

ANNEXATION PETITION RECEIVED BY CLUB

Residents of Owyhee County Want to Join Twin Falls

ALL LIVING IN TERRITORY INVOLVED ASK FOR ANNEXATION

Property Involved Assessed at $188,000. Three Creek Makes Long Argument for Petition.

Duplicate petitions containing the names of all the residents of Townships Owyhee county which it is proposed to annex to Twin Falls county have been received by the Twin Falls Commercial club. There are fifty-two names on the Three Creek petition and twelve on the petition from Grassy Hill. One copy of each petition is addressed to the commissioners of Twin Falls county and another to the commissioners of Owyhee county. The Grassy Hill petition is brief in form while the Three Creek contains at length into the reasons why, in the opinion of the signers, the change should be made. The assessed valuation of the property in the territory which it is proposed to annex is $188,000. The Three Creek petition reads as follows:

We, the undersigned, residents of Owyhee county, state of Idaho, residing in the township and range set opposite our names respectively, hereby petition that a certain portion of Owyhee county, described as Townships 12, 14, 15 and 16, Range 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 East, Boise Meridian, be annexed to Twin Falls county, Idaho, so as to become and be a part of said Twin Falls county, providing such annexation is agreeable to the latter county. The reasons for this petition are as follows:

That the territory above described is so remote from the county seat of Owyhee county that it is impossible to attend to Owyhee county matters. That the said described territory is inaccessible to the county seat of Owyhee county and the service of process is so expensive as to become a burden upon the taxpayers of said county.

That said described territory is more accessible to Twin Falls, Idaho, than to Silver City, Idaho, and the good roads open at all seasons of the year from said territory to the said city of Twin Falls.

That such annexation would result in great benefit to our petitioners and we believe would in no wise injure the interests of the people of Owyhee county, but would rather be a relief to the people of Owyhee county from the great expense incidental to said territory being a part of said county.

That Twin Falls has already constructed a good first class highway to the Owyhee-Twin Falls county line and that if such annexation is permitted the county of Twin Falls will, and said highway through the territory above described, giving to the petitioners a direct highway for travel to and from Twin Falls, Idaho.

That by reason of the heavy snows and weather conditions in Owyhee county it is impossible for many months in the year to travel from said Owyhee county to Silver City or to any other place in Owyhee county, thereby imposing great hardships upon our petitioners.

SOLDIER BOYS TO RETURN SOON

Orders for Mustering Out Have Been Issued

WILL LEAVE NOGALES FOR FORT DOUGLAS IN A FEW DAYS

Efforts Made by Boise to Have Mustering Out at State Capital Seems To Have Succeeded.

BOISE—The Second Idaho regiment, recently ordered released from duty at Nogales, will be mustered out at Boise. Governor Alexander received a telegram from General Bell, western division, authorizing this announcement. General Bell said: "Idaho regiment will be mustered out at Boise."

Whether or not the Second Idaho will be mustered out at Boise instead of at Salt Lake as originally ordered, is dependent upon proper arrangements being made at the Boise barracks. Monday night, plans for the necessary arrangements were up in the air, according to this morning's Statesman.

Twin Falls people are not cooperating with those of Boise in the effort to have the Second Infantry mustered out at the state capital of Idaho, for the reason that they figure that they will get home sooner if mustered out at Port Douglas. The Boise Commercial club requested cooperation in the matter from the commercial organizations here but no action was taken.

General Bell, western division, war department, San Francisco, is the military authority in whose hands a change of destination stands. He is being bombarded with telegrams to direct the regiment to move from Nogales to this city. Every possible pressure is being brought to bear on him by state officials, commercial organizations and business men of Boise as well as members of the congressional delegation at Washington.

The Boise barracks is without heat, water and light and the cost of making the necessary connections to supply them will be considerable. A sawmill that stands in the way of changing the place of destination. All of these accommodations would have to be supplied as the officers and men will be at rendezvous about 14 days according to General Bell.

That it is true it may be difficult for the soldiers to reach their homes by Christmas.

Governor Alexander received the following telegram from General Bell: "Your telegram to the adjutant general is repeated to department commander who desires your recommendation before making final decision. From the records available here convenient muster out Idaho troops at Boise but accommodations there are inadequate and as result men are likely to be sent to some other place. If they will be at rendezvous about 14 days before muster out can be completed and men returned to home stations. Sufficient quarters for the men are available here as can be housed comfortably. After muster out at Fort Douglas companies will be returned to home stations as units at federal expense. Please reply at once."

President J. B. Hawley of the Commercial club is in correspondence with the adjutant general and Congressmen Smith and McCracken, Senator Borah wrote: "Department here does not seem to know any more than we do. The whole matter seems to be under the control or direction of General Bell at San Francisco."

POSTOFFICE BIDS HAVE BEEN OPENED

C. R. Aldrich of Seattle Low Bidder—Not Known Whether Bid Will Be Accepted by Government.

The bids for the Twin Falls postoffice were opened December 6, according to a dispatch to the Commercial club from Congressman Addison T. Aldrich of Seattle, for $79,700, the highest from the Northwest Construction company of Portland, Oregon, for $85,000, the lowest bid, $108,400. If the bid of the low bidder, $79,700, should be accepted, the work necessary to be accomplished by the construction company would be a heavy task, but the bid of the low bidder is too high, but the implication contained in the dispatch was that the bid would probably be accepted.

