BELVA LOCKWOOD FOR WILSON

Only Woman Who Ran For President Makes Statement

SAYS MASSES OF AMERICAN PEOPLE HAVE SENSE

Will Recent Attacks of Politicians on the Policies of the Administration.

Dr. Belva Lockwood, the only woman who ever ran for president of the United States, and now the attorney general of the Western Republic, an organization of women with a membership of more than one hundred thousand, has departed the Republican party and declared her advocacy of the candidacy of President Wilson.

In a letter to President Wilson, Dr. Lockwood, who opened the courts of the country to women by securing for them a federal statute permitting them to appear before the United States supreme court, where she was the first woman to plead, takes her stand upon the achievements of President Wilson.

"Controlling a country with mental and moral power takes greater heroism than the control of a vast army by the shooting down of thousands of men," Dr. Lockwood wrote. "To save a great nation, prosperous, happy and wealthy, in a mental and moral battle, requires greater strength and higher courage than shooting men requires. Woodrow Wilson has proven his courage."

"Hughes is criticizing your method of settling the railroad strike. He could not have settled it in the manner in which you did, not in any manner; nor could any other statesman in the country."

"I'll decry your manner of settling the railroad strike and your ordering the national guard to the border of Mexico, will defeat themselves. The masses of the American people have some native ability, some common sense. They can discern between real manhood, with actual effort to serve the artisans, the mechanics, and the agriculturists—and the man who spends their time and energy in denunciation of a great leader and for the sake of some won political advantage. You have too much real and important work to do to spend your time even reading or discussing these futile matters; they have no foundation in a substantial statesmanship."

KING ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF THE GRECIAN CABINET

Delayed Dispatch From Athens Said to Foreshadow Entry of Greece Into War on Side of Entente Allies.

The belief is entertained in the entente capitals that the retirement of the Zaimis ministry is preliminary to the entrance of Greece in the war with the allies. Recent dispatches from Berlin and Vienna show that there also it is regarded as probable Greece will soon abandon neutrality and join the entente powers.

The precise causes which led to the resignation of the ministry have not been disclosed, on account of the exceptionally rigid censorship. A London dispatch yesterday said Zaimis had complained that internal incidents were preventing him from dealing with the external situation. It is believed in London that the resignation was due to the fact that he accepted the premiership on the understanding that he was to maintain neutrality and in view of the Bulgarian occupation of Greek territory had found this impossible.

Up to the time of the first dispatch announcing that M. Zaimis had presented his resignation, his retirement was unexpected, for it was understood the premier had assumed dictatorial powers and was in an exceptionally strong position. Political affairs reached a crisis after the Bulgarians invaded northeastern Greece and the followers of former Premier Venizelos served warning on King Constantine that he must abandon the advisers who, it was said, had misled him and influenced him in favor of Germany. At the same time Venizelos expressed confidence in Zaimis, whom he asked the king to support. The king understood an agreement had been reached under which the Zaimis ministry was to continue in power with the strong support of the Venizelos party.

After the fall of the Venizelos cabinet on account of the king's disagreement with his policy favoring intervention in the war with the allies, Zaimis was called on to form a cabinet. He announced a policy of armed neutrality. The cabinet resigned in November, but in June Zaimis was again placed at the head of the government. Although advocating neutrality he was regarded as having a predisposition toward the entente.

IDAHO FEDERAL AID ROADS ARE DESIGNATED

Bulk of Appropriation Goes to North End of State—40 Per Cent For South Idaho.

Idaho roads deserving of federal aid were designated Friday by the state highway commission in resolutions forwarded to the department of agriculture. The bulk of the appropriation to be received by the state next year from the government under the terms of the federal road act goes to north Idaho, the balance of 40 per cent going to southern and eastern Idaho.

The report did not include a request for assistance in building a highway from Boise to the Arrowrock Dam. The commissioners declared Ada county had received much state aid in the past, contending that counties embracing the forest reserves were more deserving of help at this time.

