FEDERAL JUDGE NAMES AN UPSET PRICE.

Thought That Oregon Short Line Will Possibly Also Build Line to Nevada.

Interest in this city has been aroused to fever heat by the announcement through the press dispatches that Judge Maurice T. Doelling, of the federal district court had fixed an upset price of $18,000,000 for the forthcoming sale of that road. The general feeling is that the purchasers will find it imperative to build the contemplated extension from this city to Wells, Nev. This impression is strengthened by the activity of the Oregon Short Line and the possibility of way between this city and Contact. The possibility of rival lines southward being of the greatest interest to people here. The press story follows:

United States District Judge Maurice T. Doelling fixed $18,000,000 as the "upset" price for the sale of the Western Pacific railway today in the foreclosure suit brought by the Equitable Trust company of New York.

In fixing the minimum price, the court said that its judgment was based on the only concrete facts before it as to the present earning capacity of the road, which is now about $1,000,000 annually above taxes, maintenance and operating expenses.

A special master is to be appointed today to proceed with the sale of the road as directed by the court.

The decision of Judge Doelling brings to an end a protracted contest between the various interests concerned with the future of the Western Pacific railway. The majority bondholders represented by the Equitable Trust company and the reorganization committee asked that the sale price of the road be fixed at not more than $15,000,000. The minority bondholders, represented by the Union Savings & Trust bank of San Francisco, asked that the price be fixed at $40,000,000.

RAILROAD STRIKE WILL BE SUBJECT

Twin Falls Attorney to Discuss the Club Referendum at Smoker.

While the issue before the Twin Falls Commercial club in the latest referendum is whether the threatened railmen's strike should be submitted to the interstate commerce commission for attempted solution, at this time, or whether, if adjustment should be attempted before a strike is called, it should be submitted to some other body like the federal board of conciliation. Secretary John McMillan has decided to make the occasion of its determination along general lines. For that reason he has secured the cooperation of several lawyers, who will discuss the question of labor in its relation to capital and to the public from several angles. Attorney Stephen will take the side of the railroads, Attorney Kinney the side of the workmen and Attorney Wilson the side of the public. An interesting discussion is foreshadowed.

NINE IN NINTH SAVED
DAY FOR SHOSHONE

People Leaving Burley Grand Stand When Visitors Turned Tables.

"When Casey Hit the Ball" in his famous "comeback" stunt he did not create half as much consternation among his fellow Shoshone team Sunday afternoon, when people who had started to leave the Burley baseball diamond, in the last half of the ninth were arrested by a tremendous rally that did not stop until two pitchers had been knocked out of the box, nine runs piled up and the score won by a score of 2 to 10. The game had been Burley's up to the time when the visitors went to bat for the first time, the score standing 10 to 3 for the home team. At this juncture Shoshone began finding the Burley twirlers and nothing could stop them thereafter until they had won the victory.

Knickerbocker beaten by Jerome. Kimberly led the game at Jerome Sunday by a score of five to one.

ELKS PLAN FLAG DAY EXERCISES

The Elks are preparing an elaborate and appropriate program for the celebration of flag day, which will be given at the Lavender theatre on the night of June 14, and to which an invitation has been extended to the G. A. R., the national guard and to the people in general. The program will appear in our next issue.

GOVERNMENT MONEY FOR JARBIDGE ROAD

Walsh Amendment to Good Roads Bill Passed

WOULD BUILD ROADS TO ALL FOREST RESERVES.

Government to be Repaid From 10 Per Cent Derived From the Forests.

WASHINGTON—An amendment offered by Senator Walsh of Montana, to the good roads bill now pending in the United States senate and which has been adopted by that body, will prove of great importance to the people of Twin Falls and Jarbidge should the measure become a law, as it will permit the construction of a modern highway by money advanced by the government and later repaid out of 10 per cent profits derived from the forest reserves. The amendment provided for the advancement of $40,000,000 by the government for roads under the conditions named.

Senator Pittman, in supporting the amendment, said in part:

"I want to call attention to just one little detail. I am only going to take up about four or five minutes of the time of the senate, because I realize that we want to vote. In the northern part of our state, near the Idaho line, is a settlement of 500 or 600 people. It is growing rapidly. It is separated from Idaho and from Nevada by a great forest reserve. Those people have no means of transportation and from that large settlement. The people of one little county in Nevada built 60 miles of wagon road, most of it through that reserve, to reach these people. To the north of them the road is practically impassable. The snow is so deep in Nevada that that upland road, built by the people of one county, is frequently impassable in the winter; and for the lack of a road reaching to the north, the people of Idaho are often prevented from reaching many of the year from reaching such settlements. Now, then, it is all in charge of the government. The government is deriving the proceeds from the forest. If those proceeds are estimated to be sufficient to build that road, why not advance the money as a business proposition, put in the roads, sell the timber, and encourage the development and utilizing of the forest?"

"That is only one condition that I am illustrating. The settlement referred to is called Jarbidge. It is known to the senators from the western country. The conditions are well known. The post office department is maintaining a postal route to such settlements. Take, for instance, the town of Ely, in our state. It is separated from the great world known to the west of it that supplies it with produce, and yet the people of the one county of White Pine have to travel 40 or 50 miles to reach the mountains so that their produce may reach the people of Ely from such farming district."

"These are the conditions. We are not asking the government to appropriate any money at all. We are asking the government simply to advance the money that the government itself states it will receive back from the 10 per cent of profits of these forest reserves. That is all that we have asked."

ARRESTED ON LARCENY CHARGE.
Henry Cannon and William Richardson were arrested Saturday night at the Elks club on a charge of having stolen blankets and a few other articles from Castleford. The property is alleged to have been stolen from the great hall where Marshall Baymiller, telephoned to the police and to the sheriff's office here. The men were taken back to Buhl for trial.

LIBERTY THEME OF MEMORIAL SERMON

Rev. C. L. Bent of Methodist Church Speaker

FREEDOM WON BY SACRIFICE SINCE RUNYMEDE.

Country United in Facing Problems of the Present and Future.

The advance of human liberty from the wreckage of the Minga Chica from King John at Runymede to the present and the duty of the people now living to keep the movement going forward was the theme of the sermon delivered by Rev. C. L. Bent Sunday at the memorial service at the Methodist church. The members of the G. A. R., the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Sons of Veterans attended in a body. Rev. Bent traced the movement through the struggle with Charles I. of England and through the triumphant efforts of the colonists to resist taxation without representation, resulting in the founding of this great nation.

Referring feelingly to the sacrifice on both sides during the civil war for what each believed to be right, he pointed out that sectionalism was dead and the country united in confronting the problems yet to be solved.

The sermon was preceded by the musical service of the G. A. R. The musical service was excellent.

EMPIRE BUILDER
CALLED BY DEATH

James J. Hill, Famous Railroad Magnate, Died in St. Paul Yesterday.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The funeral of James J. Hill, who died at his home here shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning, will be held at his residence at 2:00 p. m. Wednesday. Announcement of funeral arrangements was contained in a statement issued by the family at 4:00 p. m. Monday.

Contrary to expectations, interment will not be in the private cemetery here, but in a private mausoleum to be erected at North Oaks farm, five miles northeast of St. Paul, long the summer home of the "empire builder."

The general public will have no opportunity formally to pay tribute to the leading citizen of the northwest, but Mr. Hill's associates and his old employees will be admitted to the house to view the body before the services.

The general offices of the Great Northern railway and the First National bank and Northwest Trust company, will be closed all Wednesday.

The family statement includes a request that no flowers be sent. Rev. Thomas J. Gibbons, vicar-general of the Catholic diocese of St. Paul, who attended Mr. Hill during his last few hours, will officiate at the funeral.

Mr. Hill had been seriously ill for about a week. A carcinoma developed in his thigh, resulting, it is said, from a fall from a horse and an operation performed Friday. He is said to have been in a private hospital in St. Paul and while he seemed to rally somewhat he had not been able to rally enough to overcome the attack.

