SHAKE-UP IN MANAGEMENT OF FARM BUREAU

DIRECTOR SCHOLTZ SUMMARILY REMOVED AND NEW MANAGER APPOINTED

SENATOR SAYS REMOVAL 'BASIS OF GOVERNOR'S ATTEMPT TO MAKE HIM LAY DOWN IN HIS FIGHT AGAINST FOOD SPECULATORS'

When W. C. Scholtz, director of the Farm Markets Bureau, read a memo paper on afternoon last week, he was not a little surprised to learn that he had been removed from office...

The senator's policy, it seems, in making appointments is to require at the time of the appointment, the intended resignation of the appointee...

Mr. Scholtz, in a public statement, scores the governor bitterly, and says his removal is the result of his fight against the food speculators...

The governor finally made the threat that unless I went over to the legislature and signed the bill, I would be out of office in six months...

As to the accuracy of Director Scholtz's charges against the government, it is known locally that the bureau, under Mr. Scholtz's management, has won the confidence of the farmers...

Mr. Scholtz was active during the last session of the legislature in his support of farm measures, which were largely copies of the drastic farm laws which had been passed...

It was thought that would be the removal of Scholtz, said a member of the Twin Falls delegation...

CITY MANAGER PLAN PROPOSED FOR TWIN FALLS

NEW LAW PASSED BY LEGISLATURE MAKES NEW FORM OF GOVERNMENT OPTIONAL

COMMISSIONERS INSTEAD OF COUNCIL TO GOVERN

Election May Be Called From Sixty to Ninety Days After Filing of Petition Asking For Admission of Question.

Does Twin Falls want to try the "City Manager Plan"—the new form of city government that has worked out so successfully in several eastern and middle-western cities, and which the last legislature made optional with Idaho cities having a population of over 2500?

Under this plan the office of mayor is dispensed with, and a business manager substituted, the manager being selected by the five commissioners who replace the present council. The commissioners are not restricted to their own city, or even state, in choosing their city manager, but may, and as practiced in the east and middle west, generally do so far afield to get the man they want. Such a man is usually one who has devoted many years of study to municipal affairs and who has had long experience in the management of municipal utilities, such as municipally owned water works, gas, lighting and power plants. His business is to be an expert in his line of work, and to gain recognition in his field accordingly.

It is at once to be seen that the plan is concerned on the system in operation in all of the successful corporations of the country, the five commissioners corresponding to the board of directors, and the city manager to the general manager of the corporation. The city manager's job depends upon the right kind of results, and should, and is far removed from the influence of local partisan politics.

Each of the commissioners is assigned to a special department of the city government, and is supposed to keep himself thoroughly in touch with his branch of the city administration, although the actual management of every department is directly under the city manager. Where departments, as classified by the new law, are: Public affairs, accounts and finances, safety of the public, streets and public improvement and parks and public property.

The duties of the city manager are outlined in the new measure, as follows: "To have general supervision over the business of the municipality; to see that the laws and ordinances are faithfully executed; to attend all meetings of the board at which his attendance may be required by that body; to recommend for adoption to the board such measures as he may deem necessary or expedient; to make such appointments of employees of the municipality as are not otherwise provided for, subject to the provisions of this act; and to such civil service regulations as may be adopted; to prepare and submit to the board such reports as may be required by that body; or as he may determine advisable to submit; to keep the board fully advised of the financial condition of the municipality and its future needs; to prepare and submit to the board a tentative budget for the next fiscal year; and to perform such other duties as the board may determine by ordinance or resolution. None of the powers or privileges at present enjoyed by municipalities are abrogated by the new law, but the exercise of them is transferred to the city manager and the commissioners. The method of determining whether the electors of a city wish to adopt the new plan involves the filing of a petition with the mayor asking for the submission of the question at a special election, the petition to be signed by a number of electors equal to twenty-five per cent of the vote cast for all candidates for the office of mayor at the last preceding general city election. It is the mayor's duty, within ten days after the filing of the petition, to call a special election at a date not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days after such petition is filed. The nomination and election of commissioners then follows, the three commissioners having the highest number of votes serving four-year terms; the others two-year terms. All commissioners subsequently elected serve full four-year terms, in this way constituting a continuous board.

