

SHOT, BEATEN, CUT, ROBBED-C. MISNER LIVES

MEXICANS THROW HIM OVER OLLIVY AS DEAD BUT HE COMES ALIVE

Battle With Robbers on Three Creek

Assaulted by three Mexicans, knocked down, stabbed, kicked in the face, beaten with a club, shot in the back, robbed and thrown over a high cliff Monday evening, Charles Misner, a telephone lineman, arose from the dead on Three Creek bluff, Tuesday night and reported his case and was able to stand a journey to this city Tuesday night and identify his assailants yesterday morning. These proved to be Joe Galligors, A. R. Maz and Amelio Gallegos and the man who threw him was found on them or companions taken with them.

Misner left Jarbidge on the stage Monday and on arriving back Jarbidge, stopped to meet a friend, who, however, failed to appear. From there he went to the Hot Hole, walking his pack and the pack animal, but found nobody except the woman in charge of the stage house, from whom he purchased his supper and proceeded. Arriving on the top of Flat-Creek bluff, he saw three men ahead who proved to be Mexicans. He asked how they felt about the Three-Creek and one of them replied, "don't know a damn thing about it."

As he passed the man "Mexican Joe" Galligors, in the lead, told Misner he was wearing two heavy coats inside his overcoat and was lanced, capped, but he grasped with his hands and started to run, when Misner, who had a knife in his pocket, struck him in the middle of the back. The bullet penetrated through the shirt and the bullet wound, but did not wound him.

At this juncture one of the Mexicans again "climbed" him and "Mexican Joe" Gallegos, who was behind him, hit him in the face and head, inflicting a number of wounds which it required sixty-six stitches to close, when he finally fell from the cliff. The assailants locked his arms while the others finally got him off his feet, kicking him in the face and finally beating him to the ground. One of the boys and three him over the cliff. Misner landed on a clump of bushes about twelve feet from the top. He fell from the cliff into a deep gulf to death on rocks below, as he grasped and held on to the bushes. The Mexicans, who were joined by five others of their race and to support, playing for it with a bloody knife, but the Mexicans, who had divided the money with some of the others at this point, as part of it was found on their companions.

In the meantime, while Misner lay on the bench on the cliff for more than an hour. At last he crawled out and started for Three Creek where he was taken to a hospital at Jarbidge.

When he reported, J. L. Hoagland and R. L. Hurek, local men started a full investigation, which they then turned up and arrested. The offense was committed in Owyhee county, but the Mexicans were arrested in Twin Falls county. Deputy John Beck went on Tuesday and brought in the prisoners. The three implicated and identified confessed, that they had committed the crime. Maz and Baldea laying the blame principally on "Mexican Joe" though they admitted helping him. They all agreed that they were very drunk and did not know exactly what they were doing, though they seemed to have a good recollection of the facts. They all said they would be glad to go to jail, but they were drunk as they did not get as if much intoxicated.

The Mexicans were taken into custody with the robbers were: Juan Pacheco, Joe Tokon, Perez, Alexander, E. Gilie, C. Pacheco. It is since then that the same men attacked unsuccessfully a man named Smith, who drives a wagon. Smith is expected to be taken into custody in the near future. Through a telephone lineman, Misner has recently been employed as a lineman for the Idaho Telephone company. He says he has a big gun in Jarbidge and actually stayed in Jarbidge when he was shot, but later he was taken to the Hot Hole, where he was shot. He declares that he had brought the weapon there would have been several Mexican desperadoes on Three Creek this week.

ARMY AND NAVY EXPERTS BITTERLY OPPOSE THE WAR COUNCIL BILL

Declare It Would Make for Incompetent Interference From Another Civilian Board-Weaknesses Largely Due to Failure of Lacking Management of War Primarily in Hands of Those Trained for the Work-Suggest Plan to Reorganize by Giving More Responsibility to Specialists Who Spent Life in Business.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The army and navy bitterly oppose the proposed super war cabinet Chamberlain bill. The reason is that they feel there is too much civilian control at the present time. The trained men of the United States service, whose education has cost the nation very large sums of money, have comparatively little to do with the conduct of the war at the present time. The war plan works down from the top and operate through the following hands: President Wilson, Secretary of War Baker or Secretary of the Navy in the same. The assistant secretaries of the above. The council of national defense. The committees of the council of national defense.

From that point on the trail, officials of the army and of the navy commence to get to work in the game. It is stated that army and navy chiefs have initiated very few things which have been made a part of the war program. They have made their recommendations as usual but these recommendations have been nullified over by civilians with the result that serious complaints have come of neglect and supplies of every sort have been delayed. This is especially so, the records of the senate military affairs committee show in the ordnance and quartermaster's departments of the army.

While the navy has been free from open scandal, there have been delays over there caused by civilian interference. Baltimore has been paraded down a "water" by a "water" officer. Congress has been more liberal in its appropriations when the big contracts have been able to get the word of the committee, but when their estimates went through the regular channels, they invariably have been slain.

The army and the navy therefore are opposed to any further civilian control. And they have a remedy. Here it is: Have the admiral commanding the navy, in this case it is the chief of the bureau of operations, Admiral William S. Benson, and the chief of staff of the army, General Tasker H. Bliss, with the president and his cabinet at all meetings when matters of a military or navy character are under discussion. Let the men give their professional opinion of these subjects and let their opinion furnish the basis for action.

If this policy is adopted, officials say, then much of the red tape complained of can be eliminated and the war actually can be speeded up.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Startling increases in the profits of the leather business of Swift & Company and Armour & Company are shown by their books for 1916-17, according to a federal trade commission report made public today. The report, which is a study of hides, is an abnormally large, the commission says, while many tanning plants are operating at far from capacity.

BRITISH LABOR BACKS UP PRESIDENT WILSON

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 23.—British labor today backed up the peace terms announced by President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George.

Unless Germany accepts the aims of President Wilson and Lloyd George and the labor union declared that it must fight on until the terms of the peace are accepted.

The annual conference of the Labor party here today: Chairman Purdy continued: "A negotiated peace while Germany occupies our territory and other nations would be a German victory."

AUSTRO REVOLT REPORTED FROM RUSS CAPITAL

SERIOUS LABOR TROUBLE BREAKS OUT IN THE DUAL MONARCHY

Extent Not Known at Washington

Austrian Chief of Staff Quoted as Saying That No One in Authority Opposes Peace Without Annexations.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A revolt has broken out in Vienna according to information received today from Petrograd.

The revolutionaries are attempting to overthrow the dual monarchy in the dual monarchy and have organized a provisional government, the dispatch added.

GENEVA, Jan. 24.—A mutiny has broken out in the Vienna garrison and the soldiers refused to fire on the Austro-Hungarian army.

Although the Austrian government claims that the general strike has been settled by a compromise, the Austro-Hungarian government says that the strike has not been settled.

The German militarists are exerting powerful influence upon the Austro-Hungarian government, urging drastic steps to check the unrest.

Information of the revolt was received by the Bolshevik government at Petrograd from Austro-Hungarian soldiers who had been taken to the front.