DISTRICT W. C. T. U. MET IN TWIN FALLS

Large Gathering From Adjacent Territory

NOTED TEMPERANCE WORKERS PRESENT FROM ABROAD.

Music and Other Forms of Entertainment on Program—Plan Canvass of City.

The district convention of the W. C. T. U. which met in this city Friday and Saturday of last week, was attended by delegations from Buhl, Burley, Pleasant View, Blaney, Rupert and Twin Falls and many other interesting workers of the district in behalf of prohibitive legislation during the coming political campaign. The convention came to order at 10 o'clock Friday and after a devotional led by Mrs. J. M. Wall, evangelistic superintendent, proceeded to the appointment of the usual committees.

The W. C. T. U. exchange occupied the rest of the morning. After a table lunch and a short session, the report of the Gooding convention was read and an "efficiency congress" consisting of talks by different superintendents followed. A musical entertainment was then given, after which Mrs. Chapp, the state president, and Mrs. Maude Lorenz Green, a national worker, addressed the meeting. In the evening after several local entertainment features bearing on the subject at hand, Mrs. Greene gave her famous and much appreciated "chalk talk." At this session the people were greatly edified by the prize essay contests for the seventh and eighth grades of the Buhl and Lincoln schools. The first prize was won by Eleanor Finch, the second by Walter Kringle, and the third by Ruth Constable.

The meeting Saturday was largely of a business nature, though music, another table picnic and talks by Madeline Chipp and Greene interspersed the routine. It was decided to make a house to house canvass and steps were taken to organize for that purpose.

SANITARY COMMISSIONER COMPLIMENTS SHORT LINE

According to a statement made recently by State Sanitary Commissioner J. K. White, the Short Line driers are superior to all others in the matter of sanitation and service. Mr. White, while on an eastern trip, took particular notice of the dining car service and gives the local road a decided preference.

ASCENSION DAY SERVICE AT ST. EDWARDS CATHOLIC CHURCH

Thursday, being Ascension day, there will be two masses at the Catholic church in this city, the first at 6:30 o'clock and the second at 9:00 o'clock a. m. Confessions will be heard the evening before, beginning at 7 o'clock.

VON BUELO WILL NOT VISIT UNITED STATES

BERLIN, via London.—The Russian ambassador abroad, Count Prince von Buelow, former German chancellor, is going on a special mission to Washington, to meet Gen. Crow and discuss the matter of German troops to overcome the attack.

YUAN SHI KAI TO RESIGN AS PRESIDENT OF CHINA

LONDON.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Peking says that Yuan Shi Kai has announced his intention to resign as soon as a suitable successor has been chosen. Reports from China received here for some time past have indicated that the president was willing to retire as soon as the personal safety of himself and his family were assured.

MEMORIAL DAY IS CELEBRATED

Largest Auto Parade in History of City

PROGRAM CARRIED OUT WITHOUT SINGLE HITCH.

Services at Cemetery Take an Air of Unusual Solemnity Due to Conditions.

Memorial Day broke clear and cool weathering and the atmosphere was welcomed by the people of the city who were making preparations for the honoring of the national dead. Flags and bunting were everywhere and the spirit of patriotism was manifested by the attitude of the people, whether participating in the parade or not. All the stores and places of business were closed and the streets were lined with an expectant multitude. A large crowd gathered at the park, from which point the parade started at 10 o'clock.

The following was the order of formation:

1. Marshall.
2. Mayor and council.
3. Band.
4. Fraternal orders.
5. Citizens.
6. Militia.
7. Boy Scouts.
8. Sons of Veterans.
9. Grand Army of the Republic and flower girls.
10. Ladies of G. A. R. in Autos.
11. Autos.
12. Horse drawn vehicles.

The number of "old boys" who were able to march to the "old boys" was but a handful many rode in autos. A number of Ladies of G. A. R. also marched after the veterans. They and the old soldiers were attended by the dainty little girls. The horse-drawn vehicles mentioned in the program were absent, but the line of autos was the largest of the sort in Twin Falls on a similar occasion. The decorations at the cemetery were appropriate and the service, with the usual oratorical and musical features, was on account of the obvious thinning of the ranks of the blue, and the realization by the spectators that the country was indeed the verge of a possible call for sacrifices as great and of the same nature as those which called forth millions during the tremendous civil struggle of 1861-65. All felt, too, that such a call came it would meet with an hearty response as it was then.

This afternoon the following program is being carried out at the high school auditorium:

The afternoon service was held at 2 o'clock in the high school auditorium. W. W. Humphrey, commander, presiding.

Invocation—C. L. Longley, G. A. R. Chaplain.

Reading General Order No. 11—Past Commander H. B. Barnes.

Quartette.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—Mrs. W. E. Aaron.

Introduction of Speaker by Mayor E. M. Sweeney.

Address—Mr. A. Stewart.

"America"—All singing.

MILITIA EXAMINATION HELD HERE YESTERDAY

Adjutant General Atkins—Medical Examination Necessary Under New Law.

Adjutant General P. H. Crow arrived in this city yesterday to take part in the physical examination of the members of Company D, Idaho National Guard, which took place last evening at the office of Dr. H. W. Wilson, military examiner. The examination is preparatory to the entrance of the company into the United States service under the terms of the new military law. As soon as the company is taken over it will be governed by the stricter regulations of the new legislation. The examination was not completed last night and the examination will be continued this morning.

HUGHES AND TEDDY HEAD ALL OTHERS

Favorite Sons do Not Seem to Be Favorites

DARK HORSE A POSSIBILITY BUT NOT PROBABILITY.

Hill's Predicts That Progressives Will Nominates the Colonel.

WASHINGTON—With the Republican national convention only a few days distant it looks much as though the real fight for the presidential nomination will resolve itself into a contest between the Hughes forces on the one hand and the Roosevelt forces on the other. The situation may change but if a new factor enters into the calculations, it probably will be in the shape of a dark horse rather than one of the favorite sons. The favorite sons seem to have been eliminated.

The rise and fall of the Roosevelt has been one of the interesting features of the convention campaign. The rise of the Hughes tide has been slow, steady and ever increasing.

At no time since sentiment turned toward Hughes has the Hughes movement experienced the slightest setback, and as one after another of the favorite sons have been practically eliminated, save on the first and complimentary ballot, the Hughes boom seems to be the prime favorite among many delegates who will go to Chicago instructed to vote for others.

A difference of opinion among the Republican national committee Sunday expressed the opinion that the platform which will be adopted by the national convention next month will be unusually brief and will deal only with the most vital public questions. From information obtained in talking with party leaders on the subject, he believes the principal planks in the platform will include the following:

A statement on Americanism.

A statement on preparedness for adequate military and naval defense.

A declaration in favor of a protective tariff to be prepared by a non-partisan tariff commission created by congress, with special attention to the needs of the industries of this country.

A declaration in favor of a merchant marine.

A statement dealing with the alleged shortcomings of the Democratic national administration.

On the question of national woman suffrage, Chairman Hill said there was a difference of opinion among the party leaders and he did not know what action the convention would take on the subject.

In speaking of the probable action of the Progressive national convention called to be held June 7 in Chicago, simultaneously with the Republican national convention, Chairman Hill said:

"I imagine everybody assumes that

CROCKETT DIES AT HOSPITAL SATURDAY

Never Recovered Consciousness—Wagon Improving—Others Out of Danger.

Melvin D. Crockett, the well-known Rock Creek ranchman, who was injured the auto accident on Monday, May 21, died at the hospital Saturday, May 27, without having regained consciousness. Mr. Crockett was 38 years, four months and three days old. He was widely and favorably known in southern Idaho. He was unmarried. He leaves a sister and brother, George Crockett, both of whom live in Rock Creek.

