branches of that body authorizing him to proceed as he thought best in the conduct of diplomatic affairs with Germany without their interference. His object in going before congress last week was perfectly patent. He had taken a step which might bring this country to the verge of war. Congress alone could declare war and congress alone could vote supplies to carry on a war, should another step be taken. That the leaders of the hankers should know what had been done and its possible consequences was evident. That the country should know it was equally evident.

Convention Quibbles

The present primary law was evidently in bad odor.

The platform adopted by the convention "viewed with alarm" all right!

Just two palpable "hits" were made during the convention—one by Bill Evans' topical song.

The mayor's pleasant address of welcome closed with a warlike suggestion by a political conventionist, a little less noise and a little more light.

For one of the standard woman-suffrage states—where the scheme has been tried and declared not wanting—four or five women delegates among five hundred hardly justified.

As in everything everywhere in the young state of Idaho, the personnel of the convention showed signs of the preponderance of the "young men for war" still left in the councilors.

Judge Albright, in his fairly talk the convention, spoke of the "mythological story of the Siamese twins." Mythology was already held responsible for plenty of "freaks," but never before for the yellow monstrosity from Asia.

When a delegate, unexpectedly called by the speaker to the rostrum to preside over a great convention, rises to acknowledge the honor and reaches into his pocket for his extemporaneous speech, it is time to be especially if it begins by threatening "over ancient tariff straw!"

Peter G. Johnson, a speaker with a decided, big voice and a vigorous delivery, declared that if Governor Alexander had saved a million dollars, or any other sum of money, he had done so as the old farmer saved a thousand on his boy's education—he didn't give him any.

Public Forum

REGARDING MR. BEAUREGARD.

Editor Twin Falls Times: I have been asked to write to you regarding the death of J. B. Beauregard. Mr. Beauregard had been ill for a long time, but was never bedfast for more than a day or two at a time. He died for death and wanted to die in his cabin.

When reports that the tract was going to be cut would reach him, he would fire up and become cheerful; at other times he would sit at his cabin and brood. Mr. Hartley ran his errands and took him food, but he did not seem to want people to do anything for him. Three weeks before his death, Mr. Hartley began taking him food and was at his cabin or on some member of the family every day and as often as three times a day. Mr. Hartley visited Mr. Beauregard several times to my knowledge and was there the morning of the day they came for him. I was told the councilors were notified of his condition a week before they came for him.

Among others that visited Mr. Beauregard was Mrs. Schuler, a trained nurse, who tried to make the old man comfortable. Yours respectfully, JOHN D. ATKIN.

GAME WARDEN SAYS FISHING IN SNAKE RIVER PERMISSIBLE.

Some old question about fishing in the Snake river is up again and the game warden has furnished the following explanation of the law to E. E. Berger, and we pass it on to our readers.

"Bols, March 31, 1916—Dear Sir: Your letter under the date of March 20th received. I note carefully what you say in regard to cloud stream. Under the opinion of the attorney general, Snake River is classed as a navigable stream and is subject to the laws pertaining to the month of April. There is no understanding as to the closing of it last year as it was done. Our anglers are instructed that it is a violation of the law to fish in it during the month of April. It is our intention of this department ours truly, LEROY C. JONES, State Game Warden."

MINING INDUSTRY IN NORTHERN IDAHO BOOMING AS NEVER BEFORE

THE Coeur d'Alene district is destined to witness wonderful changes during the present year, says J. Wallace Kellogg, manager of the district, which will result in vastly expanding mining operations; bringing increased prosperity to the people and giving the Coeur d'Alene district a position of greater importance as an industrial center. In past years we have looked upon mining concentration of ores as the limit of operations, the more intricate processes of smelting and refining being left to distant points. But a radical change has now taken place in this respect, one which it is reasonable to expect will be followed in time by other changes of equal importance to the district. The creation of the great smelter and refinery at Kellogg will not only give employment to several hundred additional men, but will provide employment for 500 or more when the plant is completed. The effect of this enterprise will already be manifest throughout the district in the renewal of development work due to the assurance of a permanent market for lead, silver and zinc concentrates. The payment of heavy freight charges to the smelter.

Coincident with the construction of the smelter is the unexampled extension of the electric power line in the way of railroad construction. The branch up Pine creek seems assured beyond question and it appears equally certain that Beaver creek is also to have railroad transportation, but plans for this branch are not yet definite. The most important prospective railroad construction in sight is the closing of the gap of fifty miles between Wallace and Coeur d'Alene City by the Northern Pacific. There are unmistakable signs that this work will soon be undertaken and rushed to completion as rapidly as possible. In spite of official announcement to the contrary, the prediction is still made that the Milwaukee will invade the same Coeur d'Alene to this city before the year is out. While all these lines may not be built within a year, some of them will and all of them will come eventually. Thus with payrolls in connection with railroad construction, the new smelter and largely increased mining operations throughout the district, the year 1916 promises to be the most active, and prosperous in the history of mining in the Coeur d'Alene.

