Water or Ditch Capacity

Question Before the Court

(Ray M. Beauchamp in Idaho Editor)

In order to set forth before the public the facts of the controversy in the question of the Salmon river water right, the controversy which has now pending before the United States court of appeals at San Francisco, attracting the attention of the land board and the legislature, Ray M. Beauchamp, secretary of the Salt Lake association, gives the following statement of fact in the Idaho Farmer of January 4. The article follows:

Some time ago the bill was passed all over Twin Falls county reading: "On account of water shortage on the Salmon tract, I have no means to keep my stock any longer and will offer for sale my herd of cattle, sheep and horses at auction in Twin Falls."

The man making the above declaration is one of the most extensive farmers in southern Idaho. Yet in spite of his long experience in this state and his large original investment in the land, the proposition which nearly every other Salmon settler has had to face on his farm; that is, whether it is better to leave his land to go and get a job or to plow up his pasture and go back to grain farming with his hard work and small margin.

The success of the nearby Twin Falls South Side tract settlers "knocks" the Salmon river tract impossible. Fifteen thousand people who own hundreds of acres of land that the Salmon land with water would produce the same enormous crops which their tract does.

No better evidence of the general confidence in the productivity of the Salmon soil can be had than the fact that in the last four years the county has been well known that the supply of Salmon water was insufficient, 27,000 acres has been cleared and an attempt made at cropping.

Last year the settlers with land needed had to content themselves with twenty-one days of water for the season—a total of nine acre feet instead of the normal amount of 24 acre feet just passed brought another water famine. Irrigation ceased July 24 with the delivery of less than half the water needed for and needed.

During the latter part of both seasons the pastures burned and all the farm land baked in the sun, for the lack of water. Grass crops will necessarily grow less and less under these conditions.

Water Shortage.

The water shortage this year may be a surprise to many in view of the heavy snow of last winter. It must be understood, however, that 73,348 acres of Salmon land which were irrigated over three times as much as the average run-off of water can supply. The present cultivated area is about twice that limit. In 1912, following the greatest run-off on record, that of 1912, only 23,403 acres then in cultivation, received considerably less than the amount of water mentioned in the contract.

The Twin Falls-Salmon River Land and Water Company's land-drawing in June, 1908, was the first of its kind in southern Idaho. The young city of Twin Falls was crowded with home seekers. Every local real estate dealer and many from other cities were Salmon land locators. Newspaper and company officials led in the boasting and to clinch the enthusiasm a wide effect was made by the fact that the great state of Idaho was behind the new project.

Of the 4000 acres reserved in winter of 1908 was the amount of water not in receiving Salmon land. These, as it later developed, were the fortunate ones.

Looked to the State.

The people who settled upon this project believed that the state of Idaho would look after their interests. They had learned that the project had been approved by the state engineer and by the land board, which was composed of the important officials in the state. They took it for granted that the governing matter out broadcast could tell nothing other than the truth concerning the water supply without coming to the attention of anyone else who might be appointed to judge in such matters and were bound by statute to do so.

The following question now famous in those days was part of the circular which was directly responsible for bringing the wild rush for land from practically every state in the Union:

"The water right is perfect and there is no land susceptible of irrigation above the Salmon tract. No water right in contest carries water sufficient for the irrigation of more than 150,000 acres in normal years, and as the spring run-off is far greater than the amount of water needed for the irrigation of this amount of land for the full season."

It is interesting to note in this connection that a water supply, which was "a water right that the amount required" for 150,000 acres would ever fall upon one acre of land, was being sold. The excess of these "normal" years could be held in storage up to the limits of the reservoir capacity, for a winter months. The price of water after paying the filing fees of $3.25 per acre and incurring the expense of moving in many instances half way across the country for water, was being sold to their dismay that the Salmon water right was not perfect, that there was "land susceptible of irrigation above the Salmon tract." In other words, there were "water rights in contest," which later by court decision lost to the company and themselves the annual use of 12,000 acre feet of water.

Salmon Falls Creek.

It is further because known that the Twin Falls-Salmon river project was not successful in the state of Idaho at all. That famous stream at its present point of source is over a hundred miles from Twin Falls and the Sawtooth mountain range. The real

President of Idaho Association Suggests Change of Party—Pass Grazing Resolutions.

