

DEFINITE RAILROAD PROPOSITION MADE

Offer to Construct Line to Wells-Advanced in Boise

WILL WOULD GO THROUGH THIS CITY FROM THE CAPITAL

Twin Falls Will Be Asked For About $100,000 Rights of Way and Terminal Facilities.

"Chairman O. P. Carlson, of the board of commissioners and I had the pleasure yesterday of hearing the proposition for the building of a line of railroad from Boise through the Wichakoway Irrigation project on the Brunau project, through Twin Falls and on to Wells, Nevada, and we look favorable for a road," said James McMillan, secretary of the Twin Falls Commercial club, who with Mr. Carlson attended the meeting of the state highway commission in Boise in the interest of an extension to the Nevada line.

"The proposition, which was made by D. Miller, of Kansas City, who is in charge of the Wichakoway project is supposed to be an independent proposition financed by capitalists not connected with either of the big railroad companies. It requires the pledging of $250,000, right of way and terminal facilities on the part of Boise, notes to be given when the survey is completed to the Brunau, running for three years without interest and payable on completion of the road. From Twin Falls would be expected right of way, terminal facilities and about $100,000 bonus.

"We received much encouragement in regard to the highway extension but nothing will be done until after the adjournment of the legislature." The Capital News Tuesday contained the following regarding the road mentioned by Mr. McMillan:

"The proposition made by agents whose financial statements are to be filed, and behind whom are believed to be powerful railroad interests, made public yesterday by the trustees of the citizen's right-of-way and the railroad committee of the Boise Commercial club, to build a standard gauge railroad from Boise through the Brunau project to Wells, Nevada.

"Mr. C. R. Shaw, chairman of the railroad committee, when seen, admitted that a straightforward proposal had been made by parties he had every reason to believe were responsible; that negotiations of details were progressing rapidly and that immediately upon agreement of the details full publicity would be given to the project.

"The fact that the proposed railroad will connect with both the Southern and Western Pacific lines, giving to Boise and southern Idaho a route not only a competitive road, but an outlet to the south, makes the proposition one that is looked upon as being one of unusual importance.

"In fact, it was learned, on consultation with those familiar with the proposition, that it is the most substantial thing ever presented to the citizens of Boise for many years. There is unusual optimism over the proposition.

"President Shaw admitted that the proposition contemplates the construction of a line from Boise, via Brunau and Twin Falls, to Wells, Nevada, and that the railroad committee is now working with the parties interested to get the proposal into definite shape. "This was a proposal made six months ago to construct an electric line from Boise via Kuna to Brunau where the Wichakoway Irrigation project is located. It has since been enlarged for its construction and that instead of building an electric line, the proposal resolved itself into a plan to construct a standard gauge line and not only build through the Brunau country, but to continue on east to the Twin Falls territory and make a direct connection with the Southern and the Western Pacific.

"It was recently stated that the Western Pacific has its expert engineer (Continued on Page 10)

SUNDAY MOVIES ARE ASKED IN PETITION

Efforts Being Made To Get Majority of Voters to Sign Remonstrance Will Be Presented to Council.

A movement to allow the moving picture shows to be shown on Sunday here yesterday. Lou Kierland in the petition to the council which he is presenting for the people of the city. Dr. J. F. Shepherd, pastor of the Presbyterian church, said last evening that a remonstrance would be presented to the council against granting the motion picture shows the privilege of running on the Lord's day.

"The fact that a number of qualified voters, equal to a majority of the qualified voters of the municipality as shown by the votes cast at the last election, shall petition the council to permit theatres and moving picture shows to run on Sunday, the council may grant such permission subject to such regulations and regulations as it may see fit to impose. City Attorney George Horvath when asked in regard to the matter said that the petition would be amendatory to the Sunday closing law and was passed in 1911. The general election referred to in the law would be the election of November 7.

LOVELACE BOYS ARE SENT TO ST. ANTHONY.

Taken into custody yesterday by Prosecution Officer V. H. Drury on a complaint drawn by County Attorney John B. Davies, Harold and Lynn Lovelace were sentenced today in the city to the St. Anthony Industrial school. The boys were represented by their attorney and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Penneywell, their stepfather and mother. The mother was at first bitterly opposed to their being sent away, but later, on the advice of the father of the school, she was appointed as deputy to take them to St. Anthony. Testimony was offered by Mrs. Frank, who taught them when they were at school here last year; by Mrs. A. A. Tolman at whose home in Elmore Idaho they stayed during the absence of the Penneywells and before they killed F. T. Hamill on August 15, and by the probated officer. After their acquittal, recently on the charge of murder, they went with Mr. and Mrs. Penneywell to Paul's territory and stayed there a few days ago with their stepfather and mother and were here when taken up yesterday. They will be taken to St. Anthony tomorrow morning.

Stage Robbery and Murder Within the Town Limits of Jarbidge Tuesday Evening

Fred M. Searcy Shot in Back of Head and Instantly Killed--Three Men Are Arrested Charged With the Crime.

Special to THE TIMES

Received at 3 p. m. William McGraw and a man named Jennings, his partner were arrested this afternoon by Constable C. H. Hill and Sheriff David Marquandson on charge of complicity in the murder of Fred M. Searcy. The men are friends of Ben Kuhl, who was arrested yesterday, and are said to be rounders. Fred Searcy, who was at first reported. A gambler called "Poker George" identified the pistol found in the Kuhl cabin as one which McGraw borrowed from him a month ago. This led to the arrest of the men. An examination of the ground around where the team was found seemed to indicate the presence of two men with different sized shoes. The arrested men, say nothing, except that Kuhl had acknowledged the ownership of the revolver which he at first denied. He did not explain his denial. When arrested he said that he had but $7.50 but today a further search of the cabin revealed a clear silver watch, marks that looked like blood spots, and having $18.50 wrapped in it. Kuhl did not explain his former statement. Kuhl took active part in the search, when the alarm was given Tuesday night.

JARBIDGE--Ben Kuhl, a miner, who lived in the outskirts of Jarbidge, was arrested yesterday afternoon on suspicion, charged with the murder of Fred Searcy, who was shot and killed Tuesday evening. The coroner's inquest conducted by Justice of the Peace Jewell yesterday, simply found that Searcy died of a gunshot wound inflicted by parties unknown. The circumstances which led to the arrest of Kuhl were the finding of an overcoat believed to have been his under the bridge across the river in which there was a cash sack containing $18.50. The sack which originally contained $250 in change had been opened and $20 taken out, as if for spending money. It is reported that a knife for a long time ago had been owned by the accused man. Kuhl lived in a cabin not far from the bridge. The prisoner was released when he was taken into custody and a .44 caliber pistol found in which one cartridge was empty and one cartridge showed the hammer had been engaged on it without causing it to explode. A shirt found near the river showed a sign of bloodstaining, but contained the name of Hayne Brothers, a firm which was found on other laundry belonging to Kuhl.

