KIMBERLY CANNOT ACCOMMODATE ITS TRADE

Laborers Quit Jobs For Want of a Place to Eat and Sleep—Men Hoisted at Hotel and Restaurants.

"Kimberly has a very serious matter in their lack of facilities to accommodate its guests. This fact was especially revealed today, October 16, when the local hotel and cafe, had to refuse to men, who had come to Kimberly for the purpose of hauling beet, meals that would have been willingly paid for. So crowded was the hotel, and so immense was the multitude of customers that surrounded the tables of the cafe that from actual want of room and food, several hard-working men with a good hearty appetite had to be turned away. As a result several of these men threw up their hands.

It is a very serious matter in these days when labor is so scarce to have men quit, especially positions that are responsible for the production and transportation of products essential to the support of the country. Yet it seems that they can do little else under the circumstances, because of the danger of looting necessary help to handle their beet crop, are providing for their men at their own expense. Automobile Batteries

Do you neglect your Batteries? It is absolutely essential that water be added to each cell of the Battery often enough to keep the level of the liquid above the tops of the plates. This will require that water be added once a week in warm weather and once every two weeks in cold weather. Water for Battery use must never be taken from or kept in metal containers of any kind. Glass or cardboard vessels should be used and must be kept clean.

Our New Battery Charger has arrived, and we are ready to look after your Battery needs. There is twelve years of electrical experience behind our Battery service.

FRUIT SEASON OPENS

The season of apples has commenced in full blast. This week both of the local packing houses engaged an increased force of expert packers and shippers, and over a thousand boxes a day are being packed, preparatory for shipment, as soon as cars can be secured.

Many of the orchards are packing their own apples either in boxes or in the fruit baskets, while a tremendous amount of fruit is being handled by the packing houses.

There seems to have been an exceptionally good crop this year, and the apples are not only plentiful, but also practically faultless in size and quality. The packing houses are specializing in fancy fruits and fancy packs. All apples for shipment are being wrapped for the sake of preservation.

BUSINESS IN KIMBERLY GOOD

A casual observer, though he might be impressed with the hustle and ardor of Kimberly business, would hardly dream of the immense amount of business being carried on by the local firms. Stores are taking in cash over a thousand dollars in a single day, not speaking of the immense amount of credit business that is being done.

WIVES OF THE WORLD WILL SHOW IN KIMBERLY MONDAY

Two or three years ago Harold Bell Wright, the most popular of living actors, whose latest romance, including "The Shepherd of the Hills," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," etc., have had a total sale of nearly eight million copies, added to his galaxy of best sellers, "The Eyes of the World," "The Story of Adventure and Romance in the Cities," and mountains of southern California has been put into elaborate pictorial form for the theatre by the Grand Film Producers company, and the announcement is made that the production will be shown in this city at the Starr theatre on Monday night, Oct. 22.

For six months the entire resources of the Grand Film Producers in Los Angeles were concentrated on the elaborate filming of Wright's story. It is the finest translation of a current popular romance ever prepared for the screen. It is in nine sections and consumes two hours and a half.

The scenario for the work was prepared by the noted author himself, who also gave his personal assistance to the day-by-day work of interpreting his characters for the production.

Among the well-remembered people of the story are Willard, the cowboy; Oakley, the forest ranger; Sybil, the mountain girl; Mrs. Taine, the fashionable strolch, who attempts to snare the artist; King; Mr. Taine, the wealthy rough; Rutledge, the bull-necked man; Harry Wrentham, the scarred victim of the vitriol thrower; and Lagrange, the cynical author.

"The Eyes of the World" will open at 7 p. m. with a special matinee for the school children. There will be two full shows given at night, starting at 7 p. m. and 9 p. m.

BEET HAULING HEAVY

Beet hauling this year has now reached its zenith, and a continual stream of wagons drawn by four horses is pouring into the town every day. The heavy hauling is not the least thing for the roads in many respects, and certain of the tramped streets are literally unlikable and knee deep with dust.

It has not yet been estimated how many tons of beets are being unloaded at the Kimberly dump, but it averages in the neighborhood of several carloads per day.

OUR COAL CONDITION

"According to President White, 600,000,000 tons of bituminous coal will be required to meet domestic and export needs during the coming year. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916, 603,000,000 tons of bituminous coal was produced. Since July 7, 1917, to date, bituminous coal production has decreased at the rate of 200,000 tons per day for the average of five working days. If the decrease continues at this rate, without dropping any lower, and the estimate of 600,000,000 tons is accurate, there will be a shortage of upward of 149,000,000 tons during the next twelve months." The above quotation, taken from the Salt Lake Tribune of Sunday, October 14, reveals one of the most serious problems involved in our part of the world's coal supply. It is brought to light that all our allies, besides our own home sections that are already stricken for want of coal, are looking to us for their supply, and under such a condition as is named by president White of the United Mine Workers of America it becomes supremely imperative that every American citizen be made of any amount of thinking, whatever, should unite his efforts in solving the problem.

Various elements have united in discussing this problematic condition. The tremendous shortage in mine laborers ranging as high as twenty-five thousand in approximately a month's time. Some of the most efficient mine workers, occupying places of great danger and trust, such as mining, the transportation system within the mine, which is one of the most hazardous occupations offered, have been drafted into the military service. At one time this shortage of men would not have been so serious, when immigrants were flowing into the United States by the millions every year, willing to work at wages that would justify the time and cost of transporting them into efficient workmen. As expensive as is a constant turnover of employees in any industry, it is not so serious a problem when the new employes will work at wages so low as to allow for the expense of bringing them to the country. But it is estimated that the immigration from foreign lands into America has decreased by some million and a half in the last few years. The mine owners in this crisis cannot rely upon their services in increasing the output of coal.