BOISE—President Hugh Sprout of the Idaho Woolgrowers association in his annual address Tuesday declared that the sheepmen had received no special consideration from the Republican party and had proposed under Democratic administration a change of politics might be in order. He said in part:

"The woolgrowers as a class have been consistent supporters of the Republican party. Our state has a Republican delegation in Washington in both the house and the senate. Our state legislators for many years have been strongly Republican, but we have received no consideration in an industry from either party. We have asked for relief in this state from laws passed many years ago aimed at our industry, and have been thoughtless and neglectful. We have asked for relief in this state from laws passed many years ago aimed at our industry, and have been thoughtless and neglectful. We have asked for relief in this state from laws passed many years ago aimed at our industry, and have been thoughtless and neglectful."

tioned applicants rather than to those who are not. It is suggested that they have other satisfactory means of disposing of their crops, and he further pointed out that certain forest ranges for grazing stock, and that the transfer of stock using these ranges would seriously handicap the woolmen. He also stated that he was opposed to the transfer of grazing permits on such ranges to owners of property not located in these counties.

Whereas, the 649 acre grazing homestead act provides that the land so colored shall be of such character as to reasonably support a family by the grazing of stock thereon, therefore he it resolved that the entry of a 100 acre homestead adjacent to the forest reserve officials that honor for reductions be made in the renewal of permits to purchase, and whereas this suggestion, along with others, made by the woolmen, and the livestock business and at a time when the public is clamoring for lower cost of living, which only can be brought about by increased production or decreased consumption, and increased production can only be brought about by adding to the permanent income of the business, therefore he it resolved that the present regulations governing reductions in the renewal of permits to purchase, remain as they are, and that all new applicants for range shall be considered only where the range is available for grazing, and that the reductions be made in the transfer of permits, believing that such a policy will not disturb the grower who is permanent. We have engaged in the production of livestock.

Whereas there is a growing tendency among the users of the forest reserves to handle their stock through the local agents, and to purchase what may partake of a monopoly in the use of the forest grazing areas, therefore he it resolved that the reductions shall be placed upon the leasing of grazing permits so that the same limit shall apply thereto as apply to the local agents.

Whereas the forest officials have seen fit to ask for an increase in the grazing fees of 100 per cent (and referring to the woolmen's communication that had before you yesterday) we approve of an increase in the grazing fees of 25 per cent for 1917 and 25 per cent for 1918, and he it resolved, however, shall be directly contingent upon a definite grazing permit covering a period of five years with the assurance that during the five year period, said grazing permit shall not, in any way, be revoked or changed.

That, whereas the forest reserves range are greatly in need of improvements in the way of bridges, corrals, trails, for the better handling of the stock thereon, therefore, he it resolved, that the secretary of agriculture an additional appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose to be used in 1917.

Whereas the woolmen have been done to trails and other permanent forest improvements by livestock.

CORN COB PIPES ARE SOLACE OF BELGIAN

Man Who Returned to Fight For Native Land Gets Consolation From American "Institution"

(United Press)

With King Albert's Army in Belgium probably the most patriotic American in the Belgian army today is Dr. John Brassier, six years old, of Norway, Michigan.

During the war he was in the north of Belgium. He never dreamed of returning to Europe immediately following his medical course at the University of Liège, he went to America, taken a post-graduate medical course at the University of Pennsylvania and then located in Chicago, Illinois, where he now numbers about 35,000 in the fruit mining regions of Michigan.

A number of Dr. Brassier's university associates at Liège and also located in the United States, at New York, Chicago, Washington and elsewhere. These Dr. Brassier went to visit once every year.

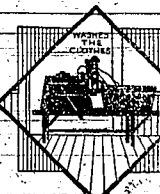

But with the coming of the war, the martyrdom of Belgium and the urgent call to arms, Albert, for all Belgian physicians and surgeons to return to Dr. Brassier at once returned to Belgium to serve the army, his compatriots promising to look after his wife and son and conserve his medical practice.

Dr. Brassier is still at his post of duty, ready to serve till the war is ended. He is in charge of one of the seven hospital trains with which Belgium is equipped and by means of which wounded Belgian soldiers from the front dressing stations are hurried down into France. Dr. Brassier's train makes at least one trip a week into France, and often when heavy fighting renders it necessary. Only two things, he says, keep him up.

"The first is the Americans who visit the Belgian front. The doctor declares that every American who comes to the Belgian front puts heart into him to keep his going, for another month."

