COMPANY 47 COMES BACK TO TWIN FALLS, SEVENTY-TWO MEN STRONG

GREETED AT TRAIN—RECEPTION IN EVENING FOLLOWED BY DANCE

The Men of Company D Second Idaho, Who Left Here for the Border Over Six Months Ago, All Return, Well and Happy—A Great Welcome.

After all kinds of reports, corrections and alarms, word finally came to Twin Falls, Thursday, evening last, that our boys would have Boise late enough to arrive here at next morning. The band, and a number of enthusiastic relatives and friends were ready to meet them at the station. One dragged, as time always will to him who waits; but at a few minutes after eight the train came carrying in the boys, and a host of exiles were on deck for those sons, brothers and sweethearts.

Arriving at the high school building at the appointed hour, without musical or other escort, Company D, in uniform, was met by a host of friends. Roberts and accompanied by Lieutenant Leighton and Kappel, marched into the hall and were greeted by a large number of friends. The boys were seated in the front-center of the auditorium, followed by the four girls, and the band, the local G. A. R. Post, with their flag, which were placed immediately on the left of the company.

Mr. Chairman Ladies and Gentlemen and Comrades of the Second Idaho, I call you "Comrades" advisedly for the reason that, inspired by the same motives, you took the same oath as we did. In the same cause—that of your country—as did the volunteers of fifty three, four and five years ago. You are here to speak to you a word of parting; and I assure you that I regard it a much greater privilege to bid you adieu than to bid you good night. This all the more in that circumstances are so different—thus:

Late in August, 1866, an Iowa regiment left the city for the border. As you left the border a few weeks ago. It was three days on the ocean, and a few days on the land. It was herded into box cars, with a narrow board seat around the walls, allowed to be cramped together, and brought to this city. The first morning, and here they were at once marched to the hall, and were welcomed and compelled to hear addresses of welcome from the mayor and others. Now you know that neither the combined and compounded eloquence of all the orators of all the ages, from Saul of Tarsus to William J. Bryan, nor a welcome from the heavens, could have interested these boys; and I rejoice tonight in the advantage of your situation over theirs. Let me take the liberty to recommend an incident. Leo and John—son—had answered—and all—know that the war was over and the muster-out rolls were being prepared. Naturally all thought and conversation was turned toward "A small group was excitedly discussing the subject. "I'm going to do," said Smith, "I'll camp by mother's side." "You'll take the boys and go to the States," said Jones, "you can just come around to Maria's house," and so it went. "Well," he answered, "I'll just be having a bugler blow reveille on my mind." "You want to know if three years of that was not enough," says Pat, "the bugler

PROMINENT ADVERTISING MAN KILLED SUDDENLY

Charles E. Churchill, While Returning to New York From Twin Falls, Is Struck by Train Monday.

Charles E. Churchill of New York City, advertising agent for the Daniel Hays Company of Rock Island, Ill., who has been in this vicinity for the past few weeks gathering data for the new advertising campaign, was killed by a passenger train last evening at Rawlins, Wyoming. Mr. Churchill left here Saturday evening for the city, and was returning to his home Sunday. He left a wife and family and had presents for them at Salt Lake City. The body will be forwarded to the home of his family in New York. While here he made many friends in this city who are sincerely regretting his death.

BIG MEN REFUSE TO ACT ON COMMISSIONS

Failure of Efforts of President to Raise Salaries Causes Many to Step Jobs. (United Press) Washington, Jan. 30.—The high cost of prosperity in this country is hitting President Wilson. He can't get his men to want for jobs now at his disposal. Business men are making too much money, and the tariff commission is unwillingly yielding them the tariff of some board or commission upon which the president is to be appointed. Each member $7,500 on one time consideration, a princely sum per annum for any man, is now regarded as too paltry to appeal to many men the president desires to serve the country. This—what makes selection of different commissions at the President's disposal more difficult. He has a long list of commissions for which he has selected members of both of these commissions for $7,500 a year. The president himself has appointed a commission to investigate the tariff commission fixed at $10,000 each. Congress declined to put the figure above $7,500.

LEAK MAY HAVE COME FROM CODE

State Department Officials Admit That Foreign Nations Learned of American Secret Code.