The funeral is being held this afternoon from the home at Rock Creek. The accident occurred on the Burley road as Mr. Crockett and his wife were returning from the game late in the afternoon. All the occupants were more or less severely injured. John Walton, of Hamlet, who suffered through the accident, was reported this morning as being in a serious condition, but gradually improving, and, unless unexpected complications develop, will be able to get on his feet in a few days. The others are all out of danger.

It is reported that Walton has been taken to the hospital. It is being governed by the stricter regulations of the new legislation. The examination was not completed last night and the examination will be continued this morning.

Adjutant General P. H. Crow left this morning for Boise.

MUTTON ON ROOF HAS A TREMENDOUS SLUMP

Lambs Fall 50 Cents—Hogs Go
Off Slightly—Cattle Firm—Wool Strong.

Receipts of sheep have been abnormal as compared with the run that has taken place for nearly all this year previous. Packer outlets seem limited and prices are showing lower on both sheep and lambs. Lamb top today was at $2.00 on some pretty good quality offerings. This shows a reduction in top prices of fully fifty cents since the beginning of the week.

Hogs show fairly active receipts and Monday's light run. Prices, if anything, are a nickel off the general top of the week's opening. Eighty-five was the general top. Bulk at $3.00 per hundred. Quality in general was very good. Eastern markets look some lower in general for the day.

All the California steers this year to come to this market have been natives. It should not be very long, however, before the Mexicans begin to run. This run is usually light and of poor quality. The state of California article has been much more in evidence than was the case last year.

Purses are fast becoming a thing of the past and very few more are expected during this season. Possibly a hundred or two might be available but few more.

Wednesday was another California day, in fact much more of one than Monday was. With exception of a few head of dairy cows the entire receipt of over 600 head were from California points.

Notwithstanding the fact that the market was slow in getting under way, buyers sold, $3.50 per hundred and cows at $4.75 per hundred, about the same gain that this class of cattle have been striking for several weeks.

Any break in the present market for cattle would undoubtedly be due to an over-eagerness on the part of the country, to lack of demand of the livestock industry.

Buyers have taken hold of the rather low receipts so far in a very good way.

The Northwestern wool situation is unchanged. Market is still strong, and until sales begin real attention cannot be held there. There is, however, no present tendency toward a lower market.

Boston continues exceedingly quiet. The whole world position is very strong. Mills naturally keep Boston market down while they are buying in the west.

JOHN LINDSTROM DIES

John Lindstrom died at his home in Duck Valley road of Mountain Home last Saturday, May 20, from internal injuries inflicted by being kicked by a horse while driving the cattle on an adjoining homestead, having come to Duck Valley from Buhl.

Medical attention was summoned from Brannan, 70 miles away, but before the doctor could drive over there Mr. Lindstrom had passed away. The body was brought to Buhl by auto early Sunday morning. The funeral was conducted from the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Olsen, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, officiating. The interment was in the Buhl cemetery.

John Lindstrom was born in Sweden, September 9, 1866. He was one of the pioneers to the Twin Falls tract. He is survived by a wife, four daughters, and a son. Mrs. L. A. Bliz, a daughter, came here from Portland to attend the funeral. The other three, Mrs. Fronhagen, Mrs. Edward Carlson and Miss Lillian Lindstrom, live here.

The entire community extend sympathies to the bereaved family.

R. R. Walshaw, the head dyer of the Knight Woolen mills of Provo, Utah, has been visiting with his wife and children here since Saturday. Mr. Walshaw has been employed by the mills of Provo for the past six months and the firm is highly pleased with the success of their efforts in securing competent dyers. Mr. Walshaw upon being interviewed in regard to the dye situation said: "Since the war began, the American man has been properly up against it on account of the dye situation, but after some months, at great expense and much experimenting we can now manufacture dyes in this country which are the equal, if not the superior of those imported from Germany. The Knight Woolen Mills company have placed contracts for 1917 which will cover their requirements. Submitted colors have been subjected to the rigorous tests, and the results have been amazing. Of course we know it will take time to dispel the erroneous idea that this country cannot produce dye wares, but time will

BOULDER COWMEN PLEASED WITH REPORT

Great Improvement Shown in Individual Cows During the First Half Year.

The first semi-annual report of O. T. Koster, official tester for the Bull Pioneer Cow Testing association, points out some interesting trends in dairymen to general and affords the members of the association a great deal of personal satisfaction, says the Bull Herald. First, the report of the United States Dairy division of the United States department of agriculture recently reported that the production of milk in the United States is in the association and also in standard of efficiency over the state of Wisconsin and that means practically over all the associations in the country. Second, it is found on careful comparison that there are but two or three associations in the country which have produced cows which have equalled the records set by several cows in the Bull association. Koster's report shows that the dairymen have done so. The improvement made by the individual cows in the association has been extremely marked and the average production has been materially increased during the first six months of the work. There has been an increase in the number of registered herd bulls in the association—many have been proven as prolific to their owners and have been sent the way of all poor cows—31 have gone to contribute their usefulness in keeping up the supply of juicy porthouse and veal steaks.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the general results of the work being done by the official tester, the good from this work being spread over a number of ideas. For example, the work done in obtaining better results with the separator stands out very conspicuously, the waste of butterfat via the skim milk route having been reduced from 2.40 per cent butterfat to .0190 per cent, the value of the saving thus effected at the average price of butterfat for the period of 27.2 cents being $65.43 in the association. The average butterfat production in October was 27.8311 per cent, while in March it has increased to 28.24 per cent, a gain of .4089 per cent which at the average price again of 27.2 cents for butterfat amounted to a total gain in the value of butterfat to the 500 cows in the association being $165.43 in the association. The average butterfat production in October was 27.8311 per cent, while in March it has increased to 28.24 per cent, a gain of .4089 per cent which at the average price again of 27.2 cents for butterfat amounted to a total gain in the value of butterfat to the 500 cows in the association being $165.43 in the association.

boys report an abundance of rain and hail but no sunshine. They managed to catch about one hundred and seventy-five trout.

Joe and Fred Wilson were business men in Twin Falls last week. Fred Wilson has recently returned from the North Side, near Eden, where he has been looking after a farm. N. Trapper, wife and boys, were in Twin Falls Saturday, trading. Fred Hill, also his mother, brother Gordon and sister Annie, from across Rock creek, were guests at the F. T. Brown home last week. Miss Annie recently graduated from the Twin Falls high school.

The roof has been added to the sugar factory during the last week, making quite an imposing looking building.

The recent rains have left a show of smiles on the faces of our farmers and the smiles are of the kind "that won't come off."

Ferry Walshaw and wife entertained a number of their friends last Sunday at a dinner at the Hogerson in Twin Falls. Those present were D. E. Clark and family, C. A. Baker and wife, Marion Brown and family, and Perry Walshaw, with their little daughter.

What might very easily have proven a serious accident occurred to the Baker car, as the party were turning into the stand way for the cars in Twin Falls. Mr. Baker turned, just as a car with an unknown driver, came down the street. The car failed to stop and no accident, but as the high cars were running at a slow rate of speed no damage was done except to frighten the occupants.

F. Brown was a busy man one evening last week, doctoring bloated cattle nearly all night, and three of the animals required sticking.

Murtaugh News

Times' Special Correspondence.

Joab Hutchinson of Artesian City, was taken to the Twin Falls hospital to undergo an operation for hernia. He advanced age of 80 years was against his recovery and he passed away Saturday morning. The body was brought to Murtaugh Sunday morning and laid to rest in the Artesian City cemetery. The deceased leaves a wife and two daughters and two sons to mourn his loss.

The Bee Hive ladies met at the home of Mrs. Limon Bates Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodhouse and family of Island, visited Saturday and Sunday at the Woodhouse and Roberts homes. Quite a number of birds were given in Friday night at the school house to the board for the new school building. Some changes will be made before the contract is let.