Ben Kuhl, Edw. Beck, W. McGraw Held Without Bond for Searcy Murder

Long Investigation Ends Last Night

Woman's Testimony Said to Have Been Important--Talk of Frame-up on Kuhl.

Times Special Correspondence

JAMES H. Kuhl, Edw. Beck, and W. McGraw, commonly known as "The Swede," and Billy McGraw, all gamblers, were held over to the Elks court grand jury without bond last evening, by Justice of the Peace Newell, of Jarbridge, charged with the murder of Frank M. Searcy last Tuesday evening. Sheriff Harris and his deputies left this morning for Rogerson with the prisoners. The gambler Jennings and the woman with whom he is living were arrested on suspicion, but later turned loose. It is reported here that the Jennings woman testified in regard to hearing Kuhl and Edwards plot to kill the night carrier, but as the testimony was taken behind closed doors this story cannot be verified. It is certain, however, that immediately after the testimony of the Jennings woman, was received Beck was arrested.

Beck had been a close friend of Billy McGraw, the man who a month ago borrowed the gun, found later in the Kuhl tent, from "Poker George." Ever since the gun was found in "Poker George," McGraw has been in the habit of leaving it with the bar tender at the Success saloon in the morning and getting it at night. Early on the evening of which the murder took place, Beck came into the Success saloon and asked McGraw to let him have his gun, saying Kuhl wanted it. McGraw got the gun from the bar tender and turned it over to Beck. About 10 o'clock Beck and Kuhl went together into the Jack Griffin saloon and seemed anxious to have the men in the place notice that they were there. Kuhl and Beck went into the saloon to have a drink and managed to refer to the time. He asserts that he was up town all evening playing cards, but he does not recall that he saw him between 5:45 o'clock p. m. and the time that he came into the saloon. The saloon is discussing the desire on his part to call attention to himself in said saloon intimates to be different from his usual conduct, and have caused some comment at the time.

The possibility of a "frame-up" in this alleged "murder" of Kuhl to the police has been discussed here. There are some who contend that the real culprit might be some other person. Kuhl seems never to have been the overcast belonging to him, and it is considered strange that he should use it to cover the money which he is supposed to have hidden under the bridge near his tent. On the other hand, it is argued that as he never wore the overcoat, might assume that people would not know that he was its owner. His associations with Beck and his actions early on the evening of the murder are also being discussed.

Although the preliminary board from 10 o'clock a. m. until 6 o'clock p. m., it is said that only a small part of the testimony in the hands of the state and federal officers were offered. United States deputy marshals (Continued on Page 5)

W. P. BELIEVED IN NEW RAILROAD PLAN

Offers Ten Million Dollars in Bonds for Extensions in Nevada and Idaho—Short Line Also Suggested.

That the Western Pacific railroad is behind the project to build a line of railroad from Boise through Twin Falls to Wagon Wheel, situated just to the Boise Commercial club and endorsed by that body, is the general opinion of those named. The railroad situation, although nobody has any real "two" in regard to the matter. Two weeks ago the Western Pacific offered for sale $10,000,000 of bonds through advertisements for the avowed purpose of building extensions in Nevada and Idaho, and it has been understood that such extensions would be built they would include a line from Wells through this city. That there is a possibility that the Oregon Short Line is behind the move for the purpose of heading off its rival is admitted. While there are some who hold to the theory that the proposition comes from absolutely independent capitalists, the majority of the people here are inclined to think otherwise.

PORK BARREL VETO GIVEN REFERENDUM

Proposition Allows President to Veto of Separate Items

NATIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE REFERS TO CLUBS.

Times Special Correspondence

WASHINGTON—Lack of power of the chief executive to veto so-called "pork barrel" items in appropriation legislation is dealt with in a referendum soon to be voted upon by the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Commercial organizations, both local and national to the number of some 800, will be asked to express themselves as to whether the United States constitution should be amended as to permit the president to approve or disapprove any separate items or provisions contained in any appropriation bill.

It is said, as things stand now, the president is practically powerless to prevent the abuses which lie at the root of certain governmental extravagances by reason of the fact that he can exercise no discretion as to individual items.

Such independent judgment cannot now in all cases be exercised by the President, the chamber association argues. One of these may commend itself to him; as to the other, his judgment may be adverse, but he cannot deal with the two subjects separately unless he is authorized to do so. If it applies to and affects both subjects alike. The enactment of the provisions relating to one of the subjects would be a detriment to the public welfare; but it is argued, these relating to the other may be equally undesirable. If the provisions were previously separated, the president would approve one and could veto the other.

Being presented separately, the president is compelled either to approve both or to veto both. In the former case, the undesirable and possibly harmful measure becomes law; in the latter, the desirable or necessary measure is necessarily rejected. The chamber association argues that, and effective scrutiny and revision of them by either house is extremely difficult and practically impossible. They are the channels through which all sorts of "pork" and questionable appropriations are carried. Insignificant items which if embodied in separate bills, would have no chance of passage are included in the general appropriation bills as the result of the "log rolling" process, whereby the members of congress extend friendly consideration to each other's wasteful or extravagant measures, whose passage is sought not on public grounds, but solely to promote the interests of individual congressmen with the "log rolling" process. Every large general appropriation bill is loaded up with items of this class as a result of the "log rolling" process. The chamber association declares that the constitutionality of no less than thirty-nine of the states have been so amended as to require, in effect, that each bill shall contain one item, to be clearly expressed in its title, with exceptions as to appropriation bills in twelve of such states; while in thirty-five states the constitution permits the governor to disapprove specific items of appropriation bills, which items become void unless re-passed by the legislature.