The lead smelter at Kellogg opens up a most interesting field for speculation as to the future of the same district. After twenty-five years it has been found feasible to reduce and refine our lead-silver ores here and in the meantime the district has become a large producer of zinc, and an important prospective producer of copper. The smelter can be smelted and refined to advantage here, why not zinc also? The old method of zinc smelting is rapidly giving away to the new electrolytic process, the successful operation of which seems to depend upon securing cheap electric power. With two great electric power companies on each side of us fighting for business, there should be no trouble about the cheap power, but if terms could not be obtained from these, the St. Joe river and the North Fork of the Coeur d'Alene present possibilities in power development which might solve the problem of cheap zinc smelting practical and profitable.

SPECIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM CATHOLIC EASTER SERVICE

Church Was Beautifully Decorated—Sermon Delivered on Epistle of Day.

A special musical program at the Catholic church Sunday was greatly appreciated by the congregation and visitors. The church and altar were artistically decorated with flowers and greenery for the occasion. The pastor, Rev. N. P. Hahn, delivered a sermon on the epistle of the day, "Purge the old leaven, that ye may be a new paste," calling on all to put aside permanently evil in all forms and to make the joy and glory of the Easter period pure and undefiled. The following is the musical program given:

"Veni Aquam"	Choir	Psalm
"Kyrie"	Choir	Wiegand
"Gloria In Excelsis Deo"	Wiegand
Solo—"Qui Tollis"	Eugene Wahl
"Credo"	Choir	Wiegand
Offertory—"Hanc Ite"	Bordese
Duo—"Mrs. Nevlin and Miss Tondale"	Wiegand
"Sanctus"	Choir
Benedictus.
Solo—"Mrs. C. O. Longley"	Wiegand
"Agnus Dei"	Choir

TWIN FALLS GIRL GETS THE HIGHEST PLACE

Mildred Conway Has Three Firsts In State Oratorical Contest Friday Night.

Mildred Conway of this city carried off the bulk of the honors at the state oratorical contest in the high school auditorium Friday evening, being the only winner who had three firsts recorded by the board of judges. There were 12 high schools represented, divided into three classes of four schools each. Mildred of Boise was the oratorical first prize, Doris Rae of Burley the humorous and Mildred Conway of Twin Falls the dramatic. The four winners were elected to the State Oratorical association for the coming year: President, Principal J. C. Casoy of Nampa, vice-president, Principal C. H. Bowman of Twin Falls; secretary-treasurer, Principal Otto L. Neal of Caldwell. The meeting next year will be at Caldwell. Following the exercises a banquet to the contestants and coaches was given by the domestic science class of the Twin Falls high school.

SILCO EXCURSION PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

A Dozen Autos Loaded With Fifty Men Drive to Buhl—Inspect Many Silos.

"We feel that, in spite of the inclement weather, the excursion of last Wednesday was an unqualified success," said County Agricultural Agent W. N. Birch this morning. "About thirty men in auto automobiles made the start from the county agricultural office at 9:30 in the morning, and the number increased along the route until after noon, when there were 12 machines and 60 men. In all, we visited 13 silos of five different makes, namely, Hewitt-Len-Punk, concrete, common silos and concrete silos. This was certainly enough to allow comparison among different makes. 'Old concrete' silos had the forms on it, as it is to be built higher this year. Nine feeders of silage were visited, three of these being so enthusiastic that they have two silos. Of the nine, seven were feeding dairy cattle and two were feeding sheep. One herd of Island Jerseys and four herds of registered Holsteins were on the route. The entire day was spent viewing silos, talking auto building, who machinery, cost of silage, cost of the feed it replaces, etc.

"The county agricultural wishes to use this opportunity of expressing his appreciation of the co-operation of silo owners, automobile owners and the newspapers of Twin Falls county. Had any of these failed us, the day could not have been made a success."

"The farms visited were those of John Gott, A. E. Boone, S. S. Neher, A. C. Davis, C. H. Kreigh, H. H. Silver, Gustav Kunze, W. S. Semuels and J. D. Murphy."

WATER IN SALMON RIVER RESERVOIR RISING RAPIDLY

On Saturday, April 22, the height of the water in the Salmon river reservoir, above the level of the tunnel, was 24.5 feet, a rise of 3.7 feet during the preceding week. The amount of water available for stock raising, estimated by this height is 35,350 acre feet. The increase in acre feet during the week was 6330.

