MONEY IN CROPS IN GEM STATE

Vast Increase Shown in the Potato Values.

GREATEST INCREASE SHOWN IN THE POTATO VALUES.

Wheat and Oats Below 1915 In Amount Produced But Are Worth More in the Aggregate.

The last government crop report shows that Idaho will in most products make a vastly greater amount of money than it did last year, although this is not the case with apples, which fall down greatly on account of a late frost; and hay, which is somewhat short and on which the price remains the same as last year.

Although the wheat crop is not as large as last year, it is worth nearly $3,000,000 more; the value of this year's crop being $17,240,240, against $14,970,700 last year.

The potato crop is larger than last

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN PRICE OF CATTLE

Steers Go Up Fifteen Cents—Hogs Remain Strong and Sheep Command Steady Prices.

There were about 100 head of cattle here for today's market. Demand was good, and good steers and cows scored further advances. The Portland
Live Stock Reporter Thursday. Most of the run was, as is the case during the week, usually of the ordinary variety. Prices of these classes of stock were steady to, in some cases, slightly higher.

Good steers made further price gains
this morning of about fifteen cents.
There was one load only of steers
here, which was sold early at $5.50.
Further advances, the Portland

Another strong market characterized the hog trade here this morning. The liberal but there was a good demand from all outside and local packers.
Quality was fairly good, although prices were not as high as last week. A few went at $5.50, with the bulk at $5.50 and $5.60.

The sheep market has been nearly dormant since the last few days.
A few and ten have been received on the market, which were quickly absorbed by packers at good steady prices. Valley hogs again—about $5.50 with yearlings at $7.50. A few even brought $5.50. A very keen de-

Good prices were: Prime hogs, $7.00-7.25; prime heavy, $5.75-6.00;

BRAZIL URGES NEUTRAL LEAGUE

Society of International Law
Would Resist Encroachment

WANT COMPLETE LIBERTY OF TRADE FOR NEUTRAL NATIONS.

Recommendations Expected to be Endorsed by Brazil and Chile and Submitted to the World.

WASHINGTON—Full details of the recent proposal to the Brazilian parliament by the Brazilian Society of International Law for the formation of a league of neutrals to resist incroachments and other encroachments by belligerents were made public Sunday through the official gazette of the Brazilian parliament. The proposed neutral league would consist of all present neutrals, and would spring automatically into effect whenever another war broke out.

The society urges the government to take immediate steps to secure the cooperation of all neutrals for the declaration of a uniform series of neutral rights and for their enforcement. The rights suggested are the immunity of enemy goods under a neutral flag, complete liberty of trade between neutrals regardless of ultimate destination, freedom from any extraterritorial actions such as blockading, and the forbidding of any alien to inform a foreign government of matters which might lead to belligerent restrictions.
Violations of these rights would be met under the plan, first, by the withdrawal by the neutral league of the privilege of friendly treatment for the offending nation, including the trade rights. In case a consular or diplomatic official should be concerned, his credentials should be handed him at once. If this proved unavailing, hosilities might follow.

The report, while directed at all belligerents is more concerned with British trade violations. The efforts of the United States are recognized, but are declared ineffective. The allied blockade is particularly criticized.
A case is cited in which a Brazilian vessel from the United States to Brazil is alleged to have been seized, taken into Maranhão, and forced to surrender some of its merchandise bound to Brazil.

The Brazilian report created great interest in official circles. The state department, however, says that as yet neither the Chilean nor the Brazilian proposal has been definitely submitted.

ZAPATA BANDITS KILL BABES AND MOTHERS

Unarmed Carranza Troops Taken From
Train and Shot by Southern Bandit
Chief.

LAREDO, Tex.—An indiscriminate massacre of nearly 100 women, children and Carranza soldiers, who were traveling on a train near Contreras,
state of Mexico, which was attacked by Zapata bandits, is reported in Mexico City newspapers received here Sunday. After the attack on the train,
the dead lay in piles beside the cars,
the papers state.

Only one person, so far as known,
escaped death at the hands of the band-
its. He was Captain Antonio Frigols.
The attack occurred November 7.