From a local standpoint it is interesting to note that the new law provides that the proposal to adopt the city manager plan shall not be admitted to the electors less than ninety days before a regular municipal election, a provision which would bar Twin Falls from voting the plan prior to the April election. When the plan has once been voted upon, and defeated, it cannot be resubmitted within a two-year period. Any city that is not satisfied with the new form of government, may after a six-year trial, vote at a special election to return to the form of government under which it is presently operating.

With the entry of Twin Falls into the class of cities which own and operate their own water works plants, a special view of the contemplated expenditure of a-half million dollars for an improved system, and with talk of a municipally owned light and power plant, Twin Falls is getting into "big business" for itself, and it is questionable whether the present political methods of management is adequate to properly and effectively care for and operate the same, the tending and increasing interests. It is pointed out that no man of the required ability can afford to accept the office of mayor and devote the time that is needed to the management of the business enterprises and other administrative affairs of the city. It is thought by many, by the time has arrived when it would be a profitable step to engage the service of a city manager, and place the administrative management of the city in experienced and especially trained hands.

In its course through the legislature the new law, permitting the manager form of government, was amended absolutely necessary, in view of the fact that another bill removed all municipally owned corporations, which includes water works, light and power plants, from the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission, and enables cities to commence the construction of such plants without first securing a certificate of necessity from the commission. It will be recalled that Twin Falls was unable to go ahead with water works system of its own, owing to the objection of the commission to refuse the city the needed certificate of necessity. The commission insisted upon the city's purchasing the existing plant, which enabled the private owners to resign their franchise to the city at a handsome profit. Under the law as it now stands the commission has nothing whatever to say with municipal corporations, either as to their taxation or rates and management, when established. With the passage of that bill, the city manager is pushed to the front, and in the last days of the session passed ahead of its natural order. It being deemed imperative by the committee in charge of the calendar to provide a more efficient method for the management of the emergency into which it was expected the new law would create cities to "outgrow" and to remove those corporations so far as possible from politics.

HANSEN BRIDGE MEET

HERE ON APRIL 5

Co-Operation of Government Engineers Will Be Invoked To Secure Suggestions for Structure

The road commissioners of the Hillside highway district will meet with the commissioners of Twin Falls County in this city April 5 in order to lay plans for the construction of the Hansen bridge. The bill, approved printing $20,000 for the bridge, introduced by Lawrence Hanson and passed by Governor Alexander is now a law. Although the Hillside district has already sold bonds in the sum of $20,000 and Twin Falls county has voted a similar amount, no final plans have yet been drafted, and accepted, as it was thought that it would be a waste of money to secure plans for a $20,000 bond when there was a possibility that $20,000 would be available.

It is understood that the boards will secure the assistance of government engineers in making the plans, so that they will conform to government regulations, the idea being that the government's help in co-operating with the state in road building might wish to be consulted.

C. C. Dudley, chairman of the Hillside board was in the city Saturday, conferring with the commissioners on the subject.

An Economic Problem

While the cost of nearly every necessity of life has been steadily increasing, the rates for telephone service have remained practically the same.

The buyer of foodstuffs, although paying much more, receives but sixteen ounces to the pound. On the other hand, the telephone user is constantly receiving more and better service and paying the same or even a less rate than he did a few years ago.

Gradually the value of telephone service has been increased by a constant increase in the number of telephones added to the system and by improvements and refinements in the telephone art.

Steadily, too, the cost of every piece of equipment and of all supplies, copper wire, iron wire, poles, hardware, etc., used in the business of furnishing service, has increased enormously.

In other words, our revenues have not increased in proportion to increased value of the service or in proportion to increased cost of furnishing the service.

This presents a serious problem in which the public and the Company are mutually interested.

PRIZE CORN RAISED IN TWIN FALLS COUNTY

The First Prize for District of Southern Idaho Won by Corn Raised Near This City.