Kuhl denied all knowledge of the shooting and said that the overcoat was not his. A former partner, called "Curly" who was brought in from the mine where he was working, said that Kuhl at one time owned the coat and had given it to him. He said that when he went to his mine he left the overcoat in the cabin in which the Kuhl lived and which has since been occupied by Kuhl.

Kuhl has been regarded unfavorably here since he attempted to "jump" the sheriff's men and brothers to a middle of town last summer. They had a house on the lot and moved it to put up a pool hall. During the fight Kuhl moved the shack and attempted to hold it. In the litigation which followed, and in which he finally lost, Kuhl was fined for contempt of court for having insulted the trial judge. The pool hall has since been erected by Hayne Brothers.

The first report of the shooting was that the overcoat was to have been delivered to Crumley & Walker for their saloon and restaurant where many checks were cashed has not been recovered nor has any other money been found except the balance of the $200 taken from the sack. This was change intended for Crumley & Walker. The balance of the $200 was a cashier's check for $1000 which was in the mail but will not lose anything thereby as it will be made good, owing to the inability of the robber to cash it. The total amount made possible probably fall short of $5000, allowing for the cashier's check belonging to Browning.

day evening at 6:30 o'clock by an unknown bandit who robbed the mails of about $500 and left his victim weltering in blood about seventy feet from the road in the bushes. The robber evidently crawled upon the mail pouch and shot Searcy from behind, sending a bullet crashing into his brain from behind the left ear. The crime was committed about 100 yards this side of the town limits of Jarbidge. About 6:30 o'clock people living in the houses at the outskirts of the town limits heard a shot. A few moments later the stage drove past the people and that two men were occupying the seat. As a murder had evidently been committed at the time that the shot was fired, it is agreed here that the bandit must have crept up the body of his victim and passed the houses, figuring correctly that the people would not notice the condition of things in the gathering gloom and the storm. Satisfied passed the houses, he turned into the bushes and fired the mail. The second class was gone through, evidently without finding anything. Later the first class mail was taken out and robbed of its contents. Crumley & Walker had $3200 in small bills in the registered mail, which they were getting in to cash checks for the workmen in the Jarbidge. The expected smaller amounts, which it is believed will total $2000 more. Of the sacks containing first class mail, one was found near the river in the morning.

Leaving the dead man and the team, the robber made his escape unnoticed. The first finding was thought about the (Continued on Page 10) search to the rear within the town limits, where the body was found at 10:30 o'clock. The bullet which killed the driver, and which entered just behind the left ear, came out of his mouth, knocking out two lower teeth. Fred Searcy was killed by a small express wagon built to carry about 600 pounds. The place into which the horses were turned was a narrow road and the wagon was built across the Jarbidge river was built. It was covered with heavy bushes. The team was not tied by drivers and the horse and left standing. The outfit belonged to Contractor Reynolds of Rogerson who had the contract to carry the mail. The point where the team was killed was about 1200 feet from the postoffice and is in the town limits.

One theory in that there were two robbers and that after killing Searcy they held him up between them, but this is not generally accepted here. Searcy had been driving the parcel post wagon for some time. He was moved to the mail wagon about two weeks ago. He was about thirty-two years old and single. A mother and sister live on the coast and were notified at once. They are on their way here. He recently underwent an operation here in a Twin Falls hospital.

Head Thwarted Gang Robbery The opportunity for a robbery afforded by the Jarbidge neighborhood has caused considerable uneasiness to the postal authorities in this city. The threat of a robbery was suggested by bulletin out from the camp by mail or parcel post. Postmaster M. A. Strunk said yesterday that he had heard the Sheriff Kennedy to be on the danger on several occasions, but that it never occurred to him that the mail would be robbed going to Jarbidge.

No word was received at the sheriff's office here beyond a statement from the United States postal department that the mail was to be on the lookout. All connected with the office have been watching since. Sheriff Harris of Elmore, mentioned by another man whose name was given and who is supposed to have been a United States deputy marshal who was shot today to Jarbidge. Several unknown persons are believed to be marshals arrived in Jarbidge last night but would tell nothing in regard to their business. Owing to bad roads it was impossible for the Elko county sheriff to arrive sooner.

WILSON'S MESSAGE BRIEF DOCUMENT

Greater Part Taken Up With Railroad Regulation Matter

AGAIN URGES PROGRAM SUGGESTED BEFORE THE ELECTION

Wants New Law Giving Freedom to Combine in Foreign Commerce--Foreign Relations Are Unsettled.

RECOMMENDATIONS BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Recommendations embracing administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission. 8-hour day should be made basis of work and wages in employment of all railway employees operating trains in interstate commerce. Appointment of special body of men to observe the results of public inquiry can be made. Lodgment in president's hands, in case of military necessity, of power to take over railways. County should not consent to remain any longer exposed to great industrial disturbances. To forbid stopping or interruption of operation of country's railroads by concerted action of organized bodies of men until some public inquiry can be made. It is justified. It is a justifiable curbing of society.

Urges action to be taken on bill to give greater freedom of combination to those engaged in foreign commerce; the bill should be amended to include organic law; and the bill regulating the expenditure of money in elections.

WASHINGTON--When President Wilson appeared before congress to deliver his address Democrats and many Republicans joined in a demonstration to facilitate him on his reception. William Jennings Bryan and most of the cabinet occupied places on the floor. The demonstration which was prolonged and noisy, in the galleries Mrs. Wilson and women of the cabinet joined in the handclapping.

The galleries were packed when the president was escorted by the usual committee. He walked briskly to the chamber, took his place at the speaker's desk and in his hand the letter of introduction in his hand. The president was forced to wait while the demonstration on a Broadway scene with the Democrats, and many Republicans joined in the applause.

After the president began reading his address some of the suffrage leaders in the gallery (dropped over the rail a banner which was smuggled out from the chamber) and bore in bold letters the inscription: "Mr. Wilson, what will you do for women?"

A page quickly snatched the banner from its place, and the president mildly looked up from his manuscript and continued reading without hesitation or interruption.

Text of President's Address. Gentlemen of the Congress: In fulfilling at this time the duty laid upon me by the constitution of communicating to you from time to time information of the state of the union and recommending to your consideration legislative measures as may seem necessary and expedient, I will continue the practice, which I hope has been acceptable to you, of leaving to the several departments of the executive the elaboration of the detailed needs of the public service and confine myself to such matters as seem to require public policy with which it seems necessary and feasible to deal at the present session of the congress.

Railroad Legislation. In the first place, it seems to me imperatively necessary that the earliest possible consideration and action should be accorded to the breaking measures of the program of settlement and regulation which I had occasion to recommend to you at the close of my last session in view of the serious danger, disclosed by the unaccommodated difficulties which exist, as we have seen, in the country, of a strike between the railroads.

PEACE LEAGUE IS PRAISED IN SERMON

Dr. J. F. Shepherd Makes Powerful Plea for Fraternity

IMPEDIMENTS TO TRADE MARK FOR DIVISION OF PEOPLES

Commercial War and Physical War Must Give Way to Understanding and International Fraternity.

