TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

THE RED CROSS RE-ELECTS ITS OLD OFFICERS. ANNUAL MEETING HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

A Grand Work Being Accomplished

Reports of Committees Indicate Increasing Interest and Effort Membership in Twin Falls County Aggregates 4734.

In a sort of general, impersonal and far-away manner, everybody knows to what an immense task the Red Cross organization has set itself, how marvelous has been its progress, hitherto and how world-wide are its plans for the future.

Including representatives from a few of the seventeen auxiliaries, there were present some sixty or seventy women and a half-dozen men.

The president, Dr. Wilson, was in the chair and after the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved and the vice president, Mrs. Ostrander had made some announcements and explanations.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH DEDICATED SUNDAY.

The New Methodist church, shown imperfectly above on account of the crowd with which it is surrounded, ranks among the first and finest church edifices in the state and reflects credit alike upon the earnest pastor and people who will worship in it.

The high and light basement constitutes one of the main features of the church. Besides the boiler room and adjacent kitchen, it furnishes a Sunday school room 25 by 33 feet, a dining room 46 by 42 feet and a large and convenient kitchen.

The dedicatory services, Sunday morning and evening were beautiful and impressive. The platform and pulpit were tastefully decorated with flowers and the magnificent sturges window caught the eye.

The president, Dr. Wilson, was in the chair and after the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved and the vice president, Mrs. Ostrander had made some announcements and explanations.

BIG FIRE IN KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS

THOUSANDS OF CATTLE AND HOGS DESTROYED EARLY THIS MORNING

Loss Cannot Yet be Estimated

Not Known Whether It Was of Incendary Origin or Not—Market Called Off for the Day.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16.—Thousands of cattle and hogs perished in a fire which broke out in the Kansas City stock yards at 2 o'clock this morning and early this afternoon, destroying 10 acres of cattle pens and hog houses.

Although officials said it was impossible to make a close estimate of the monetary loss, it was believed to be in the millions of dollars.

None of the stock yards company officials would say that a war plot was suspected in the fire. They said however, that the investigation would be made in an effort to learn how the fire started.

The fire is one of a series which has burned areas of the stock yards in the last few days. The company has been replacing the burned sections with concrete fireproof pens and houses.

SALMON TRACT WATER ISSUE AT HOLLISTER

LARGE GATHERING OF THE SETTLERS MEET LAND COMMISSIONER

Full Investigation Is Commenced

Final Settlement of the Question as to Irrigation Capacity of System Expected, When State Land Board Will Decide Its Acreage.

Some three hundred settlers on the Salmon tract, who had gathered at Hollister yesterday, pursuant to notice from Governor Alexander, to confer with United States Land Commissioner.

The government engineers had spent several days overlooking the tract, and with Mr. Tallman, were at the Salmon dam and over that end of the Salmon dam.

During the late forenoon there was considerable curbstone argument and badinage; but after the return of the officials from the south, and when the crowd assembled in the school auditorium, all settled down to serious, but good natured business.

Mr. Tallman spoke at some length. He commended the history of the tract, and the history of the settlement.

Mr. Tallman suggested that they be heard in the settlement, and took his seat, leaving the general impression that a sure verdict would come to judgment.

BIG STRIKE IN MINES IS ALARMING

OFFICIALS IN WASHINGTON TRY TO STOP SPREAD OF MOVEMENT

15,000 Are Out As a Result

President White of United Mine Workers in Work of Adjusting the Difficulties of the Bad Situation.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Alarm over the spreading of the walk-out of coal miners in Illinois and districts, Fuel Administrator Garfield this afternoon enlisted the aid of John D. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America in an effort to bring about a speedy adjustment of the strike.

Mr. White was summoned to the fuel administrator's office after he reached Washington from the middle west where he has been investigating conditions in the mines.

Dr. Garfield's advice from Illinois were far from optimistic. He said that the strike which started last night, was reported to other states.

Interdependence Is Theme of Talk

County Agent McLean Declares That Country Needs City for Best Development.