Like the "Flower Mission" seed business, a corn competition that was originally started at Minneapolis, Minnesota, as a local proposition, has spread out of its original boundaries. Reference is here to what is known as the First National Corn Competition, having been commenced through the efforts of the First National Bank of the city named.

MR. IRWIN SWEET

At the present time the entries received from north and south, east and west, each section being made a class by itself, so that the comparison might be fair. Idaho under the rule is divided into two districts—northern and southern; and the first prize for the southern district was won by Mr. Irwin Sweet, a young man of sixteen who lives with his mother in this city. The winning ten ears were selected from a forty-two miles west and four miles north of this city. The corn was planted for shuck, but a plot selected and left furnished the prize winners. The corn was not judged on size of ears, but on length, "cup" quality and kernels, the complete covering of the cob, to the very tip. The prize, a $50.00 loving cup, as well as the prize ears of corn may be seen at the Times office.

CLAIMS SATURDAY IS THE SABBATH

The "Saturday for Sunday" Proposals Unopposed on Biblical Grounds The First Day Sunday Man Made.

The seventh day Sabbath was instituted by God for man in the Garden of Eden. It has been a part of man from that time to the present and according to the word of God will be kept in the New Earth or Eden restored. The change that has come about in the practicing of modern Christianity in observing the first day in place of the seventh has no Biblical foundation but was brought about entirely by man. So stated Evangelist T. G. Bunch in his lecture at the First church, Sunday night, while speaking on the subject "How Much Got into The Christian Church." He said in part: "The Christian church has existed ever since the plan of salvation was instituted, and is the church of Christ, or the church that follows in the footsteps of Christ here on earth." "The matter of what day is to be kept is mentioned in the Seventh Day Sabbath in the Garden of Eden. It reaffirmed it by performing the miracle of feeding the children of Israel with manna for forty years. In the wilderness he spoke it from Mount Sinai in the hearing of the people; he wrote it on the ever enduring tablets; he gave it to Moses; and then while on earth he set the example of keeping it. He walked through his life. The disciples followed the example of their Lord and kept the Sabbath throughout their experience on earth, and gave no intimation in any of their writings that the day had been changed from Saturday to Sunday. Sunday the first day of the week. Mr. Bunch read many historical extracts to show that the change was brought about by the church. He said and began to gradually come into favor about the time of the close of the second century after Christ. The first definite declaration that we find regarding it is the one made by Constantine the Great that all who lived in the cities should observe the first day of the week as a sacred day. "I do not keep the seventh day as a Sabbath simply to be peculiar," said the speaker; "but because I find that it is in the command and also the example of my Lord, and I find that, hourly for the keeping of Sunday holy, outside of the commandments of men."

ponditures at this time be held within the following limits:
Reservoir	$40,000.00
Pipe line—reservoir	51,000.00

Filtration plant	10,000.00
Engineering	10,000.00
Distribution system	107,000.00
Total	$275,000.00

It is possible that some reduction below this estimate can be made, without detriment to the water system. No part of the expenditure which we propose will be wasted, whether Rock Creek, Blue Lakes, Point Spillway, Low Line or Milner should be finally selected by the city as its source of supply. No better location for the reservoir or for the filter can be found than the present sites, in any case.

We are of the opinion, further, that no matter which of these sources be ultimately selected, we shall do well to filter the water, at least at certain seasons of the year. The best evidence indicates, also, that whichever source of supply may be chosen, we can thus obtain an ample supply of good water at all times of the year.

Our estimates are based principally on the Kelsey and Horn reports. C. B. CHANNEL, C. T. HART, E. J. OSTRANDER, ARTHUR L. SWIM.

FARM BUREAU OPPORTUNITY

The call emanating from the proper department of government at Washington for intelligent co-operation on the part of the farmers throughout the United States in planting and raising those food products most useful and desirable in the present emergency, bring both an opportunity and responsibility to the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, and to all similar organizations.

