Advices reaching Russian diplomatic circles, entente and neutral embassies and legations and American officials all carried the same story in different words. Lenin and his followers have fast entirely to get from the German officials any promise that will assist to the Russian people in the instead all of the German claims emphasize the intention of creating in Russia a German vassal state.

Conserve Heat; Conserve Coal

Plumbing Inspector Alex Murray Gives a Number of Suggestions to Housekeepers.

Plumbing Inspector Alex W. Murray, of this city, has prepared for the TIMES, the following suggestions for the consideration of housewives and all burning coal.

"Waste not, Want Not." About two-thirds of the coal that goes up the chimney or into the ash can, taken heed to the following and two-thirds will be a benefit instead of a loss.

The coal should be of such a kind that will give off the greatest number of units of heat, to meet the requirements for which it is burnt.

The apparatus in which it is consumed should be so constructed that the draft, whether of increase or decrease, can be under perfect control; because the improper admission of air, whether of direction or quantity, will prevent the perfect combustion and thus reduce the number of B. T. U. (British thermal units) of heat per pound of coal used; it is therefore very essential that the joints, seams, and doors, be made as nearly airtight as possible.

The fire pot or fire box should be of such a size to contain the quantity of coal necessary to emit the amount of heat required; the shape of the wall, preferably round or if rectangular or square, the corners should be rounded.

As to the draught from smoke, hearth drafts and economizing heat, it is best to consult an expert (smith or furnace man) because they are daily working with the chimneys and can point out the remedy.

It is estimated that about one-third of the coal used for fire is expended in producing the draft and the rest in ash and clinker; but this may be increased to one-half when the apparatus has not been manufactured upon scientific principles and mechanical skill, or when improperly installed or mismanaged; that is to say, assuming that there are from 12,000 to 15,000 B. T. U. in one pound of the average quality of coal, with perfect combustion and management, 8,500 heat units should be available, but if the reverse condition exists, but about 4,500 of the heat units are utilized, hence the importance of a careful study of the coal problem.

Hard coal does not grate as large a fire pot or box as soft coal. All surfaces that permit the radiation of heat where not needed, should be covered with some kind of non-conducts of heat material or surrounded by still air.

To obtain the full heat value of coal, it is good practice to supply by a burning test, in advance, and choosing a large supply, rejecting that which makes too much ash or clinker.

The sanitary condition of the premises plays an important part in the economy of coal as well as of life, every grammar school child knows that the breathing of pure air makes the body warmer than when foul air is inhaled, and that more oxygen enters the lungs (intervals of time being the same) when cold air is breathed than when it is heated.

A strict obedience to the hygienic rules of living will enable the body to endure a very cold atmosphere without discomfort and therefore lessen the amount of coal required for air heating purposes.

The smelt or frown of the Goddess Hygeia should be heeded by us, as by the ancients.

Reclaiming the coal that is dumped into the ash pan will amount to a pretty penny at the end of the month.

The coal bin should be built to prevent dampness, and forgetfulness of a borrowing neighbor.

Such coal can be saved by burning waste combustible material, when fires of short duration are necessary.

American People Behind President

Government Organ in Germany Says Men and Money Will be Given Freely for War.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—That President Wilson has the whole American nation standing solidly behind him is admitted by the semi-official Cologne Gazette, which quotes from a German city today.

The paper was quoted as saying: "They (the American nation) support him (President Wilson) even when he asks congress to declare war on Germany's allies in order to help Italy. They want him more men and more money to continue the war and only when we are victorious in Europe will we see enthusiasm in the United States weaken."

It is assumed that the article is a warning to the German people that they must expect to face a mighty foe in the United States and to steel them for the maximum of effort and sacrifice.

