The Spendthrift and the Miser Are Plain and Simple Ordinary Fools

There is not even the Flicker of a spark of progress.

They do not deserve and never receive the respect of anybody, even their own kind.

The spendthrift in the whirl of the world never meets a friend; and the miser, in his seclusion is too unocial even to see the reflection of himself.

The spendthrift over pays for everything he buys; he sows, but never harvests.

The miser is a storehouse with many entrances and no exits. He is a receiver, not a distributor.

He and the spendthrift are a menace to society.

The man who is paying rent is hard to classify, but the right kind of a man will create a happy and profitable home anywhere and under all conditions.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS

Born, Thursday, March 19, 1918, to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Arnold, a son. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs. W. E. Dunning, hostess, Christmas afternoon in Twin Falls. Carol Clausman and Hazel Draper spent Wednesday afternoon in Twin Falls.

Mrs. Harlan Stanfield and sister, Miss Elsie Stranger, attended the chautauqua in Hansen on Wednesday afternoon.

The Modestas Ridgeway, John Oke, Stull, Swearingen, and Roxie Guffey spent Friday afternoon in Twin Falls. Roy K. Roderick of Spokane, spent Friday afternoon and evening in Kimberly. Mr. Roderick is Northwest superintendent of Sunday schools in the Christian church.

Miss Hoyle Lewis of Cincinnati, Ohio, spent Friday afternoon and evening in Kimberly in the lecture of the Secondary department of the Christian Sunday school.

Mrs. Carl Ridgeway, and Carrie Beckman attended the Hansen chautauqua Wednesday afternoon.

V. G. Beckman attended the meeting of the state board of the Christian church at Caldwell the early part of the week. Mr. Beckman incidentally visited a couple of days with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Beckman, at Nampa.

W. S. Martin left last Saturday morning for a short business trip in Minnesota.

Mrs. J. E. Shepard has been quite ill with tonsillitis for the past week. She is reported to be improving.

Hans Christian's father arrived this week to spend the summer with his son. Mr. Christian intends to help Mrs. Hudson Christian—ranch south of Kimberly. Mrs. Christian, who has been working in the hotel, expects to go to the ranch, before long.

Jim Lowery left Tuesday for St. Paul, Minnesota, for a short business trip.

Mrs. Graves, mother of Mrs. J. E. Shoppard, arrived on Wednesday from Oklahoma for an extended visit with her daughter.

Mr. McMaster of Twin Falls, brother of Mrs. Noble, spent Thursday in Kimberly. Mr. McMaster was here looking after insurance interests.

E. E. Shedd of Boise, arrived evening for a short business trip to Minneapolis.

Russ Wilson and wife, Art Wilson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Noble, and Frank Wilson attended the Hansen chautauqua Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Neas City, Kansas, arrived Wednesday to make Kimberly their future home. Mrs. Cullor is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graves.

A. J. Stanfield and family moved Saturday into the Hutchison home on Tennessee avenue.

Will Stanley received word from his brother in Oklahoma that the other brother, who had been working in the oil fields near Cushing, Oklahoma, had been shot. There were no particulars sent.

Lee Stuller and W. L. Dunning spent Friday afternoon in Twin Falls. Misses Maile, Diffendaffer, Taylor and Mr. Taylor, spent the week end at Twin Falls.

Clara Sheomaker is staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swearingen, in order that he might take advantage of Dr. Johnson's treatments.

RED CROSS NOTES

The gauze did not arrive in time to have the surgical dressing class until Thursday evening. On account of the chairman being in Hansen the same evening, there were a very few present.

The surgical dressing room had water installed this week. Lewis Beck donated the tank. Atkinson donated the lumber and the Twin Falls Light and Power Co. loaned a heater and donated power to heat the water.

The instructors are taking two lessons a week now to finish up this work as soon as possible.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE HELD

Friday afternoon and evening in the auditorium of the Christian church, was held a most successful conference on Sunday school work, conducted by Roy K. Roderick, northwest superintendent of Sunday schools, and Hazel Lewis, national secondary secretary. These two were here supported by the A. C. M. of St. Albans, Ohio.