Taking for his subject "The Gospel and World Peace" Dr. J. F. Shepherd, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in his sermon Sunday morning advocating the formation of a league for peace among the nations and censured the idea that this was a standard which earthly by a war for trade through the formation of rival trade leagues leading to still other wars. "Our Master measures the required perfection of man, and of the redeemed world, by God Himself; and by the perfection of Heaven is the standard toward which earthly society is to move, for the full realization of which in the world we are taught to fully pray, and therefore daily work."

May we give you two or three pictures? The first is the struggle of a sin-saturated world in its need, seeking to apprehend truth; a world in which gross darkness covered the people; a world in which the wisest philosophers of Greece, such as Socrates and Plato, were "feeling after God, if haply they might find Him" a world where cruelty and vice indiscreetly proclaimed the rule of the world's nobility, where the finer feelings of the soul were lost to view; a world which seemed ready to destroy itself in mad orgies and inhumanities fitly described as a world, "where there was no eye to pity, and no arm to save."

A second picture centers in a little despised land, but at its convergence of the great continents of the then known world, the scene is surrounded by a few followers, as never man spoke, setting forth doctrines that are revolutionary in tendency. The prophet is the one who, in the face of the day in which he lived, saw this new power, a working man, not of earth's nobility, but of Heaven's royalty. "Going about in the leprosy," said at last dying for the truth he had declared and for the very people who persecuted Him. We hear Him saying, "I am the light of the world; from the earth will draw men unto me." In the light of His wonderful life and death, we turn back to the utterance of the prophets, and discover that in Him was fulfilled their glorious ideals, my only this, so, as to His suffering as foretold by Hosea: "And I, if I have been as to His passion. For Isaiah says, 'In Him, He will judge between the nations and decide concerning many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they be at war any more.'--Isa. 2:14. Then as if the ideal might be forgotten, he adds, 'O Israel, thou shalt be called a holy nation, walk in the light of Jehovah's light.' Mich in the 4th chapter uses almost the same language, and adds this beautiful picture: 'And they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid--for the mouth of Jehovah of hosts of Jacob, come ye, and let us realize or not? Jehovah of hosts hath said so. Let God be true though all men be liars. Or is this glorious and impossible? I believe it is, and was a dreamer of the impracticable! The worlding and the infidel say He was, and after His church has acted as we see before us."

Let us look at a third picture. Nineteen centuries have passed since Jesus, the Son of God, was crucified. Few have approached the truth and sought to make it practical. Dreamers have dreamed of a Utopia, beautiful forecasts of worlds, where the lips speak what the heart has never felt, are substituted for God's formula. "To do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with God."

While we have been hearing this prayer all over the world, this morning, let us look at the third picture, the vision of evolution, of the "new world" that has been dreamed of, and let us see if we can accept it in the light of the Gospel.

While we have been hearing this prayer all over the world, this morning, let us look at the third picture, the vision of evolution, of the "new world" that has been dreamed of, and let us see if we can accept it in the light of the Gospel.

RECLAMATION URGED BY SECRETARY LANE

Head of Interior Department Advocates Use of Water

PLANS MUST BE REVISED FOR IRRIGATING ARID LANDS.

Several Great Irrigation Projects Completed or Being Constructed—Indians Become Citizens.

Secretary Lane, in his annual report issued today, attracts attention to the fact that the pioneer spirit has died out in the people of this country. While the volume of public land is decreasing until now it is almost down to two hundred fifty million acres in the United States, much of which is in the arid region, the entries of public land are increasing. This year nearly twenty-seven acres of Uncle Sam's domain were taken up as against seventeen million each for the preceding two years, sixteen million for 1912. At this rate it will be but a very few years before all of the public land of the United States will have gone into private hands. Probably in less than ten years there will be no public land of consequence that will be available for the homesteader. There will still remain, however, many million acres of lands which can be brought into rich production by the application of water, and no inconsiderable volume that can be put to the public service by being drained. The problem is no longer one of getting the people onto the land but of getting land for the people who wish it, and ways must be found by which land can be irrigated, either from the waters that flow underneath it or from the waters that now go to waste flowing to the sea. It is Secretary Lane's belief that no sufficient effort has been made to discover underground supplies of water which can be used upon the deserts of the west, and that congress might well either appropriate direct for improving these lands by a system of drilling or pass a law by which private parties could be induced to make this effort.

The agricultural possibilities of Alaska are still a matter of conjecture, although it is known that in the Tanana valley and in other portions the harder cereals and vegetables will grow. With the completion of the railroad which is now being constructed from Seward to Fairbanks there promises to be a considerable movement within Alaska to make that country an asset which the government should further by undertaking a broad plan of promotion based upon the knowledge already gained as to what can be done agriculturally in that far northern part of our country, which, however, has a climate less rigid than that of some sections of the United States now thickly populated. Outside of Alaska the outlook is that within five years the only public land available to the pioneer will be that upon which a large amount of money must be expended in holding back the floods of the streams or in bringing water upon the land. This is not a work for men of little means so that it may safely be said that the pioneer with his plow and his team will have vanished from the United States within a few years.

One feature of the work among the Indians during the past year has been the effort to discover the Indians who were competent through a system of competency commission, composed of men of long experience among the Indians. A commission consists of three men, who go through a reservation from house to house, making personal studies of the character of the Indians and reporting upon their progress—the kind of houses in which they live, the way in which their children are dressed, the manner in which their farms are tilled and their cattle cared for, and in general their economic condition. Out of those so inspected the commission makes a list of those who are in judgment fitted to take on the responsibilities of the partnership of being released from the paternalistic care of the Indian Bureau.

The bureau of education is conducting a campaign for the education of adult immigrants and for better rural schools. Work of landless the public land is being pushed by the Geographical Survey, and last year over four million acres were classified as to their mineral character and one hundred eighty-eight thousand acres as to their value as power and public water reserves. The geological investigations of the survey were made in forty-seven states, the Canal Zone and the West Indies, and topographic surveys were made in twenty-nine states. The reclamation service carried on construction work in twenty-four irrigation projects, bringing ten projects or units thereof to completion and added a quarter of a million acres or five thousand farms to the area on the government work for which irrigation water is available. It completed the highest dam in the world and another forming the largest irrigation reservoir, built over a hundred miles of canal, eighty miles of drains, fifty miles of pipe line, sixty miles of roads, seven thousand two hundred canal structures, six hundred bridges, six hundred fifty culverts, excavated approximately ten million cubic yards of earth and rock, used five hundred thousand barrels of cement, manufactured sixty thousand barrels of sand cement.

The bureau of mines is given credit for developing methods for treating low grade complex gold, lead, silver, and zinc ores that promise to rejuvenate mining in certain parts of the country and render valuable millions of tons of ore that cannot now be treated profitably in mine rescue work.

laid down by our Lord have taught the doctrine of the superman. Trade and national jealousy have built up unnatural barriers to its fulfillment; nations have lived with nations in suspicion and unholiness, and, in the realm of the industrial world, those who have reason to be helpers of each other have planned for a warfare of interests.

