CHANDLER SIX $1395

There Is No Other Six Like This For Anything Like This Price

THE Chandler offers intrinsic value greater than other cars for which you are asked to pay much more. Greater value in materials, design, equipment, and, above all else, in the dependable and enduring service of its marvelous motor.

You may say it is easy to make such a claim for the Chandler. It is. And IT IS EASY TO PROVE SUCH A CLAIM FOR THE CHANDLER.

Year-old Chandlers command as high or higher price in the used-car market than year-old cars of other makes selling, when new, for two or three hundred dollars more.

Could any further evidence be asked, to prove Chandler leadership in value? It wouldn't seem so, but let's make thorough inquiry.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you a motor which has been developed, refined and perfected throughout four years of conscientious manufacture and not subjected to radical changes or experimental devices? None.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you such a proven mechanism as the whole Chandler chassis? None.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you all those features characteristic of the highest priced, high-grade cars—Bosch high-tension magneto; solid cast aluminum motor base, extending from frame to frame; big silent chains instead of noisy gears for driving the motor shafts; full floating and silent spiral bevel gear rear axle and light running annular ball bearings in transmission, differential and rear wheels? None.

What other make of car at anything like the Chandler price offers you more beautiful and comfortable bodies than the Chandler? None.

Chandler policy has always kept the Chandler price low. Relatively it is lower today, when so many prices have been inflated, than ever before.

DELICATE TINTS WILL PLEASE SPUD EATERS

Pintoerata Who Can Afford Potato Breakfast Will Have Falry Palace To Eat In.

The Episcopalian diners at the coming potato breakfast at the Hotel Roger-son will find in the soft attractiveness of the tint tones a powerful tendency toward harmonious relations among themselves. The whole effect on entering the dining hall is so happy that it is only by close attention that the reason for it can be ascertained. The light shades of cream on the ceiling deepen toward the floor and gradually evolve into a neutral tone at the table. Moreover, the shading depends on the points of view. When from one viewpoint the ceiling seems from another is greenish and from another yellowish. There are six coats of different tints, one over the other and all polished in turn to the same degree that a piano is polished. In the columns which stand out over the room are high lights of old rose. The hull painting and poling does not differ from that of the dining room except that the lights will be golden instead of old rose.

The work was done under the supervision of K. A. Wright, who recently came to this city from Los Angeles, where he spent eighteen years. Mr. Wright had ten men for twelve days working on the dining room alone. He is at present making his headquarters in the temporary quarters in a building already erected or built out of his own. He is also a piano polisher and says that he needs a large room for that sort of business.

There were about forty members present and all elected a genuine interest in the affairs of the club, which augers well for the future usefulness of that organization. The following officers were elected: Thomas Clinton, president; N. O. Thompson, vice president; Russ W. Alfred, treasurer; B. R. Tillery, J. W. Far, W. H. Harvey and H. L. Sharr, directors. neighbors—Wednesday evening. A hundred people or more wended their way toward the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Evans, their selected victims, who are soon to move to the Twin Falls tract. They were equal to the occasion, all were made welcome, and a good time was the result. It is a matter of regret to have these good people leave us as they are a credit to any community. We hope our trouble on this tract will be adjusted before long so they will find it to their advantage to return to their beautiful home on the Salmon.

TO DANCE, OR NOT TO DANCE?
Really, the leading purpose of these lines is not to try to answer the foregoing question, either as to the ethics of dancing as a social pastime, or as to its admission to our public-school building—although the latter, even if not at all closely adhered to, was the putative cause for and subject of, discussion there the largely attended gathering at the high school auditorium last Friday evening. It is rather by that gathering itself, by the character and trend of the speaking, heard there and by the apparent influence of all-upon our community, that these reflections are inspired.

The mere fact of such a gathering at such a place and for such a purpose, constitutes a testimonial to the alert interest of the people of Twin Falls in a question of public morals which in particular that can not be too highly praised nor commended. And it would also seem that a public opinion of the right sort would be the result of a public or semi-public question like the one here under consideration, must make for enlightened understanding, both general and individual—and therefore for good! But was such the case in the present instance, and if not, why not? Of the many men and women present was there a single one whose preconceived opinion was modified or changed by what they there heard—and was the spirit within each left the meeting a pleasant, generous and tolerant one, or the opposite?