In the afternoon Mr. Roderick gave a fine talk along the line of educational standards of council on Sunday schools. His score for having the church board appoint such a council, whose business it would be to superintend the whole, workings and text books, together with solving problems of interest in the various organizations of the local church. The business of such a council was to be ardemocratic one and advisory, not arbitrary in the least.

Miss Lewis then gave an interesting address on the best advantage to put the thirty minute lesson period to.

In the evening there was a good crowd of Sunday school workers and parents. The subject of the hour was departmental organization.

Every one present appreciated the efforts of these two efficient workers.

SMALL SON SHOT

Arnold Danner, thirteen year old son of D. E. Danner, rancher, was accidentally shot in the foot while playing late Friday afternoon. Arnold was working at the ranch of W. D. Grayham when the accident occurred. He had been helping with some hay, when he asked to be relieved for a few seconds. Mr. Grayham told him that he could go with his son, but that they should not go far from his sight with the rifle. The children made for the small creek. In a few seconds young Grayham came back reporting that his companion was shot through the fleshy part of the second toe, on the right foot. Young Danner was at the scene and stocking and was attempting care for the wound when help arrived.

The damage was slight, owing to the fact that the bullet entered between the toes, the fleshy part, and passed slightly backward.

GIRLS CONFERENCE MEETS AGAIN

The Older Girls' Conference of Kimberly will be their regular monthly business meeting on Tuesday evening. Because there will be important business to transact it is earnestly requested that every girl in Kimberly over the age of thirteen, who is interested in pure girlhood and high ideals for the future women of America, be in the best to be present. WILL YOU be there?

BROWN DEATH

Kimberly was very much surprised Sunday when at six o'clock this afternoon the death of Mr. Brown, father of the late Albert Brown of this city, was announced. Mr. Brown has been ailing for some time, but of late had been improving some. His death was a complete surprise to those who knew him. The funeral services will be announced later.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

The city council for their last meeting voted to have three copies made of the city directory. These three copies are to be placed in public places, such as one in the post office, and one in each of the two banks. It is hoped that this will give opportunity to know the contents of these ordinances and profit thereby.

RED CROSS ANNOUNCEMENTS

R. H. Denton, chairman of the Red Cross drive, which was put on last spring, wishes to announce that the pledges made at that time are now due. That the money may be remitted either to the Bank of Kimberly or R. H. Denton personally.

Wheat Price Increase Likely to be Killed

Congressman From Industrial Centers Prepared to Vote Against Increasing Living Cost.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Although the senate has set $2.50 a bushel as the price to be paid for wheat for the 1918 wheat crop, there seemed little possibility today that the house would agree to over riding the president's price of $2.25.

Administration leaders were busy today lining up their adherents against the senate price, but the sentiment of the house even without the activity, was bound to be overwhelmingly against advancing the price. Members whose relatives starve, who are prepared to make a fight for the senate price, are far outnumbered in the house of representatives from industrial centers who will vote against the proposal.

The senate approved $2.50 wheat in an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill already passed by the house.

Chairman Lovers of the house agricultural committee will move early next week to take the bill from the speaker's table and send it to conference.

IT WILL NOT DISCOURAGE The characteristics of America are always manifest when a crisis comes. When experts can will our own selling of the heavy losses of the British as a result of the new offensive of Germany, one might have expected a gloom to prevail. But America, not America can think of nothing but victory. Since she entered the war she has pushed ahead without thought of failure, an American confident expectation that the tide of battle would turn upon her very entrance into the war. But now she finds that realities are more brutal than she dreamed and her expectations are not exactly filled as dreamed. Usually one might expect her to become discouraged and pessimistic, but America, not America of such stuff. Yankee blood is too red and pure for impure, pessimistic thoughts to poison her. Yankee nature is too solid, practical and matter-of-fact.

Thus when Germany shows unusual signs of strength, and enjoys some victory, America does not weaken, but counts the cost and true to her nature merely says, "Well, that means we must buckle down to facts." She looks upon her great resources, her power, her ability, and her multitudes are united in a greater endeavor to make this war a war for liberty and freedom successful. Her people are brought into united action, her enthusiasm is aroused, her hope heightened, her faith is strengthened, because she has been brought face to face with the facts and fundamentals of the issue, and sees that she must do and how she must fight.

