ADMINISTRATION WON FIRST BOUT ON WAR BILL

AMENDMENT IS REJECTED BY THE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE

Foes of Measure Still Hostile

German Interests Divorced From Property Holding in America at the Request of the President

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the first test of strength on the Overman bill, granting the president broad powers to reorganize the war government...

The opposition, however, insisted that the vote was not a certain indication of how the committee would actually on the bill.

Senators who voted for the motion to ask the cabinet's views were: Reed, Smith (Georgia), King, Dillingham, Brandegee, Folger and McPherson.

The motion provided: That the committee invite the members of the cabinet to prepare, by writing, their views on the bill...

The committee will meet again Monday when the committee expects a vote on Senator Hoke Smith's substitute.

The committee after hearing A. Mitchell Palmer, custodian of alien property, decided to grant him authority to sell all German owned property in his jurisdiction.

Considerable dispute ensued over the proposition to buy the Hoboken docks. Some senators took exception to any outright purchase of the docks.

Prohibition Party Still Is Existent

It is to be Utterly Absorbed in the United States National Prohibition Socialist Makes Loyal Talk.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The prohibition party is still in the ring today, but in the parlance of pugilism, it is "out on its feet."

Delegates to the national convention of the party here refused to approve the merger plan by which the prohibition party is to be absorbed into the National party.

On the heels of the adoption of the co-operation plan, delegates from the United States National Prohibition party announced they would henceforth adhere to the National party.

The prohibition party's nominees for congress. They also have agreed to raise a fund of $50,000 to be placed at the disposal of the National party.

In its own behalf the Prohibition party plans to continue its active support of the National party's prohibition as a war measure and of the movement for permanent national prohibition.

National party will meet here today to consider its platform. In its preliminary sessions yesterday it elected an organization and marked the first step in the consolidation of the prohibition fight on the merger plan.

David Coates of Colorado, was made chairman; Mrs. Marie M. Brum of California, vice chairman; and Miss F. Getz of Illinois and J. W. Holmes of Minnesota, secretaries.

Some senators took exception to any outright purchase of the docks. The value of the German owned property in the United States runs high to the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Fertile Questions and Communications Invited.

THE CHURCH AND ITS RIGHT RELATION TO THE COMMUNITY

No one is more fully aware of the difficulty of writing an article on this subject which will meet with universal approval than the writer. It is a great pity that the religious situation in our country is such that there are very few communities whose religious needs are being satisfactorily met and whose churches are actually meeting their opportunities for community service in any intelligent way. But such are the facts, and it does no good to deny them. And I speak not only of the open country but of the country town and village churches as well. That it is better for the community to have a community-serving church, few will question. That every community needs such an institution, few would question. But in our present, unsettled, divided state of mind with reference to sectarianism and creed and dogma, it is next to impossible in many communities to have and support adequately an efficient church.

The writer has known not a few communities which were trying to maintain two main churches, with the inevitable result that no one of them was adequately capable and capably manned with the right sort of leadership, either in their pulpits or in their teaching forces. Few, if any, rural communities ought to try to support more than one church. When one church is already established in a community it is a sin the stretch of which must go up to high heaven for the denominational leaders or others to go into that community and seek to start another work organization whose existence only serves to weaken the church already in existence, without promoting the religious life of the community. In fact, it will usually tend to divide the community and thus retard the growth of the spiritual life in the community. I do not here decry the existence of denominations as such. My contention is that no rural community ought to countenance the establishment of more than one church within its bounds. It is well enough for the city to have more than one denomination, for it needs more than one church building to accommodate its population. The presence of several churches in a community is a luxury, which only the urban community can afford. The rural community cannot, and should not, afford it or even permit it. It is to the mutual interests of both the people of the country and of the towns and villages that the town or village should be the church center for a considerable radius of territory. In this way a stronger church can be built up. Both the village and the man from the surrounding country will have a stronger church and all that goes with it. And with the automobile so common, shortening distances as it does, this area can be much larger than it was a few years ago. The village or town which has ministered to a much larger group, at less expense, with greater efficiency of organization and administration, and at the same time do great deal more for missions and other religious activities.

The church in the open country ought not to be simply an oblong, one-room structure, without architectonically it should be built after some good architect has drawn the plans. There should be a large auditorium, well finished and lighted, decorated with comfortable pews, a choir loft and a good musical instrument. It is not complete without a room separate for a primary department for the Sunday school, and classrooms for classes of every department in the school. There should be a large staircase, equipped with a kitchen and large room adapted to many needs, including societies, and many indoor games. The house should always be kept in good repair, so that every one in the community can point to it with pride.

Its minister should be a man in sympathy with rural life, and a lover of rural life. He should be educated along the lines of rural economics, agriculture, horticulture, and rural sociology as well as in the field of religious education. He ought to be interested in every phase of the life of the community, and a leader in every program for community uplift. The community itself should recognize him as a leader, and expect him to take a strong part on the side of progress on every issue that presents itself to the people. He should be loved and respected for his true worth, supported morally and financially by every family in the community according to its ability. If he is to be a leader, he must stay a little ahead of those whom he leads. To do this he must have new books and magazines and time to read. He must be paid enough salary with which to live comfortably and buy the books which he needs, also he cannot long lead. And the minister should be paid more than is required to meet his monthly expenses. He ought, like other normal men, to lay up a small amount each year for old age. It is a shame that too many men who have sacrificed financial opportunity and become staves, going at a moment's call to any need, burying the dead, visiting the sick, counseling the wayward, marrying the young, challenging the wrong, championing the right and making it possible for others to live in peace and by opportunity to come to old age in want without provision for the end of a well-spent life.

But so much for the church and its minister and their support. What kind of a church shall it be? What function shall it perform in the community? To whom shall it minister? These are not idle questions. They are the two first questions which should be considered by the builders and supporters and minister of the church.