The commissioners ask for an appropriation for a road running south from Clayton through the Stannix Basin and over Galena Summit to Ketchum. This highway traverses the Challis national forest and the Sawtooth national forest in Blaine and Custer county, and will connect southern Idaho with a wagon road leading to the Montana state line by way of the Selway river country.

The government was asked to assist in building a highway north from Horwac Bend to Smith's Ferry. Other than this, no roads in southwestern Idaho received attention.

Roads to be improved in northern Idaho by federal aid include the highway of Hagner, Kootenai, Shoshone, Nez Perce and Clearwater counties. In eastern Idaho, Bear Lake, Franklin and Fremont counties will be assisted.

With the exception of the road work to be done in Fourth-of-July canyon and the building of the section of the Payette lakes road between Horseshoe Bend and Smith's Ferry, money for the Idaho roads will be available July 1, 1917. Funds for the work now being carried forward in the Fourth-of-July canyon will be raised this fall. The road to the lakes will not get federal aid until after the other highways recognized Thursday have been taken care of.

COMMENTS BY EXCHANGES

NOT UNCHALLENGED

ONCE a disfigured and reluctant member of the nation's highest tribunal, Mr. Hughes has cast those characteristics aside to plunge into the sea of politics with both hands outstretched, grappling for mud to heave.

Even those who at first were very much inclined toward him and his views are wavering in their admiration of the man. Many of his former admirers already have ceased to advocate him.

His campaign thus far largely has been one of vilification and he has been devoting much more attention to inopportune criticisms of the democrats than to the merits of his own party. He has been criticizing the Democrats. Even Republicans are puzzled by his failure to dwell on any subjects which might enable the people to know what course he would pursue were he elected president of the United States.

And now his attack on the democracy is proving a veritable howler. His statements are not being allowed to go unchallenged.

Democrats of high estate and who know what they are talking about, are answering his declarations, pointing out the injustices of his utterances, their illogical character and lack of foundation in fact.

The longer the campaign goes, the more does Mr. Hughes seem determined to place himself in an unfavorable light—as a presidential candidate—Butte Miner.

BAINBRIDGE COLBY, a former Progressive leader who nominated Colonel Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, claims there is a sweeping trend of Progressives all over the country toward the Democratic party. In a recent speech in Maine he said:

"Has the Republican party changed its spots? Colonel Roosevelt does not intimate this. Is there a new set of men in control? Colonel Roosevelt knows that the Old Guard are as effectively in control of the party as they ever were. What did Colonel Roosevelt mean when he said in 1912: 'I will continue the fight even if I stand entirely alone'? What did he mean when he said in 1913: 'To my mind the whole attitude of those at present responsible for the leadership and management of the Republican party shows that it would be folly to try to combine with them.'"

"If that was true, and the colonel thought it, he has been the offshoot to stand out on a public platform and advise the Progressives of Maine to combine with the Republicans? The colonel is not a mighty hunter, he is apparently a mighty eater. He is an eater of words, with a particular relish for his own words as a steady diet. He reminds me of the famous ananias, which began by devouring its tail until it finally disappeared, expiring by self-engorgement."

The Progressives throughout the country are turning to Wilson because he is the foremost of Progressives. Under his leadership, and with the patriotic concurrence of his party, thirty-five distinct planks of the Progressive platform of 1912 have been enacted into statute law by his administration. He has steadily appointed men of Progressive ideals to high and important offices. He has left the sodden and reactionary Republican opposition nothing out of which to construct a genuine issue. The campaign of Hughes has almost collapsed. His speeches in the west are a source of dismay to his managers, and of apology by his friends. His treatment of Progressives in all his speeches, and particularly while in California, shows that Hughes wants only their votes, and nothing of their aims or ideals."

The Vera Cruz Incident and the A. B.-C. Mediation.