It will not discourage our people to learn of these momentary victories of Germany. But let it strengthen us and with that strength, will come courage. We see how slight was their victory for the amount of energy expended, and recognizing our own energy and strength in resources, we will know just how to overcome, and we will know that we can.

When a German boy sees that he is getting wounded, he simply says, "I've got to fight harder," and he does. The result is he never gets shipped. America has never failed.

SUGAR! SUGAR! SUGAR!!

Of course bread, the "staff of life," is primarily more essential than sugar; but in making the comparison for this locality it should all the time be kept in mind that, while wheat can be successfully grown throughout the entire northern part of this continent, sugar beets will grow in only a few favored localities—AND THIS IS ONE OF THE MOST FAVORED FOR THAT PURPOSE!

Another pertinent fact affecting the local situation is the wide-spread allegation that all this agitation for increased sugar beet acreage comes from "the Mormon sugar interests"—
i. e., the mills and those interested therein. Nothing could be further from the truth. Does any one suppose that the two hundred business and professional men who were communicating through the tract yesterday were giving their time and efforts to advance any private interest? Not for a minute! Every person knows or can know, that this movement is being made pursuant to the most urgent and almost desperate demand from the food administration at Washington; and every thinking person knows that these gentlemen are working with purely patriotic intent to help in a great national emergency.

The fact is that our people generally are not fully awake to the situation. If it was the case here—as it soon may be, and already is in many localities—that no one could purchase more than a pound, or a half-pound, of sugar at any one time, we should probably awaken more rapidly, if not altogether pleasantly.

It seems certain, however, that full and clear knowledge of the facts—for which purpose these missionaries are abroad in the land—will prove all that is necessary. Our farmers generally are intensely patriotic; and once fully convinced of the nation's need, they will certainly forget for the present the past greed of the sugar company, now under governmental control, and give their help. A few acres on each farm will meet the requirement, at small risk. The country calls for this just as loudly as it called for men in the army. Don't be a slacker!

"OH, YOU KID!"

The way that this man, Frank R.
Gooding allows himself to be flitted with by Miss Toga Nomination, or at least by her journalistic waiting maids, causes us to fear that he may fall from grace as his friend Senator S. P. Atherton has done, and that he will allow the charmer, or her maids of honor, to entice him to try to elope from his happy home, to live in Uncle Sam's household as if he were one of the G. O. P. elephant want him for an extra Mahout to accompany one of the Misses Nomination in the parade this fall, along with Sahib Borah who has been a steady of the elder sister for some time. And so the journalistic fairies who dance attendance are repeating all sorts of roft things to Francis, in hopes that he will hearken. And he isn't a bit deaf, even if he does pretend to be very indifferent and look off in the opposite direction. Frank is a great kiddie and not lacking in social aspirations so he has not rushed into the parlor and fallen on his knees at the first intimation that the elephant trainers will not throw him out bodily. It is wise to be circumspect in these particulars nowadays, since we have a recrudescence of the theory that the office should seek the man.
The man is not supposed to lock himself in an undiscoverable collar or anything like that; in fact, he may even allow himself to be visible to the naked eye of the close observer, but he is not supposed to be preceded by a herald and a brass band. That sort of thing is not fashionable just now. The game of political flirtation is carried on in more subdued manner, even equally obvious to the oppressed eye. So Francis is a coy kiddie this fall.

One very funny thing about all the love letters that have been delivered by aforesaid maids in waiting of Miss Nomination, is that they convey the same message in almost precisely the same words. This looks discouraging. For when the same message is borne in about the same words by a number of persons, it indicates that they all originate from the same source—and who would send them only Miss Nomination herself? So it looks as if the lady had designs, or if not, at least that the match-makers who have charge of her matrimonial fortunes had designs. One journalistic damsel, all forlorn, up at Boise, suggested a friend, Willisse Martin, as the proper partner for the younger Miss Nomination, but no similar message couched in similar words was repeated.

