PROTEST AGAINST ADVANCED RATES ON FRUIT

Public Utilities Commission Will Take the Matter Up With the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The public utilities commission has decided to ask for a suspension of the recent tariff increasing the freight rate on fruit, in a petition to the interstate commerce commission. The attorney general has been instructed to make the request and the state's legal department charged with the legal work of the commission is preparing to take the step. This tariff was filed last week by the Oregon Short Line. It proposes to advance the rates on fruit shipments from $10 to $30 per car to various shipping points in the United States. The public utilities commission will vigorously protest its going into effect on the grounds the advances are unjustified and unfair to Idaho growers and shippers.

Some time ago this railroad filed a tariff increasing refrigerator rates from Idaho territory to various points over the United States. The public utilities commission of Idaho immediately protested the rates and secured a suspension of them from the interstate commerce commission in Sept.
12. As the new tariff increasing the rates on fruit shipments recently filed by the Short Line railroad does not go into effect until Aug. 25, the commission will endeavor to secure a joint hearing on both tariffs before the interstate commerce commission. The suspension of the Aug. 25 tariff will probably be allowed.

Shippers and growers in Idaho are greatly interested in the outcome of the controversy. In fact business men and others are equally interested. It is believed by many growers, shippers and business men that if the tariffs are allowed to stand the fruit business in Idaho is going to be seriously crippled, and in fact some go so far as to declare that fruit growing in many sections will be injured permanently.
They are looking to the public utilities commission to prevent such an alleged disaster to happen.

MR. BARKER'S ANSWER.

The Question.

In an interview published in THE TIMES for July 20th, Mr. George R. Barker, secretary of state, speaking of conditions upon the Salmon river project, is quoted as saying: "The settlers want the Land Board to compel the company to live up to the terms of the contract, but the Land Board cannot do that since it has no power to make the company do it."

In the same issue THE TIMES requested Mr. Barker to make a definite statement in answer to certain questions, which are repeated below:

"Do you mean, Mr. Barker, that the State of Idaho enters into contracts with irrigation companies for the reclamation of arid lands, upon the success of which ventures depends the prosperity and happiness of hundreds of families, and DOES NOT RESERVE ANY MEANS OF ENFORCING THE PROVISIONS OF ITS CONTRACTS?"

"As a matter of fact, Mr. Barker, has the State ever ATTEMPTED to enforce the contract with the promoters of the Salmon river project?"

"Or has the State in any instance failed heretofore in an ATTEMPT to enforce the provisions of a similar contract?"

"You doubtless realize that you have made an astonishing admission, and that the people throughout the state will be very interested in knowing what grounds you have for your remarkable assertion."

Mr. Barker's Reply.

The following statement from Mr. Barker has been received, and follows in full:

"In an editorial in your issue of July 20th, under the caption, 'Mr. Barker—Please Answer,' you say I stated to your reporter concerning the Salmon-Twin Falls project that 'the settlers on the Salmon project want the land board to compel the company to live up to the terms of the contract, but that the land board cannot do that since it has no power to make the company do it.'"

"I will 'answer.' I am aware that you are printing a Democratic paper and that your chief desire is to get something 'out' of a Republican official."

"Governor Alexander and I agree upon this proposition, so I take it there can be no political capital to be made out of it. We went pretty well over the tract. Its problem is well known to the Land Board. This company has sold more land than it has water to irrigate. Two courses shape themselves and only two: either the settlers must submit to increased price in their water contracts to secure 2-3-4 acre feet to permit the company to pay for the eliminations; or the state must declare the contract of the company forfeited and instruct the attorney general to move for the appointment of a receiver. The courts may hold that the company is well able to conduct the affairs of the company and furnish such water as is available as could a receiver. The courts may hold that a receiver shall be appointed and then the project will go through the usual sinuous ways of a receivership with the company buying in the certificates in the end to protect its original investment."

"I hope that the company has so much invested that in view of the recent supreme court decision which makes it impossible for it to secure any returns from its contracts until it furnishes the contract amount of water to settlers, it will be able to sell bonds in sufficient amount to pay for the eliminations. In my opinion that will be the result. I voted for the motion which brought the issue up in the Oakley tract and I believe this court decision will result in a final solving of the Salmon problem. I am ready and always have been ready to help the settlers of the Salmon tract and of the other tracts which are not receiving the amount of water in their contracts. Governor Alexander or any other member of the land board will tell you that I have been a friend of the settler in his battle for his rights. I do not want to take any stand which may further embarrass the settler."