The following address was delivered at the Twin Falls Commercial club luncheon last Thursday at the Rogerson:

Chairman and Gentlemen:— I wish to call your attention to a sentiment that seems to be more or less prevalent amongst the farmers which I run up against now and then in making my rounds. It is that the interest of the farmers and the city men are antagonistic, or, at least, essentially different. It seems to me that for such a feeling to gain any headway would be unfortunate particularly in the community which is as rural as this one is. A farmer said to me the other day: "Why, the City of Twin Falls could not exist if it were not for the country surrounding it." I answered: "I grant you that, but can any of us exist without the help of the people around us?" Social life is all a much more complicated basis than it was a few years ago when we made our own tallow dips and lighted our own houses, or when we raised our own wool, spun our own yarn and made all our own clothes. Even the food which the farmer eats, he is largely dependent upon others to supply. We are all of us very much interdependent. I called this farmer's attention to a number of districts here where "farms" which have good soil and water rights and could raise as abundant crops as this tract can, but which are getting fifty cents a bushel less for their wheat this year, and their land is priced way below this. The reason for this is that they have no transportation lines and the reason that they have no transportation lines is because they have no cities. Railroads do not go into a district which has no terminal facilities or places for storing the crops. I said that a rural district without cities, and transportation lines built to them, is like a leg in which the nerves and nerve centers have become paralyzed. It is a big mass of unwieldy flesh which cannot be exercised so that its surplus circulation to the parts of the body where it is needed. So, although a farming section can exist, its existence will be profitless and useless without the railroads and cities as nerve and nerve centers. I pledge my earnest efforts to overcome this feeling and I hope you gentlemen will help. It seems to me there should be no dividing line between the interests of Twin Falls business men and the farmers about here, and certainly there should be no dead line.

It was my privilege recently to talk before some teachers on the teaching of agriculture. One teacher asked me what was the use any way in teaching agriculture? She said: "In the town where I teach I know the parents don't wish their sons to be teachers farmers nor their daughters to become farmers' wives and the boys who come in from the farms in the country spend all their time at school and don't go to the farm and shouldn't they be broadened by being taught something besides agriculture the few years they are in school." I replied that the reason for teaching agriculture, as I see it is not at all to make farmers or farmers' wives out of pupils taking the course. I realize fully that many of the very best professional men in our large cities are brought up on the farm and we must keep a constant stream of our country blood flowing to the cities in order to keep them from becoming a stagnant pool or a salt sea. But the reason for teaching agriculture is that the boy or girl may know the nature of the things which surround him and the things with which he comes in contact every day. As if he knows how to do the most of the things that surround him now, he will much more likely be able to make the most of any circumstances which he meets later on. On this tract, for instance, there are millions of dollars worth of wheat marketed every year and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of potatoes and other crops, and I feel that the pupil is not well educated who does not know what good wheat is, or if he knows of potatoes or something about their culture. To illustrate what I mean, a teacher told me last year that his "baker's boy" in "Pocatello" how high the hills were that he could see from his window at school, and he responded, 25,000 feet. The teacher drew the moral that there was teaching in it. And I say what is the use of teaching children about the wonders of things far removed from their daily lives when they do not even know the elements of the things they see each day. We do not know what we are going to be or the circumstances under which we are going to live for the future. I am not long out of college and I know that I am in a very different locality and doing very different work from what I expected when I was in school. Look at your own careers. You may be better off or worse, but are you doing what you expected to do at the school? It needs to me that the way to make the boy or girl know how to take advantage of any circumstances into which he may be thrust later on, is to teach him to make the most of the things which surround him here. This district and all Idaho, for that matter, is essentially rural and the neglect of the study of agriculture seems to me wrong. The State Extension Service and the University of Idaho are laying stress on the importance of the club work and the teaching of agriculture in high schools and it is largely for this reason that they do it. We had a fine exhibit at the high school last week which shows the possibilities in Boys' and Girls' club work, but that I am not here to say as good as it should be here in this country. Your schools are offering good courses but there are few who take them and the reason is largely that parents seem to feel they are committing their children to a life of drudgery on the farm if they allow them to take agriculture. Won't you please encourage this subject and Boys' and Girls' club work in this county? Thank you.

