I. W. W. RAID IN NEW YORK IS FRUITFUL

EVIDENCE FOUND SHOWING CONNECTION WITH THE GERMAN PROPAGANDA

Documents in German Language Seized

Ninety Spy Suspects All of Whom Are Unnaturalized Subjects of Kaiser Are Captured and Will be Interned for War.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Following up their sensational raid of last night, when more than 200 alien enemies and members of the I. W. W. were taken into custody, the police today continued to round up "spotted" men in all parts of the city. It was stated that many of the men arrested will be interned for the duration of the war.

In their raids the authorities have obtained a mass of evidence showing systematic German plotting throughout greater New York. Papers, blue prints and maps for the greater part written in German were seized. Many boxes of machinery being manufactured in New York for the government and quantities of amny compound that would quickly destroy machinery and render useless the works of any engine were found in the German quarters and were seized.

Ninety spy suspects, all of them unnaturalized Germans and most of them factory mechanics, were being held under lock and key at police headquarters when the police and navy secret office men today completed their sensational round up of alien enemies here.

GOOD ROADS IN TWIN FALLS CO. COMMISSIONERS' PLAN SET OUT. THE ADVISORY BOARD ACCEPTS.

One-third Cost of State Highway Will be Paid by State If County Bonds Are Voted—Now Is the Time and Opportunity for Twin Falls County to Get Out of the Mud and Dust.

THE PROPOSED ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

The outline offered by the county commissioners for the proposed hard surfacing of roads indicates a fair and impartial program, well calculated to meet the needs of the various districts.

The improvement of the state highways will not only reach all the principal communities in the county but will give us the benefit of a substantial state appropriation.

The map discloses that each community will be connected with all the other communities in the county by the shortest feasible routes. For instance: Castelford has two direct routes to Buhl, one to Ellers and one to Twin Falls; and the Hansen bridge will be connected by the most direct lines with Hansen, Kimberly and Twin Falls.

Additional market roads are provided by cross-roads at practically all railroad stations where the heaviest hauling converges.

The contemplated expenditure will not build a hard surface road on every section line but it will lay the foundation for a splendid system of highways which should be extended from time to time to meet increasing traffic demands.

We have accepted the invitation, authorized at a public meeting, and at the suggestion of the county commissioners, to act as an advisory board, consulting with the commissioners concerning the kind of roads to be built. Our chief concern will be to see the county get one hundred cents worth for each dollar expended.

ARTHUR L. SWIN, Twin Falls. W. F. ALFORTH, Ellers. LAWRENCE HANSEN, Hansen. C. H. TAYLOR, Buhl. THOS. H. IRWIN, Kimberly. Advisory Board.

The foregoing official statement by the advisory board, selected by the people at large and subsequently confirmed by the county commissioners, will prove of great interest and of most important in the further consideration of the one million dollar road bond issue now proposed for Twin Falls county.

This board as constituted included two names other than those signed above: Messrs. Thos. J. Douglas, of Hollister, and Carl Miller, of Castelford. Both these gentlemen will undoubtedly serve with the committee, but as they could not be reached yesterday by phone or otherwise, their names were not appended to this statement.

On the fourth page of this issue appears an official publication of the resolutions in the matter of the proposed million dollar county road bond issue unanimously adopted by the county commissioners on Tuesday, September 25. They declare, in brief, as follows:

1. That an election on a bond issue of one million dollars will be submitted to the voters of the entire county at a date to be named in the latter part of October.
2. That in case the election authorizes the bond issue, bonds will be put out on sale—only enough at a time, however, to meet necessities of the work.
3. The election of a Peoples' Advisory Board, or committee, consisting of Messrs. A. L. Swin, Twin Falls; C. H. Taylor, Buhl; C. J. Miller, Castelford; W. F. Alforth, Ellers; T. J. Douglas, Hollister; T. H. Irwin, Kimberly; Lawrence Hansen, Hansen. This board, representing all parts of the county, is expected to co-operate in handling the funds as well as in laying out the roads to be improved.
4. A definite plan to pave the state highway, from Hansen to Buhl at estimated cost of $14,000 per mile; and to finish the rest of that highway in the county with crushed rock and gravel at an estimated cost of $6,000 per mile. Also to improve cross roads, as shown by county map published on fifth page herewith, in such manner that every locality in the county can be reached by hard surfaced roads.
5. The confident belief, based upon known facts and figures, that the automobile license tax will prove sufficient to pay interest on the bonds without any tax levy for that purpose.
6. That the board desires that every taxpayer, before deciding for or against the bonds, should know, definitely where and how roads are to be improved and how the money that is to be voted will be handled and expended.

Frisco Loses Big Plant From Strike

Government Decides To Move Site To Atlantic Coast—Portland Trouble Is Unsettled.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Because of the shipbuilding labor troubles at San Francisco, the shipping board has permanently abandoned plans for the construction of a $10,000,000 government-owned shipbuilding plant at San Francisco bay, shipping board officials announced today. The board had completed all arrangements for the construction of this plant and was preparing an official announcement setting forth that the initial cost would be met by the ordinary investment. The strike, however, has resulted in a complete change of the plans and it is now proposed to enlarge the proposed federal shipbuilding plant to be constructed on the Atlantic coast, where labor conditions are better.

PORTLAND, Sept. 27.—Although eleven shipbuilding plants at which upwards of 7,000 men are at work announced they would resume operations this morning and open their gates to all men who wanted to work, there is little change in the strike today. The unions are holding their

AMERICANS ARE BOMBARDED BY THE ZEPPELINS

MACHINE GUNS AND BOMBS KEPT THINGS STIRRING FOR A TIME IN CAMP

Sammies Joked While the Fun Was On

Troops Anxious to Get to Front and Mix in Things—French President and Belgian King Escape Narrowly.

German aviators have bombarded the barracks of American army engineers, but none of them received a scratch.

The attack was made at night and the men were suddenly aroused by the bursting of explosives. They hurried into the bomb proof dugouts and there calmly waited until the raiders made off.

Flying at low altitudes the hostile visitors opened up with their machine guns and riddled the barracks buildings.

The Americans took the attack very calmly and showed not a trace of nervousness.

How the German airmen were able to locate the American barracks in the darkness is a mystery.

The location of the cantonments has not been revealed by the military authorities nor has it become known how close they are to the front.

The chief feature of the attack was the calmness of the men. Some even joked while the German machine guns were rattling high above the ground.

When the barracks were established the officers, seeing the possibility of an air raid had deep dugouts constructed and equipped for just such emergencies.

German aviators have been scouting for some time in an evident search for American troops and were evidently anxious almost to ferret out their location.

This information has not caused any nervousness among the Sammies, however. They are here for action and already some of them are kicking because "they are not allowed to see the Verdun front."

King Albert of Belgium and President Poincare of France had a narrow escape from death while on a visit to the Verdun front, it was learned here today. No details are given.

Bankers Battle on Proposed Legislation

Country Bankers Who Want To Remain Outside Reserve Oppose The New Plan.

Home J. Dodge, (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 27.—Country bankers are here for action and already some of them are kicking because "they are not allowed to see the Verdun front."