During the summer, the Salt Lake Tribune comments, that "our men scarcely averaged more than one day at work at the mine. The operators who have been forced to close their mines was no market for the coal, and now with the pinch of winter at hand there is a demand everywhere for coal." The demand that now faces American coal producers comes not from home fields in actual want, as in the great northwest, but from among all our allies. It is estimated in France that coal will be selling soon for over a hundred dollars a ton. It is only in almost impossible to obtain coal, and the English demand is increasing continually as the supply becomes increasingly shorter and harder to obtain because of other conditions on the high seas.

During the summer fall in the coal industry because of the necessity of professional miners to obtain additional wages to make a living in the face of war prices. Consequently, rather than strike the coal industry to the present all sufficient crisis, many miners withdrew from the mines and sought better paying occupations elsewhere. And the present wage is not high enough to justify them in giving up their new occupation for the old profession of mining.

These conditions, together with the draft law which has taken a large number of the most skilled bodied men from the coal fields, are what the United States must face in order to meet squarely this present problem of coal shortage and near famine.

Just what the United States will do if the demand continues to decrease, and the supply continues to decrease, is not a man or means to facilitate production is hard to tell. But there seems no other way to solve the problem, in such a case, other than taking the mine men out of their occupations and need be drafting the most efficient men necessary for the proper conducting of the industry.

In a crisis of war, it seems to us that every industry, every business, factory, plant, or power in the United States that is necessary for the successful pursuance and consummation of such a momentous undertaking, is much a part of the war forces of the nation as the men in khaki. It seems to us that every man and woman who can be of service in any way to the nation, in the maintenance of its industrial machines should be used by the nation as it deems best and proper. It is true this is a land of liberty, but liberty is not a license where congested conditions demand adherence to communal interests, when there is no harmony or unity in purpose. Our very united conditions, our mutual dependence upon one another, makes this war our common cause, and hence it arises that all our energies and all our resources and businesses are subject to the dictation of the common whole.

President White has formulated this slogan, "Get the Coal." Yet we are in the same breath educated concerning these conditions, that we are bringing on a famine of fuel in the world. Perhaps, under Mr. White's leadership, for he seems to be both an efficient leader and truly patriotic, the mining men of the nation will be brought back into the field to shoulder this crisis of the nation and the world. That would be the better way for it would be the way of determined, loyal, patriotic men of America.

But if for any reason this problem is not solved other than by drafted forces and resources, then let us, for the sake of a common cause submit to the dictates of the common whole, the suffering body of the people. The man in the field, with the shovel, with the ax, the man behind the counter, the lawyer, the preacher, the author, the men and women of all professions, as well as the man behind the gun, and the fighting forces of the nation, if it needs should be subjected to forced labor, those who have shouldered the responsibility of facing the enemy's guns, are subjected to forced labor. We say forced, fully realizing that men free to and gladly offer their services, that they are to be called to the colors, that because conditions, common interests, necessary disciplines, have brought about an imperative demand and they feel the necessity of obeying the supreme beckon of that demand.

KIMBERLY'S GREATEST NEED

Kimberly folks have been for some time talking about certain city improvements, such as sprinklers, sidewalks, better business buildings, and possibly paved streets in the near future. And most of those things they have succeeded in obtaining.

But there is one thing that stands out as Kimberly's greatest need at the present time, and it seems strange to the Advance that some one with the means and the ability to fulfill that need does not recognize it. Kimberly needs in the first place a lunch counter or a new restaurant. Notwithstanding the fact that one restaurant may enjoy an immense business, and may be considered the best in the city, and perfectly satisfactory in every respect, there always comes a time in the life of every progressive growing town, when that one business in question cannot accommodate the increased demand that is put upon it. There comes a time when one store as large as it may become, cannot accommodate the public. They meet its demands, when competition and new business must arise to meet the needs of the community.

And Kimberly needs more than a new restaurant, it needs as well, an enlargement to the present hotel, at least, if nothing better can be done, a new rooming house. If Kimberly is to keep the people who are constantly coming into the community for the purpose of making it their home, or securing positions; of going into business; it must be able to accommodate its guests.

Here, it seems to the Advance, is a great opportunity for some wide-awake people with an understanding of the restaurant and hotel business, to not only establish a business that will reap profit to themselves but will at the same time be an immense help to the town.

Kimberly could also make use of three or four apartment houses and some cottages designed for renting purposes. And here again is a great opportunity for those who have the means to provide a good source of income for themselves, and at the same time, immensurably benefit the community.

For fear of being misunderstood, the Advance wishes to make itself clear by re-emphasizing that it has no criticism to offer against the present accommodations so far as the first-classness of the local hotel and cafe is concerned; but it feels the necessity of calling attention to what has become a demand of the community. The town grows. The transient trade and resident population demand greater and more accommodations than can be at present be provided. The Advance therefore desires of all matters requiring that the proper parties will see to the opportunity afforded an opening for the establishment of a business along the above mentioned lines that will meet the demands of the community.

Immense Munitions Fraud Is Uncovered

Seventeen Million Dollars In Attempted Hold Out By Munition Makers of America.
(U. S. S. Lensed Wire)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—An immense fraud involving the sale of seventeen million dollars worth of munitions has been uncovered by the treasury department.

Attempts of war contractors to evade payment of the 12 1/2 per cent tax on their profits have been revealed by investigation of the internal revenue bureau which has been in progress for some months.

The bureau announced today that $16,000,000 of the munitions withheld from tax already has been recovered through pursuit of a compromise policy and that the government is determined to recover every cent of the remaining unpaid tax.

German Troops Are Dissatisfied

"League For Early Peace" Formed among the Teutons in Russia—Fighting Continues Near Riga.