$4.13 IN CASH FOR EACH W. S. PURCHASED

EXPLICIT INSTRUCTIONS TO WORKERS GIVEN LAST EVENING

All Enthusiastic to Kick the Kaiser

People Feel That They Should Cooperate in Good Cause—Workers Start Out This Morning—Outlook Fine for Big Drive.

An immense gathering of workers and workers for the war saving stamp campaign last evening at the rooms of the Twin Falls Commercial club to line up for the three-day campaign during which every man, woman and child in the city and country will be given a stamp to buy a stamp and help kick the Kaiser. It is urged that those who cannot afford to take more than a few stamps should buy a stamp if they can take more so much the better.

One of these is that if you buy the stamps at the time of purchase, you will receive a stamp for each stamp. The reason is this: The stamps cannot be ordered until next month when the price of a stamp with the face value of $5 will be $4.13. Of course those buying less than a full $5 stamp will pay the balance of what they buy and receive their thrift stamps at the same time that the others are given out. These stamps are to be given out between February 10 and March 10.

The feeling that co-operation should be shown by all in a fight for the principles of democracy, that the stamps are an investment which may be taken in accordance with the means of everyone and that they will lay the foundation for the practice of thrift is universal.

A false report was circulated today to the effect that an effort would be made to force the country to buy a stamp of worth of stamps at once. This of course is a lie. People are urged to buy as a patriotic duty which they may do at any time and in any way.

The county is asked to buy $46,000 worth of stamps in 1918, but the report as circulated is wholly false.

Packets Can Avert Strike Asserts Walsh

Counsel For Union Workers Divided on Situation—M. H. Secretary Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Heads of the "Big Five" packing industries have it in their power to avert a serious strike, according to M. H. Secretary Wilson.

Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the Union workers in conference here with Secretary of Labor Wilson and the presidents' mediation and conciliation commission declared today.

The leaders in the packing industry today were in executive conference with the secretary. They were discussing a proposal submitted by Walsh and the Union workers, in which every grievance against the packers was to be settled by an arbitrator having the approval of the council of national defense.

A failure to reach an agreement will mean a strike of the workers in the packing industry.

More than 150,000 workers in the packing industry are represented by the delegation of Union leaders.

CHAMBERLAIN ATTACKS WAR MANAGEMENT

OREGON SENATOR SPEAKS TO GREAT AUDIENCE IN THE SENATE

Presents His Side of the Controversy

Admits Enfield Rifle Was Improved But Opposed Delay—Roosevelt in Washington Ready to Assail Wilson Administration

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, foremost proponent of the peace bill, today attacked the war management of President Wilson, this afternoon turned back his evidence to sustain his charge that America's war government is honeycombed with incompetency.

Amid a sometimes more dramatic and an excitement more intense than that attending any vote in the capitol since the declaration of war against Germany, the senator took the floor on a question of personal privilege shortly after noon to answer President Wilson's stinging rebuke of Monday night.

Refusing to yield an inch on his charge that the military establishment is hopelessly bugged up with red tape, Senator Chamberlain thundered: "I adhere to my statement, and I now repeat them."

As an indication of the interest in the event six times as many persons as the galleries could seat were on hand clamoring for admission before Senator Chamberlain's address was largely a review of the revelations of witnesses before the senate military affairs committee.

Senator Chamberlain's address was largely a review of the revelations of witnesses before the senate military affairs committee.

The house practically suspended business and members hastened to the senate to take seats on the floor to hear Senator Chamberlain's answer to the president.

"For twenty years," said Senator Chamberlain, "I have served the public of my state in one capacity or another and the best of the ability with which Providence has seen fit to endow me, and in all that time I have never had my veracity attacked or my integrity impeached by any man or frank to say that I have been through some other bitter campaign."

"It is therefore with a feeling of humility and sadness that I rise on a question of personal privilege when my veracity has been called into question, not by any one in the official line of representatives of my colleagues, but by one who has the love of the people of this country and who occupies the highest official position in the face of the president. The galleries hardly breathed as anxious were all to catch every word of the senator's address."

"I arise to address the senate today," the senator said, "it is not a feeling of unkindness, nor a personal feeling between myself and the president of the United States are nothing to the American people. There are, however, great policies at issue involving the very life of the republic and the future civilization of the world."

Senator Chamberlain described the conduct of the war management, he gave a list of some of those procedures.

"I will say," he said, "that of the 2000 persons present there were some from nearly every walk of life in the country and that the spirit of patriotism not to be excited anywhere in this land."

"It was impossible for me to prepare an address so I spoke extemporaneously. Departing for the first time from the calm and even tones of his speech, Chamberlain's face was red and his eyes were shining with tears."

"But I assume full responsibility for the speech as printed. It is not a personal feeling between myself and the president of the United States are nothing to the American people. There are, however, great policies at issue involving the very life of the republic and the future civilization of the world."

Senator Chamberlain presented a resolution of censure against the president and himself and announced that he would be ready to go to Washington to answer the charges of the president's war management. Chamberlain's address was a personal conference with their employers.

SHORTHORN MEN FORM SOCIETY IN THIS CITY

TWO ORGANIZATIONS PERFECTED TO KEEP UP AND IMPROVE STOCK

Will Facilitate Their Shipments

Gathering Held Tuesday Night Following the Big Pure Bred Sale of Shorthorns Held in Twin Falls Tuesday.

Following the big sale of Shorthorn cattle at the McMaster sale yard on Tuesday a meeting was held which resulted in the formation of two associations, one a subordinate branch of the other for the purpose of keeping up to the highest standard the Shorthorn cattle strain in southern Idaho.

The following is the official report of the meeting: The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Donald McLean, county agent of Twin Falls county, who explained briefly the need for more live stock on Idaho farms; the advantages of specializing on one breed; the advantages of Shorthorn cattle and the many reasons for adopting them as the standard breed of Idaho. He called on Mr. H. H. Schindler, chairman of the livestock committee on the farm bureau executive board, who gave many arguments in favor of establishing an association for southern Idaho. He also explained the advantages of the Shorthorn and the need for more of them in this part of the state.

Mrs. H. W. Dorman of Caldwell Cattle company, then spoke at length of his inability recently to collect but he wanted in Iowa six weeks time, until he found that the Shorthorn breeders were organized, and worked through their secretary. He was able to pick up two cars in two days or just the stuff he wanted and the price was willing to pay—because of organization. Mr. McMaster who just returned from Missouri and Iowa where he attended sales of farm live stock, confirmed what Mr. Dorman said. Mr. E. O. Walters did the same.

Mr. Orpou then explained at some length the success of the association which he has been conducting in Kansas and Nebraska, and called on Mr. J. A. Gifford of Piler to substantiate him, who talked at length on the theme: "The Shorthorn and good feed go well together, but neither amounts to much without the other." Mr. Silverworth of the Idaho Farmer then gave his ideas.