The second is his work on the pipe. When he left Norway, Mich., Dr. Brassier brought with him a generous supply of corn cobs. He has never seen anything else, and all the food of American life resort themselves to the corn cobs. Dr. Brassier always is certain that his pipe will pull him out of the dumps, and despite his sixty odd years and everything else, keep him going till the next. American comes along to cheer him up.

So strong is Dr. Brassier's faith in this American institution that if he could bring the entire Belgian army with its "Missouri" Meerschmums to sustain the moral of the army until Belgium is redeemed.

LAWSON PROMISES REVELATION LATER

Francis Finlander Wants Committee to Investigate

(United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Tom Lawson, Treasury secretary, promised to reveal the name of a "high official" should an investigation body with higher powers than the present be appointed. He said that if he gave the name of the official now it would be disastrous to the nation and to the administration. The admission was made after Lawson had confessed that all that he wanted was to have Wall Street probed to the bottom. All morning, following the tactics which he adopted yesterday, Lawson dodged the question of probing, who became incensed and endeavored to force him to answer. Two new motions to arrest him for contempt were made, but action on them were deferred. Congressman Chipman with whom he had several times yesterday vented his displeasure as the witness several times and Lawson is reputed in a similar spirit. It is thought that the high official referred to, some foreign ambassador, as he declined to say that it was an American official.

The investigation began Monday morning with the examination of Joseph Tamuliy, private secretary to President Wilson, who testified that he had no knowledge of the price paid before it was given to the press. This statement was endorsed by Francis Finlander, secretary of the Berna Baruch, New York financier. Secretary Lansing took the stand to testify that he had no surveillance information to the effect that the terms of the price had been made known. He declined to answer questions relative to the interpretation which he had given the position of the price. He stated that it was not within the scope of the committee. This attitude was sustained by the committee. Bernard Baruch said on the witness stand that he had received no information from anyone regarding the contents of the Wilson peace note before its publication.

To The Growers of Peas and Beans

Last year we paid from Ten to Fifteen Dollars per Ton more than any other company on the tract for several different varieties. This year we are paying as much for all, and more for some than any other company and every bushel of our seed was grown in Idaho in 1916 and is much better seed than any which has been stored for from Two to Four years in warehouses. It would be well for Farmers to ascertain when and where the seed offered was grown before signing contracts for the coming season and be sure and get seed that will grow a good strong, healthy plant.

I am sure I can convince every Farmer on the tract that it will be to their interest to see us before they contract for either Peas or Beans for 1917.

Our seed will be treated with Carbon Disulphide before planting time to kill any weevil or Larva should there be any signs of same.

We also Mill free of charge all crops delivered to our warehouse at Twin Falls and give the screenings back to the grower. Call and see us before contracting and let us talk over the seed proposition with you.

Yours for fair treatment.

PUTTING A PLATFORM INTO EFFECT

If anyone thinks that the Democrats used their platform merely as a purely political expediency, with the expectation of forgetting about it if they should get into office, they should be around Boise for a few days and see what is going on.

To be sure the past week does not show any remarkable results. Not much has been accomplished except the organization of both houses. The legislature has followed the time-honored custom of appropriating money for its own expenses, but not until after an appropriation had passed both houses to pay to the militia the money long due it. Some interesting and really worthy measures were introduced, but were tied up awaiting the appointment of committees.

The last of the week, however, saw all committee assignments made and the rather cumbersome legislative machine in fairly good running order.

The responsibility placed upon the Democratic party is not being regarded lightly by the Democratic members of the legislature. All matters of party policy, all measures promised in the party platform, and recommendations made in the governor's message are being thrashed out in joint caucus of the senate and house. When they have been worked into satisfactory shape they will be launched and put through with the solid Democratic vote. Committees have been assigned various sections of the governor's message as well as portions of the Democratic platform, with instructions to draft the necessary legislation. In the meantime there will be no prolonged session of the legislature; as it is proposed to get all party and administration measures launched before the general caucus of measures makes their appearance.

To accomplish this, caucus will be held to adjournment until these matters are in proper shape. They will then be handled with all possible speed and with the view of ending the session within the forty days suggested by the governor.

The Democratic party is shouldering the responsibility of giving to the state during the next two years the best government it has ever had. If it fails it is not going to try to shift the blame. This is the spirit that prevails around the state house and the chambers of the legislature.