(U. S. S. Lensed Wire)
PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—Increasing discontent is being noted among the German prisoners in the East front. According to German prisoners the information received by the Russian general staff from other reliable sources today, indicates that, especially the artillery and engineers, are troubled by the spirit of unrest.

man and Russian fleets continue in those waters, according to reports from Petrograd and Berlin today. Advice from Berlin dated mostly with land operations, while the Petrograd dispatches told of valiant resistance of the Russian fleet under the difficulty of fighting against superior units.

The Russian torpedo boat from and a German torpedo boat were sunk and the Russian gunboat "Chrabry" was damaged in an action in Soela sound, which lies between Oesel and Dagoo Islands.

(The Grom displaced 1,110 tons and carried a crew of 82 men. The Chrabry displaced 1,735 tons and carried a crew of 197 men.)

Another report stated that two German torpedo boats were destroyed and others damaged by the Russian shell fire.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Long continued rumors that Russia would sue for a separate peace were effectually applied today when the Russian embassy gave out a statement of Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs Tschernko relative to the repulse of the German and Austro-Hungarians.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—The Germans are using a new form of poisoned gas, which produces tuberculosis in its victims. The symptoms of the disease are felt at once. In view of the great danger attending the use of the gas, the Germans themselves are supplied with special masks for protection.

One of the German dreadnaughts operating against the Russians off Oesel Island at the entrance to the gulf of Riga, struck a mine and was so badly damaged that she had to be beached, according to the war office statement today.

The Russian war office has lost all communication with the garrison of Serel on the southwest extremity of Oesel Island.

WHERE IN THEIR FIELD?

Without a doubt the greatest good to the greatest number will be conserved by cutting down the acreage on the Salmon river irrigation project to a point commensurate with the available supply of water. It is manifestly better that good crops be insured upon part of the land than that all go to ruin together.

But what of the men who shall be left outside the breastworks? Where is their help? Have they no rights growing out of their cash investment, be it larger or smaller, and what is a much greater item, out of their long and weary struggle with the situation? Manifestly they must have; but to whom are they to look for aid?

The TIMES is not now looking for a strictly legal answer to this question. But if the original company is moribund and the bondholders not liable, the plain moral responsibility seems to be on the state of Idaho, since the situation was created by the acts of its official agents. Let the state, then, step into the breach, and take up the cause of these men and see that their honest equities are not violated, even if it must assume their obligations itself.

AFTER TAX DODGERS

The government by its prompt action in passing after-taxer who made false entries regarding taxes, gives the lie to those who intimate that the wealthy today stand high in the favor of this in power. Congress has just passed a bill which was compiled with the assistance of four of the ablest taxation experts in the world. It enacted as high an income tax as that provided by England at the end of the third year of the war and as high a surtax as was provided by England at the end of the first year of the war, besides inheritance taxes with tentative plans for still higher income and surtaxes next year.

Some of the munitions men tried to dodge the taxes and now find the hand of the government upon them. They claimed that they should before paying any taxes, deduct the value of manufactures during the war, from such plants as were erected solely for the value of their property.

This was one of the things which the experts were supposed to take into consideration and did take into consideration, when planning a schedule of taxes. It was manifestly unfair to reduce the profits of a concern to what it was making before the war when it had invested a lot of money in new factories. Therefore, for the first, levy. Instead of following the suggestion of Senator Hollis, of New Hampshire, that all the excess profits be taken, a schedule was arranged whereby from twenty to sixty per cent of such excess profits were for the use of the government, besides ordinary income taxes.

But some of the munition makers would have their loaf and eat it. They would have allowance made and then knock off as much more in addition. The plan will not work.

The factories must dig up. At present we need them in our own business and are willing that they receive the fair profit that the law gives them, regardless of the prating of demagogues who would close them by taxation and whether through insurance or malice and the war in favor of the farmer by so doing. But they must obey the law as the prompt action of the government indicates.

THIS WAR OF SCIENCE

Of all the many military projects that our government has undertaken since the fateful April day when we declared war, the most interesting and appealing to the popular mind is the development of the air fleet. This fleet has three functions: 1—Scout work; location of enemy defenses and direction of artillery fire; 2—fighting and driving back the enemy planes that undertake the same purposes over our lines; 3—bombing attacks in the rear.

The first two purposes are necessary but auxiliary to other forces. The third undertaking is now and promises to reach heights of effectiveness scarcely touched as yet. The past summer has seen these attacks on a small scale, but we should be able to increase their power and range tremendously.

The trouble with these attacks as declared war, the most interesting and appealing to the popular mind is the development of the air fleet. This fleet has three functions: 1—Scout work; location of enemy defenses and direction of artillery fire; 2—fighting and driving back the enemy planes that undertake the same purposes over our lines; 3—bombing attacks in the rear.

airplanes are now being built up to 600 horse power. A much greater freight-carrying capacity is secured in these, estimated at 10 pounds per horse power. Such a plane therefore should be able to carry three tons of explosives and to accomplish 20 times the destruction possible from one of the ordinary craft now in use.

Such a plane should be able to deliver an explosive to any point near or far from the target line, with an accuracy and destructiveness greater than that of any gun yet invented.

When these big fellows begin to get busy, the Boche will think twice about the power of Uncle Sam's despised "wooden sword." The big munition works and the fleet at Kiel ought to be within reach of such attack.

ON "THE FIRE STEP"

To bite off the tender end of your favorite kind of cigar and then settle down into a nice easy chair to enjoy it after dinner—that's one thing. To light a cigarette when you're sitting on the fire-step in a front-line trench wondering if your next expedition "over the top" into No Man's Land may be the last—that's another thing.

A smoke is a whole lot more than a smoke, when a soldier really needs it. And it isn't exactly trench etiquette to be asking your mate for a cigarette too often. It helps heaps when there are plenty to go 'round for all.

—Stop and think about the fellow at the front next time you reach into your humidor for one of "your kind." Tobacco for the soldiers may easily slip your mind because it's so easy for you to have yours at home. But it's a big enough item of warfare to get the attention of the United States and French governments and the Red Cross.