We greatly fear that, in the interest of truth, all the foregoing questions must be answered by the negative; but as to the why and why not, the response is not so certain, so simple nor so easy. Two words, however, will go further in this direction than all the rest of the English language—They are: Prejudice and Intolerance—and especially the latter.

It has been said often and truly—that prejudice yields to no argument; but even prejudice can be modified, if not modified, so it was that when speakers at this meeting quietly told their experience and conclusions therefrom, finding each hearer's opinion unchallenged and unopposed, all was well. There is not necessarily, any intolerance connected with honest difference of opinion—never, so long as each person recognizes human fallibility, but when real intolerance takes the floor—when manner, tones and language proclaim that there is no truth and doubt is worse than a lie, and will surely be damned and well deserved it—when this comes to an individual or to an assemblage, at the meeting or anywhere, all chance for consideration upon the merits is gone, active antagonism is aroused and the fighting spirit of unregenerate humanity holds full sway.

Perhaps this should not be so, but it is, has ever been and will probably continue to be until the millennium. And that briefest era, for the coming of which all Christian churches and peoples are looking and working and praying, will never be advanced by the spirit or the practice of intolerance upon the part of saint or sinner, priest or layman.

And now another great liner, the Laconia, carrying some three hundred passengers, is due here tomorrow morning by the German Pacific, resulting in dire misery and loss of life. Thank heaven the day of note-writing is past; and it hardly seems possible that Congress can now quibble over the precise terms of any legislation that authorizes all possible protection to American commerce and American lives.

It hardly seems possible that the proposed postal-card primary election bill will become law. The idea of voting into the postoffice? What's the matter with the telephone?

NEED FOR LABOR COMMISSIONER

Looking over the provisions of the statute as they stand, there appears to be little need for a labor commissioner. The labor commissioner thinks that there is when he sees that the job is annihilated. However, since the statute was enacted, a new situation has arisen. The labor commissioner of the old private employment agencies and the establishment of municipal agencies to take their place. There is a need for a labor commissioner. A clearing house for the state and county, where a surplus of workmen in one part of the state could find jobs in another would prove a blessing to both employer and employee. Work could be performed by the labor commissioner and would be worth more than his salary. At the same time it is his working with and through the local public agencies as indicated, he could with the same general object in view co-operate with the United States department of agriculture.

FREE LECTURES ON WORLD EVENTS.

Twin Falls is to be favored with a strong evangelistic campaign, conducted by Taylor G. Bunch of Portland, Ore., and Franklin D. Wagner of Boise. These men come to us highly recommended as able and interesting speakers, because they deal with the great world events now transpiring in the light of Bible revelation. Their lectures are nearly all illustrated, dealing with Bible prophecy and doctrine in a very clear and comprehensible manner. Messrs. Bunch and Wagner will be assisted by a competent corps of workers who will assist in making the meetings a success in every way. The effort of these men is to make us free from mental enslavement, and denunciation of those who differ with them in belief. Instead, their lectures will be given in the hope of bringing us to a common ground, and will continue every evening at 8 o'clock Saturday. Mr. Coleman, of Seattle, a bass vo-

French, pastor of Ancon Episcopal church, this city, is spending the week at Rupert, conducting a Lenten mission. Mrs. H. J. Davis and daughter, Electa, left the latter part of the week to spend some time in Los Angeles and other California points. Mrs. Anna Campbell, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. James Brown, who is convalescing in a local hospital, returned to her home at Gooding. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Longley, who spent last week at Salt Lake and San Francisco, have fled further south and are holidaying this week in Los Angeles. Paul Yeager returned from Kansas City, where he has been for the past three months attending the automobile school. He is in the city for some time there, enjoying his work but was sure glad to get back to Idaho. J. K. Buckley, of Alhambra, formerly of Twin Falls, was in the city for a few days last week. Mr. Buckley is the fireman on the branch from Alhambra to Bliss and was in the blizzard for ten hours, suffering from the cold and exposure to considerable extent, which compelled him to consult a physician in Twin Falls.