Nothing of this character can be generally and effectively managed without organization. And here, in the Farm Bureau, we have a young and vigorous body ready to hand—the right men in the right place—except that every farmer in Twin Falls county should be a member thereof, and will be so should become such as soon as the situation is understood by them.

It is, therefore, not only, as stated, an opportunity for the Bureau, but a double one: first, to recruit the membership to the maximum; and, second, to serve their country while serving themselves.

As Washington specially urges wheat raising, and we need thereof in high price and hard to get, we are adding to the foregoing paragraphs a bit of seemingly valuable information received since they were written. Namely: That any responsible farmer can obtain reliable seed wheat, to be returned at next harvest without extra charge for interest or otherwise, by inquiring of either L. T. Wright or E. L. MacVicar.

ly brought into the meeting. The meeting summoned the governor to explain the very surprising and explain his attitude. This, of course, aroused the anger of the governor, principally towards Schultz, who was an active member of the board, and the next morning modified his attitude and sent a committee to wait on the governor. The governor received them coolly. It is interesting to note that coming on top of the other difficulty, determined the governor in forcing Mr. Schultz' retirement.

Harvey B. Alfred, who is to be his successor, is a very capable man, a farmer and merchant. While a member of the Wyoming legislature, Mr. Alfred had an active, if not the best of the farm legislation took an active interest in farm legislation. Any intimation that Mr. Alfred will fail to be active in following up the work of the bureau, and especially in seeking for the farmers the full benefit of the farm legislation just passed, is the

Patrolling Rock Creek	500.00
Depreciation	9,367.00
Total annual saving	$26,486.00

This annual saving converts a deficit into a surplus and makes it possible for us to take care of extensions and additions to the distribution system, partly, at least, from operating income.

The operating income for the first year of city ownership of the water plant is $40,000.00. Against this there is the present interest charge of $4,900.00. Interest on $275,000.00 of additional bonds, which we believe to be sufficient for present needs, 13,750.00. Depreciation, 5,730.00. Salaries, as per Kelsey report, 8,010.00.

Total annual cost, $21,490.00. Leaving a net operating profit of $5,996.00. Instead of a deficit of $1,985.00 which would have to be taken care of by an increase in rates or an increase in taxation.

In this estimate we have made no allowance for the increase in operating income which we expect from year to year. The increase may be absorbed in providing extensions and additions to the distribution system.

As to the advisability of sacrificing the whole distribution system, without salvage: The report of Mr. Horn, made three years ago, placed a physical valuation of $71,000.00 on the property, based on its reconstruction cost, less depreciation. We cannot convince ourselves that this value has wholly disappeared in the years if the wood pipes now in use in the city have no value, although they only about eight years, then it would obviously be advisable to replace them now with more of the same kind. The consensus of opinion among authorities indicates that cast iron pipe is the most satisfactory in the long run. With the first cost of the completed distribution system of $253,000 more than the combination proposed in the Kelsey report, we recommend that all necessary new construction be of cast iron. We therefore propose that the ex-

The claim that no new species of industry should be allowed to develop in a neutral state to supply the needs of one of the belligerents was not new. Replying to a similar contention by Spain in 1827 Secretary of State Henry Clay said: "During the state of war between two nations the commercial industry and pursuits of a neutral are often materially injured. If the neutral finds some compensation in a new species of industry which the necessities of the belligerents stimulate or bring into activity, it cannot be deemed very unreasonable that he should avail himself of that compensation provided that he confines himself within the line of entire impartiality and violates no rule of public morality."

The fact that Germany made no protest against the attitude of the United States and only set up the inconsistent contention under consideration more than six months after war began and at a time when it was exorbitant to muddy the waters, is the highest tribute that could be paid to the impartiality of the United States. And then it admitted that we were within our formal rights.

So much for technicalities. Now in regard to the moral aspects of the case. If it is really the last German note cited, Secretary Bryan called attention to the fact that the United States was proceeding according to the rules of international law and that any step on its part toward the abrogation of the law of nations was in itself "an unjustifiable departure from the principle of strict neutrality," and it might be remarked that the German government in its response dropped the issue and made no denial of the position of Secretary Bryan.