—They are all co-operating with this newspaper to make it easy for you to do your part in sending on smokes to the boys over there. Twenty-five cents will start a well-stocked tobacco kit on the way and in it will be a return postal bearing your name so the recipient may let you know he received the gift.

How many return postal cards have you checked up to your credit? They'll make you feel almost as good as the tobacco will make some soldier feel. And a nice collection of such cards will be great "after war" souvenirs.

SAVING SUGAR

Noting Mr. Hoover's request that the American people save sugar, many conscientious people will cut down from two lumps to one for their morning coffee. Even a lump a day from everyone would make a big difference. Where we consume over four ounces a day each, the French have now less than one, and are not likely to get that for long. But as usual, probably the people who use sugar the most freely will be the last to heed the call for economy.

The people who should listen to the appeal are those who pile sugar in their coffee until the lumps reach up even with the edge. Still more people who keep boxes of candy open on their tables and munch it incessantly, should heed this call. There are some who take candy to bed with them and tuck in a few lumps before they go off to sleep. They keep it within reach and take more in the morning to dispel the bad taste that comes from what they ate the night before.

Also the crowds of chattering people who jam into the soda fountains and ice cream parlors and gulp down no end of sweet stuff, aren't doing much to help win the war. Too much sugar sates the distinctive taste of any food product. Many people have acquired the sensible habit of eating cereals and drinking coffee without sugar, and like them all the better.

When You Look for a Car You Can Use Anytime

MANY people nowadays depend entirely upon their Franklin Sedan for all motoring requirements—a very satisfactory way to conform to the national policy of war-time thrift.

In reality, the Franklin Sedan owes its popularity to its adaptability to touring—yet it is none the less a cold-weather car.

It has taken Franklin resiliency and light weight to free the enclosed car of all the old limitations.

The Franklin Sedan is, practically as economical in gasoline and tires as Franklin open cars. And as easy to handle, as safe and as active over the road.

A car that gets away from cumbersome and serves the owner as a true utility.

A car that any member of the family enjoys driving—an important factor in self-reliant motoring.

Do Your "Two-Bits" for Our Fighters

The TIMES Smoke Fund Will Aid in Sending Cheering Packages to Our Boys in France.

The first word to a wounded man found on the field is usually the offer of a smoke; the next question: "How badly are you hurt?"

A grim part of the soldier's smoke thus plays a sort of first-aid to shattered nerves and there is no apt substitute for this smoke.

Maybe you've never thought of this thing in just this way before. Perhaps you've put off doing your little bit in the way of smokes for the boys over there.

Every twenty-five cent contribution provides a well-stocked little Tobacco Kit of the kind this newspaper is sending over to the fellows in France.

Each kit contains a generous supply of smokes that will make glad the heart of the soldier or sailor for a good while.

And for proof positive, that the men appreciate what you are doing for them, the French and American governments and the Red Cross have arranged it so that a return postcard, bearing the donor's name and address, is packed in each kit.

This little postcard brings you a personal message from the front—a thank-you message from the soldier who is having the smoke "on you."

There is no bother for you to send one of these "Smoke Boxes" to some soldier in France. The TIMES attends to all the bother through its arrangement with the American Tobacco company.

All you need to do is drop a quarter on the counter at the office, or sign and send the slip found elsewhere in this issue, together with the amount you want to contribute to the fund.

The following are the names of those who have started the TIMES "Smoke Fund" for the boys in France. Add your name and please some unknown Sammy who will send his thanks on the card enclosed in the package.

MAXWELL TRUCK WINS UNIQUE ROAD CONTEST

The Maxwell one-ton truck again demonstrated its ability as a contender for championship honors when it won a 42 hour non-stop run from San Francisco to Fresno and return with an average of 60 miles to the gallon or over.

Besides making a perfect score and crossing the tape ahead of all competitors, it set a new record for gas mileage and oil economy. The average for the entire distance was 11.25 miles to the gallon of gas and an average of 60 miles to the gallon of oil.

The Maxwell truck is the latest product to adopt the famous "Flinck" Worm Drive which has been accepted as standard equipment by the United States government on the 15,000 trucks to be delivered this year.

Twelve leading manufacturers will adopt the design of the U. S. army standard truck.

RUTHLESS WAR ON AMERICAN COAST LIKELY

GERMANY FIGURES ON DECLARING AMERICAN COAST A WAR ZONE

London Worried Over the Situation

American Naval Officers Say It Is Immaterial as They Have Proceeded on That Theory Since Declaration.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Germany may soon extend her ruthless submarine warfare to American waters. That such action is contemplated by the German admiralty was indicated today by a radiogram from Berlin stating that the coasts of the United States, Canada and Cuba may soon be declared war zones.

When Germany declared the waters off the British Isles and France war zones early in the war the declaration carried with it the announcement that all merchant ships from a German U-boat in those waters would be sunk forthwith.

That Germany, with her fleet of ironclad submarines could raise shipping in the steamer lanes off the American coasts was demonstrated by the U-53 a year ago this month, when she crossed the Atlantic from a German port, put into Newport, R. I., and upon her return trip sank a number of merchant ships off the New England coast.

The U-53 which was commanded by Captain Hans Rose, carried sufficient supplies for the round trip and the only purpose for putting into Newport was explained at the time was to deliver a pouch of mail.

Germany has increased her submarine fleet to 300 units, according to a dispatch from Christiania quoting the Tidings Telegram. The telegram added that German ships are said to have succeeded in building submarine cruisers of about 1600 tons, each carrying a crew of from 40 to 60 men. These cruisers carry upwards of 60 torpedoes and air max shells and mines. They are equipped with mining devices as well as with torpedo tubes and guns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The navy department today let it be known that the navy is ready to support a declaration of Germany to declare American waters war zones as of any real significance.