The passenger train conveyed by a military train eight kilometers in advance was halted in a mountain wilderness after the military train had been allowed to pass unharmed. For 15 minutes the Zapataists kept up the slaughter, slaying men and women who prayed for mercy and killing the babies who accompanied their mother.

The papers declare. Soldiers aboard the passenger train were without their ammunitions and unable to offer any resistance.

When a relief train reached the scene of the attack several hours after it occurred, the Zapataists had scattered into the hills. They had looted the express car of its valuables before departing.

BLANKETS

The sale of blankets has been one of the remarkable features of the business of this store. Those who bought here last year were surprised at the low prices, and were pleased with the qualities, and are coming back this year and are sending their friends here. Some who have bought elsewhere this year and have since looked at ours are feeling badly after finding that they could have saved money in buying here.

The quantity of blankets that we sell seems almost unbelievable. I doubt if there is a store in this part of the country that sells as many blankets as we do.

A striking feature in blankets offered in some stores is that the correct size in inches is not printed on the tickets attached to the blankets, and another is that they are not ticketed
"Standard." I refer more particularly to cotton blankets of which there are so many used in this part of the country. The blankets we handle are correctly marked in plain figures as to size, and our cotton blankets are standard quality. I handle no "seconds" or off brands in cotton blankets, and those that we do handle
are of the dependable kind.

The best part of our line of blankets is that we are still giving those remarkable values that have pleased and satisfied so many customers heretofore.

The blanket that we are selling for $1.98 is full size, good weight, warm and soft, and compares favorably with those offered elsewhere
for "quite a bit" more.

We also have a full sized plaid blanket, warm and soft, and good weight in a variety of colorings that is truly remarkable for the price of $2.50 a pair.

TEN YEARS

The events of the past ten years are comparatively fresh in your mind. It doesn't seem a very long period when you review it.

It would be interesting to ask yourself NOW, whether you will be satisfied to make the same financial progress in the next ten years as you did in the last. Wouldn't a Twin Falls Bank & Trust Company Savings Account brighten your prospects?

LIFE ON BORDER TOLD BY OFFICER

Captain C. V. Biggs of Co. K, Writes of Conditions.

AMERICAN SENTRY LOOKED AS IF HE WOULD WELCOME TROUBLE.

Would Return Fire If Shot at, and Would Halt Bunch if They Tried to Cross.

Conditions on the border are vividly described in a letter received this week by H. W. Barry, editor of the Buhl Herald, from Captain Claude V. Biggs, and published in the Buhl Herald. Captain Biggs tells of the daily routine, of the roller of the guard, of the attitude of the Mexicans and other matters of interest, while thanking the people of the west end city for their contribution of magazines. The letter follows: Camp Stephen Little, Nogales, Arizona, Oct. 23, 1916.

Mr. H. W. Barry, Buhl, Idaho.

My dear Barry: Through the columns of your paper, permit me to thank the Buhl people for the nice big box of magazines we have received from them.

The reading matter came at a time when it was needed and will be appreciated most—our duty has been cut down to only one hour's drill daily, and guard duty; the latter is very heavy, much more so than I ever knew it to be in the regular army. We get a four o'clock second or third day. It will be lightened, however, as soon as the Alabama troops, now arriving, get settled in their camps. But to return to the subject of the reading matter and guard duty, perhaps an explanation of what our guard duty is like would be appreciated by those who are not familiar with this military life.

We go on guard at noon and are relieved at the same hour the following day. The guard is divided into three divisions or "reliefs." Each relief goes on post two hours and then is off four. Thus, in the 24 hours tour, each man gets eight hours on post, and sixteen off. During the sixteen hours off post he must remain at the guard house or headquarters of the guard. He can, however, sleep, read or write, and it is the time where your magazines are very welcome.

I might go further and paint you a word picture of a night of sentry duty on the border but I have done very little writing of late and might not be able to portray it as I have seen it.