By James B. Whelan

On October 21, 1873, the Virginius, a steamship sailing under the flag of the United States, and manned largely by American citizens, was captured near Cuba by the Spanish warship Tornado and on the following day was brought into the harbor of Santiago. The charge was made that the ship contemplated assisting the rebels in their revolutionary efforts although no overt act had been committed by the crew. Under a special law created by Spain, this offense was called piracy and was made punishable by death. The American consul protested against summary action, but in spite of such protest, the commandant, General Barrios, ordered a court martial convened for November 2, at 9 o'clock. By 4 o'clock in the afternoon it had condemned the greater part of the crew and passengers to death. On November 4, four of the passengers were executed. In the meantime, General Sickles had protested at Madrid against the summary acts of the commandant at Santiago, and his position was strengthened by the failure of Acting Attorney General Bristow after an examination of the papers under which the ship sailed, to the effect that "the papers presented by the secretary of state in the case of this steamer do not establish any violation of the neutrality laws, either by the owners of the steamer or by the persons engaged thereon." However, the Spanish commander paid no heed to the protest, and on November 8, executed twelve more of the passengers. Five days later he executed Captain Fry and thirty-six of the crew. The nation was stirred. The navy was prepared for war and, says Curtis, in United States and Foreign Powers. "Upon failing after repeated efforts to obtain any promise of reparation for the death of the four, our minister asked for his passport." A demand had been made on Spain to return the survivors as well as the vessel and to salute the flag. In the meantime, the Spanish embassy at Washington, realizing the seriousness of the situation, hustled himself and shortly afterward got the vessel and the rest of the prisoners released. A further examination of the facts showed that the Virginius was not actually entitled to fly the American flag, as the principal owners were not American citizens, and under our navigation laws could not legally register the ship as an American vessel. But she made no difference with the result to the flag involved. After showing that the Virginius was not entitled to American registry, Attorney General Williams proceeded to define the rules of international law, so far as applicable to the conduct of foreign states in such cases. He said, "Let us take on the high seas, actually bearing an American flag, who was as much exempt from interference by another nation as a ship sailing under a lawful register; the question whether or not her register was fraudulent, obtained, or whether or not she was sailing in violation of any law of the United States, being one over which such power could not then and there rightfully exercise jurisdiction." The flag was not saluted, Spain, through her envoy, said in effect, "We will settle for this by paying a money indemnity for the lives of the persons acting in violation of the question of whether you ought to demand an salute where the papers on the ship are illegal, we suggest that you discuss with the state which will adjust the rest of the differences." That this statement is within the facts is shown by the following taken from the speech made by the minister sent to congress by President Grant January 5, 1874:

"When, therefore, she left the port of Kingston in October last under the flag of the United States she would appear to have had, against all powers except the United States, the right to fly that flag and to claim its protection, as enjoyed by all regularly documented vessels registered as part of our commercial marine. No state of war existed conforming upon a maritime power the right to molest and detain upon the high seas a documented vessel, and it cannot be pretended that the Virginius had placed herself without the pale of all law by acts of piracy against the human race. "If her papers were irregular or fraudulent, the offense was one against the laws of the United States, justifiable only in their tribunals. "When, therefore, it became known that the Virginius had been captured on the high seas by a Spanish man-of-war; that the American flag had been hauled down by the captors; that the vessel had been carried to a Spanish port, and that the Spanish tribunals were taking jurisdiction over the persons of those found on her, and exercising the jurisdiction upon the persons, not only in violation of the rules of international law, but in contravention of the provisions of the treaty of 1795, I directed a demand to be made upon Spain for the restoration of the vessel and for the return of the survivors to the protection of the United States, for a salute to the flag, and for the punishment of the offending parties. "The principles upon which these demands rested could not be seriously questioned, but it was suggested by the Spanish government that there were grave doubts whether the Virginius was entitled to the character given her by her papers, and that therefore it might be proper for the United States after a surrender of the vessel and the return of the survivors with the salute to the flag, should, such fact be established to their satisfaction, still demand reparation for the death of the four, and asked to it, on the assurance that Spain would then declare that no insult to the flag of the United States was intended. "Why did President Grant deem the suggestion of Spain that the salute be dispensed with just and reasonable, in view of his own statement and the opinion of the law involved, handed down by his attorney general? Surely it was not on account of the conciliatory attitude of Spain, her compliance with all the other demands made, or her prompt settlement of the indemnities due to the families of the men murdered under color of law by her officers. Curtis says in the work quoted:

"After more than a year of persistent pressure Spain paid to the United States as reparation for the killing of the passengers and crew of the Virginius the sum of $125,000, which was distributed to the heirs of the victims. Earnest efforts to secure the punishment of General Barrios for his part in the tragedy were unavailing, although a thorough investigation by a military tribunal was prohibited. Far from being punished, he was promoted to be a field marshal."

The real explanation must be found in the fact that President Grant, great soldier that he was, hesitated to plunge the nation into war when it was possible to avoid it by diplomacy. He once said: "Though I was trained as a soldier, and have participated in many battles, there never was a time when, in my opinion, some way could not have been found of preventing the drawing of the sword." And Spain not shuddered in part, would have followed, but the greatest soldier in the army of the Union, bearing the scars of the battle, quietly dropped his hands on the demand for the salute, and settled the other matters in dispute through diplomatic channels. Of course, there were probably such in his day who said "If I had demanded an apology for the insult, by kingly, I'd have got it, or I'd have flung it, wherever they were they have long been forgotten, while the forbearance of the great soldier and statesman who that can be settled honorably by diplomatic means, the successors of the knacker, of Grant's time are raising the same sort of howls. In another generation they will be forgotten, while the name of Woodrow Wilson will be remembered with praise. In Grant's time general peace treaties were practically unknown. The principle involved in the so-called Bryan treaties had not then been crystallized into formal agreements. So will further honor be forgotten, morally, to accept a fair offer to arbitrate at Vera Cruz. But not willing to throw the ball into its by far, the Bryan treaties, Bryan shall let their discussion go over for another paper."

School Notes

A new feature has been introduced into the band this year, that of admitting girls from both grade and high school. Beginners are permitted to enroll, and hence, the largest enrollment in the history of the high school. Last year the enrollment was fifteen. The enrollment now is sixty, including twenty girls. Owing to the presence of so many beginners, the first two months of practice before a public appearance can be made. Nearly all the more practiced members have graduated or left school. However, Mr. Wertenberger, the leader, thinks that an excellent organization can be made from the material at hand. Regular practice will begin immediately upon the arrival of the instruction books. The orchestra has been organized and daily practice is now taking place in the auditorium. This organization is also under the supervision of Mr. Wertenberger. At present there is an enrollment of fifteen, besides several non-practicing. An enrollment of twenty-five is expected by mid-term. One item of trouble concerning the orchestra, is the excess of string music, and a deficiency of

"Seriously, is there not some slight difference between a Democratic majority of three thousand four years ago and a Republican majority of fifteen thousand now?"

asks the News in an editorial entitled "Mixed Figures."

Our contemporary's figures are the ones that are mixed. In the first place the majority of three thousand at the September election four years ago was in favor of the Republicans and not of the Democrats. On national issues, Wilson carried the state by 2,620 plurality.

But this does not tell the whole story. At the September election in 1912, thousands of Republicans and Progressives remained at home on account of the unsatisfactory fusion between the parties. On the other hand, at the November election the members of both those parties went to the polls, but divided their votes between Roosevelt and Taft. Had the Republican and Progressive vote been combined in November, 1912, Wilson would have lost the state by 23,925. There is every reason to believe that a full vote was cast by both parties this year. The Democrats cast more votes than ever before in the history of the state, while the Republicans cast more votes than the combined Republican and Progressive vote of four years ago.

Comparing the majority of over 21,000 which the opposition to Wilson would have had four years ago, had it been united, with the majority of about 8,000 which the Republican senatorial candidates of the united party actually secured at the recent election, it must be evident to all except those who do not want to be shown that a large percentage of Progressive voters cast their ballots for the Democratic nominees on national issues.