Some singular legislation with regard to county division appears to have been proposed in our state legislature. One of the bills provides for a two-thirds majority favoring secession in that part of a county desiring to secede, but does not appear to give any opportunity for the rest of the county to be heard on the subject. In 1861 a part of this country was unanimously in favor of secession; but the remaining portion seemed, in the long run, to have considerable to say.

The proposed state law, published in another column, whereby one county is authorized to step over the line and build roads or bridges in another county, can hardly provoke opposition from any source. It would seem strange if any man, objected seriously to his neighbor coming over and putting down a sidewalk, or mending his doorstep.

The belief is still fostered in many high seats of judgment that Germany's desperate economic situation will compel further peace overtures, despite the failure of the entente allies to take the bait offered in the "trap" proposition.

The recent illness of the venerable Admiral Dewey recalls the district: "Oh, dewy was the morning upon the first of May, And Dewey was the Admiral who sailed Manila's bay."

It was a case of "letting the hide go with the tail" when the nine million dollar cruiser Milwaukee was wrecked trying to salvage the half million dollar submarine, H-3.

When State Legislators learn the dangers from too many laws—that there are some matters which need no statutory regulation—the millennium will be near at hand.

An attempted suicide is ghastly; but in Harry Thaw's case it could almost have been condoned by newspaper readers if only it had been successful.

It is to be hoped that the faults of the present primary system will not be overlooked by our legislators.

The Congress of the United States evidently regards Thomas W. Lawson as the champion trouble-maker.

Caranza, the "de facto" Big Chief, is finding that "facts are stubborn things"—"like-wise Villa!"

WILL HOLD TROUTS FOR TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Desire To Represent Twin Falls Against Pocatello and Boise High Schools.

The local preliminaries for the annual inter-scholastic triangular debate among the high schools of Twin Falls, Pocatello, and Boise, are to be held in the high school on the afternoon of January 25. The question for debate will be "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a system of universal military training, similar to that of Switzerland and Australia."

NIHART WORKS HARD FOR COUNTY DIVISION

Early Cleanup Leaves Legislator's Office in a Tangle of Bull Exposed in Boise.

BOISE, Jan. 16.—Only the adjournment of the lower house this morning, prevented the Bull county division bill from starting upon its perilous route. The measure was to have been presented, it is reported, by A. B. Lucas, a Republican legislator from Adams county. It is not known whether this in the form of an enabling act, specifying provisions under which the proposed Bull county can be created, or whether it takes the more exact form of creating such a county by statute. The form the bill takes, however, makes very little difference, for if it is in the shape of an enabling act, it is more likely to be included only such provisions as they are certain can be completed without difficulty.

The interests of the west-end people interested in this measure, is certain of some support among the Republican contingent. But assistance can get from the Democratic ranks is problematical. There is only one county division proposition before the legislature at the present time—the suggestion of the delegation from the county which it is sought to divide. That is Blaine county, where the people are apparently in favor of the measure. However, another division scheme looms up suddenly from Bannock county, in which Pocatello is situated. The delegation from this county, Democratic in character, while outwardly taking a position of neutrality and awaiting the manifestation of sentiment in that county, are favorable to the suggestion to divide the county into two counties. It is not known whether the delegation from the county which it is sought to divide county seat honors with Caldwell, the present county seat of Canyon county. Numerous other division propositions are to be launched, it is said, both from the Republican and Democratic side of the house. The situation is thus modified to an extent where it is impossible to forecast the outcome of any of the schemes.

One representative, Cecil R. Pecham of Canyon county, is working on a bill under the terms of which any section of any county that can meet certain requirements may organize a new county without reference of the matter to the legislature. By this Mr. Pecham's bill will make it possible for the Umo wanted in disposing of these matters. Pecham's bill will be introduced the first of the week, and will have as its center of gravity the "tested tract." Delegation from counties that do not want division will insist that the measure contain provisions which will make practically impossible the division of their counties, while delegations from counties where division is popular will not consent to the bill containing a clause which would defeat their purpose. The bill as drafted, it is reported, contains a provision that no county seat can be created within twenty miles of the present seat of the county, and that the boundaries of any new county must not be within ten miles of the present county seat. Mr. Pecham, when seen Sunday night, said he had not decided whether to incorporate provision requiring a majority vote of the entire county, or a two-thirds vote in the proposed new county and a one-third vote in favor of the proposition in the rest of the county.

Mr. Pecham and other west-end people interested in dividing Twin Falls into two counties are working vigorously to work among the legislators.