From April 6, the day a state of war between the United States and the German government was recognized by this country, this government has looked upon all waters off the American territory as war zones and has taken all steps to protect itself in such.

"EYES OF THE WORLD" FILM PLAYS RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Heralded as the most notable contribution to the present era of mighty film ventures, "The Eyes of the World," will make its second cinema advent at the Isis Theatre tomorrow.

Based on the most popular romance of the times, by Harold Bell Wright, with a record of over one million sales in book form, the cinema translation is declared to excel the remarkable California story of love and adventure in every way, adding the virtues of remarkable force, beauty, strong character acting and visualized dramatic dash.

The flight of Signe Andrea into the mountains; the search of the forest rangers for the lovely heroine; the kidnapping of the girl; the pathetic wanderings in the mountains of Willard, the escaped convict; and the combat of the rival lovers on the cliff, are well remembered episodes of the book which make great material for a thrilling drama.

Here are some of the nutshell facts about the "Eyes of the World," the book and the cinema version: Cinema production, the work of Clane, part producer of "The Chameleon" ("The Birth of a Nation"); it is in six sections; it has six months in the making and cost a fortune; it represents the undivided labor of one of the largest motion picture plants in California for over six months; the story is greatly amplified for the screen by the author, Harold Bell Wright; in a tale of romance and adventure in the Sierras and San Bernardino; is photo-graphically a magnificent panorama of California's outdoor glories.

Phillips Told Bee Truths Here

Notable Talk to Owners of Stands Reproduced in Substance for Their Benefit.

The interest aroused among the keepers by the visit of Dr. E. F. Phillips, the federal apiarist who attended the Commercial club luncheon last Thursday, as reported in the Sunday TIMES has led to so many inquiries that it has been deemed advisable to publish the following synopsis of the address afterwards delivered at the rooms of the Twin Falls Commercial club to sixteen representative beekeepers owning about 2000 hives in the vicinity of Twin Falls.

Dr. Phillips said in part that three great factors must be considered with regard to wintering bees and the methods to prevent such losses which ran from 50 per cent to 100 per cent with many apiarists. Those factors are briefly, heat, moisture, and faeces regulation.

HEAT: In general, heat of the hive usually runs two degrees Fahrenheit above or all outdoor temperatures. When the temperature outdoors allows the hive to be about 60-65 degrees Fahrenheit without special regulation by the bees who themselves produce the heat of the hive, it may be said that the honey bees are the nearest to hibernation that they ever get. Bees are the only insects which do not hibernate. If the temperature goes below that of 60 the bees begin to produce heat by increased fanning with their wings. As marked may this become that Dr. Phillips has recorded difference of 75 degrees in temperature between two points in a hive only 4 1/2 inches apart. The possibility of such extremes is brought about by the habit of the bees to fill empty comb and available space between us as to form a wall, the outer shell of bees making a wonderful insulation layer. This ball begins to form by the time the temperature in the hive or out drops to 47 degrees F., the insulating shell of living bees contracts and the bees moving, bees inside begin fanning to produce the heat.

Fanning is the only winter work which bees do. Thus on a winter night the cluster temperature runs from 80-90 degree F., i. e., inside the cluster. With the middle temperature in winter rising above 57, the cluster opens up and the fanning work stops. Now fanning wears bees out if we do not offset their need for so doing. This is one great reason for the loss of winter bees, which wear themselves to death trying to keep warm.

To test these matters beyond dispute, hives were specially rigged with scientific thermometers, one just inside the entrance in the middle, and one near the rear of each hive. 2000 hives through the packing, made of sawdust, 16 inches deep on the floor, sides at least one foot high. From this, it proved that brood-rearing starts even in February, with a produced heat of 94-5 degrees F. As soon as the brood is gone the bees lower the temperature throughout the hive to 57 or under, when the thermometers failed to register where the bee cluster was. However, if the entrance failed to keep heat in unless packed with fine material such as sawdust, clover chaff, etc., in preference to coarse straw, and the like.

Moisture: Where does most of the water come from which condenses on the inside of the hive during the winter? Is it from the outside air, as some beekeepers claim? There how can you explain that cold air can come into a warm hive and condense moisture when we know that as cold air warms it increases the power of air to absorb moisture? Dr. Phillips proved this beyond dispute by demonstrating with tests at his apiary office in Washington, D. C., that the bees give off breathe of this water moisture. He showed that honey water is 8 pounds of water for each water 3 pounds and that about one gallon of water was generated in the hive for every gallon of honey consumed. Now at 47 degree F. bees do not consume honey in quantity sufficient to give off any water. Therefore, it would be a suggestion to solve the heat problem by keeping the bees at such a low temperature that they would consume little stores and at the same time reduce the moisture problem to nothing, or practically nothing.

Faeces: It is now generally understood that the clover aphid honeydew was the cause of the chief loss for the severe losses of 1916-1917. In other words, it has been shown that if bees store honeydew for winter feeding, they get a dangerous quantity which destroys the whole hive full. Great investigation shows that bees eat not digest starch, nor even some sugars which are suitable to man. Purely, they can not digest dextrine or other, they can not digest starch which is just turning to sugar. In alfalfa honeydew, they do not digest although man can, in a sample of honeydew honey sent in from Washington state, there was 12 per cent gum dextrine, quite in contrast with the famous Idaho water white alfalfa honey of 3/4 gum. Here is a difference in gum contents of 24 times. A Idaho sample of honeydew honey had 9 per cent gum, last spring taken out of an overwintering but very feeble hive of bees. This is 18 times what the pure south Idaho honey contains. Bees do not void liquid excreta anywhere in a hive but hold it in them for days till some warm winter day they can take a short noon flight to void the accumulated waste gums. If their food stores make the faeces collect in the corners of the hive, they will struggle against all possible physical endurance, burst, pollute the food stores and all begin to sticken from the resulting filth when all the bees are too cold to keep clean, even if they are very irritable under such conditions, must eat more to get the same amount of food value, and more to support the greater activity from irritability, and fan more, the more flies, they become more active, eat more, even try to rear brood, and sweat out in midwinter weather, even if winter temperatures. They burn the candle at both ends." This was the "test in proof" a "wintering" collar had a temperature of 43 degrees F., while the cluster was 60 degrees F. They had honeydew stores in 60 days the temperature rose to 83 degrees due to accumulated faeces in their intestines, and so continued. It is probable that Idaho beekeepers had unfortunate brood-rearing in every hive where honeydew was commonly present.