There were 22 people present representing the Shorthorn interests of all over southern Idaho and they decided to form a Southern Idaho association which would be made up of three district associations: one with headquarters at Caldwell, another with headquarters at Blackfoot, and the other with headquarters at Blackfoot. They plan to hold semi-annual sales at each of these places, and in every year possible to hold a Shorthorn industry in this state. The proceeds of the election of officers and Mr. H. W. Dorman of Caldwell in the state president; Mr. H. H. Schindler of Piler, secretary and treasurer; Mr. J. A. Gifford of Piler, vice president; Mr. L. A. Parsons of Blackfoot, Mr. Rex Kinch of Wendell and Mr. Robert McGuffee of Caldwell are the other three directors.

They decided to hold the next annual meeting banquet next January at Twin Falls at the time of the joint conference of agricultural engineering and livestock societies, which has already decided to meet there at that time.

The district association was then formed and went under the name of Twin Falls North and South Side Shorthorn Breeders' association. The membership fee decided upon was $5 for active members and $2 for associate membership. $1 of these fees will go to the state association and will include membership in it.

The officers elected were: E. O. Walters of Piler, president; William T. McMaster of Twin Falls, secretary and treasurer; C. E. Requa, of Kimberly, O. Oliver of Jerome and C. A. McMaster, of Twin Falls, board of directors. There was an informal discussion until 11:20 and then the association adjourned.

RED CROSS DEPARTMENT

RED CROSS NOTES

My Rows Awry (With apologies to the writer of a famous song)
The hours I spent in sweater art
Are as a part of my life,
To count them over every one apart
My rows away, my rows away.

Each hour I part, each part take care
To drop no stitch lest I be stung
I count, you count unto the end,
And there a sleeve is hung.

O memories that bless and burn
Of raveling out at bitter Jous,
I drop a part, but strive at last to
To knit across, sweet art, to knit across.

It has long been the vogue for the women throughout the east to give their time to the Red Cross work rather than spend it in social activities. This spirit is manifest in Twin Falls among clubs that have either suspended or met for the purpose of raising the Red Cross, are The Royal Neighbors, M. S. & S. club, Kings Daughters, North View club, L. D. S. club, P. E. O., the Luncheon club, the Wednesday Bridge club, Unity club, Daughters of the American Revolution, Penelope club, The Women's Rural club, are meeting once a week in each of every two and are aiding in the work. The Catholic ladies have organized a class to do this work. The Episcopal guild has pledged itself to make twenty layettes.

Commencing this week the classes in the surgical dressing work will meet every afternoon and every evening except Thursday and Saturday at the Elk's home. A class of men to work in this department is being organized. The Red Cross sewing class should go to Dr. McAtee or Mr. Ormsby. The surgical dressing class has finished and shipped 570 dressings, the result of two weeks work.

Refugee circles are being formed of six or more ladies who hand themselves together to furnish the material, much of which can be found in the homes and make one or more layettes for the destitute babies of France and Belgium. Each circle is registered under the name of a leader and numbered for reference. Patterns, instructions and estimates are given to each circle, or to any individual who will take up this work. Thirty-three refugee circles have already been organized. Call at the refugee quarters, 205 North Main, for further information. Infants undershirts, knitted or crocheted jackets and bonnets which are in good condition will be gratefully received. Also any large pieces of outing flannel can be used to good advantage, while smaller ones can be used to make neckties and bonnets.

Wool blankets in fair condition which can be cut into smaller blankets 25-32 inches will surely be gratefully received. The refugee work. Telephone Mrs. Seaver, 445-J, and such blankets will be called for.

Twenty thousand dollars worth of wool yarn has been received by the sewing department. Between December 2 and January 30, the following amounts have been compiled and sent forward: 89 sweaters, 200 pairs of socks, 92 pairs of wristlets, 14 helmets, 232 bed shirts, 154 suits of pajamas, 43 bath robes, 80 pair of bed socks and 825 muslin bandages.

Dr. Crossland, chairman of the first organization, will open a class in dietetics to meet in the high school on Wednesday evening from 7 till 9 o'clock. All who are interested should see Dr. Crossland at once.

Prof. Blue has been appointed by headquarters at Seattle, a member of the state advisory board for the organization of a junior auxiliary work in the schools.

The auxiliaries of the Twin Falls chapter are contributing toward emergency coats for Camp Lewis. Filer, Kimberly and Hazelton have given $100 each. Hollister and Curry $50 each. The other auxiliaries have not yet been heard from.

A new auxiliary to the chapter has been formed at Blackfoot.

Mrs. Shilman of Piler, Mrs. Dail of Community and Mrs. Proctor of Kimberly visited headquarters on Monday. Mrs. Proctor who has returned retained the east and states that the enthusiasm shown in Red Cross work, in this community compares with that of any locality which she visited.

The Filer auxiliary reports the following output since November 1: one box of hospital garments, twenty-four comfort pillows, twenty-five ambulance pads, fifty-three pairs of socks, eight sweaters, six mufflers, sixteen pairs of wristlets and seven helmets. A class in surgical dressing under Mrs. Dwight has been organized and now has twenty members. There are now sixty women knitting in Filer. This auxiliary has taken in since April 1, $2,111.46.

Thirty-four comfort pillows have been made this week by the first and 7th grades at the Washington school.

At the Lincoln school the following progress has been made: the fifth grade has finished a quilt and 18 comfort bags, the second grade has made two quilts, the eighth grade twenty-eight comfort pillows, the older boys are knitting wristlets and sweaters.

Big Damage Suit Ready to be Filed

Case Will Have Important Bearing On Determination Of Legal Issues.

Action for $3,000.00 for attorney's fees of T. Westbrook is about to be filed in the district court against Henry Ford, of Detroit, according to current rumor. It is reported that for some time Westbrook has had a far-away, fascinated look in his eyes and that he has been acting queerly. He is said to have been caught hanging around numerous garages, and to have been heard muttering about carburetors and the like. In his sleep he is said to have on several occasions cried out "Oh--Lizzie--Lizzie," and when asked who Lizzie was, he said to have replied mysteriously, "Tin." As "tin" is sometimes used as a slang expression, meaning "gunny," it was suspected that he was muttering his substance on a lady named "Lizzie."

The plot thickened Tuesday night when he failed to show up at his home until late, and then arose and went out every few minutes during the night. The chugging on every auto seemed to get on his nerves and he wandered back and forth a number of times. Friends declared that they saw him standing on the street at night gazing at a gasoline vehicle of familiar make.

Called on the carpet, he confessed the whole terrible truth. He had invented a Ford car. And therein lies the basis of the damage suit, for if he cannot be aroused from the state of hypnotic enchantment in which he now is, he is liable to stoop with the machine.

It is only fair to say that in this case every eye forms its own humanity" and offers fail to see the charming features that mesmerized Westbrook, but that does not alter the facts in the case, though it may go to mitigation of damages.

Inasmuch as Mr. Westbrook is a lino-type operator on the TIMES, which proceeds on the theory that his case is not hopeless and therefore does not wish to cast him aside, it is hoped that readers will be lenient regarding typographical errors which may appear in this and the next issue.

Uncle Sam Must Be Served First

The high development of telephone efficiency in this country gave the United States when it entered the war, a superiority over all other nations for quick-communication.