The little act of coquetry now being played will probably result seriously.
"It is a real case." Take our tip, Miss Toga Nomination, we are giving it to you straight when we say that Frank doesn't have the slightest of you, for all his assumed indifference. He will come through when the proper time arrives and the stock of lozenges with love messages have all been delivered.
The fact that this is not leap year,
need not disconcert you in the least.
He'll pop.

RAILROADS AFTER THE WAR

The question of the operation of the railroads after the war is one that will not down, although congress has passed the measure providing for the return of the property to its owners 21 months after the close of the war.

A discussion has arisen as to whether congress at a future session can legally extend that time. Attorneys for the railroad companies declare that it cannot be done. That the resolution passed by both houses is in the nature of a contract with the railroad owners and that they can compel its execution through the courts.

Congressman Lenroot, of Wisconsin,
now a candidate for the United States senate, declared in debate that a later congress could modify the provisions of the resolution that has been adopted.

Railroad attorneys reply that the railroads were taken over as a war measure and that they must be returned to their owners as soon as possible after the war. These legal men do not deny the right of the country to take the railroads through legal process at any time, but they say that a permanent policy for government ownership must be based on an entirely new agreement, and that they can be taken over by the laws of omnient domain only with the rights of the owners reserved to appeal to the courts for adjustment of the price.

Meanwhile the Public Ownership League has submitted to various members of congress a bill for the taking over immediately of the land and water transportation systems of the country. This measure provides for taking over the roads at a physical valuation basis and that all grants made to the roads by the government, by states, cities or counties, that were obtained "through fraud or corruption of public officials" shall be subtracted from the purchase price and returned to the government, the state, city or county from which they were obtained.

It is declared that this is, morally the first government ownership bill and is submitted as a basis for further proposals along the same line. They are now looking for a congressman to introduce it.

The above excerpt taken from a news letter sent out by the Non-Partisan league, calls attention to a phase of the railroad issue which has been the subject of a great deal of misunderstanding. Waiving the mooted question, whether congress may or may not modify the law under which the roads are to operate, so as to extend the time of government management, it is certain that they cannot constitutionally be held permanently by the government in time of peace without an understanding with the railroads, unless the question of compensation shall have been determined by the courts or mutually agreed upon.

There has been a great deal of mistaken criticism of the government regarding the compensation paid to the roads, and it has been assumed that the nation had the right to take the lines and pay what it pleased, or nothing if it pleased, regardless of direct constitutional provisions covering the taking of privately owned property for public use. The power of the nation to take the roads for war purposes or, for that matter, for peace purposes cannot be questioned, but it must pay for them either the compensation agreed upon by the government and the roads, or the compensation declared fair by the courts.

In order to get the roads under effective operation as soon as possible experts were sent by the government to ascertain by a study of the car-pings of roads, and by consultation with the legal department of the national government, what under the law would be considered a fair compensation. In other words to try to determine the lowest figure at which the nation could secure the railroads for use during the war, without entering a doubtful lawsuit. In this all agreed, and the government, by its commission and other investigating commissions was, of course, available.
From this was figured out the amount which in the opinion of the legal department of government and the interstate commerce commission the courts would, under the law, be justified in awarding, and an effort was made to secure the roads as cheaply

THE spring styles for your sturdy young American are distinctly military in spirit—he wouldn't have anything else in these stirring times. But it's a season to look beyond style. Everyone knows that good fabrics are scarce.

Your best assurance of getting what you pay for is to depend on the integrity of The House of Kuppenheimer, long known by the clothes-wise as headquarters for honest fabrics and exceptionally fine tailoring. Go to your Kuppenheimer store and see the

as there was any hope of getting them through the action of the courts. Of course, the government could proceed to operate the roads, while a law suit was pending, but it could proceed much better if it knew at the start the amount that it would have to pay the owners while operating them. It was not a question as to what would have been equitable had the nation decided with the original builders, or with the matter of constructing its own roads from the start. It was a question of getting as good a financial settlement at once as it could hope to get through regular legal process, and there is every reason to believe that it did get such settlement.

The question whether congress can modify the present contract with the roads is not very material. It is probably unfortunate that the thing was not left open, rather than closed at a definite time, but sooner or later, if we are to have government ownership, and the trend is now in that direction, we must pay for them, either what is agreed upon by the government and the companies or what the courts determine to be equitable.