It thus appears that insulation is the first great demand for successful wintering. In fact, this is the only one that is not denied but that dreary rarely comes when wintering on good honey. It is when the chance to fly does not come often enough that the bees can secure any more outside honey, i. e., occur. Let him at once feed his bees 5-10 pounds per hive of sugar syrup (made of 2 parts sugar to 1 part water, or, or even 2 1/2 parts of sugar to the same); let him feed it warm and underneath the hive, so the bees can readily absorb it. If the comb last emptied of brood (young bees) you may be sure they will rush it right under the cluster just starting to form. In fact, they will have the pure stores available for the first part of the winter. If no empty brood comb offers, it may be necessary to remove a honeydew frame from the center of the hive and replace it with some spare frame which has only partly filled or capped cells. In any case, it makes no great amount of sense necessary to overwinter in the presence of the honeydew allowed to remain until after the critical winter season, when it will be just as good as any other honey for spring brood rearing, a time when bees can try their best at some time every day or two to empty themselves of the factor forming accumulations of faeces.

In conclusion, the Federal Apiarist congratulated the local beekeepers on the fact that although they would have a short honey crop this year, away under 100,000 pounds, yet the whole sale price offered is nearly double that of last year, so that the beekeeper or himself stands to gain. He noted that the allies demand sweets, that Americans consume 99 pounds of sugar per capita, England and France progressively less till we find the Italians starting along on 23 pounds per capita. That is a good thing, but 2000 tons of honey was shipped this year safely to Italy as an experiment in supplying them with a sweet of known sufficient food value and not easy to spoil or deteriorate in a sunny climate. In answer to the query that can sugar crops too much to feed bear sugar syrup in fall during the war, he parried with the query if it were cheaper to lose all one's bees over winter and have to build anew in the spring from post-war packages of bees worth one to three dollars per hive.

After the hour's entertaining and thoroughly instructive talk, the beekeeper who had left their urgent fall farm work to come in from all over the tract, showed their appreciation by engaging in lively discussions for another hour and a half. After this, County Agent McLean took Dr. Phillips, Professor A. C. Burrill, and M. C. Ware, partner in the local honey-producing company, out to see the Ware apiary until train time. It was making a bumper record like other crops on the tract this year.

Dr. Phillips wished his appreciation conveyed to Mr. Kingsbury for the gift of views of the tract, to the Commercial club for the efforts of its secretary to make two meetings successful on the single day allowed, and to the crowded schedule, and especially to the Farm Bureau and Dr. White for the enjoyable trip to Shoshone Falls. Like the Times remarks about the desolation of the Interior, F. F. Johnson in this section, he found the possibility of the premises of a trained beekeeper and instructor, at least for the duration of the war, to divide his time between Colorado, Utah, and Idaho, in visiting the beekeeping national aid in solving their problems. This expert federal beekeeping instructor will be appointed with all due haste to take his first and give instruction on wintering bees now when the local men most need help.

FOOTBALL BECOMES THE REIGNING KING OF SPORT OF WHOLE WORLD

By Luther A. Houston.
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Bring forth the robes of royal purple and crown football king of the sports world. His reign will be short and, compared with previous years, short of considerable of its glory. Despite this, however, the golden sport, now that the world's series has been played and the ball yards closed for the winter, will force to the front as monarch of sportsmen.

Conditions in the colleges of the Big Ten partake generously of the sombre aspect that enshrouds college football throughout the country, yet the gloom is lessened not a little by the prospect of considerably stronger teams and much better football than was expected when war first cast its shadow over college gridirons. Coaches have had a few weeks of preliminary work with their men and report things looking up, although there are none of them but sigh for the days of yore.

Coach Alonzo Stagg, of the University of Chicago, has the smallest football squad he has had to work with since the Midway school launched its first football craft, but he is whipping together a team probably will give a creditable account of itself in competition with other Big Ten colleges. The presence of Brooks, end; Higgins, fullback; Green, center; Elton, half, and several other capable men with considerable experience, gives Stagg the nucleus of a creditable eleven.

At Northwestern university Coach Murphy has a larger squad of men and a larger sprinkling of veterans (than has Stagg). The Purple gave service of its veterans to the country's service, but enough of the old timers are left to orientate the new year's freshmen eleven on an hand to make Murphy's gang a formidable contender for conference honors.

Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, is concerned chiefly with the problem of a suitable backfield. He has a powerful line, with such stalwarts as Ruppel, Wols and Sprague to take care of the forward entrenchments. Backing his first line men Zuppke is building his backfield around Morris, a capable halfback; Nichols, star quarter of last year's freshmen team, and Rafferty and Layman. Captain Ben Kraft probably will hold down his old post at end.

Indiana turned out the smallest squad in years, and has few veterans. With Captain Hordway and Howard to build around, however, Coach Jumbo Sjöhim is whipping "into shape" a team that looms up much stronger than was at first anticipated.

Out at Minnesota Dr. Williams started training with five letter men in his squad and a playing lot of candidates. The Gophers loom up like prospective champions unless some of the other teams brace up a few weak spots. Williams will lead his team around Captain George Hawver and Conrad Ecklund, and apparently has ample will to put merit to round out a strong eleven.