"When the proposition presents itself where I can intelligently vote to the settler's advantage on the Salmon tract you will find my vote recorded there. But I am not taking my 'dope' from some editor's viewpoint, but from my own conclusions of the best way to meet the issue and secure for the Salmon settlers the amount of water they agreed to pay for."

It should be noted that Mr. Barker leaves us to frame our own answers to the inquiries presented. This we think can very fairly be done from the statement submitted.

First: The State of Idaho did reserve means, notwithstanding Mr. Barker's former assertion to the contrary, of enforcing its contract with the promoters of the Salmon project; the means reserved was an action to bring about the forfeiture of the contract.

Second: The State of Idaho has never attempted to enforce the contract with the Salmon company.

Third: Mr. Barker has cited no instance in which an attempt by the state to enforce the provisions of a Carey act contract, his failed. Mr. Barker would attempt to sustain his position, however, on the grounds of practicality and expediency. If he could do this successfully, we might agree with him. Expediency and practicality have unfortunately run their course; successive Land Boards have made full use of these measures; so has the water company; and in the meanwhile matters on the Salmon have steadily progressed from bad to worse; crops have burned out for at least two successive years; and the situation has progressed to a stage where the losses are so enormous that if applied on the equity which the company retains in the project, they would wipe it out completely.

So much for expediency and practicality. The unfortunate on the Salmon tract have had enough of it. It is time that something else was tried.

Either the settlers must submit to increased price in their water contracts to secure 2-3-4 acre feet, to permit the company to pay for the eliminations; or the state must declare the contract with the company forfeited," suggests the secretary of state.

And right there he hits the nail squarely upon the head. EITHER THE INNOCENT PARTIES TO THIS CONTRACT MUST PAY THE DEFAULTING PARTY FIFTY PER CENT MORE THAN THEY AGREED TO PAY IT, IN ORDER THAT THE DEFAULTING PARTY MAY BE ENABLED TO COMPLY WITH THE CONTRACT AND REAP THE RETURNS CONTEMPLATED; OR ELSE THE STATE MUST DECLARE THE CONTRACT BREACHED AND ASK FOR ITS RECISSION.

Mr. Barker's concern as to what action the courts might take in adjusting the affairs of the project, is well taken, for a man at a distance. To those on the Salmon tract it is nearly impossible to see how matters could be made much worse, even if the courts proceeded with that deliberate purpose in mind.

We have listened to many good guesses as to what the courts might do with the project if they took charge through a receiver; like Mr. Barker we have made some of our own; but we would hardly paint so dark a picture as Mr. Barker does. For instance, Mr. Barker's suggestion that the receiver, in order to reduce the acreage of the project, might issue receivership certificates, and that the bondholders might "buy in the certificates to protect their original investment," is a suggestion that fails to terrify us in the least; inasmuch as we recognize the biggest problem confronting a receiver would be to realize upon such certificates. The buying in of such certificates would afford the bondholders no protection; and even if it did, in which matter Mr. Barker is misinformed, the bondholders might be supposed to be just as willing to advance the funds necessary for the reduction of the tract at the present time, as later on through a receiver.

The "sinuous ways of a receivership" did frighten us somewhat four or five years ago. Three successive Land Boards and numerous representatives of the company, conferences, interviews, etc., etc., have since so accustomed the settlers to "sinuous ways," that they would probably welcome as a change the sinuous ways of a receivership. At the least it would be a change in name, and even that would help some.

Mr. Barker points with pride as Governor Alexander has also pointed, to the decision in the Oakley case which they were instrumental in bringing, and which Mr. Barker claims "makes it impossible for the company to secure any returns from its contracts until it furnished the contracted amount of water to settlers." And which, as a matter of actual fact, does nothing of the kind. It was the Dietrich decision that did that, Mr. Barker; and the Dietrich decision was the result of the efforts of the Salmon river settlers to protect their interests after the state had refused to take action for them. The Oakley decision simply prevents the company from withholding water as a means of enforcing payments, the supreme court, in this instance, holding that the company has "other" proper means of enforcing payments, such as foreclosure upon the lands of the contractor.

