TWICE-A-WEEK THE TWIN FALLS TIMES

VOL. XI. NO. 48. ELEVENTH YEAR. TWIN FALLS, TWIN FALLS COUNTY, IDAHO, THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1916. SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

JACKSON LAKE DAM NEARLY COMPLETED

Will Conserve Shortage Water
For Irrigation

GREATEST CAPACITY OF ANY DAM
OF ITS HEIGHT.

Secretary Taylor Says Extra Water
Will Likely Not Be Needed Here
This Year.

Shortly after July 1, this year, two-thirds of the maximum allotment of 85,000 acre feet which is assigned to the Twin Falls South Side tract as a result of the building of the Jackson Lake storage dam, will be available, it is expected. Owing to the amount of snow in the mountains and the large amount of water now coming down the river, Secretary Taylor said yesterday that it was not probable that this year the full amount of 85,000 acre feet will be available if required.

The following from the Monday issue of the Capital News gives a description of the dam and the total amount of storage capacity, which will be sufficient to hold water for the tract along the Snake river, in case of an unusually dry year which might otherwise result in shortage.

"The Jackson Lake storage dam, to be built on the Snake river, will store considerable water, which will be available for use this year. Its storage capacity is 700,000 acre feet, the greatest of any dam in the world of its height, 57 feet. The main dam will be completed within the original estimated cost of $1,000,000, a remarkable feature.

"It will take the water from Jackson lake seven days to flow down the Snake river to the Miller dam in order to arrange for the passage of this storage water, a conference was held in the office of State Engineer, in which time representatives of all irrigation and canal companies on the Snake river above Miller were present. The meeting was held in order that a full understanding might be had with respect to handling of the Jackson lake water, which will pass the Miller dam, canal headgates before it reaches its point of diversion to the Twin Falls project.

CONVOCATION OF 1917 MEET AT TWIN FALLS

Clerical and Lay Delegates From All Parts of State Coming Here Next Spring.

Twin Falls received its full share of the honors at the convention of the Episcopal church of the diocese of Idaho at Boise last week, by capturing the convocation next year, but having its two delegates selected as delegates to the Eighth Provincial synod which will be held sometime next winter in some city yet to be determined. The time for holding the convocation here next year has not been determined, but it will be some time in the late spring. Delegates, both clerical and lay, from all parts of the state will be present.

Rev. L. B. Frank and Col. C. L. Longley of this city, the clerical and lay delegates, respectively, at the Boise convocation, were among the delegates and four lay delegates selected for the meeting of the provincial synod.

TWO-ARRESTED ON STATUTORY CHARGE

Fay Cox and Harvey Standlee of Murtaugh in Custody

IMPLICATED BY STATEMENT OF
GIRL TO OFFICERS.

Condition of Lawlessness Among
Young Folks Said To Exist in Small Town.

Fay Cox and Harvey Standlee of Murtaugh, are under arrest, charged with a statutory offense and several young men from that town are in parts unknown as a result of a statement made Monday evening to the officers by Elsie Williams, who gives her age as 14 years.

Speaking of the matter yesterday Mr. Ormsby said: "For the past six months I have been hearing rumors of an alleged lawless condition said to prevail at Murtaugh, but definite information was lacking. Monday I was asked to go to that town and investigate as a result of recent developments there. I went, accompanied by Sheriff Kendall, and the investigation convinced me that a bad state of lawlessness among young people existed in that community, and that certain young men there were in the habit of making young girls drunk for immoral purposes."

"We brought Elsie Williams in and she made a statement implicating the young men now under arrest and others. We arrested these men and Tuesday returned to Murtaugh but found that several other young men had disappeared. A letter here that Saturday night dances had much to do with the bad conditions existing among the young people of that town. I intend to see that all laws of laws protecting minors are punished to the full extent of the law, both in Murtaugh and elsewhere in the county."

Attorney C. M. Booth has been retained to defend the young men, whose arrangement with the attorney is that he will be able to arrange during the term of the district court, now in session, and before which they both have a number of cases.

LARGER POSTAL DEPOSITS TO BE ACCEPTED

Changes in Postal Savings Bank
Regulations Made Possible by Law
Just Passed.

Larger postal savings deposits will now be accepted at the Post Office. This is made possible by an amendment to the Post Savings Act approved by President Wilson. A postal savings depositor may now have an account amounting to $1000 upon which interest will be paid. Formerly $500 was the maximum amount he could have in his credit. This enlargement of Postal Savings facilities will be very gratifying to thousands of depositors who have already made deposits. Many are anxious to entrust more of their savings to Uncle Sam. Another feature of the amendment "it will avoid further embarrassment to the public and to postal officials in the going away with the limit on the amount that could be accepted from a depositor. It will be a relief to the law $100 could be deposited in a calendar month. The amendment abolishes this restriction. While the Postal Savings System has already proved a signal success as is shown by the fact that more than a half a million depositors have over $100 million in their accounts, it is gratifying to know that it has fallen short of meeting the full demands of the public because of the restricted limit on the amount that could be deposited. Postmaster General Burleson and Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery have been tireless in their efforts to secure a modification of the limitations and the new liberalizing legislation is particularly gratifying to them.

AUNT OF J. A. WATERS PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Miriam Clarke died at the home of her son, William Clarke, near this city, Monday afternoon, June 1, at the age of 74 years. The funeral was held from the Grossman chapel Tuesday, and was conducted by the Rev. J. A. Waters. Mrs. Clarke came here from Nels, Colorado, three years ago. She leaves a son and a daughter, and a number of grandchildren. She was a widow for 30 years. She was an aunt of J. A. Waters.

CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL IS AWARDED

Northern Pacific Construction
Company to Do Work

CONTRACT FOR PLUMBING IS AWARDED TO FRANK HEALY.

Matters of Installing Heating Was Deferred Until Friday Night For Final Action.

The contract for the construction of the new grade school was let Monday night to the Northern Pacific Construction company of Portland, which erected the fast wing built on the high school building, for the sum of $23,330, this company being the lowest bidder. Other bidders were E. White, $24,512; Bobler & Co., $25,217; W. G. Reed, $26,550; and Fraser, Dodd and Taylor, $28,672.

The contract for the plumbing was let to Frank Healy for $2,213; other bidders being L. J. White, $2,101; W. G. Reed, $2,421; J. P. Cooney, $2,000; H. H. Hanger, $2,105; Home Plumbing & Heating company, $2,345; Ballymore, $2,354.

The heating contract was not let the matter being deferred to a meeting tomorrow night. Bids for this contract were: W. G. McChesnon, $5,354; Boyer, $5,800 for furnace or $5,716 for steam; L. J. White, $5,699; Frank Healy, $5,623; W. G. Reed, $5,600; J. P. Cooney, $5,648.

Relative to the plumbing contract the board took the position that it was better to let the contract to a home man at a slightly increased figure, so they rejected the bid of J. P. Cooney on this ground. The difference between White and Healy was held so small as to be virtually immaterial, so the board held the bids to be practically for the same amount and awarded the contract to Healy.

BURLEY EXCURSION IS BEING PLANNED

Will Run Excursion to Ball Game If Arrangements Can Be Made—
Kimberly Hester.

An excursion is talked of to the baseball game in Burley Sunday between the team of this city and the Burley team. It is being planned by Kimberly Hester. It is shown at this time whether it can be arranged for. The game promises to be a warm one.

ROCK CREEK HAS FINE FRUIT CROP

John F. Hansen Says Orchards
Will Yield Well

APPLES, PEACHES, PEARLS AND SOON CHERRIES ABUNDANT.

Crockett-Furness Large—Walton Recovered—Wooden Shoe Cowboys Get Initiated.

"They said that the fruit was all killed down here and they also said that it was all dead at Rock Creek, but it isn't," said John F. Hansen, of that town yesterday. "I suppose that you had better not say that without investigation as folks might doubt it."

"I saw something at the Wooden Shoe headquarters today that always causes me when I see it. It was the breaking in of new cowboys. One young fellow in particular got an awful fright. The old cowboys let out in a horse-whispering way, and an outlaw and cautioned him about the animal until he was positively white. I rode the same old horse myself 19 years ago and he was a quiet animal then."

"The funeral of Mel Crockett yesterday was one of the largest ever seen in that part of the country; there were 41 autos in the procession. Mel was born on Rock Creek and everybody mourned and regretted his death. His father died two years ago and his mother passed away before. He left one brother, George Crockett, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Dunke."

"I learned this morning as I came in that John Walton who was hurt in the accident in which Crockett was killed, is so much better that he is able to get around now and today and that he is improving very rapidly."

TILLERY PROVES LIVE CORPSE FOR MOURNERS

Buhl Merchant and Family Fall to Verify Story of Wholesale Accidental Death.

That Ben R. Tillery and his wife and family were reported annihilated in an auto accident at either the Memorial day or the Salmon dam on Memorial day are still alive and able to take three square meals a day is the information brought from Buhl this morning by E. Hargraves, who says that the proprietor of the Golden Road store in the west end city is not only well, but is unable to account for the starting of the groundswell, the which aroused the whole community. No information has been received in Buhl in regard to any auto accident which would account for the starting of the rumor. The report was that Mr. Tillery had run his machine over a bank into the water and that all were killed.

GREAT SEEDHOUSE IS BEING ERECTED

Courteen Seed Company of Milwaukee Begins Building

NEW STRUCTURE WILL COST AP-
PROXIMATELY $25,000.

Building Will Be of Brick and Cement and Will Be Modern in Every Way.

Excavation work begun yesterday on the basement of the new, modern brick seed house of the Courteen Seed company of Milwaukee, Wis., which when completed will be one of the finest structures of its kind on the tract, and with machinery will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000. The walls will be of brick, the basement cemented and the roof will be of lead and gravel.

The main structure will be one story and a basement, 65 by 100 feet in size. There will be a lower 50 feet in height and other late appliances.

The Courteen Seed company, which is a pioneer institution of the northwest, and one of the largest seed companies in the country, has heretofore bought Twin Falls tract products through local agents, but realizing the possibilities and actualities of this country has decided to locate a large house here permanently. The basement will contain large storage rooms in which farmers may store their grain.

The contract has been let of W. G. Reed & company of this city. The excavating is being done by the Crocker Transfer company.

The new building will be erected on Shoshone street south, along side the end of the tract, between Shoshone and Fifth avenues south.

BAPTIST PEOPLE ENDORSE PASTOR

Congregation Recommends Rev. B.
C. Miller, Who Resigns For His Health.

