LOCAL DELEGATION RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Heard Famous Missions Speak From Africa and Arabia—Many From Twin Falls Tract and Two From Kimberly—Officers Elected for Next Year.

Faith, enthusiasm and inspiration were the keynote of the Christian Endeavor convention held at Pocatello, Idaho, returned Monday morning to Kimberly. The delegation was composed of the Misses Beale Dolin, Alta King, Francis Warner and Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Backman. Mr. Backman returned Saturday. Those of the delegation who remained until this closing of the convention had a much more entertaining program, the entertainment received, and the speakers they were privileged to listen to.

Mrs. Backman writes of the convention, "We arrived at Pocatello, Idaho, and were met at the depot by the usher committee who led us to the place of meeting, the Methodist church. We were very much pleased to our rooms. We had the afternoon to ourselves and used it in seeing the city and in preparing for the evening session."

The convention opened with a devotional, led by the V. M. C. A. secretary of Pocatello, Mr. Fred Morrison, after which the meeting was called to order by our pastor, Mr. G. P. Hewitt, Jr., of Boise. Miss F. Reed, president of the Idaho Technical Institute, delivered the address of welcome which was most eloquently marked for its individuality and uniqueness. The response was made by Rev. J. C. Cunningham, of Boise, who was introduced as "a big, jolly, jovial, good man whom you will all love," and whom we all did.

Friday morning was a day of real business and earnestness. Then again the delegates were assembled with note books in hand, eager that they should not miss a single item of instruction. Rev. George Cunningham conducted the morning Bible Study, from a lesson found in Jude. This was followed by several short, snappy addresses by the speakers from all over the state, telling of various things needed to make our societies a success. This was called the steam-up program and consisted of several programs in which the essential parts of a steam engine were compared to the essential parts of an efficient Christian Endeavor society. Then came a conference on the accomplishments and needs of the various societies in the state.

We assembled in the afternoon and were again permitted to enjoy an hour of Bible Study led by Rev. Cunningham. The Junior and Intermediate work of the societies was discussed during the afternoon session, and committees were appointed.

The real treat of the convention occurred at the evening session, when Dr. Dye of the Medical Mission, Africa, one of the famous modern medical missionaries arrived and delivered a thrilling address on "The White Doctor vs. the Medical Missionary." It was so real and so full of interest that it was described as a "warld," but according to Dr. Dye it was merely a presentation of actual facts, having been that exist even today in Africa. Dr. Dye was followed by Rev. Wm. F. Vance of Caldwell with an illustrated lecture on Arabia. His message was dressed in the native costume of the Arabians and told many interesting things about the old Bible lands with which we are familiar, having been for years a missionary and teacher in one of the great universities of that country.

We were very surprised indeed when we learned that there is really less treachery upon the part of the natives of Africa than upon the part of the more educated and philosophical Arabians. Saturday morning dawned bright and fair. One of our number, Mr. Backman was obliged to leave us that morning. The morning session was devoted to the business of the convention, consisting of the reports and elections of officers. Two of our number were elected as officers for the coming year. Miss Beale Dolin as superintendent of the Quiet Hour for the state and Mrs. Backman as second vice president of the state, and superintendent of the south central district. Dr. Johnson of Rupert and Mr. Lowe of Buhl were elected as state representatives of good fellowship with the Youth Legion, respectively, thus making a good representation for the Twin Falls country. The remainder of the officers were as follows: Rev. Ingram of Boise, president; J. Q. Dunn of Caldwell, as first vice; Mrs. Margaret Oring of Pocatello as third vice; Miss Ella Schmidt of Fruitland as secretary; Miss Shurman Reynolds of Bluff as superintendent of extensions and introduction; Miss Sarah Bolger as treasurer; Mrs. J. Q. Hook, as junior superintendent. The remainder of Saturday's session was devoted to a picnic and the convention address by Dr. Dye, "Christ Exalted."