Except for the arbitrary termination of public management at a definite time, which may hamper the government in its post-war necessities, the railroad bill which was signed Thursday afternoon is a fair and honest piece of legislation.

It must be remembered that the compensation named in the railroad bill is a maximum compensation, and subject to reduction where warranted. As stated by a railroad committee member: "If the president shall conclude that for the past three years some of the railroads have been paying out to their stockholders unwarranted dividends and that therefore the amount they would receive under the provisions of this bill would also be unwarranted, he could deal with that railroad in accordance with the facts and provide for a return in his judgment justifiable."

TWIN FALLS BOASTS THE FINEST BANKING EQUIPMENT IN IDAHO

When the First National Bank of This City Began Business Yesterday in Its Rebuilt and Refurnished Quarters, Its Clients Were Invited into the Most Modernly Equipped, Conveniently Arranged and Luxuriously Furnished Banking House in Idaho, If Not in the Entire Intermountain Country.

The directors of the Twin Falls First National bank hesitated some time before determining to make radical enlargement and improvement in their business house under existing circumstances, and were led to do so by the imperative necessity for more room. Having made the decision, however, they also determined to build for the future as well, and to spare no expense in giving Twin Falls something of which to be proud and to furnish themselves time-saving facilities and their customers not only convenience but the greatest possible security. The entire work was placed in the hands of Messrs. Hoggson Bros., of New York and Chicago, who specialize in designing, building, furnishing and equipping banks, and have evidences of their skill all over the country, north, south, east and west. Including the furniture and equipment, which all new from caspurers to safety vault, and of the most modern and improved type, the bank has expended something over fifty thousand dollars—a large sum, but with a showing of great results.

The work was begun on September 7, 1917, and has progressed continuously ever since, being so skillfully managed by Mr. Robert M. Barnett, who has been in constant charge, that none of the numerous tenants of the building were seriously disturbed at any time—except by the fire last winter, which was in no way connected with the construction. By great effort, the completion was achieved last Saturday, when a room with attractive floral decoration, was opened for public inspection, according to announcement. The many visitors were unanimous in expressions of their approval and commendation. Yesterday (Monday) morning found the bank operatives all installed in their new quarters and business being transacted normally and in perfect order.

The alterations to the banking room have practically doubled the available space. The old store which faced Main street, has been thrown into the banking quarters, resulting in a room forty-eight by sixty-two feet. In addition there are storage rooms and vaults in the basement. Hoggson Brothers, who are the recognized bank planning experts of the country, have given careful consideration to the layout of the banking room, so as to insure the greatest facility and economy of operation, while providing at the same time for the utmost comfort and convenience of the bank's patrons.

The alterations to the exterior include the remodeling of the entire first floor front on Main street, providing a suitable bank facade, with a handsomely designed central entrance of Boise sand stone. This entrance has a double vestibule with three sets of double doors. On the outside are heavy paneled light doors, which give necessary protection during the hours when the bank is closed. Back of these are the double storm doors with single plate glass panels, and on the inside are the in-and-out doors dividing the traffic. The vestibules have marble floors with trim of the same material.

The interior of the bank is beautifully and tastefully decorated, and finished in marble, oak and bronze. There is a commodious public space twenty by forty feet. The terrazzo marble floor is paneled and outlined by double metal borders. The public space is enclosed by handsomely designed marble and bronze counterscreens, the lower portion of which is of Travertine Flouir Italian marble with base of the same material. The upper portion of the counterscreens is of delicately molded and carved bronze pilasters, pierced with telescopic wickets or open bronze grilles, through which business may be transacted.

Special consideration has been given to properly lighting the banking room and working space. A most pleasing effect is obtained by the use of Lincoln light reflectors back of the counterscreens, giving continuous lighting along the whole case opening.