Steady Growth Now Evident in City

End of Series of Important Events Finds Twin Falls Going Ahead—Big Doings in June.

Now that the great revival has closed, the auto show has come and gone, the U. S. P. elephant has fed on the Twin Falls spud and taken a temporary recess from his labors to dream of pleasures, enjoyed here before arriving to face the political situation, and the farmer has buckled down to hard work in the fields, the city is taking on a matter-of-fact appearance and preparing for a steady upward growth, without anything unusual promised for the immediate future. June 11, 12 and 13 the state shot will take place here, and the marksmen are practicing regularly at the traps, unconsciously pointing their fingers at passing sparrows and saying "Bling" as they go along. They are already acquiring a good eye and making scores that promise something sensational by the time the crack shots from other cities of the Gem state arrive. But, then, rumors are coming in that the others are not idle, either. The Monday following the big shoot the chautauqua is coming on, with many fine attractions, including some of the most noted orators in the country. New buildings are starting right along in different parts of town, the sugar factory is progressing nicely and work on the new depot is likely to begin soon. The town is forging ahead steadily without anything out of the ordinary occurring, and by the time the chautauqua opens this year the citizens are hoping that the change will be so great that those who had not visited this city during the year will be astonished at its growth.

NEVADA LANDS FOR SALE

We have just secured the agency for railroad lands in Humboldt County, Nevada, and to the man with limited means we believe we have the finest proposition that has been offered since the opening of the Twin Falls tract.

A Few Facts of Interest to Prospective Purchasers

SOIL: The soil is of a sandy loam and volcanic ash. The latter is acknowledged to be the finest soil so far tested in this world.

WATER: Domestic water, soft and free from alkali, can be obtained at a depth of from 6 feet to 38 feet, at any point in the valley.

IRRIGATION: The question of water for irrigation, has been solved to the complete satisfaction of the most skeptical. The valley is underlaid with a sheet of water, of which alone there is sufficient to irrigate the entire tract. There are also numerous springs, both warm and cold. Artesian water is also there at a depth of from 250 to 612 feet, and the wells at that depth are real "gushers." There is ample of water easily accessible for irrigation.

LOCATION: The land lies 70 miles south of the Idaho line and is 400 miles from Salt Lake City, and the same from San Francisco. The O. P. R. R. and W. P. R. R. run through the valley, affording direct transportation both east and west.

ELEVATION: 4387 feet.

CLIMATE: Mild in winter and temperate in summer, having a growing season from April 1st to Oct. 15th.

AGRICULTURE: All fruits, grains, grasses and seed grown in the northwest can be successfully raised here.

ACREAGE: About 250,000 acres divided by the Humboldt River.

PRICE AND TERMS: We offer this railroad land at from $8.00 to $15.00 per acre according to classification and location. One-fourth cash and the balance in 7 equal annual payments with interest at 6%.

SIX TOWN LEAGUE THE LATEST BASEBALL DOPE

Fans Figure That Good Quality Ball Can Be Had in Southern Idaho This Year.

The baseball fans met Friday night in the rooms of the Commercial club and decided that, instead of endeavoring to work into an upstate league, which would eat up all the proceeds paying fare to the Oregon Short Line and leave a nice goose egg in the financial nest as an asset after each game to meet the incidental liabilities, it would be better to get in touch with other towns on the tract and keep the money at home. The people want quality first in baseball, but it was figured that there was no reason why the goods should be delivered by teams on the tract as well as by those coming from afar, through the dust-laden arena between the watered districts and getting too tired to deliver the goods while on the way. Kimberly played league ball last year, say the who ones, and top-notchers in athletics are not always to be found in the big burrs.

"Jess Willard grew up in the 'Short Grass country' at Garden City, Kan., and remained there until after he 'knocked the block off any bloke in little of 'N' York,' and other 'good' men have come from small towns. The local fans, therefore, are convinced that they have the goods right here to put up as good a game as any that the teams at American Falls, Idaho Falls or Pocatello can produce, and also Kimberly to show that the little towns can come through with the goods when needed. The dope now seems to be to have Tyler Christa act as general manager for a league composed of Twin Falls, Buhl, Kimberly, Jerome, Burley and Rupert, taking turns playing with and coaching the towns and 'arguing' strengthening where needed.

A committee will visit the different cities and ask that a bond of $500 be put up to be forfeited by any team quitting before the end of the season. It is expected that the season will open here May 14.