Sunday morning began with a service prayer meeting at this place of meeting. All who attended felt that the inspiration received was well worth the effort we put forth to get to Pocatello. All of the delegates were urged to attend the morning services of the church of their choice, and of course the Kimberly delegation went to the little Christian church of which Rev. Howard C. Wilson is the pastor. Dr. Dye again addressed us, and again we felt inspired through his sympathetic address to do a larger and nobler work than in the past.

At the afternoon session of the convention we heard the various committees and the Endeavor compared to a well equipped army. Sunday evening was the closing session consisting of a model Christian Endeavor prayer-meeting led by the president-elect, Rev. Ingram of Boise. The topic was my favorite "Hymn and Why." The new officers were then installed. Monday noon found a happy, inspired crowd of young folk dismounting the train at Kimberly, they hope to attend next year's convention at Buhl.

HALF HOLIDAY ENJOYED MONDAY

With the exception of one or two places of business, Kimberly was a closed town Monday afternoon. The clerks and business men threw off the yoke of incessant labor and scattered to the four winds in their search for recreation and amusement. As a result of the occurrences of Monday, some dug up long unused fishing tackle and hurried away to Trout Creek and other near points where speckled beauties could be found; others went to Twin Falls to seek amusement; and many just got into their automobiles and motored to various points in the country over roads both smooth and rough, thinking it more exercise to lay in the dust, road work than any other kind of sport. Some of the more energetic were seen along the road and lazily sat old bolt and burrs. A few considered it more of a pleasure to trim their lawns and walk in the back yards, and thus contentedly found themselves to long neglected home duties. Not one, however, reported other than the most delight over the privileges of the day.

LOCAL MERCHANT MARRIES

Mr. Frank Wilson, local business man, of the firm of Wilson Brothers, general merchandise store, was quietly married Tuesday in his home by Grace A. Bellville. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride, which is three miles south of the city of Twin Falls. The wedding hour was at three o'clock and only the relatives were permitted to be present, though there was quite a few of them. The good people of Kimberly met the evening train, expecting to get a chance to greet the bride and groom, but they however were on the watch for them and in order to elude the fish shower, which they knew was forthcoming, took an auto to Marsden, where they boarded the evening train, and went to Portland, Oregon. They expect to be gone about a week, before returning to Kimberly, where they will make their future home. Mr. Wilson has the H. H. Atchinson home. The people of Kimberly wish them all kinds of success.

TO LECTURE HERE

The women of Kimberly and vicinity are being invited by the W. G. T. U. to gather at the Christian church Saturday afternoon and at the Methodist church Saturday night to hear Mrs. Emma F. A. Drake, a famous lecturer, who is to speak at those hours on social purity and home subjects. A large crowd was present to hear her last Wednesday at the same place of meeting, and it is thought that many will come to listen to her remarkable discourses on these vital questions of the day, next Saturday. The Oregon Statesman, of Salem Oregon writes the following: "Mrs. Emma F. Drake and her work. It is resolved, that the Salem Kimberlin Union, heartily endorse Dr. Drake in the great work to which she has consecrated her life. Her message was clear, pure, entirely inoffensive to the purest minds, but strikingly effective in its inspiration for social purity and revealing the tremendous danger of ignorance." H. T. Jew, W. Pascoett, E. S. Hammond, Committee.

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Gold prospectors in hydrocarbon-bearing areas of the almost unpopulated, lake, forest, fock and musk of Northern Manitoba will probably be a phenomenon of the near future. United States capitalists have determined to use this novel route in reaching inaccessible regions—bathed by one of the most magnificent gold mines of the world. If a machine can be secured, M. M. Mackeover, of New York and his associates will conduct a trial flight this season, probably starting from Lo Pas, where the reports of the proposed adventure have created considerable excitement.