Wisconsin is the only school in the conference who lost its coach because of war. Paul Whittington, last year's brilliant line center, has taken the service of the nation and John Richards has taken his place as coach. The Badgers, according to preliminary indications, will have one of the strongest teams in years despite the loss of several stars. Eight veterans are on hand and nine good men from the freshmen team of last year are back in school.

Ohio state has a whole team in "Chick" Herley. All-American halfback last year, he has call for eleven men, ten regulars and one in the field. The Buckeyes have a raft of material that looks promising and it is evident that Herley will have considerable help in the fall's gridiron campaign.

Coach Jones, of Iowa, will put a light green team in the field and take his chances. Jones has Captain Davis and Jenkins as veterans for the backfield and expects to surround his regular eleven with the best available material. Iowa is not discouraged over her football team, but neither is she boasting any conference championship intentions.

Purdue has the smallest squad in years, but Coach O'Donnell is optimistic. Reports from the Lafayette school indicate that the team will be powerful, but will not be distinguished for its speed. Olmstead, Spender, Jordan, Bora, Bartlett, McDonald and Mize seem to be the candidates most likely to land in the Hoosiers' jobs, while Hume, Allen, Hart, Smith and Huffine are the leading backfield candidates.

Michigan, newest member of the Big Ten, is the dark horse of the conference, and but little information concerning the prospects of Year's eleven has trickled out. Football followers are expecting, however, that the Wolverines will be on deck when the regular conference games begin with a formidable eleven.

Chicago Police Are on Trial

Serious Charges Against Leading Members of the Force Alred in Court.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Accused in an avalanche of indictments obtained last January by State's Attorney Mcaley Hoyle after a sensational investigation of alleged municipal corruption, former Chief of Police Charles C. Hoolwer went on trial in the criminal court this week for solicitation, conspiracy and conspiracy.

The former chief has been at liberty under bond since his arrest.

Indicted with Chief Hoolwer were Tom Costello, who had been the "power behind the chief," "Mike De Pique" Heiter, alleged political boss; Joseph Skidmore, a politician; Tom Connelly, hotelkeeper; Stephen Barry, sergeant of detective, and William Weinblatt, hotel owner.

The arrest and the indictment of the former chief followed weeks of investigation and sensational charges by the state's attorney. It was immediately preceded by a raid upon alleged headquarters of the "corruption ring," in which Chief Hoolwer, Costello, Skidmore, Heiter and others, it is alleged to have collected thousands of dollars of illegal tribute.

Charges upon which the conspiracy and bribery indictments are based include solicitation of bribes, harboring thieves, gamblers and crooks, collecting of bribes from saloonkeepers for return of revoked licenses; collection of bribes from policemen for promotion from the ranks and from police applicants for promotion to higher ranks; collection of fees from property owners for reduction of taxes and intimidation of police officers by transfer to and from district for removal.

It is alleged that promotions in the police department were made according to a regular scale of prices, the higher the rank of the officer desired the higher the price fixed for its attainment. Through Heiter, Costello and Skidmore, and their lieutenants, it is alleged, tribute was levied upon owners of saloons, brothels and hotels. Establishments that "came through," it is alleged, were paid to agents of the "big four."

Confessions of several policemen, among them Captain William B. O'Brien, who claimed inside knowledge of the workings of the graft ring, furnished much of the evidence upon which the indictments against Hoolwer and his alleged aids are based.

Besides the indicted, the names of scores of others, including officials high in the city administration, were drawn into the case during Hoyle's investigation.

Since the indictment of Hoolwer and his alleged aids, a Becker, former civil service examiner, and William W. Hoolwer, former justice of the peace, charging them with extortion of money under promise to obtain restoration of revoked saloon licenses.

The investigation began months before the indictment of Hoolwer is still in progress and State's Attorney Hoyle promises further disclosures.

Copenhagen Experts Declare Germans Blundered in The Reluctant Comp.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 15.—Instead of instituting a successful coup and strengthening its position by giving out news of a mutiny in the German navy, the imperial government at Berlin found that it had only blundered again. This was the explanation placed today upon the efforts of the German admiralty to "cover up" and to make it appear that the revolutionary plot was exaggerated and not nearly so far-reaching as pictured last week.

The political situation, revolving around the question of peace terms, has now resolved itself into absolute chaos. The newspapers are divided into factual groups, each clamoring for its pet theories as to how to win the war or to bring about an early peace.

The Kaiser is expected to return to Berlin next Sunday, said dispatch from that city today. When he may take a hand in trying to end the disorganization which has been growing since the majority bloc jammed its peace resolution through the Reichstag on July 19.

The Dusseldorf and the Deutsche Tageszeitung of Berlin have now joined hands in a campaign for the resignation of Dr. von Kuhlmann, the imperial foreign secretary.

Frisky Frisco Girl in Jail

Told Several False Stories of Adventures and Finally Attempted Suicide.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—"I'm through with cabarets. I'm going back home to meet in San Francisco," declared pretty 18-year-old Dorothy Crosby as she peered through the bars of her cell here today.

Mrs. Crosby is held after an attempt to end her life by leaping from the window of a hotel. The police are investigating her story that Hugh Weinberg, a bond salesman, planned to use her as a decoy in a scheme to extort money from wealthy Chicagoans.

Mrs. Crosby declared her original story to be "pretty much all right except that I am not married." When

Delightful economy

Oh—that sinking of the heart, when you look in your ice-box and see the tiny dab left from yesterday's pound of butter!

As a matter of fact, you would probably not be using butter for cooking nowadays, if you could get the same delicious results without it.

You can. Yes—without a particle of butter!

Here is the way: Use wholesome, economical Cottolene for your fine cooking, in place of expensive butter.

In purity Cottolene has set the highest possible standard for shortenings.

Try Cottolene in any familiar recipe. Use one-third less than you would use of butter.

You will find that shortenings which seem cheap, when scooped out by the pound, are often more expensive than Cottolene in actual use.