The national capital and the various military headquarters are linked with all the great industrial centers of the country by the long-distance lines of the Bell Telephone System.

Thousands of miles of special telephone wires have been turned over to the government for its exclusive use.

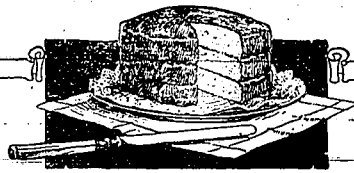

Right of way is given to government telephone calls over all lines. In its prosecution of the war our government has the effective co-operation of the Bell Telephone System, which reaches 70,000 communities and extends to every military camp in the United States.

One man in every ten from the maintenance and construction forces of this company is now in the telephone signal corps of the army or in some other branch of the military service.

Not only have our men answered their country's call, but the telephone operators are "doing their bit" also. These faithful young women realize the tremendous dependence the nation places on rapid communication in this crisis, and are accepting cheerfully the heavy responsibilities thrust upon them.

In spite of the war and what it has meant to this company in the increased number of telephone messages to handle, the enlistment of so many of our trained employees, the shortage of equipment and the high cost of telephone material...

2 Discoveries 1 in cake

We had a friend who was very sure that without expensive butter you could not make a real cake. She was quite stubborn about it. Preferring not to argue, we just gave her a can of wholesome Cottolene and a cook book.

This friend, Miss S., took both and made a chocolate cake with Cottolene.

If you could have heard her enthuse over that cake you would have thought that economical Cottolene for cake-making was her particular private discovery.

Perhaps you are like our friend, Miss S., used to be. Maybe you would like to "discover" the delicious economy of Cottolene for your cakes. Why don't you try wholesome Cottolene and the very same recipe she used? Here it is:

- 1/2 cup Cottolene
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cup flour
1 cup milk
3 level teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Process: Cream Cottolene, add one cup sugar gradually, stirring constantly. Beat yolks thick and light, add remaining cup sugar gradually, continue beating. Combine mixtures, mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to first mixture alternately with milk. Add flavoring and fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff and dry. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

(But if you prefer one of your own recipes, be sure to use one-third less of Cottolene than you would of butter. Cottolene goes farther—thanks to its greater richness.)

Feed the Children Butter

E. V. McCollum, of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, has proven that butterfat not only yields energy and heat as do other fats but supplies an element necessary for growth and life itself. In experiments young rats were fed mixtures composed of chemically pure protein, starch, fat, sugar, various salts. They got along splendidly for the first three months but then lost appetite, fell off in growth and starved. When given milk, or if butterfat was substituted for the lard, the little animals began to grow. It was found that no other fat from the animal or vegetable kingdom would produce the same effect as butterfat. Moral—USE STERLING BUTTER.

SOME USES OF RICE

Department's Food Specialists Suggest Several Ways of Serving This Nutritious Cereal.

The experts of the office of home economics of the department have been studying the uses of rice, a food which can be served in many palatable ways all the year, but which seems particularly appetizing in the summer.

"Boiled" rice prepared in southern fashion, so that all of the grains are kept separate, is sufficiently attractive in appearance to justify its slight wastefulness, except of course, where strictest economy is necessary. Slowly add a cupful of thoroughly washed rice to a quart of rapidly boiling water, which contains 2 level teaspoonfuls of salt. If carefully done, the boiling (which should continue all the time the rice is cooking) will not be stopped. Stirring is not permitted as this will break the rice grains. About 20 minutes is sufficient to cook the rice, which can be tried from time to time by taking one or two grains between the fingers. Pour off all the water from the cooked rice, cover with a cloth, place in a warm part of the stove, so that the grains will swell. To remove the starchy material from the outside of the grains, cooks sometimes turn the cooked rice into a strainer and pour 1 quart of hot water over it before covering with a cloth and allowing to steam and swell. A cupful of raw rice cooked in this way will give over four cupfuls of very white and light boiled rice. The water drained off from the rice can be used in soup making to save the starch, and a major matter, which it contains.

If one wishes to use a fireless-cooker, add a cupful of well washed rice to 3 cupfuls of boiling water, in which 2 level teaspoonfuls of salt are dissolved. Cook for 5 minutes and then put in a fireless-cooker. In 2 hours the rice should be done. If any water remains unabsorbed, it can be drained off. Rice varies somewhat in the amount of water it absorbs, and the housekeeper accordingly should vary the amount of water used.

Rice cooked as described above is excellent when served as a vegetable with meats, as in the well-known "chicken and rice." Such uses of rice are particularly welcome in the hotel when "old potatoes" are not very palatable and "new potatoes" have not yet appeared in the locality—or are high in price in market.

Another dish which has almost as good an appearance may be prepared by cooking rice in a double boiler, and adding to it, in addition to three cupfuls of water and a level teaspoonful of salt to each cupful of rice. If a more savory dish is desired, skim milk, whole milk, most broths, strained tomato juice, or vegetable broth may be used in place of water. Rice may also be combined with protein rich foods, such as milk, cheese, and eggs, for use in place of meat, or with small amounts of vegetables to make the latter "go further." Of course, such a dish does not contain as much usable building protein as if it were made entirely of meat, but when the meat provided ordinarily is generous and the aim is to reduce the cost without lessening the attractiveness of the food, such combinations are well worth trying. The following recipe for an economical dish made with rice and left-over mutton may prove useful:

- Steamed Mutton and Rice
- 4 cups cooked rice
- 2 cups cooked mutton cut into small pieces
- 1 teaspoonful of salt
- Few drops onion-juice
- Stock or water as needed
- 1 tablespoonful chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoonful pepper

Grease a mold or a bowl of about 1 1/2 quarts capacity and line with cooked rice. Heat the meat with the other ingredients, using enough stock to make a mixture that is moist, but will hold its shape. Pack the meat in the center of the mold and cover with the remaining rice, grease the cover of the mold (if a bowl is used, a plate will serve for cover). Cover the mold in water enough partly to cover the mold until the contents are thoroughly heated through. Turn on a hot platter and serve with tomato sauce.

The above recipe, it will be noted, suggests the use of bread crumbs instead of flour for thickening, which is often a way of saving bread which might otherwise be wasted, and which is also one way of securing variety, as a different texture results from that when flour is used.

If one finds it convenient, cold lamb, veal, or chicken may be used in place of mutton in preparing this dish.

As the basis of a sweet dessert, rice is always useful, especially so for invalids and little children. If combined with milk and eggs it makes a very nutritious dish as well as one easily digested. Plain boiled rice, cooked either in water or milk, and served with a little stewed fruit—banana, maple syrup, or other simple flavor, makes a more wholesome dessert for children than rice puddings or pies because it is less likely to upset the digestion or to destroy the appetite for simple foods.

Cold rice, particularly that which is cooked so that the grains are separate, is a good addition to vegetable salads, combining well with celery, string beans, and tart apples. If one wishes, some chicken cut in small pieces also can be added.

It is well to remember that when rice is used abundantly in the diet it is particularly desirable to include generous amounts of green vegetables and fruits also, in order that a supply of vitamins and of mineral substances adequate in kind and quantity may be provided.