This point is perhaps misunderstood more readily than any of the other points throughout the United States. Many say: "If I sell arms or give permission to others to sell arms to one brother to kill another, I am guilty of murder." Are you necessarily? Suppose that you are a merchant and that by common consent it is understood that you will sell to you are to sell arms and ammunition to both your neighbors who may later engage in a struggle. One of the neighbors goes to a store in a store of ammunition and a good gun, because he doubts whether he can get in your store in case of a row. Suppose that the other neighbor, relying on his ability to buy arms and ammunition at your store falls to lay aside a stock. Suppose those men get a trouble and the fellow with the gun and ammunition "kicks" the other one and he comes to your store to buy munitions wherewith to defend himself and you refuse will the result that he is killed? What will be the moral status of your attitude? And that is this case.

Germany has labored under no delusions in regard to what would happen in case of war with England and France under the rules of the law of nations as defined by the tribunal of The Hague. She knew that in this country the sale of arms and munitions of the manufacturers in this country. The speeches of Chancellor Von Bulow so frequently quoted indicated the character of her preparations to show it. She had sold guns and munitions against the day when she could not purchase them abroad by reason of a blockade. England had a very different attitude. It was some extent depended on the right to buy munitions here and did not prepare as Germany had done. What do German authorities say of the United States had stopped the munition traffic we would have had the allies whipped long ago. Certainly. As yet for one hundred and twenty-five years it is extended for the universal application of the right to buy arms and munitions abroad and had succeeded in having the rule on which had always been so definitely incorporated into the rules of The Hague tribunal, what would have been our position morally had we repudiated it to the destruction of those who depended on our good faith?

Congressman Fess, who is a noted student of international law, suggests that "the real meaning is not the right of a neutral to sell but rather the right of a belligerent to buy." Looking at it from this aspect it is well to remember that in every war in which we have been engaged we have insisted on the right to buy contraband needed for our own preservation.

It may be said that we always condemn the principle and should abandon it altogether in the instances to others. Are they who say that that the principle is had so sure of their position? May they not have failed to grasp the reason for the principle for which we contended? President Washington and his cabinet determined to put into practice in this case international law as expounded by the great moral writers on the subject; have these writers and our statesmen proceeded on a wrong course? The presumption is the other way. There are two reasons why the right of belligerents to buy arms and munitions abroad, which they all exercise when possible, has tended to make for peace and not for war. First, as an example of the first, during our civil war France invaded Mexico for the purpose of setting a monarch on a throne here. It was a violation of the Monroe doctrine. We protested. We were at least. Surely we would have been justified in breaking the rule mentioned by refusing the sale of contraband to the French. We did not do so. Second, we would have been justified in breaking the rule mentioned by refusing to grant the Mexican request, say that Mexico had against such sale, what merchandise we shall not sell to French subjects, because it may be employed in military operations against Mexico. France must be equipped. We are allowed to dictate to us what merchandise we shall allow to be shipped into Mexico, because it will be believed generally used against France, and every commercial nation would be the other during every war abroad since the foundation of our country.

Sale of Munitions, Is According to Law of Nations and Morality

By JAMES D. WHELAN

Now that we are on the verge of justly detested war with Germany. It is within the letter of the law that we are to refrain from an expedition for us to re-assert the justice of our course in all the following individuals and firms within the United States to sell contraband of war to the belligerents. It is the policy of the German empire, that the patience has ceased to be a virtue in the confessed even by avowed pacifists who generally concede that President Wilson has exhausted all reasonable means to avoid a conflict. But there is with some a lurking feeling that because these things have been called public in permitting the sale of arms to the belligerent powers. This idea has been skillfully inculcated by the friends of Germany and the statement often made that such sale is contrary to the principles of international law. It is also asserted that by permitting such sale "the United States violate the principles of moral law. While this nation has plenty of provocation in any event, an examination of these questions must be timely, for it makes no difference whether we have one or are 100 per cent right or only ninety-five per cent right in content. The man who hath his quarrel wholly just will fight harder than the man who hath his quarrel mostly just. In a recent article I showed that the policy of the United States in regard to the sale of arms by belligerents to this country is to sell what it was during the administration of Washington, and that while the attitude of other nations that when they suffered by the application of the principle, ours had not, and moreover, that we took the stand that we did on the ground that it was based on the law of nations. Adopted this principle as the law of modern nations.