Of course, it goes without argument that the first and supreme duty of a church is to minister to the religious needs of the people of a community, rich and poor alike. Its creed should be a circle embracing all things which radiates from Jesus Christ, it should be a school for learners, a field for workers, a shelter for the weak, a citadel for the strong. Its task should be the spread of the gospel to every individual, to all society, and to the wide, wide world. Its members of the religion which it preaches should produce lives which are rational, humane, generous, divine, dignified and honest. It should be a means and universal way of truth and Love and Righteousness and Peace.

But while the mission of the church is to minister to the religious needs of the community, it should support and encourage the church should have a program, a program as wide as the needs of the community and its power to carry it. In different communities, this program will be different because the needs are different. In some communities there will be other organizations which are at work for the common good and with which there should be no interference, but only good will and support. Assuming that there is a community without other organizations, the church should make out an intelligent program for a year's activities—at least for fall and winter in advance, and then for spring and summer. This program should include the recreational interests, both of the grown-ups and of the young. The church might, without improperly urge upon the whole community the duty of play recreation. It might provide a playground, equip a gymnasium or fit up a church basement for school, with any other facility for the greater purpose for which it exists. The preacher need not be afraid to announce the time and place of a game and ask the community to attend—and he need not feel that the game has to be opened with prayer.

On the other hand, the people need not think he has over-run his prerogatives as a minister of the gospel if he should pray on Sunday for the right, beautiful promotion of the recreational interests of the community. We know a good many communities in which there will have to be a good many very earnest prayers offered by both the minister and the laity before God can look upon the common forms of recreation and pronounce them good.

Being in a rural community, the church should certainly be interested in agriculture. It should offer its building, if needed, for farmers' meetings. It should encourage the best methods of agriculture. It might properly through a lay committee or brotherhood secure and distribute literature from the department of agriculture, suited to the distribution to the needs of the time of year. I know a church whose brotherhood distributed about 2,000 pieces of literature on the different phases of agriculture, domestic science, social service, home and foreign missions, and in so doing rendered a distinct service to the community and won the greater favor of the community. It is only proper to say that the tracts on missions were the more appreciated because the church was interested in it in the gardens, poultry-yards, dairies, and farms in the community.

Of course, every church should interest itself in the reading of the people of the community. It should seek to provide the right kind of reading, if no other organization is doing it, and then it should encourage every one to read. No church will ever rise above the average intelligence of the community. And no church will ever rise in intelligence or in intelligence service until the people of its community have learned to read and to read the best magazines and books. It is not enough to send the people weekly—though we think it ought to go into every home and be read by every member of the family as a matter of common concern and community information. But time must be found for reading other things, and the church can well afford to direct as far as it can the community to the best in magazines and books.

There are other things which the church should have on its program, such as monthly or semi-monthly lectures on a varied list of subjects covering the needs of every one in the community. It is a known community which built up a new community and a fiber spirit of neighborliness, great co-operation and a more deeply spiritual life by means of such a lecture course.

But space does not allow a further discussion of this subject. We hope that the outline suggested will help some community to find its opportunity and make its church a community-serving church, whatever its denominational name. If so, we shall feel that the time required for this article has not been spent in vain.

22 Million Families in the United States

4 CUPS OF WHEAT FLOUR TO THE POUND

If each family used 4 cups of flour less per week, the saving would be 22 million pounds or 112,244 barrels every week.

The greatest help housekeepers can give to win the war is to make this saving and it can be done by using this recipe in place of white flour bread.

Corn Meal Biscuits

1/2 cup scalded milk	1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup corn meal	1 cup white flour
2 tablespoons shortening	4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Save 1/2 cup of the measured flour for bread. Pans milk over corn meal, add shortening and salt. When cold, add sifted flour and baking powder. Roll out lightly on floured board. Cut with round cutter and bake in greased pan fifteen to twenty minutes.

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR

THE KAISER'S DREAM

There's a story now current though strange it may seem
Of the great Kaiser Bill and his wonderful dream.
Being tired of the Allies he lay down
In his bed and dreamed.

And among other things, he dreamed he was dead.
In a fine coffin he was lying in state
With a squad of bravo Belgians who were mourning his fate;
He wasn't long dead when he learned to his cost that

That his soul like the soldiers would ere long be lost.

Upon leaving this earth to Heaven he went straight
And on his arrival, he knocked at the gate;
St. Peter looked out and in a voice "loud and clear"
Said: "Try down below, Bill, you can't get in here."

"Now," said the devil, "I call that unwell."
But a welcome I'll get from my old friend, the Devil."
He turned on his heel and away he did go
At the top of his speed to the regions below.

But when he got there, he was filled with dismay,
For while waiting outside, he heard old Nick say, to hisimps:
"Now, boys," said the Devil, "I give you fair warning, I'm expecting the Kaiser to come down here this morning."

"But don't let him in for to me it is clear
He is after my job, and we want no scabs here.
For once he gets in, there'll be no end of quarrels,
And I'm also quite sure, he'll corrupt our good morals."

"Oh, Satan, dear friend," the Kaiser then cried:
"Excuse me for listening while waiting outside,
If you won't let me in, tell me where I can go."
"Indeed," said the Devil, "I'm damned if I know."

"Oh! do let me in for I'm feeling quite sold
—And if you want money, I've plenty of gold,
Let me sit in the corner, no matter how hot it is."
"No, no," said the Devil, "Most certainly not."

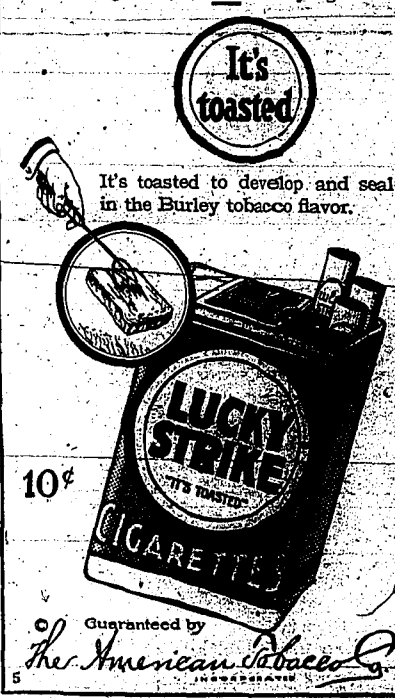

"We don't admit brutes for money or puff, Here's the sulphur and matches, make a Hell for yourself."
Then he kicked him out and vanished in smoke.
And just at that moment, the Kaiser awoke.