Rev. B. C. Miller, who resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church in this city recently on account of ill health and who will leave Monday for Portland, Ore., for recuperation, received more than the required weight of fish. It cost him $15. Offenders were said to have been on the ground, but had been driven off by the cold weather. This recalls the story told on Lieutenant Bob Sles of Buhl, who it is said, went out last week to fish and had been successful in catching more than the required weight of fish when he landed a fish that just reached the total limit allowed. Bob was about to throw the fish back and resume operations when he remembered that the law was against catching more than a certain weight, regardless of the disposition of the fish caught, he returned, and, growing with the catch to Buhl.

MAD HOUND DRIVES FAMILY TO HOUSE

Mrs. Barnhouse and Children
Have Thrilling Experience

FROTH FALLING FROM OPEN
MOUTH OF ANIMAL.

Animal Bites Furiously at Fence
Until Killed by a Young Boy.

Driven into their home by a mad hound with foaming mouth and black tongue, which bit furiously at the fence, the wife and children of Marshall Barnhouse, who live near Hollister, remained in a state of alarm yesterday morning until the rabid animal was dispatched by a 22-caliber rifle in the hands of the 11-year-old son. The thrilling story of the adventure is told in the following letter to THE TIMES by the Mrs. Barnhouse:

This morning about 11 o'clock my four little ones and myself were at the back of the garden, 10 or 12 rods from the house, when we looked up and to our horror saw a hound with black, hanging tongue and foaming jaws at the cow corral, several feet from us, with only a four-foot netting fence which surrounds the house and garden-between us. My eldest, only 11, raised its head and did not utter a sound. He shot it till it was dead and some then. Mr. Barnhouse being road commissioner is obliged to be from home most of the time, leaving us all alone. Had it not been for the fence we would have been bitten beyond the fence. Still there is no protection for us by law I understand. I have been informed the animal belonged to the Deep Creek Orchard company, which is the name of the place, and it left me with my nerves entirely shaken."

It is reported that a mad dog was shot yesterday by a farmer living near the high-line canal.

DEAD ANIMALS ARE LEFT IN THE FIELDS

Deputies Find Many Carcasses Which They Are Trying to Prevent Spread of Disease.

Deputies H. G. Jackson and J. H. Urie are having their own time burying the dead animals left by owners. As the names of this following occurred yesterday with County Clerk E. J. Finch, by the first named deputy. As the names of the persons leaving the dead animals have not yet been secured, the publication of the list of owners has been deferred, but as the names of this following occurred frequently in the report: "One dead hog in pasture," "two dead sheep in one yard," "21 dead head sheep," "one dead horse," "one dead dog," "one sheep and one cow." The cause of death in most instances seems to be unknown. The deputies say that some of these animals are so located that pollution of streams from the carcasses is possible. Whether steps will be taken to prosecute anyone, or whether the neglect in the cases were such as would warrant prosecutions under the present laws, has not been ascertained.

PRESIDENT ENDORSES PEACE LEAGUE PLAN

Stirs Audience to Enthusiasm—Declares in Favor of Freedom of Seas.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson unreservedly endorsed the formation of a league of nations having for its purpose the enforcement of peace.

The endorsement was given in his long expected address at the banquet of the League to Enforce Peace, which followed William Howard Taft. It came as a climax to a two-day session which this afternoon heard Theodore Marburg, ex-minister to Belgium, urge congress to adopt a resolution favoring sending Taft abroad after the war to sound out the allies on the possibility of a permanent League of world powers.

The president made it plain such an organization would follow out the fundamental belief that every people has a right to choose the sovereignty under which they shall live, and, too, he said, the use of such an international diplomacy which he held responsible for the present war could not exist under such a league.

The president's chief speech was frequently interrupted by prolonged applause. It contained an outline of the president's position as to the possibilities of mediation.

"The eyes of the world," he said, "are turned eagerly, more and more eagerly toward the hope of peace. The longer the war lasts, the more deeply do we become concerned that it should be brought to an end and the world be permitted to resume its normal life and course again."

Without making a specific move toward peace, the president's speech plainly served to show America is willing and ready to assume the task of peacemaker should opportunity offer. Should the opportunity of initiating peace come to him, the president said he would move on these lines:

First—Such a settlement with regard to their own immediate interests as the belligerents may agree upon. Our interests are only in peace and its future guarantee.

Second—A universal association of the nations to maintain the inviolate security of the highway of the seas and to prevent any war between either contrary to treaty covenants or without warning and full submission of the causes to the world—a virtual guarantee of territorial integrity and political independence.

The president said one of the great lessons the war has taught is that the peace of the world must henceforth depend upon a new and more wholesome diplomacy, "which would prevent a war springing suddenly out of a secret council," without warning to the world, without discussion and without any of the deliberate movements of counsel with which it would seem natural to approach such a stupendous crisis.

COTTON ACREAGE

LARGELY INCREASED

Belief That Demand Will Increase
When Peace Comes—Industry
Diversified.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The outlook is for a cotton acreage between 15 and 20 per cent larger than last year, probably nearer the former figure than the latter, according to a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, of which A. W. Douglas, of St. Louis, is chairman.

Despite the great increase in acreage this year, the committee declares there cannot be expected an equal increase in the total production. It contends that large yields of all agricultural staples depend more upon the production per acre than upon the total acreage. Reports throughout the cotton belt indicate conditions diametrically opposite to those of a year ago. The high price of cottonseed oil for some months past stimulated planting this spring.