LABOR AND THE NATION IS TIED OVER THE DRAFT

DRAFT FOR WORKMEN AT THIS TIME SEEMS TO BE IMPROBABLE

Both Labor and Government Opposed

Class Exemptions Possible in the Next Draft to Leave Out Skilled Workmen Needed in the Trades.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Labor and the military authorities of the United States are now rapidly approaching a clash. Government departments claim there is a serious shortage of labor. Labor leaders declare there is no shortage but that men must be released from military duties.

The draft for conscription of labor has been suggested, but this is generally believed to be improbable. It is too strongly opposed by labor leaders, as well as by many administration leaders.

Class exemptions now seem to be the one way out. When the next draft comes provision will be made for the wider exemption of skilled artisans, mechanics and artisans who are in the national army. The general staff is loath to give these releases, but it faces the opposition of those administration leaders who are responsible for the release of labor shortage.

Great difficulty has already been encountered in the building of ships. The available program is already facing the effects of labor shortage and all war industries are claiming that lack of labor threatens to retard America's progress in the war.

Dutch Cabinet Is Stirred by England

Pro-German Papers Make Most of Situation—Germany Suppresses the Labor Unions.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
THE HAGUE, Oct. 15.—The cabinet is conferring daily on the situation arising from the action of England in the matter of all commercial cable communication with Holland.

Holland is now isolated, as it is understood that shipping from this country to England has ceased or is about to cease.

Pro-German newspapers, especially the Vaterland, are making most of the opportunity. Sarcastic comment is directed against England for cutting commercial cable communication and against the United States for detaching Dutch cargo ships.

Dunker coal was refused to certain Dutch ships in American ports that were strongly suspected of carrying troops—that is, the conscription—find their way into Germany.

Japanese Expect to Take Greater Part

Prepare For Larger Mobilization On Account of Failure of Russia To Surrender.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
TOKIO, Oct. 13.—The Japanese people must expect a demand from the allies for the mobilization of Japan's full army and navy strength for active participation in the war, according to the newspaper Nichi Nichi today.

At the time of the capture of Riga by the Germans the entente asked Japan to increase her naval activity, but with conditions becoming no better in Russia this country will be urged to bear a greater part of the conflict, the paper added.

According to the Nichi Nichi, the steel bar and other trade restrictions on the part of the allies is part of the program to make Japan feel the necessity of entering the war as an actual participant.

Interpreters Work on German Writing

Examining Documents Seized On A Dutch Ship—German and Austrian Diplomats Held.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Federal interpreters began an examination today of official German and Austrian documents seized last evening on the Dutch ship Orange when she arrived from the Orient. The government agents are seeking evidence of German plotting in Peking, while China was still neutral.

Government officials said they do not know whether the documents show any plotting.

Thirty-two German and 38 Austrian diplomatic officers, who were passengers on the Orange, are here awaiting permission from the government to continue eastward.

OPPOSE MISSISSIPPI NEGRO DRAFTED TROOPS

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Oct. 13.—Officers and men here are protesting against the coming of 12,000 drafted negro troops, not so much because negroes from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, South Dakota and Arizona are coming, but because some 5,000 negroes from Mississippi are also to be brought here.

Many have telegraphed or written to congressmen and governors in protest and Junction City and Manhattan men already have organized to fight the move.

Major General Wood, commander of this district, refused to comment on the matter.

The Times prints bulletins wrapped up any day in the week.

THE LA FOLLETTE CASE

The developments today in the La Follette case indicate the wisdom of the policy suggested by the TIMES of September 27 in the editorial entitled "Convict LaFollette—Then Out Him." With ample machinery of law to convict in cases of seditious utterances, spectacular enemies played into the hands of the senatorial friend of the kaiser by making an appeal to congress and to the galleries, without awaiting the result of investigations by the United States and state prosecuting attorneys to see if the laws of the nation and the state of Minnesota had been broken.