Irish Representation Discredited in Capital

Officials Say He Is Interested in Home Rule but Hardly Formally Requested It.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—White House officials today declared that while President Wilson has steadily taken a deep interest in the Irish problem, they are not aware that he has made representations to the British government as declared by the London Daily News. It was thought possible that some informal word from the president may have been transmitted.

During the last few months, the president has received at the White House many persons intimately connected with the Irish cause, among them T. P. O'Connor.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—President Wilson has made representations to the British government urging a settlement of the Irish question at the earliest opportunity, the Daily News stated today.

If the Daily News is correct, the American executive evidently acted in the interests of national unity at this critical hour of the war.

Paris news follows the announcement that Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists and the storm

BOND ELECTION HAS LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA "BAD"

CASE OF ALMOST SUSPENDED ANIMATION ALARMS ITS FRIENDS

Will Go Through If It Can Stir

Everybody Seems to Want the Bonds Homoeopathically Speaking, but Is Energetically Letting "George" Do the Work.

The bond election will carry by default if anybody speaks of votes... for the few scattering opponents will not do much mustard unless they hump themselves. The able constitution of the synopsis of the opinion a well known citizen gave in a Times reporter yesterday. He continued in the following strain: Everybody almost seems to want the bonds, but mildly. All admit that the water supply is insufficient and the water far from good. All admit that the gardeners will pay interest on the bonds from the start and probably will do a great deal more. All concede that the fire protection is poor, that the garbage collection is old, and the old ramsack system is apt to go "kerfblummx" any day. There are a few exceptions. A few are against any sort of bond issue, whether a profitable one or not. Some few who are not so radical, talk vaguely about bonds in war time, though when planned down they admit that in this case, a good system would be a pure conservation measure. So the opposition is apparently small. But still a few votes will be cast against the bonds. In the meantime, friends of the measure, and that seems to constitute a majority of the people seem to have a bad case of the "bocks." "Ehnu" is apparent everywhere. If the friends of the bonds vote the issue will carry the to one hands down. If they do not, the few opposed will defeat the issue. All taxpayers within the city, who are qualified voters of the state may vote. Under the ruling of the city attorney, those who have a community interest in property in the name of another or which taxes are paid may vote; for instance if husband and wife have community interest in property which is in the name of either, the other can vote, if taxes is paid on such property. People buying taxes on personal property in the city may vote.

PRESIDENT WILSON ABSOLUTELY RIGHT!

When Senator "Dumbbuck" Stone, who has long been a constant handicap upon administration war plans, pretends to come to their support and defense through an ultra-partisan and abusive speech on the floor of the senate, it is high time to look for a large-sized African in the Senator's woodpile.

Perhaps consideration of another recent senatorial development may assist the search: Cheap legislators have long striven to make men moral by statute, and now comes Senator Chamberlain and his clique with an attempt to furnish brains and administrative ability in the same way. That any bill could be passed that proposed to discredit and embarrass the President and his cabinet at a time like the present by subordinating them under and subordinating them to a congressional committee of three, or any other number, would seem absurdly improbable. Such a result can only be accomplished by a substantially solid opposition vote, supplemented by the votes of a number of recalcitrant Democrats.

It should be borne in mind that, so far as administration war measures are concerned, no partisan or factitious criticism or opposition has been offered by the Republicans in congress. Such an attitude is only what should be expected from any men who put patriotism above party; but if Senator Stone, there would certainly be small chance to secure the passage of any act so radically subversive of constitutional governmental methods as to place the President and his war and navy ministers under a more or less hostile guardianship.

It is under these circumstances and conditions that Senator Stone, over the protest of numerous better Democrats than himself, on Monday delivered an ill-timed and ill-tempered speech, filled with partisan rancor and bitterness.

In New York, on Saturday, Senator Chamberlain, the father of the bill to put the President in leading strings, had characterized the administration as "inactive and ineffective." On Monday, just before this bill is to be introduced in congress, Senator Stone strikes the Republican congressional monarch with an instrument heated in the fires of malice.

No wonder the President's challenged Senator Chamberlain's statement as "an astonishing and absolutely unjustifiable distortion of truth." No wonder that he is resolutely opposing, with all his wonderful force of character the proposed revolutionary legislation! The President is right—absolutely right! Investigation into departmental methods is right and should be useful; but carping and exaggerated criticism, even to the point of demoralizing opposition, is all wrong, useless and harmful.

General Penning, with the monumental seriousness and magnitude of the task which the United States has undertaken before history's eyes, sent a solemn message to all Americans which began, "Every man, woman and child must stand behind the President." Perhaps this doesn't apply to Senators; if not, it must be because they are insane as Stones!

THE HOWL OF THE BEASTS

Speaking of beasts of prey in the jungle, it is quite evident that President Wilson has "stirred up the animals," as the pretty piece of play acting by the trained monogamists of "Big Business" on a war department arena clearly shows.

Long before the presentation of the melodramatic scenery was moved to attract the attention of the press, that is the press that counts, in the coming talking movie. Then in the face of untraces from the administration and patriotic senators, a pro-German, anti-administration, egg-ucking "gumbo" senator arises and attacks everything Republican and incidentally Colonel Roosevelt. Then Senator Harding of Ohio rushes into the arena and says that because an anti-administration senator infects partisanship into the situation, Republicans will feel free to criticize the administration. Profound logic! The logic of an honest man and patriot! He says, substantially, "I have backed the president through patriotism, but because an enemy of the president attacks me, I will cease to patriotically support the president." The same logic Colonel Roosevelt comes down to Washington. The General Promont of the war hasn't been getting much attention recently. He is sore about the situation. He proceeds to let everyone know that he is not indignant because of Stone's attack. Why should he be? It called attention to him. It gave him and gave every partisan enemy of the administration an excuse, lame and contemptible as that excuse may be, to spew out their vile calumnies and do what they could to cripple the conduct of the war, while pretending to help it.

Now, does any sane man fail to see through this very palpable game? True, there is a difference in motives. Roosevelt cares primarily about himself, just as Stone said. The monumental egotism of the man makes him jealous of the success of everyone. He is unfair to Wilson as he was unfair to Taft as president; as he was unfair to Hughes as governor; as he was unfair to Hughes' own friends of the latter being elected. Kermit Roosevelt, according to the current issue of the Ladies Home Journal recently made a statement which correctly set up this megalomaniac when he said, "Father always wants to be the center of attraction everywhere. When he is at a wedding he wants to be bride and when he is at a funeral he wants to be the corpse." This trait of character makes and always has made him the instrument of crafty tools of the interests, so that his long administration, distinguished alike for inconsistency and noise, and impotent denunciation, left Pinchot's conservation policy as the sole act of legislation that even tended to effectually stand in the way of the triumph of the trusts. And that policy was purely negative. What a singular contrast with the great program of constructive legislation carried out and forced through by President Wilson during a single term!

But while fatal egotism, such as also proved the undoing of General Promont, is the cause for the participation of Roosevelt in the dirty politics now being played at the capital, others are in the game for less worthy motives. At least no the world would account them, for those who seek "honors" by questionable means are usually considered less reprehensible than those who seek wealth by similar methods.