Mr. Barker's charge that THE TIMES is interested in the Salmon situation because it is a Democratic paper whose "chief desire is to get something 'out' of a Republican official," affords occasion to remark that THE TIMES has conscientiously endeavored to eliminate from the news reported in its columns, all accounts which obviously have been originated solely for political effect in an inapproachable sense or for any other purpose as contemptible. The same care is exercised in the editorial department. THE TIMES believes it owes a much higher duty to its subscribers than the repetition, along with legitimate news, of unsubstantiated gossip and unfounded accusations, designed and used solely for the purpose of injury, whether for malicious or political reasons. In the case of The Statesman, for instance, Mr. Barker, for instance, will find THE TIMES much slower to impugn the motives for his attitude on the Salmon situation, than he himself is in attacking our motives for interesting ourselves in the affairs of the Salmon settlers.

The Republican national committee and the campaign committee sent an invitation to the editor of THE TIMES to be present last night at the official notification of Charles Evans Hughes of his selection by the Chicago convention as the nominee of the Republican party for the presidency of the United States. Learning that his absence would cause only slight inconvenience and would not necessarily lead to the abandonment or postponement of the notification, and being unavoidably detained by reason of the fact that a round trip ticket did not accompany the invitation, the editor failed to respond. It is understood that the affair was pulled off promptly and that our absence was not referred to during the proceedings.

JEFFERSON CLUB

SUGGESTS NAME

stated that the issue was not a partisan one. Judge J. E. Davies also opposed the proposition on the ground that it was not a party question. Dr. E. Schwartz of Coeur d'Alene, said he lived farther west than anyone present and was opposed to division, but was also opposed to introducing this issue into a Jefferson club. Mr. Alworth then withdrew his motion, which was still without a second. Dr. E. Schwartz suggested the reason why men died to avoid service as legislators and commissioners was the unsatisfactory condition of service in these positions. Most men in the legislature served but one term so that there was much inefficiency and a new man going felt disgusted and refused to seek another term which added to the inefficiency. It always involved a considerable financial loss to go to Boise. Senator Zuck added some words along the same line. E. E. Finch conveyed the speakers on the ground that they were throwing water on the work of getting legislative candidates. The committee then retired to consider the situation.

Judge Davies denied the implication that the legislative position was unsatisfactory for a man of ability and said that one of the leading citizens of the state had told him recently that next to a position on the supreme court or a United States senatorship, he would prefer a position in the state senate on account of the opportunities afforded to serve the state. To prove this point a Democratic member of the legislature quoted a leading Iowa lawyer as saying: that Wilson would not get through the legislature without the Mississippi valley from men who endorsed his foreign policy, and stated that F. H. Dahl on his visit last week had stated that the people should select men of intelligence. One of the deplorable features in connection with lawmaking in this state is always been the number of badly drawn bills introduced, and measures that had been passed, which the courts later found it necessary to declare unconstitutional. He favored sending men who would have an intelligent idea of how to draft measures so that they would stand the test of the courts. He said that he had not entered into the county division fight. County Superintendent Martha Noel, County Engineer Elyon, Commissioner D. P. Alice, Coroner C. J.

Crosby and County Treasurer Harvey Coggins were called upon by the club and made acknowledgments of the calls. Sheriff P. M. Kendall was out of town so was not present and C. L. Green, his opponent for the nomination, did not address the club.

The committee then brought in its recommendations, which were deposited as of noted above. It was determined to adjourn until Thursday night of this week in order that the committee might confer with those recommended and see if they would run and also recommend others where deemed advisable. The club as a whole to pass upon the final recommendations. The chairs in the Old Fellows' hall, where the meeting was held, were all occupied and a number of members were in the hall outside.

STORAGE SYSTEM

Wheat and Seed Accepted and Warehouse Receipts Given

CAN BE USED FOR COLLATERAL ON WHICH TO GET LOANS.

Immense Storage Tanks Will Be Built at Once to Hold 200,000 Bushels in Addition to Present Capacity.

The Twin Falls Mill and Elevator company having increased its warehouse and elevator facilities is able to accept a limited amount of grain for storage at present and will immediately proceed to increase its storage capacity by 200,000 bushels by the erection of six large storage tanks north of the present site. A contract for this work has been let to the Fenelon Construction company. The intention of the company is to take wheat and seed for storage, where the owner does not wish to sell at once, and then issue warehouse receipts, which can be used for collateral for loans, if desired. Wheat and seed will be taken for storage at all the branches of the company.