HORRORS OFFICIALLY TOLD

The question has often been asked why the government of the United States did not openly report on the ruthlessness so often charged by unofficial writers and speakers. This query is answered by an official report, reviewed elsewhere in this issue and obtainable on request by any American. No document could show forth more completely the awfulness of the campaign carried on by the officers of the Kaiser-Daunt-Starrington, deportation, the burning of undefended villages, the killing of non-combatant men, women and children in direct violation of the laws of humanity, of the laws of nations and of the solemn obligations deliberately entered into by Germany in the Hague tribunal. These things are shown to have been the result of deliberate policy on the part of the Prussian military leaders and to have been in line with such leaders have long advocated as the "proper method of warfare."

In fact, nothing has been recorded which is not traced back to the heads of the army of the invasion in Belgium and France. Instances of the deliberate, wholesale cutting off of hands of innocent children, of inoculation of prisoners and non-combatants with tuberculosis germs and of execution of men are not reported, probably for the reason that there is no proof that such things, where they may have occurred, were the result of deliberate governmental policy on the part of Germany, but enough has been shown to indicate that the rulers of Germany have lost all sense of humanity and are waging a war which rivals the excesses of the Huns, which forcibly the Kaiser urged his soldiers to commit during the three-year war in China.

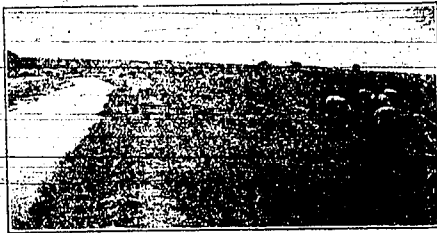

Every American citizen should secure a copy of the report and study its contents, not for the purpose of urging the emanation of barbarity, but for the purpose of forming a determination to wage a civilized war until a repetition of such savagery shall be forever made impossible.

GOOD ADVICE

Senator Borah no doubt gives good advice when he says that we should endeavor to retain the friendship of Russia in this trying time. It is pretty hard to tell what more the government can do than it has been doing, though if there is any definite means of holding Russia in line it should be adopted. The United States declined to enter into the protest filed by the allied governments recently in order that no offense be given. The unofficial statement that supplies would be definitely cut off was promptly officially denied. When the Kerensky and Korniloff factions were at loggerheads, the government let it be known that it would not take sides. No official denunciation of the Bolsheviks has been voted.

The whole question bristles with difficulties. Should the Bolshevik faction establish a permanent government, we might readily enough recognize it as the de facto government of Russia; but with eleven separate divisions each proclaiming itself an independent nation, we are presented with a most complicated diplomatic tangle. President Pierce once said that he recognized five different factions as the de facto government of Mexico within one year, which was going some. On the other hand, President Hayes refused recognition to President Diaz for more than a year in Mexico, and withheld recognition from President Blanco for a year and a half in Venezuela, and President Wilson following the precedents, refused recognition to Huerta altogether.

The Washington administration had trouble with French revolutionaries. Clifton Genet almost started a revolution here because we did not cooperate as much as he thought we should with the Girondists, but just as he was being disciplined properly for his impertinence and activities, the deacons got in control, and cut off his head, figuratively, while performing the same grim service for his bosom

UTILIZING DITCH BANKS.

How H. H. Schildman, of Ellier, Eliminates Waste of Land Along Irrigation Laterals

In a literal sense, perhaps the circumstance that we used in throwing ourselves into the arms of the Girond, may have made our French relations less strenuous with the successors. In spite of our diplomacy we got into a limited war with the Directory which succeeded both.

Charles Edward Russell says that wholesale denunciation of the Bolshevik in American newspapers has had a bad effect in Russia.

Dr. Frank Bohm, who lectured here during the Chautauqua days in copyrighted syndicate articles that the Bolshevik leaders are all eminent scholars, thoroughly honest but utterly and hopelessly impractical. He predicts their speedy downfall on account of the fact that their plans cannot be carried out. The wheat policy would, under such circumstances, seem to be to tolerate their regime during its brief existence and prepare to "stand in" with its successor.

What effect the precautionary measures adopted yesterday by Japan and China may have in Russia is of course like everything else problematic they seem sure, but sanity is seldom at premium in a country in the throes of revolution and there is a possibility that the Maximilian orators may use the "invasion" as a battle-cry to rally the masses to them. Their own practical incompetency to meet the pressing problems of hunger and cold, will probably prevent their using any slogan with permanent effect.

