AMORTIZATION PLAN CLEARLY EXPLAINED

System For Repayment Under Farm Loan Act Is Shorthanded—How Bonds Are Sold.

(United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—One of the features of the Federal farm loan act which makes a strong appeal to farmers is that it compels them gradually to retire their indebtedness through a long or short period of years.

This process is called amortization. Under it the interest and principal are paid off in equal annual or semi-annual installments throughout the period of the loan so that at the end of the term of the mortgage the borrower is out of debt.

All loans under the Farm Loan act are made under the amortization or installment plan. Since the borrower begins paying off his debt the first year after he gets it, and because a long time loan is best suited to farmers, borrowers under this act are permitted to have mortgages that run from five to forty years at their option.

Permission is given to pay all of the loans or any part of it, so the interest-paying date after the mortgage has run five years. Borrowers are not permitted to pay off within the first five years because the money which they have borrowed has been procured by the bank through the sale of its bonds, and bonds cannot be retired in a shorter period than five years.

The use of the borrowed money is limited to the following purposes:—No purchase land or other real estate, or pay off existing indebtedness, to purchase live stock or to make any productive improvements such as clearing, fences, drainage, buildings and machinery.

The object of amortization is to

3 Drops, and the Corn is a "Goner!"

When you've got to walk on the sides of your shoe to get away from those awful corn-pains, there's only one common-sense thing to do.

Use "Gets-It" Your Corns Won't Spread in Winter. Heals the Thick Shrivels, Loosens and Peels Off!

Use 3 or 4 drops of "Gets-It" on the corn each day. Pain and inflammation will disappear, the corn will begin to peel away, and in a matter of time it loosens and falls right off. There's no other corn-remover in the world that gets like "Gets-It". No new discovery has been made in corn-removal since "Gets-It" was born. Don't forget that fact. "Gets-It" does away forever with the use of knives that irritate, bandages that make a bundle of your toe, plaster that does no good, and the pinners and gizmos that draw blood. "Gets-It" is a non-irritating, non-drying, non-stinging, non-painful, and non-damaging to the corn. It is sold everywhere. See a bottle or send on receipt of price to E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. entire the farmer to turn a mortgage into an investment. When he borrows at a low rate—less than it yields him—he is able to pay off his indebtedness out of the profits of his investment. A long time loan enables him to use his money judiciously so that it will contribute to increased value of his land and its increased productive power.

The operation of the Farm Loan act are applied by two main classes—a money-lending agency and a money-lending agency.

The government puts the first mortgage into the farm loan plan by buying the original capital stock of the twelve Federal Land Banks if necessary. When this has been loaned and farm mortgages taken in return for the money loaned, the Federal Land Bank may issue bonds against these mortgages.

These bonds will be among the most attractive securities ever offered to American investors. An explained before, the rate of interest on the loan runs only up to 50 per cent of the value of the land. This means that every dollar's worth of bonds issued represents $2.00 worth of land as security.

The fact that each Federal Land Bank guarantees the bonds of all the other banks also puts behind these bonds as securely the $100 million dollars original capital stock of the banks and their required—surplus earnings, plus the required annual depletion of the mortgage loan.

Hence this, the security containing—proportionately by reason of the constantly increasing capital contributed by the Farm Loan association.

So the investment end of the Farm Loan act is very important as a money-lending end, because it creates for the benefit of small and large investors a security backed by pooled first mortgages on farm lands, the proceeds being used to increase the productive power, and enhance the value of these mortgage loans.

Since the rate of interest to the farmer depends upon the rate of interest at which these bonds will sell, Congress went the limit to make these bonds attractive so they would sell at a low interest rate. The bonds are exempt from all form of taxation. The government will not even collect any income tax upon them. No state or municipality may tax them for any purpose.

In order to make these bonds appealing to investors—all classes—they are issued in denominations of from $25 to $1000.

In order to protect them against counterfeiting, they are issued by the United States Government bureau of engraving and printing, and are protected from counterfeiters by the subtle force of the United States secret service.

Viscount Uchida fills the post made vacant when Viscount Motono was recalled to accept the position of foreign minister in the new Kera cabinet. He has acted as ambassador to Vienna, minister to China and was foreign minister in 1911. He is considered one of the most able diplomats in Japan.