Commerce and industry is now a survival of the strongest, with a conflict between capital and labor that threatens the very perpetuity of our institutions, while nations, long building bearers of suspicion and hate, have found the legitimate fruits of the same in a world war of unrelenting ferocity. Yet let God be true though all men be liars. Jehovah of hosts hath spoken and can not lie. The prophets have declared conditions to which Christ hath fulfilled these conditions to the world, when the world will take His way. "Truth is a treasure, whose contents are the thoughts of God. When God uttered His thoughts, truth is accessible, even if unrecognized." Facts are God's alphabet from which we may discover tendencies. God's plan is to bring all His moral creatures into perfect harmony with the perfect will of a perfect God.

erate and disappear in a morass of materialism." Vice Admiral Ahlfield says, Deer and antelope thrive best on a powder cart, enduring world-wide peace would mean degeneracy and a misfortune for the human race.

Thus the nations of the earth have all the definite... of the tramp's journeying—no settled goal, but a zig-zag course. "We have no clear ideal of the purpose of God for the nations, and, as citizens of the great commonwealth, no self discipline and self-urging toward the goal of history for the world. Yet we do seek to apprehend this goal in blind groping. Else, what means our efforts in law making? The congress of the United States and the various legislatures will this winter add about 15,000 new laws to our statute books covering as much as 25,000 pages. We have in our schools, above our high school—universities, colleges, professional, normal, art and music schools, 295,000 students, seeking an education of worth while, the goal of individual, social, national and world life. But Professor Murhead insists, that in most cases, "The soul comes still—born from the school."

"Why not take the words of Emmanuel Kant, the greatest philosopher since Plato, (If we have lost faith in Jesus Christ, let us seek to make his views real. He said, "The idea of human history, viewed as founded upon a universal plan in nature, gives us a new ground of hope and opens up to us a consoling view of the future, in which the human race appears in the far distance as having worked itself up to a condition in which all the germs implanted in its nature will be fully developed and its destiny on earth fulfilled."

The teaching of Jesus afford the aim, the principles and the motive power for realizing the world-ideal after which men are groping today.

Today, almost, we are masters of the centuries in thought. Almost we are mighty in realization. Almost! But failure is terrible indeed. Ideal attainment lies beyond us. Learning would have reached the goal if it could, but it has failed. But let learning press into loyalty to truth. If they are true, then let us go forward in faith and seek their realization. Humanism is devoted to education, outwardly sympathetic, keen in speculation, but not serious in living. Christianity, as Christ intended, is concrete and dynamic to all life. Its knowledge is not a knowledge which has not passed into life and action. The hindrances to the realization of Christ's plan. The first great hindrance is selfishness. Millions of people are at work trying to remove the world's inequalities. This country spends over $400,000,000 per year on the public schools. But selfishness or municipality has spent 400 cents to make people selfish. The nations exist and are fostered on the principle of selfishness. "The nations of the world should stand in the same relation to each other as the several individuals of a community. Yet the nations have been warring since natural barriers, planned trade wars and sought to build up self at the expense of their neighbors." McKinley, author of the high tariff law, in his last address in Buffalo, the day before his assassination, said: "The period of exclusiveness is past. Commercial war is an unprofitable. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times." This world of selfishness. Present conditions would realize with common sense the tariff commission will surely work out in its study of world conditions.

The Greek word, meaning to exchange, also means to reconcile. Nations must cease to look upon each other as mortal enemies, planning to live separate lives; plotting to wreck on each other, retaining commercial intercourse except on terms not honest in the sight of the end of the world. "We are members one of another." The very variety of the nations makes the unity of the world a necessary such as vacuums. Is a world federation possible? There is greater need of a United States of the world today than there was of the United States of America four generations ago. Then Georgia was farther from Massachusetts than America is from China. Washington was burned two weeks before the people of Boston knew it. In 1828 it took more than a month for the country to learn who was elected president. The congress of states States are patterns of the world's need States are patterns of the world's need today. A world's congress could deal with world needs; world coinage, weights and measures, customs and postal regulations, arbitration, world patents, satisfaction of ports, industrial and monopoly control. The Hague tribunal could be elevated into a world court. Five of the nations of Central America have a ready such a court, which sits in judgment on nations. A world executive would be a possibility. Is it not today that the other day a man in California and a man in Japan exchanged wireless messages across the Pacific. We should be talking to London and Paris without wires in a few years. Godly, thinking men, are looking toward the future, for which the present is over making preparations. God has not only "Our Father," but our ruler, for Fatherhood implies authority as well as love. God's eternal design is "Eternal Peace." This is declared in Revelation, approved by reason, and looked for by human need. Rockefeller said, "Force and right rule the world; force till right is ready." Force has long held sway but today, in the midst of battle smoke, the eye of a prophet may see "Right putting on her coronation robes and preparing to ascend the throne of the world's humanity more than winning."

"Here on the paths of every day—Here on the common human way—is all that Christ our Lord would take to build a heaven; to mold and

Is the teaching of Isaiah only a glorious ideal? Was the work and death of Jesus Christ a mistake? Was He only an impracticable dreamer? Is it true that the Kingdoms of the world are to be the Kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ? If so, what we look to the realization of this glorious consummation? What would we have us to do?

Will we, whose citizenship is in heaven, help to make earth a place like unto heaven, or allow it to remain as now, a hell indeed, shall the cavalry's victim be slighted in all the affairs of man or accepted in statecraft as an individual life? Shall we soon realize the hope, "when the war drums throb no longer, and battle flags are furled, in the parliament of man, the federation of the world?" Then let us pray and work for its fulfillment, "Thy kingdom come, Thy earth."

WOULD MAKE EXCELLENT OFFICIAL

The mention of the name of Sheriff F. M. Kendall for the position of warden of the penitentiary is a natural consequence of the splendid endorsement given that efficient officer at the polls in Twin Falls county after an opponent of more than ordinary experience and ability. Mr. Kendall was formerly game warden of the state under Governor Hawley and made an enviable record which won him many friends. Should he be selected for and decide to accept the position for which he has been suggested by his friends, it is safe to say that the governor of the state of Idaho will never be denied the privilege of conducting an investigation into the condition of the institution, and that those who may at any time oppose any of his policies, will be met with courteous and satisfactory explanations rather than with murderous assault and brutal violence, and that those in his charge will be treated with kindness as well as firmness.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

As the message of President Wilson is devoted solely to internal issues, already discussed by him in previous communications and threshed out pretty thoroughly at the polls, it will lack the interest which arises from novelty. A critic of the president said since election that he was a railroad builder but not a pathfinder and that he blazed no trails. To some extent the remark is true and it is the highest tribute that can be paid to his constructive statesmanship. The trails have all been pretty well blazed already. A Columbus was needed to bring the western world to the attention of the great powers of Europe, but his discovery would have been fruitless had it not been followed by the colonist, the farmer, the cultivator and the home builder from those nations. Laws which have been advocated for a generation have been given by the present administration. Had the president been a trail blazer, he would have wasted his time looking for new routes instead of building roads.