MRS. J. H. PAUL DIED—SUDDENLY LAST WEEK

Mrs. J. H. Paul died at her home in this city Thursday evening at 9:46 o'clock, after an illness of about eight hours, due to acute indigestion and general failure. Funeral services were conducted at the Crosby chapel Sunday afternoon by Rev. C. L. Bent of the Methodist church and the body shipped the following morning to Cresco, Neb., for interment. Mrs. Paul, whose maiden name was Eliza Bulck, was born in Antirion county, Ireland, to which place her parents had moved from Scotland. She came to America when 20 years old and married, living for more than 30 years in Nebraska. Mr. Paul and daughter, Mrs. Beck, went to Nebraska to attend the funeral.

ARTESIAN CITY NAT OPENING ON SATURDAY

Large Crowd in Attendance—Many Go Sunday to Bath in Natural Hot Water.

The Artesian City natatorium opened Saturday, under the management of E. H. Childs of this city, with a large number of people on hand during the afternoon and a great crowd at the large dance hall at night. More than fifty autos from all points on the tract, with many from Casula county, visited Artesian City on Sunday. Expressions of pleasure and surprise were heard on all sides, and during Saturday and Sunday the plunge was liberally patronized. The tank, which is all cement, is twenty feet wide and fifty feet long, with men and women's dressing rooms ranging along either side. The water, which is naturally hot and kept at just the right temperature for bathing, is piped direct from one of the wells. A four-inch continuous in and outflow keeps the water pure and fresh. In connection with the natatorium, a dance hall will be given every Wednesday and Saturday night.

James Gallither timed the opening of his stage line to Oakley so that it came when the natatorium opened and began with a good business. The stage runs twice a day, leaving here at 8:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. every day and returning at noon and 6 o'clock.

A feature of the affair at the natatorium Sunday was a bull-riding contest, which was not on the program and was put on rather extemporaneously, so to speak. Fay Cox had bought a blooded bovine and in a joke offered to bet a bystander that he could not ride him. His anticipations proved correct; the bet was called and the bull won. The defeated party then wanted to bet Cox that he could not ride the animal. Cox tried and, although he is an expert horseman, the bull again claimed the honors through his ability to wrinkle his spinal column in man to his work came along and rode the animal without getting off, all of which pleased the crowd immensely.

Artesian City is about 23 miles from Twin Falls, in the same distance practically from Burley and Oakley, and with improvements to be made to the grounds, etc., very likely will prove a popular resort for pleasure seekers.

BOISE PASTOR TO TAKE CHARGE OF KNULL CHURCH

The new Presbyterian church at Knull, Idaho, six miles southwest of Twin Falls, on the Rogerson branch, will be placed in charge of Rev. A. J. Kamman, formerly of Boise, who will be installed as pastor on the 14th of May. Rev. Mr. Kamman, who came from Boise, Idaho, is a graduate of the McCormick theological seminary and has been the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Boise during the past year. In addition to his work at the Knull church, Rev. Mr. Kamman will conduct services regularly at Berger.

BLAZE IN LAUNDRY DOESN'T STOP WORK

Only a Few Hours Delay Results From Fire Causing Loss of $600.

Fire, starting, it is believed, from the electric wringer, did about $600 damage to the boiler room fixtures, machinery and tools of the Troy Steam laundry Saturday morning about 3:00 o'clock. The loss was partly covered with insurance. The fire was discovered by Miss Crawford, one of the proprietors of the Twin Falls hospital, who promptly turned in the alarm. The fire company made a quick run to the scene and soon had the blaze under control, and shortly afterwards had it extinguished. The wiring, work bench, tools, big wheel and belt including the belting on the big drive wheel, were destroyed. The drive wheel itself was badly injured, but can render temporary service. The ironing machinery was put into operation at 10 o'clock Sunday and the washing machinery at noon. The boiler room was fireproof, which blazed the flames from spreading, though they might have worked in between the ceiling and the roof had this part of the structure been thoroughly wet with condensed steam. The clothes in the laundry were uninjured.

AUTO-PAINTING SHOP IN A NEW HOME

H. E. Cutting Moves From Max Pink Building to the New Car Wash Stand.

Finding his quarters in the Max Pink building on Main avenue North a bit cramped for his growing business, H. E. Cutting this week moved his auto painting establishment into the new Cosgriff building, on Second avenue West, in the rear of the postoffice where he not only has more room, but where he has the latest appliances installed especially for the purpose. There is a cement floored wash room where the machine is cleaned up before being introduced into the dust-proof varnish room, with its dust-canvas sides, where the auto value is put on the finishing touches which enable it to make its bow in the best society. Mr. Cutting declares that the work done is as good as that in the factory.