At each wicket is installed a Florida sign of special design in brass, on which is etched the designation of the case, which, by means of light from overhead, reflected through the glass, is thrown in distinct relief. The space set aside for the officers' back of a low wall is to the rear of the officers' quarters is a cage for notes and collecting and one for deposit business. Entrance across the public space at its rear, and facing the entrance, and the three cages for the tellers' cages and exchange cage is an open railing and enclosed office for the assistant cashier. On the Shoshone street side, where the best natural light is obtainable, and back of the cages, is the working space equipped with modern labor saving devices to expedite the routine business of the bank.

A concrete vault structure has been built from the foundation up through the banking room, independent of the building construction, all vaults are on their own foundation. This concrete work affords space in the basement for storage of old books and records, and on the first floor for safe deposit boxes and fund cases. The door to the security vault is eight inches thick, composed of steel reinforcing chrome non-burnable and open heart steel for tensile strength. It is a massive affair, and with the frame actually weighs nearly five tons. The equipment includes modern locking and locking devices, such as a continuous train of bolts, double pressure bar system, goose-neck pattern crane hinges, heavy bolt frame, glass cover case, double combination locks and three movement time locks. The vestibule to this vault has a heavy day gate to guard the vault during business hours when the door is open. The interior of the vault is divided by a heavy steel grille into compartments for the bank's funds, receptacles and customers safe deposit boxes. These compartments have an up-to-date equipment of heavy steel doors, bronze hinges, double master key guard lock and inside tin bond cases. The book vault has a full assortment of metal filing devices to accommodate the bank's checks, deposit tickets, books and record correspondence.

A large room for the directors and for committee meetings has been provided at the rear of the Shoshone street side. Ample locker and retiring room facilities have been provided for the working force. Special attention has been given to the women patrons of the bank. A private room has been provided for their use in the front of the bank, at the left of the vestibule. This room is decorated in grey enamel to match the furniture, consisting of easy chairs, writing table and other conveniences.

The remodelled building, with its enlarged quarters, will afford ample accommodations for the steadily increasing volume of business of the bank, and will give it the equal of any like office in the west as regards safety, convenience and elegance.

GRADUARY'S THREAT OF P. J. HENEY INK. C.

WOULD INDICT PACKERS FOR FAILURE TO PRODUCE THE BOOKS

Scoffs at Official Ignorance

Packers Alleged to be Trying to Conceal Records While Seeking to Control the Prices of Hides in Market.

KANSAS CITY MO., March 24.—With a show of anger, Francis J. Heney, attorney for the federal trade commission, in a hearing here threatened the Kansas City Stockyards company with a criminal action and to produce its financial records and books for inspection of the commission's agents within a week. It was "the first time an investigator of the packing industry and allied business interests had lost his knowledge," said W. H. Weeks, assistant manager and director of the Kansas City Stockyards company was on the stand.

"Where do you keep the minute books of your company?" Heney demanded. "I don't know anything about them," was the reply.

"Well, the commission wants to see those books and wants you to produce them," said the attorney. "They tell me that the books are in Boston and they tell us there that they are here. Now, where are they?" The stockyards official still professed ignorance.

The fact that packers are trying to control trade in hides and wool along with the other businesses connected with the livestock industry was apparently aimed at in questioning Fred J. Garland, a retail butcher of Wellington, Kansas. Garland said he was selling 12 cents a pound for hides now.

Small Raider Is Caught Near Mexico

German Ship Made No Resistance When Overhauled by the American Gunboat.

A PACIFIC PORT, March 23.—The capture, by a United States gunboat of a tiny German raider, Alexander Agassiz, off the lower California coast today brought to light a new and more German intrigue and activity that is flourishing in Mexico.

The German raider, flying the flag of the United States navy, was sighted off Mazatlan Tuesday morning. The Agassiz, heavily armed and carrying a crew of five, made no attempt to resist when the American gunboat was overhauled.

Officials at Mazatlan are said to be implicated by the federal investigation which was started as soon as news of the capture was flashed by wireless. A number of significant events which led the United States warship to overhail the little boat, were the fact that the Agassiz changed her register while lying in Mazatlan harbor, and raising the German flag, left port with a number of rapid-fire guns on board.

A draft evader from California is said to be the ringleader of the Agassiz movement, and is backed by a tiny German syndicate at Mazatlan, which place is considered the center of German intrigue. This man is reported to have purchased the Agassiz from the Pacific Trading and Shipping company of Los Angeles.