It is the common practice of the National chamber in submitting a referendum to give an abstract of the arguments in favor of and against the proposition to be voted upon. The main heads pertaining to the veto of riders are: (a) The proposed amendment would place the responsibility of congress; (b) the powers of the president have already been over-expanded; (c) the rules of the houses of congress make provision to avoid the amendment; (d) the amendment is a violation of the constitution; (e) the action of different states contains no argument for amendment of the constitution.

ELLIOTT DELIVERS ELOQUENT ADDRESS

Speech at Opening of Washington School Was Scholarly

FORM OF BUILDING WARMLY COMMEDED BY THE SPEAKER

Gallery and Motion Picture Machine For Schools Is Advocated—Musical Program Pleasing Feature.

Introduced by Superintendent Hal G. Blue at the opening of the Washington school Friday night, President O. M. Elliott of the Lewiston state normal and former superintendent of the Twin Falls schools paid an eloquent tribute to the condition of the educational institutions of this city and appealed for education which will fit the child physically, socially, morally and aesthetically for life. The musical program was pleasing to the audience and received a flattering mention from the speaker of the evening. President Elliott praised the Washington school building.

"What a splendid thing it is," he said, "that the child who lives in this community, need not climb hard stairways, flow free it is from danger of panic from fire. What a splendid tribute this building is to the genius of Twin Falls."

He predicted the growth and expansion of the school system, because of the genius of Superintendent Blue, to whom the present development of the system was attributed by Mr. Elliott.

The speaker did not believe that the three "r's" "rhythmic, rosin and rattle," were in themselves sufficient in the modern school. To prove his point he introduced four tests for educational application.

"The first test," he said, "does this particular thing which is being done in school, fit the child physically for a life of more constructive service in the environment? Does it fit the child physically to do the work which he will have to do? I need not say to this audience that a strong body is absolutely essential if we are to do, or if your children are to do the work of life satisfactorily. So the first test is: Does the school system which is being offered in this school, fit the child physically?"

Does it give the child greater physical development? Does it fit him to live a more constructive service in life? If it does, it is justified. Then let us have it in the school. The second test which I will apply to the course of study is: Does it fit the child socially? One of the real purposes of the school is to prepare the child so that he may be a "veter" of the community, a citizen of the state and of the nation. There is a demand for that type of efficiency. So it is the function of the school more than of the home, to prepare the child to be a productive member of the community. We have merely looked at the school as the factor where his wits were sharpened. However, we have a vocational direction, guidance and training. I hope that when I come to Twin Falls next time, that I may find domestic science, manual training, and agriculture as low as the fifth and sixth grades.

"But the child must be more than a socially efficient. He must be more of a citizen. And so the third test I must apply to those branches taught in the public school, is: Do they give the child moral fitness and moral character? Does the child receive a handicapped in this great free world? For it is impossible for us to (Continued on Page 8)

MAIL PRESENTS IN MORNING AND EARLY

Postmaster Strunk Says Those Who Wait Until Later Will Not Get Presents to Friends in Time.

"Owing to the wonderful prosperity of the people this year, they are shipping more goods than usual and the mail clerks on the train seem to be already overworked with Christmas mail," said Postmaster M. A. Strunk, of this city yesterday. "While we will be able to get their presents by Christmas to send them at the earliest possible moment, for if they wait the packages will not arrive until after the holidays."

"The people can, however, accommodate themselves and us by mailing their packages in the morning. No trouble is when they come in after noon to see that the force has the mail to attend to as well as the packages, so we often have a long line of people at the window, and people have to wait longer than would otherwise be necessary."

THE RETURN OF THE SOLDIERS

The people of Twin Falls rejoice to learn that indications are that the members of Company D, will be with them for the holidays. The people of this community are proud of their soldier boys. Idaho is proud of her regiment, which has been pronounced the best on the border by competent military critics, and Company D has stood at the head of this regiment during all the trying days that have passed during the summer and fall. It will be with pleasure that the residents of this city will greet them all again. The Twin Falls boys were not called upon to invade the war-stricken soil of Mexico, but they were ever ready and are ready to do their duty should war become inevitable.

While patriotism, not hope for financial gain or recompense, moved them it is to be regretted that better salaries are not given to those who join the national guard, and the regulars for that matter, while our present dual military system prevails. The boys of this community, of Bull and of Idaho generally made the sacrifice necessary, but there can be no doubt that the failure to fill up the ranks of regiments has constituted financial losses given to the members of the guard. This is a subject which has been overlooked by the military authorities in making recommendations to congress. When the unpopularity of the service is discussed by them, it is strange that they have never thought of this as a possible explanation. But the fact that others were deterred by such considerations is all the more reason for honoring in befitting manner the boys who did respond to the call of country. They did not have to go to war, but their presence on the border kept us out of war and to them should be the honor of having maintained peace.