Dr. Fletcher, State Superintendent, Visits Twin Falls On His Charitable Mission.
Reverend Dr. John W. Fletcher, superintendent of the Children's Home and Aid Society of Idaho, was in the city last week. He had in his charge little Olive Armitage, a ward of the society, who had not the loss of an eye in infancy and had been temporarily at her home in Haysburg, because imperfect vision had prevented her from attending her studies at the Home. While in Twin Falls the child was fitted with a glass eye through the generosity of Dr. R. A. Parrot, a local optician, and from here was to be taken to the hospital for the blind at Gooding for treatment toward the recovery of full use of her remaining visual organ. The institution under Dr. Fletcher's supervision, which is maintained by the state at a moderate cost, and the assistance of the community, is and has been a power for good among the orphaned and indigent children of the state. During the last year it cared for fifty-five children, and this year on hand at the present time. As this name indicates, its great work is placing its wards in permanent and good homes. From time to time about thirty-five have been so placed in Twin Falls County—perhaps a dozen of them having been given a home during the last year. This work, we understand, is hastened and forward by the placing of its wards in permanent homes, so some of our local communities consisting of well-to-do ladies of our community. Needy orphans are also found, as well as placed heretofore prospective wards of the society now waiting here for transportation to the Home, so some of our well-to-do and you cannot afford to pass them by.

Legal, But Startling—A Twin Falls kid, between three and four years of age, made a deduction from the text of the catechism that had been brought to his notice that was startling, even logical. Col. W. B. Lee will conduct the sale.
A Correction—In the announcement last week of the death of John Henry Nervo, at Syracuse, New York, a wrong date was given. This rare old pioneer died on Feb. 14, 1917; was born June 20, 1829, and was therefore well advanced in years at the death of a busy and useful life. He married Lydia M. Newton in 1844; and for more than fifty-eight years she lived with him. She died in 1911, leaving one of the sons of the deceased, Mr. Fred E. Nervo (he has dropped the "h" from the patronymic) is a well known resident of this city and of Phoenix, Arizona, as the Syracuse paper stated.
The Jorgenson Cafe was removed one day last week from its old to its new, more convenient and commodious quarters. This removal was hastened by necessity, comprising the new building for occupancy by the new Salsar Emporium, and was therefore made under great disadvantages. The room being well equipped, the new kitchen not ready for occupancy, but under the skillful management of Mrs. Arrol, the transfer was effected without incident, and no permitting a customer to know that service was being had from the distant and partially dismantled kitchen. This was in a now approach to completion and the cafe will be in full feather to welcome the Potato Break fast, March 21st, as its first real function. That will be followed by the near future, by a really well-society event—one at which the "four hundred" will come to the front in full regalia.

Legislation—The bill introduced by Judge Leaverton, providing for the voting of $20,000 of state money in addition to the $50,000, voted by Twin Falls county and the Hilldale district, for the Hanson bridge.

ALFRED PROPOSES RADICAL CHANGE OF PRIMARY LAW

A VARIETY OF MORE OR LESS USEFUL LEGISLATION CONSIDERED BY THE HOUSE

CITIES AND COUNTIES MAY TAKE STOCK IN FAIRS

Forestry Industry Promoted—Auto-Mobile Licenses Considered—Warnings at Railroad Crossings—Minimum Wage Law for Women.

(Editorial Correspondence)

BOISE—Declaring the primary election system in Idaho to be a failure from the standpoint of expense and from the standpoint of securing an expression of the choice of the voters of the state, the house Monday afternoon, vigorously scored the present method of party nominations. He placed the estimated total cost of the primary at $400,000, the average cost per vote in the primary election in Idaho at $2.55, and the lowest cost per vote in the outlying districts of the state at $4.60. Speaker Alfred stated that in one precinct in Jefferson county ran as high as twenty dollars. The total vote cast in the last primary was 406, the average cost $1.45, which amount was actually spent by the committee for election supplies, and expenses.

A special price election in the plan Alfred advocated as a suitable substitute for the present system. He explained that the bill had introduced, was the result of a five-months' investigation, and that it was prepared in collaboration with several of the leading attorneys of the state. It later had been submitted to many people in different sections of Idaho, he said, and whatever defects had been discovered were corrected. He hoped that the measure would finally be incorporated in his measure fully safeguarding the safety of the ballot, as well as its secrecy. If this act becomes a law it will be the duty of the county auditor to supply every registered elector in the county with a printed ballot and other necessary forms, and to receive the close of nominations. The electors may retain these ballots in their homes for several days, giving their selection of candidates full consideration. When finally determined upon his choice for all of the offices to be filled, he seals his ballot in an envelope that has no distinguishable marks, and places this seal's envelope, except with a stamped statement to the effect that he has not been unduly influenced in marking his ballot and that he has done so in private in an envelope which he seals and mails to the county auditor. Alfred estimates the total cost per vote in securing a preferential primary. This is the only primary that has a voting population of ten thousand. Of this amount two-thirds is for the printed supplies; the balance being for the clerk, clerks and other expenses of the board of canvassers.