King Albert of Belgium and President Poincare of France had a narrow escape from death while on a visit to the Verdun front, it was learned here today. No details are given.

The fate of the system will be determined by the report of the committee, a report eagerly awaited by the 27 delegates to the American Bankers' association now in session here.

GERMAN WAR PARTY ON THE AGGRESSIVE IN THE REICHSTAG

Make Demands for Annexations and Indemnities as Price of Peace—National Liberals Join Conservative Junkers—Centrists and Socialists Drop Historic Quarrel to Fight Against Program of Extreme War Party—Kaiser Said to Have Assured Pope He Will Evacuate Belgium on "Specified Conditions"—Von Tirpitz "Ruthless"—Element Would Shut Off Debate and Prevent Peace Talk.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 27.—Coincident with the convening of the German reichstag the Pan-German party has launched the most vigorous campaign in behalf of a peace with annexations and indemnities that Germany has shown since the outbreak of the war.

The Pan-Germans are receiving the support of the National Liberals, but are meeting with powerful opposition from the Social Democrats and the Centrists.

Representatives in the reichstag of the von Tirpitz group of reactionaries are planning to have the present session cut as short as possible and to block all debate on peace if possible.

In view of the situation now existing in Germany much interest was aroused here today by the report that Germany had secretly made known to Pope Benedict her willingness to restore Belgium on certain conditions.

A dispatch to the International News Service from a Swiss source several days before the text of the German reply had been made public stated that the German government "had communicated to the pope that it was willing to give up the occupied portion of Belgium territory on conditions that were specified."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Germany's latest peace "trial balloon" the verbal offer to Pope Benedict XV to quit Belgium under certain trade and military guarantees fails absolutely to interest the United States government. Officials made this plain today by recalling that the position this government has maintained at all times is that Germany must completely restore the country; its military ambition ravished and that however great might be the wish of the United States for an honorable peace it cannot deviate from that stand.

State department officials again pointed to the warning given two weeks ago that Germany was about to launch a series of seeming peace concessions that had no other object than crystallizing pacifist propaganda in the allied nations.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 27.—Hostile references were made to President Wilson's note to the pope when the reichstag met on Wednesday, and a dispatch from Berlin today.

President Kaempff was quoted as saying that "anyone who attempted to come between the Kaiser and the German people would encounter granite."

PRESDENT DEFERS ACTION PENDING RECEIPT OF TELEGRAMS

Anti-German Riot in Capital

Preparations Being Made for War and Sailors Are Put in Charge of the Buenos Aires Water System.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 27.—Reports were current today that President Irioyen would send a message to Congress counselling delay in the proposed rupture with Germany.

It is rumored that the president wants to wait until the translation of certain telegrams which were sent from here by the Swedish legation after approval of voting the congressional resolution in favor of a break with Germany.

Serious disorders have occurred in the capital during the past 24 hours as a result of anti-German agitation and the strike situation. Shots were fired during one outbreak of rioting and one person was killed and several wounded.

Sailors from the fleet are being put in charge of the city water works and an armed guard is being maintained.

Although the congressional demand has not yet received executive approval from President Irioyen, there is great activity in the government departments of war and marine.

ANOTHER SUBMARINE STORY

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 27.—Two German submarines were sunk by destroyers convoying troop trains across the Atlantic, according to well known newspaper man arriving here from Europe today. He stated that the submarines were obtained from naval officials he met in London.

Harvest Hands Are Very Scarce

Farmers Compelled to Help One Another, Causing Much Delay With The Threshing.

Because of the lack of help, it has been necessary to prolong the threshing season this year. The farmers have found it necessary to assist one another in the work because of the shortage of dependable men, and consequently are finding it difficult to get the work done. It has been necessary for one machine to set up at a single place as high as three times before the entire crop could be handled. Generally the wheat has been threshed first, then the oats and other grains, and last the clover and grass seeds.

Many farmers, who have heretofore depended upon the harvest hand this year, handled the whole crop practically single handed. One man living southeast of town put up his own hay and stacked his own grain, doing all the hauling and stacking by himself. In many instances the women folk have gotten out in the field and worked like men.

After all we conclude that the American farmer, especially the farmer of Twin Falls, is not to be cheated out of his rightful heritage even by conditions so adverse as lack of hands in a plentiful harvest. This has been a year when it has been practically true that the harvest is great but the laborers few.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The local Methodist church, proposes to entertain his friends and members next Saturday night by presenting to them the DeMoss Entertaining company of musicians and readers. This company comes with the reputation of being entertainers of a very high class, and have featured in many of the larger churches of the state. The company consists of two men and two women, and two boys, all of whom are efficient musicians, able to play various instruments, and all are singers of exceptional ability.

The entertainment will be given next Saturday night at the Methodist church, and the community is cordially invited to be present. The admission charges will be twenty-five and fifty cents.

O. S. L. DEPOT MOVED

Folks who travel will no longer have to wait across the tracks to reach the depot. The building which has served for that purpose has been moved bodily across the tracks and along with it a new foundation, now facing the north instead of the south.

While the building was standing across the main line of the railroad, the old track was constructed to accommodate the trains. It was not only necessary to move the depot across the tracks, but the whole building had to be completely turned around.

Plans are now underway to improve the parking and grounds in the depot, so as to make them more attractive as they are in other places.

BEEF HAULING TO COMMENCE SOON

Beef hauling will soon commence in real earnest. Some of the local beef raisers have been hauling for the past couple of weeks, but so far there have been very few orders in the proper condition for pulling. About October 1, however, is thought by Mr. Johnson, that the beefs will commence to come in large quantities. Mr. Johnson predicts a big crop this year.

Every Wednesday night at the parsonage, Mrs. Beckman teaches a class in Bible history. For your sake, in order for a coherent and more comprehensive understanding of this Book of life, you should put forth a great effort to be present at every meeting.

Kimberly Short of Dwelling Houses

Serious Lack of Residences and Rooms For Light House Keeping In The Town.

Many Kimberly people are wondering what they are going to do this winter for a place to live. Not that there is too poor to pay rent, but that there is nothing to rent. The shortage of houses or even light house-keeping rooms, promises to be a serious matter for some, who have not yet been able to locate a dwelling place for cold weather. Several families have talked of leaving town because of this feature of limited room, and in several instances it has been necessary for more than one family to crowd into one house that was only large enough for one. The hotels and rooming places are full of steady occupants.

As a result of this there will probably be no more for the winter season. Several new homes are under construction at the present time, and plans are being entertained for several more in the very near future.

In a measure rest assured that it will be an age of greater efficiency.

For the United States alone, there can be no other country than America of greater efficiency when this lesson of war shall have been learned. They who were formerly useless as a plague to the country because of their thoughtless disregard of the needs of the land, have now risen to the cry and need of their America, and formerly frivolous women, are now sewing, knitting, bobbing, economizing, learning to do things worth while, learning how to be wives and mothers in the truest and most sacred sense of those words. Young "sports," idle duds of absolute nothingness to all appearance and outward display at the sound of the bugle, changed like the very lightning, and who have called them worthless, are now quietly and earnestly offering their services to the country, to be used at her discretion, to be shot, mangled and torn to shreds.