International avenue, which is patrolled by guards from both armies, runs east and west, dividing the American city of Nogales from the Mexican city of the same name. The city proper is about four blocks wide, filling in a deep canyon running north and south but, international avenue, which is a narrow, intersecting canyon about one block wide. In this canyon all the houses are on the Mexican side, including the barracks for their troops, which is about half a block from the line. On their side of the line their sentries have plenty of protection in the adobe buildings and on the side of the canyon or hill back of the buildings they have a series of rifle pits overlooking our side. Our sentries have no protection or rather no cover and they must walk back and forth along the street, which is lighted, and in plain view and range of the Mexicans. Of course there is but little danger, it is regarded as nothing, yet it is possible that some Mexican may get a little too much liquor and take a shot at the gringo sentry, anyway such things have happened.

But the sentry paces back and forth as though unconcerned. The gun is just going down. A bullet can break forth from the Mexican barracks with its long-drawn-out weird notes. It is time for the Mexican guard mount machine. Ten drummers fire out of the barracks each beating like mad and forming a circle. Then two bugles, chime into the unearthly noise with some sort of march. The sharp command of an officer is heard, followed by four squads of soldiers filling out of the barracks. They are armed with long Mausers and step with a fair degree of military precision. One squad heads for their outposts to the east of the town on a high hill, another marches down international avenue (on their side of the street, of course) and takes up along the principal cross streets; the third goes to the rifle pits on the opposite side of the canyon, while the fourth occupy a large adobe building just across the street.

A couple of mounted men drive a steer down the hill to the barracks where one of them knocks it in the head with an axe, and then it is cut up and distributed to the soldiers while the numerous dogs lick up the blood spilled in the street.

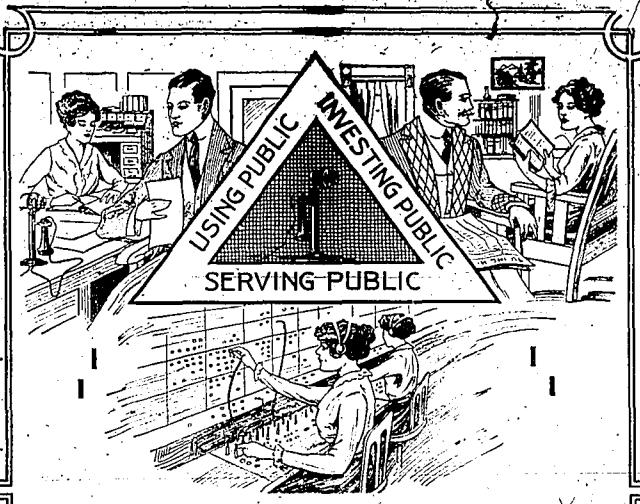

Darkness comes hurriedly down now, none of the long twilight like we had in Idaho. And just as it is getting dusk the sentry sees the field officer of the day and his orderly approaching up the street. The major asks for the orders and then stops for a minute to watch the Mexican sentry across the street who is amusing him solely by transforming his pistol from one pocket to the other, and then rolls up his sleeve and calmly takes a "swat in the arm" with a knuckle. Perhaps he feels that he is in need of something to quiet his nerves but our sentry makes a mental note of the failings of this fellow who requires "swats" to keep him cool. The major passes on. It is now dark, and he must challenge all persons approaching his post.

Up the avenue he sees another horseman approaching. He thinks it is his captain who is officer of the guard but he must make care so he sings out, and with his Springfield at "ready."

"Halt! Dismount, who's there?" "Officer of the guard."

"Advance officer of the guard to be recognized."

The officer dismounts and advances,

Mutual Interest

From a telephone standpoint the public is made up of three grand divisions, all equally interested in the growth, development and general success of our enterprise.

The telephone INVESTING public, our stockholders, who furnish money with which to build plant. They are interested because they seek assurance that their investment is safe and that a fair return will be forthcoming.

The telephone SERVING public, our employees, who operate the plant. They are interested because their lives are centered in their chosen vocation, and their material welfare depends upon a remuneration commensurate with the unceasing energy and sincere purpose which they are devoting to this public service.