For more than six months after the breaking out of the present war in Europe we heard nothing about its being in violation of international law for neutral nations to allow their citizens to sell arms to belligerents. On February 3, 1915, Germany issued her famous ultimatum against Great Britain. On February 10 Secretary W. J. Bryan sent a protest to Germany, to which that country replied on February 16. In the course of this reply the German foreign secretary Von Jagow said: "The German government has given due recognition to the fact that as a matter of fact the exercise of rights and the toleration of wrong on the part of neutrals is limited to their pleasure alone and involves no formal breach of neutrality. The German government have not, in consequence, made any charge of formal breach of neutrality. The German government cannot however do otherwise, especially in the interest of absolute clearness in the relations between the two countries, than to emphasize that they are in consonance with the public opinion of Germany, feel themselves placed at a great disadvantage through the fact that the neutral powers have hitherto achieved no success or only a limited success in their assertion of the rights to trade with Germany, acknowledged to be legitimate by international law, whereas they make no attempt to prohibit the sale of arms to belligerents. The German government in the above communication, therefore, admitted that the United States and other neutrals had proceeded so clearly that the right to depart from the rules hitherto observed in sea warfare by all civilized nations on the ground that the principles of the United States and other neutrals against the methods of the so-called blockade of the allies had not been wholly effective. And because that such protest have not been efficacious the German government says that the neutral powers should by unprecedented methods be deprived of what it conceives to be their right. And the violation of international law by the many been of analogous in character to the extent of the violations of the law, we would have treated them in the same way, depending on negotiation and arbitration to secure due compensation for the unjustified wrongs committed.

On April 4, 1915, Germany took a new position. By inference assuming that the principles outlined in the former note were sound and admitting that Germany had in previous years furnished arms to belligerents, she set up the claim that this war differed from others in that the United States was practically the only neutral that could profit by such sale of arms to the belligerents. In other words, it was all right for Germany to sell arms to belligerents, but wrong for the United States to permit its citizens to do so when competition became non-existent through the participation of other neutrals in the same business. The question of great profits accruing to the munitions manufacturers in the United States and the fact that their business was being conducted under a condition was pointed out and was asserted "the theoretical willingness to supply Germany, also, if it were the belligerent here, was never altered the case," also suggested that it was our moral duty to prohibit the exportation of contraband to the allies unless we could freely ship it to Germany. The contradictory character of the whole German argument in this case must be evident, for after conceding that the sale of contraband and arms by American citizens was wrong when they were not sold in competition with the products of the citizens of other neutral countries, it was, in the same communication, implied that such sale under the circumstances named would be all right if made to both parties, even though the American manufacturers whose indulgence was complained of would become still richer through such traffic.

The fact is that the willingness to sell was not merely theoretical. When the submarine here was sunk by Germany they took back with them the sort of contraband most effective in assisting German armies. The United States never protested against the activities of the German raiders or against the sinking of ships by submarines according to the rules of contraband warfare. The growth of certain lines of business here dealing in contraband was natural and always took place in every neutral country during war between other nations. The German contention, which amounts to the claim that our attitude was contrary to the spirit, though not the letter, of neutrality was but the echo of other contentions from one side or the other during every war abroad since the foundation of our country.

FILER HORSE SHOW HAD GOOD STOCK

The first annual colt and yearling show held here last Saturday was well attended as expected, owing to the bad roads, says the Filer Journal. Mr. Clifford's colts and mares made a good appearance and no doubt would be winners any place in the state. The young stallion colt weighed 1035 pounds at seven months of age and the filly 910 at the same age. The Breeders' Gazette gives 1000 pounds at this age a record weight. These shows are very popular to the northward and in a few years Twin Falls county stallion and colt shows will be looked forward to as a great event.