Why?

Because many careful housewives have found that Cottolene—owing to its superior richness—goes much farther than other shortenings which they had been using.

Try Cottolene next time. It is sold by grocers in tins of convenient sizes.

Recipe for MOLASSES COOKIES

- 1 cup molasses
- 1 level tablespoon ginger
- 1/2 cup Cottolene
- 1/2 level teaspoon soda
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup-cold water
- 1/2 level teaspoon salt
- 3 to 4 cups flour

Heat molasses, pour over Cottolene. Add sugar, salt and ginger or a mixture of other spices if preferred. Dissolve soda in cold water and add to first mixture. Stir in flour, making a stiff dough to drop from spoon, or a stiff dough to be rolled and cut. Bake in moderate oven.

posal to set 18 and 40 as the age limits under the selective draft has not the support of Secretary of War Baker. Secretary Baker said late this afternoon he believed no men above twenty-six should be taken because of the industrial disorganization that would result. He believed, however, that the draft should be made to apply to men of nineteen.

"Men between 19 and 20 make the best possible soldiers," he said.

CONCLUSION OF HEARING AT HOLLISTER

came actually irrigated; but that the general need was from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 acres feet. Mr. Wodde: Did not have the wanted, though the record gave 2 1/2 acre feet. Mr. Mikensell: Had the 2 1/2 acre feet allotted and then came, but did not have enough at least, could not get it at the time he wanted to use it. Mr. Beauchamp: Used 2 1/2 acre feet on wheat and 3 on alfalfa. Thinks 2 1/2 a fair minimum for tract. Mr. Caldwell: Land rented and can't answer, but knows water could not be had when wanted. Mr. Pullman: Couldn't get water when needed. Thinks 2 3/4 acre feet needed on this tract. Mr. Theobald: Perhaps the water allotted was enough, but could not get it when wanted. Mr. DeLong: Raised about 2 3/4 to 3 acre of alfalfa and 30 bushels of wheat. Lost alfalfa seedling two years in succession for lack of water. Mr. Boutin: Had his allotment of 2 1/2 acre feet, some waste water and some from Deep Creek, but not enough. Mr. Wills: Needed at least 3 acre feet. Mr. Furham: Renter said there would have been plenty of water if properly handled. Mr. Beatty: Could not get water when needed; record shows 2 1/2 acre feet to him. Mr. Robbins: Man who farmed said not enough water; had repeated losses in previous years from lack of water. Mr. Jocelyn: Does not know.

Judge Bothwell stated that a feeling existed among the settlers to the effect that the record of delivery this year showed less water than actually received—that the company had been unusually liberal. He introduced Mr. Frank Caudle, to whom the record allowed a delivery of 2 1/2 acre feet, but who believed he had fully five. Others volunteered the statement that they believed they received more than was charged to them.

Asked his opinion, Mr. Hall, the superintendent, said that from his observation, through years, here and elsewhere, he believed 2 acre feet to be an average supply.

Lognoer Archibald, declared his conclusion that 2 acre feet was an ample duty of water, based on proper methods of farming.

Mr. C. M. Walls, government engineer and land inspector, declared his belief that 2 acre feet was more than was actually being used now. Mr. Walls proceeded to give quite a lecture on irrigation, advising more frequent watering and less at a time, especially on this soil. New ground needs much more water than does reclamation; and alfalfa should be plowed under at least after three years in order to have something to hold the water. An old alfalfa tap root is a water hog. You might as well drive a 5-foot pipe to help waste your water. He favored developing an irrigation holding part at a time through successive years, and diversified farming all the time. He was listened to with interest, but not altogether with assent, and questions and answers indicated the thought that he was inclined to be theoretical rather than practical. But he declared that he had not only studied the theory of irrigation since 1890, but that he had made careful investigation of its practical workings in ten different states.

At this point a further and general expression on the duty of water was suggested; and although Mr. Tallman said he thought it had already been covered, a standing vote was held: first, on 2 acre feet for grain, 31 voting yes and 7 voting no; second, on 3 acre feet for alfalfa and clover, 32 voting yes and 1 voting no; third, on 2 1/2 acre feet being a sufficient average, 19 voting yes and 25 no.

It was then developed by questions addressed to Mr. Hall that of 7,212 acres sold on the project 13,905 had been cancelled, leaving 60,212 acres. Of this 52,590 acres were under the Carey act and certificates had been issued thereon by the state land board, 4,939 acres were desert entries, 773 acres were school lands and 1,893 acres under other patents.

He also said that but one entryman had paid the full purchase price on 40 acres; that a few had paid $11, many $5 and others only the first payment of $3; that the average amount paid would probably be about $6 per acre; that maintenance charges were fully paid on 4,605 acres; that 32,550 acres were now subject to cancellation through one or another flaw or default.

Commissioner Tallman then closed the hearing with thanks to all present for their attendance and courteous demeanor. He said the present condition was intolerable—unsatisfactory on both sides, and it was hoped to amend it. He asked if an extension of the time of payment would be considered an advantage and received an emphatic affirmative. Asking how much, Governor Alexander's reply that twenty instead of ten years would be about right seemed to have general approval.

So ended an important and unusual conference, and whatever may result, it was perfectly plain that the Salmon settlers thought they had been given a fair hearing and that Com-mistaken Tallman was both a clear headed and a fair minded man. Governor Alexander showed his interest by his presence in spite of being almost laid up with rheumatism, and with the other members of the state land board, gave the most careful attention to every detail.

Individually, the members of the board declared themselves ready to vote on the future acreage of the Salmon tract so soon as the findings and conclusions of the commissioner were in their hands. This will be very soon.
The entire party went to Milner yesterday morning to inspect the dam. From there they were going to Joensuu with regard to some north side matters for yesterday and today, which conclude the commissioner's nine days work in Idaho.