The general feeling among the cotton planters and farmers seems to be according to what the National Chamber committee says, that since the cotton industry lived through a calvary such as the European war it can stand any turn of fortune. Furthermore, it is pointed out that with the coming of peace, there must be renewed demand for cotton products. Hence, the planters figured it was safe and wise once more to put in a larger acreage.

The planting of other products, grains and forage, has taken new directions in portions of Oklahoma and particularly in northern Texas, where the peanut industry has become of great local moment, according to the committee. Not only is there a demand for the oil for fine salad purposes, but the cake is used for food for livestock and the plant itself for fodder. There is also the consequent enrichment of the soil by inoculation with nitrogen from the air. Sudan grass, a safe forage crop under most trying conditions of heat and drought, finds increasing favor in the eyes of the Oklahoma farmers, with consequent increased acreage. In eastern Arkansas alfalfa is a familiar sight, where twenty years ago it was almost unknown. This is true in large measure of many sections of Mississippi.

"There is more livestock today—cattle and hogs—in the south, more poultry of all kinds, more dairy cows, than for a great many years," the committee says finally. "The slaughter and forbidding situation which prevailed in 1915 has been completely transformed by the common sense and intelligence displayed, the self-denial practiced, and the fortitude shown by the southern people. Agricultural, and consequently all industrial and commercial interests throughout the southern states, are upon a surer and more solid foundation than ever before in the history of the country."

MORRIS, Minn.—During the progress of a thunder storm which burst over the city late Monday afternoon a bolt of lightning struck the Morris hotel and ripped off a corner, destroyed some of the roof ornaments and sped to ash barrels below, says the Tribune. The guests had just finished supper and were listening to jokes by Landford Grove when the bolt came and put a stop to the levity. Some of the guests who had just explained they were living thermometers when it came to recording sudden changes in the weather, received electrical shocks, but through it all Landford Grove only smiled. The damage to the building is slight.

CLOVER SEED GROWERS PROFIT BY RECENT RAINS

Greatly Increased Acreage Has Been Planted to That Crop This Year.

The marked success attained in the year 1915 in growing clover seed in northern Idaho has resulted in a very large increase in the seeding of lands to clover. The orchardist seeds to clover with the two-fold purpose of supplying humus and nitrogen to the soil supporting the orchard in its production of fruit and also securing a possible seed crop that shall help to cover the expense of caring for the orchard. The recent rains have been very helpful in securing a stand of clover from this spring's seedings.

Under our conditions the alfalfa clover is regarded as the most certain to produce a seed crop. In growing an alfalfa seed crop the first crop growth is allowed to grow through to produce seed. The seed crop will probably be ready in late July. On the other hand, red clover is believed to produce the largest seed crop from the second cutting instead of the first. The first crop of red clover, according to Prof. Center of the state university department of extension work, should be cut when many heads are formed but comparatively few are yet in bloom. This keeps the red clover plant in the best condition to produce many seed stalks for the succeeding seed crop. The red clover seed should mature under our conditions late in August or early September.

Itchard Brothers of Upper Deer Flat, near Nampa, from red clover in their orchard last year, sold $40 worth of seed per acre, a material help in supporting orchard expenses.—Nampa Leader-Herald.

SEED POTATOES TO BE PRODUCED SCIENTIFICALLY

Potato Disease Must Be Eliminated
In Order To Maintain Present Reputation.

Professor E. P. Taylor of the University of Idaho, says that Idaho seeks to have the finest grade potatoes in the world within five years. A plan of intensive farming, wherein the seed and farming land is to be improved, was put into effect this planting season, ninety plots of richest Idaho land being put under cultivation.

The extension department of the agricultural division of the state university is back of the movement. Professor Taylor and Professor O. D. Center directing the work. In their plans thorough extermination of unfit potatoes, which may be diseased in even the slightest respect, and the cultivation of the world's best seed are included.

Speaking of the movement, which he said is the first in the west, Mr. Taylor said:

"Idaho now ships 10,000 carloads yearly. This brings in $3,000,000 annually. Our potatoes are ranked among the best, but it is the desire of the state to make them the very best. Consequently the movement which was started this spring.

"Under the direction of university officials, the finest seed in the state was produced for planting, and we selected ninety acres of the best land for cultivation, the plots varying from one to three acres. None of the acres contained diseased potatoes, and in most instances we saw to it that alfalfa and clover lands were used.

"As a public demonstration, seed potatoes were planted, the directors cutting each potato and examining it carefully to see if any part might be diseased. If not, the seed was washed in a chemical solution, after which it was planted.

"Export farmers were then procured to care for them, and another inspection is to be made at blooming time, when the weak sprouts will be pulled out 'rogued out,' as Idaho farmers say—the term 'rogued out' meaning that the rogue potatoes which had persistency enough to creep in with the good ones shall be killed. They will be moved bodily from the land, so that there will be no chance of parts of them being left for seed when the crops are gathered and grain distributed.

"As a further encouragement to the farmers, the university department will place certified tags on the seed, and they will in turn be sold to other farmers, the highest of prices being paid for them."

This movement, according to Mr. Taylor, was first tried in Wisconsin, and within two years a noticeable improvement was produced. The improvement, he expects, will be rapid in Idaho, as the farmers there are quick to grasp the idea.

TWIN FALLS BANK & TRUST COMPANY

IMPORTANT HOG CONFERENCE PENDING

Dr. W. A. Sullivan Goes to Boise to Confer With State Sanitary Board This Week.