(United Press) WASHINGTON.—That the confidential messages of the state department may have leaked out because of the fact that certain foreign nations learned the secret code of the United States was admitted today by a high official. The official said that because of the possibility of the code being figured out by the enemy, it has been changed. He hinted that it had been altered very recently. This is the first time that the department of state has admitted that the code might have become known, since the probe inquiry has begun. The admission is significant and may mean that the government hopes to trace the leak abroad.

NEW STRIKE MAKES BIGGEST HIKE IN U.S.

MINIMUM INCREASE IN VALUE PROBABLE

FURTHER IMMENSE INCREASE IN VALUE PROBABLE

Editor Elko Independent Says Result Will Be Construction of Road to Idaho Mine—Several Other Claims Appear as Good as Long Hike. (United Press) DENVER, Jan. 30.—As a result of a strike made last week in Long Hike, owned by the Elko Mine company, Jaridge now has the greatest gold mine in the United States. If not in the world, it is certainly a double. The Elko Independent, on his return from the famous Nevada strike, says that the mine which was recently valued at $1,000,000, has now increased to $2,000,000, at least. The discovery of the mine led to the result of a $1,000,000 hike in the value of the mine. The strike was made 800 feet from the surface, while the greatest depth from the surface and 400 feet. The quality of the ore is the same as that found at the other mines. The reason for assuming that the bottom has been reached and the gold here may be extended much deeper. There are several other claims in the Jaridge area which are owned by other companies or individuals that look as good as the Long Hike, among these are the Elko and the Jaridge. Although the 1200 claims have been staked out, many of them are naturally worthless, but a number of them are promising. A large amount of work has been done on the last week, but bought some lots there last week, being convinced that the town would have at least 2000 inhabitants next summer.

TWIN FALLS GIVES SCHUMANN-HEINK GREAT RECEPTION

MAGNIFICENT AUDIENCE FOR GRAND ENTERTAINMENT SATURDAY NIGHT

ENTHUSIASM BOTH BEFORE AND BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS

The Mme. Schumann-Heink concert, at the Laverling Saturday night, was a joy to each and everyone in the large audience, and appears to have also been a pleasure and satisfaction to the diva herself. Twin Falls, thanks to its numerous "Laverling" enterprises and activities, is generally regarded as a city in having secured a real stellar attraction—albeit the more so since both Puccini and Tosca were in the program. The very first, perhaps, in the world. The eight hundred seating capacity of the opera house was surpassed by a crowd of about 1,000 people, who were seated in the balcony, the orchestra pit, and by three or four rows at the back of the stage; so that, with the standing room in the foyer, some thousand or more persons were present. Although nearly all the money by towns contributed to the result, it was not a small place, and as such was noted and favorably commented upon by the arts.

BULL ATTEMPTS TO DISCREDIT CANDOR OF SEN. ATHERTON

(Editorial Correspondence) BOISE, Jan. 30.—The house committee on county lines and boundaries held a heated session one day last week when the merits and demerits of the proposed country of Bull were given an airing by the respective parties. Some unlooked-for sensations were arising in the most approved dramatic fashion. Senator Atherton, an old friend of Bull, had been elected to the county division issue, and that he had been elected an anti-division platform. Bull, although in the contest at this point, claiming that county division was not an issue in the general election, and that it was not a matter of public concern, was not strongly opposed to the division of the county.

DEBATE ON SOCIALISM DRAWS A LARGE CROWD

Both Sides Able Presented—G. C. Gilliland—Argued for Socialist State, While Professor Bowers Opposes

Notwithstanding the fact that the reception for Company D kept many away, there was a large crowd at the Parish hall Friday night to hear the joint debate on Socialism between G. C. Gilliland of this city and F. H. Bowers, professor of the University of Wisconsin. The history of the Burley public schools. Each side presented his side with ability. H. N. Coulter was chairman of the meeting. Professor H. G. Wood of the public schools had been asked to preside, but as he was also invited to preside over the reception for Company D which was held in the High School auditorium, he felt it proper to accept the invitation to take charge of the reception when it was discovered that there was a conflict of dates.