Lo Pas is several hundred miles northwest of Winnipeg. It is reached by the Canadian Northern Railway and by the Hudson Bay Railway, which is being constructed by the Dominion Government. The most recent atlas issued by the department of the Interior, however, shows Lo Pas nearly 400 miles north of a red line which carries this legend: "County north

THE UNDERGRADUATE AND POST-GRADUATE OF THE U. S. WAR DEPARTMENT

Life, (and we use the term in a historical and practical sense rather than a philosophical sense) may justly be divided into three distinct classifications: first, that which is past; second, that which is at present; and third, that which is to be.

Of these three, the past is by far the richest and most wonderful; the present is by far the most intense and interesting; and the future is the most mysterious and awful. And so far as the United States war department is concerned, there is little doubt that the past is by far the most beneficial and important in connection with the relationship which it holds to the present crisis.

Since the twenty-sixth day of July, 1914, until that memorable day, April the sixth, 1917, when "President Wilson took the final step in the momentous declaration, when with a pen he signed the paper proclaiming to the world our entrance into the struggle," the United States has been as it were a student, studying the methods and advances of modern warfare. For nearly three years she has been the student of an undergraduate course in the great world crisis, observing the mistakes and successes of those countries who were pouring the blood of their sons on Europe's battle fields.

For ambition was not, that through these observations she might apply to herself methods and inventions of warfare that would make her a master of the art of war, but rather that because of her great understanding of war with its causes and conditions and methods she might become a master of the art of peace making and peace maintenance. "Because of her great foreign interests, the interests that naturally arise out of a necessary relation of a great country to her sister nations, the great European war was laid before her eyes unavowedly as an open book for her inspection and study.

The United States has always been a lover of peace, and she always kept only at this inevitable opportunity to study the mistakes and conditions out of which had arisen the greatest calamity the world had ever experienced. She grasped at the opportunity to study the mistakes and conditions out of which had arisen the greatest calamity the world had ever experienced.

Incidentally, however, in her study of modern warfare for the sake of a solution she might find some solution to the problems so suddenly thrust before her and lay out for the world a program that would forever banish the possibility of a recurrence of such a momentous calamity.

These lessons which we have learned in our undergraduate course are of inestimable value because they furnish, according to the words of William G. Shephard, writing in Everybody's magazine, "a short cut which the United States can make toward mastery in the art of war on land or sea. It is a recipe for victory, and," as he concludes, naming one of the greatest lessons we have learned, "it has to do with our strength in the air."

It may be well for us at this juncture of our speculations to consider briefly the place of aerial warfare in the present program of the world conflict. "The long, hard road along which the nations in Europe have struggled in learning aerial warfare is not pleasant to your eyes. Mr. Shephard says we need not take this road; we must cut across, profiting by their experiences and their lessons; it does not do to do things, and quite recently we have seen some of the excellence they have attained today after so much trouble.

The air is undoubtedly the dread and yet the hope of the fighting nations today, and the place that it holds in modern warfare is not to be disputed by any nation. The air is the land and sea of the modern world; it is the submarine, the vehicle whose only hope is to conceal the very important parts of the machine, the engine, the boiler, the fuel tank, and the costly machine which it intruded itself upon the plans of the belligerent nations. This war has produced not only a flying machine that is as safe as water than the vehicle of land or sea, but also a system of aerial warfare that has become the very soul and hope of each warring nation.

The United States need not go through the three years experience that the warring nations have had in producing a system and a machine as efficient as those attained by Europe. Their plans and achievements are at our disposal and with American natural ingenuity the most efficient aerial machine in the history of the world might easily be at our command.

It is for the European the only lesson we have learned in our undergraduate course in modern warfare. Many other lessons have we learned; and these will profit us if we but take advantage of them and put them into this great war, not only with unused resources of men and money, but also with an equally efficient program of an expert.

Thus we graduate from our undergraduate course, and enter upon a post-graduate course with the European as our laboratory. We have many experiences, bloody and practical, as our text books, and this course, shall we learn more of war, learn to hate it, or to love it? We shall learn more of war, learn to hate it, or to love it? We shall learn more of war, learn to hate it, or to love it?