HART SHOWS TALENT IN NEW WESTERN PLAY.
A brand new W. S. Hart drama will be seen at the Orpheum theatre Thursday and Friday in this exciting, new Key-Bo production, entitled "The Devil's Double." It is said the exponent of the "wild" west has seldom had a vehicle which afforded him so many opportunities for the display of his talents. The play tells how the living gambler, boast by hard living and hearted for all that he goes off with a wisp of a girl to a life of honor and returned manhood.

"The Devil's Double," showing at the Orpheum theatre Thursday and Friday in addition to the intensely dramatic story, contains a succession of thrills that are said to be new to the screen.

DEAL ROLE TAKEN BY GLADYS BROCKWELL.
Gladys Brockwell in a double part in her first starring vehicle for William Fox, "Sins of Her Parents." Miss Brockwell plays two parts, that of the mother and that of the daughter who suffers through her mother's wrongs. The photoplay will open at the Idaho theatre for a two days run on Wednesday and Thursday. The story of "Sins of Her Parents" tells how a girl learns that her mother is a worthless dance hall woman of Alaska. The discovery almost brings her unexpectantly to her death, all is righted through the dual as-

CONSCIENTIOUS POES OF WAR HAVE HARD TIME.

LEWES, Eng., Jan. 16.—This town is trying today to get rid of a non-combatant battalion of conscientious objectors. Housewives have declared an outright strike, refusing to billet the men and a number of tradesmen declined to sell them anything at any price.

Recognizing a man's right to obey his conscience, the military tribunals were puzzled to find some means of mobilizing conscientious objectors and putting them on work of national importance. At length the suggestion was adopted to "uniform them into Tommies and mould them into laboring units." The distinguishing mark is the "N. C. C." on their caps, meaning "Non-Combatant Corps."

Lewis has sent a large number of her sons to the war. Many have been killed and the hospital list is long. Therefore, when the objectors were sent out to find billets with the townspeople they faced a long tedious hunt from door to door. These homes which had sent their sons to France failed to accept them, despite the military regulations regarding civilians to billet soldiers.

NEW FEDERAL LOAN

BUREAU EXPLAINED

By Frank R. Wilson, of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau. Written for the Washington Post.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The right to borrow under the Farm Loan act is limited to farmers and prospective farmers.

To join a farmer merely makes application to the secretary-treasurer of the loan association in his community.

As soon as the Federal Land Bank of that district is ready for business it will provide the loan association with additional blanks.

When this is done the appraiser of the Federal Bank will come to inspect the farm and accept or reject the report of the loan committee.

THE SUGAR BEET QUESTION

GROWERS of sugar beets are beginning to realize that for the last two years beets have been delivered to the factories at a price much below the real worth of the crop.

The grower is beginning to realize the flagrant injustice because during the same period some of the factories have reported profits beyond all expectations.

Some have not only paid exorbitant dividends in cash, but have also disbursed stock dividends in liberal amounts.

It is thus the farmers were aroused and we believe from all reports the farmers are aroused and fighting for justice.

The Michigan, the Colorado, the Montana and the Utah farmers have taken up the fight against the sugar trust for better prices for the crop, and a more just consideration of the manner of producing it.

We are glad to note several of the newspapers and farm magazines are aiding the grower in this fight and from reliable authorities we are informed that the federal trade commission has the whole subject of the beet production and the sugar trust under investigation.

Quoting from one farm magazine: "We have worked for many years to establish the domestic beet sugar industry. We wish it to succeed, but we are determined that growers shall receive a fair share of the profits."

Factories must pay a fair price for beets close up to the 1917 crop. We also notice a statement editorially in a farm paper that the grower should receive at least fifty per cent more for the 1917 crop than for beets grown in 1916. Which would mean in the neighborhood of $9.00 per ton for beets grown in 1917 in the Twin Falls country.

Another statement says the grower should not sign a contract for a crop less than $8.00 for a twelve per cent crop, with 12 1/2 cents per ton additional for each one-half per cent of sugar content.

The Great Western Sugar company operating in Colorado and Montana, have offered $7.50 per ton on a sliding scale.

The Utah growers under the leadership of the Utah State Farm bureau and a committee of farmers submitted certain requests which the farmers are making in connection with the handling of the 1917 beet crop at a meeting represented by the Utah-Idaho company, the Amalgamated Sugar company and the Western Sugar company, which was termed a "get-together" meeting.