The following is a summary of the most important arguments advanced by each of the subjects. Mr. Gilliland declared that socialism did not advocate the dividing up of the wealth and property of the world, giving each individual his pro rata share, but that its intent was to extend the powers of the state and throw into public ownership those utilities which constitute the backbone of a nation, and to retain the private ownership of all things private. He explained that the only real asset of any person or collection of persons was their productive power. He said there was two classes of true labor, one being mental, the other physical, and with the spoke of labor he did not exclude the mental workers, but that he nor any other true thinker gave his credit to the men whose mental efforts was utilized to manipulate the rise and fall of stocks and bonds and by so doing reap a profit that represented no productive effort on that man's part.

Mr. Gilliland stated that by removing the daily need of a struggle for mere existence that men's energy and intelligence could then be utilized and exercised along broader lines and greater things accomplished, that socialism embodied fraternalism, that man's intelligence was given him to distinguish him from other forms of animal life, and that it was not unreasonable to expect him, in the days having conquered all lower forms of life, to live in peace and harmony with his fellow man.

He did not deny that inequalities in ability exist today and always will exist, but said that under the socialist plan those inequalities would be leveled to such a point that would reap the full returns of such ability as he possessed and that instead of the strong dominating the weak, the weak would be uplifted and aided by the strong. Mr. Gilliland became aroused on this point and stated that this proposed under the present system of the strong to take advantage of the weak, and for the efforts of the weak to create the profits of the strong, was where was the trouble.

The three things that socialism would eliminate, according to Mr. Gilliland, were:—the profit, the wage, and the immediate family. Those are the items of the present system that give the bog-land in man an opportunity of expression, according to his argument. And it is his instinct that should be crushed out and abolished.

The following is the substance of Professor Bowers' argument: Socialism is idealistic and opposed to the nature of man. His theories ignore the individual and remove the incentive of working for a reward. Brotherhood is a good thing to advocate, but it is not human nature to expect him to do so without the immediate family. The greatest development of the world has ever known has been accomplished under the present system, that the stimulus of reward at the end of any protracted effort is the great incentive for men to do or die.

REPORT DEFENDS THE AMERICAN EXPORTER

National Trade Council Says False Impression Has Been Given by Magazine Articles

(United Press) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27.—By the way of informing the world that blunders made by American exporters are the exception rather than the rule the National Foreign Trade Council reported to the Fourth National Foreign Trade convention which closed there that the fragmentary reports made on American trade have given an erroneous impression. "The report said in part: "A situation has recently arisen affecting the reputation of American exporters which contains elements both of great danger and great loss. Certain American customs, commercial organizations and banks have done a useful service in sharply calling attention to specific deficiencies on the part of Americans in export trade. "In itself, this had done good; but it is apparent that many newspapers, magazines and individuals have used these specific complaints as the basis for generalizations highly discreditable to all American foreign trade. This generalization is untrue. This can be proven by citing that our export of manufactures nearly doubled between 1915 and 1916, a practically unparalleled expansion.

je will go back into jail again soon depends upon his own free will. For "Tom Brown" he it know, is Thomas Mott Osborne, prison reformer, famous warden of New York's famous penal institution at Sing Sing. He completed today a ten day "term" in the naval prison at the request of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who wanted a complete report on "convicts" in the prison and the feeling of the inmates—all of them enlisted sailors. With "Brown" for the ten day's convicts were Prof. John McCormick, professor of political science at Bowdoin University, and Harry Bolansky, Omaha's secretary. The three were treated exactly like other convicts in the prison. They wore the same clothes, ate the same food, did the same hard labor on the Portsmouth rock-piles—and no hint was given the convicts but that the trio were real "hard men" serving time like the rest of them. This is Osborne's third voluntary "term" in a prison to obtain first hand information as to conditions. His first "assignment" was at Auburn several years ago.