The real manhood and womanhood of the race, so long hid and left unheeded; how it will finally break in a race with courage and how we admire it, and laud it, for America loves manhood and womanhood when it is true.

The crisis of war has been a redeeming influence in our land, and it seems inevitable that the future shall see a greater and more efficient and industrious race than has ever been seen before. Men and women are going to learn the value of money, the value of human life, the value of expediency, efficiency, and above all they are going to learn to sympathize with the real needs of the country and to understand the needs of others.

They are going to learn how to look a great problem square in the face and so forth. We are going to learn the value of unity and co-operation. We are going to recognize as we have never before recognized, the mutual dependence of the various human classes and kinds of men.

SOME REALITIES THAT SHOULD NOT BE

A certain young man walked into a confectionery store and bought twenty-five cents worth of chewing gum. Ten minutes before he had turned down a fellow in a hump back who asked for the price of a cup of coffee.

A certain lady of great means had a pile for a pet—upon the animal she lavished jewels of great price, diamonds, gold rubies, and pearls. In his name, today, five hundred children were being cared for in orphan's houses, and many a little chap stood shivering in his ragged clothes in the snow, while his mother rode by in their car.

A lad tried to sell him a paper. It was the way he made his living, but he would never up and buy a package of peanuts instead.

When will the world learn to measure the value of a man, and spend his money accordingly? How many foolish things we do, that neither help us or the other fellow. It is not that we would launch all pleasure from life, and take away the brightness of a little fun for ourselves, for that is all necessary for our normal development. It is not that we would cease to enjoy some of those luxuries that help to make us broader, more dignified, more pleasant, and better natured. But we would like to learn to distinguish between the value of our needs and that of the other fellow and learn to use our superabundance, and our greater means to make the rest of the world a little happier.

One man will always rain more than another, be more intellectual, more spiritual, a better business man, and how great an opportunity that man has to put a little sunshine into the world.

Terrific Explosions Destroy Factories

Manditory Plant Blown To Pieces and Standard Oil Plant Destroyed. Injured—One Man Killed 12 Injured.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 25.—One man was killed and more than a dozen others were injured when a terrific explosion wrecked the manditory plant of the Newton Manufacturing company, at Warrenville, three miles from here today.

Three hundred others at work in the building at the time had narrow escapes. The force of the explosion blew windows in houses more than a mile away.

The Newton Manufacturing company is engaged in the manufacture of strapping and shells for the United States government. The company's plant was filled with nitro glycerine shells.

was responsible for it. An officer of the Standard Oil company declared his investigation established that beyond a doubt the explosion was accidental and due to gas generated in the hold.

Indian Home Rule Issue in Empire

Agitation For Autonomy In Home Affairs—Spreading—Through—Eastern Land.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The home rule fight which Ireland has monopolized so long, has now spread to India.

To ally this agitation with explaining the political reforms which the home government has in mind is one of the tasks which will fall to Edwin Montagu, secretary for India, when he leaves for Bombay later.

"Political feeling in India is drifting into dangerous channels," says the Times, one of the most conservative newspapers in the British Isles. It adds:

"Apart from the extreme forms of agitation, advocating something in the form of complete home rule immediately, the conservative opinion is a policy of passive resistance to the counter measures with which the government has been compelled to maintain its authority. In the great body of middle opinion a feeling of uncertainty prevails as to what will be the position of India in the British empire when peace is declared."

FORGIVENESS

My heart was heavy, for its trust had been abused, its kindness answered with foul wrong; So turning gloomily from my fellow man, One summer Sabbath day I straggled among The green mounds of the village burial place; Where, pondering how all human love and hate Find one sad level—and how, soon or late, Wronged and wrong-doer, each with meekened face, And cold hands-folded—over a still heart, Pass the green threshold of our common grave, Whither all footsteps trend, whence all life-departures— Awe-d-for-myself, and pitying my race, Our common sorrow, like a mighty wave, Swept all my pride, and trembling I forgave.— John Greenleaf Whittier.

OUR FUTURE EFFICIENCY

There is one inevitable outcome of this war which is the one bright side to all this ugliness, as it were, the lifting of the cloud. It takes just such a crisis to open our eyes to the criminal things we have been doing in our blind selfishness. The outstanding laziness and absolute uselessness of some of our so-called best people, as they devoted their hours to wasteful, extravagant living, to life unprofitable pastimes; to dress, to jewelry, to frivolities was more than an abomination to our fair land. It was a national problem of colossal dimensions, which had it been permitted to go on so further, extremities would probably have resulted in a calamity to our national progress.

extremes of fashion and foolishness

In their pseudo-dogmatism, in their practice of race extinction through failure to take time to make a home; and in all of those practices of wasted energy and purpose; and the hungering classes financially below their level should have followed in their foot steps, the outcome is readily seen. The truth of the matter is, the whole American race would have deteriorated into a state of simple good-for-nothingness.

But thanks to a kind providence we have been saved from this calamity, by another which at first glance seems more awful, but which in reality cannot compare in its selfishness with the one we have escaped.

U. S. Red Cross Well Assisted

Belgian Labor Utilized in Much of the Activities of The Organization On European War Front.

By Robert J. Drew. (U. S. Staff Correspondent.) PARIS, Sept. 27.—Belgian labor is being utilized by the American Red Cross in reconstruction work in the devastated regions of France from which the Germans withdrew last March to the Hindenburg line. The employment of Belgian laborers and artisans by the American authorities solves two grave problems, the first being that of obtaining men in a country where there are no soldiers in the trenches employed in munitions making, and the second being that of providing employment for Belgians refugees in France.

Part of the huge fund subscribed in the United States to aid France is being used in rebuilding French cities and towns destroyed by the invaders. The American Red Cross Executive Committee, headed by Major Grayson P. Murphy, who is attached to General Pershing's staff, is directing the work.

When the committee went to the French government and announced it had millions of dollars to spend in reconstructing the devastated regions it asked for a certain amount of labor—about 300 French civilians to begin with.

Louis Malvy, minister of the Interior, threw up his hands. There were not 200 able-bodied Frenchmen available for that work. France's manpower was in the trenches or just behind the line, and every man that could be spared from fighting was engaged in making guns, shells and ships or in tilling the soil that France might not be starved by the submarine campaign.

"But what are we to do? We must have men to perform the work. We have the money, but it is useless without labor," said Major Murphy. "Perhaps you could use Annamites," suggested M. Malvy.

Annamites are the natives of the French colony in Indo-China. They are Mongoloid of slight stature like the Japanese, and they have been extensively used as skilled labor in French factories since the war. They have proved particularly adept in manufacturing aeroplane motors, where their painstakingness and thoroughness in details are especially appreciated.

Major Murphy investigated the proposition and found that it was not feasible, because of the lack of bottoms and the need of every available ship for carrying troops, provisions and munitions.

Finally Louis Chevillon, secretary of the Belgian Relief Commission in Paris, solved the problem. He had through several skilled mechanics who had worked in Brussels before the war and who had fled before the Kaiser's invader legions, to the 300 Belgian laborers and skilled workers in two weeks and to have 500 in a month.