Certainly more than 20 per cent must have done so. Should one voter out of every six of those who cast a ballot for Theodore Roosevelt four years ago vote for Wilson this year it would give him a plurality on the popular vote, while a straight twenty per cent Progressive vote for Wilson would give him an immense popular plurality and a large majority on the electoral college.

Former Governor Martin Glynn was well within the facts when he said in his speech notifying Vice President Marshall of his renomination that should the same proportion as compared with four years ago prevail in the disposition of the New York vote as prevailed in Maine, Wilson would carry the state by 250,000 plurality over Hughes.

Of course nobody can tell how the November vote will be in other states by figuring on the Maine results. On the face of it, it seems safe to assume that a larger proportion of Progressive voters will support the Democratic ticket in the middle west than in the east, in which case Wilson's election would be assured, but in politics "there is nothing so uncertain as a dead sure thing," and even experts in the computation and manipulation of "mixed figures," are apt to slip a cog in their calculations.

THE "HONORABLE" WAY.

The Statesman misses no opportunity these days to express its ideas as to Wilson's "keeping the country out of war." It evidently hopes by its tactics to convince some of its readers that "keeping the country out of war" is all that Wilson has been doing, whereas, as a matter of fact, this particular accomplishment is only one of a long list of things for which the country properly feels grateful to its president.

That President Wilson has patiently managed no one will deny," admits the Statesman. That his patience has been too "long-suffering" is the question which the Statesman finds. It must come hard for the Statesman even to admit that the president has managed matters so that the country is still at peace with the world. But apparently it does not quite see how it can escape from that fact, so the next best bet is to question whether our peace is an "honorable" one or not.

There are those, of course, who believe and who honestly believe, that the position of the United States would be more honorable if American blood was being freely spilled in Mexico in an effort to impose our political ideas upon the natives of that country, and to protect the rights of our citizens in Mexico with utter disregard of the rights of the Mexicans who live there. And again there are those who really think that the honor of this country could, under all of the circumstances, be better maintained by abandoning an attitude of neutrality towards certain of the nations involved in the European struggle.

But there are many who think differently, the latter class including President Wilson.

The alternative to the course the president has pursued in "keeping the country out of war," is apparent.

If it is so "honorable" as the rabid portion of the partisan press would have the people believe, and as Mr. Hughes himself implies, why then does the presidential candidate of the Republican party always dodge any reference to it.

Is it not because some of the technique involved in the "honorable" alternative might cause doubts to arise in the minds of a good many voters as to which of the two courses, the president's or Mr. Hughes', in their final analyses, were the more honorable?

UTAH PROGRESSIVES UNITE WITH DEMOCRATS.

In addition to the fusion state ticket of Democrats and Progressives of Utah, these parties are uniting upon county tickets. At the county convention held the other day in the city of Salt Lake an entirely harmonious program was mapped out. The ticket, as agreed upon by the two conventions, negotiating through a fusion committee, gives the Democrats two senators, the Progressives one. The Democrats have seven representatives, the Progressives three; while the Progressives are given some of the principal county officers, notably, commissioner, county treasurer and county assessor.

This and similar instances, as well as the number of prominent Progressives throughout the nation who are turning to the party led by President Wilson as the one most closely embodying their political ideas, makes one wonder at the stupidity, (or it is stupidity) of that portion of the country's partisan press that would have the people believe that the Bull Moose have all returned to the standpoint fold.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Greenbow was the gracious hostess at a pretty luncheon Wednesday, the affair being complimentary to her daughter, Earl Cagle, who leaves this week for her home in California.