He jumped out of bed in a shivering sweat
And said: "That's a dream that I'll never forget.
I won't go to Heaven, I know very well,
But it sure is a shame to get kicked out of Hell."

DEMOCRATS WIN IN ALL FOUR DISTRICTS

New York Election in Which Women Voted Resulted in Victory for Party in Power

NEW YORK, March 6.—Democrats have today regained control of the house of representatives by the election of their candidates in four of New York's congressional districts. As the result of the special election yesterday the house now stands: Democrats 215; Republicans 212; Independents 6. The four New York vacancies had left the Republicans one ahead of the Democrats.

For the first time in New York's political history women exercised their right to vote, and 31,958 women voters cast ballots. The total vote in the four districts, as shown by complete returns today was 85,287. The men cast 52,329 ballots.

Enthusiastic Letters Arrive From Over There—MAY Red Cross Notes This Week

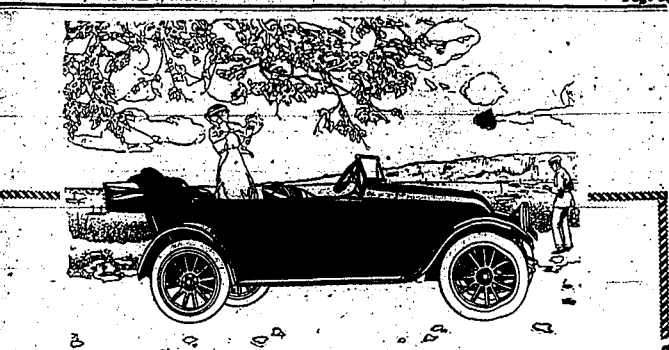

"That the Christmas packages which failed to get 'over there' in time for Santa to stick them into the Klondike or toes were just as welcome when they arrived later on is indicated by the following letters which have just been received here:

My Dear Mrs. MacVicar:

Just before yesterday I received the Xmas box which the Twin Falls Red Cross was kind to send me. Although a rather belated Xmas package, still I assure you that it was greatly appreciated and I desire to extend my sincere thanks to each member of the Chapter especially for the many laborious hours of knitting. I only hope the other Twin Falls boys were fortunate enough to receive their packages. It was the best Red Cross package that I have seen and you are all to be congratulated for everything contained therein was most desirable. Each time that I utilize any of the articles I am sure that my thought will be far out in a western town inhabited by people with generous hearts and helping hands for the boys 'over here.'

Franklin Cars Combine Utmost Worth and Economy

From the beginning the Franklin Automobile Company have had two great purposes in view.

These were to constantly offer the American public the greatest possible satisfaction in the ownership of a Motor vehicle.

The Franklin Company has never failed to make good on the first of these purposes.

The first Franklin made was the best car that had then been offered to the American people.

A car built on the same lines with the same material and from the same design would today be the best American car, with the exception of the present day Franklin.

The Franklin Company has never found it necessary to make radical changes from the first model.

Certain refinements have been added.

But the perfect performance of the first model has been duplicated year after year.

The Franklin in the beginning was the distinctive American car.

It still holds that distinction.

It is the one great Motor Driven vehicle—without regard to high or low price.

The poor man can better afford the Franklin than the ownership of a car of less initial cost.

The rich man can secure more value and service from a Franklin by the dollar unit—even though he paid as much for his Franklin as though it had been the highest priced car known.

There is no car with which to compare a Franklin.

To the Ladies of the Twin Falls Chapter of the American Red Cross:

Your good letter of November 15th notifying me of the preparation of a very comforting Xmas box was received some weeks ago and I have been rather impatiently awaiting the arrival of the box before sending my little note of thanks. Unfortunately the package has as yet failed to arrive, nevertheless, I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the spirit with which the box was prepared.

This winter is unusually cold and I don't think the folks back home can survive too many more of these 'cold boys over there' with every knitted comfort possible. I am not by any means thinking of myself in making the suggestion, as special clothing, electrically heated is provided for aviators.

I am ever so deeply grateful for your kindly interest in my welfare and with every good wish for the success of the Twin Falls Chapter, I am very sincerely,
C. J. YOUNGER,
1st Lieut. Air Service, A. E. F. France.

NOTICE: Concerning Food Administrator HOOVER and the Hoover Electric Sweeper

SOME PATRIOTIC AMERICANS have criticized the Hoover Electric Sweeper Company for selling their Electric Rubbing Sweeper, the "HOOVER". There have been charges with naming it after Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover, to prejudice on his publicity.

WE WISH ALL TO KNOW that The Hoover Electric Rubbing Sweeper:

- is the oldest successful vacuum cleaner for home & hotels has been known as The Hoover
- and was so named for this company's founder, manufacturer under the firm title of Hoover since the '70's.

THAT THE GREAT Food promoter, Herbert C. Hoover, and the great work concerns, THE HOOVER-COMBINED ELECTRO CARPET SWEEPER and VACUUM CLEANER, should be named after his eminence.

Bryan Head of a Dry Organization

Movement for Immediate Prohibition Launched at Vast Meeting in Chicago on Tuesday Night

CHICAGO, March 6.—William Jennings Bryan, who is the head of the largest prohibition organization in the world, has accepted the presidency of the National Dry federation, an organization which is expected to replace to far an active work for prohibition is concerned, the Prohibition party.

It is expected that the Prohibition party, as a separate political unit, will cease to exist today. Mergers plans involving a union with the new National party are before the national convention of the Prohibitionists here and it is believed they will be adopted.