To think that the United States will make the mistake of repeating the stant study and observation is to utterly mistake her purpose. Now is an opportunity, an undeniable opportunity, an opportunity that will not come again, for her to discover what causes wars, what are the effects of wars, how in the future they can be avoided, and to make the most rapidly reconstruct the destroyed institutions of this war, how to make peace the champion over hatred, and democracy the champion over autocracy.

DETHRONING THE KAISER
"The Kaiser" is a phrase, that in the past several months has become a household word. It has a rather wide variety of meaning. Sometimes we speak of the "Kaiser" with reference to the German emperor himself; sometimes with reference to the German empire, and quite frequently with reference to that principle of the German emperor is champion and which is so despised by the democratic powers of the world.

We are informed in reference to the Papal Peace program that is now being so intently discussed in America has but one reply: "Down with the Kaiser." To say what is really meant by the cry as so stated would be to waste the energy of those in the minds of the cryers. There is one safe interpretation though that might be resorted to, as a last hope. That is to make the term include all that pertains to the present aggressiveness of autocracy. When we say "Down with the Kaiser," we mean plain William Friedrich, and the champion of the hated principle. Again we may mean down with the principle itself and all of its supporters and champions. But generally speaking, when we mean down with the whole push, both Kaiser and Kaiserism.

The united powers of Democracy have assumed the responsibility of detroning "The Kaiser," in just the same sense last assumed, and that's the reason we refuse to harken to any plan for peace. Peace or otherwise that do not come right to the point in question. We recognize that permanent peace is an impossibility until we have the right to speak, and the sooner our belated peace advocates get down to business and consider the problem from a real practical standpoint, and take into consideration some of the reasons why "there is no peace" the sooner they will accomplish their purpose and the sooner America herself will accomplish her purpose.

Our ideals often make us blind to the very essentials necessary for their accomplishment. To say "no" to a great deal of war, and that the whole world is for that matter, would be to put it rather lightly. But a good and righteous cause is always distinguished because of its overlooking its immediate needs. Sacrifice of life or money is no consideration when nations and men fight for a true cause. But when the cause is false, as in the case of the devil, he has a little of that element of never-give-up, and only a complete defeat will overcome his bid.

Provincialism Shown By The Organs of the Empire In Many Striking Ways.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Copies of German newspapers just received here contain the following curious bits: The Bremen Volkswacht publishes this advertisement from a young frau:

"I am twenty-one years of age, not looking any more than twenty-four in the face, one or two inches over six in the pasture, two hams and some sausage now in process of curing in a salted manner, I know how to weave and spin, a small thirty-two twenty-five cherry trees, fourteen apple trees, ten plum trees, a quantity of gooseberry bushes, three or four cakes of good wine in my cellar, I have, besides, a piano and a flute.

"Injured soldiers who are able to work will be paid for and for the cattle and poultry are invited to send in their applications if they feel inclined to marry."

"No objection to separation if, after six months of married life, incompatibility of character should manifest itself on either side."

The Germans are determined at all costs to encourage family life and the increase of the population. The Vossische Zeitung says that a national matrimonial agency has been established by the state of Saxony. The purpose of this bureau is to provide war-widows, especially those who have been left in possession of small businesses, with what the paper calls "war-damaged" husbands. Lists are now being compiled of eligible male candidates, and descriptions, without mention of names, of suitable widows are to be published in the official gazette for distribution among the wounded.

It was recorded the other day that by way of throwing ridicule on the idea of the military government now so farreached, in the view of the shortage of leather, the entire student population of a German university paraded in their uniforms, including evening dress, but minus shoes and stockings. The order continues to be issued that the students of the Frankfurter Volkshochschule:

"The entire population of Hindenberg has obeyed the instructions of the local government, and in view of the lack of leather, all persons in town are now going barefoot."