Belgians are available because many exemptions have been granted to young men of military age who have been in the front lines in the Belgian army. This leniency exists because the Allied Powers realize how Belgium's manhood has been bled and that the necessary men must serve some of the men of "the bantam kingdom" to repopulate it when the invaders withdraw.

As a result there are many Belgian refugees scattered throughout France, subsisting on charity in many cases. They have come through so many privations and hardships that they are glad to work and with their women folk sold into slavery in Germany and their men folk in the trenches, they have no incentive to try to find employment in a strange land.

These men are being rounded up by half a dozen energetic Belgian leaders from Paris, who themselves held trusted situations in the factories of Antwerp, Brussels and Liege. Instead of waiting for their countrymen to seek positions, they are offering work to them and guaranteeing that the Belgians will work together and not be mixed with French or other labor.

In less than a week M. Chevillon's headquarters recruited over 120 Belgian laborers and skilled artisans, and in two weeks they had almost obtained the first 300. The Belgians are paid nineteen cents a day, which is the standard wage today in France, and must feed and house themselves. Usually the cost of housing will be met, however, as there are ample billets for workmen as well as for troops in most of the ruined villages behind the lines.

French authorities are highly pleased at the action of the American Red Cross in offering employment to the unemployed refugees and they have, been doubly miserable because of their idleness and constant brooding over their troubles. It is estimated that as the work progresses and broadens out more and more Belgians will be hired until several thousands are being utilized.

In the Matter of the Proposed Bond Issue For Roads by Unanimous Action the Following Statement Was Adopted for Submission to The Voters:

Yielding to what appeared to this board as a general demand for road improvement by means of a bond issue, we, as county commissioners of Twin Falls county have decided to call an election for the purpose of submitting to the voters of the entire county a bond issue in the sum of $1,000,000. The proceedings for this election are being prepared by the attorneys for the Lumberman's Trust company of Portland, Oregon. Every step in the proceedings is being carefully gone over by the attorney in the legality of the election. It is generally conceded that better bidding will be obtained for bond issues where the proceedings have been prepared by bond attorneys of recognized standing with the leading bond houses.

It is proposed to call this election for the latter part of October, and should the election carry, the bonds will be offered for sale immediately thereafter. In selling the bonds it is our intention to have all the money made available at once, thereby prepossessing the banks with local banks until such time as is needed. The sale will be conditioned on the money being advanced by the state and the state is need for it to pay for the construction.

In order to secure the fair handling of the proceeds of the bond issue an advisory committee has been named to co-operate with this board in laying out the roads to be improved and in the expenditure of the money. This committee consists of C. H. Taylor, chairman, J. Miller, Castelford, W. F. Alworth, Filer, T. J. Douglas, Hollister, T. H. Irwin, Kimberly, Lawrence H. Hansen, and A. L. Swain, Twin Falls.

It is proposed to pave the state highway from Buhl to Hansen at an estimated cost of $150,000 per mile. The balance of the east and west state highway in this county will be finished with crushed rock and gravel. The state highway commission, have by resolution spread on their minutes, approved this plan of construction and have agreed that the state will contribute one-third of the expense. The mileage other than the state highway which it is intended to improve from the bond issue will be of crushed rock and gravel construction at an estimated cost of $5,000.00 per mile.

The county commissioners in conjunction with the advisory committee have outlined the roads to be improved as shown by a map which has been prepared and which can be referred to by the voters. In selecting the roads to be improved it has been the intention to distribute the work throughout the county in such manner that each town and shipping point would have hard surface roads leading to them and also to give their residents of each community a direct route to the different towns on the route.

We believe that the county's share of the automobile tax will be sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and that there would be no levy required to meet this interest by a direct tax. This statement is made with the belief that the taxpayers should know definitely, before deciding for or against the bonds, where the roads are to be improved and how the money will be handled.

BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS O. E. CARLSON, Chairman. W. F. BREWER.

OLD HOMESTEAD REVIVED AGAIN MAKES 'EM LAUGH

Bewhiskered old jokes so ancient as to be brand new to today's generation and a happy revival of yesterday's colloquial expressions and the rural slang of the late '80's added to clean, wholesome plot and a group of lovable characters admirably played, will be appreciated in the return of "The Old Homestead" which will be revived at the Lavinging theatre, next Monday, October 1.

Uncle Joshua, portrayed by Ferdinand Hunter, is a splendid character throughout the play, and a genuine delight to everyone who laughs with him when he asks if the statute in the New York homestead had been a New York lady before she died, or when he sheds gentle tears over his search for his lost boy—Aunt Mattie, by Elizabeth Hogg, the old spinster for whom two delicious old characters, Cy Frimo and Sothe Perkins, played by John Sumner and William Dills, fight and quarrel in just the right way to make the old New England home com-

Roosevelt Answers "Tom Fool" Question
Says We Are in Same Position As Man Boasting Slap in Wife's Face. Not to Fight at a Disadvantage.
(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
CAMP GRANT, Rockford, Ill., Sept. 26.—When you look at what Germany has done to us the man who asks why the United States is at war is capable of asking why the man whose wife's face has been slapped knocks down the fellow who did it.
This was Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's answer here today to what he termed the "Tom Fool" questions asked by pacifists and those who seek to obstruct the war program of the United States. The answer was given in a typical Roosevelt address to the thousands of men of the national army in training here. The same illustration was used three weeks ago by Senator Williams in reply to Senator Hardwick.

"Another type of tom fool," continued Colonel Roosevelt, "asks why we should fight abroad. The answer is simply because we don't want to fight at home.
"You are going over," the Colonel told the men of Camp Grant, "so that you won't have to fight at a disadvantage. Some of us wanted to get into the fight but we weren't wanted. What I am going to do is my level best to back you men who go to the front to fight the Hun outside of our country and to help those who stay to fight the Hun inside this country.
"We have heard a good deal of the conscientious objector. He says we must consider his conscience. If he is so too conscientious to fight for his country then I would like to see us so conscientious to let him vote for his country."

Second Raid Kills Several in London

Half Was a Failure as Most Of The Ships Were Driven Back By The Patrol.
LONDON, Sept. 26.—Six persons were killed and 15 wounded in last night's German air raid on London, it was officially announced today. This was the second raid against this city in 24 hours, but was a failure so far as material results were concerned.
Not more than two hostile planes were able to fight their way past the coast defenses and the British aerial patrols. Those two reached a southern suburb.
A number of bombs were dropped, but there were no casualties outside of London.
The six persons killed last night brings the total number of Britons killed in German air raids up to 83.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
LONDON, Sept. 26.—Germany will "bear her share of the damage done to Belgium provided Belgium guarantees to cease to be a menace to Germany."

According to the dispatch Germany agrees to the restoration of Belgian independence but will insist that Germany shall develop Belgium's economic enterprise.