A. B. Wood has moved into his new building. The finishing touches are being put on the upstairs and his furnishings will then be moved in. The Journal understands that furnishings of these rooms are all brass bed and the other furnishings are either genuine Gump or Birdseye maple. Each room has a high class rug which covers the entire floor and the halls will all be carpeted. Hot and cold water will be in each room. Hotels in Filer have not been able to take care of the traveling public and it is hoped that Mr. Wood will not rent all his rooms to the regular but reserve one or two to take care of the overflow from the hotel.

The Woman's club met Wednesday afternoon with a splendid attendance. The last Wednesday there was an unusually large attendance at the Ladies' Aid to enjoy the delightful St. Patrick's program and refreshments.

A very pleasant hour was spent with Mesdames Bunce, Anderson, Coakley and Arneson. On last Wednesday there was an unusually large attendance at the Ladies' Aid to enjoy the delightful St. Patrick's program and refreshments.

Rev. M. J. Carmichael of Wallace, Wash., has accepted the pastorate of the Methodist Brotherhood church at this place and will soon be here to take up his work. Mr. Carmichael will be remembered as having had charge of revival meetings at this place on several occasions.

The Short Line, in keeping with its progressive spirit of Filer, is building in addition to the house, putting in city water, grading the yards and making other improvements. Filer will make the biggest showing this year in her history. There is talk of going after the county seat in the fall.

One of the greatest events that has ever taken place in Filer, will occur on Friday evening, March 30, in the basement of the M. E. church, when a Men's Get-Together Banquet will be held. Places for 100 will be set and the prices is fifty cents, so in order to secure a place, get a ticket right away for there will be only 100, so don't wait until the last one for, you will not get in.

Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Evans gave a farewell party at their home for John and Estelle Evans. A very enjoyable dinner was served at 7 o'clock to the following boys: John Houghtalen, Leo Ross, Lloyd Hart, Phil and John Walden, Lester, Gordon, Gordon, Dick, Audubon-Dalton, Carl Blais, Ralph Brown, Glenn Hostetter. On Thursday afternoon March 27, Mrs. Cullis entertained at Kamalinton, Mesdames Potter, Murry, Moore, Alworth, Showers, Mossley, Brownson, Fathall, Shup, Beem, McPherson, Rivers, McCain, Fitzgerald, Patton, Grayson and Shafter. This is one of a series of parties recently given by the same hostess.

Ground was broken Monday for the basement of the new Munson building to be erected east of the two story building now nearing completion. We understand the building will be rented for a first class restaurant, something that Filer has long stood in need of.

Kilpatrick & Gary have rented the main room of the new Munson block and will in due time fix it up in a neat and attractive manner. New tables and fixtures will be installed, and a fine hall will be the result—a credit to the town.

May Matherson of Pullman, Wash., has been visiting here the past week. She is a daughter of Mr. Struppner, one of the early settlers near Filer. She owns land near E. F. Cedarholm's and is here looking after it.

The village trustees have appointed the following election board to act at the village election to be held on the 24th of April: Judges, C. W. Thornton, L. M. Smith, J. M. Reeves; clerk, E. J. Snyder, Art Brown; Norman Baker and wife returned Sunday from Boise where they have spent the winter. Norman evidently enjoyed the sojourn as he gained 25 pounds while absent.

REDUCTION REFUSED BY COAL DEALERS

Regular Annual Cut in Prices Will Not Be Made By Gotham Operators—Face Conspiracy Charge.

(United Press) NEW YORK, March 27—The usual fifty cents a ton reduction in the price of coal will not be made this April 1, by New York dealers, it became known here yesterday. The large operators allied with the anthracite loads may not offer any reduction at all and those who do decide upon a decrease, if they do, are not expected to make it more than twenty-five cents.

Eight and nine dollar coal is the prospect for New Yorkers this summer. Meantime many of the dealers are preparing to face trial in Federal court here on indictments charging conspiracy in boost prices.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES ON S. B. 111

Hands Down Opinion Sustaining Power of City to Issue Waterworks Bonds in Amount Needed.