When they return, let us hope that they shall at least find the positions which they left open to them. The place on the TIMES force which was filled by Harold Elmhurst will be at his disposal, when he gets back, and we believe that the two places on the News which were filled by Company D boys will again contain the old familiar faces. It is believed that a similar condition will prevail in every instance in this city and county where young men went forth to answer their country's call.

FATE OF ANTI-WILSON GOVERNORS.

Word now comes from Arizona that the Democratic governor of that state, who was opposed to the foreign policy of the administration, has been defeated for reelection by thirty-six votes by a Republican. In New Mexico Governor McDonald ran for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket and was defeated, although the rest of the Democratic state ticket was elected. He was another opponent of the Mexican policy of the administration. In Texas, O. B. Colquitt served as an anti-administration Democratic governor until his term of office expired, when he ran for the senate on an anti-administration platform and was defeated badly by Senator Culberson, running on an administration platform. In California Governor Hiram Johnson was not anti-administration enough to hurt either Wilson or himself and he pulled through safely. Which shows that anti-administration governors fared badly in the border states.

A GREAT DEBATE.

The debate announced yesterday by being January 1, through the newspapers of all neutral countries, between former President W. H. Taft and former Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, relative to the advisability of forming an international league of nations to enforce peace, should be read by everybody with the closest attention. Both are peace advocates, the only issue between them being as to the proper method that should be used to secure it permanently. Each will write three articles, discussing different phases of the subject. The knowledge of everyone should be enriched by reading these discussions. No other two men in the world could be found possessing a wider knowledge of international affairs from a practical as well as a theoretical point of view.

tivation at any one time, our requirements would be 3469, leaving a surplus of 131 second feet, provided we prevent the canal for the entire length which now advise and not merely for the first ten miles, as on December 8 Mr. Forrester informed me that he has estimated the loss by seepage for the first ten miles to be 400 second feet at the maximum capacity. Our fillage amount to 3500 second feet, 2006 of the original decree, and 600 of January 1914, and now carrying the refilled date of December 22, 1915, with the title to be yet perfected.

"Where in this 56,000 acres of water to come from? I have found some who are willing to do back a part of their water to the company, but all seem to insist upon their five-eighths of an inch per acre.

"Some say that we use too much, and probably some do; it would be folly to try to use all of one's allowance at all times, but it is well known that at times during the growing season, the farmers can economically use all of their allowance, and a shortage means a certain loss of crop.

"Now this loss of 700 second feet may seem excessive, and without doubt there are certain parts of the canal that need cementing very much, and should be attended to, but the neglect of same is open to severe criticism. But when the matter of our time by seepage and evaporation was taken up in 1910, before Governor Brady, an experienced water man, he stated that thirty per cent was a very reasonable estimate, for our system, including laterals, in fact, a loss of one-third is the more common estimate, and it is well known that when we are limited to our 3000 second feet, that it is impossible to furnish the water users their allowance.

"But suppose that the Commercial club is right, and it should be proven that we have this water to spare—what then?

"If this 600 second feet of water, which costs us some $95,000 in 1914, in new work hundreds of thousands of dollars, when there are plenty of other things obtainable, almost as good, what then will it be worth when all of the available water of consequence has been appropriated?

Certainly none would advise that we dispose of a part of our decree, and keep the poorest, or part with any of our Jackson Lake water, which will furnish us less than 1250 second feet for thirty-six days, and I trust that water users will not juggle away their rights until they fully understand their needs."

MAN CHASTIZES HIS WIFE FOR CRITICIZING HIS NECKWEAT.

SALT LAKE CITY—Chris Kokas will stand for most any sort of criticism except that of his choice of neckties. He is particularly averse to such criticism by his wife.

Chris is in the city full all because he wore a red necktie last night.

Kokas is a Greek and his wife an American. While they were to the Golden Gate, 24 South West Temple, Mrs. Kokas took exception to his scarf. She informed him that scarlet-lined ties are not being used in the best circles.

Mrs. Kokas was subsequently removed to the emergency hospital. She was suffering from divers, not to say sundry, blows upon the face and elsewhere.

Kokas is to be charged with battery and assault when his wife is able to appear.

VANCE McCORMICK THE GUEST OF PRESIDENT

Dinner given to Party Chairman at the White House—Two Women at the Banquet.

WASHINGTON—President Wilson gave a dinner at the White House Thursday night in honor of Vance McCormick, chairman of the national Democratic committee, with members of the House and Senate committees of the progressive committee.

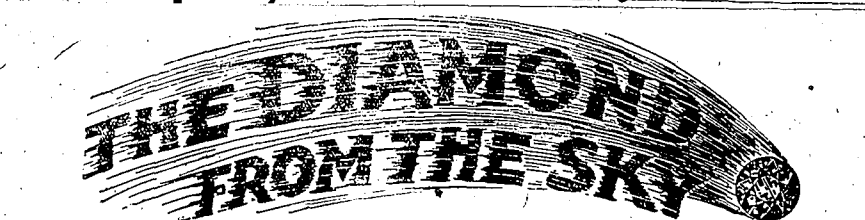

which aided in the president's re-election as guests. It was a celebration of the victory.

In addition to Mr. McCormick, the dinner included Homer S. Cummings, vice chairman; Representative Carl Glass, secretary; Wilbur B. Marshall, treasurer; Senator Walsh, Democratic manager; Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee; Galvin McNeil and F. J. Henry of California and Democratic and Progressive leaders from other states. Two women, Mrs. George Bass, Democrat, and Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Progressive, were present as members of the campaign committees.