Dr. Kester, veterinary surgeon of Twin Falls, was called to the R. F. Jain ranch Sunday evening to see a very sick horse but was too late as it died at 10 o'clock. It had influenza fever. The doctor will return and vaccinate his other horses for fear of their taking the fever.

Miss Edith Boyd of Twin Falls, spent Sunday with relatives.

Rev. Pemberton is quite ill, caused by a nervous breakdown. All hope he will soon be strong again.

Floyd Morrison has returned home from Nebraska, where he attended agriculture school and will spend the summer here.

Misses Myrtle Pickett and Alice Belle Tolman, spent the week end in Twin Falls.

Cord and Margaret Boyd are visiting at the home of Arthur Boyd.

Filer Items

(From The Filer Journal.)

Last night the board, president of the order of Rebekahs from Caura d'Alene, and the grand secretary, Miss Crosson of Boise, accompanied by a team of thirty-two members from Twin Falls, came to Filer and organized the order. There were nine old members and eleven new members taken in. The following officers were elected: N. G. Mrs. Wilcox, V. E. Mrs. E. B. Ripley; R. S. Mrs. E. H. Harding; F. S. Mrs. Wm. Walters; Treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Ripley. After the initiation the visiting lodge adjourned to the Pharmacy parlors where a fine lunch was spread.

The teachers of the Filer schools are already scattered. Miss Root has left for her home in Michigan in company with Nina Nelson, who goes to South Dakota. Leroy Case procured them a couple of days on her way to Illinois, while Ethel Case has gone to her home in Great Falls, Montana.

The Polger girls are at home near Twin Falls. Miss Yeck has left for Nampa, and Prof. Brownlee will leave for New Mexico after spending a week in Twin Falls. Miss Pond, Mrs. Patton and Supt. Bracken will spend the summer at their home in Filer.

The program given for the benefit of the first floor by the club ladies at the Gem theatre yesterday afternoon, was a splendid success in spite of the rain. There were about two hundred in attendance and all spoke highly of the entertainment.

The Twin Falls ladies who so kindly gave their services gratis for this benefit were Nondina S. T. Murphy, I. O. Brown, W. H. Dwight, C. Hues, Wilfred McKay Olson and the Misses Conway and Field. The Filer club ladies were assisted by the ladies of the Maroa, Washington, Poplar Hill and neighborhood clubs.

PIANO RECITALS WELL ATTENDED

The three piano recitals given by the students of Wm. B. Coburn, given last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the high school auditorium, were each a marked success. The auditorium was well filled each evening by people who are interested in music and the musical talent of Twin Falls. The effect of proper instruction and earnest application necessary for the presentation of the various numbers so well rendered, reflect great credit on Mr. Coburn's musical ability.

A PLATFORM BY DISINTERESTED PATRIOTS.

It is approaching near unto the election and the editors of the country newspapers may expect a deluge of that syndicated political dope, which can be headed up for news, with a Washington date line, or fixed up as editorial without obligation to credit and no cost. We have an offer on file from the American Protective Tariff League, headed by William E. Fishback, Wakefield, special representative of special interests, offering free any amount of such junk. Of course the poor laboring man pays for this stuff, that is in the end. They take it out of his wages.—Grangeville Free Press.

The American Protective Tariff league shows its disinterested good will in other ways, one of which is the assistance it proffers in the writing of platforms for political parties. It makes no charge for this service, nor does it expect remuneration or reward of any sort. Disinterested patriotism is the inspiring motive. The league is now sending out proposed platforms to Republican politicians and to newspapers of various political beliefs, suggesting that certain planks be inserted in this year's platforms. The proposed platforms end up with the following plank:

"We therefore give pledge that at the earliest moment following the inauguration of a protectionist president and the induction of a protectionist congress an adequately protective tariff shall be enacted."

What an adequately protective tariff is in the opinion of these wholly-disinterested parties, who are so anxious about the welfare of the nation, can only be guessed, although they advocate in another place a tariff for the "protection of all American industries alike, that all may prosper alike."

Had reasoning, false inferences and untrue insinuations have unfortunately crept into the conclusions of these patriots to such an extent that some people, who do not with simple faith accept all utterances, will believe that the tariff league is hardly non-partisan in character, and is not wholly-disinterested. (A happy, almost unwarranted conclusion!)

One patent fact in connection with the protection of industries is that they do not need "protection alike" in order to "prosper alike." Moreover tariff schedules nominally affording the same protection to all industries would result in much protection to some and none to others. There are some industries which do not come into competition with foreign productions because their products are produced more cheaply at home than abroad, and the producers are too numerous in some of these industries to make possible a combination in order to fix the price of the consumer of more than a competitive price. For these a substantial "protection" would be unnecessary and of absolutely no benefit. But where the home-manufacturers are few enough, or great enough in size to control the markets, a "protective" tariff, plus cost of transportation, would make possible prices that would afford a tremendous rakeoff to the favored few. No doubt the American Protective Tariff league is aware of this. No doubt its membership includes the few who would benefit materially by such a tariff as the league advocates. But then the league is, of course, working for the benefit of the whole country and would not let such considerations as this interfere with the accomplishment of that purpose.

DAVIS HAD THE GOODS.

That Captain E. G. Davis "had the goods" when he made the statement here last winter in a public address that a certain Republican state official had appraised lands in which he was virtually interested, for a state loan, seems to be borne out by developments within the last week. The official referred to is State Auditor Fred L. Huston and the land in question was sold by him just prior to the valuation and loan, to Thomas M. Williams, P. W. Williams and John S. Scott. Luther W. Huston, the father of the state auditor, also received a loan on lands transferred to him by his son, but appraised by the state appraiser. At the time that the lands were transferred by State Auditor Huston it was necessary to redeem them from sheriff's sale, inasmuch as the loans were made immediately following the transfers and apparently secured through the activity of the state auditor, it was claimed by Captain Davis that this not only showed undue and suspicious activity on the part of that official in his own interest, but that it also substantially amounted to a permission by the land board to him to violate the state law which forbids the loaning of more than $5000 to any person. The loans granted under the circumstances named aggregated $19,000, of which $5000 each went to Thomas M. Williams, P. W. Williams and Luther Huston and $4000 to John S. Scott.

Another feature of the transaction which caused unfavorable comment was the fact that the appraiser's fees amounting to $190 were cancelled, on the ground that no charge had been made for the appraisement.

On the vigorous denunciation of the transaction by Captain Davis the land board reversed its previous action and decided to demand the appraisement fees. This action was determined on by a vote of three to two, Attorney General Peterson and State Auditor Huston voting against charging the fees. Later it was announced that the state auditor had secured other investors who would take up the mortgage and that the state loan would be cancelled.

That the transaction was of doubtful morals and propriety seems to be putting the matter mildly.

TWIN FALLS ANOTHER SALT LAKE CITY?

The story of the great strike at Jarbridge, recently confirmed, following a conference of the Sloss and Chesapeake representatives at San Francisco, will mean much for this city and for the Twin Falls tract. While less sensational, the assurance that the mines at Contact promise to realize all that was hoped from them, is itself an item of much importance to Twin Falls. Salt Lake City was built up from the mines in the surrounding mountains, and the same is true of Denver and several other large American cities that have had no greater camps in their neighborhood than that at Jarbridge promises to be. The agricultural resources of this city and its adjacent territory are great, and even though there were no mines, it would always be a thriving and progressive city, but all indications are that it is destined to be much more so and that it will prove the metropolis of the country lying between Salt Lake City and Spokane. The agricultural resources will be worth much more if the mines at Jarbridge and Contact prove as wealthy as it seems now assured that they will, for these camps will furnish a nearby market for the almost unlimited resources of the fields and dairies on the tract.