The telephone USING public, our patrons, whom we serve. They are interested because the efficiency and adequacy of their service depends upon our ability to build plant in pace with the development of the several states, to maintain our plant at a high standard of efficiency and to pay salaries and wages sufficient to attract the most competent employees.

Here is a mutuality of interest involving obligations which must be mutually shared by the entire public.

ROBINSONS FURS

There are large quantities of garments on the market that are made from furs that are not desirable. The skins are tender, the fur wears off readily and the color "croaks" or rubs off. This class of furs is sold under commercial names that do not give those who are not familiar with the manufacture of furs a correct idea of just what they are.

In the selection of the furs I handle, special attention has been given to the kind, quality and make, and I can assure any of you good folks who have in mind buying furs that you can come here and feel assured of getting the right kind, and as in other lines I carry, the prices will be right.

Come in and let us show you, even if you do not want to buy.

"Halt! Dismount, who's there?" "Officer of the guard."

"Advance officer of the guard to be recognized."

The officer dismounts and advances,

THE ELECTION.

Taken as a whole, the recent election was eminently pleasing to us. The triumph of Woodrow Wilson, which was at no time doubted, was supplemented by that of Governor Alexander and the greater part of the state ticket, as had been confidently predicted in these columns. Not only did THE TIMES forecast the result accurately, before any other newspaper on its exchange list, and before the big dailies, but the victory was never questioned, as the estimates were based on a knowledge of conditions carefully studied beforehand. A perusal of the final returns from the several states will show the substantial accuracy of our electoral table on Wednesday, the morning after election.

There is nothing to regret over the return of our fellow townsman, Addison T. Smith, to congress, and his flattering vote in all parts of the state is appreciated by Twin Falls citizens generally. The fact that when the Adams bill was before congress, he was broad enough to lay aside partisanship and vote with the Democrats to avert a strike which would have proven a calamity, was duly remembered by many Wilson men. Burton L. French, too, is exceedingly popular in Idaho.

On the state ticket all the Democrats who were actively supported by this paper. In the case of John W. Eagleson, Republican candidate for state treasurer, the sole exception among the Republican aspirants for higher state offices who was in no way identified with the state machine. THE TIMES did not actively oppose his reelection, as his honesty and ability in the conduct of his office were undoubted and several times commented upon by this paper. Neither Miss Ethel L. McElroy nor Richard N. Ball, successful Republican candidates for the offices of state school superintendent and inspector of mines, respectively, was especially opposed by this paper.

On the legislative Democratic ticket, the triumph of Judge Lawrence Hansen, the veteran Democrat, was a source of pleasure to this paper, from which he received active support.

Other Democratic county candidates whom this paper wished to see elected, and who won, were O. E. Carlson, commissioner, by 854 majority; D. P. Albee, commissioner, by 613 majority; Frank M. Kendall, sheriff, by 752 majority; Harvey Coggins, treasurer, by 638 majority; Charles J. Crosby, coronor, by 791 majority; James A. Bybee, surveyor, by 891 majority. T. E. Moore, Republican county commissioner, who was endorsed by this paper as a competent, experienced and efficient officer, was defeated by 774 majority.

Only four candidates on the Democratic county ticket, actively supported by THE TIMES, were defeated and these only by small majorities. They are W. F. Alworth, for the state senate, who lost to S. P. Atherton by seventy-five votes; James A. Fitzgerald, for the legislature, who was beaten by Norman Barker by fifty-eight majority; Miss Bertha Noel, who lost to Miss Britton Wolfe by fifty-four votes, and Arthur W. Ostrom, who was beaten by ninety-six votes for probate judge by O. P. Duval. It will be seen that on the senatorial vote, the people were about equally divided. Norman Barker, the Republican representative has interests on the Salmon and is a wide-awake citizen. Miss Wolfe's qualifications as an educator cannot be questioned. O. P. Duval has the experience and breadth of vision necessary for success. F. L. Stephens is a bright, young attorney and it is evident that the majority of the people believe he will make the success which everyone wishes him, now that he has been elected. The flattering vote given George B. Wilcox for assessor indicates that he is well known to the people and so thoroughly liked by them that any tribute to his ability would be unnecessary.