Members of his company, as filed in the bill of sale at the time the craft was sold by the agents of the University of California, included Francis C. Wheeler, Maud M. Lochrane, and William Taylor. None of these persons is believed to be implicated in the outfitting of the Agassiz.

Secret Service Men Active in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 23.—Events in the "barely neutral city" as Socialist Mayor Hoen and Socialist Victor Berger insist upon calling it, are rushing toward a smashing climax. It may be a riot, bloodshed, terror or it may be the wholesale arrest of sedition. The whole state of Wisconsin is awaiting eagerly the result of the meeting of the Wisconsin Loyalty Legion which is to appoint a committee to discuss the retirement of either the Republican or Democrat candidate which Mr. Berger shall have no opportunity to be elected.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who announced today that he had been sent away by President Wilson to stir Wisconsin to its duty, probably will make speeches throughout the state, especially in the strongly pro-German districts.

If either Joseph E. Davies, Democrat, or Irvine L. Lenroot, Republican, agree to withdraw from the race, it seems certain the other will be elected.

Nine secret service operatives were rushed to this city today, as a result, it is said of the "barely neutral city" quest for the removal of several attaches of the department of justice who have been inclined toward suspected German sympathizers.

TOO MUCH GIN PATAL CHICAGO, March 23.—Thirty drinks of gin and ale were consumed for Aconiallo Lakerelli. He tried it the other night and died before physicians could arrive.

ROBINSONS

REGARDING EASTER SUNDAY AND BOYS

MOST every boy will want a new suit for Easter Sunday, and to those boys who need one I just want to say come here and take a look and then go home and tell the folks, or better still, ask the folks to come in with you.

Splendid suits are here for you—made from good quality strong material; good style, with the many little things such as belt loops, watch pocket, buttoned down coat pockets, buttoned coats, pants lined throughout, with faded insams to prevent ripping.

BOYS' KNEE PANTS

Does the boy need a pair of pants to finish out the coat of his suit? I have them here in cassimere, wool and worsted; also the kind that launder, in crash, chevot and khaki. Prices Right.

SHOES FOR THE BOYS

IT is truly remarkable how our trade on boys' shoes has grown but when one thinks of the values I am giving it is no wonder. The good looking kind, made from all leather—good quality—the sort that wears well, the kind the boys like, too. "Come on in boys."

SHOES FOR THE FAMILY

THE sale of shoes in this store was started in response to a rather insistent demand on the part of my regular customers, but I had no thought of its becoming the important part of the store trade that it has. There are many who count on buying all their shoes here. There must be a good reason.

LADIES' WASH WAISTS

YOU will wonder how we can, and why we do, give such wonderful values in our LADIES' LINEN WAISTS at ONE DOLLAR. They are good quality, newest styles, smart looking. They come in plain, stripes and plaids, in all white and attractive combination of colors. You will surely say, BE MARKABLE. How can you do it? Just come in, see the new lot just in by express, and remember only one dollar each.

KIMONOS

The new and really beautiful creations we are showing in crepe de chine and satin kimonos are delights to look at. Splendid quality, wonderfully attractive, and moderately priced, considering the quality.

A new lot of those colored peticotats at $1.25 are here for those who want an undershirt that looks like silk, in the shades so much in demand.

A wonderful collection of the new things in children's hats for boys and girls. Some for the "little tots" and plenty for the "bigger ones."

I. W. W. Denied Name of Union

United States Attorney Says It Is Simply a Revolutionary Body Waging War.

CHICAGO, March 23.—The I. W. W. is not a labor organization but a revolutionary body, bent upon overthrowing all the institutions of the United States government, declared United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne in his reply today to the petition of the I. W. W. for the return of papers, seized by the government in a raid on headquarters here November 14. Clyne charged the organization with having as one of its prime aims the overthrow of the United States government, and that the organization that all the departments of the government are more capricious institutions whose total destruction would be the principal ultimate purpose of said organization; that failure in war would hasten the final consummation desired by them.

Utah Is Slated for the Next Big Oil Excitement

DEVELOPMENTS are indicating that some portions of this state are underlain with pools of "liquid wealth," and that Utah may soon take her place alongside Wyoming, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas as an oil producer.