Whether the merger is effected depends largely upon the platform adopted by the national party which will open its convention here today.

The National Dry Federation, which has chosen Bryan as its head, is regarded as the most comprehensive prohibition group in the country. It will represent a union of every class of prohibitionist, regardless of party, race, creed, or occupation.

It includes prohibitionists of religious and reform organizations, labor unions, churches and more than thirty temperance organizations.

The Chicago meeting, as outlined here, are attended mainly by "dry" advocates within the national party, and before the national prohibition convention.

To insure success of the prohibition campaign in six states which will bring about an immediate national prohibition as a war measure to curtail the liquor traffic and resources of the nation.

DEATH OF GREAT LEADER

In John Redmond, Ireland and the world lost a great leader who brought humanity by sane and steady steps nearer to sound democracy. At all times he saw beyond the immediate and causal to the final and permanent. This was true in all the great crises arising in his life. To many good people, including the vast majority of his own nation, he seemed mistaken when he backed Parnell after the majority of the Nationalist or home rule party reversed itself and repudiated that leader at the demand of Gladstone. It was a situation in which nobody could be blamed too much. Gladstone, indeed, revealed to a friend of Parnell, with the hope that it would be repeated, that it would be expected to retire temporarily on account of the public scandal connected with his name, but this friend not realizing its significance, failed to convey the message to either Parnell or the Nationalist party until after the re-election of Parnell as leader. Gladstone, fearing the effect of either an alliance with Parnell at that moment, on one hand, or the dissolution of the understanding between the Nationalist and Liberal parties, on the other, openly demanded the resignation of Parnell. Redmond then insisted that Parnell stand by his guns since the granting of permission to an English leader to dictate who should lead the Home Rule party, would be tantamount to surrender of identity. The majority of the home rule party followed the faction that favored the surrender, but Redmond with a few others stood firm and maintained the organization until, after the death of the great leader, the anti-Parnellites recognized the principle for which he stood and accepted Redmond as their leader, thus saving the party of Irish self-government.

Again in the strenuous days preceding the beginning of the great war, while civil war hovered over the camp, Redmond was the most calm, conservative and balanced leader in any party in parliament. A single indiscreet word from him spoken under provocation might have led to that civil strife which the Kaiser thought imminent, but that word was left unspoken and moderation and conciliation was urged instead.

Lastly, at that trying time, when internal peace or war hung in the balance, and when the German myriads of autocracy lighted a greater conflagration, Redmond, with clear vi-vision, recognized a greater peril to liberty than that involved in the delay of home rule, and unhesitatingly threw his fortunes with those of the Liberal statesmen, whose interest in home rule was second only to their interest in humanity and liberty.

That the ultra-radicals of his own race did not follow him was a misfortune for which he was in no way to blame. Months afterwards Lloyd-George declared in substance that the dissatisfaction among the poorer classes of Irish arose very largely from the fact that English recruiting sergeants, good men in their own country, but utterly misunderstanding the Irish view point, manner and method of procedure, had unconsciously repelled where they intended to entice, and thus allowed secret agents of the Kaiser to sow discontent.

At no time did Redmond flinch from a steady support of the cause of democracy, however annoying local conditions and delays in his great ambition to secure home rule may have been to him. His brother resigned from parliament and fell fighting bravely against Kaiserism.

In generations to come the name of John Redmond will be emblazoned among the great benefactors of the human race.

POSSIBLE FINANCIAL CRISIS

Hon. James K. Lynch, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, is calling upon the press of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District to aid in calling special attention to the serious condition confronting the financial and commercial interests of the nation in the matter of the United States Treasury Certificates of indebtedness—neither the necessity nor the purpose of which seem to be fully understood. An interesting and informative article on the subject, prepared by Mr. E. W. Wilson, Director of Sales, asks that orders for allotments of these Certificates be wired in to the Federal Fiscal Agency, at San Francisco, as issues are announced. Mr. Wilson's article in full is appended hereto:

It takes men and money to win a war. Bankers are the direct agents of the Government. When their duty has been prescribed and they have been called upon they have responded nobly even at a sacrifice.

At a certain now article which calls for the support of every bank, that business may proceed on the even tenor of its way while the Nation undertakes the gigantic task of financing the war.

The Secretary of the Treasury asks that every bank purchase the Treasury Certificates in advance of the Liberty Loan so that the shock incidental to the transfer of immense sums may be absorbed. To do this effectively a bank should set aside 1 per cent of its resources each week over a period and with these sums purchase the certificates. These "non-pecuniary" deposits will not interfere with the ordinary conduct of the bank.

When the Liberty Loan Bonds are issued and purchased through the bank as an agent, the bonds are exchanged for the certificates. It is a simple process of making installment payments on the Liberty Loan Bonds in advance.

Suppose all business in a city ceased at a certain hour, and all the clerks, salespeople, artisans, merchants and late shoppers were to attempt to board the street cars in a period of ten minutes. Think of the confusion, the turmoil and inconvenience! The traction companies could not be expected to have equipment and men for such a "peak load." Excessive capital invested in adequate rolling-stock and power would be life during twenty-three out of every twenty-four hours. Here, indeed, would be an economic waste. There would be inconceivable to the public losses instead of dividends to the traction companies, and stagnation in the growth of the population in that city. But the hours for the cessation of business are distributed over a period, and although thousands go from business to homes each night they are handled with comparative ease and comfort.

The United States Treasury Certificates are issued to avoid a "bank load" to disinvest a "rich loan," to keep business on an even keel, all of which redounds to the benefit of the bank, its customers, business in general and the Government itself.

THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

Another liberty loan having been called by the government, the workers in Twin Falls, as elsewhere throughout the nation must buckle on the armor for another drive, which will insure the raising of the money required for the successful prosecution of the war. In spite of the fact that many elements have entered into the struggle which did not manifest themselves at first, and some of these things are less satisfactory than the more sanguine tempo for, the result of a year's work has been satisfactory in the highest degree. Today we have no doubtful element of citizenship beyond a small seditious sediment, requiring watching indeed and dangerous in some places, but contemptible in numbers and influence when exposed. We have done many wonderful things in mobilization of resources and are in the way of doing more wonderful things. It has been truly said that we have not yet really felt the war. This is true and it simply means that our resources have, after all, not been scratched. On the other hand, the resources of the central powers are necessarily strained to a breaking point. That they can carry on a successful war even a year longer, or if we keep on with the same enthusiasm which we began is doubtful. It remains only for us to fight with ever increasing energy, with men, with resources and with confidence and hope.

HURRAH FOR THE WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS

The Wisconsin Republican caucus did a fine thing when it endorsed the war policies of President Wilson. This does not mean that the men there abandoned their party allegiance. They are just as good Republicans as ever, and they would not have been good Republicans had they shown a different spirit. That is the way that the overwhelming majority of the party feels. This does not mean that they have abandoned the Republican point of view, it simply means that in confronting an international foe they are Americans. That is the sentiment expressed by former President Taft and by Elihu Root ever since we entered this war.

Incidentally, the action of the Wisconsin caucus was "good politics" in the practical sense. New York Republicans tried to elect four congressmen to fill vacancies Tuesday with the alleged failure of the war department to furnish an issue—and elected all but four of them.

EVIDENCE OF PATRIOTISM

The growing intensity of patriotism on the parts of the people, or rather the growing intensity of manifestation of what was always latent in them is evidenced by the rapid growth of the parades of the depot to see the boys depart for the front. At first the procession was small; today it numbers thousands. The picture of the parade headed by the Twin Falls band shown in The TIMES-Tuesday was itself inspiring. As stated elsewhere in the same issue, this organization, in addition to donating its services has started a movement to "forward smoke" regularly to France. Everybody can in one way or other "do a bit."

WATCH THE PENNY

Now that the first move on the thrift stamp has closed so successfully do not forget that this was only the first. Save your pennies, save your nickels and your dime and invest, invest, invest.

Let everyone knitting socks examine their own work carefully before handing them in. Turn them inside out and look for knots. Socks cannot be accepted if leg is less than 14 in. long, if foot is less than 11 in. if foot is wider than leg, if Kitchener toe is not used, if toe is not smooth, if toe is cast off with twisted stitches that draw into hard line. When Kitchener toe is correctly made there is no ridge.

From January 20 to February 20 the following articles have been made in the sewing department: 230 suits of pajamas, 68 wristlets, 30 convalescent robes, 32 helmets, 345 bed shirts, 2 mufflers, 65 bed jackets, 50 tape bed shirts, 60 pairs bed sox, 115 suits underwear, 104 sweaters, 158 pairs sox.

Mrs. Edwards is out again after her illness. The classes for the teaching of surgical dressing met on Tuesday under her instruction. Kimberly is organizing a class on Saturday under the instruction of Mrs. Haviland, and on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Orkney will instruct a class for teaching at Ft. Le. The women taking this course of instruction pledge themselves for a certain number of days or hours of work in this department and are qualified to teach at their services are required.

Twin Falls this week received its chapter charter from headquarters at Washington, signed by Elliot Wads, worth, chairman.

On Friday of last week Mrs. J. E. White spoke before the auxiliary at Curry on Red Cross matters. Mrs. McRoberts and Mrs. McVicar visited the Hansen auxiliary and later at Kimberly Mrs. McRoberts gave an inspiring address before the ladies.

Emmon Hranac, a thirteen year-old boy of the Bickel school district No. 40 has completed a sweater.

Considerable interest is manifest in the first aid work being conducted by Dr. C. R. Scott. There are now being enrolled in the class. The material for these classes is at Dr. Scott's office where the classes are now held.

JUNIOR RED CROSS WORK The high school girls have shown a great deal of interest in the making of refugee hoods for boys and girls up to 14 years of age. These hoods are made of the worst material and are both warm and comfortable. Miss Crossland, the sewing instructor, has this work in charge and 65 hoods have been completed in the last week.

They have completed 25 pairs wristlets, 20 baby mitts, 15 pairs mitts, 1 rug, 1 Afghan, 16 ambulance pads. The Lincoln school has finished 11 ambulance pads, 7 pairs wristlets, 5 sweaters, 16 bright scarves.

Work completed by the Washington School since February 28th: 24 wristlets, 10 sweaters, 12 comfort cloths, 1 woven rag rug, 42 comfort pillows. The checking department at the sewing rooms is now fully organized and greatly facilitates the work at that department. There are women for each day, who check out and in all materials.

A class in dietetics met in the domestic science rooms at the high school Wednesday evening. Fourteen girls now enrolled and anyone interested in this work can still join the class if they notify Miss Crossland immediately.

Through the kindness of Mrs. C. O. Longley a desk has been supplied for use in the sewing room.

KIMBERLY RED CROSS

The surgical dressing class meets Monday afternoons and evenings. The afternoon class had fifteen present at their first meeting and many more have promised to join. One hundred and eighty-three dressings were made by them. The class that met on Friday evening had twenty-one present and made two hundred and eighty dressings.

The Red Cross gave the surgical dressing class three new tables and they will be ready for use by the next meeting. Mr. Van Houten was kind enough to donate a day's work in making the tables. They will be of a great help to the class.

The O. T. U. had fifteen present at their meeting Wednesday. The District President was here from Pocatello and was greatly pleased with the work. Mrs. W. R. Sumner, now has charge of their sewing and Mrs. W. P. McDowell has charge of the knitting.

They made nine pairs bed socks and one suit of underwear. They also turned in to the Red Cross two pairs wristlets.

Mrs. McRoberts and Mrs. McVicar of Twin Falls were present at the sewing rooms Friday afternoon. Mrs. McRoberts gave a splendid talk on her duty to the Red Cross. Anyone hearing this talk could not shirk their duty to this grand organization.