McMillan News (Times' Special Correspondence) Rex Hills, a brother of Fred Hills, from across Hook Creek, was a McMillanite this week. Mr. Hills is here from Minnesota, visiting with friends and relatives in the west, during the winter months. R. Griffith who spent several weeks back in Nebraska on a business and pleasure trip combined, returned home last week. The last of the sugar at the factory passed into the sacks last week, making in all about 240,000 sacks. Mrs. Roger Walshaw and son, Edward, who have spent the past six weeks visiting with Mr. Walshaw in Kansas City, returned home last week. It is said that L. D. Snyder, who owned a fine farm on the Kimberly road near Twin Falls, has sold his place, for about $250 an acre. This purchaser is not known. J. A. Marquis is another of our McMillanites to return from the east. He spent several weeks spent back with old home folks and relatives. Several friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Griffith one evening last week, eating pop corn and apples. The evening was spent socially and a good time was had by all. Those present were F. T. Brown and wife; D. F. Clark and wife; Isabelle and Sammy Clark; Barton Berthold, Leon and Bernard Martyn; besides the home folks; Mrs. Gertrude Valentine; Mrs. Fennie Nelson; Leroy and Charley Valentine and R. Griffith and wife. F. T. Brown was on the sick list last week, a victim of norouga in his face. Mrs. L. I. Jones, who spent the holidays in "Noborsk" has returned home. Several hundred head of beef cattle belonging to the Utah Construction company, being fed down at the factory on the beet pulp, were disposed of last week to cattle buyers. Henry Coppenhaver and wife, who took a pleasure trip back to Kansas City during the holidays, are expected home in the near future. Charles Overfield, a former McMillanite, was over from Edon transacting business here last week. A farewell dinner was given at the home of Grandma and Grandpa Wilson Sunday for the boys, Fred and Joe, who left for Montpelier to begin some time. Those present were: F. T. Brown and wife, Marion Berthold, Stewart Henderson and wife, Mrs. Cockson, and Miss Winifred Cockson.

COUNTY DIVISION WAS AN ELECTION ISSUE

It really seems strange, almost to the point of absurdity, that the question of a division of Twin Falls county should be receiving serious consideration by our legislators at Boise after the emphatic pronouncement by the people of this county at last November's election. But our editorial correspondence from the capital as well as two editorials from the same source, published herewith, indicate that such is actually the case.

Our correspondent sets forth a scene during the hearing of the division bill before the house committee on county lines and boundaries that well shows the desperate straits to which the divisionists are put in the endeavor to break the election as an anti-division argument.

It was solely for that purpose that the claim was there made that county division was not an issue in that election, and going so far as to say that Senator Attention was not allowed to be opposed there.

This is all so flimsy that it should be futile. Nothing—not even "preparation" was so much referred to in the county press, nor so much canvassed by the voters, as was the question of dividing this fair county. It was a vote-taker—a shillbottle, so far as the candidates for the legislature were concerned. Not one of them could help declaring himself; and if one who is known to have had "opposed to county division" printed in his campaign literature did not get in getting votes from divisionists, he was "through," though he might have opposed the proposition—either that candidate is a monumental "pik-fixer," or those who thus voted, for his best treatment for the simplex.

Let only our doubter take one look at the election returns from this county: only one of the candidates for the house was an avowed divisionist—Mr. Fred Nihart—one of the best equipped, most experienced and, personally, most popular gentlemen in the county. What was the result? Why he received a total of 1338 votes, while his lowest competitor (also defeated) received 3493, and his highest (whose name happened to be in my column for the ticket scratcher) received 3950 votes! Does that look as if the voters of this county were not making an honest count? Divisionists are not allowed to get in, and it should be determined against the divisionist measure with any legislator who believes that the fairly expressed will of the majority should prevail!

THE STATE SCHOOL SYSTEM.

A member of the state board of education the other day told the appropriations committee of the House that that committee should be guided largely by the recommendations made by the board.

It merely goes to show the limited amount of "news" some of these people can accumulate in public service. There is a board whose duty it is to spend, attempting to tell the legislature that it should be governed largely by the board's advice as to the amount to be provided for the board to spend during the next two years. It appears as though the person or persons who are to furnish this money are lost in the clouds.

The gentleman in question was informed rather bluntly that while the recommendations of the board were not to be regarded lightly, yet the principal thing to be considered was the ability of the people of the state to meet the ever increasing demands made upon them by the people who are concerned only with the spending of the money.