The guests were seated around one large and three small tables, each centered with purple and white asters, the same flower decorating the place cards. Auction bridge followed the luncheon. Mrs. Burton won the high score, receiving a spoon, while a dainty handkerchief was awarded each lady holding high score.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The new Ford cars are up-to-the minute in appearance, with large radiator and enclosed fuel tank with full streamline effect, crown fenders front and rear, black finish with nickel trimmings, a sturdy motor, and with all the dependable, enduring and economical qualities that have made the Ford "The Universal Car."
One fact is worth more than a ton of guesses.
Ford cars are selling from five to ten over any and all other cars, simply because they give more satisfactory service, last longer and are easier to operate and less expensive to maintain and there's no guessing about the reliability of Ford service. Runabout $345; Touring Car $360; Complete $595; Town Car $595; Sedan $745—f. o. b. Detroit. On sale at Western Auto Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Sugar Factory Company Formed.—
The new company that is to build the Rupert-Paul sugar factory was incorporated last week at Salt Lake. It is a two million dollar concern and was incorporated under the name of Eccles Sugar company.—Rupert Democrat.

Masonic Temple Dedicated.—Saturday, September 9, went down in the history of Paradise Lodge No. 17, A. E.
& A. M., of Moscow, as one of the remarkable days. On that day the cornerstone of the new Masonic temple was laid on Main street near the intersection of Sixth and a large crowd was present to witness the ceremony.

Killed in Auto Crash.—John M.
Evans, prominent rancher and stockman, residing at Eagle and well known throughout southern Idaho as the head of the Boise Valley Packing company, was fatally injured a week ago Friday when an automobile was crashed into his automobile at the first crossing, between Meridian and Boise.—Oma (Ore.) Tribune, who was with him, escaped with slight injuries. Both were at first taken to the hospital where Mr. Evans died about two hours later. Nampa Leader-Tribune.

Bravado Ends Fatally.—In a general shooting and bravado which took place at about 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the main hall at Blackfoot, Brock Jones, a colored man, and well known character in this city, where he was a resident all several weeks ago, was killed, and Charles Caldwell, another colored man, was badly slashed and reported to be in a serious condition.
As a result of the affair, W. H. Bell and Grace Potter, both colored, and R. C. Morin, a white man, are inmates of the county jail, waiting an investigation of the case.—Blackfoot Tribune.

Under County to Vote Bonds.—The county commissioners of Cassia county have had posted throughout the several precincts of the county this week notice of a bond election to be held throughout the county on the 27th day of November, next, the date of the regular election. The election question submitted is to bond the county in the sum of $100,000 for the purpose of building the state highway through this county and for the purpose of building new roads, wharves, and repairing old roads and generally improving the thoroughfares of the county in condition to withstand the traffic that goes over them.—Blackfoot Tribune.

Two Hurt in Auto Accident.—While driving in Mr. Todd's car on the community road Sunday, Nathan Todd and E. H. Brubaker met with a very serious accident. The car, driven by Mr.
Todd, was going north and after the accident was found overturned and completely reversed as to direction.
Yet Gorman came along shortly after the accident and met Brubaker who had extricated himself from the wreck and started for help for Todd who was pinned under the car. The entire right side of Brubaker's face was crushed, the jaw bone, cheek and nasal bones being broken and the right profundus, Todd was badly hurt, but no bones were broken. His condition is, comparatively, not serious.— Payette Independent.

O. S. E. Business Heavy.—Work on big new extension to the Short Line roundhouse at this place is proceeding with added progress as this goes on. The extension will consist of five tracks and thus increase the total capacity of the roundhouse to eighteen tracks. Judging on the Short Line has probably been as heavy during the past week as at any time during the past year. The new roundhouse is out as rapidly as possible all the time, but the yards appear to be in a constant state of congestion. It is not unusual to see one train ready to pull out just behind another. Heavy-tonnage trains are the rule, too.—Glenn Ferry Gazette.

Colored Party Ends Fatally.—The Progress hall, which for the past several weeks has been used as a club room for the colored laborers employed on the streets, was brought to a sudden close Monday night. This evening of riot and confusion for Blackfoot's colored population was a combination barbers shop, bankhouse, thirst parlor and musical headquarters, where a piano and other musical instruments were kept. It was rented for this purpose by Brock Jones and Billy Bell, the former a sporting nigger and the latter a shoe shiner.