"Not one among the well-dressed Sunday promenaders of the city of Gerolstein was shod. The provincial governor and his wife attended divine service barefoot; the town police now wear their best shoes, innocent either of boots or socks."

The Cologne Gazette cannot understand why Siam should join the world war, and is "fall to appreciate German Kultur." "In Siam, before the war, there were only forty-eight Englishmen, and now there are 244 Germans, and these Germans," says the paper, "had in their hands the whole of the overland trade of Siam and were men of considerable influence and very popular with the Siamese, and yet in spite of this Siam turns against us!"

Strength-Ties With South America

New Standard Set For Transportation Facilities With Latin Neighbor on Hemisphere.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—In the midst of war's desolation Uncle Sam is adopting real constructive measures to strengthen the bonds between the United States and the countries of Latin America.

One of these measures will have the immediate effect of stimulating steamship communication between the republics of America. This is the authorization given by the United States Shipping Board for the establishment of a rapid passenger and freight service between New York and Valparaiso, Chile. In part it is fulfillment of one of the important objects sought to be accomplished by the Pan-American Conference, as formed as a result of the Pan-American Financial Conference in Washington two years ago.

One of the greatest needs of a century the countries on the west coast of South America have sought to secure: the establishment of regular and rapid steamship communication with the United States and have been willing to co-operate in the establishment of subsidies, but the United States at first has shown an unwillingness to join in such a plan.

Commercial ties with our southern neighbor have not been more closely developed because of the handicaps of poor transportation facilities, due in a measure to the inconvenience of trans-shipment at Panama, and the uncertainty with reference to schedules. The need for more rapid and frequent communication has been repeatedly emphasized.

The situation was aggravated at the outbreak of the European war, due to the exorbitant transatlantic rates and the temptation of steamship companies to use their vessels for this traffic. There is much promise that the establishment of a rapid and regular service will be the means of bringing about a closer co-operation and more intimate commercial relations with the nations of South America.

Shipping board officials point out the fact that the new service is of great interest to the Argentine, as well as to the west coast countries. With an eighteen day service to Valparaiso it will be possible to reach Buenos Aires in a trip about forty hours. The understanding of officials here is that the new line will alternate its sailings with those of the

RELATIVE OF PERSHING BECOMES A WAR NURSE

(International News Service)
DENVER, Colo., Sept. 6.—Eager to return to more intimate connection with her father, Mrs. Ward B. Pershing, widow of Captain Ward B. Pershing, and a sister-in-law of General John J. Pershing, commander of the American troops in France, has enlisted as a Red Cross nurse and expects to sail soon to take up her hospital work near the fighting line.

Mrs. Pershing spent some time in the Philippines islands when the insurrection there was at its height, and in France, was captain of the Tenth United States Cavalry. He died her several years ago. Since her husband's death Mrs. Pershing has been in her profession of trained nurse and is well equipped for duty in Red Cross work.

ONE-HANDED CATCHER MARVEL BEHIND THE BAT

(International News Service)
FRANKTOWN, Colo., Sept. 6.—Corner lot fans in various towns of those United States may boast of their star one-hand pitcher and one-hand infielder, out-fielder playing baseball for the edification of the populace, but this town has a unique athlete in the form of a one-hand catcher, Harry Gooding, in the eyes of a ranch near here, does the mask and protector every Sunday, goes behind the plate and receives the delivery of the speediest twirlers.

Gooding catches the ball in the glove, tosses it into the air and drops it to the ground in time to grab the ball again when it falls and returns it to the pitcher. Ambitious managers have regarded as surprising in their attempt to steal by the accurate wing of Gooding.

THE BRAKE BROKEN

For weeks it has been painfully apparent to the patriotic people of the United States that the organization known as the I. W. W. was using every possible method--all of them illegitimate--to put a brake on the wheels of preparedness for the great struggle in which our country is engaged. Such being the case, nothing will give such loyal and patriotic people greater satisfaction than to blow so, silently and effectually struck by the administration yesterday, when, upon dissection of the organization general, United States marshals swooped down on the headquarters of the organization at all prominent points, captured the books and papers and, in many cases, took into custody its leaders. Among those thus taken is the bellwether of the measly flock, William D. Haywood, of unsavory notoriety. What's the matter with President Wilson?