McVicar sent a letter from Charles Younger, a young man from Twin Falls, who highly praised the Red Cross work in France. It also showed a paper "Piano News" which is printed in the war zone.

At five o'clock tea was served by the Red Cross at the sewing rooms.

The knitting for the week was one sweater and one pair wristlets.

The sewing for the week was three bed robes, thirteen pairs of socks, eight pairs underwear and three pajamas.

Butter wrapper headquarters is at the Times office. All letters will be printed at any time, in their turn, like any other job.

The U. S. Food Administration says: "Save Fats"

AND IT ADDS: "To save does not mean to do without. Use vegetable fats instead of lard and butter in your cooking."

THAT is the direct appeal of your Government. It calls for no sacrifice on your part.

—No sacrifice of nutriment because vegetable fats are rich, wholesome and pure.

—No sacrifice in economy because vegetable fats cost less than butter or lard.

The only change you are asked to make is a slight change in the way you cook—the shortening you use.

Fortunately, the country has right at hand an abundant supply of nutritious vegetable fats—of which Cottolene is a well-known and dependable example.

The change from lard and butter to vegetable fats is both simple and patriotic. Cottolene meets the needs of wholesome cooking, the requirements of economy, the wishes of the Government.

And what is the reason for the Government requirements? Simply this:

"Pork, ham, bacon, lard, condensed milk and butter can be shipped in concentrated space"—to feed the under-nourished women and children in stricken countries—to feed our own fighting men and the men of our Allies who are fighting in our defense.

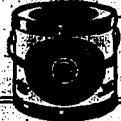

WITH these compelling facts in mind, is it not a clear duty to put patriotism above cooking customs and use the nutritious, economical vegetable fats which nature has abundantly supplied?

Make your kitchen a patriotic kitchen—and remember as you cook—every ounce of vegetable fat you use instead of lard and butter may mean saving the life of someone somewhere in the world.

FASTS FOR 36 DAYS

DOWNVILLE, CAL., March 7.—Eusebio Logarmarino, has just gone thirty-five days without eating. Periodically he makes up his mind that he will do without solid sustenance as a means toward longevity. Previously he has gone without food for varying periods up to twenty-eight days and has thrived in the process. Logarmarino will not tell his fast tale, but old residents say that he is more than sixty.

Germans Brand Kaiser as Medieval Relic

CHICAGO, March 6.—Branding kaiserism as a relic of the middle ages, Chicago Germans are on record here today as staunch supporters of President Wilson and loyal to the United States government to the last ditch. Hundreds of them pledged their fealty to the government at a meeting of Friends of German democracy today here. America's part in the war was pointed out as the personification of democracy in its loftiest form, and that it tended to help Germany realize real freedom as well as to safeguard that of other peoples. Great enthusiasm was shown when Prof. Max F. Meyer of the University of Missouri, severely assailed the spreading of German propaganda through the German alliance. Prof. Meyer declared that the great trouble in Germany today is that the governed classes are fasciated by the military subsides of the governing class. Only when the German armies are defeated will they learn to democratize themselves, he said. Rev. Theo. F. Dornhueser of Oberlin College said it is no crime to bear a German name. "Mr. Martin Luther gave living to the world and would fight the Kaiser," said the pastor. The Twin Falls Times has all the latest news from the lines of German troops. GOODS THAT MAKE LASTING IMPRESSIONS

Great Tournament Begins Friday P. M.

Increased Seating Capacity Provided to Take Care of the Anticipated Large Crowd.

Interest is now running high in anticipation of the grand finale in Southern Idaho basketball. Arrangements for the tournament are now practically completed. The seating capacity of the gymnasium has been increased so that those attending the games are assured of comfortable seats. The first game will be called at 8 p. m. Friday afternoon and play will continue until 5:40. The Friday evening games will begin at 7 and continue until 11 p. m. The final games will be played off Saturday night from 8 to 10. The fastest games and those an excellent showing in all the games will be played at this time.

The coaches of the various teams have reported their men in good condition for the tournament and strong competition is expected. In the tournament held in Twin Falls last year, five games were won by the narrow margin of one point. The Rupert, Gooding and Twin Falls teams are regarded as most likely to battle for premier honors this week. The Gooding team played only fair ball the first of the season but by reason of the recent defeat of Rupert by them, considerable speculation has arisen as to their championship possibilities.

Coch Nafziger's boys are making the last week of practice count. They will enter the tourney in a better condition than at any other time of the season, and they will be able to make an excellent showing in all the games they play.

The tourney cups are of Nubian bronze which is a new dark brown finish put out over copper and with silver trimmings form a most attractive and artistic combination. The cups are on display in the window of Decker and Hunt jewelry store.

ASSOCIATION TO SEND DELEGATES WITH A PROTEST

STOCKMEN AND FARMERS AGAINST MINIDOKA EXTENSION LEASE

Will be Heard in Denver Monday

Assert That Plan Gives Monopoly and Say That It Would Spill Blood for Sheep Raising and Seriously Hurt Farmers.

Vigorous protest against the leasing by the government of the tract of 176,000 acres of waste lands running from Minidoka to Jerome to seventeen individuals in various sections directed by the committee of the Stockmen & Farmers Co-operative association, who last Saturday night for Denver, where they will present their objections to the chief of construction of the reclamation service, who has held up the leases pending the receipt of and consideration of the protest. The committee consists of T. C. Bacon, S. P. Newman, W. S. Youngs, and P. O. Betts.

The association was recently organized by a number of sheep and stockmen from both sides of the river and S. E. Newman of Jerome is elected president, and W. H. Stanley of Twin Falls, secretary and treasurer.

The association protests on the following grounds:

First: That the leases entered into by the government give a monopoly to a few individuals, many of whom have not stock common to the tract and acreage received, so that while 200,000 sheep were taken care of during certain periods of the year previously, the stock on the tract in 1934 will be taken care of hereafter should the arrangement stand.

Second: That the half-mile trails running through the lands north and south are not large enough and are in many cases made impassable by crowding. Moreover, that the character and location of water holes make many of these worthless.