THE MEXICAN AMMUNITION EMBARGO.

The sudden appearance of Villa before Chihuahua with a large, well equipped army, supplied with ample ammunition to defeat the government forces in charge of that city, while the Carranza army had scarcely ammunition enough to carry on the fight, shows the futility of the claim all but universally accepted before election, that the Mexican armies of the northern part of the country would have been without ammunition had the embargo not been lifted. "Every shot fired at Columbus was practically presented to the bullets by the American government and they would have been without ammunition had we not given it to them," was a plausible statement accepted by all but a few who knew better, and these kept still because a statement of the truth would not have been believed.

Villa then had but a few hundred men, and these were scattered. A few months later, he appears at the head of thousands and has more ammunition than the Carranza army. Where does he get the supplies in spite of the embargo?

Largely, no doubt, from remote points on the coast, but probably to some extent across the border. When President Wilson, early in 1914 raised the embargo put on the northern forces Frederick Starr, who probably knows more about Mexico than any other American, said in his work "Mexico and the United States," then ready for the press, "It is doubtful whether in practice it may amount to much. There has not at no time been difficulty since 1910 in bringing arms across the border into Mexico." This opinion of the embargo as it had up to the time been enforced by Taft and Wilson would doubtless have to be modified to make it applicable to the present situation, but it is clear that the work of getting arms into the country from some place is not insurmountable. It is also clear that the statement that Villa is backed by powerful financial interests, is well founded. What those interests are is not altogether clear, but they probably center around one or other of the great oil companies.

both the large and small cities. The company is now on its way east and will play a week's engagement at Salt Lake, Denver, St. Louis and Kansas City.

The little role is taken this year by the young and beautiful Paula Shay, selected to be the greatest "Everywoman" Mr. Savage has ever had. In fact, Mr. Savage considers this year's "Everywoman" company one of his greatest organizations, and for that reason is sending it to important cities for a third and fourth time. There are thirty-seven speaking parts, large choruses and ensembles and a special orchestra is carried on tour. Over four million people have witnessed "Everywoman" it has an engrossing story, telling of the adventures that befall a young and beautiful woman of our day who sets out from her home in search of love.

IN "BAD MAN" ONCE MORE.

W. S. Hart is again seen as a western "bad man" in his new Triangle feature, "The Return of Draw Egan." There is a noteworthy cast supporting Mr. Hart, which includes Louise Glum, Robert McKim and Margery Wilson. Robert McKim, the film-labeled "heavy" of many Triangle-Kay features, is well-nigh unrecognizable in this new W. S. Hart picture. He plays the lower part of his face with a drooping moustache which wholly conceals his characteristic mouth.

"THE HOUSE OF LIES" IS IDAHO ATTRACTION.

"The House of Lies," the Moroccan Paramount, photography company, for the Idaho Monday and Tuesday, brings forth this problem:

Edna Coleman is the step-daughter of a society matron who candidly explains that she intends to exploit her daughter's beauty in the marriage market, the market with its shallow veneer of modern dress and modern manners but with an amazing similarity of spirit to the old "slave market," only perhaps a little competition. But there is a way that sets all the tangle right and Edna Goodrich playing the starring role finds that only in a great sacrifice is the clear path that leads to happiness.

SOCIETY NOTES

Items for this department may be mailed, phoned or left at The Times office. Please Ss.

The people of Springville District No. 35 held their regular Parent-Teacher meeting in the school house five miles east of Hollister on November 25. The report was read by Mrs. M. Olson and Isaac King. The standardization of the school was discussed by the members. Refreshments were served and everyone enjoyed a good social time. The teacher, Miss Edna Motley, will arrange a Christmas program for the next meeting.

On Friday night Miss Nellie Tausdale held a recital at her studio in the Conservatory of Music, in which her piano studies took part. A very enjoyable program was rendered composed of selections by the Misses Hazel Wirth, Ruth Wirth, Mary Virginia Hart, Lucetta Brown, Peggy Schneider, Lucille Ahlen, Thelma Heartfield, Carol Erickson, Mildred McNeish, Thelma Olsen of Kimberly and Master Lerch Olsen.

ANSAHKA GIRL WINS SPUD CHAMPIONSHIP

United Sixty Bushels of Potatoes on Eighth of Ace—Best record for School Pupils.

BOISE—Nellie Chase, of Ansaahka, Clearwater county, Idaho, joined the Boys' and Girls' potato club in the spud-growing contest and won the eighth of an acre of Netted Gems, in accordance with instructions sent out by the Idaho University Extension department.

Nellie is a high school girl of sixteen years and was as proud of her first year's work as she was of any achievement made in the school. She was the county champion of Clearwater county, and was chosen by Mrs. Fisher, the county superintendent, to represent the county at the annual delegate to the Spokane state fair.

She also entered her potatoes there and won the high position for the exhibit of Netted Gems at the Spokane fair. "She likewise sent an exhibit to the Gem State fair at Boise this fall and won the first prize in competition with a hundred or more very choice exhibits from various parts of the state. Her prize potatoes with the blue ribbons won, can now be seen in the office window of Mr. Bruce, the state board of education, Boise, Idaho.

The Extension department and the U. S. department of agriculture appreciate this splendid achievement of a high school girl, yet they place greater stress upon her record report and story of how she raised her one-eighth of an acre of potatoes and the amount of profit made.

Her record report shows the following main points:
Amount of yield 60 bushels; marketable potatoes, 13 sacks; seed potatoes 14 sacks, 5 sacks cut.
Total value and receipts for one-eighth of an acre $82.74; cost of production $1.50 leaving net profit on investment $81.24.

BARN DANCE ITEM CREATES STRID-N-DANCING TROOP PLACE

An item in a recent issue of this paper announced in effect that several teachers from this city had spent a Sunday at a nearby town where a bounteous dinner was served, after which a barn dance was indulged in. The story written with innocent intent of being taken in a ludicrous sense, it soon was construed literally to the embarrassment of those concerned.

MAHEL-TALIAFERRO IN

"THE DAWN OF LOVE"

MAHEL Taliaferro, one of the most charming and talented young actresses of the stage or screen, will be the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, when she will be seen in the stellar role of "The Dawn of Love," a five-part Metro Wonderful. Miss Taliaferro is supported by an unusually strong cast which includes Robert W. Frazier, Leslie M. Stone, Peter Lang, Martin J. Faust, D. H. Turner, Frank Hovey and Jack La Mott.

The story, which is from the pen of Channing Pollock and Ronald G. Wolf, is one of romance and intrigue, and deals with the strife between the smugglers and custom officers along the northern coast of Maine. Miss Taliaferro has the role of the daughter of a fisherman who is involved with the smugglers. There are plenty of thrills and suspense throughout the entire picture. The picture was photographed along the picturesque and rugged Maine coast where the Metro players remained for several weeks, living near a lighthouse. The background of the light house and the numerous exciting scenes in the smugglers' case, are a few of the big moments in this really big screen play.