CONVICT LAFOLETTE— THEN OUST HIM

The advisability of attempting to oust Senator LaFollette before convicting him in court for the utterances attributed to him, wherein he is quoted as saying that the United States had no valid reason to go to war with Germany, is largely a question of expedience, though the precedent which it would establish should be considered. LaFollette, whose slight attitude on this question has been reprehensible and unparliamentary, is quoted as saying in Minnesota, that while the United States had a right to allow its citizens to sell arms and munitions to the allies, it had no right to go to war on account of the killing of men and women riding on ships that carried such munitions. The unreasonableness of this view judged by international law has been so often shown in the TIMES that its repetition would be superfluous. Even in less civilized times, the doctrine that no ship should be sunk without first caring for the safety of its passengers was accepted by all advanced nations. That this was sound international law was specifically admitted by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Sussex case, so that LaFollette was more German than the chancellor. This was had enough before war was declared. At this time it is treatable in spirit in letters. No sympathy should be wasted on the Wisconsin senator whatever congress may in its discretion determine to do with him. Should it decide to oust him, it has a legal right to do so, and he deserves it richly on account of his general attitude.

Yet, the advisability of the act at this time may well be questioned, unless following conviction in court. In the first place the utterances attributed to him were admittedly made in the midst of confusion and may have been misapprehended and misquoted. The law covers treasonable and scurrilous utterances pretty thoroughly and if those were such, the first place to try him is in the courts. Should he be convicted there, the senate should act promptly, but should the evidence disclose that no legal treason had been committed, then such proceedings would be inadvisable though quite legal and morally excusable. The situation in the courts at this time is just this: Pro-German agents have sedulously and to some extent successfully instilled in the minds of some people the false idea that there is a widespread movement on foot to deprive them of their liberties. Those who accept this theory are relatively few. In addition a vague, false suspicion has entered the minds of a larger number of workers, that there is a possibility that something of the kind may be intended. Anything that can be twined into evidence that such is the case, will tend to dampen the enthusiasm which such may feel for their country. That such ideas haunt some citizens who are supporting the government cannot be doubted. The wise policy, the one which Lincoln would pursue, would be to convince such of their error.

With this class the open utterances of the Wisconsin senator do less harm than many suppose. That he is a demagogue has been pretty thoroughly soaked into minds of even the lukewarm. But a senator of the United States losing his seat for his alleged convictions would be quite another matter. The halo of martyrdom would make him a hero with many people who mean to be good citizens. Denunciation of those who would thus be misled would be quite futile. It would further alienate them and make them feel as martyrs.

The effect in Germany would likewise probably be had, for it would be pointed out that a man, who had committed no crime for which he was amenable to the law of the land, had been ousted from the senate, and this would be perverted into a proof that the freedom of America was a myth and, further, that desperate measures were necessary to prevent American citizens from revolting.

Arrested, tried and convicted of scurrilous utterances in open court in a fair trial and the unfortunate consequences mentioned above in possible would not follow.

The plan of laying the evidence in the case before a jury is the wisest one. There is more deep-seated unanimity among the people in favor of this war than of any other war in which the country was ever engaged. Popular liberties are safer than ever before. The masses are not deterred, but are convinced and determined. Under such circumstances, circumstances that whatever is done should tend to still further unify the people, and the fact that accused criminals even in the senate, get their day in court, will strengthen this feeling.

"ADMISSION TWO BITS"

The proprietors of these enterprising publications, The Denver Post and the Kansas City Post with their vast number of spell-bound readers of live scandal, and incidentally proprietors of a cracking good circus, have spotted something bigger than the latest divorce sensation, the ferocious rhinoceros or the African lion. They have seen the man who flayed the demon of marital infidelity, took the hind-off of the rhinoceros and threw the lion into the lion, roaming whither he would, from Timbuctoo to the "River of Doubt," except on the European battle front, and learned that the only reason he did not wander there was because of a fence, "bull strong, horseshoe high and hog-tight," erected under the direction of the general war staff.

A great light came to these wily journalistic showmen. If they could only catch this chatting specimen and display him before the admiring and subscription-paying multitude in the act of chewing up the general war staff it would bring plenty shekels to their coffers. To think was to act, for their familiarity with actors is noted, and here is what they did, as described in the International News Service dispatches yesterday:

"KANSAS CITY, MO.—F. G. Bennett and H. H. Tommes, proprietors of the Denver Post and the Kansas City Post, today published an open letter to Col. Theodore Roosevelt offering to pay the colonel two dollars for every one promised him by the Kansas City Star, a newspaper which has employed Roosevelt as a special writer. If the colonel will accept his connection with that paper and devote his energies to a campaign against the Denver and Kansas City Posts to stir the colonial war organization of its war staffs and an efficient conduct of the war preparations, Roosevelt has not yet signified whether he will accept the offer.

"Lead to buying the untamed at so much per, it naturally occurred to them that the only way to catch this partner of the "nut eating bird" was to buy him. Once they had him, they felt that they could make him roar at suitable intervals, that is every few minutes, at the general staff by holding up a picture of the war scenes in Europe from which he had been separated by the attitude of the war council. They figured, no doubt, that the noise resulting, would reduce to the cadence of a darkey lullaby, the rage of the British lion when American politicians twined his tail.

The quest will be futile. The colonel will not be a party to the Post's enterprising subscription campaign. He will not enter into a rivalry for first place in the Post audiences with Flossie Dewdrop, the winsome variety actress who inveigled Billie Billions, the wealthy scion of the New York Billions, into a costly matrimonial escapade. The colonel may have laughed in spirit on the troublous shores of the "River of Doubt" before he ever saw the stream, while the match-making "Easy Boss" wooed and won him into wedding a vice presidential nomination in 1900, but he isn't there now for the purposes of Bullfinch and Tommes.

The confidenturchin who goes forth on the advice of his mother to ensnare the wary and elusive swallow by sprinkling salt on his tail will have a bird now collected before these enterprising journalists and showmen get their prey.

Still, the advertising feature is worth the trial. The two Posts are brought to popular attention. The older Bennett of the New York Herald sent an expedition to seek the north pole. It did not bring back the pole but left it where it didn't find it, in order that it might later be a boneless bone of contention between Admiral Peary and Captain Cook. The effort paid the Herald well. The Post will lose nothing in this venture. They are not in the habit of suffering financial loss, and their present impriety, far obvious reason, will not lose them the respect of the best people of the country. You can't lose what you haven't got.

A WISE MOVE

President Wilson never did a wiser thing in his official career than when he discovered the scoundrel of congressional representative to an inter-alleied congress in Europe. America stands in this war for certain great things. Without an alliance or anything that can be construed to mean one, it can compel the nations abroad to also maintain a high standard. A formal alliance, or something that could be construed as such, would perhaps seem to commit the United States to a stable economic or other arrangements of foreign nations which would prove detrimental to our own commercial interests as well as to the interests of permanent peace.

The unfortunate results of unauthorized negotiations between American consuls in the Orient with Filipino during the war with Spain is sufficient warning to avoid letting men without authority but with something of the semblance of it, get into positions where they can say something that some enthusiast or designing person can construe as a pledge in behalf of their country.

The advisory committee selected from the different neighborhoods to consult with the commissioners, are among the best and most experienced men in the county. That an safeguard will be overlooked to protect the people is assured with such men working in connection with the board.