THE TIMES wishes to be distinctly understood that it does not consider its failure to endorse certain candidates to be any reflection on either their ability or honesty. In making endorsements it used its best judgment and the people in the majority of instances sustained it. The general character of the candidates on both tickets was high and it seldom happens that voters are favored with a chance of discriminating between so many competent and able men. It is a rare opportunity to make real mistakes, as in Twin Falls county this fall. In every case in the county or state where THE TIMES felt it necessary to make an active fight against any particular candidate because his election was regarded as a menace to the honest management of affairs, such candidate was decisively beaten.

For this reason we say the results of the election, as a whole, are particularly gratifying.

GETTING BACK TO WORK.

The period of political activity and excitement has passed and people are again at their ordinary labors, a little unaccustomed to the steady grind of business, perhaps, but proceeding much as usual. This adaptability on the part of the American people; this disposition to accept the will of the majority until reversed by peaceful means at the ballot box, is the greatest safeguard of our institutions and the greatest assurance of their perpetuity.

There are doubtless many Republicans, who supported Hughes enthusiastically, who feel, considering the closeness of the race and the fact that the senate would have remained strongly Democratic, that it was well that the presidency should remain with the Democrats. Had the movement, that seemed to be a political upheaval, that started in the east on election day, extended over the country and changed the complexion of the upper house, as well as given a majority in the lower, Republicans would then have been in a position to have made changes in existing laws. But with the senate Democratic by twelve majority, no changes could have been made in any of the great legislative acts of the party now in power for at least two and probably four years. Under such circumstances, the administration of Hughes, if elected, would have been wasted in fruitless agitation, which while neutralizing the good that might come from the Democratic laws, could not have secured their repeal. Everything considered, from a purely non-partisan point of view, it is better that the stability of conditions be assured, and that the laws be allowed to work out under the administration of those in sympathy with them, than that four years of doubt follow the present election.

If the Democratic measures fail, the Republican party will be restored to power four years hence with a majority in both branches of congress and it can then substitute its ideas for those of the Democratic party. That is as soon as the laws could be repealed in any event, since a mid-term upheaval in favor of an administration such as would change the complexion of the senate from twelve against to a majority for the party in power is practically unheard of. The Republicans who fought to sweep the country for Hughes, were doing their patriotic duty, since they believed that way; when they failed to make a clean sweep, it is better, regardless of politics, that all power be left in the hands of the Democratic party, so that there could be no needless disturbance of business through agitation and no shifting of responsibility or recrimination between the parties in regard to any failure to make good.

Knowing definitely the policy of the government for the next four years, the people can turn their minds from politics and get back to business without fear of disturbance through useless political discussion.

MANY COMPLICATIONS

IN IDAHO ATTRACTION
"Rolling Stones," at the Idaho Friday and Saturday, relates the adventures of Dave Fulton and Buck Ryder, two young men of more leisure than elegance, who both are firm believers in the proposition that the world owes them a livelihood. About the time that they become acquainted, Buck discovers that there is a chap named Braden who is expected at the boarding house in which he lives, and that Braden is being sent there for the purpose of marrying Norma, the pretty little niece of his landlady. If either Braden or the girl refuses to marry the other, then the recalcitrant one will forfeit a large fortune and an interest in a big candy factory.

Complications develop with alarming rapidity, together with a romance between Dave and Norma, over which Braden glowers.

Dave and Norma decide to elope and the young chap determines to extract from the office safe the amount of salary due him for his efforts. Unfortunately, Buck has decided on that same night that he will tap the office safe for all it contains. The two meet in the office without recognizing each other and Dave is injured in the fight which follows. Dave is taking the cash box and has removed his salary therefrom when Buck, sneaking into the back of the boarding house, discovers the box and is caught trying to steal it. Through the good offices of Dave he escapes and in the excitement, the real Braden's identity is discovered. Of course Norma is free to marry Dave and Braden decides to divide the proceeds of the will with her.