Mrs. Wilson attended, as did the wives of most of the guests. The latter included Mrs. J. A. H. Hopkins, whose husband is a Progressive leader in New Jersey.

Mrs. Hopkins is chairman of the New Jersey branch of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage. She wore a button of her organization at the dinner but before going to the White House she said published reports that she intended to question the president about his stand on suffrage grew out of a joking remark and that of course she would do no such a thing.

Chapter One of the Sequel in Novel Form Will Be Published in the December 14 Issue of THE TIMES and the Picture Will Be Shown December 19 and 20—Two Days, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY at the

ORPHEUM THEATRE

Millions have been waiting for the sequel to the famous serial "The Diamond From the Sky." And now it's ready for release. On Monday, November 27, the first chapter of the $10,000 Sequel was shown for the first time in theatres all over the United States. This is the Sequel to the most successful serial yet released. This is the film that has been made from the $10,000 prize suggestion. The Sequel is stronger—more powerful—more sensational, than was the original production. It is in four chapters, each two reels in length. Each chapter, is a big feature in itself.

"The Diamond From the Sky" was itself a $10,000 prize story. It ran in fiction in newspapers all over the country. Millions of people saw it. Hundreds and hundreds of theatres played to capacity business with it as an attraction. A price of $10,000 was offered for the best Sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky." People in every state in the Union tried for that prize. Thousands and thousands of manuscripts were written. Months were necessary to read over all the suggestions offered. Finally the prize winning suggestion was chosen. The trained scenario staff of the American Film company, Inc., then set about preparing the working script for the production. This finished, the task of filming was begun. And now it is completed.

All the old favorites of the original production are again in the cast. Arthur and Blair Stanley—Eather and Vivian Marston—Quabba, the hunchback and Synthe, the quaint English soldier, are all again to be shown on the screen. Popular William Russell—beautiful Charlotte Burton—talented William Tedmarsh—funny Oral Humphreys, are all in the cast again, together with many new players.

The Sequel is an entirely new story. It is tremendously thrilling, powerfully dramatic, superbly photographed and enacted by the very best cast obtaining.

From all points of view "The Sequel to the Diamond in the Sky" is a striking production. The drama at the heart of it is a gem of masterful origin, whence its original title, "The Diamond From the Sky," is inspired from its beginnings with the mysterious elements that might well be expected to characterize it.

In the drama of "The Diamond From the Sky" men fought, and loved and died because of the diamond's baleful influence over them, while in "The Sequel" there are train wrecks, fatal encounters, plots, counterplots, leaps over precipices and lightning strokes with amazing photographic effects, to add conviction to the gripping tale. No motion picture ever screened has contained so much of the element of adventure, so many of the sensational details that make for enthusiastic public approval, so wide a general appeal.

HELD WITHOUT BOND FO SEARCY MURDER

and Detective O'Brien, who was with Sheriff Harris in the investigation.

(By Mail From Jarbridge)

The sign indicates that the murderer went down the road about a half a mile, just around the point beyond the residence of Mrs. Dexter and just outside of the town limits. There he left the road and got behind a clump of brush near the road and must have run out as the stage passed his place of hiding and climbed up on the back of the horse and then up on the load and shot the driver from behind without saying a word. The murder was committed a couple of hundred feet from the house of a man named Swanson, who says that he heard a shot and cry at about 6:20 o'clock but thought nothing of it as guns are often fired in the neighborhood.

When the fatal shot was fired death must have been very sudden and the assassin must have caught the body with one hand and eased it into the bottom of the wagon while with the other hand he grabbed the horse. When the shot went off it evidently startled the horses enough for them to swerve a little from the road and his wheel tracks went out almost four feet which brought it very near the edge of the grade. It went along the edge for about seventy-five feet and all along this distance there is a small stream of blood, which would indicate that Searcy's head was hanging over the edge of the wagon, at this point the horse had obtained control of the team and directed them back into the road, while at the same time he had probably pushed the body back into the wagon under the seat and proceeded to drive the team right along, passing the house of Mrs. Dexter, who was on the porch and spoke to him, on by several houses and right along side the camp grounds where the freight teams, which had arrived shortly before, driven by Messrs. Campbell, Connor and Peterson, brothers, were. Mr. Campbell halted him but got no answer. A few hundred feet further where he turned off the present road and took the old road which used to ford the river, and then as soon as he was well into the brush he adjusted the body back on the seat and leaned it over so that it would remain on the seat, turned the horses off the old road into a big clump of willows where they would be likely to stand, as they did for five hours, and then took the sacks and went through them but apparently without finding anything that he wanted, after which he started off with the first class sack to find a thick bunch of brush in which he could use a light to look over the mail, which he did with considerable thoroughness. Then he must have taken his tent or cabin and changed his clothes and probably came up town and looked in the hunt for the guilty fiend.

About 9 o'clock, one of the freighters, Mr. Campbell, who had camped across the river in the lower town, came up and mentioned that the stage passed his camp about six-thirty, which this time Mr. Dexter, who lives in the first house in power town, having heard some way that the mail had not arrived at the postoffice, tele-was nearly three inches of snow on the body. The wagon was worked out of the brush and driven up to the postoffice. Near the wagon buried in the snow was found two of the second class mail sacks, which had been opened and part of the papers and small packages scattered about the ground. There were tracks barely visible under the snow leading from the wagon off into the brush, but they could not be followed in the night, although some of the men kept at it most of the night. There was one large track which seemed to be accompanied by a dog's track, and it is also there seemed to be a smaller track.