Politicians in Tokyo take the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese pact last spring as the beginning of a long term of friendly political and commercial relations between the two countries. But it is generally believed that only a beginning has been made. There is a generally accepted belief that Russia requested Japan to wait until the close of the war for signature of additional clauses of the new convention.

Upon Viscount Uchida, however, is placed the responsibility of promoting relations in Petrograd, so that after the war, as well as the present, the two nations will be best aligned for the interests of the far east.

STAR-FRENCH AIR AERONAUT BREAKS A RECORD

Wings Twenty-First Flight About 15,000 Feet Above The Surface of The Earth.

(United Press)

PARIS, Jan. 15.—(United Press)—Gyromet, "star ace" of the entire French aerial service, who recently brought down his twenty-first, officially confirmed, German airplane, established at the same time a new world's record for aerial combats; the air duel having taken place at an altitude of over two miles after a chase of over twenty kilometers. The entire battle was one of the most dramatic air episodes that the entire war has produced.

The French undisputed mastery of the air, which now renders practically impossible for a German machine ever to cross the French lines, the necessity of flying far back the German lines to get in contact with the German machines. It was while one of these hunts that Gyromet, flying at an altitude of over 15,000 feet and at a distance of over seventy kilometers behind the German lines, sighted a German "monstrous" of two observation airplanes with an escort of two fighting machines, heading for the French lines.

There was nothing to prevent Gyromet giving immediate battle, except that should he be forced to land he would fall in the German lines. He therefore took refuge behind some friendly clouds, and the German squadron should pass ahead of him, then started the pursuit from behind, closing up sufficiently so that if he should be shot by the German anti-aircraft gunners from below he would be taken merely for one of the German planes.

For seventy kilometers he kept up the pursuit, concealing himself as much as possible from the German machines by keeping behind the clouds. When the French lines at last appeared below him, he emerged in full view and began to fight. The German machine nearest him managed to be an observation plane and darted down on it to open fire with his machine gun fire at an altitude of two miles. He killed the observer with his third bullet and with the tenth the pilot shot from the machine dead and the plane began its whirling course down toward the French lines.

Although the machine was the second one Gyromet had brought down that day he at once started after the other three, but they in the meantime had disappeared towards their own lines.

Without further ado Gyromet started in search of his victim and succeeded in locating the machine in the ravine of Mocoort, the plane fell, it tumbled into fragments and the bodies of both the pilot and observer falling within a radius of sixty yards.

The flight was witnessed by members of the American squadron who are now stationed where they have the advantage of witnessing some of the exploits of most of the crack "aces" of the French aerial service.

SHIP CAROLYN SAFE IN RIO DE JANEIRO

Pioneer Vessel of New South Atlantic Merchant Marine Welcomed in Brazil.

(United Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 15.—When the great American ship "Carolyn," pilot of the new service established between Philadelphia and ports of Brazil and Argentina, steamed into this harbor just now, Pan-American business prospects smiled a great smile of relief.

The new service will go along way toward relieving a tense transportation situation in the opinion of shippers here. In monthly service, weekly steamers are predicted for the future.

After discharging her general cargo, about 5,000 tons, for this port the "Carolyn" tarred her nose toward the south for the ports of Santos and Buenos Aires. She will touch at Montevideo on later trips.

The assurance of the immediate success of the new transportation enterprise is not based entirely on the situation created by the European war. Shippers here declare that American export trade with South American countries has grown tremendously in the last three years. It is declared that many Brazilian products are meeting difficulty in finding transportation for the United States, particularly coffee and rubber.

The "Carolyn" made the trip from Philadelphia in twenty-three days, which is about the average speed of boats of her class.

By a curious coincidence, the "Carolyn" was the first steamer to port through the Panama Canal since the opening of the "big ditch." Pioneer on the "Canal Route," she is now pioneer in the new service to the ports of South America's east coast.

GREAT CONVENTIONS HELD IN POCATELLO

Dairymen, Swine Growers and Live Stock Associations Gather in The Gale City.