If the senior senator has an effective plan for keeping on the good side of the Russian parties, it will no doubt be welcomed by the administration and by the people.

Annual Meeting Co. Farm Bureau

Election of Officers Postponed To December 18, at Parish Hall—Receipts and Expenses Reported and Talks Made.

The meeting was called to order by President White at 2:30 last Saturday p. m. with regrets for the small attendance—thought to be a result of insufficient publicity. In opening the meeting the president talked at some length, reviewing the work of the year past and the situation with which the organization is now confronted. In a personal view, the president said that he had done his best to make the bureau a live organization; that, in starting, it was looking for worlds to conquer, and that, "perhaps, in my zeal to accomplish something, I may have gone too strong."

He then enumerated the various matters in which active interest had been taken, such as pooling in the purchase of binder twine and socks and the sale of wool, and claimed splendid results. He also referred to the "furnishing" daily market reports and maintaining a clearing house for timber, concluding with the "canal proposition," in which he claimed that we "certainly initiated something!" The very effective work of the organization in the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. drives was also referred to, as well as the great opportunity of finding, for reducing interest rates on farm loans. The hitch with the county commissioners in regard to finances, and with the county agent were also mentioned—both in terms of explanatory and conciliatory, rather than otherwise. But as the president will doubtless repeat this, in substance, the board of directors will not attempt further detail at this time.

On call for the order of business, Secretary Edwards read the proceedings of the last meeting. This was followed, later, by a financial statement, in substance as follows:

Carry-Home Prices

TWIN FALLS MERCANTILE CO.

C. J. M'GORMICK, Prop.

Uncle Sam has asked us to economize. It is our duty to do so. We believe a wave of economic reform is sweeping over our country that will make it easier for the Government to sell the next issue of Liberty Bonds. We are co-operating in this movement to the end that we may do our bit to win the war. We have all goods marked in plain prices—so that you can compare with other prices that you may know. We do not know definitely what will be required of us but we understand it our duty to sell goods as cheaply as possible so that the wage earner will find his wages ample to provide for himself and family.

On Tuesday, December 11, 1917, we are going to make only two deliveries a day—at 9:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. This will lessen expenses and enable us to sell you for less. If we can further encourage you to carry home all goods, except those too heavy to carry, thereby placing the deliveries to a very small part of the business we can make Prices Still Cheaper. If by adopting this new method we help even a few of our customers to be economical; and so contribute their part to this great economical reform that should sweep over this country, we shall be satisfied if our profit is far less than under the old system. Send the children. Teach them to shop. It will be our pleasure to look after them in particular.

and gave reasons for the faith that was in him with detail and vigor. From the old Farmers' Union, which died of poverty, we have left one good thing in the local insurance company, whose perfect protection is furnished at 10 per cent of "old line" cost. Farmers need a place to learn and to debate; they need the organization for help on the labor question, the federal farm loan business, the interest question and the management of a farm sales exchange—and here's where the professional barons kept their "in," as the speaker thought that if this business was thus managed "these brass-collar gentlemen would be out picking up spuds, where they belonged."

After some others had favored a recess, Mr. Alworth moved that it be taken (after some discussion as to time and place) on Tuesday, December 18, at two p. m. in the Parish hall. This motion finally carried, but pending action County Agent McLean rose and offered to send notices of the change to the membership, if desired. This led to an invitation to say more, which he did very effectively. He expressed his great desire to see the farm barons kept alive, explaining that under the only law permitting federal aid, it could only be realized—in counties having such an organization. He referred to the federation in the past only to say "lets forget about it, got together and make a grand success for the future."

THE FIGHTING TRAIL

THIS STORY SHOWN AT THE ORPHEUM THEATRE

AN EXTRAORDINARY POTOPLAY

Each chapter is a complete story in itself, and a jump can be made from one to the other without in the least destroying the sequence of the story. William Duncan, and Carol Holloway in the stellar roles accomplish some death defying stunts. The tale in brief follows the adventures which befall the discoverer of a valuable ingredient for the making of a powerful explosive, and the efforts of a foreign enemy to get possession of the secret. The photoplay is unusually beautiful and artistic.