Monday evening.—Charles Caldwell, who has been employed on the streets, got in a row with Jones, the sport, and in the heat of the moment the colored sport received two fatal stomach wounds, he lost part of an ear and was otherwise badly disfigured. Several wounds, he lost part of an ear and was colored spectators, including a female, were arrested as witnesses.—Black-

HOW GEAR TEETH ARE TESTED.
Every part that enters into a high grade motor car must pass a series of rigid tests. In the plant of Dodge Brothers, acknowledged to be one of the best of the industry, nothing is left to chance. Every part is not only thoroughly tested but the carefully tests conducted that it is definitely known just what each part will stand.
In testing the teeth of gears the ordinary test has been to deliver a powerful blow against the teeth. The effect of the blow was easily apparent but it was impossible to measure how much force had been expended. The problem was put up to the engineers of Dodge Brothers and they developed a machine that delivers the blow and at the same time measures the force used.

The principle is the same as though a workman took a chisel, placed it against a tooth and struck the chisel with a hammer. In the case of the machine a sharp blade is forced against the teeth with a heavy impact and on a dial the "left over energy" is registered. It is a simple matter of mathematics then to calculate the amount of force needed to break the tooth.

BELL RINGING MAKES CONVERT UNDESIRABLE IN FASHIONABLE DISTRICT
SEATTLE—A petition was filed in superior court Wednesday by owners of real estate in Mount Baker park, a fashionable residence district, asking for an injunction restraining Catholic Bishop O'Dea and the Ursuline Sisters from conducting a convent in Mount Baker park.
The petitioners allege that the ringing of bells and performance of religious exercises, while quite presented in themselves, make the surrounding property undesirable for residence purposes.
In each lot sold there was a proviso that only single detached residences should be constructed.

Use the Sunlight
It's Free

Sunlight is the world's champion disinfectant.
It's on the job most of the time and it's just as necessary for the sleeping quarters of the hog as it is for bedrooms in the house.

Therefore, in planning your hog house, be sure to provide plenty of windows. See that every nook and corner gets its share of this reliable disinfectant. In this way you will also make sure of good ventilation.

Build a substantial hog house, for the hog needs protection more than any other animal on the farm. Make sure of good drainage and cleanliness.

We stand ready to give you any advice on the question of material. And our advice is just like the sunlight—
it's free.

the city of Twin Falls, Idaho, according to the accepted plat thereof on file in the office of deeds for said county, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

I have hereby given, that on the 10th day of October, 1916, at 10 o'clock
a. m. of that day, in front of the court house door in the city of Twin Falls, county of Twin Falls, state of Idaho, I will in obedience to said order of sale and decree of foreclosure, sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to satisfy ly plaintiff's decree with interest thereon and costs, to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States.

Dated, September 8th, 1916.
FRANK M. KENDALL,
Sheriff of Twin Falls County, Idaho.
By W. G. THOMPSON, Deputy.

Are You Going to Have a Public Sale?

I am again prepared to clerk your sale and purchase your paper, and am in position to quote you rates that I am certain will appeal to you as attractive.

I have a plan for the arrangement of terms that appeals to the various purchasers as being more equitable than those formerly in vogue in this community, and that will, at the same time, save money for the man holding a sale.

If you are contemplating holding a sale, let me submit my proposition to you.

I have money available for real estate loans, and at attractive rates.

SWearingen & Wilson PLANNING AN OPENING

Success of Wilson Brothers' Affair Leads Hardware Firm to Adopt the Idea.

The hardware firm of Swearingen & Wilson is preparing to have a formal opening some time within the next two weeks, as soon as the last of the shelving arrives for the new store. The painting of the interior is now in progress and will soon be completed. Large additions will be made to the stock of the firm.

The Wilson brothers' opening last Saturday proved such a pronounced success that the idea is contagious. All day long, streams of people went in and out, admiring the windows, the goods, the arrangements, the manner in which they were treated, the music by the Kimberly concert band and the refreshments of punch and candy which were served. The handsome windows and goods displayed may yet be seen as an evidence that Kimberly folks know the real thing in quantity, quality and taste.