THE CHRISTMAS STORE

PRETTY CHORUS GIRLS IN HENRY W. SAVACE'S "EVERYWOMAN" COMING IN ONE-TREMENDOUS SPECTACLE, OPERA, DRAMA AND MUSICAL COMEDY AT THE LAVERRING THEATRE DECEMBER 12.

Cheese process was explained and studied.

"The visit to Mr. Seaver's place was to see some of his purebred Hampshire sheep. Mr. Seaver paid $25 for the best ram. At that time the highest priced ram in the United States.

Mr. Samuels has a strictly modern dairy barn, equipped to care for the cow as well as any of the Wisconsin type. This barn was constructed at a cost of about $6000.

The stop at Mr. Syer's enabled the boys to see another strictly modern dairy barn. Here also we find that Mr. Syer's herd bull, a fine Holstein, is a half brother to the world champion dairy cow, Daisy, registered Oriskany, who produced 1205.5 pounds of butterfat in one year. Mr. Syer has a beautiful herd of cows, the milking of them three times per day and figures it pays.

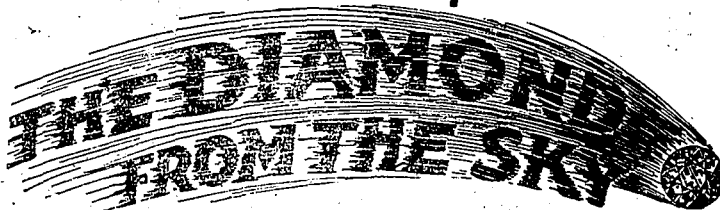

The last place visited was that of A. A. Stouffer. This herd is made up of grade Holsteins and was the highest milk producing herd in the Buhl Pioneer Testing association, having produced 11,546 pounds of milk per cow.

The last stop was at the ranch of C. E. Long. This herd is composed of purebred Jerseys. This herd produced the highest number of pounds of butterfat per cow, in the testing association, 399.5 pounds per cow. Mr. Long also has the highest fat producing cow of the testing association.

Those making the trip were: Stanley Hodges, Austin Ayotte, Canada Evans, Noel Bailey, Lloyd Gilkey, Jacob Irwin, Lamond Shurtlett, Robert Budrow, Jacob Matthey, Oscar Neugebauer, Will Harris, Eugene Thomas, Walter Shoenberger, Vaughn Price, Marvin Carlson, Robin Cole, Ludwig Drexler and R. Chapter One of the Sequel in Novel Form Will Be Published in the December 14 Issue of The Times and the Picture Will Be Shown December 19 and 20—Two Days, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY at the

ORPHEUM THEATRE

Millions have been waiting for the Sequel to the famous serial "The Diamond From the Sky". And now it's ready for release. On Monday, November 27, the first chapter of the $10,000 Sequel was shown for the first time in theatres all over the United States. This is the Sequel to the most successful serial yet released. This is the film that has been made from the $10,000 prize suggestion. The Sequel is stronger—more powerful—more sensational, than was the original production. It is in four chapters, each two reels in length. Each chapter is a big feature in itself.

"The Diamond From the Sky" was itself a $10,000 prize story. It ran in fiction in newspapers all over the country. Millions of people saw it. Hundreds and hundreds of theatres played to capacity business with it as an attraction. A prize of $10,000 was offered for the best Sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky". People in every state in the Union tried for that prize. Thousands and thousands of manuscripts were written. Months were necessary to read over all the suggestions offered. Finally the prize winning suggestion was chosen. The trained scenario staff of the American Film company, then, then set about preparing the working script of the production. This finished, the task of filming was begun. And now it is completed.

All the old favorites of the original production are again in the cast. Arthur and Blair Stanley—Ester and Vivian Marston—Quabba, the hunchback and Smythe, the quiet English collector, are all again to be shown on the screen. Popular William Russell—beautiful Charlotte Burton—talented William Teddars—funny Orin Jumphrey, are all in the cast again, together with many new players. The Sequel is an entirely new story. It is tremendously thrilling, powerfully dramatic, superbly photographed and enacted by the very best cast obtainable.

From all points of view "The Sequel to The Diamond From the Sky" is a striking production. The drama of the diamond, which is a gem of meteoric origin, whence its original title, "The Diamond From the Sky", is inherited from its beginning with the mysterious elements that might be expected to characterize it.

In the drama of "The Diamond From the Sky" men fought and loved and died because of the diamond's baleful influence over them, while in "The Sequel" there are trials, wrecks, fatal encounters, plots, counterplots, leaps over precipices and lightning strokes, with amazing photographic effects, to add conviction to the gripping tale. No motion picture ever screened has contained so much of the element of adventure, so many of the convincing details that make for enthusiastic public approval, so wide a general appeal.

WILSON'S MESSAGE

of the country and their locomotive engineers, conductors and trainmen. I then recommend:

First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate. In order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

Second, the establishment of an eight-hour day as the legal basis of work and of wages in the employments of all railway employees who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

Third, the authorization of the appointment by the president of a special commission to investigate the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight-hour day in various transportation alike for the men and for the railroads.

Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the constitution of the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been incurred necessary by the adoption of the eight-hour day and which have not been offset by the administrative readjustments and economies should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation, and arbitration of such controversies as the president by adding to it a provision that, in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

And, sixth, the judgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such railroad stock of the railways of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes, with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the military necessities require for their safe and efficient use.

The second and third of these recommendations the congress immediately acted on: it established the eight hour day as the legal basis of work and wages in train service and it authorized the appointment of a commission to observe and report upon the practical results, deriving these measures most immediately needed; but it postponed action upon the other suggestions until an opportunity should be offered for a more deliberate consideration of them.

The fourth recommendation I do not deem it necessary to renew. The power of the interstate commerce commission to grant an increase of rates on the ground referred to is indisputably clear, and a recommendation by the congress with regard to such a matter might seem to draw in question the scope of the commission's authority or its inclination to do justice when there is no reason to doubt either.

The other suggestions—the increase in the interstate commerce commission's membership and in its facilities for performing its functions, the provision for full public investigation and assessment of industrial disputes, and the grant to the executive of the power to control and operate the railroads when necessary in time of war or other like public necessity—I now very earnestly renew.

The necessity for such legislation is manifest and pressing. Those who have entrusted us with the responsibility and duty of serving and safeguarding them in such time of war find it hard, I believe, to excuse a failure to act upon these grave matters or any unnecessary postponement of action upon them.

Not only does the interstate commerce commission now find it practically impossible, with its present membership and organization, to perform its great functions promptly and thoroughly but it is not unlikely that it may presently be unable to add to its duties still other equally heavy and exacting. It must first be perfected as an administrative instrument.