HART KNOWS ALL ABOUT

WAYS OF THE INDIAN
William S. Hart did not find it necessary to take lessons from genuine Indians recently when he was cast to play the part of a quarter-breed (see in "The Dawn Maker," the Tridiglo-Kay) in the play by C. Gardner Sullivan. Stored away in the inner recesses of his memory was enough Indian lore to enable him to interpret the role without coaching.

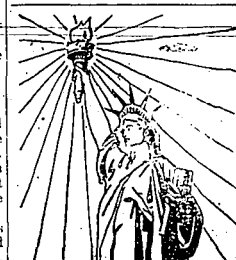

When he was an infant Hart was taken by his parents to the plains of North Dakota, where until he was six years of age he lived with the Redskins who inhabited that region. During this association he absorbed the habits and customs of the aborigines with such accuracy that he can talk intelligently and at great length on any topic relating to the Indian race.

With this fundamental knowledge at his command Hart was equipped to undertake a performance of the role of Joe Elk without having to resort to instructions that readily would have been volunteered him by the Indians at "Inceville." His every action in the scene, it is said, is in strict accord with the customs of the Crow tribe.

In one scene Hart is shown seated at the dinner table in a modern Montreal home. So true to tribal behavior are his actions and pose that Joe Goodboy, the real Indian chief who appears in the production, marveled at the faithfulness of the scene when he saw it on the screen.

"THE SPOILERS" HAS SHOWN

TO RECORD BREAKING HOUSES
"The Spoilers," which is to be presented by W. N. Selig at the Isis theater tonight and tomorrow, holds an undoubted record of attraction to more people than any other picture which has ever been produced. In New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, thousands were unable to gain admission. In San Francisco the local theater management opened their doors at 2-10 in the morning. The picture is unprecedented in the history of the motion picture business. Still, they were unable to accommodate the lovers of silent drama, and thousands

Patented February 9, 1915

Worthy of a Place on Any Ranch

It Swings Easily It Hangs Squarely It Is Elegant
It Will Not Sag

THE strength and beauty of this gate lies in its scientific construction. The bracing is so adjusted that the strain is equally distributed throughout the gate. Each gate has five fir rails. These are fastened together by eight channel steel uprights. In assembling the gate, two double-strength hinges are bolted to the uprights and the triangles in such a manner as to distribute the entire weight evenly. The gate is locked both at the top and bottom, thus making it impossible for cattle or hogs to open.

The height of the standard gate is 4 feet 3 inches and may be made any length.

were unable to view this most marvellous production.

There are also reels of swift developing drama. The characters are drawn from the every day life of Americans placed in circumstances which call forth the best and worst in human nature. The photography is excellent and the staging unsurpassed so far in the moving picture world. It is a great human story told of people with rich red blood in their veins, facing supreme difficulties and fighting with sublime or demonic fierceness as well as patience to maintain their position in the world-old struggle for power.

SKELLS-WILEY HOLD BIG ONE CENT SALE

The Sale Is Part of a Nation Wide Sale Given by All Rexall Drug-ists.

Something new in the line of advertising is being put into effect this week by the Skells-Wiley Drug company for the famous Rexall remedies and supplies. This will consist of a one-cent sale covering practically every item in the store and the novelty of the sale, according to Messrs. Skells and Wiley, will assure the idea a big success.

The sale by the Rexall representatives here is part of a national plan of publicity put into effect by the United Drug company, owned by 8000 druggists all over the country, and this system of giving their patrons more than their money's worth is used instead of any campaign of advertising in the news mediums of the country.

The manner of conducting the sale is explained in the Skells-Wiley ad appearing on another page in this paper.

BOOTLEGGER REMINDS EDITOR OF THE POULTRY BUSINESS
There is nothing truer than the old saying that "The chickens come home to roost." About six years ago a bunch of men raised a purse of $50 and gave it to Hank Gobel if he would purchase a plot of whiskey from J. C. McCreary, and then file a complaint against him. This he did and it cost McCreary $500. Last night the officers swore out a search warrant before Judge Ripley and raided his room at the Hotel Filer and found him and a stranger with a quantity of whiskey in their possession and took them to Twin Falls. It seems that other bootleggers had hired C. C. Small to go to Twin Springs in his auto and bring a case of whiskey to town. He was also arrested by L. D. Allen, city marshal, and a deputy sheriff—Filer Journal.