The Swearingen & Wilson store is fifty by one hundred feet in size, being an exact duplicate of the Wilson brothers store next door, except in the character of stock carried.

Kimberly Items

George O. Bremer and Horace Bunkers are back from a trip to Oregon, on business.

W. H. Turner has gone to Kansas City to attend the bankers' convention. Frank Watson, whose hand was amputated by machinery at the Old Fellows' building last week, is recovering as satisfactorily as could be expected. The Socialist local at Twin Falls sent him a bouquet and dainty food this week.

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

(Compiled from data obtained from local merchants on morning of press day.)

Wheat still stands at $1.95, not having recovered its drop of 15 cents on last week's quotation. Spring chickens have dropped the half cent, while eggs have raised five cents over last week.

LIVE NEWS FOR THE MEN FROM THE BUSY UNITED STORES COMPANY

NOT INCORPORATED

GIVE US YOUR ATTENTION long enough to read this ad, and we will save you $3.00 to $10.00 on your next suit. Our first shipment of men's suits just arrived, all brand new fall patterns, new models and the latest fall styles—not one old, shop-worn, out-of-date suit to sell you. Don't take chances, but come to the United Stores Co. We want you to know our line of clothing, and especially our method of selling.

The Clothing Business is the worst abused of any line—more Price Cutting, more juggling and more deception used in the sale of clothing than all the other lines combined. Our Prices are always the same and always lower than the "Marked Down Prices" elsewhere. We do not juggle. We do not mark down. We do not deceive.

MEN—Does it ever make you sit up and think of the enormous profits you pay when you have occasion to purchase (in the beginning of the season and at full price) a new suit or overcoat, and then later see a duplicate of your favored garment (for instance) $30.00 to $40.00 suits for $24.75? Makes you feel as if you had been stung for about "Fifteen", doesn't it?

Our Line of Clothing

is now quite complete, and we are showing you suits at $12.75, $14.75, $16.75, $19.75, $21.50

ANITA STEWART AND EARL WILLIAMS IN THE LEADING ROLES
IMAGINE A GIRL ON A TRAIN APPROACHING A BRIDGE WHICH CANNOT POSSIBLY STAND ITS WEIGHT. TWO MEN KNOW THIS. BOTH ARE RUSHING MADLY BY AUTOMOBILE AND MOTOR BOAT TO INTERCEPT IT.

YOU SEE ALL THIS. SEE THE GIRL'S SWEET FACE AT THE WINDOW OF THE FLYING TRAIN—FEEL THE SWAYING OF THE AUTOMOBILE AS IT SKIDS DESPERATELY AROUND SHARP TURNS, AND THE BOUNDING OF THE MOTOR BOAT SLASHING THROUGH ROUGH WATERS.

BOTH MEN AND THE TRAIN COME CRASHING INTO THE PICTURE AT THE SAME INSTANT—TOO LATE!

FOR A MOMENT THAT SEEMS AN ETERNITY, YOU FEEL YOURSELF SITTING AT MOST UNDER THE TOTTERING TREESTLE AS THE ENORMOUS ENGINE—A MASS OF WHIRLING STEEL—LEAPS THUNDERING AND QUVERING INTO THE EMPTY AIR AND FALLS SHRIERING TO THE SWIRLING RIVER.

THE BIG COACHES CRUMPLE LIKE CARDBOARD BEFORE YOUR EYES AND PILE THEMSELVES UP ON THE WRECK—THEIR PASSENGERS FLOUNDERING AND STRUGGLING IN THE DEBRIS.

GAIN YOU SEE THE GIRL—AGAIN HER FATHER—

AGAIN—THE MAN—

THE CAR OF JUGGERNAUT ROLLS ON.

BUT WHO ARE VICTIMS?

COME AND SEE THIS TREMENDOUS SPECTACLE.

AND SEE WHO WE HAVE WITH US AGAIN.