And every loyal soul joins in the answer--"He's all right!"

Recently has shown a high degree of patriotism. It is regrettable that it should lapse into bad habits at a time when patriotism is needed; and when misrepresentation of this kind is apt to mislead the uninformed. It should take to heart the motto at the head of its clever Tuesday cartoon:

Institute Proving
to be Successful

Large Attendance and Much Interest shown at the Meetings. All the Time.

THE FISCAL INCONSPICUOUS William J. Bryan calls attention to a fact that should be emphasized. He states that in his travels as a lecturer he meets all classes and conditions of people and that all understand why the nation has engaged in war and all endorse the stand taken. The exceptions are so small as to be of no consequence. He states the war is a popular one in that it is regarded as both necessary and justifiable, but that war itself is abhorrent to the American people. In this he is right.
It is grim business, a hard and disagreeable task--but its necessity is felt and the business in hand will be attended to without ado or avoidance.

New Freedom
Colonel Bryan added that the patriotic numbered so many that no note was made of the fact that a man or a city was loyal to the flag and country, but that if a few in a great city were found unpatriotic the fact was heralded throughout the country as an item of news. This is true.
Only the unusual is news. The old-time instructions to a cub reporter hold good: "If you see a dog chase a rabbit in this news; but if you see a rabbit chase a dog, write the story in news."

IN BAD COMPANY

Fortunately for the "nation" the president has definitely abandoned the "too proud to fight" and "peace at any price" policies in which he was re-echoed, and less than a year after the close of the presidential campaign, so different are his policies that if the campaign speeches of some of the Democratic orators were to be repeated today, the orators would be liable to arrest for treasonable utterances--Statesman.

The Times acquits the Statesman of any intent to "give aid and comfort to the enemy," and yet nothing that is said by the Statesman at the Chicago pacifist gathering said will be utilized more effectively than the above misleading statement. Although ultra pacifists like Gore supported Wilson, and ultra war advocates like Colonel Roosevelt supported Hughes, the avowed position of the two presidential candidates was not materially different.

President Wilson was not elected on a peace at any price platform, strenuously as the pro-Germans try to apply that he was. He stated specifically in the Sussex note to Germany that the sinking of another American ship in violation of international law, with the consent of the German government, or the failure of the German government to specifically declare the discontinuance of ruthless submarine warfare would be followed by the severing of diplomatic relations. Not only that but he diplomatically intimated that more serious consequences would follow the continuance of such policy.

Germany yielded at the time. The endorsement of President Wilson in the national platform carried with it endorsement of this most conspicuous act of his foreign policy in its relation to Germany. The men who voted for Woodrow Wilson, voted to sustain him in this position.
President Wilson has said what he said he intended to do. He did the thing that the American people elected him to do. The Statesman knew this, the pro-Germans knew this, for they opposed him last year at the election on that ground. Yet the former to make a petty political point, without regard to the inconsequence of its statements, and the latter for treasonable purposes, repeat this falshood.
Mark that the Statesman has said

This City Administration will certainly have one large credit mark when the good work of replacing all the old, loose-jointed, decrepit and generally profane, board sidewalks with concrete which is now going forward on a large scale, shall have been completed. A drive throughout the city will show plank sidewalks, but where the plank walk was want to worry the pedestrian, already rejoicing in elegantly wide and smooth concrete walks, while dozens of other blocks are in the transformation stage. When the work projected is complete, the indications are that not a red of plank walk will remain in any of the well settled streets--a consummation devoutly to be thankful for.

School Directors Re-elected Tuesday

Quiet Election and Small Vote—210
Ballots Cast—Polls 7:30
Open Long Enough to Meet Particular Demand.