His portrait is there on the mantle or perhaps it has the place of honor on the piano. Mother has another framed in her room and Father has another copy on his desk down town. But the soldier-boy—what about him? There was so much to do in those few hours of furlough, of those last days of preparation, and no one thought about portraits of the homefolks to send with him. Every one was so anxious to see the proofs of his photographs and it was entirely forgotten that there was not one picture for him to take away—not even one of Mother. Of course it would please him immensely if she were to have her photograph made—say tomorrow morning that an unmounted print might be sent to him in the next letter. Father would want to send his photograph too; in fact, there would be room in the military notebook for little portraits of all the family just as there is room in the soldier's heart for the tenderest love of home.

QUALITY OF PROTEIN VARIES

Source of Nutrition Is Important as Well as Quantities Furnished, Say Wisconsin Experts.

Hart and Humphrey of the Wisconsin experimental station report that there is a difference between the quality of proteins coming from various kinds of feeds. As an instance, an animal is able to use more of the protein found in milk than in any other article of food. Sixty per cent of the protein in distiller's grain can be used, 61 per cent of oilmeal, 47 per cent of gluten feed and 60 per cent of skim milk powder when fed with corn.

An animal producing from 40 to 45 pounds of milk daily and receiving no skim milk powder stood no nitrogen, but rather drew from her system in proportion to the amount demanded. So more protein was fed in the ration when the skim milk powder was used; the results were simply owing to the fact that in one form the protein was usable, while in the other it was not. The source of nutrition is therefore important as well as the quantities furnished.

NECESSARY FOOD FOR PLANT

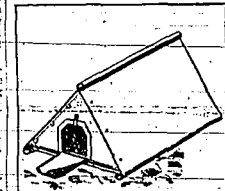

Humus Has Power of Holding Nitrates of Soil Firmly—Holds Moisture in Position.

Humus is the substance formed in the soil by decaying vegetable matter, such as leaves, stubble, roots, manure, crop-placed under, and so on. Humus not only combines elements of plant food itself, but it has the power of holding the necessary nitrates of fertile soil to prevent their escaping through washing or other means. It also has the effect of a sponge in absorbing and holding moisture in position and form available for the use of growing plants and aids in keeping the soil porous. Humus is indispensable to plant growth. Poor crops are in many cases due to its lack.

GROW CORN THAT IS ADAPTED

Most Profitable to Raise Crop That Will Mature and Secure Entire Season to Ripen.

(W. E. HANSEN, Ohio College of Agriculture.) It is the most profitable, ordinarily, to grow corn that will mature and that will require the entire growing season in order to ripen. In the northern portion of the state, corn that has been introduced from southern sections frequently not mature. In the southern portion of the state, on the other hand, some corn is grown which does not require the entire growing season for its maturity. Such corn is of a smaller type and does not yield as much grain as the length of season makes possible.

CULTIVATION OF CORN CROP

There is No Work Which Will Take Place of Good Plowing Near Enough to Destroy Weeds.

Some plow the middles, but do not plow near the corn. While it is important to clean the middles, there is no work which will take the place of good plowing near enough the corn to destroy all the grass. The plow is the implement for grass destruction, but after all can be done with it there may be here and there some hoeing to do. When the corn is laid by as to plowing, the hoe should go immediately over the fields and destroy every weed and every sprig of grass which may have been left. The rule on every farm should be to lay by the corn absolutely clean.

BEST DISPOSITION OF ASHES

Scatter Them in Henhouse Over and Under Roosts and Wherever Filth Has Collected.

The best place to use the ashes from the range or coal stove is in the henhouse. Scatter them liberally over and under the roost and wherever any filth has collected. Keep the feeding portion of the house heavily littered with straw and feed the grain in the straw. Make the hens work and they will not get lazy.

Says Americans Must Quit Joy Riding

Great Britain Will Speedily Pay Off Immense Debt Contracted During the War and Regain Prosperity.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—Great Britain will be able to cope successfully with the submarine menace, H. R. Brand, vice chairman of the British war mission declared this afternoon before the American Bankers' association. He asserted that the British now have more than 4,000 anti-submarine boats operating. The speaker also declared in emphatic fashion that America's loans to Great Britain are safe. He declared that American automobile pleasure driving must cease. Business cannot remain as usual, he said, because all industry must be reorganized on a war basis. Brand said the war had changed England from a creditor nation with a billion dollars favorable trade balance to a debtor nation, owing billions. He maintained the resources of the allies were adequate to beat Germany, if properly handled, but that America must learn to proceed on a war basis. Referring again to England's war debt, he said: "The world will be amazed at the rapidly with which she will pay off this debt." She has sold two and a half billion dollars worth of American securities, has borrowed a billion from the United States. In addition, she now owes for goods bought here and must continue to ask for additional funds and credit. In conclusion, Brand said that England must borrow heavily because she has the largest navy and is financing other allies.

Congressmen and Senators Threatened

Anonymous Letters Received By Leaders In The National Houses Swearing Vengeance.

(I. N. S. Special Wire) WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Threats of death have been received in large numbers during the past few days by congressmen and senators who have been especially active in pushing war legislation. Anonymous writers, believed to include pro-Germans and scoundrel pacifists, anti-draft advocates, I. W. W. members and plain cranks are promising to kill all senators who have to do with measures relating to the war. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military affairs committee who had more to do with the passage of the draft bill than any other man in congress, has been the recipient of several communications threatening him with death. The senator has entirely ignored them. Senator King of Utah, who has been particularly outspoken against the I. W. W. and other forms of organized dissidence, has also been struck over for death by some of the anonymous writers. Senator King believes that most of the communications came from I. W. W. members, who are enraged at his actions. One of the writers threatened not only to kill the senator but all members of his family.

(I. N. S. Approval or disapproval of the stand on his public and "authorized" utterances on war issues. LaFollette has instructed his lieutenants in Wisconsin that future campaigns there should be made entirely on the basis of his position regarding America and the war. Simultaneous movements were under way in Chicago and Minnesota today to bring about the ousting of LaFollette from the United States senate. The Minnesota Public Safety committee has petitioned congress to remove LaFollette. The resolution demanding the removal of LaFollette from the senate has been prepared by a committee of the National Security league which also has led the fight against Mayor Thompson's acts and attitude. INFORMATION OF UNUSUAL INTEREST TO IDAHO GROWERS OF WHEAT.

Department of Agriculture Investigating Alleged Practice of Grain Dealers in Assessing Farmers a Discount Against Wheat Purchased.

The following information has in the main been received from the Federal department of agriculture, relative to the assessment of discounts against wheat:

It has been brought to the attention of the United States department of agriculture from several sources that in certain parts of the country, where this year's crop of wheat is now being moved, the country grain dealers are assessing the farmers a discount against all wheat purchased, contending that such assessment is mandatory by reason of the official grain standards of the United States for wheat under the United States grain standards act. Apparently the contention on the part of the country grain dealers is based upon the item "tolerance" contained in the official standards. From information received by the department it appears, however, that the discount is actually an arbitrary assessment in the interest of the buyers, and is neither on the basis of the official standards nor required or contemplated by the act of the regulation thereunder.