The managers of the company say that many people on the tract who do not wish to sell at once are compelled to do so, for lack of storage room or capital and that the new arrangement is intended to meet their wants. The tanks will be constructed as soon as possible, work on the first beginning early in the fall. The contract is an extensive business on the Twin Falls tract and adjoining tracts. It has elevators and warehouses at Dulhi, Phil, and Andover, and elevators, Hansen and Murtin; warehouses at Kimberly and Curry, and seed cleaning mills at Hansen, Kimberly and Dulhi.

"MADAME X" AT THE IDAHO

This play is the old, old story of the heart hungry life, craving love and attention and the trapped-in-his-business-inattentive husband. The first of her many steps downward begins with her clandestine meeting with Eugene, who loves her deeply. Floriet, her husband, surprises them and the door of the household which could have been happily closed against her. Later Eugene meets with an accident resulting in his death, and Jacqueline left alone. She makes one more appeal to Floriet to take her back to their old happiness and for the sake of their son Raymond. But the closed door is locked forever.

Work is scarce, but lovers are found aplenty, but one by one they tire of her as lovers of that type will. She slides down the ladder of degradation until the lowest depths, a woman, sink to reach reaches Jacqueline, now known to the police as "Madame X" has drunk of all the drugs in the cup of life until she finds herself on trial for the murder of one of her lovers.

Her own son, now a promising lawyer, is appointed to defend "Madame X" and the famous court room scene which has the reputation of possessing more dramatic intensity than anything seen in years, follows. The eloquent pleading of her son; her acquittal and her death in the court room in the forgiving Floriet's arms, is a touching scene.

Dorothy Donnelly's art bares the soul of a woman of the underworld. She shows in her portrayal of one of these unfortunate creatures how the spirit of redemption kindles in the breast of the lowest, and how man-made law of "Woman must pay" will not permit redemption.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MY CANDIDACY FOR THE OFFICE OF Treasurer and Tax Collector of Twin Falls county, subject to the will of the Republican voters at the primary to be held on September 5th.

Seed Growers Attention!

THE COURTEEN SEED COMPANY of Milwaukee, Wis., takes this means of announcing the completion of its new office and warehouse at Shoshone St. and Fifth Ave. South, Twin Falls, through which its business in the Twin Falls district will be handled.

THE Courteen Seed Company has for many years been a large buyer, through its agents, of IDAHO RED, WHITE, ALSIKE and ALFALFA CLOVER seeds, and its business in the state of Idaho has in recent years reached such large proportions that it necessitated the building of a branch warehouse to properly take care of it.

THE Twin Falls warehouse now completed is 65x100 feet, with provision for enlargement should conditions warrant it; is equipped with the most modern cleaning machinery and located at a point convenient for both receiving and shipping.

THE Twin Falls branch of our business will be in charge of W. A. Lohr, from our home office, who, with his assistants, will bend every energy toward a mutually profitable and pleasant relation with the seed growers of Idaho.

WRITE US HOW MANY BUSHELS OF RED, WHITE, ALSIKE AND ALFALFA YOU EXPECT TO HARVEST AND LET US MAKE YOU AN OFFER.

MAKE ALL INQUIRIES OF MR. W. A. LOHR, MANAGER. BRANCH OFFICE AND WAREHOUSE, SHOSHONE ST. AND FIFTH AVE. SOUTH. PHONE 259.

POTASH MINES SAID TO LOOK VERY PROMISING

Alaska Expert Makes Examination and Is Impressed—Bort Found in Large Quantities.

John Lingebach returned Saturday from a trip to the potash mines in Box Elder county, Utah, bringing with him a large chunk taken from the cliff which looked and tasted like pure alum. Mr. Lingebach says that the prospect for a successful operation looks better than ever. A large quantity of bort lay found in connection with the potash and alum. He stated that a company would be organized shortly for development work. Mining engineer named Van Pelt from Alaska has visited the mines and Mr. Lingebach said that his report was wholly favorable.

CHAPLAIN STEWART SUGGESTS AMUSEMENT FUND BE RAISED

Pleas for a chaplain fund to furnish wholesome amusement for the Second Idaho boys, were made direct by Chaplain Stewart today in a telegram sent to Dr. Charles L. Chalfant, superintendent of the Children's Home, explaining the situation. Mr. Stewart stated that there were many filthy amusements and evils within a stone's throw of the Idaho camp, and saying that wholesome amusements were needed for the safeguarding of the boys. He asked that the churches of Idaho, regardless of denomination, set aside their offerings next Sunday as a chaplain fund, the money to be sent either to Chaplain Stewart or to the Boise Y. M. C. A., to be forwarded to the chaplain.