Dr. W. A. Sullivan, of the United States bureau of animal industry, goes to Boise Saturday for the purpose of conferring with the state livestock sanitary board with a view of preparing plans for the coming year for the work on the Twin Falls and other tracts in this part of the state during the coming fiscal year. The plans, after arrangement with the board, will be submitted to the state university for approval.

Dr. L. C. Henderson, of the bureau, has been assigned by Dr. Sullivan to attend the meeting of the Anti-Hog Cholera association of Richfield Friday and Saturday of this week for the purpose of giving four demonstrations in the treatment of the disease in the presence of members of the association. This organization was formed last February with the co-operation of Dr. Sullivan, who, although it lies outside his territory, felt that it was along the line of his work and would prove, as it did prove, a great benefit to the farmers of that community, who had previously lost heavily from hog cholera.

H. W. Hochbaum, state agricultural leader, and Professor E. J. Fjelsted, of the university extension department, will accompany Dr. Henderson. Professor Fjelsted who recently suffered a broken arm in an auto accident, is around again, though he still keeps his injured arm in a sling.

THE SALMON TRACT AGAIN.
Some years ago I wrote an article that was printed in the papers, boasting the Salmon river project, in regard to its water supply, based on information state officials had given me. I had confidence in the integrity of those officials for they said that there was water for not only 80,000 acres, but 120,000, and they thought it advisable to cut the surplus to 40,000, selling that acreage first and adding to it later. Now this was the point that was very much misleading. Not only to me but many others. I have been criticized and censured ever since for what I did, but I believed the state knew what it was doing and made my statements in good faith.

But what do we find the state of conditions on the project to be at the present time? Now I am going to be fair in what I write and will allow any one to answer this, or criticize as much as they please or want to. I am going to put the facts they are and I care not when it may hurt, for the time has come on this project when there is not only people in poor circumstances, but there will be crime committed if some relief is not given from some source, either the state or the courts must do something to relieve the situation.

Many people have come here and spent all their means, many as much as several thousands of dollars, and also spent five years of watchful waiting and almost broken down their health with hard work. There's just as many a "clay" of people on this project as you can find any place in Idaho. Now there is a breaking point, and it will come, if something is not done before long. You may ask why is it going to come? First—The people here have been waiting with all the patience that any one can have. Under Governor Hulse's administration they tried to get something done, and no relief came. Second—They have appealed to the government, and no relief came. The government explaining that it was a Carey act project, and the state's duty. Third—They then appealed to the courts and did get some consolation from Judge Frank Dietrich—thanks to one man whose heart is with the people who are trying to build up an empire. Fourth—The present state executive, Moses Alexander, rushes from Idaho's bull rushes and promises to give us some help, in fact to get us out of our troubles. What do we find? The last legislature passed a resolution creating an irrigation commission to investigate the different Carey act projects in the state and to report to the state land board. One would naturally think that the land board would act according to the report, why was that commission created, and why did not the board act? Because it did not suit the companies that started these projects. It looks that way to the settlers.

The people of Idaho, or the taxpayers, stand the expense of that commission and they went into details that none of the state land boards has done. Their report stated that there was water for only 25,000 acres. I suspect they ignored the commissioner's report. Why did they send the state engineer down here? He reports that there is water for 40,000 acres. The land board says this is what you must take and they map out what must be cut out, and then tell us that we must take this proposition or fight it out with the company in court.

The settler is so poor he has no money to fight with, the state is to blame for the trouble in the first place. The settler cannot rely on the state engineer's report for the reason that state engineers reports will not hold water.

The past has proven beyond a doubt that they have misrepresented the amount of water available just to get Carey's sheep—people—down here. I say no—I want to say that such men as James A. Waters, our last state representative from Twin Falls county, is sure about irrigation than all the state engineers combined that have been in office in the past few years.

If he had not like him for state officers the defunct projects of this state would not be as they are today. Mr. Waters was a member of the irrigation commission and that thanks to him and the rest of that commission. They are the kind of men we should have for our land board. Then we would have a clean, decent state to live in.

No one can estimate what these defunct projects have done in retarding the growth of the state unless you come down and pioneer among us. I certainly hope that the people throughout the state will see to it at the next election that men are put in office that will work to get these projects straightened out, and that the more prosperous farmers will not forget the unfortunate brothers, and be too busy when the time comes to help to elect men that will try to build up Idaho instead of tearing it down and driving people away as is being done at the present time.

Don H. Bark, the U. S. government expert on the date of the investigation on the Salmon tract told me that we should have two acre feet where half of our land was in grass and the other half in trees, that amount to be retained on the land and that we would have from 20 to 30 percent waste, which would be equivalent to 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 acre feet delivered over our water.

Now I have been investigating at different times on other projects for twenty-five years. I find in my study of the soil and its requirements that Mr. Bark is nearer right than any one that has given this project careful study. It is useless for us to get along with any loss. Now if we don't get that amount we will make a failure farming in the future as we have in the past.

We have a school district here at Hollister that contains over six square miles, or 38 sections of land. We bonded the district for $50,000, built a fine school building. At this time it would not be as large enough had the country gone ahead as the Twin Falls tract has done. As it is we cannot meet the obli-

Cottolene

"The Natural Shortening"

Foods cooked with Cottolene come to the table with their natural goodness improved with a better flavor.

Biscuits shortened with it delight by their taste, their lightness, their whiteness and their wholesomeness.