There are only a few large dogs in the camp and Mr. McCormick who is somewhat of a hunter and a theory that it would be a good idea to watch these dogs and he picked out one in particular which is a sort of tramp dog. Mr. McCormick thought very likely that the dog might go back over the trail, he had been down and carefully examined the dog tracks in the snow, blowing out the light new came and obtaining a very good print in the old snow underneath and from this he thought he got the right dog spotted, about two o'clock this dog started for the foot bridge with his nose on the ground as if he was following a trail and after a while several others went after him, the reason seemed to be good as the dog went directly to where the first class sack lay, covered up with snow. Then they began to figure who the dog had probably been following and soon decided on a young man named Ben Kuhl, to whom the dog had been quite attached and one who had previously been in some trouble here over jumping a lot for which he is now under bonds on appeal from a $400 fine. This lot is next to the one on which the postoffice stands and was bought a few weeks ago by Oscar and Ernest Hayes. There was a small cabin on it which was moved off one morning and the lot graded a little for a large building, but owing to a lack of lumber, work on building was not started the next but a sign was put up that a building was to be built as soon as the rest of the lumber arrived. That night the lot was jumped and a tent put on it by Ben Kuhl. He was arrested for trespass and acted as his own lawyer. During the trial he was fined $50 for contempt of court for remarks that he made to the judge about his being a "Kangaroo Court."

JARBIDGE MINING IS GROWING INDUSTRY

Visitor Says City Will Have 5000
Population By Next July—All Mines
Are Active.

The mining industry is taking a big boom at Jarbridge, according to the statement of A. J. Jaker of near Catoona who visited the Jarbridge camp about three months ago, and at that time he gathered some figures which he thought would be of interest in being done on each of the twenty mines, says the Buhl Herald. Most of the properties are in the development stage, said Mr. Jaker, though at least half of them are running eight and ten stamp mills and working a full force of men, three shifts.

Mr. Jaker visited the camp during the latter part of July and in August, and he said that the population of the town of Jarbridge was 6000. It is in-phoned to the postmaster that she saw the stage pass her home about six-thirty and that she spoke to the driver who was alone in the wagon. She went but he did not reply. She said that it was blowing and storming so badly that she could not see clearly although the stage passed within fifteen feet of her. Then Mr. Campbell said that the stage passed within a few feet of him as he was unloading his team and that knowing Fred, the driver, he sung out to him, "Hello Kid," as he went by but did not receive any answer, so he said perhaps the poor kid was so nearly frozen that he had driven right on to the barn, and some of them went over to the stage barn but did not find the team there. Then a use of men started out to look for him, not yet having any suspicion of foul play, they went down to the bridge, about 1200 feet north from the postoffice, and looked over the brush covered bottom from the bridge to where the freighters were camped without finding any sign of the team. They then came back up the road and spread out across the bottom to work up and had not gone but about 200 feet when they found the team with the driver on the seat and apparently dead.

The body of Searcy, was left on the seat, where he usually sat to drive, on the right hand side next to the brake, with the body leaning over the left and resting partly on the seat, in which position he had remained for about five hours, during most of which time it had been snowing and there creasing rapidly and there are many people who live in the hills at the mines surrounding the town, who are driving their families to Jarbridge. It was estimated that the pay roll of the mining properties would exceed $200,000 monthly, at that time. Coal, grain and flour is being shipped into Jarbridge by parcel post in ton lots, through Twin Falls via Boise, and it is estimated that from five to eight tons of parcel post go to the camp daily, and it is said that the camp is only getting ready to operate the mines on the scale which they intend.

There has been unparalleled activity in the Jarbridge mining camp since his former visit to the Nevada mines last July. Now starting to have been started and several American capitalists have made investments so that money is available to develop the properties.

Mr. Diegel, who is in charge of the consolidated Mines company says that the town of Jarbridge will have 6000 men by July, 1917.

Buhl News

(From Buhl Herald)

J. W. Lashier put on a closing out sale in his general merchandise store this week, and he said that he will retire from the mercantile business. O. T. Oregon of the Oregon Sales company, of Spokane, has charge of the sale.

J. J. Powell, who received a broken leg in a runaway this spring, and who has been unable to do his work this summer, is loud in his praise of the treatment received from the men who comprise the membership of the Buhl I. O. O. F. Mr. Powell is a member of the Odd Fellows in Tillamook, Oregon, having been initiated to membership before coming to this part of the country.

The second annual Thanksgiving dinner at the Baptist church passed off on schedule time to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. To be sure some of the young people ate too much for comfort but not enough for the doctor, but they, that's nothing. About 175 sat down to the beautifully spread tables, of which number, 100 were young people, rounding out one of a more bank in July.

A fund of seventy-five dollars was raised last week by local subscription and forwarded to the boys of Company K to be used as a mess fund, or to be expended in any way that the boys might choose to do. It was at first proposed to send a shipment of dressed turkeys, but later it was decided to send the boys the money, as they could buy the turkeys as cheap in New Mexico as in Idaho. The money was raised by subscription in town, by J. M. Shank, secretary of the Buhl Commercial club.