The proposed new system is admitted to be a radical departure and material support had not the speaker presented it so clearly and convincingly. Satisfactorily and completely meeting all objections, upon final roll call there was but one vote cast against the proposed change, the one dissenting vote being that of Representative.

House joint resolution No. 10, by Daughters, Johnson and Lucas, submitting to the senate the next session the question of reducing the number of legislators in both house and senate to twenty-one, but retaining the present mode of election. Of the Twin Falls delegation Barker and Sims voted for the resolution, Hansen against.

A proposed amendment submitting to the senate the question of giving cities and counties the authority to become stockholders in and to give financial assistance to any association not organized for pecuniary profit, was passed under suspension of the rules. There was very little opposition to this.

The protection of sheriffs in levying upon property under attachment is the object of house bill 233, which, after coming up for final passage, referred to the committee of the whole for amendment. The purpose of this bill is to make it obligatory on the part of the owners of the property to notify the sheriff within a reasonable time that an exemption is claimed upon the property. Under the present law the sheriff is usually made the risk of attempting property that is exempt and becoming liable for so doing, despite the fact that oftentimes he can not determine whether or not the property proposed to be attached is exempt. The bill as amended provides that the sheriff, in such property should give notice within three days, but it is probable that this will be extended to five or ten days. There will also be an effort made to have the law amended so as to require that a notice to the effect that the sheriff is satisfied with the return in this time, any claim of exemption will be waived, be printed plainly upon the papers served by the sheriff on the owner.

Bates' optometry bill regulating the practice of optometry and providing a self-sustaining board of optometry, passed the house by unanimous vote. This bill provides that no person under twenty-one years of age shall practice optometry and no license shall be granted to any person who has not had the equivalent of two years' high school education and is a graduate of a recognized school of optometry or else has studied for at least three years under such a graduate. Another measure that was passed during the session of the house was a ten year tax exemption on tracts which have been set out to hardwood trees, the purpose being to promote the forestry industry of the north by planting of trees.

The extent of the exemption that can be claimed under the state's homestead exemption is reduced from $5000 to $2000 by house bill 196 by Bates, which, passed Tuesday afternoon. Another material change made in this law is that which places all homes and residences under the homestead exemption net whether a declaration of such claimed exemption is filed with the county auditor or not. Heretofore only those filing such claims were entitled to that exemption. Of the Twin Falls delegation, Barker and Sims voted for the measure, Barker being absent.

Laws governing automobile licenses occupied a large part of the time of the house Tuesday afternoon. There were under consideration two bills: one, 165 by Johnson and Anderson for Canyon county, the other, 173 by Moody. The latter proposed to reduce the cost of licenses on cars of twenty hours power or less, to $25; 25 h. to $10; 20 h. to $12.50; 15 h. to $15, and over 35 h. to $45. Motorcycles were to be reduced to $3. The other bill retained the present schedule, but licenses for motorcycles are reduced from $35 to $15. Moody claimed that the reduction of the schedule was warranted by the increased use of automobiles for business purposes, and especially by the farmers' classes. "On the other hand," he stated, "the law contained that there was very little dissatisfaction with the present schedule and that the owners generally were willing to contribute these amounts for the maintenance of the roads. He stated that the only serious objection that has been raised to the present statute was the provision that required the payment of a license for a full year even though the owner could not enjoy the use of the car during that period. Johnson pointed out that his bill corrected this feature by providing that after August 1 licensees should be bound for one-half of the schedule fee for the balance of the year, and that after November 1 for one-fourth of that fee. The new bill also provides that applications for licenses shall be "the date when the applicant took possession of such vehicle as owner under contract of purchase or gift, or otherwise." It requires that a corporation or person selling an automobile shall notify the county treasurer of such sale. After January 1, 1918, the act becomes a law, the state will furnish two tags with each license, one of which must be displayed upon the front of the vehicle. Special tags are provided for motorcycles.