For some time attention has been called in these columns to the activities of the American Protective Tariff League and the United States Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of most who long lived in luxury through legislation that was openly enacted to give preference to their private business.

Senators like "Our George" (Chamberlain, who hails from the domain of the lumber trust have long been restive. In fact George was restive when it was proposed to take some of the "rakeoff" from the trust some years ago, and only consented when he saw the futility of fighting further. Chamberlain stood hand in glove with Jonathan Bourne, and was even suspected of double-crossing his own ticket, when the oligomaniac trust magnate broke a written pledge to Ben Selling, and repudiated by the Republican and Progressive parties, he sought election to the senate backed only by the lumber interests. Note the distinction; Jonathan is not a tool of monopolists, he is a monopolist himself. And Jonathan has long been running an anti-Wilson special bureau. There are other "insurgents" in the Democratic camp, whose condition in their own states is similar to that of Chamberlain in Oregon.

The real aim of this fight is not partisanship. It involves "some of those billions that the president of the Non-Partisan League talked about." The TIMES does not believe that the monopolists want the country to lose the war. Neither does it believe that they want the war to keep on indefinitely. What they do want is to bring about a condition whereby when the war is over, they will be able to return to the incidental advantages which have come to them during the struggle and be relieved of the inconveniences which it has caused them.

Here we have a president, however, who talks about a league of nations to insure peace, and customs understandings which will bring about international amity and good will and remove the misunderstandings that are prolific causes of the war. And the great statesmen and journalists of the allied world arise and any that they will follow. Austrian liberal papers even begin to say that this sounds good and that the policy of aggression should give way to international understanding. This would mean a lot. It would mean the removal of those privileges on which the lumber trust and the tools of the lumber trust and Jonathan Bourne's manufacturing trust and the rest have fattened unduly. Something must be done to discredit President Wilson. So they found mistakes in the war department. Or worse they did. There were mistakes. There were mistakes in every business, public and private in this country, in allied countries and in the central powers, and considering its magnitude less in this than in most. They got up an utterly absurd autocratic war board measure as a means of "caring" the evil, and in advocacy of this bill all the mean things they could and magnified all the errors found. The unfairness of the thing is shown by the fact that although "New errors" were found in the navy department, the bill carried on its face, the same implied condemnation of the navy that it did of the army. And when all this failed to shake the confidence of the people and the world in President Wilson, we have this game which Stone, Harding, Chamberlain and Roosevelt "pulled."

On the manner of settlement of the war depends the progress of humanity. Should the program mapped out by President Wilson and approved by the great minds of the world succeed, future generations will call this generation blessed and will forget the memory of the little men who sought to thwart it.

Should this program fall through the instrumentality of these men, history will record that while in their day they passed for honorable, beside them the unrepentant Magdalen were persons of purity and respectability.

That the economic feature is the vital one with these knucklers is indicated by the stress laid on the alleged "Socialistic tendencies" of Baker or by J. R. Ralston at the meeting where Chamberlain "slapped over" Baker is not socialistic. He stood always for the application of the principles taught by all respectable standard-political-economists. The TIMES is opposed to Socialism. It has opposed and still opposes the senseless and indiscriminate denunciation of all rich men, whether by Socialists or others. It opposes the confiscation of all who profit so often advocated for reasons which it has fully explained in previous issues. But it realizes that unless the nations of the world agree in peace and amity after this war on the basis of sound economic principles which thinkers and real statesmen are a practical unit, unless the abolishment of privilege becomes a basic principle of the new understanding, then the blood shed in this war will be wasted. It does not want injustice done to the rich, but it does not want injustice done by the privileged.

The solemn warning voiced in this New Year's editorial was not sounded without reason, events taking place in Washington today abundantly prove.

The Theatres

"I BELIEVE" IS LAYERS' OFFERING FEBRUARY 1, 2. "I Believe" is one of the most powerful dramatic film productions ever produced. It is almost unaccountably not drawn absolute attention; its gripping interest is most convincing. "I Believe," with its swift action and stirring scenes, "I Believe" will be seen at the Lavering theatre Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2.

The producer, George Loane Tucker has a wonderful thought message to convey—in its presence all apathy and indifference vanish like night clouds before the morning light. As a masterly exposition of questions that have torn humanity throughout the ages it stands supreme.

It is a tremendous subject, handled in a manner that is simple to comprehend and fit for old and young. Almost magic in its swift transition from red-blooded drama to melting pathos—and back again. In "I Believe" a great theme is handled without extravagance or intrusive moralizing. The intelligence of the audience is left to pronounce the verdict. Neither religious nor irreligious, the truth is unambiguously stated upon the appeal of its merits.

The cast in "I Believe" is excellent and will hold an audience from start to finish with almost breathless interest.

"WATCH YOUR STEP" AT LAYERING MONDAY, FEB. 13. There is not a dull moment to finish in "Watch Your Step," Irving Berlin's internationally syncopated musical success which will come to the Lavering theatre, Monday, February 13.

"Watch Your Step" is made up almost entirely of music, dancing and girls—thirty-four of the most beautiful young women that have ever left New York. It is a musical comedy organization. The costumes are the very latest expressions in the world of fashion and were designed by Helen Dryden, who is the artist who designs all the covers for "Vogue." Busy Days For Board of Examinations - America's Sons Answering Her Call - Names of Daily Quota Continued.

Anyone who should look into the sheriff's office, which is now a-days the scene of operations of the local board of examiners and exemption, will be sobered and adduced, and at the same time will have a sense of pride and gratification.

As all are aware the men who have been placed in Class One of the registrants from this county for possible military service, are being called, at the rate of fifty each day, to appear before the local board for examination.

In the actual work of examination, which it is estimated, two are admitted at a time, and after six have been received, the number inside is kept at that figure - two men undergoing the examination, two disrobing and the other two resuming their garments.

In view of the fact that this county has already sent to the colors, in round numbers and in various capacities, five hundred and twenty men, certainly a cause for pride and gratification to see these other hundreds of men in every way spruced up, men coming forward upon call without hesitation or excuse.

His father was a lawyer and later on district judge. Kennedy Packard of this city says he recalls when young John was court stenographer for his father.

The new senator went to the common schools of Owyhee county until sixteen years of age, when he went and began working in the mines. He married in 1895, he and his wife went to Australia, lived there a year and returned to study law. WILLIAMS HART IN "THE SILENT MAN"

THE VAUDEVILLE MARION AND WINTERS Comedy, Singing and Piano Act HARRY KUBEY Novelty Troupe Artist CHILDREN'S MATINEE SATURDAY AFTERNOON WITH VAUDEVILLE SCREEN CHATTER

It is a well known fact that Mary Twin would never allow his famous look to be shown to be dramatized. To get the white town drowsing in the sunshine by the sleepy Mississippi and the thousand and one details that make his picture so vivid seemed an impossibility. But the motion picture has placed those days far behind and today's conditions are being created through the medium of the screen and the all-seeing, all-reaching eyes of the camera.