No time is this more true than at election time. I absolutely wish to hold no ill feeling towards anyone and wish no one anything but good. If I have in any way caused anyone to be hurt I wish through this medium to offer my apologies. (Signed)

TALKS ON THRIFT.

THRIFT IN LITTLE THINGS.

"Don't take the top sheet" is the order issued by a large insurance company to its employees when taking history from the stock room. The reason is, the top sheet is soiled and dusty and must be thrown away, only to leave another top sheet to become soiled and wasted.

Over the electric button in a large hotel is the request: "We would appreciate the favor if you will turn out the light when leaving the room." Some hotels furnish a large cake of soap for each room daily, whether the guest changes or not, the bulk of which is wasted while other hotels furnish a small cake just large enough for a day's use. Some hotels have the heavy and costly counterpane laundered every day, while others use the same one until it is soiled and then it is thrown away.

The reason for these small economies is not parsimony, but good management. Of what use is a large cake of soap when a small one answers the same purpose? Why burn the light when you are out of a room? Why lose expensive linen when a little cake would prevent?

If every employee in a large office wastes a scrap of paper a day, and every guest burns hours of needless light, the yearly cost is enormous. If a hotel can save but a cent a room a day in soap, it means a yearly saving of $1,600 in a hotel with 500 rooms. If every bundle that goes out of a department store has half a cent's worth of needless paper and twine, the loss is a large item in the firm's annual profit and loss account.

A certain restaurant found that it cost $20,000 a year to supply bread and butter grills, and by changing but ten cents for this service turned a loss of $30,000 into a profit of $50,000. That is good management, however much we may grumble at the ten-cent tax.

Success in business, success in life, a marriage, the application of thrift-principles to little things. We too often forget that little things make a difference. As waste counts up fast, so savings grow over. If you were allowed to go over the books of any savings bank you would find hundreds of accounts that show steady, systematic saving. It may be but a dollar or two a week, but in the long run it mounts up. A certain young lawyer in New York who was once a pack peddler made it a steady habit when a boy to save fifty cents a week, and he was as regular as the clock. It was the beginning of a successful career. Another young man, about to be married, saved five dollars a week for two years out of a salary of fifteen dollars and never missed a week.

The results of such systematic work will surprise even yourself. You know that fifty times two make a hundred, but if you apply the principle to a bank account you are bound to believe it. Little leaks can sink a ship as well as a great hole in the bow, and do it with less confusion. Little savings can make you rich as well as a great strike. The reason so many people are poor is simply because they cannot stop the little leaks. They spend little sums all the time, and in the multitude of little "pennings" reach a total that proves disastrous. Thrift in little things will make you thrifty in big ones, but you never can have the big things unless you give heed to the little ones. Watch yourself for a few days and see how your money gets away from you. You will surprise even yourself.

made on the 25th day of October, 1916, notice is hereby given that Friday, the twenty-fourth day of November, 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day at the court room in the probate court, county of TWIN FALLS, has been appointed as the time and place for giving the will of said Charles Y. Miller, deceased, and for hearing the application of Little Miller for the issuance to Henry Miller of letters of administration with annexed, when and where any person interested may appear and contest the same.

Dated October 25th, 1916.

A NOVEL WAY TO ADVERTISE

This sale was developed as an advertising plan by the United Drug Company, owned by 5,000 druggists. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of their goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full-sized package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get new customers and the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

THE WAY WE DO IT

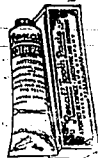

You buy an item at the regular price--then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Tooth Paste is 25c. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying 1c more, or 25c, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high-class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at regular prices, and have sold you for years.

No telephone orders received for items on this sale. The conditions of this sale are such that all purchases must be cash.
Be sure to attend this sale. Hundreds of other articles not mentioned in this ad. will be sold for 1c.