The marvelous adventure story of the great outdoors written by J. Stuart Blackton and Cyrus Townsend Brady.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING EPISODE

John Gwyn, an American mining engineer, contracts to furnish the government with the ingredients of a high explosive used in the manufacture of ammunition. In working the mine he is fought by an agent of the Central Powers, who hires an outlaw band to get possession of the mine. They killed the owner, but Gwyn marries his daughter and they flee on horseback—time and again they are near death, trapped in a burning house and locked in the mine. They finally are captured, but escape, and the pursuit leads to a hanging bridge which gives way.

Gwyn manages to hold to the bridge until Nau reaches safely and then drops the bridge into the chasm, but not until the outlaw leader has a place of safety by grabbing onto a rope. Then follows a lapse in hostilities in which Gwyn gives the mine in operation.

The outlaws, however, plot to attack the mine and begin by stalling the first pay roll, together with the mine deeds.

A wild race to the recorder's office is made in which the Central Powers agent wins.

CHAPTER II

But Casey was not trying to take the engine house just now. First he must get his men out of the trap. He worked about the side of the train until he reached the engine, mounted the step and crouched behind the cab. "Hold tight," he called, "lie down behind the ore in the cars!" and with this he grasped the throttle and immediately started the train. Protected by the piles of ore, which served as a shield, his destination was untraced, but all attacks on the train came headway and crawled faster and faster toward the incline.

But how was advice to the situation. What he desired was not a retreat, with the possibility of a counter attack, but a decisive victory, a stunning feat of Casey's entire force. Another train, with its engine pointed in the opposite direction to that in which Casey was established, stood on a siding. His destination was instantaneous. Summoning his men to climb aboard, he backed the train on to the track and started in pursuit.

The race was even till they struck the grade and then Rawl's train, with every car loaded, had a greater motive power than any engine—rawly.

As the two trains slid down the mountain the distance between grew less and less. Both sides were firing as rapidly and continuously as human fingers could load and press the triggers. Narrower and narrower grew the intervening space till the trains coupled and locked. And now, back and forth over the wayward ore cars, there waged a hand-to-hand, then the other, in a desperate race, would carry the fighting back.

But this could not last. As Casey turned the bend leading down to the burned bridge he knew in his heart that defeat was very close. Outriggered, his men would be virtually surrounded as soon as the train came to a stop. The only way out was across the bridge itself, trusting to a higher power that the charred supports and sleepers would bear their weight. The word was therefore passed along that all hands were to make for the bridge as soon as the engine halted. A moment later Casey closed the throttle, and calling his men to follow, leaped to the ground and started over the pliers from the tower supports. It was a costly operation, but most of the men had made their way unhurt to the center of the bridge and were holding off their assailants with fair success when a new enemy appeared in the rear.

Van Block, Shoestring and "One-Lung" had mounted a killing run on the front of an engine and were bearing down on Casey from the other side of the bridge. The fire had been less severe on this side, and the engine crept out over the sleepers with its deadly weapon pouring forth a flying fusillade of bullets. It was only by swaying their bodies underneath and hanging by the beams that the stout-hearted little band of defenders could save themselves.

Election day dawned bright and clear, and Hogan, his red machine conspicuous with campaign banners, was greeted with cheers wherever he went. The events of the day before had turned the tide, and Cassey's defeat was a foregone conclusion. But the candidate dropped his campaign smile for a hearty laugh when he came upon Cassey twirling his hat with boyish embarrassment before a young lady's praise.

"Hut, hut—I mean it—perfectly lovely!" she exclaimed with enthusiasm as Hogan drove up. "Do you know what Wm. Cassey did last night? Captured a brand new gatling gun! Van Block had shipped from the east, but that simply magnificent!" she was beaming on the big Irishman with frank admiration, clapping her hands and murmuring those girlish exclamations which prove so often fatal to any man's self-possession. Cassey welcomed the newcomer as a providential diversion.