The primary purpose in the establishment of the official grain standards of the United States was to provide a basis for uniformity in all actions involving the purchase and sale of grain shipped or delivered for consumption in interstate or foreign commerce. It is not intended to obtain a correct application of such standards, arrive at the actual value and make settlement accordingly. The standards for wheat do not provide for any arbitrary assessment for dockage. They do provide for the determination of the amount of sand, dirt, weed seeds, water and certain other matter, called dockage, which actually may be present in a lot of wheat, the amount of which, if in excess of one-half of one per cent by weight is to be stated in terms of the actual percentage as a part of the grade designation of the wheat. This is called the dockage given for grading and has been in use for many years in the northwestern states prior to the adoption of the official standards.

The transactions in question appear to be purely local, not involving interstate commerce, and are perhaps conducted in a manner not within the prohibitions of the act. Nevertheless, the Department of Agriculture is investigating the matter and will be glad to have any information of value. It will do everything in its power to bring about the discontinuance of misrepresentation based on the act of the standards thereunder.

The following warning has been given to wheat growers:

"The wheat is the present time, greater attention than perhaps ever before, owing to its comparative scarcity and high price and the necessity of sowing it in the present fall, says the department statement. As might be expected, therefore, various persons are offering to the public varieties that they describe as far superior to the kinds now being grown. These varieties are usually given some catchy name and extravagant claims are made for them. "An example of this kind is the Alaska, or seven-headed wheat, that was exploited a few years ago. The seeders of this wheat did not get very far with it, however, as the postoffice department issued a fraud order and their business came to a standstill. This type of wheat having a large branched head, has been offered at high prices to the people of this country many times under one name or another. Records concerning it go back more than a hundred years. Just now another exploitation is threatening under the name 'Titanic.' This type of wheat with branched heads should be let strictly alone by the farmer.

"Radical claims of high yields are made for some varieties of wheat, but it is uncommon in advertising a new variety for an unscrupulous or uninformal promoter to claim yields four or five times that of the average yield of the country. Claims as high as 10 or more times the average yield have been made in a well-known case. Such claims are absurd and no one need be misled by them. "The wheat variety in the section to which it is adapted may yield a few bushels more than the varieties being commonly grown in the section, indeed can a doubling of the yield be expected.

"Buying seed grown at a great distance from home is another way of being misled. Records should be kept of the guard against. No wheat grown and bred for California conditions, for instance, so matter how good for California, has been found adapted to the country east of the Rockies. California adapted wheats do not succeed east of that state. Neither do the wheats adapted to the Atlantic coast or the Mississippi valley succeed in California. In short, home-grown seed should be used unless the State or Federal cultural experiment station or the United States department of agriculture advises otherwise."

Sheep Most Useful Animal.
Since sheep have watched their flock by night on the plains of Palestine and for thousands of years anterior to the march of the Magi after the course of the Star of the East, which led them to the manger at Bethlehem, the sheep have held one of the most sacred and beautiful and useful of all animals in the economies of mankind. No other yields so beneficially of both wool and food, the clothing of the world and the food so toothsome for man.

Start Smoke Fund for Soldier Boys

The Times Starts Campaign to Send Boxes of Smokes to American Boys in France.

The most unusual feature in this issue of the TIMES is the advertisement showing one of the cartons of smoking tobacco which are to be sent, by the hundreds of thousands, for the delectation of American soldiers in France. This advertisement is unusual for the reason that it offers nothing for sale by any one, in the present or future, and that the TIMES does not receive a cent for publishing it. It is published solely for the purpose of introducing our "Smoke Campaign"—under which all interested (and who is not?) are asked to contribute twenty-five cents, or as many times that sum as may be; and through which, for every twenty-five cents contributed a carton actually containing, at retail price, sixty-five cents worth of fine cigarettes, and smoking tobacco, will be delivered to some American soldier in France! We say "delivered" because if any shipment should be lost at sea, another will at once be forwarded in its place. Now who will be first on the list of contributors? The New York "Times" "Smoke Fund" is now over $50,000 which means 200,000 soldier packages.

The illustration gives an idea of the "Smoke" which contains several cartons of good smoking tobacco and plenty of papers, which will assure some Sammy of many a delightful and satisfying smoke, whether in the trenches, on a billet, or in the hospital, bravely bearing the pain of his wounds in order that the world might be made safer for democracy. Each package contains a postal card, with which the soldier can express his thanks to the giver of his smoke box. The name of each individual contributing to the

CONCLUDING FAIR DAYS
ATTENDANCE GOOD THURSDAY
THE GOVERNOR ON THE GROUNDS
 Show of Fine Horses, Sheep and Swine—Red Cross Bull Sold Twice for $280—Two Accidents Mar the Record—Grand Stock Parade.

A notable incident of Thursday at the Southern Idaho Fair was the visit to Filer and to the fair grounds of Governor Alexander and Attorney General Walters. These gentlemen, with the Secretary of State, had been making an official visit of inspection in the adjoining county, and arrived at Filer by the noon train which, unfortunately but not unusually, was very late. They were met at the station by Messrs. J. W. Tanner, H. H. Schilderman and other prominent citizens and taken to the Tanner residence where the hostess served them with an elegant dinner—of which the governor showed his appreciation by absorbing, according to his own statistics, one-half a fried chicken and seven biscuits. He remained able to see the fair grounds, where he met old friends and made new ones and witnessed a couple of races before leaving for the train, homeward bound.

One of the pleasing events of the day was the appearance in front of the grand stand of the five-months Holstein bull presented to the High Red Cross chapter by Mr. H. C. Stiver, a patriotic citizen of that vicinity. The bull, which was a handsome as well as pure bred animal, was put up at auction for the benefit of the chapter, and was sold to Mr. J. F. Martin, of Filer, for $120. Mr. Martin at once presented his purchase to the High Red Cross chapter, and it was again sold at auction—this time being bought by a syndicate of Filer men for $160. It was rumored that the Twin Falls chapter might be the next beneficiary; but, however that may be, it would have been quite the nice thing had some liberal men from that city, instead of from Filer, become the purchasers. However, Twin Falls did not appear to be represented, except by a couple of newspaper men; and after consultation, they decided that if bulls were selling for two bits a dozen, they couldn't buy a rope halter!

A hasty visit to the stock sheds developed the very apparent fact that if the showing was not so great in numbers, it included some fine individuals as compared to the fair elsewhere. We shall not go into great detail here, as the TIMES expects to publish a list of the premiums awarded. But the Percheron mare Detroit, who was covered with ribbons, the three-year-old stallion Carson and seven other representatives from the stock of the Brown Bros., at Filer, showed that these well known importers and breeders were not in the business unintelligently. Filer showed long on Percherons, David Bros. holding the ribbon on senior stallion of that breed, and Mr. Clifford having some notable entries.

The entries in the sheep pen indicated the rise in that line of property. Brown Bros. of Twin Falls, made a magnificent showing of Hampshire and Shropshire, Hobbie Gillett of Dubi, breeders of registered Rambouilletes had some fine specimens, including a patriarch ram that weighed 400 pounds and carried a fleece full five inches deep, worth, at present prices, over $50.