The most successful meeting Idaho Seed Growers association ever held in the six years of the organization was held at Pocatello. The association met this year in co-operation with the state dairymen's, State Swine Growers, and State Live Stock associations. Throughout the week the greatest interest and enthusiasm was shown. The seed show held in connection with the meeting of the associations was not only larger than in former years but the quality is steadily advancing. In the several classes of seed shown the Twin Falls tract came in for high shares of prizes. As in former years the Springfield district carried off honors in alfalfa.

Representatives of the Idaho Honey Producers association were present at the meeting and presented a request that they be included in the co-operative relationships that were so helpful and evident throughout the week. The several organizations attended to them a most hearty invitation and the 1918 meeting, therefore, will also include this new partner for mutual helpfulness.

The woman's session also was attended and equally successful as the men's. As a central figure in their program for the week Miss Carolyn Hunt of Washington, D. C., occupied a prominent place.

The Seed Growers association elected J. H. Beasley, Idaho Falls, president and C. E. Stuber, Jerome, E. Barnes, St. Anthony, C. C. Tobias, Caldwell and O. E. Scott, Pocatello, W. A. Thomas, Twin Falls, as directors. A. A. Snyder of Springfield was re-elected vice president and O. D. Connor, Boise, secretary-treasurer.

The membership of the Seed Growers association was increased three times its former size and as a new feature two very vigorous and active members were given honorary life memberships as a mark of respect and recognition and esteem. Plans are already under way for a similar joint convention and program for 1918 which opens this early promise to be even larger and more successful than that just closed. Idaho Falls and nearby sections of Pocatello are the several associations' representative to secure the 1918 convention.

No matter what town in Idaho secures this year it will have a packed hall of interesting help-addresses and work. All in attendance are returning in their home with a hearty appreciation of Pocatello's hospitality as well as some very definite plans for the betterment of the industry which they represent and were most especially concerned with.

Eastland Cases in Hopeless Tangle

Supreme Court Calls on Judge Landis to Tell Why He Ordered Cases Consolidated.

(United Press) CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 16.—Although more than a year and a half has elapsed since the plaintiff-steamship Pacific lost its cargo of furs and other goods on the Chicago river here and snuffed out the lives of 112 men, women and children out of a holiday, compensation for their deaths has not been made and the suits growing out of the disaster today are in a bad legal tangle.

Surviving relatives of the 812 wage workers who met death on the Eastland are, in many instances, poor people who depended on the earnings of the victims of the disaster. Many of those have had a hard struggle to live since the ill-fated afternoon of July 24, 1915.

Interest in the situation today centers on the question of whether 372 suits for damages in federal court, shall be consolidated and all tried at once, or tried separately. Federal Judge Landis was called upon yesterday to tell the United States supreme court why he consolidated the cases and why he thought they ought to be tried together.

Should the supreme court order the cases tried separately, as the owners of the Eastland demand, it is estimated that the trials will last fifteen years, allowing a minimum of two weeks for each case. Surviving relatives of about 300 of the victims have not and all while others have brought suit in Illinois state courts.

There is a bill before congress to give the United States court of claims jurisdiction in the cases. This would blame the government, through the federal steamboat inspection service, for the disaster, but as the government cannot be sued they have no way of recovering damages unless the court of claims is given jurisdiction.

DEAD ON THE FIELD OF HONOR
 It was the Napoleonic régime, as we remember, that kept on the battalion roster the names of soldiers who died heroically upon the field of battle, and each time the roll was called, rendered tribute to valor by having response to such names made in the words above quoted.

It is, of course, more spectacular to go down in the shock of battle, amid cries of victory; but it is none the less patriotic and heroic to fall at one's post in the discharge of daily duty. The conspicuous instances of the latter, in the history of the United States, are found in John Quincy Adams, who, after having been President, represented a Massachusetts district in the Congress for many terms and, finally, died upon the floor, beside the seat he had so long and ably occupied; and, now, in Admiral George Dewey, who, on Tuesday evening last, passed, as one might say, from his desk in the Navy Department to the other shore.