Under the circumstances congress could do no less than order an investigation, and this allowed LaFollette to turn by the use of some clever sophistry to make a pyrotechnic effort for the benefit of the grand stand. The word "sophistry" is used advisedly. For LaFollette does not call attention when he says in effect that this investigation is tantamount to a trial, and that therefore he must be confronted by his enemies. It is similar to a grand jury investigation, where the question is whether there is enough evidence to warrant holding a trial, assuming that all the incriminatory evidence should prove true. Should the committee hold that there is not sufficient evidence to warrant an outing, the case will end. Should it find that there is enough evidence to warrant a trial, proceedings will be had, and it will determine whether it will accept the recommendations of the committee and proceed to try him, or whether it will reject the report. Should it reject the report, LaFollette holds on. Should it decide to accept the report and place him on trial, then, as in court, he will be confronted by those testifying against him. But a lot of people do not know this and Mr. LaFollette, having misrepresented the attitude of the committee will be believed by many who do not know any better.

Had the men who signed petitions for his impeachment awaited the result of the investigations of the prosecuting attorneys they would not have given the wily Wisconsin man so favorable a chance to play politics. Should the prosecuting attorneys have decided that there was no technical violation of the law, which would warrant prosecution the case would have ended. Had they determined to lay the matter before a grand jury, LaFollette would never have claimed that he had a right to face witnesses there, for the average man would know better. Had the true bills been found by grand jury and conviction secured on regular trial, the senate could then have proceeded tooust him on the evidence they secured.

MAIN ARGUMENT SOUND

The idea of the principle of interdependence set forth in the address of County Agent Donald McLean, published elsewhere herein, is correct. Production does not mean creation, but does mean the moving of things already existing from places less convenient and serviceable to places more convenient and serviceable, and the work of the merchant and the railroad man are simply links in the productive chain. The farmer as a primary producer, he can in some way exist without the merchant and the railroad man, whereas they cannot at all exist without him, but such a necessity for the best development of the other.

It might perhaps be proper to suggest that the illustration of the railroad and the city is hardly true to life. The roads are partly interested in what the country has done and partly in what it can do when they construct lines and frequently run across stretches of undeveloped territory, platting towns and establishing stations along the way at places which they believe to be so situated that they will form the centers of towns and cities in the future, and having in mind the natural resources which somebody will develop later on. The main point in the talk, however, the interdependence of different lines of industry, one on another, springing from the division of labor which is the primary cause of industrial and economic development, is sound, and the ideas advanced are worthy of consideration.

Twin Falls Wins From Buhl Team

Hard Fought Game Results in Defeat of the West End Eleven at Buhl. The Twin Falls high school football eleven defeated the Buhl high school eleven last Friday afternoon on the Buhl field by the score of 12-0. This is the second game of the season to the credit of the local eleven, having defeated Jerome 30-0 a week previous to this game. It has been some years since Twin Falls has been able to defeat Buhl on their own field and local followers are much elated over the recent victory. The team was accounted to Buhl by the number of runners who did their bit in aiding in the scoring. The game opened with Neuman of

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

Twin Falls kicking to Buhl on their 10-yard line. During the first of the first quarter it seemed that the Buhl eleven would carry off the final honor of the game but the Twin Falls soon found their way back to the first touchdown with only three seconds of the first quarter remaining for play. The second quarter was opened by Buhl by a pass to Captain Fix of Twin receiving several fine passes from Neuman. In this quarter Neuman went over the ball line on the fourth-down-for-a-touchdown which was not allowed, however, because of a foul play and Buhl looked out of danger. In the second quarter Buhl attempted a long forward pass which was intercepted by Neuman in spectacular fashion and carried thirty yards for a touchdown. In the fourth quarter Twin punted and kept the ball in Buhl territory. The features of the game were the sweeping end runs of Buhl, the forward passes received by Captain Fix, and runs by Halfback Lavendar and Davis, line plunges of Fullback Glasgow, tackle plays by Bailer and the punting and passing of Neuman.

The Twin Falls line while composed of the most part of new material in Strong, Carter, Van Tassel, Micklewait, Perceboom, and three veterans, Thomot, Bailer and Fix, gives much promise for the future. Barker, of Filer, officiated as referee, and Barry, of Buhl, as umpire. The Twin Falls team will meet the Rupert eleven, next Friday, October 19, at the local field. The game will be played at 3 o'clock on Lincoln field, the new athletic field adjoining the Lincoln school. This ground is being placed in good condition for the gridiron sport. Below is given the lineup of the twin falls first and second teams, also the partial schedule for the teams.