It is high time that the people who furnish the money be given at least the same consideration as the board that spends it.

All of which brings to attention the deplorable lack of intelligent arrangement of the state's educational system. At Moscow is located the state university, practically inaccessible from southern Idaho. At a state university, the Washington college. To get there from southern Idaho, one must pass through the states of Oregon and Washington. One must pass through Walla Walla, the home of the Whitman university, and by the big Washington school at Pullman. The state university is in direct competition with this school at Pullman, only a few miles distant, and one of the finest schools in the northwest. It is the rankest of folly to maintain two such institutions within a few miles of each other. South of Moscow a little ways is the normal school at Lewiston, also inaccessible from southern Idaho. The suggestion has been made that the normal be transferred to the university buildings at Moscow, and the university moved to southern Idaho. It is a sound suggestion, for the normal would not be in competition with the Washington college at Pullman, and northern Idaho would thus be served with both an excellent university, although a Washington school, and a strong normal, an Idaho institution.

In the southern part of the state we have an industrial school at Pocatello and a normal at Albion. The latter place is reached by stage from Burley, and can hardly be regarded as an ideal location geographically for a normal school. The normal could very advantageously be moved to Twin Falls, and a strong agricultural college built up in connection with it. The industrial school could either be consolidated with it or else maintained at Pocatello. Then with the university in the southern part of the state there it would have a wide field and be in competition with the work of another such institution in the same section, the educational system of the state would be established upon a basis that would warrant the expenditures required to keep such institutions up to good standards.

To appropriate huge sums for new buildings, to be added to so ill-planned a school system as exists, as present, seems the height of folly.

ELLEN UP TO DATE

Eleven division bills have been dropped into the legislative hopper and there is no reason to believe that there will not be more.

The county division disease strikes over night, and no town in the "stren" is exempt. All are expected to be notified in the night before, and the next day the town has got it and got it bad. There is no known cure. Probably three-fourths of the new proposed county seats did not catch it until after the legislature convened. The proposed new county has its delegation at the capital lobbying for it and the county to be amputated upon has another delegation out lobbying against it, and with eleven division bills in sight at one time, a little figuring will reveal that there are about twice as many lobbyists "for" and "against" invading the legislative halls as there are legislators.

All of which helps to make reasonable, intelligent legislation a matter of great first consideration, that anything to be expected. The momentum of exchange in the legislature is votes for and votes against this, that and the other county division scheme. Strange bed fellows are thus made and what is reasonable to expect does not materialize, and combinations that were not thought possible are quite common.

What is going to happen next is not known. In the meantime here are the proposed divisions compiled and brought down to yesterday morning. It is perfectly safe to regard it as complete!

They are: Yellowstone and Clark counties from Fremont county; Portneuf and Bear River from Blaine; Butte and Camas, from Blaine; Jefferson and Bingham; Buhl from Twin Falls; Payette, from Canyon; Nampa, from Canyon; Selway from Lewis and Idaho; Valley, from Boise and Idaho; Lake county, from Bonner and Kootenai.

COUNTIES A LA CARTE

If there is any town in the state with a population of a few hundred over a thousand that has overlooked the possibility of its becoming a county seat, it should sort in an order at once, preferably by wire. The Fourteenth Session is in that business. It has a good stock on hand, but could, in a pinch, create a few more county seats for ambitious towns with county seat yearnings.

In fact the demand has been so great that the legislature is seriously considering increasing its facilities for handling the business. To create new counties one by one is slow, inconvenient, and expensive and entirely out of line with present methods. But the legislature is not without ideas, and sufficiently broad to provide for possible means of dealing with the ever increasing demand.

To meet these pressing demands the time several-fifty minds have given birth to new ideas in the creating of counties. All the ideas look a good deal alike, nevertheless in the brothers. The gist of them is at the bottom of each is to fix it up with any town that aspires to become a county seat on an ahead and pattern out a county to suit itself without bothering the state legislature. In this way the authors of the bills feel they will relieve the congestion county seat bills in the legislature, and close the way for more important matters.

BILL PUTTING STATE BACK OF CAREY PROJECTS

HOUSE BILL WOULD IMPOSE NEW LIMITS ON STATE BOARD OF LAND COMMISSIONERS.