Third: That the land about the Minidoka and Jerome tracts, on which many farmers settled to raise hay for sheep passing through, and that these will lose heavily should the plan be carried out. It will reduce meat supply at this time when needed.

Fourth: That small farmers with a few head of cattle or sheep are frozen out.

Fifth: That a barrier is created stopping the passage of sheep from the Twin Falls-Southside tract and greatly injuring this business in the neighborhood of Twin Falls, Picher and Beech. It is this alleged to be the case that the destruction of the industry on a great part of the Southside tract is said to be threatened.

Sixth: That although most of the land lies outside of the Northside rather than to the Minidoka tract, it was advertised as the Minidoka Project extension, so that sheepman, stockmen and farmers were deceived into thinking that they were not affected and that the proposed leasing did not extend further than Beech and only a part of the area after the leasing of the lands. Hence, they say, they did not have time to protest prior to the letting of the leases. They say that they do not object to leasing but believe that leases should be made to the association and not to individuals and that the association should pro rata according to the number of users. In their opinion, the enforcement of the leases would constitute a serious menace to the industry in southern Idaho and would hurt everybody in this part of the state.

Government Operation of Packing Plants

Iowa Senator Suggests This As a Possible Solution to the Present Trouble

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Government operation of packing plants, industry was suggested to the senate agriculture committee today by Senator Keay of Iowa. The suggestion came in reply to a question of Sen. Reubens of a farming paper.

Reid testified that shepherds are losing heavily on the products, largely because of the restriction of the market by the packers and failure of the government to interfere.

Senator Keay suggested that government operation of the packing industry might prove the only remedy.

Centralized Meals Sane Work and Food

One-dish Dinner is Hot and Savory, Easy to Cook and Serve and is Nourishing.

"What shall we have for dinner?"—the daily question that never grows old. Well, you want a good, satisfying meal which the whole family will enjoy. It must be cheap and easy to cook and must supply what your bodies need to help you grow, and to help you work or play and keep warm. And, if the spirit of war sacrifice abides in your household, the meal should reflect your food saving efforts.

People of all nations have used combinations of foods cooked together in one dish. Perhaps you can remember such dinners in your grandfathers' homes. Why not have the custom and serve your family with a nutritious one-dish dinner occasionally, for variety at least? For such a dinner you might serve a fish chowder. Here it is, a dinner in one dish, sure enough. His one, and the others that follow, makes enough for five persons.

Fish Chowder
1 1/2 lbs. fresh fish (cod, haddock, etc.) or 3/4 lb. dried fish; 3 potatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces; 1 onion, sliced; 2 cups carrots, cut in pieces; 1/2 lb. salt pork; 3 cups milk; 3 teaspoon pepper; 3 tablespoons of flour.

Cut pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for 5 minutes. Put pork, onion, carrots, and potatoes in kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until vegetables are tender. Mix 3 tablespoons of flour with 1/2 cup of the cold milk and stir in the liquid in the pot to thicken it. Add the rest of the milk and the fish, which has been removed from bone and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish tender—about 10 minutes. If salt fish is used soak first. Serve hot.

This "one-dish" makes a satisfactory meal served with crisp crackers or corn dodgers with stewed fruit or jam for the "something sweet" you like with your meal.

Now that meat is so high priced you like to make a small amount go as far as possible. A meat stew can be made very appetizing and with proper care in the selection of the ingredients to combine with the meat you may make a most palatable meal.

A hot pot of mutton and barley. An English stew that is especially good.

One pound mutton; 1/2 cup pearl barley; 1 tablespoon salt; 4 potatoes; 3 onions; celery tops or other seasoning herbs.

Cut the mutton in small pieces and brown with the onion in fat cut from meat. This will help make the meat tender and improve the flavor. Pour this into a covered saucepan. Add 1 quart of water and the barley. Simmer for 1 1/2 hours. Then add the potatoes cut in quarters, seasoning herbs and seasoning, and cook 1/2 hour longer.

This is also good served as a shepherd's pie with meat potatoes lining the dish and piled on top for finishing. The stew is better if thickened with a little flour in this case before adding to the mashed potato crust.

Or your one-dish meal might be of dried peas or beans instead of meat or fish combined with other vegetables. There is a hearty dish made from split peas. Many kinds of dried peas or beans could be used in the same way.

Split Peas and Onions
1 1/2 cups rice; 1 pint split peas; 6 onions; 1 tablespoon salt; 1/2 teaspoon pepper; 2 cups tomato (fresh or canned).

Soak peas over night in 2 quarts of water. Cook until tender in water in which they soaked. Add rice, onion, tomato, and seasonings, and cook 20 minutes.

Such meals are a help to the busy housewife on especially busy days, as they are easy to prepare and involve but few dishes to wash. With bread and butter and jam, perhaps, or stewed fruit, any one of them makes a well chosen nutritious meal. If there are children in the family give each one a glass of milk besides. Such a meal will satisfy the body's need as well as a more elaborate one.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Nutritious salad makes a good dish for a home luncheon. As they are rich in protein, cheese salads take the place of cold meat dishes. The following is an inexpensive, nutritious cottage cheese salad:

Mix thoroughly one pound of cheese, one and one-half tablespoons of cream, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and salt to taste. First fill a rectangular tin mold with cold water to chill and wet the surface. After removing the water, line the bottom of the mold with waxed paper; then pack the cheese in three layers, putting two or three parallel strips of plastic lattice net or cheesecloth between layers. Cover with waxed paper and set in a cool place until ready to serve; then run a knife around the sides and invert the mold. Cut in slices and serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing and wafer. Mincéd olives may be used instead of the parsley, and chopped nuts may also be added.

FIVE WAYS TO FOOD VARIETY

We must have food to grow, to keep warm, and to work. Our food must be nutritious in that it does all these things. It is also important that it should taste good. It will not only be better relished, but it will be better utilized by the body if it does. Food will be more healthful, more palatable, and more nutritious if it is varied.