- First Team: N. Bailer, L. E. Fletcher-Hoy, A. Perceboom, L. T. Wolfendon-Bailer, Van Tassel, C. Woods, Thomot, R. G. Franks-Babecek, Carter, R. T. Parsons-Spyder, Strong, R. E. Schwarz-Haasenbaig, Neuman, Q. Hodges, Lavendar, R. H. Epler, Glasgow, F. H. McAtee, Davis, L. H. Phipps-Stewart, Substitutes - Micklewait and Watson. October 19, Rupert vs. Twin Falls at Twin Falls. October 26, Gooding vs. Twin Falls at Twin Falls. November 2, Jerome vs. Twin Falls Second team at Twin Falls. November 9, Buhl vs. Twin Falls at Twin Falls. November 16, Rupert vs. Twin Falls at Rupert. November 23, open date. Thanksgiving day, open date.

The Twin Falls motenka aggregation will play Rupert on the new athletic field near the Lincoln building at three o'clock Friday. This is the third game of the season for the boys, winning from Jerome and Buhl by a good margin, and they should stand good chances with Rupert. Captain Fix, Bailer, and Neuman, the old men of last year's team, showed up well in the Buhl game and are expected to give a good account of themselves against the Rupert bunch. Bleachers have been installed this week on the new field and a good crowd should turn out to root for the boys in this, their first game at home.

Merchant Marine Conscripted by U. S.

All of 2500 Tons and Over Requisitioned by the Government Yesterday.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—America's merchant marine today was conscripted for war duty. The order of the shipping board requisitioning all privately owned American vessels of 2500 tons or over went into effect this morning. According to the estimates of the shipping board some 450 ships aggregating a tonnage of approximately 1,500,000 are in the control of the United States government. These ships will be directly under the control of Edward P. Carey, director of operations and the chartering board. A series of conferences will begin immediately to determine what shall be done with the vessels. For the most part individual ships will be turned back to their owners to be operated under the direction of the chartering board at rates to be set by that board. This step is taken to give the shipping board power over ocean going rates and to equalize the freight rates from American ports.

Nitro-Glycerine Explosion Fatal

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) CAMEDEN, N. J., Oct. 15—Two workmen are dead, one is missing and another was badly injured today by an explosion in the nitro-glycerine plant of the DuPont Powder company at Gibbstown, N. J., near here. Only four workmen were in the building at the time. One of the dead men was identified as Jesse De Vault. The other body could not be identified but Marjorie Reed and Martin Spolanvin are missing and it is believed to be one of them. Raymond Snell Daker was injured. The plant was a comparatively small building and it was wrecked. About 200 pounds of high explosives went off. Officials of the plant scouted a theory of a plot. No other damage was done.

"THE STORY OF YBARRA"

(Continued From Page 3) It is hard life in the hills. They spoke well, however which surprised me; they must have been fairly well educated, and I judged, had sunk to degradation in their early manhood. Their names you have heard since. They were Don and Hawley. They were the men who had seen us bury Lawton, and, as a reward had been offered by the authorities for the conviction of the murdered, they claimed blackmail, which I was forced to pay. They continued their demands for money until I could meet them no longer, and fled secretly to this little abode in the hills bringing only you and Joe with me. We dug the shaft, which leads to the mine, and developed it only enough to yield a living. It is as rich today as it was when we first dug it. And it is yours when you read this, for I shall have passed away. One-half of the chart is in an envelope that has seen this life. The other half, which we took from Lawton's body, is in the main part of the chest. Together they will serve to locate the mine. Alone neither can help, but together you can also take your share. He is the only one alive, after I pass away, who knows the location. That is all. Yes, you may believe that I am lying, but I can never hear your answer. I may only live and die in hope.