Pie crust shortened with Cottolene has that flaky goodness which perfects the whole pie.

All foods fried in it are better-tasting and digestible because Cottolene does not soak into them.

There is no substitute for Cottolene—nothing "just as good."

Try Cottolene—try it in your biscuits, for example, then in your other cooking. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply. It is packed in pails of various sizes.

THE cook has followed the directions in the vacuum-sealed tins—you wonder what's happened to your coffee! Good? Better than good—real coffee!

Fine coffee such as Schilling's Best needs only one favor: please make it right.

The result is worth while—and economical. Not that the price by the pound is low, but a pound of Schilling's Best makes more cups of smooth, rich coffee. You can easily prove this.

A great part of this economy is due to even grinding and immediate packing in vacuum-sealed tins.

Schilling's Best is sold through grocers only.

PLAYING THE GAME.

Whether the diplomats of Europe are familiar with what was once called "the great American game of poker," or not, they are certainly experts in the art of bluffing, as the utterances official and semi-official that have been published within the last few days prove. On one hand the German diplomats and newspapers insist that should peace come through the activities of President Wilson, or otherwise, the present territorial status of things on continental Europe, as evidenced by the disposition of the rival armies, must be made the basis for agreement. This would give Germany and Austria a vast amount of territory which belonged to the allies before the war, but would, on the other hand, leave Russia with a lot of domain in Asia, which was Turkish territory when the struggle began. The Germans, however, do not carry this theory to its logical conclusion and make it apply to sea as well as to land, for if they did, not only would the vast colonial empire which has been built up by them in the past generation be lost, but the German war fleet would be forever bottled up in the Kiel canal. Evidently, the Germans are making claims which they intend to reduce materially, a slice at a time, in order to hold as much as possible eventually.

The allies, are if possible, even more unreasonable. The foreign offices announce that no peace is now possible until Germany begs for it, while the semi-official organs of the allied governments declare that negotiations can not begin through the activities of President Wilson as long as the fruit of his action seems to be the contention that the nations are equally at fault. In other words, President Wilson must precede the offer of good offices for the termination of the struggle by assuming that the central powers are wholly wrong and the allies wholly right. Of course, as this would make the beginning of peace negotiations impossible, it is a plain evasion of the issue. Should President Wilson assume this attitude he would be in the position of a judge who would say to litigants: "I know that Jones is wholly right and Smith wholly wrong in this matter and with that understanding we will now go to trial."

The powers are not really as far apart as these utterances would seem to indicate. Each side has a pretty good idea by this time of the resources of the other. Each side is trying to feel how far the other will yield. Each has an angry populace to satisfy—or thinks that it has. Perhaps the people of the nations at war would not be as much dissatisfied with a reasonable settlement as the politicians think that they would. When negotiations were being conducted at Ghent, Belgium, the English commissioners, rightly stood out against his colleagues in their desire to make concessions to England for the sake of peace. But when the English commissioners at length dropped their extravagant demands and were willing to sign a treaty on the anti-bellum basis, Clay, through mixed motives of patriotism and policy, wanted to make still further demands on Great Britain. He feared as many fear in the case of the present war, that a treaty which did not provide assurances against future war between the United States and England would speedily bring on another war. He also feared that the sort of treaty proposed would be exceedingly unpopular in this country and that to sign it would be equivalent to signing his own political death warrant. However, he refused to stand out against his colleagues and signed the treaty with them. All his promotions proved groundless. Not only did the treaty of Ghent not prove the basis for future wars, but it proved the basis for more than a century of honorable peace. Not only did his signature not prove his death warrant, but the treaty proved so popular that all who helped secure it promptly became national heroes.

European statesmen might take a lesson from this. Like Clay they are right in declining to surrender abjectly. Like Clay they are mistaken when they assume that honorable, popular and profitable peace can only be secured by the absolute humiliation of the other party.

Down on Mexican border a bootlegger is made to sweep the streets for thirty days, and there is some claim to the proposition. The bootlegger makes no particular difference, as it works out to the betterment of the sanitary system of the community. In Idaho a bootlegger is boarded at the expense of the county or state, and the manner in which they take a chance would indicate that the proposition carries no particular terror to the violator.—Pocatello Tribune.

LOTS OF COMEDY IN "LITTLE KEEKAT."

A love affair between a poor little "Pennsylvania Dutch" girl and a baron, a man of patent clothes-wringers is the theme of "Little Meena's Romance," a new Triangle-Pine Arts feature, a picture which will be shown at the Orpheum Monday evening only. She gets him out at all when he is arrested for carrying without a license, and in gratitude he provides her with books on self-improvement. They part, little "Meena" knowing how much they mean to each other. The circumstances under which they meet later are unique in the annals of motion picture situations, but are full of human interest quality that provokes tears and laughter in swift succession.

WILLIAM S. HART THE TRIANGLE-STAR BAD MAN

William S. Hart, the noted film star who appears regularly in Triangle-Pine Arts features, makes a specialty of playing western characters. He himself was raised on the plains of North Dakota among the Sioux Indians, so he knows something about making them true to life. But while his deliciously comical side and mastery of western figures, he professes a special type. This is the western "bad man."

"I like him best," says Mr. Hart, "because he is the most maligned person west of the Mississippi, and I enjoy presenting him from the angle that shows him for what he truly is. I knew some famous western bad men in the early days of the Dakotas; but never met one whose badness was indicative of the real man."