George Almas and Sophia Struckman were married in Twin Falls on Wednesday morning. They returned to Buhl the following day and will make their home at the end of Main street and beyond the city limit. Miss Struckman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lampp of this city. Mr. Almas has lived in Buhl for the past several years, and during the past fall he has been separator man for the Barnwell & Johnson threshing machine.

C. H. Brewer and Sister came here overland from Los Angeles, California, Saturday, and are visiting at the D. B. Taylor home. Mr. Brewer and Mr. Taylor were schoolmates when they lived in the same town in Kansas. Mr. Brewer intends to purchase a farm and remain here, as he says this is the best section of country he has ever seen. He has property in Los Angeles, which he rented before coming here.

Bill Davis will move to Piler tomorrow. Davis sold his farm west of town, and will go back into the live stock business with his brother. He has been an interested partner in the business since leaving Piler, although has not taken an active part in the management. Miss Carrie Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sherman, and Edward Palford, who has been following the carpenter trade in this city during the past year, were married in Pendleton, Ore., last Saturday at the home of a brother of the groom. The young couple will make their home at Stanfield, Oregon, for a time, and at least during the winter. Miss Sherman left here Saturday and was met by Mr. Palford at Pendleton, where the young couple were married. Palford is a brother to Mrs. Atkinson of Buhl.

W. A. Bozarth and N. A. Spence returned from a week's trip to Canada, Saturday, where they purchased a half section of land each, in the Alberta country. Mr. Bozarth and family expect to move to Canada about the first of January. J. W. Sullivan also purchased land in the Alberta country and expects to move to Canada during the next two months. Mr. Bozarth's property is seventy miles north of the United States line.

Jake Friedman, blacksmith at the Albert African shop, played the part of a hero, last Thursday evening, by catching a runaway horse, attached to a buggy in which a lady and her little daughter were riding. The runaway occurred between the high school building and the corner of the town site. The woman had lost one of the lines, and she was afraid to pull on it for fear of turning the animal abruptly in the road and upsetting the buggy. Mr. Friedman was taking an evening stroll, caught the horse by the bridle bit as it attempted to dash by, thereby avoiding what might have been a serious accident. The name of the lady who was driving the horse has not been learned.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bagley and their daughter, Eva, went to Oregon Tuesday. Mr. Bagley rented his farm south of town and will spend the winter at Miller, Oregon, to develop his mining property. Mrs. Bagley and daughter Eva went to Portland from here where they will spend several weeks visiting relatives. A. J. Bagley was carrier on route 1 from the local post office for the past five or six years.

Announcements were received by several Buhl people the first of the week, stating that Miss Margaret Plattner and Mr. Wilson R. Brown were married in Idaho Falls Saturday. Miss Plattner taught the primary grade in the Buhl school during the term of 1913-14. Since leaving here she has been teaching the same grade in Burley, where she has also had charge of the domestic science work. It is understood that Mr. Brown is a Burley business man.

The pupils of the English class of the Buhl high school are preparing a school play which they will give in the auditorium some time next month. Miss Eberly, teacher of English in the high school, is directing the play and will select members of the cast. They will present "The Rivals," a comedy in three acts.

THE MUTUAL GIRL AND HER AUNTIE

LUCILLE: I do wish Auntie we could have the lower part of our house remodeled and more modern. When you go into the beautiful homes that are going up around here it makes one feel that their house looks so old and shabby.

AUNTIE: But our house is good, dear.

LUCILLE: Yes, I know it is, but I am sure we could have it made more up-to-date. Now look at the Martin's place. It positively looks like a new home, and you know it is quite a new house with that big colonial porch put on in front.

AUNTIE: But who could we get to do that kind of work, Lucille?

LUCILLE: Mr. E. A. Moon, whose shop is on Third and Main avenue West did the Martin's. They say he is just fine and he makes all the mill-work right in his own shop. Supposing we go down and see what he would estimate remodeling the lower floor of our house and putting a big new porch on the front and side for!

AUNTIE: Very well, dear we will. I know Mr. Moon would do it as reasonably as any one. I have known him personally for many years. And if it doesn't cost too much we will have it done.

BRYAN CENSURES PRIVATE RAILROAD

Believes in Ultimate Government Ownership

WOULD CONTINUE DUAL REGULATION SYSTEM FOR PRESENT.

Interstate Commerce Commission Advises to Put Burden of Proof for a Raise on the Railroads.

WASHINGTON—William J. Bryan appeared today before the joint congressional committee investigating transportation problems. He opposed centralization of power in the federal government in connection with railroad suggestions for federal incorporation and the proposal to lessen the power of state railroad commissions by looking greater power of regulation in the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Bryan declared his opposition was based on the belief that to transfer regulatory power to Washington would impose an impossible burden on the authorities here, in fact a tremendous one.

As a counter-proposal Mr. Bryan suggested existing law be amended to give the national government full power to regulate railroads and still permit the states to exercise their regulatory power.

Speaking of government ownership, Mr. Bryan said he had for a number of years believed it feasible and "only because the railroad will never consent to effective regulation."

He spoke for federal ownership of security issues and believed there should be no "letting the air out of the tire" but a "back of the neck" and provide a "pinch" for the years. Before such a measure was passed, however, he said, conditions tion should be reduced "to an honest basis where it represents the actual physical property."