A SOLDIER OF THE FLAG

By Caroline Christian Kunkely

"STUFF AND NONSENSE!" said Mr. Job Larkins, "this Memorial Day, guns and feathers, bands of music, flags, powder, and wagon loads of flowers. Better take the money and give it to the widows, orphans, and the living soldiers. Much these dead soldiers know or care about Memorial Day, though I wonder if it is true here." It was a fact well known to Mr. Job Larkins though he never mentioned it to any of his friends, that he might have been lying by the side of some of his comrades, if he hadn't taken such precious good care of himself—that he didn't get in the way of any more bullets, that was all, and that was necessary. "They might better," continued Mr. Larkins, "be a flaking after the veterans that need help in their old age. Now though Job did not need pecuniary help he voted the complaints of some of his dead friends' neighbors who did, and who were never satisfied with the G. A. R. work or its officers. Job grumbled to his wife (poor soul), and she had to listen to what he would have been anxious to complain of to a man. Mrs. Larkins hardly knew whether Job had been the bravest soldier in the army, one of the uncounted heroes of war, or the one who learned to grumble there, and had never gotten over it. In any case, she felt that a man who had served through the war, and had come back alive from such danger was entitled to much honor, and all the love and little woman could give him. Yet she seemed attracted to him, and she knew a man could have escaped from the storm of bullets and shells, and cannon balls, that Job had come through, and he had described the things that happened to her, and brought the vivid word pictures before her mind, her heart had bled at the thought of the awful carnage of war. This was Sherman Day, and Job was to march as usual with his comrades, so Mrs. Larkins scolded him with loving words, and helped Job brush his "garment suit," and saw that it was all "spice and span." Now if Mr. Larkins had known what an eventful day Memorial Day 1915 was to be, his heart would never have lingered so long over the details of his toilet. He wouldn't have polished the buttons of his coat, or pinned on his badge, or cared fully. No, he would have hung the suit away, and taken the shortest route for the nearest land where Memorial Day was unknown. But, happily unconscious of all in store for him there was no more soldierly-looking veteran than Job Larkins, and he had heartily enjoyed the old war days when he saw the dear old flag flung out to the breeze, and heard the roll of the drum. The color came to his eyes when he thought of the "march," and into Job's mind came all the old memories of the past. Again he and his boyhood friends marched under George Meade's down the river, the deep Occanee, and its twin the bright Occanee, until—Atlanta, the gate city of the South was in ruins; Job shouldered his rifle, and he remembered the graves of sons, and sties that marked the long weary march of Sherman to the sea. Ah! Job's heart was growing tender as he thought of the dear old boys, and he brushed away a tear as the band began to play sad, grand strains such as are played when heroes and martyrs are being borne to their last resting place. On went the long procession until "Fairview cemetery" was reached. At the first entrance was a mound on which flowers and flags were placed to the memory of the "unknown dead." Over in the north-east corner they went first, and stood with uncovered heads by the grave of one of "the boys." On a tall shaft of marble they read "Willis Jay, fell in action—April 28, 1864." Job thought of Willis with a sudden pang of pity. An only son, brave as a lion, only a college boy in his teens, and to be shot through the heart in the first battle! Job looked up with dim eyes, and his face blanched, for there, leaning against the shaft was Willis himself. The slender youth, taller than Job, stared, horror-stricken. Yes, it was Willis. The white face so sorrowful, yet tender in its expression, was looking at Job, into whose mind came the thought of how the Savior had at St. Peter until he broke his heart. Ah! if Willis wouldn't look so at him, "Willis must be reproaching me," thought poor Job. He tried to speak, but his lips seemed stuck together, he could only look and think, "My God, they do know, I believe, that we have not forgotten them." "Willis," he tried to say. The procession moved on and halted at a low cross of snowy stone. Job read the name on the cross, "Warren Wells," and when the flowers brightened the vivid green of the mound, and the wreath hung on the arm of the white cross, Job looked up expecting to see Warren standing there—and he was. On his white forehead was the cruel battle wound, but he looked at Job, no one else. The slender youth forgot Job, that Willis had given him Job thought, and he flashed through his mind that he had never said all the kind things about Warren that he might have said. "Warren," he tried to say, but he could only whisper, and still Warren looked at him, though now his look changed, and there was a happy smile on his face as he stretched out his good right hand toward Job. "Oh, this is horrible!" thought Job, did they all know what he had said, and were they coming to reproach him for his words? Again the column moved on, down one of the smooth gravel walks to the strains of the music; again the soldiers halted. Overhead the blue sky shone cloudless, again the warm wind rustled the leaves. The sun came throwing flickering shadows on the closest grass. The sun touched each uncovered head lovingly as though to say, "You were there with them, but now you came back to love, and friends, and home, while they have slept these many years." All this came to Job, and he looked through a mist of tears as they stopped at one mound, then at another. There

The Progressives will nominate Roosevelt for president. If the Republican convention adopts a straightforward, sincere, ringing declaration on the vital public questions now discussed, and nominates a man clearly equal to the immortal tasks which will confront the next president, Roosevelt might not think there would be any need of his entering the field. But if the Republicans—nominating a man whom Mr. Roosevelt thinks is a misfortune and adopt a platform which he regards as "bunk" he may feel so outraged as to run and perhaps re-elect President Wilson.

Senator Borah Quoted As Favoring Judge Hughes' Nomination It Predicts.

—WASHINGTON—Interviews with senators and representatives from the Rocky mountain and Pacific northwest indicate that practically all the states are likely to vote for the nomination of Justice Hughes in the Chicago convention after the preliminary first ballot is taken. The vote of Oregon will be given Justice Hughes on the first and succeeding ballots. According to Senators Hughes of Washington and Borah of Idaho the delegates from their respective states will vote for Hughes, if not on the first ballot, on succeeding ballots. Senator Smoot says that, while he has not had an opportunity to confer with all of the members of the Utah delegation to the convention, he believes the prevailing sentiment of the delegation is favorable to Justice Hughes. Republican State Chairman Evan Evans of Idaho, arrived in Washington Saturday and spent Sunday in conference with Senator Borah. Monday he conferred with Senator Brady. The object of his conference was not disclosed by any party thereto, further than WHATEVER opinion one may hold regarding the ability of native style specialists to create fashions in frocks, no one acquainted with facts will deny native supremacy in the origination of neckwear. And there's a very good reason why American mode creators excel in this particular section of the sartorial field.

American women are more exacting in their choice of neckwear than the women of any other country. Wait a moment. We do not mean to infer that only the American woman exhibits good taste in the selection of these accessories of the wardrobe. We mean that the demand for neckwear is greater in the United States than in any other country.

America is the home of the separate blouse—the erstwhile "shirtwaist." American women purchase more tailored suits than the women of any other countries. The separate blouse and the tailored suit are garments that demand separate neckwear as their complement. And there is the answer and the reason in a nutshell.

Considering the present and the approaching season, it is pertinent to point out that native mode creators have created a demand for a modernized version of the neck ruche—the separate neckpiece of tulle, chiffon, net and other materials. These ruches are to contest for favoritism with last summer's style sensation—the fur neckpiece.

I have just received an express shipment of the newest and smartest creations in women's neckwear in separate collars, ruffs and collar and cuff sets. It will be a pleasure to us to show them to you.

WHEN SHADOWS FALL
The red sun drops behind the hill.
The day is past—the twilight still.
The crimson splashed on sun set sky.
Turns to pink of softest dye.
Then slowly fades and melts away.
And twilight reigns in place of day.

From over edge of tree-tops dim,
On fading pink of sunset rim
The star of evening sheds its ray.
And things of night come out to play.
A turtle dove with coo of love,
Brings her message from above.

The day of night begins to fall.
The wild things of the night to call.
Twilight deepens, the moon comes up.
And flowers lift a dewy cup
To greet with dew a silver star.
For moonlight reigns in place of day.