Only two great opportunities for fame have come to American commanders during fifty years—both on the high seas—one to Dewey at Manila and the other to Sampson at Santiago—and each was gloriously improved. Both being dead, let one hero speak of the other: Said Sampson:
 "The service knows Dewey as an ideal head of a fleet. Perfectly courageous, of thoroughly balanced judgment, and quick of decision, he has the qualities which carry one to fame if opportunity is given. The man and the hour fortunately came together and the country is richer in another heroic figure. His career has given a lofty impetus to the young which will bear fruit in nobler aspirations. He has become one of the most valued possessions which a nation can have as a national hero."
 The official was recruited for Farragut, as that of General for Grant. Porter was the second to fill it and Dewey the third. His death makes it vacant with no succession provided.

"Close his eyes, his work is done!
 What to him is friend or foe man,
 Rise of moon or kiss of sun,
 Hand of man or kiss of woman!
 Lay him low, lay him low,
 In the clover or the snow!
 What cares he, he cannot know;
 Lay him low!"
 "Fold him in his country's stars,
 Roll the drum and fire the valley!
 What to him are all our wars,
 What but death, hemlocking folly?
 Lay him low, lay him low,
 In the clover or the snow!"

The tragedy of the steamer Eastland, which turned turtle at her dock in Chicago, drowning 812 persons, mostly women and children, about to start upon a holiday excursion, shocked the entire country a year and a half ago. The terrible responsibility seemed to lie between the government inspectors and the owners and officers of the boat; and up to this date the point has not been decided, although damage claims have been in the courts ever since. To try each claim separately, as the boat owners desire, would require some ten years, and Judge Landis, who summed up some hundred of these cases for trial at once, is now asked by the Supreme Court of the United States to tell why he did so!

A Laticia county, California, woman asks for a new school district in her neighborhood, because she now has to rise before day to make her five children ready for school—because, they have to row across the Sacramento river, then hitch up a horse kept there for the purpose, drive some miles to another river, leave the horse and take another boat and then walk a mile to their school home! If this is not the "pursuit of knowledge under difficulties," what would be? There should be a future President in that family.

The Constitutional Amendment making it impossible for a bonded indebtedness beyond two millions, exclusive of bonds outstanding in 1911, which was ratified by the voters of Idaho in 1913, has arisen in the path of her legislators in 1917. While the highway department is asking a million and a half and the board of education a half million, not to mention other state needs, there appears to be, under the restriction stated, only a bonding possibility of a little over a million and a quarter. What is it?

The press notice of the assembling in Buffalo, N. Y., of the American Council of Migratory Workers of the World, advises that the objects of this association are quite in keeping with its name. It only asks that the United States government should own and operate the railroads, employ all the unemployed, furnish them free transportation from one job to another, with rations and cheap loans for incidental expenses. Where, now, is that very reasonable child-who-cried for the moon?

The holding of the U. S. Supreme Court, with three members dissenting, affirmed the conviction of Dinges and Gammit in the noted California "white slave" case. This means that Mann act covers and penalizes personal immoral escapades, as well as interstate transportation of women for commercialized vice—a point hitherto stoutly contested.

What a stern sense of duty must have animated those suffragette pickets at the White House when they refused the President's invitation to come in and have something warm and kept on shivering behind the gate-posts!

"Says Lawson to Henry, 'You told,'
 Says Henry to Lawson, 'You lie!'
 And thus lies the crust in a fold
 O'er the 'in-vee-ti-ga-shi-on' pie!"

The world do move! An Indiana lawmaker has a bill to prohibit the manufacture of corsets. If unable to secure its passage in that form, he will doubtless attempt to regulate the size and number of "bones."

The Minnesota legislature is considering the project of a state-owned paper mill—of course, to control and reduce the fabulous prices for paper. A worthy purpose, but a very poor method.

The editor of the Nez Perce Herald says he can tell why a girl shuts her eyes when she is being kissed—provided, he is shown the photo of the man!—a Daniel come to judgment!

Gooding gave each of her four representatives in the Second Idaho a gold watch. Had she sent ninety, instead of four, the price of patriotism would probably have been retained.

Did any one feel the nation swelling yesterday, when sovereignty over the Danish West Indies passed to your Uncle Samuel?

The addition of Power county to this judicial district was opposed. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to prepare a banquet.