"The Van came too far, that's all," he explained. "We worked about the side of the engine, and the gat couldn't turn on such a wide angle. But they still have the mine, and a pang of men is working now rebuilding the bridge. Gwyn and I decided we too could use the bridge, so we are disturbing them—and now tell me how the election is going."

"Fine," grinned Hogan. "Mrs. Gwyn here is the best little politician I've seen in many a day. And by the way, old man Taylor, the poor old scoundrel that keeps the cattle, told me this morning he had changed his mind about the title to the mine and had corrected the records in her ladyship's favor. I wouldn't surprise me if there was something of a politician himself, eh?"

By noon the ballot was almost completed, with Hogan leading by a safe majority.

"Well," he told Gwyn, "since your wife fought for me I'll repay the favor. My boys are going a holiday today, and I don't know any kind of celebration that'd please 'em better than a little little scrap. Let's drive those boys and the block back before supper time. What 'd you say?"

Hogan cupped his hands and gave a shrill signal. "In a few moments every man on the block had gathered to know what it was all about.

"All I have to say is this," he told them. "Gwyn and Cassey and I are going for 'em handle the mine. Anybody with a good gun who wants some excitement is invited. The line forms on the left."

Half an hour later the new sheriff and his first posse were on their way up the mountain.

Shop Early Advice Important This Year

Larger Holiday Business and Short Labor—Supply—Make It Important.

"Do Your Shopping Early!" has special significance for the public, in the approaching holiday trading period through the necessity of conforming private interests to the need of the nation by avoiding the great strain upon labor, freight and postal facilities of the "eleventh-hour" saying says the Dry Goods Reporter.

With the government striving to keep industries normal and railroads adequate for the present volume of business, the public will be expected to arrange the extra demand upon the carriers in such a manner as to occasion the least possible congestion. Early buying and shipping is the solution. Added to the usual arguments for doing Christmas shopping early are several imperative new reasons which are the "special" outgrowth of the war and which may be summarized as follows:

First, the stores are facing a larger holiday business than ever with a labor shortage in all lines which may make it difficult for them to obtain the usual quota of extra clerks the last two weeks before Christmas.

Second, the congestion of mail already in such that unless the people use forethought in sending gifts early to the soldiers the service may not be adequate for prompt delivery.

Stocks have been accumulated by most of the stores a month earlier than usual because of the necessity of sending gifts to soldiers abroad and in distant home camps.

Retailers are making displays earlier than usual, hence the public can begin now and for their own convenience are urged to begin now to do Christmas shopping.

A CABINET MAN'S WAR BREAD

Mrs. Gregory (Gives The Recipe For The Kind She Feeds Her Husband.

"On what meat doth this, our Caesar, feed that he has grown so great?" was asked by one of the famous band of conspirators, and before it was asked that the world has been much interested in the food of its celebrities. That makes particularly interesting, the oatmeal bread on which Mrs. Thomas Watt Gregory, wife of the attorney general of the United States, feeds her husband. She calls this her "favorite" war bread recipe in a letter to the People's Home Journal.

"One cupful of liquid, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of rolled oats, one quart cake of yeast in one-quarter cupful of lukewarm water, two and one-half cupfuls of white flour. Scald the liquid, add the salt and pour over the rolled oats. Cool slightly, letting it stand one-half hour. Add yeast and sifted flour, knead and let rise until double in bulk—knead again. Let rise in pan until light. Bake in a moderate oven from fifty to sixty minutes."

CAMOUFLAGE REACHES FAMOUS PUMPKIN PIE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—The art of camouflage has now reached the good old pumpkin pie. Mrs. G. M. King of 214 William street, East Orange, N. J., today sent to the national emergency food garden commission, a recipe for making pumpkin pie without the pumpkin. Here it is:

"Scald one quart of milk; add scant cup of Indian meal; little salt. When cool add two eggs. Cinnamon and ginger to taste. Sweeten with brown sugar. Put a little cream or milk on top and bake."