The country cannot and should not consent to remain any longer exposed to profound industrial disturbances for lack of additional public arbitration and conciliation when the congress can easily and promptly supply. And all will agree that there must be no doubt as to the power of the executive to make immediate and uninterrupted use of the railroads for the concentration of the military forces of the nation wherever they are needed and whenever they are needed. This is a program of regulation, prevention, and administrative efficiency which argues its own case in the mere statement of it. With regard to one of its items, the increase in the efficiency of the interstate commerce commission, the house of representatives has already acted; its action needs only the concurrence of the senate.

I would hesitate to recommend, and I dare say the congress would hesitate to act upon the suggestion should I make it, that any man in any occupation should be obliged by law to continue in an employment which he desired to leave.

To pass a law which forbade or prevented the individual workman to leave his work before receiving the approval of society in doing so would be to adopt a new principle into jurisprudence which I take it for granted we are not prepared to introduce.

But the proposal that the operation of the railways of the country shall not be stopped or interrupted by the concerted action of organized bodies of men until a public investigation shall have been instituted which shall make the whole question at issue plain for the judgment of the opinion of the nation is not to propose any such principle.

It is based upon the very different principle that the concerted action of powerful bodies of men should not be permitted to stop the industrial processes of the nation, at any rate before the nation shall have had an opportunity to accurately judge, with the merits of the case as between employee and employer, time to form its opinion upon an impartial statement of the merits, and opportunity to consider all practicable means of conciliation or arbitration.

I can see nothing in that proposition but the justifiable self-assertion by society of the necessary processes of its very life. There is nothing arbitrary or unjust in it unless it be arbitrarily and unjustly done. It can and should be done with a full and scrupulous regard for the interests and liberties of all concerned as well as for the permanent interests of society itself.

Three matters of capital importance await the action of the senate which have already been acted upon by the house of representatives: the bill which seeks to extend greater freedom of combination to those engaged in promoting the foreign commerce of the country than is now thought by some to be legal under the terms of the laws against monopoly, the bill amending the present organic law of Porto Rico; and the bill proposing a more thorough and systematic regulation of the equality of regulations in elections, commonly called the corrupt practices act. I need not labor my advocacy that these measures be enacted hereafter. Their urgency is in the manifest circumstances which render their adoption at this time not only opportune but necessary. Even delay would be injurious to the interests of the country and of the government.

Immediate passage of the bill to regulate the expenditure of money in elections may seem to be less necessary than the immediate enactment of other measures to which I refer; because at least two years will elapse before another election in which federal officers are to be filled, but it would greatly relieve the public mind if this important matter were settled with while the circumstances and the danger to the public morals of the present method of obtaining and spending campaign funds stand clear under recent observation and the methods of expenditures can be frankly studied in the light of present experience; and a delay would have the further very serious disadvantage of postponing action until another election was at hand and some special object connected with it might be thought to be in the mind of those who urged it. Action can be taken now with facts for guidance and without suspicion of partisan purpose.

I shall not argue at length the desirability of giving a free hand in the matter to those who shall undertake the essential enterprise of building up our export trade. That enterprise will, naturally, will immediately assume, has indeed already assumed, a narature unprecedented in our experience. We have not the necessary instrumentalities for its prosecution; it is deemed to be doubtful whether they could be created upon an adequate scale under our present laws. We should clear away all local obstacles, and create a basis of undoubted law for it which will give freedom without permitting unregulated license. The thing must be done now, because the opportunity is here and may escape us if we hesitate or delay.

The argument for the proposed amendment of the organic law of Porto Rico is brief and conclusive. The present laws governing the island and regulating the rights and privileges of its people are not just. We have created expectations of extended privileges which we have not satisfied. There is uneasiness among the people of the island and even a suspicious doubt with regard to our intentions concerning them, which the adoption of the pending measure would happily when the Apostles were at a Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John, who, when they were come down, prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Unguent: (for as yet he was fallen upon him) only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus: and when they laid their hands on them and they received the Holy Ghost."

Synopsis: Why hold to Apostolic Laying on of Hands? (1) Because it is Scriptural, Apostolic, historic and because it is Christian and ninety-seven per cent of the Christians hold to it.

(2) Because it is one of the strongest means of Christian unity: the Roman church, with its one hundred of million members held fast together; the Anglican or the Episcopal church with Anglicans of sixty millions, the church of the English Speaking people has held

Mr. Rukes formerly had a thriving business in Fresno, California, but because of his health, he decided to come to Idaho. He at first planned on settling in Boise, but on looking over this territory he concluded that Twin Falls was good enough for him, and that this country offered a good opening for his line of work.

now inspecting its line and territory where possible feeders would increase the tonnage to the main line; that since the reorganization of the Western Pacific $20,000,000 had been voted to build feeders to the main line and that one of these feeders would be built from Wells into the Twin Falls country, with the possibility of another from Winnemucca, Nevada.

Those who attended the conference yesterday, when the proposal was made to build the Boise to Bruneau Twin Falls and Nevada line, would not state definitely if the Western Pacific plans were linked with the proposal. They freely admitted that there are powerful railroad interests behind the proposal which they at this time are not at liberty to make known.

The proposed railroad would have its northern terminal in Boise over the citizens' right-of-way. It would be built directly south from this city to Ketchikan and on south, crossing the Snake river to the town of Bruneau after which the original Twin Falls-Bruneau project would be crossed and entrance be made to the fertile Twin Falls country, the road passing through Twin Falls and continuing on east and south to Wells, Nev. As the cross files it is 125 miles from Boise to Twin Falls, so that the proposed road would be about 275 miles long.

would be equipped with the most modern rolling stock and temporarily, at least, make Boise a terminal as well as give this city a shorter route to San Francisco and another line to Ogden and Salt Lake.

It is no secret, adds The Dispatch, since the isolation of the germ many experiments looking to the perfection of a vaccine or serum for its prevention have been made at Rochester.

The physicians would not state positively that the micro-organism discovered was that of infantile paralysis, but said that their many experiments pointed that way.

EARLY SHOPPING IS URGED BY I. CLAY

Agent of the American Express Company Makes Statement

EARLY SHOPPING MEANS EARLY SHIPPING HE SAYS

Wants to Cooperate With People in Order to Get Things to Their Friends in Time.

"Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" as this is an important business thing, says I. J. Clay, American Express company agent at Twin Falls Monday.

"Owing to the unprecedented volume of express traffic, the American Express company is instructing its employees throughout the country to cooperate with the department stores and other merchants in a systematic campaign to lessen the Christmas congestion. Although this crisis arises every year as regularly as the holidays come around, the extraordinary conditions of transportation prevailing at the present time accentuate the need of early shipping this year. The railroads are always working under high pressure, but it is believed that with the holiday shipping season stretched over the entire month of December, more adequate service can be given than if the entire Christmas movement is jammed into the week immediately preceding Christmas.

"In spite of the fact that the eleven-hour shipper themselves are the worst sufferers, the early shopping agitation advanced during the last two years by department and other stores had done much to alleviate the hardships of those whose duties are to serve the Christmas public.

"Early shopping gives everybody an advantage. Salesmen have more time to give to each customer, the customers themselves have a greater variety from which to choose their goods. The store management is able to give proper deliveries, and there are fewer tired girls at the end of the day.