Somewhat later than the eleventh hour, and quite unexpectedly to all but a very, very few, a second ticket for directors of the Twin Falls Independent School District, was developed at Tuesday's election. This when a few kind-hearted and honest, but apparently misguided individuals began voicing for J. H. Van Tassel and C. L.
Langley in opposition to the regularly ordered re-election of Messrs. W. E.
Nixon and D. F. Clark, the members of the present board whose terms were about to expire. Both these gentlemen have been competent, active and conscientious in the discharge of their duties, and their re-election was assured by the following vote:
W. E. Nixon 141
D. F. Clark 127
J. H. Van Tassel 73
C. L. Langley 71

One feature of the election, however, seems by no means creditable, and that is the fact that not one voter in ten was sufficiently interested to cast a ballot at all. This is partially accounted for by the fact that the polls were opened only one hour of the busiest hours of the day—from 1 to 2 o'clock p. m.—It is certain that there was no intention to keep voters away from the polls; but if used and been the case no more effective scheme could have been devised. At all events, if the polls were opened at 8 o'clock in the morning, kept open through the noon hour and until at least 7 o'clock p. m., the busy professional or business man, and especially the farmer, would have no time is not his own, would have no re-cause for non-voting; and in many, if not most cases, the vote could be cast en route to or from work and an extra trip avoided.

As a matter of fact—and it is a fact in which we Americans take pardonable pride—no regular and ordinary administrative expense comes near drawing so heavily upon the revenues raised by taxation, as does the maintenance of our public schools. And, even the other hand, the rights and righteousness regard the education and discipline of our children as of the very first and greatest importance.
Why, then, should so much interest be shown in the selection of those to whom is committed the entire direction of this great purpose and large expense?

These reflections are made upon general principles and absolutely without reference to or regard for local conditions except that it is such the same everywhere as a rule. Again, and again has the election of a school board been known to become nothing but a struggle between banks as to the place of deposit for the school funds. Fortunately nothing of that kind appears in Twin Falls. But, just the same, a more general interest should be taken in the matter, and the board of directors, if within their discretion as it appears to be, should fix the hours of opening and closing the polls in such a way as would invite and facilitate the largest possible vote.

Make Your Choice Now of Fall Coats and Suits

An Early Selection is particularly advisable this year. Many lines of cloth for making up, will be very scarce later, and prices much higher. As for styles they are wonderfully pretty—Choose your coat and suit and make a deposit on it and have it laid away.

The Suits==

Feature particularly the longer jackets giving the classic long line effects. The collars are close buttoned styles and some very large—they are becoming to all figures—Tailored styles also are good.

The Coats==

With the smart Parisian ideas in their full length fluffiness. The collars are of exaggerated proportions and the pockets voluminous—outfits pretty and their there's the mil-litaire styles that are the rage of the trenches. And one beauty is the reasonable prices that prevail here. Have yours saved for you.

The time is soon coming when irrigation water everywhere will be measured on an acre-foot basis rather than by a flat rate per acre. "The increasing value of water and the gradual establishment of the principle that irrigators should pay for the quantity of water used rather than for the number of acres irrigated are forcing measurements on the well managed systems. Above all, wise farm management requires that irrigators should know by actual measurement whether they are receiving the water for which they are paying." Gentlemen:—We shall be glad to learn if your meter can be made to register on very small weirs measuring 1-30 second feet.

What we are particularly interested in and are in the market for is some kind of registering device which will register the flow of water from an open flume in quantities as low as 400 Cu. ft. per 24 hours up to quantities as high as 50,000 Cu. ft. per 24 hours.

An early reply will be appreciated.

Gentlemen:—It looks to me as though the Lyman register meets a long felt want in hydraulic engineering and meets it right. Its simplicity, apparent reliability, durability and low cost should appeal to all individual water users who are interested in the amount of water they actually use, as well as to irrigation companies that measure their deliveries by the acre-foot method.