Milk placed in the new machine quickly turns to a whitish, almost vapor-like powder. But, unlike milk which has been reduced to powder by heating processes, the fluid treated in the centrifugal motion machine is said to lose none of its nutritive value, and when mixed with water an hour or year later becomes real, pure milk again. It tastes precisely like the original; it contains, as chemical analysis shows, every one of the characteristics and properties of milk, and produces a thick, rich cream—providing the original milk did—from which but one may be charged.

Herr Krause has as yet revealed his exact process to no one, though his machine is open to inspection and he has operated it for the benefit of scores

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Sheridan's attempt to make a business man of his son Bibbs by starting him in the machine shop ends in Bibbs going to a seclusion, a nervous wreck.

CHAPTER II—On his return Bibbs is met at the station by his sister Edith. CHAPTER III—He finds himself an uncomfortable and unconsidered figure in the "New House" of the Sheridans. He sees Mary Vertrees looking at him from a summer house next door.

CHAPTER IV—The Vertreeses, old town family and impoverished, call on the Sheridans, newly-rich, and afterward discuss the world's leading parents, unspoken with that she marry one of the Sheridan boys. CHAPTER V—At the Sheridan home, the warm-hearted Sheridan spreads his arms about his son, who is in the midst of the attention, and Bibbs hears he is to be sent back to the machine shop.

CHAPTER VI—Mary tells her mother about the banquet and shocks her mother by talking of Jim as a matrimonial possibility.

CHAPTER VII—Jim tells Mary Bibbs is not a human, "just quiet." He proposes to Mary, who half accepts him.

CHAPTER VIII—Sheridan tells Bibbs he must go back to the machine shop as soon as he is strong enough, in spite of Bibbs' plea to be allowed to write.

CHAPTER IX—Edith and Bibbs, Roscoe Sheridan's wife, quarrel over Bibbs' Lumber. Bibbs goes to Mary to help to keep the peace between the two.

CHAPTER X—Edith breaks to his father the news of his sudden death.

CHAPTER XI—All the rest of the family help in their grief, and Bibbs becomes temporary master of the house. At the funeral he meets Mary and rides home with her.

CHAPTER XII—Mary Sheridan pleads with Bibbs to return to the machine shop for his father's sake, and he consents.

CHAPTER XIII—Bibbs purposely interrupts a tea-table between Edith and Roscoe. He tells Edith that he overheard Roscoe making love to Roscoe's wife.

CHAPTER XIV—Mutual love of music arouses an intimate friendship between Bibbs and Mary.

CHAPTER XV—Mary sells her piano to help out the finances of the Vertrees family.

CHAPTER XVI—Mrs. Vertrees' opportunity occurred the very next afternoon. Darkness had fallen and the two mothers had come to the front steps, and Mrs. Vertrees was standing in the open doorway when she heard a sharp exclamation, and Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan, who had been watching from the shadow into the light of the doorway.

"Good gracious!" she cried. "It did give me a fright!"

"It's Mrs. Sheridan, isn't it?" Mrs. Vertrees was startled by this informal appearance, but she reflected that it might be proverbial. "Won't you come in?"

"No. Oh, no, thank you," Bibbs panted, pressing her hand to her side. "You don't know what a fright you've given me!" And it was nothing but your piano!" She laughed shrilly. "I just glanced out of the window, a minute or so ago, and saw your door wide open and the light of the house against the light, carrying something heavy, and I thought I'd seen your daughter start for a drive with Bibbs Sheridan in a car about three o'clock—and they aren't back yet, are they?"

"No. Good night," Mrs. Vertrees said. "And the only thing I could think of was that something must have happened to them, and I just dashed over—and it was only your piano!" She broke into laughter again. "I suppose you're just settling it somewhere to be repaired, aren't you?"

"It's—It's been taken down," said Mrs. Vertrees. "Won't you come in?"

"Thank you, but I must be running back. My husband usually gets home about this time, and I make a little point of it always to be there."

"That's very sweet," Mrs. Vertrees descended the steps and walked toward the street with Bibbs.

"I'm afraid Mrs. Vertrees will miss her piano," said Bibbs, watching the instrument disappear into the big van at the curb. "She plays wonderfully."

"Yes, she plays very well. Mr. Sheridan came last evening to hear her play because she had arranged with them that it was to be removed this afternoon. He seems almost well again."

"Yes," Bibbs nodded. "His father's going to try to start him to work."

"He seems very delicate," said Mrs. Vertrees. "I shouldn't think he would be able to stand a great deal, either physically or—"

"She paused and then added, glowing with the sense of her own adroitness—"or mentally."

"Oh, mentally Bibbs is all right," said Bibbs, in an odd voice.

"But has he always been?" The question came with anxious eagerness. "Certainly. He had a long series of nervous dyspepsia, but he's over it."

"Bibbs is all right. You needn't worry," Bibbs choked, and pressed her handkerchief to her mouth. "Good night, Mrs. Vertrees," she said, hurriedly.

"You're coming in?" urged Mrs. Vertrees, cordially, hearing the sound of a cheerful voice out of the darkness beyond the approaching glare of automobile headlights. "Do there's Mary now, and she—"

But Bibbs was half-way across the street. "No, thanks," she called. "I hope she won't miss her piano!" And she ran into her own house and plunged headlong upon a leather divan in the hall, holding her handkerchief over her mouth.

The noise of her tumultuous entrance was evidently startling, for there followed the crash of a decanter upon the floor of the dining room. And after a rumble of indistinct profanity, Roscoe came forth, holding a dripping napkin in his hand.

"What's your excitement?" he demanded. "What do you find to go into hysterics over? Another death in the family?"

"Oh, it's funny," she gasped. "These old front-litten people! I must be getting their composure!" Lying prone, she elevated her feet in the air, clapping her heels together repeatedly, in an ecstasy.

"Come through, come through!" she whined, crossly. "What you been up to?"

"Me?" she cried, dropping her feet and swinging around to face him. "Nothing. It's them! Those Vertreeses!" She wiped her eyes. "They've had to sell their piano!"

"Well, what of it?"

"That Mrs. Kittersey told me all about 'em a week ago," said Bibbs. "They've been hard up for a long time, and she says as long ago as last winter she knew that girl got a pair of walking shoes re-soled and patched, because she got it done the same place Mrs. Kittersey's cook had here!"

"Well, well," he urged, impatiently. "Well, I'm telling you Mrs. Kittersey says they haven't got a thing! Just absolutely nothing—and they don't go anywhere to turn! She says the whole town's been wondering what would become of 'em. The girl had plenty chances to marry up to a year or so ago, but she was so indifferent she scared the men off. Gracious! They were lucky! Marry her? The man that found himself tied up to that girl—"

"Terrible funny, terrible funny!" said Roscoe, with sarcasm. "It's so funny I broke a cut glass decanter and spilled a quart of—"

"Well, she heard—"

"You'll see. I saw a big wagon drive up and some men go into the house. Well, I thought I'd see, so I slipped over—and it was their piano! They'd sold it and were trying to sneak it out after dark, so nobody'd catch on! Again she gave way to her enjoyment, but resumed, as her husband seemed about to interrupt the narrative, "Wait a minute, can't you? Yes, they'd sold it, and I hope they'll pay some of their debts. They owe everybody, and last week a coal dealer made an awful fuss at the door with Mr. Vertrees. The cook told our upstairs girl, and she said she didn't know when she'd seen any money, herself! Did you ever hear of such a case as that girl in your life?"

"What girl? Their cook?"

"That Vertrees girl! Don't you see they looked on our coming up into this neighborhood as their last chance? They were just going down and out, and here she gets the green, rich Sheridan family! So they send her out to get a Sheridana—she's got to get one! And she just goes in blind; and Jim was landed—there's no doubt about that! But Jim was lucky; he didn't live to stay landed, and it's a good thing for him! Bibbs' mirth had vanished, and she spoke with violent rapidity. "Well, she couldn't get you because you were married, and she couldn't get Jim because Jim died. And there they were, dead broke! Do you know what she did? Do you know what she's doing?"