"The Silent Man" Has a Better Story Than Most of Those of the Wild West and Is Indeed a Splendid Example of the "Silent Drama," Says the New York Herald.

IN "THE SILENT MAN" Hart will have the role of a miner who has made a rich strike, and who comes from the desert into a small border town to enter his claim. His rich-ness excites the cupidity of the proprietor of a gambling resort, and with the assistance of a dishonest government clerk the miner is robbed of his valuable property. For five years he is in prison and then he escapes and he not only wins his fight against the unfair forces that are banded against him, but also captures the hand and heart of a very beautiful girl.

town of which Mark Twin wrote, and where he spent his boyhood. Rescued "Fatty" Arbuckle and his company, journeyed recently to the Mojave Desert to make exterior scenes for the Paramount-Arbuckle comedy, which is titled "A Country Hero" recently released. A freight train loaded with paraphernalia for comedy producing purposes together with the "Country Hero" conveyed the heavy-weight star to the cactus covered lands where camp was struck and work begun. In this arid location, Mr. Arbuckle performed a number of thrilling and amusing stunts in connection with the rapidly moving freight train and the "Country Hero". In fact, he came in such abrupt contact with the soil that the miner, whose ranch extends along the edge of the desert, enthusiastically declared that Mr. Arbuckle had done a lot of his spring plowing.

 Dec. 30, 1917.

Mr. Boyd H. Fuller,
 224 Chamber of Commerce Bldg.,
 Detroit, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Fuller:
 Although we are no longer handling the account of your company, the writer was mighty glad to learn from our recent conversation of the almost phenomenal attention which the Tosalone is now receiving from the jobbing trade.

To get an expression of interest from 85 representative jobbers, and to actually receive orders from 50 of that number in 3 or 4 months time on a "new commodity" in the automobile field is absolutely without precedent in our experience and what we say to you is based upon the records compiled in this office covering the campaigns of some of the leaders in the automobile accessory field.

Although these concerns all invested a great deal more money in advertising and sales effort than you found it expedient to invest during the first few months of your campaign, we can say absolutely that not one of them ever made the program in three or four months that you have up to the present time.

As we see the possibilities for the Tosalone, the educational work is now well under way—you have a good distribution—and with just a little more advertising and sales effort, you will have the proposition on a strong paying basis.

We consider it easily possible to sell 5000 Tosalones each year after this preliminary work is done—and as we recall your manufacturing costs this will leave you a net profit of somewhere between $15,000 and $20,000 annually.

We think that if properly supported, you will have your company on a profitable basis within the next sixty days without a doubt.

Very truly yours,
 BROOKE, SMITH & MOORE, Inc.
 (Signed) Guy C. Smith.

The company's possibilities are practically limitless for the manufacture and sale of automobile accessories.

The company is now increasing its working capital and will thereby be able to handle a larger production, thus cutting down manufacturing costs and making a corresponding increase in profits.

The company actually has more business than it can handle with its present working capital.

TUBERCULOR COW GETS A SKIDDOW FROM THE DADS

ORDINANCE AGAINST MILK OF CONSUMPTIVE KINE PASSED

New Bickel Addition Is Accepted

Mail Carriers and Common Folk Alike Barred From All-Side-walks With Bikes—Election Matters Taken Up.

Passing an ordinance against the sale of milk from tubercular cows, and accepting the revised plat of the new Bickel addition, the city council at its meeting Monday night, following the transaction of some minor business, took final steps for the carrying out of the bond election next Wednesday, and determined that the claim of mail carriers of the ride to "claim" on the sidewalks was not well taken. Some bills were allowed and the street commissioner instructed to arrange with C. D. Lyons matters connected with his ice skating rink.

The ordinance with reference to the milk is not yet in force and will not be for thirty days from its publication. It resulted from a letter received from State Sanitary Inspector J. K. White, who stated that Dr. J. E. Ellis, a government expert, was in the state testing cows for tuberculosis and that he would make the tests free in all places where the subject was covered by ordinance.

The ordinance makes it unlawful for any person, firm, partnership or corporation to sell, vend, give away, furnish or otherwise dispose of milk or cream intended for family or domestic use unless said cows have been duly tested by a licensed veterinarian. The penalty is a fine of from $10 to $100.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR TRACTOR OWNERS

International Harvester Company Will Hold Tractor Schools.

Of all the machines a farmer owns, none is more important than his tractor. Especially is this true this year. Tractors must be in condition to work every day and night, if necessary, to make possible the increased production of food we need. There must be no delays due to unsatisfactory operation, no loss from misunderstanding.

To this end the International Harvester company of America proposes to hold tractor schools in various parts of the country in order that their users may get the best possible service out of their tractors.

One of these schools will be held at the Idaho Hardware & Implement company's place at Twin Falls, Idaho, on January 25 and 26. The sessions will open promptly at 9 a. m.

This school will be absolutely free to all who care to attend, whether they are tractor owners or not. Nothing will be offered for sale at these schools and there will be no selling talks. A course of instruction in how a tractor works and how to keep it working will be strictly adhered to.

The instructors are practical tractor and engine men and the course is laid out on large charts illustrating with clear diagrams and descriptions in simple terms. It takes up the reasons why an engine operates, what takes place within the cylinder of an angle—symptoms that indicate approaching frost, how to look for trouble and not overlook it, how to get the best possible service from a tractor or engine, new uses for tractors and many other subjects of special interest to men in this locality.

Those who attend the school will be encouraged to ask questions on any subject that comes into their minds and engines. These questions will be answered at the end of each school session. There will be demonstration with tractors and tractors themselves.

W. C. T. U. Holds a Rousing Meeting

Many Interesting and Helpful Papers and Talks At The January Gathering.

The January meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, was held at Mrs. J. W. Cooke on Friday, January 18, the president, Mrs. Ems, presiding. The meeting opened by singing America. Devotional services were held and then the "secretary" read the minutes of previous meeting; Mrs. Ems then read two interesting and helpful communications from the national state president of the W. C. T. U. The program consisted of timely topics of this day relating to temperance and prohibition and how it was gaining ground, and how safeguarding our boys and soldier boys.

A very interesting article was read on "The Liquor Question and Our Expeditionary Forces," which proved very conclusively that the liquor powers are still engaged in the business of falsifying, and that General Pershing's declaration every possible precaution to protect the officers and men of his command. An interesting article on the program in which the following was quoted from Josephus Daniels' speech before the navy: "There must be but one industry in 1918 and that must be the winning of the war. There must be, there will be no thought of self, no desire for profit, no leading back of all we have in money and men. It is only by such complete conservation of all we have and all we are that we can hasten the coming day of lasting peace with lasting well-being to all the people of the earth."

Good conservation was also a subject of the program. Herbert Hoover says, "Stop all a clock tea, stop serving refreshments at gatherings, stop eating between meals, and stop eating after the above. Are all of the women in the cities and towns complying with these regulations? Those who are not are accused of being slackers."

The work of the Red Cross was discussed and the work for the coming year. It was decided that after the business meeting of the W. C. T. U. that the most of the time at the coming meetings should be given over to Red Cross work, and it was suggested that what program there was should be furnished by one person, thus allowing the rest to work.