"DON CARLOS YBARRA CORDOBA" Given leaving from the manuscript as he finished reading. He saw that Nan's eyes were filled with tears, but she brushed them away and forced a smile. Gwyn gazed at her, almost mechanically, until the other envelope as he did so. From it he drew a folded sheet of paper as old and yellow and brittle from age as the first. He saw that it was but a half of the sheet, so he did not tear it, he unfolded the sheet, until there lay spread open on his lap, the chart. All of the lines were written that needed to lead you wide, stopped abruptly as they came to the edge of the paper. It was plain that, as Don Carlos had stated in his letter, it was but a half of the chart. "This is what they wanted," Gwyn said thoughtfully. "It is the chart. They must have learned of its existence in some way." "Yes," replied Nan, "and they must have gotten the other half. Do you remember when Joe ran to the chest after every other envelope was gone? It got, but not all? He meant the chart. They got a half. This is the rest. He went out to find their trail. He should be back by now. Do you suppose that anything could have happened to him? If they ever get him and make him tell— Her face grew suddenly pale at the thought of what they would do to the Indian.

ISIS THEATRE STAGES "EYES OF THE WORLD" "The Eyes of the World," Cinescope elaborate film of Harold Bell Wright's famous story, which comes to the Isis Theatre Friday, is replete with the stuff of which thrilling motion pictures are composed. Among its well remembered incidents are his wanderings in the mountains, the kidnapping of Sybil, the flight of the girl into the hills and the search for the fore-rangers. There is the tragic and of course at the banquet table and the hand-to-hand fight of the lovers on the high mountain cliff which results in the tragic end of one of the pair. This scene was filmed on a precipitous cliff near the summit of the San Bernardino mountains in California. And so realistic was it made that Edward Fliler, who played Rutledge, was injured during the fight, though not seriously. The fight was a prolonged one and ended in Rutledge's toppling over the cliff.

40 dozen handkerchiefs, 42 dozen auto handkerchiefs, 43 dozen napkins, 19 dozen terry towels, 14 dozen shoulder wraps, 117 comfort bags, 4 dozen aprons, 200 dozen bandages of various kinds. Let us interpolate right here the astounding fact that since the war began the American Red Cross has shipped $2,916 large cases to twenty different countries. Before the United States entered the fray these were sent to all belligerents; since, of course, only to our allies. Mrs. White, chairman of entertainment committee, explained its work and plans, noting $108.05 as a balance on hand. Mr. Roberts, of the publicity committee, said they found its work heavy rather than showy; that they were about to place boxes for change contributions in the stores; and told of the plan for individual Christmas boxes to each soldier from the county. Each box is to contain stationery, toilet articles and goodies, including small fruit cake. Two requests were made: one for volunteers to bake cakes; and the other for names of soldiers, especially those outside of the Second Idaho. Mr. Blise reported fine progress and prospects for the Junior Red Cross, just getting well organized in the different schools. But one discordant note had come to his attention—that a note from a parent saying, "My husband and I don't believe in raising money for war. No names were given, but the note will be kept on file.

Dr. Crossland reported for first aid committee that a class of twentyfour had been organized, twelve of whom had passed examination; also gave details of prospective effort.

Miss Blawie, for the membership committee reported much that was of interest—especially the fact that the organization now has a membership of 424—3207 of whom are in the Twin Falls chapter and 1526 in the auxiliaries. The treasurer, Mr. Bradley, made an interesting report of the finances of the order showing: Receipts from membership dues were $3,095, of which there was due to the national fund $1,657, and $1,438 funded to auxiliaries $1,632. This left a balance applicable to the general fund of $785.85. Sales of insignia amounted to $125.85. Total receipts were $3,095.55. The total expenditures of if general nature were $189.40, so that the net balance in the general fund is $716.65. The total receipts of the relief fund was $1,791.35, while the expenditures of $1,764.84 for purchase of goods from the national fund $1,657, and $126.70 for the purchase of the goods and the expenditure of $176 for refreshments on the way, left this fund $226.51 in the extent of $182.55. There is a balance of $182.55 in membership dues. Miscellaneous accounts show the receipt of $187 from the bridge party for the Christmas party $210 for auxiliaries. The balance on hand in the bank is $933.03. Mr. Breckenridge, for the relief committee stated that while help has been given in numerous instances, it had been given from privately raised funds, so that no detailed statement was necessary.

Reports were made, or read by the secretary from auxiliaries at Hazelton, Pleasant View, and Rock Creek. There were all interesting and showed activity with results. Fliler reported that their Red Cross call had netted $1,070 to the order to date, and was to be soon again held at Lewiston.