"Early shipping has the same points in its favor. The man on the express wagon at Christmas time is in the same position exactly as the girl behind the Christmas counter. He must serve while others are at their pleasure, and he can serve only up to his physical capacity.

"It is our purpose to cooperate as extensively as possible with the merchants in this movement, as a preliminary aid we have printed for distribution throughout the country, over 1,000,000 pamphlets on 'How to Ship Christmas Packages' and are making an early distribution of 3,000,000 copies. Each year many thousands of shipments are made early, and when they near the label 'Open till Christmas' the result is the same as if they were not purchased until the night before Christmas.

ANCHOR COMPANY IS MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

Several Rooms Being Fitted Up For Storage and Machinery—May Ship by Parcel Post.

The Anchor Hay, Feed & Grain company is fixing up several rooms for the more convenient storage of products and for the accommodation of new machinery which will be installed later. A side door will be placed in the building for greater facility in handling grain.

John Finkle, the proprietor, says that he still ships much hay to Juchidre by parcel post. Formerly he sent it in large quantities, occasionally, while under the new ruling he sends it daily in 200 pound lots.

DENVER RATES BEAT SALT LAKE

Twin Falls Shipper Says Discrimination Is Big

NEW ORGANIZATION FORMED TO FIGHT FOR FAIR RATES.

Said That Tax on Boston Tea Was Bismette Compared With That Now Justly Collected.

"We get a better freight rate from Denver to Twin Falls than we do from Salt Lake City to this city on the same basis," says John Finkle, proprietor of the Anchor Hay company Saturday, speaking of the interstate commerce hearing which is being conducted at the present time. This hearing, in which an attempt is being made to adjust some of the inequalities and injustices complained of, has resulted in the formation of a new organization to carry on the fight throughout the intermountain country. The first steps taken are described as follows in the Desert News of Friday:

As a sort of an aftermath to the rate hearing, which adjourned its session Wednesday afternoon to meet at San Francisco Monday, December 4, members of the anti-discrimination committee of various states and a committee of the traffic service board of Utah met around the luncheon board at the Commercial club Wednesday afternoon and again yesterday afternoon and perfected an organization which has for its object the removal of present freight rate discriminations against the entire intermountain country, both in and out of the state.

Full details of the proceedings of the meeting could not be obtained, but, from one of those present, a Desert News reporter gathered the information that at times the meetings were more or less tropical, especially so when some of the most glaring inequalities were shown. It is understood that one of the first things to be undertaken by the organization is to ask Congress to amend the fourth section of the interstate commerce act so as to absolutely prohibit the railroads from charging more for a short haul than for a long haul under any circumstances.

At the present time the interstate commerce commission has the power to make exceptions in special cases, but it was claimed by most of those present that this power has been greatly abused, and one witness while on the stand, described the existing conditions as being intolerable. Another said that when this exception was put into law by Congress it was the intention that it should be rarely applied, and never be perverted to impose oppressive burdens upon a territory comprising at least one-third of the United States; he added, very emphatically, that the tax so forcibly resented by the Boston Tea party was a mere bagatelle compared with that now being unjustly collected from the interstate commerce territory, through unjust and discriminatory transportation charges.

It was stated that in no other way than through amendment of the law as suggested, does it seem possible to remove the cause of the discrimination complained of throughout the territory affected.

for $400. The council authorized the settlement on that basis.

The ordinance requiring the city to make sewer connections and put in the sewer pipe three feet within the land of the owner, was taken up and passed under suspension of rules. The street commissioner said that certain owners of toilets and also certain plumbers were disregarding plumbing ordinances. The city attorney advised that action be brought under the sanitary laws rather than under other provisions of the ordinance.

The Twin Falls Hotel company notified the city that after January 1, the rent on the city offices would be raised to $50 a month on either a one year or a five year contract. Councilman F. P. Bracken said that he was director of the hotel company. All the other rooms in the hotel had been raised some time ago, but as the matter of a city was being considered, he asked that no raise be asked in the event that the city hall should be built, during the brief period of the city's occupancy. As the city had voted down the bonds it was considered ed by the directors that if they should occupy the rooms permanently, they should pay the rent which could be secured from others. He said that as a director in the company he had asked to be excused from voting on the proposed increase because of his membership in the council; as a councilman he would ask to be excused from voting on the council directorate. He was excused and the council voted to leave the present offices for a year. City Clerk E. M. Williams approached with a view of getting them to put in a vault for the city books. He said that he would like to take the matter up and report at the next meeting.

BUHL HERALD WAXES

SOMEWHAT SARCASTIC

Attempts to Blatantly Propose to Annex Six Townships of Owyhee County.

The advisability of annexing a strip from Owyhee County to Twin Falls county, is comprising about six townships, is being feverishly discussed and prominence given to the idea by the Twin Falls papers, says the Buhl Herald. The object in annexing the territory is to make it possible and legal for the commissioners of Twin Falls county to build a better road to Jarbidge than that its "Magic City" may control more of the trade to that prosperous mining camp. We are sure a large majority of the citizens of the west end of the county would approve of the plan, since they recently voted to build a bridge 570 feet long, across the Snake river canyon 500 feet deep, so the "Magic City" could control the business of a 30,000 acre irrigated tract on the north side. This ambition would surely be a parallel one.

Believing that both of these ideas are feasible and good things for the "Magic City," why stop here? There are other worlds to conquer. Why not annex this 30,000 acre tract on the north side of the Snake river to Twin Falls county? The legislature will soon be in session, and as the "Magic City" has a full delegation pledged to expansion, it could easily be done by the time the bridge is completed. Assuming that both will be satisfactory to the "Magic City," why stop here? Why not straighten the bound-dry line out a little, and annex a strip from Cassia county, including the Shoshone Basin, which might be of advantage to the future of the "Magic City." This strip should not be overlooked. Its acquisition would add much to the "prestige" of the "Magic City."

It matters not what the representatives from Minidoka, Owyhee, and Cassia counties think. These things should be done; and with the "prestige" the delegation from Twin Falls City will have in the legislature, soon to convene, it will be but a matter of form. The great advantages to all concerned are so apparent, that no reasonable person would dare to question. Taxes would be reduced; one court-house and one set of officers would serve all; transcribing the records pertaining to the fragments annexed, would cost but a trifle; with the new bridge across Snake River, and the improved roads to Jarbidge, via Rogers' son, distances would be eliminated; the "prestige" gained by the annexed territory, through the publicity already given the "Magic City" name of "Twin Falls," would be incalculable; the Twin Falls Commercial club would assume all the responsibilities, and look after the details.

Will not the other counties of the state look upon us with forbodings, then, and harbor a full of jealousy that will make the red corpuses of every citizen of the "Magic City" tingle with pride. For surely in numbers (votes) there is strength.

In all seriousness, the opportunity of a generation is at your bidding, oh, ye "Magic City." Go after it. You can depend on the west end being with you. Did we not stay with you on your bridge bond?