"There always is some human note lingering down under the gruffness, and it is this which I try to touch. I doubt very much, sometimes, if the shrewdest judge of human nature could deliberately call this element forth. It usually takes some accidental happening, such as the coming of the fearless girl in 'The Arson,' to bring it to light."

INIS PROGRAM FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

The story of "The Hero of Submarine D-2," the five-reel Vitaphone production to be shown at the Isis theatre Friday and Saturday, follows: Lieutenant Commander Colton, U. S. N., is in love with Caroline Austen, the daughter of the Hon. J. F. Austen, a man high in the political circles of the country. Colton has a rival, Joe Archer, a newspaper man, unscrupulous and secretly in the service of a foreign country. The latter is endeavoring to obtain valuable government secrets.

Colton and McManis, superintendent of the Naval academy, are called upon to exercise their influence in favor of Gilman, Caroline's brother, who has neglected his studies as a naval cadet. The young man is in love with McManis's daughter.

Finding his political influence of little weight with the two naval men, Archer starts a row and has Colton and McManis humiliated by placing them in charge of colliers.

Gilman, failing to pass his examinations in the navy as an engineer, starting from the foot of the ladder and working his way up through sheer merit.

The war game is announced, at which the various American battleships will be in maneuvers. The ambassador selects this opportunity to plant mine in the path of the American vessels in an attempt to blow them up. Details of the plan are accidentally learned from Archer by Caroline, and with no time to be lost she hastens to her sweetheart, Colton now in command of the submarine foilla and Gilman now in his command put forth all speed to reach the squadron and warn them. They are too late for that, however, so Colton, in an attempt to save the ship, explodes the mines before the American battleships reach them. The terrific explosion attracts the attention of the enemy, who then the colliers try to submerge Colton, and reaches him. Through his heroic work, in saving the fleet, Gilman is made a hero and Colton is rewarded by the hand of Caroline.

In addition to "The Hero of Submarine D-2," a Frank Daniels comedy will be shown Friday and Saturday.

MARKETS ARE LOWER ON MOST ARTICLES

Stamp in Hops and Snows in Sheep—Cattle Are Still Very Steady.

Cattle during the past week were characterized chiefly by the California run. Comparing the run of steers from that section this year and last year the present receipts show very good quality and considering that they were grass steers prices realized were very good. All during the week the prices were steady with an outlook for lower prices if the receipts continued heavy. Today's receipts, however, do not bear out the idea of heavy receipts for this week. Less than 500 head were in the pens for the day's trading.

The first shipment of Mexicans arrived today from California. These cattle were from the famous Heart Estate. Other shipments from California today were native steers. Balance of the receipts were local, Oregon and Washington offerings. Steer trade started out rather early today and native California went at the usual price they had been bringing for the past week or two. Heavy weights from $3.25 to $3.50. The Mexicans were considered to be of extra quality and brought exceptionally good prices for their class. $3.00 was realized for the bulk. Other steers sold steady. Offerings were sharply curtailed.

Cows and heifers were in short supply, being mostly cutouts from other shipments and drive-ins. Prices were steady on the normal quality of dairy type offerings.

Veal calves have been holding steady right along with a rather strong tendency. The few calves which reached several times, often enough to reflect the trend of the trade. Offerings below top have fared comparatively as well as the best grades in most cases.

The morning count in the sheep house was very satisfactory, about 1300 being offered. Quotations were ordinary, except on a fair bunch of wethers that got a raise out of the buyers. Light twenty-five was the rate on this shipment.

Hog receipts took a sudden jump today with nearly 5,000 head ready for the buyers. This is the largest Monday receipts for some weeks, being almost as large as all of last week's offerings in this market.

Early reports indicate a low market for the Eastern hog circles. Buyers were not inclined on account of the rather large supply to open the local market in an active way. Market did not get under awing until late.

After the buyers and sellers got together a much lower level was established. Up to noon $3.85 was the top, with bulk around a dime under last week's level.

TRIED TO PERSUADE TAYLOR NOT TO RUN

State Auditor Endeavored to Prevent Lieutenant Governor From Entering.

A letter made public in Boise last week indicated a determination of politicians in the northern part of the state to get Lieutenant Governor Taylor out of the race for Republican gubernatorial nomination with a view of concentrating on George E. Crum. The letter was written by State Auditor F. L. Huston to Lieutenant Governor Taylor March 20, but was not made public at the time. It seems to have utterly failed in its purpose. The letter follows:

"Hon. Norman H. Taylor,
"Sandpoint, Idaho.
"Dear Sir: Several newspaper articles lately indicate that you are going to get in the race. You will remember, Sir, that you asked me, Peterson and I, sitting here in my office, one day, to let you know the truth about the situation as we found it and I hope that you will listen to what I have to say from the standpoint of real friendship, and that I am telling the truth when I say that I am advising you for your own best interests."

"I have had to make three trips to Idaho Falls lately on personal business and while over there I have made it a point to look into the situation as carefully as possible and I find that Crum is a dead end there with D. W. Davis a close second, and I find that Crum is much stronger in the southwest than D. W. Davis. I have canvassed the situation in the Gooding, Shoshone and Twin Falls country and in Canyon and Washington counties and I am absolutely sincere when I say that I do not think you can win at this time."

"Yesterday I overheard a discussion of the situation and one party remarked that if the north could not get together when an opportunity offered, the south might just as well nominate a full ticket and go to it. The same party remarked that Mr. Johnson, with Charley Storey out of the field, could beat Barker. Of course, I doubt this, although Johnson would have been a strong second last time had Storey not entered the race.