In some financial operations Mr. Bryan said, the railroads had been guilty of things, "discreditable to an ordinary highway robber."

Mr. Bryan was cross-examined very briefly by members of the committee and will return later for further examination.

The interstate commerce commission in its annual report to congress recommended a sweeping change in methods of establishing freight and passenger rates so that shippers would not longer be compelled to show a proposed rate unreasonable to agents. It meant effective carriers seeking to raise rates would be compelled to show the change was reasonable.

The recommendation is "that, by statute congress fix the interstate rates, fares, charges, classifications, rules and regulations existing at a specific date, prior to that of enactment, as just and reasonable for the part, and provide that no change therein after that specified date may be made except upon order of the commission, with provision that such statute shall not affect the proceedings pending at the time of enactment."

COUNCIL MEETS IN SPECIAL SESSION

Alloys Payment for Employees of City Engineer

Sixth Avenue North

The city council met in a special session for the purpose of arranging for the payment of men whom City Engineer J. A. Bybee found it necessary to hire in the waterworks survey.

Superintendent W. E. Porter presented a plan for a storm sewer to carry off the water which accumulated in times of flood on North Sixth Avenue. He suggested that a creek to back creek and suggested that authorized from pipes might be used in which case, he said, it would be well to lay the pipes before January 1, when a raise of twenty per cent would take place. The council referred the matter to the city engineer. "I am sure to secure a strike was said about the petition or nonappearance on that day morning."

CITY SCHOOLS IN FINE CONDITION

President Elliott of Lewiston Normal is Pleased

SAYS THERE ARE NONE BETTER IN THE GEM STATE.

Advises People to Hold Annual Seed and Stock Show and Improve Grain and Cattle.

"The Twin Falls schools are in splendid condition and are right at the top of the schools in the state there being no better in Idaho," said President E. M. Elliott of the Lewiston State Normal Friday evening to a TIMES reporter. "I went through all the schools with Superintendent Blue," he continued, "and visited all the rooms of every grade and I was delighted at the conditions which I found existing."

"I must say that I was surprised and pleased at the growth and development of this city. I love Twin Falls and I am glad to see it going ahead the way that it is. There is one thing I think that I believe that this city ought to have and that is a live stock and seed show here once a year, to which all the best that is raised in southern Idaho could be brought. We have a live stock show at Lewiston every year and it is a splendid idea."

"With such a show here every year the results in the way of improved cattle and grain could not fail to be wonderful. Every time that a head of common stock is sold out and replaced by stock that are best all the way to the knees it helps build up the country."

"And improved grain is just as essential as improved stock. Grain that is 100 per cent sound is just as important as the best of cattle. With a live stock and grain show here annually the people would all become interested in improving both grain and stock."

"All our state schools have improved greatly in recent years and the growth for the past year was very satisfactory. The attendance at Lewiston increased forty per cent; that at Lewiston twenty-five per cent, the University eighteen per cent. Technical school showed a good growth but I have forgotten the percentage. We have asked some improvements on buildings to increase our capacity at Lewiston, but aside from this we asked an appropriation only about $5000 above the amount that Governor Alexander allowed as two years ago, after he cut us down."

"I am more than pleased with the manner in which I have been treated by the teachers and people of this city in which I spent five pleasant years."

give credit for religious training and religious instruction. And the man who does not have the Bible in his life is not a complete man. "Now, handicapped in this way, how shall we fit the public school, make an appeal to the child's moral nature. This must be done largely by the character of the teachers in charge of the work. The teacher is more dominant in developing the child's moral strength than any one else, not even the parents excepted."

"How shall we do this? Largely it comes to us through stories, through the child's own life, through other agencies in the community, and through motion pictures, in which this school is not complete."

"You should have a gallery and a motion picture machine in this school house, in order that you might show great industries and great moral pictures of all countries. It is in this way it seems to me that we get a more effective hold on the child's moral nature, and the church must weaken to its responsibility. The church is absolutely asleep socially. It is not reaching for the boys and girls in a vital effective way. Now it is easy to say that, but it is difficult to show. Yet I am not sure but that your new parish hall is one of the ways of meeting this. Every church should have a means of providing for the social activities, for the social interests, because through these you may direct the child's moral growth and development. What will contribute to the child's moral strength and character?"

"Does it avail for the child an appreciation of that which is true, that which is beautiful, that which is good? Nothing is beautiful which is not true, nothing is good which is not beautiful, and the real test of beauty, whether it be architecture or painting, is its strength. Is it useful? Does it have value?"

"I know that in many of our buildings there are beautiful pictures. I know you appreciate here in Twin Falls, the wonderful power of music. You know if I might pay a tribute to those I have known here in Twin Falls. It is to those who, by their devotion have given to the people of Twin Falls so much beautiful music. So where that I have ever been before, have I seen so many young boys and girls playing on the violin. And I know it is the work of those who have laid the foundation for wonderful music all appreciation."

"Though we all know that it doesn't make much difference how we manage money we get, or whether we build great monuments to ourselves, but if we give to this world, boys and girls, who have real strength of character who have real manhood, and who are able to go out into life, and to make this world a little better, a little more socially fit, a little happier, a little brighter, if we can do that, we have given to our community and our country, the greatest service it is possible for us to give."