"Oh, I don't," said Roscoe, grumpy. "She's been here and culminated in a scream of renewed hilarity. "Bibbs! She waited in the graveyard, and drove home with him from Jim's funeral! Never spoke a word before Jim wasn't

"She rocked herself back and forth upon the divan. "Bibbs! She shrieked. "She stared sympathetically, but she wasn't qualified for all that. "And yesterday," she continued, between paroxysms—"yesterday she came out of the house—just as he was passing. She must have been looking out, waiting the chance. I saw her last night watching at the window! And she got him there last night—to play to him! The old lady gave that away! And today she made him take her out in a machine! And the cream of it is that she doesn't even know whether he was insane or not!—they thought may be he was, but she went after him just the same! The old lady set herself to pump me about it today. Bibbs! Oh, my Lord! Bibbs!"

But Roscoe looked grim. "So it's funny to you, is it? It sounds kind of pitiful to me. I should think it would to a woman, too."

"Oh, it might," she returned, sobering. "It might, if those people weren't such frozen-faced snoots. Alas! If they'd had the decency to come down off the perch a little! I probably wouldn't think it their funeral, but to see 'em sit up on their pedestals all the time they're eating dirt—well, I think it's funny! That girl sits up as if she was Queen Elizabeth, and expects people to wallow on the ground before her until they get near enough for her to give 'em a good kick with her old patched shoes—oh, she'd do that, all right!—and then she powders up and goes out to mash—Bibbs Sheridan!"

"Look here," said Roscoe, heavily. "I don't care about that one way or another. If you're through, I got something to want to talk to you about. I was going to, that day just before we heard about Jim."

At this Bibbs stiffened quickly; her eyes became intensely bright. "What is it?"

"Well," he began, frowning, "what I was going to say then—"

He broke off, and becoming conscious that he was still holding the wet napkin in his hand, threw it pettishly into a corner. "I never expected I'd have to say anything like this to anybody—I married—but I was going to ask you what was the matter between you and Lam-

Bibbs uttered a sharp monosyllabic. "Well!"

"I felt the time had come for me to know about it," he went on. "You never told me anything."

"You never asked," she interposed, curtly.

"Well, we'd got in a way of not talking much," said Roscoe. "It looks to me now as if we'd pretty much got the run of each other the way a good many people do. I don't say it wasn't my fault. I was up early and down to work all day; and I'd come home tired at night, and went to go to bed soon as I'd got the paper read—there were some good musical shows in town. Well, you seemed all right until here lately, the last month or so, I began to see something was wrong. I couldn't help seeing it."

"Wrong?" she said. "What like?"

"You changed; you didn't look the same. You were all strung up and excited and fidgety; you got to looking peevish and snarling. Now then, Lam-

Lamorn had been going with us a good while, but I noticed that not long ago down just about the time you began falling out with him. He stepped close to her—'See here, Bibbs! I'm going to know what it means.'"

"Oh, you are?" she snapped. "That was what you were going to say the other day. Yes. What else have you to say tonight?"

"Tonight," he replied, with grim swiftiness, "I want to know why you keep telephoning him when you want to see him since he stopped coming here."

She made a long, low sound of comprehension before she said, "And what else did Edith want you to ask me?"

"I want to know what you say over the telephone to Lamorn," he said, fiercely.

"It's that all?" Edith told you to ask me? You say her when you stopped in there on your way home this evening, didn't you? Didn't she tell you then what I said over the telephone to Mr. Lamorn?"

"No, she didn't," he vociferated, his voice growing louder. "She said, 'You tell your wife to stop telephoning Robert Lamorn to come and see her, because he isn't going to do it! That's what she said! And I want to know what it means. I intend—'"

A maid appeared at the lower end of the hall. "Dinner is ready," she said, and, giving the troubled pair one glance, went down into the dining room. Roscoe disregarded the interruption.

"I intend to know exactly what has been going on," he declared. "I mean to know just what—"

Sibyl jumped up, almost touching him, standing face to face with him. "Oh, you do!" she cried, shrilly. "You mean to know just what's what, do you?—You listen to your sister instructing ugly things about your wife, and then you come home making a scene about the servants and humiliating me in their presence! Do you suppose that Irish girl didn't hear every word you said? You go on there and eat your dinner alone! Go on! Go and eat your dinner alone—because I won't eat with you!"

And she broke away from the detaining grasp he sought to fasten upon her, and dashed up the stairway, panting. He heard the door of her room slam overhead, and the sharp click of the key in the lock.

MELLOW-SWEET IS TASTE OF "SPEAR HEAD"

Most Richly-Flavored Chew That Was Ever Pressed Into Plugs

FAVORITE FOR A GENERATION

Red-blooded men with real tobacco hunger find that they can satisfy it only by chewing, and the most wholesome and satisfying tobacco to chew is that made in plug form.

The limit of luxury in tobacco-chewing is the rich, sweet, juicy flavor that trickles through your system when you chew Spear Head.

No other chewing tobacco is so mellow, so luscious, and so satisfying. No other equals Spear Head for putting a keen edge on your appetite.

Spear Head is made of the world's best tobacco leaf—the choice of old Kentucky Dury. This leaf is selected for its full, juicy richness with the most painstaking care; it is stemmed by hand, is pressed into Spear Head plugs so slowly that not a drop of the rich, natural juice escapes.

Your first chew of Spear Head will open your eyes to the genuine enjoyment there is in chewing.

Chew the rich, mellow tobacco that has been the favorite for a third of a century—that's Spear Head. Try a 5c or 10c cut.

JARBIDGE WANTS NEW GRADE FINISHED

Times' Correspondent Tells of Great Advantages From Satisfactory Roads.

During the past week the camp was visited by a number of Jarbridge and Idaho county and state officials, and the matter of a new and better road was looked into very thoroughly. The party all came into camp in autos and all agreed that this end of the road might be much better for auto travel if some of the grades were eliminated. Accompanying the officials above mentioned, were J. B. Lechler of Rock Creek; W. B. McKelch, of Grand View; Mr. Reynolds, U. S. mail contractor, and Mr. Hestick, of the DuPont Powder company. A large number of the citizens of the town met the visiting commissioners at the club hall in the evening and the whole road business was gone over very fully and the great necessity of a new piece of road between Jarbridge and the Hot Springs was concurred by everyone. All the gentlemen were very enthusiastic over the outlook of the district and expressed themselves very emphatically in favor of the proposed new section of road and promised to take the matter up with their respective commissions and do all they could to further the immediate building of the proposed road. A survey of the proposed route had been made and blue prints of the profile and details of the work necessary were at hand for the use of the commissioners. The new piece of road is about twelve miles long and it is estimated that one thousand dollars per mile will build it in good shape. About half of this road will be in Jarbridge and the other half in Owyhee county. This road will cut out all of the heavy grades between Jarbridge and the Hot Springs and thus eliminate all of the grades which now give trouble to autos and freight teams. With this new road completed, this route through Jarbridge should become an important inter-state thoroughfare, connecting the state roads of Idaho with the Lincoln highway and other auto highways of Nevada. The Jarbridge-Deeth road, over the summit of the Humboldt range, offers a fast and magnificent scenery to the traveler. To the north this Jarbridge road connects with the state roads of Idaho which are already built from Twin Falls to Yellowstone National park, while, to the south and west it connects with the fine county roads of Nevada extending down the Humboldt river and the Lincoln highway over to the Yosemite. Jarbridge begins to show some promise of making a great camp and to realize something of the early expectations. The Long like mile is proving to be a really big mile and gives promise of becoming one of the great mines of the state. George Wingfield and other strong operators are investigating properties in camp and there is every assurance that there will be considerable activity in the district this season.