MRS. H. F. SCHALDACH
Pure Food Editor

Variety may be secured by selecting for the daily diet something from each of the following five groups of food: (1) Fruits and vegetables; (2) Milk, meat, eggs, cheese, fish, peas, beans, and nuts; (3) Cereals; (4) Sweets; (5) Fats.

DRAFT PLAN IS FOR MILITARY SERVICE ONLY

HOUSE COMMITTEE ESCHEWS TAKING MEN FOR PRIVATE ENTERPRISES

Admits of Rather Broad Interpretation

Minority Report Opposes All Sorts of Deferred Classification in the Measure Calling Men to the Colors

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The new draft legislation just presented to the house does not give the president authority to conscript labor for private enterprise. It emphasizes this afternoon in the report of the military affairs committee. The president is empowered only to conscript "for military service" although the committee admits that a "very broad construction" may be placed on the new provision.

"The distinction is made in the report between drafting 'from industry' and drafting 'into industry.' Any man with special qualifications who has been given deferred classification because of his training, but who is not directly contributing to the winning of the war through his work, may be taken from any class and put into government munitions plants or shipyards. The provision that the president may draft skilled agricultural laborers does not mean that he would conscript them for work on the farms the report points out. They may be taken only for work at trades other than farming, in which they may be especially skilled, or for the care of army animals.

The committee insisted that the words "military service" be inserted in this provision of the bill, although assured by the provost marshal general that it would not be necessary because there was no intention to draft industrial workers for any other than government enterprise.

The bill, which will be prepared by Representatives Gordon of Ohio and several other members who believe there is no authorization in the original draft law for the deferred classification system. They believe the element of lottery or chance is entirely removed from the draft by the system and that it was the sense of the congress that men would be taken according to their regular order without regard to special qualifications.

Hun Surprised at Good Treatment

Did Not Expect Anesthetic Before Operation—While Bread Didn't Seem "Filling" He Was

WITH AMERICAN ARMY IN FIELD

March 6.—One of the most bewildered men in this part of France today is a Prussian prisoner, who was taken by the Americans last Friday. His leg was shattered by an American bullet, and he is being taken care of by an American doctor. He showed the greatest and genuine surprise when the doctor used an anesthetic before operating on him. He told the physician, who speaks German, that he had not expected any kindness and that he had feared the operation would be performed without any drug.

His bewilderment grew when he began to get American food. He couldn't understand where so much variety came from. He said the white bread did not seem very filling after the coarse, black composition that he had been eating for four years.

The prisoners declared that the German raiding party was a picked body of men and that it was made up of volunteers. He said no rum or other liquor was given to the men before they went over the top.

Great Irish Leader Dies After Operation

Head of Nationalist Party For Twenty Years—Was Foe of Kiekerism and Autocracy in All Forms

LONDON, March 6.—John Redmond, leader of the Irish party in the house of commons, died today, following an operation last Saturday.

In a statement issued by his surgeons it was said that the operation was of a severe nature, but that the patient had faced the operation with great courage. Heart failure supervened, causing death, after Mr. Redmond had been reported as making satisfactory progress.

In the death of Redmond, Ireland has lost a great leader, who for twenty years has led Ireland's fight for liberty. In his capacity as chairman of the Irish party—the Nationalists—he brought about the formation of the Irish convention in July 1917. The convention was for the purpose of devising a system of government for Ireland.

With the breaking out of the war in 1914 he took a firm stand in support of the British government and maintained his loyal position to the end.

Redmond won great honors by his unquestioned loyalty, though he never hesitated in his struggle for the uplifting of Ireland. David Lloyd George, the British premier, has praised him highly. Cardinal Gibbons and other high ecclesiastical officials also have lauded him. His stand in the Sinn Fein matter won him the enmity of that organization.

As a spokesman for the Irish people Redmond dealt wisely and well, with Premier Lloyd George, and other officials in reaching a plan for the calling of the Irish convention which brought together Irishmen of all parties.

Having toured the United States in 1908 and again in 1910 he was widely known in the United States. Canada, where he collected funds. He also toured Australia in the interests of his party, and it was there that he met and married Johann Dalton, of New South Wales.

Irish constitution in parliament have been re-proposed almost continuously by Redmond since 1881. He was a close friend of C. S. Parnell and at the fall of Parnell as a leader, he became the moving spirit of the Parnellites. For eight years the Irish members of parliament were divided.

With Redmond leading one faction and Justin McCarthy at the head of the other. But at the close of the eight year period Redmond found himself the recognized chief of the party.

Redmond was born in Waterford, in 1851, and educated at Trinity college Dublin. In 1885 he was called to the English bar, and in the following year was admitted to the Irish bar. His father was W. A. Redmond, member of parliament from Wexford, Ireland. He was of Anglo-Norman stock. His ancestors were among the men who came to Ireland with Strongbow seven centuries ago; many of whom settled in Wexford and inter-married with the Irish.

WILL MAKE LIBERTY FLOUR

MADISON, WIS., March 7.—Liberty flour may be Wisconsin's latest contribution to help Uncle Sam in winning the war. Magnus Swenson, state food administrator, has suggested to Herbert G. Hoover that millers be ordered to manufacture a Liberty flour, containing a stipulated amount of wheat and substitutes, and the national food director has announced that this will be done.

SALARY RAISE MATTER DEFERRED UNTIL MAY

The city council has determined on advice of City Attorney John E. Dayton that it cannot increase the salaries until the making up of the annual budget. A large number of citizens petitioned the council, asking that the pay of firemen be raised $20 a month from their present salary of $80 and that they receive one uniform annually. What action will be taken in May when the budget is made up has not been announced.

USES RIB FOR JAWBONE

PUEBLO, Col., March 7.—William H. Dittolun, a railroad employe of this city, underwent an operation to replace a piece of jawbone that had to be removed following an accident. A piece of rib was substituted and Dittolun's jaw again is perfect.