"There are a number of other matters in this connection that affect me personally that I do not care to write about, but would like to discuss with you before you make your announcement. I will be in Spokane the latter part of next week if you care to wait until that time. If you can defer your announcement until you see me I wish you would wire me at my expense and I will get there just as soon as possible."

"Yours sincerely,
"F. L. HUSTON."

SYLVESTER LONG, MAN WHO SAYS THINGS

Prominent Lecturer One of Popular Speakers in America Today

A MAN'S success in this day and age depends a great deal on whether he can "come back." The man who can "come back" and make a bigger success than ever before is the man who forges ahead and in the end has won a way into the hearts of the people.

Sylvester A. Long is a man who can "come back." He is one of the lecturers on the Chautauqua, and he "puts it over" in a way that is unusual. He is so well liked over the country that he has lectured in some cities as many as six times, and that is an unusual record. Mr. Long has lectured in Cincinnati, Portland, Kansas City, Ogden, Philadelphia and dozens of other large cities. Mr. Long will be in demand here after he has been heard at the Chautauqua, for Mr. Long says things and says them fast and well.

AUDITORIUM PROGRAM CLOSED THE SERVICES

Rev. A. Stewart Delivered Address of Memorial Day—Delightful Musical Selection Given.

The closing scenes of the Memorial Day program took place at the auditorium of the high school Tuesday afternoon. Commander W. W. Humphrey of the Dan McCook Post, G. A. R., presided. The program was opened by the offering of the invocation by Rev. C. E. Evans. Past Commander R. H. Barnes read general order No. 11. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Mrs. W. E. Aaron. Solos by Mrs. James and Miss Marie Roberts were much appreciated.

Mayor Sweetley introduced Rev. A. Stewart, of Kimberly, the speaker at the day, saying that on this day we voted the patriotism which we felt our hearts throughout the year. Rev. Stewart said that the day was not one which should be spent in pool games, ball games or dancing, but a day that was sacred. He said that he wished he had power to bring his audience back to the land under which the flag from the Mayflower. He had seen many of the great ships like the Lusitania and Titanic in the harbor at New York from which great city he had come but seven months ago, but none of these vessels seemed so beautiful to him as did the Mayflower. He pictured the difficulties under which the pilgrims landed amid ice and storm, but said that they would not land on the Sabbath day to relieve their own suffering. He wished that similar sacrifices were made today in Sunday observance. Referring briefly to the revolutionary struggles and to the year of 1812 the speaker said that the blot of slavery in this country, for which all sections were equally responsible, resulted in a war which should never have been fought. Having said a tribute to Abraham Lincoln as a man belonging to all countries, Rev. Stewart said in substance, that he believed the country was today confronted with the problem of abolishing the use of intoxicating drinks. He had no use for those foreigners who denounced our laws and said "In the old country I could get a glass of beer if I wanted it." There were plenty of boats going back to Europe for all such travel on.

In conclusion he declared that next to the church of God no institution has done so much for the people as the public schools. He thanked God that in this country there were still thousands of little red school houses in which was not a crime against the law to read the word of God. He denounced all, whether infidel or pharisee, who opposed reading the Bible in the public schools.

Orpheum Theatre

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

WILLIAM S. HART

FEATURED IN A TRIANGLE KAY-BEE.

THOMAS INCE PRODUCTION IN 5 PARTS, ENTITLED

The ARYAN

The story of a Western "bad man," interpreted by the greatest actor of "bad man" parts, William S. Hart, a man who was raised on the plains of Dakota among the Sioux Indians, and therefore knows what is true to life. The story, too, of a little girl whose absolute trust in the code of the Aryan race, that their men will protect their women, send her unafraid into a camp of ruffians where no white man is allowed, to demand food and shelter for her people. It is the sort of photoplay that points straight at the heart and tugs hard on the heart strings. It has lots of big scenes with hundreds of people, a forty-niner's caravan reproduced to the minutest details; and one tremendous situation after another.

A Very Interesting and Beautiful Scene, Divulging the Beauties of Snake River Canyon, Showing Twin Falls, Milner Falls, Salmon Falls and Other Scenes of Interest.

Elona, The Indian Maid

A Very Pretty and Pleading Vaudeville Act. The Indian Girl Sings Well and Displays Elegant Native Costumes. An Act Novel and Entertaining.

Owing to the High Quality of the Kay-Bee Production and the exceptional Merit of W. S. Hart as an Actor of Western Types, We Offer Only One Vaudeville Act in Conjunction With This Program at the Usual Admission.

COMING MONDAY.

Little Meena's Romance

A BEAUTIFUL STORY IN 5 PARTS, SUPERVISED BY D. W. GRIFFITH

"Little Meena's Romance" is a Triangle feature built about a delightful love story between a little Dutch girl living in Pennsylvania and a real Count compelled to sell clothes wringers for a living. How they meet later in "high society" is productive of much laughter and some tears. It has all the elements of a human interest film, and should be playing still when many another is forgotten. It teaches thrift; it teaches morality; it teaches democracy; it teaches cleanliness; it teaches love. Don't miss "Little Meena's Romance." It's the kind of a story we like. It's the kind of a story we believe the majority of our patrons will enjoy. It's an exquisite production with a star of great brilliance in Dorothy Gish.