The commission will be very glad to get other helpful recipes but it urges that a few pumpkins be planted next year just the same.

Rice Pudding

Rogerson Items

Dr. Thurston, Mr. Jones, Mrs. Boyd, Mr. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Clash were Twin Falls callers last week.

The Red Cross ladies gave an informal lunch and entertained cards in the waiting room of the depot, Thursday evening, November 30.

A silver tea was served in the basement of the church by Mesdames Susel Gibbs and Hines on Saturday, December 1.

Miss Olive Cooper from Indiana, was visiting at the Al Cochran home. Vane Whiteside of Three Creek has purchased the Lloyd Reynolds property.

On Friday evening, December 31, the Rogerson school will give a basket social, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase a Victrola. There will be a short program given in the school building, after which the baskets will be auctioned off. By the kindness of Mrs. Edna Deane, the dining room of the hotel will be the room open to the "grown ups" for a social dance. So come bring your box set supper with your best girl. Listen to our short program and then repair to the hotel for a delightful evening. The school is badly in need of a musical instrument and Mrs. Deane is helping out, is donating the free use of her dining room for the evening.

JERUSALEM FELL TO BRITISH ARMS ON YESTERDAY

HOLY CITY CAPTURED BY GENERAL ALLENBY FROM THE TURKS

Taken by Ottomans 401 Years Ago

Center of World's Conflicts From Earliest Ages—Present Campaign Has Been Interesting From Military Point of View.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Jerusalem, the Holy City, was captured from the Turks by the British army operating in Palestine.

Announcement of this effect was made in parliament this afternoon. It was based on official advice from General Allenby, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the Palestine front.

The fall of the Holy City had been expected ever since the British took Joppa, its port on the Mediterranean. Jerusalem is again in possession of the Christians for the first time since 1516, when it came from the Ottoman yoke.

The British campaign in Palestine was opened last March and has been presented since then. First it was General Sir Archibald Murray and then by General Allenby, who assumed command on June 23. The advance was northward along the Mediterranean coast but was necessarily slow because of the arid desert that had to be crossed.

Jerusalem is 25 miles inland from the sea. It was made the capital of the Christian republic established there by the Crusaders from 1099 to 1187.

Jerusalem, the birthplace of Christianity, is the most fought for city in the world. Down through the ages it has been battled for by Jew, Mohammedan, Pagan and Christian.

The hills of Palestine have been drenched with Christian blood in night battles fought by fanatic Christian invaders. The historic city has been destroyed and rebuilt times without number, only to finally fall for the second time into the hands of Christian Britain.

The gigantic British encircling strategy took in, on the south, the little town of Bethlehem, where Christ was born 1917 years ago. There seemed to be no doubt that the capture of Jerusalem is one of the most stupendous moral victories of the war.

It is a unique fact that British leaders and British armies now, as in the centuries past, are still the tenacious successful foes of Mohammed's people. In the twelfth century Richard Coeur de Lion, in penitence for fancied sins, decided to absolve himself of mundane taints by engaging in an altruistic campaign for the deliverance of Jerusalem to Christian control.

In a series of campaigns he fought the mighty Saladin through many sanguinary battles in which his army was hampered to maintain a maximum fighting strength through the extensive line of communications. Disease and malaria reduced his armies to nomadic bands, which were, some of them, taken as slaves by the Musselmans. Others roamed the continent for years or engaged in mercenary wars wherever they found chieftains willing to employ them.

Richard himself became a fugitive, was created by enemies and struggling his way through Austria, and only released when friends to Christian raised enormous ransoms.

Briefly Jerusalem was subject to Egypt about 1400 B. C. Later it passed into the possession of the Jubaites. Babylon was the conqueror. Its rise to a great city caused much jealousy among neighboring potentates.

The Egyptians and Assyrians and finally the Babylonians under Nebuchadnezzar, employed the tactics the Germans have practiced on Belgium in the present war. Art treasures were removed, magnificent buildings burned and men and women deported to Babylon.