Tuesday morning the house had under discussion a bill by the electric regulating committee, cities and highway districts to install metal disc warning signals on all roads approaching railroad crossings, and that the public utilities commission could require the railroad company to install similar signals on roads approaching more dangerous crossings. The act would have made it a misdemeanor for any person to fail to stop his machine completely when approaching such a crossing, and in case of accident by reason of such failure to stop it became prima facie evidence of carelessness on the part of the driver. The bill was objected to by a member of the Twin Falls delegation on the grounds that it would reduce the railroad company of the necessity of maintaining automatic warning signals at the more dangerous crossings. The act without such automatic warning signals, people being accustomed to use such crossings frequently will be tempted to endeavor to bring their car to a complete stop, and in case of accident they would have no recourse on the railway company. The bill was defeated, Barker and Sims voting against it and Hansen being excused from voting. Later in the day the vote by which it was defeated was reconsidered upon a measure being given by the author that the objections would be corrected. The bill will be amended to empower the public utility commission to require the installation of automatic devices on certain crossings, and the provision requiring automobiles to come to a full stop at such crossings except when the signal indicates a train to be approaching, will be eliminated.

A measure in which the women of the state have shown much interest was passed by the house Tuesday afternoon by a vote of 69 to 3. It is a minimum wage law for women. Under the terms it is unlawful to employ women over eighteen years of age in telephone or telegraph exchanges, factories, mercantile establishments, factories, or offices at a wage less than $3 per week, except where such workers are physically incapacitated from securing a livelihood from their private source. It sets a minimum of $1.00 per week for the first three months, $1.50 for the next three months, and $2.00 for the following three months. All three members of the Twin Falls delegation voted for the bill. Another bill has been introduced in the senate amending the present nine-hour day law for women, making it eight hours.

A resolution relating to the division of the state was amended in the committee of the whole, Monday night, moving the proposed boundary further north and was recommended for passage by a vote of 41 to 13. Hansen was the only one of the Twin Falls delegation voting against the resolution.

Increased Cost of Milk. That the high cost of living may be reduced by the increased use of milk, a highly nutritious and digestible food, is the opinion of A. E. Perkins, dairy chemist of the Idaho experiment station. He says that a quart of milk is equal in food value to three-fourths of a pound of beefsteak, eight eggs, 10 pounds of oysters, two pounds of fish, six pounds of tomatoes, or three pounds of apples, and the milk is more easily digested and far more economical than any other food.

KIMBERLY MEETING PROVES A SUCCESS

Many Gather at Two Day Farmers Institute and Exchange Views—Many Join Farm Bureau.

The farm bureau idea proved popular in Kimberly when presented there Wednesday by Dr. John E. White, president of the county organization and practically everybody present was eligible. The whole meeting proved successful during the entire two days. On Wednesday County Agent W. Birch opened the proceedings with a lecture on the control of potato disease, which was delivered at 10 o'clock. The afternoon session was opened by Dr. W. A. Sullivan who spoke on hog cholera control. This was followed by Dr. White's address on the farm bureau. The meeting for the day closed with a talk on the production of clover seed by Joseph Thometz.

On Thursday, County Agent Birch opened with an address on the control of grasshoppers. The afternoon session was given over to a talk on sugar beet production by Joseph Quinney, chief agriculturist of the Amalgamated Sugar company. Mr. Quinney was unable to be present, resulting from the snow, and Dr. White, who is also president of the Twin Falls County Agricultural Association, addressed the farmers and asked them not to sign contracts with the company until they at least get slight details for fifteen per cent beetle. White said that it had come to him in a round about way that the company would sign for this price if they could not do better. P. D. Johnson, agent for the company asked where White got this information and the latter said that he was reported to have come from Johnson, through his brother to E. E. Heaton.

Professor R. H. Musser then spoke of livestock and its relation to profitable farming, after which Dr. White closed the meeting with a talk on the federal farm loan system. A number of women attended all the sessions. Miss Ann Kelly, who has charge of the home economics department of the high school, presided. Wednesday afternoon a special women's meeting was held. The meeting was pronounced a success by all who attended.

HIGH SCHOOL DANCING VOTED

Those who believed that their children should dance should see to it that they had an opportunity to do so. They should not prevent them from doing so, and if they could not stop them, they should send for the prohibition officer. He introduced Superintendent Guy C. Manning, of the Dual high school, who followed for affirmative from the point of view of the school.