The election of officers being in order, Mr. Blise called attention to the former condition of the organization and to the need for all the training acquired by the present officers, and moved that the secretary be instructed to take up the matter of the chapter for each of the present officials to succeed his or herself. The motion was seconded and carried unanimously.

"What! My Car?"

"Yes! skidded—and it's up to you. You failed to provide the chauffeur with Tire Chains. Only good luck saved your wife from paying the supreme penalty for your negligence. She's on the way to the hospital, painfully injured, but the doctor thinks she'll pull through. You'd better hurry to the hospital and then report to Headquarters."

How strange it is that disaster must come to some men before they realize that all makes and types of tires will skid on wet pavements and muddy roads when not equipped with Chains.

These men do not appreciate, until too late, that by failing to provide Weed Anti-Skid Chains they expose their families to injury and death.

The time to provide against accidents is before they happen. Don't wait until after the first skid. Put Weed Chains on all four tires at the first indication of slippery going and you will have quadruple protection against injury, death, car damage and law suits.

Doubters and if doubt is right then we are wrong. In recent years the doubters have occupied a conspicuous place in the history of the world. James Russell Lowell said that doubt was the mark of the nineteenth century. It has in large circles become a prevalent state of mind. A noted Roman Catholic writer in a recent work said that men were now as proud of doubt as men were formerly proud of faith. Indeed it sometimes seems as if in certain circles it had become to believe. Men no longer tell what they believe but what they do not believe. Some men who are members of Christian churches no longer say the Apostles Creed without mental reservations, and sometimes a pastor after preaching the gospel truth is confronted by a man who questions the narrative and beginning his objection with 'I suppose I am very heretical, please to secure the applause of the gallery. The hero of the modern novel is the doubter. Doubt is canonized and held anathema. It requires more bravery to say 'I believe' than it does to say 'I doubt' and yet the doubter manages to pose as the hero. Because there has been a great material progress during the age of doubt, the doubters, assuming falsely that because two things exist together they must necessarily depend in some way on each other. This of course is untrue. Day and night follow one another but do not depend on one another and the sensible American does not believe the politician who says that all the prosperity in the country is due to the fact that his party is in power.

"Men today doubt the existence of God, the truth of the Bible, sickness, death, even the very existence of the doubter. Doubt has been whispered in the parlor, echoed in the press, taught in schools, even sometimes preached in the pulpit. One celebrated writer said doubt turned the wheels of progress, another said doubt had done more for the world than faith. "It is well therefore that we examine all these statements of the doubters before we dedicate this church in order that we may determine whether doubt has been the cause of progress or a drag on the wheels of progress. Doubt has enjoyed the patronage of modern philosophy. When we begin the study of modern philosophy we meet first the name of Des Cartes. Educated by the Jesuits, he was well versed in the scholastic philosophy, but beginning to doubt its truth he determined to further "examine" everything in the light of reason, and he assumed everything to be false that could be doubted. He began by laying aside everything which could possibly be doubted. As a result he eventually found that the only thing that he did believe was that he doubted. At this stage he formulated this statement: "I think, therefore I am." But at this stage he found that this mere statement was not itself sufficient, for it necessarily followed that if he existed, others before must have existed, and following this idea to its logical conclusion he found that it led to the idea of a creator, in other words to God. One by one doubt gave away this country President Wilson said that the condition was purely psychological; it was and the condition which originated the financial fabric was doubt. Doubt caused the panic and it was only the return of faith, the restoration of confidence that ended the panic. In 1907 when certain interests desired to create disturbance they did so by creating a doubt as to financial conditions. The great Bank of Commerce at Kansas City was one of the strongest institutions, but because it was inauspiciously whispered around that this institution was shaky, people lost confidence and finally a run was started and after the bank had stood an unbroken strain for days it was compelled temporarily to close its doors, because it was being assailed by "doubt." God asks us only that we have as much sense in religion as in other things." After a description of the state of confidence in which his father an aged Methodist minister had passed into the beyond, a description that caused many to shed tears, Bishop Lue closed with an eloquent personalization in which he showed the accomplishments of faith, as contrasted with the lack of achievements of doubt in advancing civilization, in furthering science and discovery and

REPEATS TONIGHT AND WEDNESDAY WITH PLEASING VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM OF VARIETY

Don't Above All, Don't Miss Seeing Little 2 1/2 Year Old "Bob White" in the Beban Picture.