CARRANZA TROOPS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Hope To Capture Villa Soon and End Reason for American Occupation.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex.—Strong columns of Constitutionalists have been dispatched by General Juarros Trevino, military commander of northern Mexico, to surround Hacienda Minera, about 125 miles from Juarez, where General Isidoro Ramirez reportedly reported Villa with a few followers, to be hiding. The troop movement announced Saturday was said to be in response to additional information reports. Military authorities here seemed confident that the bandit chieftain would be captured either dead or alive, within a few days. Flying columns are also being prepared to pursue the Villista bandits between the American field bases and the flanks of the American expeditionary column. It is hoped that these flying commands will prove so effective, that there will be no work for the American troops to do and that in the light of their resultant inactivity prompt "retirement" will be recognized as the logical necessity. Other moves in the new plan of campaign were revealed in a report Saturday by General Trevino to Minister of War Obregon. In this the military commander announced an entire redistribution of the command. A brigade under Manuel Bileendo has been instructed to entrain immediately for Cuernavaca from which point it will march to San Francisco de Borja. Being that village as a base, garrisons of 100 men each, to patrol the surrounding country in search for bandits are to be established in Caruach, churches of Satevo, Nonava, and Silegachic, in the territory recently evacuated by the Americans. Gen. Matias Rangel and his brigade have been ordered to Aldama to await orders, while Colonel Zazuaga's command will occupy Santa Yumbel, Santa Andres and the district in the vicinity of Buellitos. ARTISTIAN CITY MAN DIES IN HOSPITAL IN THIS CITY. Jacob H. Hutchinson of Artesian City, died at the Twin Falls hospital Saturday and was buried at the Artesian City cemetery Sunday afternoon. Mr. Hutchinson was aged 77 years, seven months and three days. The services were conducted by the pastor of the Church of the Brethren of Nurtough.

RUPERT WINS GAME SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Visitors Outplay Home Team—Pitching by Frambeck the Feature.

After a drubbing that made the Twin Falls fans feel like George Washington would have done, had his father caught him while engaged in his wood-chopping activities, the local organization Sunday determined to sign two of the men who helped beat them, and took on McCormick and Pierce, who were identified with the Rupert nine. The visitors won by a score of four to one. The locals were outplayed by the Rupert aggregation though the margin was not great in favor of the outsiders. However, the intell work of the visitors was the best seen here this season. The feature of the game was the pitching of Frambeck of Rupert who let Twin Falls down with one hit, a three bagger by Robinson. The first seven innings constituted a pitcher's battle. The following is a summary of features: Three base hit, Robinson. Base on balls, Frambeck 4. Hit by pitched ball, Frambeck 1. Struck out, Frambeck 7; Hart 7. Stolen bases, Ansel, Wagner, Pierce.

SALVATIONISM IS SCREENED. "World Film" presents the California Company's photoplay version of Edward Sheldon's very successful drama "Salvation Nell", with Beatrice Mitchell in the title role, the most ambitious role which this lady has attempted in pictures. It is a very powerful drama when seen on the screen, full of startling and lurid episodes, underworld life with, over all, the benign influence of the Salvation Army exerting itself for the betterment of defective human nature. "Salvation Nell" is a good advertisement for the Army and a powerful moral lesson, as well. It shows that there is hope even for the near hopeless. Nell is the victim of deplorable environment and deplorable parentage. All the squalid vices of sordid humanity attack her; but in the end Salvationism triumphs and the girl is saved and made whole. Drink and misconduct stalk through the offering which also takes us to goal, and introduces us to a picturesque variety of crooks of all degrees and kinds. But, as we have said, the noble Army gets Nell in the end. Well produced and acted; with strong supporting cast. "Salvation Nell" will prove a very popular offering. "Salvation Nell" will be shown at the Isis theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

FAMOUS SPEEDER IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

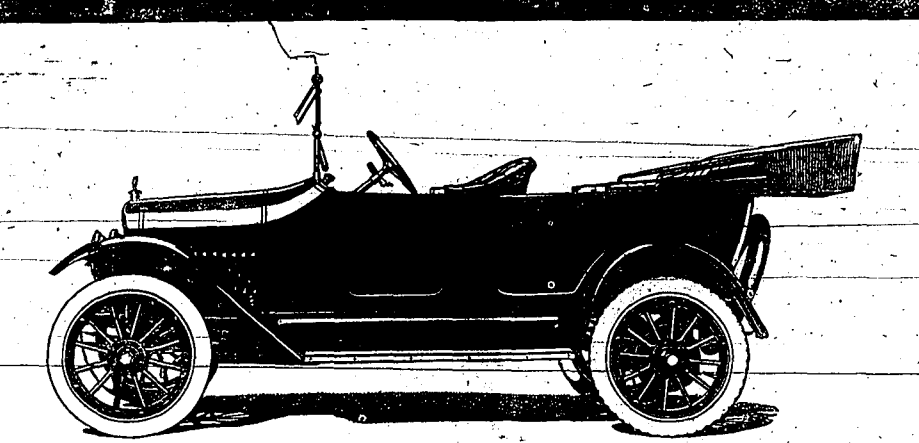

Wendell Glyenstein Plunges Over Embankment—Water Prevented Injury. Dashing over an embankment, 13 feet high while speeding on his motorcycle Sunday afternoon, Wendell Glyenstein was saved from death or serious injury by falling into a pool of water instead of landing on the nearby jagged rocks. His motorcycle was a total wreck. Mr. Glyenstein was one of a party of 15 who went on eight motorcycles to the lower Salmon Power dam Sunday. He is famed in this and adjoining towns for his daring feats on a motor. His injuries were comparatively slight and consisted in a severe bruise on the head and some bruises. The accident took place on the grade four miles this side of Owyhee ferry. Dr. Baker came along with his car just after Mr. Glyenstein had been faked out and brought him back to the city. The original intention was to go to the ice caves and organize a motorcycle club. The party started late and finding that owing to the late spring, ice had not yet been from the caves, the party went to the Salmon power dam and had dinner at the hotel in Hagerman. An hour was later starting they were unable to organize. The peculiar phenomenon, namely the freezing of the ice caves only in hot weather is considered one of the marvels of the Twin Falls tract.

Impossible To Get So Much Motor Car Value For The Money

WE FIND this is the attitude of many people who come into our showroom—before they know anything about the Maxwell.

Not until the Maxwell is shown and demonstrated to them—until they sit in it and examine the finish—until they ride in it—or perhaps not until they drive it themselves, do they realize what a tremendous value is offered in the Maxwell car.

It is not unusual that Maxwell value should not be known to everyone, because it is uncommon to find such a car for a good margin more than the Maxwell price.

The Maxwell stands absolutely alone in a highly competitive field, for the amount of value it offers for the price.

Appearance—The lines of the Maxwell are decidedly attractive. There is no break in the contour from the radiator to the back of the car. The fenders are gracefully shaped. All metal parts are enameled or nickel-plated. The upholstery is deep and well-finished. From any angle it is a car that the owner can be proud of.

Motor—The engine in the Maxwell car is not equalled by any other four-cylinder engine of its size. And we know of larger and more expensive cars that have less able power plants. The Maxwell engine carries its load through mud and sand or over the steepest grades without a falter.

Quality—The materials in the Maxwell car are the best that can be bought and the workmanship that turns them into finished parts is no less excellent. It is only the large production of the Maxwell factories that makes it possible to put such quality of materials and workmanship into a car selling at the Maxwell price.

Economy—With its other attractive features, the Maxwell is a most economical car to own. Owners get 22 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline and 8,000 to 12,000 miles per set of tires. And the car is so durably built that repair expense is negligible.

We are sure you want a car such as we have described the Maxwell to be. If you will give us a few minutes of your time we are sure we can convince you that the Maxwell Car is an exceptional value. Come in today.