After seventy years, Cyrus permitted the Jews to return. They restored the city, and 588 B. C. rebuilt the ruins of Solomon's temple. A period of peace was enjoyed until Alexander's Macedonian Empire collapsed. Then Jerusalem was sacked by Ptolemy Soter, who deported most of the populace to Alexandria. The Maccabees who met off the Macedonian yoke and in 165 B. C. Jerusalem became independent.

Another period of comparative peace was interrupted until forty years after the Crucifixion. Tyranny of the Romans then drove some of the Jews to revolt.

Jerusalem was taken by insurgents in 66 A. D. and Titus regained it in 70 B. C., after one of the most terrific sieges and battles in history.

A rebellion of the Jews against Roman military came next. Rome regained control in the fourth century and there was a succession of Christian emperors until 638.

Then Caliph Omar, the Arabian, and his Mohammedans took the Holy City. His dynasty was succeeded by the Turks. All Europe became aroused by the cruelties of the Turks and their descendants and the Crusades were started.

The Crusaders carried Jerusalem by storm in 1099 and held it until 1187, when the famous Saladin conquered them and became master of the Holy City.

It is an interesting campaign that has left its mark in the restoration of Jerusalem. A glance at the geographical nature of the land over which the British advanced from Gaza to Jaffa to Jerusalem is intensely interesting.

Palatium, an almost regular rectangle, may be divided into four equal parts lengthwise for this purpose. The strip along the Mediterranean sea is flat country, a continuous plain. The next strip to the west is mountainous.

The strip along the coast has the character the Catskill country of New York state, except that the hills and mountains are not so heavily wooded. The strip along the coast has a great depression through which the River Jordan flows.

The fourth is the "plateau" land which extends to the River Jordan. By taking the coastal route the English were able to advance with little trouble from natural obstacles. Some of the difficulties of the invading army apparently forked, one branch continuing up the coast to Jaffa and the other turning northward toward Jerusalem, which lies in the hilly country.

Registration Day on December 18

Many Thousands Women Can Do To Help Win The Great War For Liberty and Humanity.

A week from today is registration day for the women of this country. Although the council of national defense was created by act of congress in order that the matter be emphasized by rotation, THE TIMES publishes the following statement by Mrs. J. C. Boies, the secretary of the matter be kept continually before the women of the country.

To the women who do not understand the necessity for signing registration cards, nor the power behind the movement, this explanation is given. It is the council of national defense was created by act of congress to deal with problems in the United States arising from war conditions. As the help of women was needed, the council created the woman's committee, which is a part of the government and is doing government work. The United States has asked the women of this country to take a census, an inventory of all the women of the United States through the signing of cards.

This work marks the beginning of the big registration drive and every loyal woman should be prepared to sign a card. It is right that the woman should understand the nature of the reason for signing. Here it is: Simply that the government may know the woman-power of the nation, so that it may be able to call upon it in the event of a national emergency. It may call into service trained workers in the dozens of lines whose women workers may be necessary.

A Rare Privilege
Women should regard the signing of a registration card in the nation of a rare privilege, because it not only gives her the opportunity to prove her loyalty but the opportunity, also, to refer to her country such services as she is best fitted to render. For instance: The government needed Red Cross nurses. Some had registered their services in Red Cross and the government knew where it could find 10 to 12 who were willing to enter its service. Hence it called to them and they responded at once and will soon be where their services are required.

In England, one million women took the place of men in the first two years of the war. Five million more women were needed to cook, clean and care for the children of the one million women workers.

This will be the result in the United States where one million more are already taken and millions more may be called. Women will have to fill their places either as volunteer or paid workers in a host of agencies need a large force of volunteers to help with the relief, investigative and protective work. Trained workers can be used at once for the benefit of their home communities.

All Can Serve
Any woman can serve a few hours a week to work for her government in some capacity in a host of agencies. Our boys are fighting for us from the trenches—fighting to save us from the shame and the woe the woman of Belgium and northern France suffered from the common enemy, and which the Italian women are even now suffering. In agony and despair, and we should fight for them at home.