The swine pens held an equally aristocratic population. Hobbie & Sons of Parma, had some fine Poland Chinas, including one 800 pounder; the Boyston Estate of Fayette, made a grand exhibition of the same breed; L. B. Otto of Filer, and H. C. Polly showed the finest of Duroc Jerseys; and the Chester Whites, from George H. Lawless of Lincoln county, seemed covered with ribbons.

Looking over the grounds in general, the advertising exhibitions did not seem as many, nor striking as one would expect. D. C. Watson's Double Light & Power plant was all the time had an arm broken. Both were tenderly cared for, and were doing well at last accounts.

The Twin Falls band, though it has lost many fine players, made excellent music and received many warm compliments during the fair.

crowded by interested observers. The Idaho Power company had a fine showing in horticultural hall; and there were a few others, including Reynolds Brothers, who would well deserve attention.

The Anchor Hay, Grain & Feed company, which has mills at both Filer and Twin Falls had a splendid display of its fair. A thousand sample bags of Anchor Chicken Feed that just makes the eggs grow was distributed among those interested, as was the first year on the farm. The best entries in the classes of pop corn, sweet corn, millet and several varieties of potatoes that were classified. In addition, he entered fine samples of his famous onion seed, milo maize, Early Six Weeks potatoes and Blue Manhattan potatoes, for which there were first prizes offered by the fair board, as they are new successes on the tract.

There was also a "Midway"—but of this, perhaps the loss said the better. There was nothing outbreaking, perhaps; but it was generally a dingy, down-at-the-mouth, outfit—the cheapest of catch-penny devices.

The County Fair Agent, Mr. Donald McLean, who was superintendent of dairy cattle, was on the job all the time, as was Mr. Van Passell, superintendent of dairy products. Hog cholera demonstrations by Dr. W. A. Sullivan was a profitable feature of the fair.

Thursday's races did not go off with extraordinary slim, although there were some of the most interesting contests. The summary follows:

 8 entries; 4 starters

1 May Davis, Bud Davis, 1st 2nd
 2 Jim Stewart, Wm. Williams 3 3

A novelty running race, with a winner at each quarter, was also a feature; but the jockeys scored it almost to death. Carter Johnson was winner at the quarter and Baldwin at the half, three-quarters and full mile. This race paid $50 for the $4, $50 for the $5, $75 for the $4 and $100 for the full mile.

The judges stand was presided over and announcements made by Mr. B. Walter, of the Walter Bros., breeders of Percherons at both Filer and Filer, and his numerous duties were well discharged.

Two accidents occurred at or near the race track during the afternoon—one of them quite serious. A broken sixth in a rider's hand fell, but did not, so far as could be learned, inflict grave injury. Later some alleged cowboys brought out some alleged stocking horse, one of which, after the brunette who was to ride it had either chewed, blown into or spit into, its ear during several minutes, did get up a rolling motion like a ship in a storm. Unfortunately, it kept rolling after leaving the track for the stables, and ran into three women, two of whom were seriously injured. Mrs. Owings sustained a fracture of the left, and Mrs. Berger, of Berger,

SAXON "SIX"

14 Cars at $895 to $1250
Surpassed by Saxon "Six" at $935

Now of course it is generally known that Saxon "Six" is an abler performer than any other car in its price class. That fact has been fixed by a score of different public tests.

Now as to its quality and value. Let us together make exact comparisons.

Here we take 11 important features of Saxon "Six" at $935. And we will compare them with the features of 14 cars ranging in price from $895 to $1250.

One more thing. To prove the unquestioned value and quality of each Saxon "Six" feature, we will note how many costly cars also have it.

Saxon "Six" at $935 has Continental motor, Timken axles, Timken bearings, Fedders radiator, Stromberg carburetor, Remzy ignition, Spiral bevel gear, Warner steering gear, Exide storage battery, Semi-floating axle, and Wagner 2-unit starting and lighting system.

There are 25 cars costing $2,000 and up to $10,000 that also use these same 11 features.

Yet the first of the list of 14 cars costing $895 to $1250, has only one of the 11 features mentioned. The second of the 14 cars has only 1 of the 11 features.

The third of the 14 cars has only 3 of the 11 features. The fourth has only 1 of the 11.

Of the 10 remaining cars on this list of 14, three have not a single one of the 11 important features.

Three of the remaining 10 have only 2 of the 11 important features. Three of the 10 have 3 of the 11 important features. And one has 4 of the 11 important features.

There is food for thought in that comparison.

Thirteen of the 14 cars in this list cost from $10 to $315 more than Saxon "Six."

Yet not one of them has more than 4 of the same costly car features that Saxon "Six" at $935 gives you.

Bear in mind, too, that Saxon "Six" is a "Six." This is important. For no "four" can hope to approximate a "Six" in acceleration, in flexibility, in smoothness, in quietness, and in long service.

That makes it easy to decide whether or not Saxon "Six" is the car for your money. And the price now but for long is $935. So place your order at once.

Saxon "Six", $935; Saxon "Six" Sedan $1395; Saxon "Six" Chummy Roadster, $935. F.o.b. Detroit.

What Our Franklin Efficiency Demonstration Means to Thinking Motorists

THE chief aim of our efficiency demonstration with a Franklin stock car, on July 13, was to furnish to the thinking class of car owners and prospects a simple test by which to compare the efficiency of the Franklin with one or more cars of any class.

The procedure of our test was simple: Any car of any make can easily follow it.

We put one gallon of commercial gasoline into a glass bottle, connected the bottle to the carburetor and started the car.

On the same day—July 13—179 Franklin Dealers throughout the country did the same. The U. S. Weather Map for that day shows varied weather conditions—fair, windy and rain. As weather influences road conditions, you can realize that the cars participating experienced practically a season's variety in a day.

Yet these 179 cars scored a national average of 40.3 miles to the single gallon of gasoline. (Each test, as well as our own, is verified by affidavit sworn to by driver and two observers.)

How This Result Helps You

WHAT does this test mean to the thinking motorist, you may ask?

It means that when a car claims "efficiency" and "thrift," the claim can only be proven by such gasoline mileage as the Franklin has demonstrated in this test.

GOODING MOTOR CO. GOODING TWIN FALLS BURLEY

materials, scientifically distributed, to get the scientifically light weight which scientifically puts a stop to waste.

It means the elimination of water-cooling systems—177 troublesome and fuel-wasting parts.

It means (and every Franklin owner bears us out in this statement) that all gasoline-consuming friction and drag, all wear and tear, is cut to a minimum in the Franklin.

Franklin efficiency reflects the efficiency of its air-cooled engine. All fuel energy goes for moving the car.

More Than Miles per Gallon

THE Franklin is as easy on tires as on gasoline. Owners' individual reports show a set of tires lasts over 10,000 miles.

The comfort and flexibility of the Franklin are well known—not the least important reasons why the Franklin owner sticks to the Franklin Cars, year after year.

And for long life—you find Franklin Cars depreciating less than any other car on the market.

Again we say—Franklin efficiency means much to thinking motorists. We are always pleased to explain and prove the facts of the Franklin Car.