The register looks like a success to me in every way.

Yours truly,

J. C. PORTERFIELD, C. E.
General Manager Twin Falls Canal Co.

Lyman Water Register Co.,
Twin Falls, Idaho.

I have thoroughly examined the Lyman Water Meter and believe it to be correct in design and practical in the application for which it is to be used. A water meter for irrigation purposes must be simple in construction, reasonable in cost and accurate. This meter has all of these requirements. With this meter quantities are measured and may be paid for in a similar manner to electric power, and thus solve the matter of water distribution on irrigation systems in the only just way possible.

This meter should come into universal use for pumping irrigation systems and also on gravity systems where economy and care in the use of water is an item. Very truly yours, E. V. BERG, M. E.

For a number of years a need has been felt among irrigation companies for a meter that would record the quantity of water delivered to irrigators in definite units of acre-feet, and at the same time a meter that would be low priced, reliable, and free from much of the usual attention required by recording devices now on the market. The Lyman Meter is the result of seven years experimenting and is the fulfillment of this long felt want.

It is simple in construction, compact, small in size and weighs less than five pounds. It is not affected by silt or weeds in the water and is sensitive to the slightest fluctuations in the weir discharge. It can be quickly and easily installed on a weir by anyone and requires no other than ordinary attention during the irrigation season.

It is the simplicity of construction of the Lyman Meter, and its freedom from complicated parts that make it trustworthy as well as low priced.

Every irrigated farm should have one. The sale of only 5,000 meters will make this stock worth $1,000.00 per share.

Weed Anti-Skid Chains

The ONLY Positive Safeguard Against Skidding

Safety demands that all tires be equipped with Weed Chains. It doesn't require the gift of second sight to see why this is true. Rubber slips - never grips. It slides on wet pavements and roads like a cake of soap on the moistened hands.

Rubber lacks the bite-and-hang-on ability to prevent skidding, while Weed Chains hold on like a bull dog, prevent side-skid and drive alip. Equip both front and rear tires with Weed Chains. Do it today - before it's too late.

Red Cross Meet Saturday Success

Many Things of Interest Discussed By Forty-five Representatives of Auxiliaries.

The conference of the thirteen auxiliaries of the Red Cross association in Twin Falls county, outside of the Fall Independent organization, which met here Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing conditions in the county, proved most enjoyable and profitable to all concerned. The session of general work and Christian unity boxes were gone over quite thoroughly though informally. Captain H. W. Wilson, president of the Twin Falls chapter, welcomed the forty-five representatives of the auxiliaries with a neat speech of welcome.

Words of welcome were also extended by Mrs. John E. White, Mrs. J. W. McRobert, Mrs. E. J. Ostrander and Mrs. W. F. Edwards.

J. G. Bradley read the financial report, which was considered exceedingly satisfactory. "The question of the disposition of the proceeds of funds remaining after the drive was considered but not determined. Kimberly and Piler reports that each had raised $100, for the endowment of a base hospital. Kimberly's representative brought their check along.

Miss Maxwell explaining the plans of the Red Cross for the Southern Idaho Fair. Representatives of auxiliaries will have an exhibit and will take in new members.

Delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. M. E. Hamlin retired from the secretarial duties to give place to Mrs. E. L. MacVicar. In appreciation of her untiring work during her term, the Red Cross presented Miss Hamlin with a beautiful gold red cross pin, while the men of the organization gave her a fine American flag. Both were presented with appropriate talks.

A campaign for tin foil and leaf begun by Miss Hamlin will be extended. Everyone having tin foil or leaf, however small an amount, should bring it to Red Cross headquarters. There is a demand for these now and a collection will be worth gathering for the cause.

The following are the auxiliaries attached to the Twin Falls chapter: Berger, Castleford, Community, Curry, Excelsior, Piler, Kimberly, Hansen, Rock Creek, Murtaugh, Pleasant View, Hollister, Rogerson.