This is a government census and whether or not you are able to offer or perform any service, it should include you. You may register voluntarily and register. You can knit, or fold bandages, or collect books and magazines, or sew, or make Christmas gifts or write a cheerful letter to

PROPOSED OPERATIONS

Erection of 36-foot Standard Rig in Big Piney Basin on the south slope of the Lackey Dome—on the northern extension of the LaBarge Anticline. Developments in the Crotaceous well, where the Shannon Sands were struck at 855 feet and the remarkable oil structure sealed and unfaultered—offer ample evidence of large producing wells in the Big Piney Basin.

IN THE FOSSIL FIELD

Drilling operations are intended immediately upon the sale of our Pre-Organization Stock, on Section 11, Township 21 North, Range 117 West, in the Fossil Field, less than a mile north of the well of high grade paraffine oil recently brought in by the Idaho-Wyoming Company at the shallow depth of 242 feet. Excellent possibilities of profit-making exist in the Fossil field with a five to ten barrel production of this, remarkably high grade, high gasoline content oil, with present proven development, let alone much greater possibilities as the drills penetrate the underlying oil sands.

PRESENT SHALLOW WELLS PROFITABLE

It is estimated that wells of the present depth can be completed in less than ten days each, at a cost less than $1000 per well. TWENTY WELLS of this sort, which we propose to drill will pay dividends of a satisfactory amount while drilling operations are carried on in the second Big Muddy—the Big Piney Basin.

OIL LAND HOLDINGS

Present leases and claims in excess of 4000 acres of very choice unusually well located State, Patented and Government Land in both fields. Negotiations pending for the acquisition and title to several thousand acres additional holdings.

- #### NINE PERTINENT FACTS
- Absolutely NO WATERED STOCK.
  - Strong and responsible Board of Directors, insuring efficiency.
  - Organized on sane, conservative basis—NO "WILD-CATTING."
  - Executive, administration, engineering and geological departments complete.
  - Operation in proven fields.
  - Extensive holding of oil land—OF TREMENDOUS FUTURE VALUE.
  - Additional holdings to be secured, making this Lincoln County's LARGEST HOLDING AND OPERATING COMPANY.
  - Immediate production of oil from shallow wells.
  - Oregon Short Line main line runs through the center of Section eleven in the Fossil Field.

OF IMPORTANCE TO YOU

ONLY FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND SHARES will be issued to Directors and Board of Management for cash services, oil claims and oil leases consisting of State, Patented and validated Government Lands. In other words approximately ONE-SEVENTH of the total Shares of the corporation will be held by the promoters. We believe no truer offer could possibly be made to the investing public.

some soldier boy in Franco who has no mother or sister. The government wants to know of the capacities in which women are now serving, either in the home or as paid pursuits, trades or professions. In every community a classified list of women willing to be called upon for trained or untrained services in state or nation will be carefully prepared and kept.

Training of Nurses
A list will also be kept of women who wish to take training in order to give more efficient service. When their services are required, these workers trained or untrained will be placed in position of usefulness in many fields.

Registration is voluntary; women will not be drafted into government service. Women will not be taken from their homes for government service either here or in Europe unless they definitely offer themselves for such service. If a woman registers as "trained" and capable of self-support, this will not give cause for her husband to be drafted.

Even if a woman registers for service, she will not be compelled to serve should conditions change, nor will she be punished or criticized for being unable to respond.

Registration is intended for women loyal to America whether or not they are naturalized citizens and should not be forced on unwilling or disloyal women. It is specifically stated that "women will not be forced to give their exact age, but are advised to do so, as certain government positions are only open to women between certain ages. The age should at least be given in decades "over 30 or under 40," etc.

The most urgent need for the service of women at the present time is in the profession of nursing and in office positions. Women are earnestly urged to register. Registration is a proof of loyalty to our government. It means help for our boys in the trenches who are fighting to save us and our homes.