Before the real purpose of Senate Bill No. 111 was known to the public and while a division of opinion seemed to exist among city officials in regard to whether the city could be compelled, through its operation, from issuing waterworks bonds, or any other bonds for that matter, a member of the staff of the TIMES wrote to Attorney General T. A. Walters, asking an opinion on the subject. That official seems to have read the law carefully before handing down the opinion which is quite complete and fully sustains the position at which the mayor and city attorney finally arrived, namely, that the law does not interfere with the power of the city to issue as much bonds as required to build or acquire a waterworks system. The opinion follows: Mr. James D. Whelan, Esq., Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir:—By letter under date of March 17, you submit in substance for opinion the following proposition:

"What is the power of cities to vote bonds for municipal water works under Senate Bill No. 111, as passed by the recent session of the Legislature, and give your interpretation of the bill."

The powers of cities and villages to issue municipal coupon bonds, and the purposes for which the same may be issued, are defined in Section 2316 of the Revised Codes. The last amendment of this section prior to that made by the recent session of the Legislature is found in Chapter 44 of the Session Laws of 1910. This chapter is amended by Senate Bill No. 111, passed by the Fourteenth Session of the Legislature and approved by the Governor on March 3, 1911.

Senate Bill No. 111 makes no change whatever in subdivision (a), of said section. Said subdivision (a), limits the amount for any purpose set forth in said subdivision to 6 per cent of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property in said city or village. The subdivision (b), of said section, giving to the amendment authorized in this city, town or village to issue municipal bonds in a sufficient amount to acquire by purchase or otherwise a water works plant for such municipality and water supply therefor. There is a similar provision authorizing the acquisition of light and power plants by the same amount of bonds on the amount of bonds which may be issued for either of these purposes.

Senate Bill No. 111 amends Subdivision (b), relative to water plants by adding the words: "And to construct, enlarge, extend, repair, alter and improve said plant." It further amends Subdivision (b) by providing that any bonds so issued shall be authorized as provided in Section 2316 of the Revised Codes, and it validates any points heretofore issued for the purchase of water works plants, or extending, repairing, altering and improving any municipal water works plant. The amendment makes no change in the amount of bonds which may be issued for this purpose.

The provision in the existing law relative to power and light plants is made a separate subdivision, being Subdivision (c), and provides that the amount for which bonds may be issued for such purposes, shall be determined by the council and stated in the ordinance therefor. The law as amended in 1910 included water plants with light and power plants, and provides that the amount for which bonds may be issued shall be determined by the council and stated in the ordinance therefor.

Senate Bill No. 111 was amended before the Legislature by excluding water plants from this last paragraph. However, it is apparent from the wording of the Bill that the only reason for this exclusion was that the issuance of bonds for water plants had been provided for in Subdivision (b), which fully authorized any city, town or village to issue municipal bonds in such amount as shall be deemed necessary to acquire, construct, or alter, or enlarge water plants. Whether expressly stated in the law or not, the amount of such bonds must be determined by the council and stated in the ordinance therefor. Section 2316 provides that any bond issued for any of the purposes included in Section 2316, shall be assessed to two-thirds of the taxpayers voting at an election held for that purpose. This applies to light and power plants the same to water plants. There is nothing in Senate Bill No. 111 which in any way limits the powers, which cities have heretofore had to acquire water plants, or which in any way limits the amount for which bonds may be issued.

Respectfully submitted,
T. A. WALTERS,
Attorney General.

"That's just what I've always wished a cigarette would do satisfy!"

The feature of Chesterfields is that they begin where other cigarettes leave off. In other words, besides pleasing the taste, Chesterfields go further—they satisfy! Just like a long drink of cold water satisfies when you're thirsty.

And yet, Chesterfields are MILD! It's Chesterfields or nothing if you want this new cigarette delight, because no cigarette maker can copy the Chesterfield blend—an entirely new combination of tobacco and the biggest discovery in cigarette blending in 20 years.