ALL SUITS TO BE INSTITUTED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Duty of Board Would Be To Do All Necessary to Secure Enforcement of Contracts Entered Into by The State of Idaho.

(Editorial Correspondence) BOISE, Jan. 29.—To get behind the Carey act projects in fact as well as in name, is the duty that will be imposed upon the state board of land commissioners if House Bill number 114, by a member of the Twin Falls delegation, becomes a law. The bill carries an appropriation of ten thousand dollars to make it effective.

Under the provisions of this bill there would be no more "settlers' suits," no more arbitrary rule of Carey act by construction companies; and such acts, trouble generally, will be squarely upon the board the duty of doing "any and all things necessary to secure the enforcement of the terms and provisions of all contracts entered into by the state under the Carey act laws, and requires the attorney general to institute and maintain such suits or actions, so as to institute all suits or actions that may be required in behalf of the settlers, to determine their interests under any contract made by or under any contract between the settlers and the promotion company where the provisions of such contracts are more defective than those approved by the state." It requires the attorney general to defend against the claims of the promoters of the state or of the settlers, that may have been or may hereafter be instituted by the "promotion" companies of such suits or actions, and to pay by the state and ten thousand dollars is appropriated to cover the additional expense to which the state will be put to carry out the provisions of the act.

The bill carries an emergency clause to put it into effect immediately upon passage, and upon approval by the governor, instead of awaiting the statutory time of sixty days. The governor, who generally opposes to appropriate the money, is known to be favorable to the bill as drawn, and will no doubt seek that the bill be passed and signed in his message to the legislature, the governor said.

The attorney general ought to be required by law to bring all suits that may be required in behalf of the settlers to determine their interests under any contract made by the state, and the state should pay the court costs of all such litigation. More or less trouble has come from Carey act contracts entered into by the state. Very often the difficulty has not been serious and has been easily adjusted. But from some of the projects there has been no end of trouble, due to various causes. In the case of the Big Lost River, King Hill, West-End and others, financial difficulties prevented the promoters from completing those projects, with tremendous losses resulting to the settlers who had been induced to take-up lands. Because the Carey act operations are under the direction of the state, and because state officials have represented that the state stood back of the settlers who took up lands, and would fully protect their interests, large numbers of people from the Middle West were made believe to invest in lands on those projects, only to learn, as one after another of those schemes went to the wall, that the state would not stand back of them. Successful land brokers denied responsibility for the misdoings of the past, and the investor who thought he had been backed of them, have discovered that they stand alone, backed by poorly drawn contracts, full of loop holes, and confronted with foreclosing actions.

Other causes resulted in the ill-fated Carey act projects, and the state itself has been responsible by virtue of the negligence of its officials.

Consequently, to ruin the settlers on many of these projects have organized to protect their mutual interests, and on the other projects where attempts to organize were unsuccessful, through the cooperation of these promoters to save what might be saved from the wreck.

It is not meant that all Carey act operations in Idaho have been probably failures in fact the successes probably outnumber the ventures that have turned out badly. But the audacious reputation Idaho has received as the result of its irrigation failures, and the failure of the state to assume any degree of responsibility, even to the extent of making any serious attempt to enforce its contracts, has detracted from the benefits the state could be received from the success of such projects as the Twin Falls-South Side.

The proposition now to be put the state to exactly the position people were given to understand it was in when they were induced to take up Idaho lands, to make the state the guardian of the interests of the settlers. The proposed law makes it the duty of the state to enforce the terms and provisions of the contracts between them into, and if law suits are necessary to secure this result, the attorney general is directed to bring them. If litigation is necessary to enforce any portions of these contracts, or those the companies have made with settlers, it becomes the state's duty to carry on litigation, if any of the companies seek to oppress the settlers on their projects, or to require or demand that the terms and provisions of the contracts be enforced. If any of the companies becomes the duty of the state to interfere and protect the settlers' interests.

The bill also provides on several of the projects are involved in all sorts of complications that will require action by the courts to iron out the bill carries with it an appropriation of ten thousand dollars which can be used by the board in any manner it deems advisable to carry out the provisions of the act.