Dr. Emma Drake, state president of the W. C. T. U., was also present and heartily with the Red Cross organization and he no slacker in this great work. There were four members to cooperate with all organized effort in the conservation and preservation of food, and Red Cross work, was done at the adjourned to meet on Friday, February 15, with Mrs. James Wall, 262 Fifth avenue north.

Oakley Lost to Twin Falls Friday

Another Victory For The Local Boys Places Them High in Basket Ball Sky.

Coch Natsiger's fast basketball team won their second game of the season from the Oakley team here Friday.

The high school gymnasium was packed with enthusiastic spectators at the basketball game between the local boys and the Oakley team. The game opened with good playing and each team worked on both offense and defense. The Twin Falls boys had the advantage of being used to the floor and therefore kept the ball near their feet most of the time. Several spectacular shots by Captain Glasgow made the first scores for Twin Falls. Other basket shooting throughout the game was done by Neuman, Lavender, Carter, Hodges and Strong. Through-out the first half the Twin Falls boys played the superior game, and easily outclassed the visitors in team work and basket shooting. At the end of the first half they had succeeded in running up a score of 15 to 7. The Oakley boys came back strong in the second half and for a time made even scores with Twin Falls. Quick passing and fast team work kept both teams going in the second half, but Twin Falls gradually lead away from their opponents and at the close of the game Twin Falls had 23 points to Oakley's 14.

Oakley has an exceptionally fast team and proved a good match for the local boys, but since they have a team made up of new and inexperienced material, with the exception of one, they were outclassed by the two and a half years of playing of some of the local team. Coach Stout brought only five men with him because of the scarcity of material there this year. The following is the lineup of the two teams:

Twin Falls	Coach	Oakley
Natsiger	Forwards	Storvick
O. Neuman	Pratt	Thorburn
W. Carter	Center	Halverson
R. Glasgow	Guards	Nielson
I. Strong	Quartr	Don Clark
C. Lavender	Substitutes	Hudling
S. Hodges	H. Moomaw	M. Strong

AUSTRO REVOLT REPORTED

cial revolution could be undertaken in Austria-Hungary at this time it would be one of the biggest events of the war. It would mean the severance of the Austro-German alliance and would undoubtedly mean a quick peace.

Urgent has been growing in Austria-Hungary. It seems to be a head within the last few days with a general strike. There were numerous contributing causes, but the chief of them were the following:

1. Famine and distress caused by the long war.
2. Hostility to the government's servility to Germany.
3. Factional strife among the numerous races making up the dual monarchy.
4. The ardent desire for peace.
5. Socialistic influence exerted by the "Austrian" Bolsheviks.

"The workmen have only begun," declared Dr. Adler, a Socialist member of the Austrian chamber of deputies, in an address to the Reichsrath, according to advices received from Vienna today.

Dr. Adler continued by saying that the monarchy must be decentralized and become a state of nationalities, because of the "racial" factions of which it is composed. Some of the strikers have gone back to work, it was stated, but between 40 and 50 per cent are still out. A dispatch from Berlin says that Philip Scheidemann, a Socialist member of the reichstag, addressed the main committee saying that the situation in Germany is similar to that in Austria before the general strike began.

"Don't play with fire," was the solemn warning sounded by the Socialist deputy. The German government is reported to view the influence of the Austrian strike with considerable anxiety.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the German chief of staff, is urging drastic measures to nip in the bud any revolutionary activities.

ZURICH, Jan. 24.—No persons in responsible quarters are seeking to delay peace and the Austrian government is not holding out for "negotiations" directed to the next week. Austrian chief of staff, in an interview printed by the Arbitrator Zeitung, of Vienna. A copy of the paper containing the interview was received here today.

partment and diplomatic officials to... The Austro-German officials had again clamped down... There was little doubt here that serious rioting has accompanied this... This in turn complicates the situation from the Austrian official viewpoint.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 24.—If the Great League peace negotiations are broken off entirely the Bolshevik government at Petrograd will make proposals of Austria-Hungary for a separate peace with that country, according to a report from Petrograd today.

It was stated that the Bolshevik government, relying upon the unrest prevalent in the dual monarchy, is can be negotiated on the basis of no annexation nor indemnities.

ROME, Jan. 24.—Communications relating to peace are passing back and forth between the Vatican and Vienna. It was authoritatively stated today. It was declared that Emperor Charles had pledged himself to work for peace without annexations nor indemnities and that he would take the initiative in proposing disarmament and a league of nations. The reply of the King Albert of Belgium to the papal peace note was praised as a "splendid document," by the Vatican. (The original was signed by Giovanni Bonomi.) Today, the King said Belgium demands complete political, economic and territorial independence and reparations from Germany.

CHAMBERLAIN ATTACKS WAR

States was lacking a definite military policy and referred to the system of war government as "disjointed."

"I felt it my duty to speak out," said Senator Chamberlain in the latter part of his speech.

He asked the president for an appointment to go over with him the same day, but since the war affairs committee showing its efficiency in the war department. He received no reply to this suggestion.

"The machine gun—I have no criticism of him personally. We haven't, however, been able to do what every one of our allies has done, that is to reduce the number of men who have not been up to the standards in the work of the war."

"Take the machine gun. I am not going into the details. Here was the Lewis gun, manufactured in America for Great Britain and she had 70,000 of them on the battle front. America was prepared to put them out in great quantities and yet, while we stood on the edge of a seething volcano we were trifling along, through the ordinary department in quantity."

"With 700,000 rifles in America, rifles of every description, and with rifles being manufactured for Great Britain here the ordinance department went to work to improve the Enfield rifle. I think they have a better gun but here while the house was burning they were busy improving the Enfield rifle."

"The senator then attacked the military men saying that they did not know of clothing shortages and that the evidence showed this to be true. He said that President Wilson did not know it because he depended on the secretary of war for information, and Secretary Baker did not know because he depended on others who did not know."

At this juncture, Senator Chamberlain produced a pile of photographs, showing equipment conditions, including the use of wooden machine guns. He instructed the clerk to pass the photographs around among the senators.

"My integrity has been assailed," said Senator Chamberlain. "I want to show that they have actually used wooden machine guns. If I had a boy to go to France I'd want to have him trained with something else than wooden cannon and telegraph poles."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Colonel Roosevelt, here for the avowed purpose of "speeding up the war," spent another quiet but busy day today but it was rumored he "would blow the lid off" when he addresses the National Press Club tonight. Hints were heard that he will make known "in no uncertain language" his exact stand in the battle on President Wilson's peace policy. Senator Chamberlain in his public attack on the war department. He held conferences today with numerous Republican and Democratic politicians.

WATERS OF ENGLAND GERMAN U-BOATS QUIT

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Reports that Germany is diverting her submarines from the war zone waters around England were strengthened today by the weekly report on British shipping losses. According to the admiralty figures only eight British ships were lost during the past week. Of these six were over 1500 tons in size and two were of less tonnage. It is believed that since Germany extended her submarine zone that she is sending many of her submarines to the Mediterranean and to the waters bordering the Azores.