Superintendent Manning said personally he had never danced, did not believe in it, and if he could stop it everywhere, he would do so, but he recognized by experience that it could not be stopped by himself and by regulating it in proper channels. For six years he had tried the experiment of the Dual high school, who followed for affirmative from the point of view of the school. Superintendent Manning said personally he had never danced, did not believe in it, and if he could stop it everywhere, he would do so, but he recognized by experience that it could not be stopped by himself and by regulating it in proper channels. For six years he had tried the experiment of the Dual high school, who followed for affirmative from the point of view of the school.

He was installing a moving picture machine in the hall. Many had gone wrong through attending movie shows where "immoral" pictures were shown. But "any person why the motion picture should not be used in a proper manner." Like the dance it was good or bad according to the circumstances.

Professor Edward Anderson, of Springfield, Ill., and father-in-law of Rev. C. U. Butler, who is here visiting, was called on to represent the negative for the schools. Professor Anderson said that he was not familiar with the Dual high school, but that the experiment as tried in the Springfield schools had proven a failure. He had been a teacher many years. Later he had been a principal of the high school board. Three years ago the parent-teachers association had decided to allow dancing in the evening at the public school. They had promised to properly supervise the dances. They did so during the first two years, but on the third only one teacher and no parent appeared. Presently three boys with liquor came. Others took some of the liquor and the affair got out of hand. The teacher, who had three boys about midnight took three girls to a cafe and the girls did not get home until 4 o'clock in the morning.

The result had proven disastrous. He said that while it would be impossible to get "walking" there, he believed that to dance the schools unwise and liable to lead to bad results. Children usually attended the high school, and the school authorities at this period the passions were awakening and it was dangerous to arouse them as they would be aroused by the dance. He believed that conditions among the boys in Springfield, as revealed to him by reputable physicians was terrible. Fifty per cent were suffering from disease, according to the medical authorities in the city. He described the sort of parties which he held at his home for his children, in which no dancing was allowed. He believed that they had just as good a time as they could have at dances.

Rev. L. D. French who spoke in behalf of the ministry in the affirmative, said that he had not expected and did not intend to enter into the consideration of this matter in the affirmative. He believed that people should understand another better and love one another more. That was the message of the Bible. It could not say that he favored dancing in the high school, as there were so many interests involved. He did believe in a proper form of amusement. Like Mr. Harman he had once been a dancer, but otherwise his own experience was against it. He would permit the dance under proper regulations. The highest intellectual ages had always maintained the dance. It had not grown in popularity during the Renaissance. It was part of social education. The dance had been indulged in by all religions so long as it was kept in its proper place. He had attended a religious service in the Virginia mountains where there were dancing and "kicking" was being done in a dance hall. He expressed regret that people had laughed when Professor Anderson suggested that if dancing were permitted, the boys should dance with boys and girls with girls. That was the improper way and led to conditions denounced by St. Paul as "the reprobatum." He cited Dr. Elliott of the state normal school approving of the purpose of the Parish Hall and Dr. Harman was strongly in favor of dancing under proper restrictions.

Dr. J. J. Shephard, pastor of the First Baptist church, said that the ministry against the innovation. He asserted that the only dances mentioned in scriptures were "the religious dances of mere men and the religious dances of the ministry." He said he had heard to build up the morals of the people and improper influences should be removed. He believed that the benefits of dancing were slight. Many who begin to dance lightly get started on the wrong path and go from there to worse. He believed that dancing was a supposed innocent game. Great religious leaders of all ages opposed the promiscuous dancing. He believed that the church should have specifically denounced it. The membership of the Christian church opposed it. The Baptist church had always stood strongly against it. Dr. Shephard quoted several bishops of the Episcopal church who opposed it. He believed that a scathing attack on the practice from the Baptist Quarterly Review. With reference to the Catholic church he read an excerpt from the cyclical letter to the Irish bishops by Pope Leo XIII, whom he characterized as "The highest pontiff since the apostles." In which the continental dances then being introduced in Ireland were denounced. He said that the dance was against the best interests of the human moral education and health. He represented six evangelical churches in Twin Falls. He read a letter from Rev. S. H. Hittling of the First Baptist church who stated that his church opposed the modern dances; also a father-teacher paper from Byron, N. D., which expressed the opinion of the church in regard to dancing. He declared that so careful were the people in regard to hurting the religious feelings of others, that they barred the Bible from the schools. He proposed to turn them over to dancing, which in the words of one church member "creates an unhealthy atmosphere among the people," something that they had no right to do.