The farmers committee made the following requests: That they be allowed better unloading facilities.

That the farmer be allowed the privilege of being paid by the first of October and continue so long as they desire.

That the farmers be given first preference in buying pulp at the price of 25 cents per ton.

That the sugar companies cooperate with the farmers, through their state organizations in all matters as shall be for their mutual benefit. Among other requests a schedule of beet prices delivered in 1917 at a higher price than 1916 be held.

The sugar officials agreed to submit the matter to their boards of directors and give the farmers an answer as soon as possible.

At the close of the conference all present were agreed that in the past there had been too much ill feeling and misunderstanding, between the grower and the sugar companies and that in the future their aim should be in a spirit of fairness to both sides, to cooperate and build rather than misunderstand and tear down.

Now right there is where the rub comes. The sugar companies have never shown any spirit of fairness but to one side.

The beet contract as signed by the grower will prove that although conclusively in favor of the sugar trust in part as follows:

"The sugar company shall at all times have the privilege of sampling the beets in order to obtain the quality thereof, by its chemist, and analysis made by the sugar company shall be accepted as conclusive."

They agree to pay on a sliding scale and the company do all the siding. (In a spirit of fairness to the company.)

Now that we are together let us talk this matter over and in a spirit of fairness to our confederates in every) the grower in other states let us take up the fight with them and get a little nearer our share of the fruits of our labors.

Let us hope that as a result of the meeting in the rooms of the Commercial club last Saturday we can secure a contract satisfactory and just to the beet growers in regard to labor, dumping facilities and prices for the crop of 1917.

We have information from very reliable sources that at the beets are making about four cents per ton and that the cost of making a sack of sugar is only twenty-eight cents.

Considering the wholesale price of sugar with the freight added from New York it don't take much of a mathematician to figure the grower getting a very small end of the profit.

We firmly believe the grower should receive at least $10 per ton for his beets during these war times and at that price the sugar trust could be getting far beyond a legitimate profit.

I thank you, A. GROWER.

THE MUTUAL GIRL AND HER AUNTIE

We wish to call your attention this week particularly to JOHN H. WOLFE'S GROCERY STORE, 216 Main Ave. N. Even if the war has sent the prices of groceries soaring sky high, they still carry their usual, excellent line, and give just as good service as ever.

Reliable ketchup, olives, salad oils and things of that sort in bottled form are offered from fresh stock. They do the ordering from the wholesaler in a way that keeps old stuff off the shelves. What kind of cereal do you eat for breakfast? No matter what kind it is they carry a good fresh supply. They handle the best grades of sugar at the lowest prices. Fresh wholesome crackers which the kiddies love to eat for a piece. Tea and coffee aroma and delicate flavor makes them a favorite with everyone who tries it. Cheese to be good must be used up quickly after it is cut, but their's is always good because there are so many purchases a day. It would be impossible to keep old cheese at WOLFE'S GROCERY. This is a straight tip, take our advice and buy only at a reliable grocery, where they do not keep questionable stock. And if that is the kind of place for which you are looking try WOLFE'S.

portion of the high or low, the canal or any lateral or ditch belonging to the canal system of irrigation on the Twin Falls tract, for the conserving of water or to prevent waste through seepage or other causes, the proposition in itself is a commendable one and would receive the hearty support and cooperation of all those desirous of a permanent, namely, the present holders of a perpetual water right, the farmers of the Twin Falls tract, who are the stockholders in the canal company, if it was for the specific purpose of giving those farms the least amount of water that they are compelled to pay in advance for, but which they very seldom receive; particularly those who are as fate has willed it to be, near the end of the ditch or lateral. Those are the people who are vitally interested in the proposition of cementing the canals, laterals, etc. But for the specific purpose only of supplying water to those who are rightfully and lawfully entitled to it, and who for years have paid annual water maintenance, for an entirely inadequate supply of water; due in a good many cases to ditches and laterals being too small in proportion to the acreage depending on them for water; and in others to lack of supervision on the part of ditch riders or water-masters, who are in reality the employ of the farmers of the tract in general. From personal observation I refer to that there is room for a great deal of improvement in the maintenance and installing of gates for a proper distribution of water, and until such time that all present water users get the proper amount of water that is due them whether at the head or end of a ditch, can should vote by referendum against any proposition to divert any of the present supply of water to irrigate the Hanson butte or any other tract.