(First Night Review) George Beban, Italian actor as a delinquent of Italian origin on both stage and screen, displays in "Lost in Transit," now playing at the Idaho, all the fine, poignant touches that give life and appeal to each of his characterizations, proving absolutely the soul and honesty of the man himself. Comedy and pathos become virtue from his characterization in this picture.

mendable as a trombone artist, and has two attractively customized girls with him who sing and dance. The vaudeville combination is pleasing. There is a clever comedy included in the picture program.

IDAHO THEATRE

The production is a more elaborate one than usual, and shows throughout the touch of Donald Crisp who directed the production. The Big Star—"Bob White" But the one, big treat of "Lost in Transit" is not the star, nor the director, but one little person known as "Bob White." Bob's, simply a wonder—a 2 1/2 year old marvel, that simply grabs all the honors in sight. Nicole, friend Beban, finds Bob tucked in the rags of his junk wagon. Nobody wants him. "Whoever finds this child may have him." But Nicole nearly loses him, and there hangs a story that is interesting every moment.

The Vaudeville In the two vaudeville numbers there is a variety, clever dialogue, good stories—well told, some singing and dancing, all done in an acceptable manner. Keane and Keane get many laughs from their comedy sketch. Dick Hyland is a good Irish story teller, especially comto beliefs and he eventually carried back all the furniture that he had carried out and he became a firm believer. Des Cartes differed from the chronic doubter, declaring that he had no use for doubt as such, and doubted only that he might find the answers.

"It has sometimes been said that he had it not been for doubt Copernicus would never have made his wonderful discoveries in astronomy. The traveler visiting the home in which he lived and seeing the holes in the roof and walls through which, in the absence of a telescope, he viewed the heavenly bodies, will realize that it was not doubt but a new faith which moved him, faith in a more perfect system than the old system of Ptolemy. All the progress of science has been due to faith. The more men know, the less doubtful they become. Non-sometimes make their doubt as if it were something to be proud of, something which indicated that their great intellectual superiority over those believing. This is untrue. Every doubt indicates the presence of something which the mind of the doubter has been unable to master. The consent of human nature is often responsible for doubt. There is a certain stage of existence in boys and girls when this state of mind is almost normal. It comes at a time when they cease to grow and begin to swell. Growth is a normal development, while swelling is a disease. This disease is to be treated like other afflictions of youth, like the mumps, measles and chicken-pox—the patient should be kept warm and will soon recover. While the trouble exists it is characterized by a feeling of superiority on the part of the afflicted over their parents and other people generally, and an assumption that they are much superior. Ordinarily it runs its course in a short time, but if it strikes in, and becomes chronic it is serious. I am not opposed to legitimate doubt. God appeals to the reason and intelligence of man and does not assume him to be an idiot incapable of thinking rationally. Man should use his intelligence in a legitimate way. It is the man who makes his home in doubt, who is contemptible and who is not using his reason rightly.

"Professor William James, the great philosopher is quoted as saying that whom one should expect to appeal on this question and yet when he treats it, he completely demoralizes the case of the doubter. He shows that you doubt you cannot progress or do anything. While you are in doubt you do not move. It is only when you begin to get faith in any course that you begin to move to adopt it. Hence, the man who doubts the existence of God and of divinity of Jesus Christ will live as if there were no God and as if Jesus Christ was not divine.

"An unfortunate phase of doubt is manifested in 'emancipated slaves' who are often found nowadays, where the members instead of original essays and poems to extol their intelligence, are obliged to write for some one who has been dead for some time.

"If doubt is a good thing, it ought to be good everywhere and care of being applied to all conditions. Take faith out of the home and make the parents doubtful of one another and of their children and the children doubtful of their parents and you will find that the wheels going around but they will not be wheels of progress. The wheels of divorce courts more for this reason. We see men who do not want any religion for themselves who are very glad when they find that their wives and children have it. Some years ago, when financial trouble was threatened in in uplifting humanity. In the evening, Bishop Hughes spoke on the finality of Christ, showing that the lesson taught by the Savior was complete and needed no further revelation.