Mrs. P. W. McRoberta, chairman of the high school association, who presided announced that while the vote taken by the postal referendum was being taken, the meeting was open to discussion or discussion. She said that they had not received the cards. Mrs. White said that she had sent cards to all, but a few might have failed in delivery. She sent cards to all the parents on the list furnished by Professor Downman. D. M. Denton said that it was evident that only about 100 of those on the list had voted. He believed that all the parents were interested. He was both a father of children and a tax payer. He felt that it was his constitutional right to be heard. If the majority there wanted dancing in the schools well and good, if not it should not take the floor. He moved that the votes received on the card referendum be not counted unless a vote of those present be taken instead.

Judge F. E. Chamberlain opposed the taking of the sentiment of the meeting on the ground that this was an association meeting and that he was not a candidate for mayor and suggested that certain conventions had been packed before and might be again by those interested. Mr. Anderson wanted to speak against dancing in behalf of the Baptist church. Denton said his motion and insisted on a vote. D. H. Whelan said that he was not a tax payer and had no children in the high school. He believed that the proper regulation would be elastic. The vote, Denton answered affirmatively. Whelan then said that he would vote and while on his feet he would give his attitude. He had always danced. This dancing had been done both in and out of school. Under proper regulations he believed it a good thing for some amusement. However, he recognized the fact that others thought differently and since it was not a public necessity that this would carry he could vote against it because he was opposed to adopting anything not absolutely necessary against which a strong minority, or even a single individual, had sincere conscientious objections. Some time ago Probation Officer Ormsby had advocated the establishment of a regulated dance hall in connection with the swimming pool.

The speaker believed that, if this were understood by the contributors to the fund, they would be more generous. He said that the idea of Rev. George W. Orster moved as a substitute to the Denton motion that the vote taken on ratification be counted and that a vote of the assembly also be taken, and that neither be binding, but both submitted to the school board as indicative of the trend of public opinion. Mr. Grandholm said all the speakers only scratched the surface. He estimated that Denton was seeking the effort of mayor and playing for votes. He said he believed all the taxpayers should be consulted. He said that to eliminate the evils in morals it was necessary to abolish the profit system. At this point he was shut off on a point of order, parliamentary squabble, the motion was put and carried. Professor Downman, J. S. Keel and Misses Sitter and Warrington were appointed to count the ballots. The result showed fifty-six to ninety-nine on the referendum. The vote of the crowd went the same way and the meeting adjourned.

PRESIDENT PLANS ACTING ALONE

However, the Germans are steadily resting with large guns mounted on railway trucks which enable them to retreat quickly before the British advance. The Germans have blown up strong defenses which indicate that they are retreating to what they consider a stronger line of works.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Wilson before a joint session of congress yesterday appointed for a specific grant of power to arm merchant ships and to take other means, if necessary, to protect American lives and interests on the high seas. The president cited the determination of Germany to continue the ruthless submarine warfare and, recounting a series of offenses against neutral ships, February 8, said that the time had come when "the United States must be prepared to act with power to act without congress but wanted that body with him. If an act now proposing or contemplating war, or steps leading to it," he said, "but merely request that you accord me by vote, definite withdrawal of the means and authority to safeguard in practice the rights of a great people at peace and desirous of exchanging the burials of peace."

President Wilson said he hoped that the warring nations would not misunderstand him, as he was sincerely for peace, and added that he believed that the people of the country were willing to trust him with the power he sought, being assured that it would

Washington and the Telephone

Can you imagine "the Father of his Country" using a telephone?
Can you fancy his friends calling him by telephone on February 22nd to wish him "many happy returns of the day?"
How greatly comprehensive telephone service would have multiplied Washington's ability at the head of the Continental Army! How it would have simplified his duties as the chief executive of our new-born Nation!
The telephone is still young, but it serves the public to an extent that would have been beyond the conception of Washington's day and generation.
So intimately has the telephone won its way into the very lives of the people of today, that a general cessation of the service would be nothing less than a national calamity.
By the way, has it been noticed that while every other commodity has been steadily raising in price, and while the cost of materials required in the furnishing of telephone service is constantly increasing, telephone rates in general have remained the same?
Gradually the margin between our total revenues and our operating costs has narrowed until the lines are too close for comfort.
Washington was a servant of the public; but he was never confronted with the problem of maintaining public service with a fixed rate of income; and trying to make this balance with steadily increasing costs.