The great fortunes in oil have been made by those who were in on the discovery and development of properties. Once the production is proven, holdings usually take on such values that profits are necessarily smaller.

The DIXIE OIL COMPANY has holdings in southern Utah, on which OIL HAS BEEN DISCOVERED IN SUBSTANTIAL QUANTITIES, and it is a HIGH GRADE OIL.

We announced to some of our Twin Falls Friends that we were developing this property and that we wanted them to come in with us and share in the anticipated profits.

We have had so many requests for further information that we have decided to send our representatives into that territory for a few days to answer these inquiries direct.

Our salesmen, Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Andrews are here now, and have a quantity of our HIGH GRADE OIL DIRECT FROM OUR WELLS, and a miniature refining plant with which they will demonstrate for you how to EXTRACT GASOLINE, KEROSENE AND FUEL OIL FROM THE CRUDE PRODUCT.

You can see with your own eyes that we can save over 75 per cent by ordinary distillation.

Demonstrations evenings—7:30 to 10 or any time by request.

Dixie Oil company is your own home folks.

help from the outside which has already been arranged for, to take care of the beet crop.

Every thing within or without the state whose activities are hindering the planting and care of the increased sugar beet acreage as indicated by the above mentioned pro-German and will be dealt with accordingly.

The activities of the pro-German are seen in unduly regarding the so-called labor shortage on the farms, particularly with reference to the beet fields. The sugar factories are operated largely under government directions.

Bill Permitting Medal Wearing Dead

Bled—Deep on the Calendar of the House—Daniels Thinks We Should Honor Our Own Men

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The house this afternoon buried the bill to permit medals and decorations of foreign countries, far down in the calendar with little hopes of its passage, but up for consideration at this session.

Chairman Padgett of the naval affairs committee said Secretary Daniels had introduced the bill on the ground that American fighting men should look only to their own country for reward for fighting nobly.

Warn Agitators to Drop Interference

Interference With Production Program Will Lead to Branding Disturbers as Pro-Germans

The following warning, headed, "Agitators Beware—Idaho Will Produce and Sell Its Own Food," was received here yesterday:

Those interested with the responsibility of insuring the Gem State war activities will tolerate no further interference with the production program.

Idaho has a sacred duty to perform. The Government needs will be fully met and every community must untidily sustain the state's war program. The Government's interest was recently issued from Boise.

"Sugar is seriously needed by our Government. Idaho has been asked to increase its sugar production. It must be done.

"The indications are that sufficient labor is available, supplemented with boundary line of Twin Falls County, Idaho, near the center of Section 23 in Township 9 South of Range 16 East, Boise Meridian, where the North and South corners of Section 23 intersects the said North line of Twin Falls County.

The center of half section line 10 miles, more or less to the center of Section 11 in Township 11, South of Range 10 East B. M.; thence west, 10 miles, more or less to the center of Section 12 in Township 11, South of Range 10 East Boise Meridian.

The center of half section line one mile, more or less, to the center of Section 13 in Township 11—South of Range 10 East of Boise Meridian.

The center of half section line 3 miles, more or less to the center of Section 15 in Township 11 South of Range 10 East Boise Meridian.

The center of half section line 2 miles, more or less, to the center of Section 28 in Township 11 South of Range 10 East Boise Meridian.

Thence West on half section line 2 miles, more or less, to the center of the Salmon River, thence a east westerly direction, along the channel of the Salmon River, to the junction with the Snake River; thence in a Northwesterly direction, along Snake River, to the Northwest corner of Twin Falls County; thence, South, along the west line of Twin Falls County, to the Nevada State line; thence East along the common boundary line of Idaho and Nevada, 35 miles, more or less, to the center of the County of Twin Falls County; thence following the common boundary between Twin Falls and Blaine Counties, to the center of the Northern corner of Twin Falls County; thence in a general northwesterly direction, along the course of the Snake River, to the point of beginning.

The electors at said election shall be required to cast ballots which shall be in the form of "Twin Falls Highway District—Yes" or "Twin Falls Highway District—No" or words equivalent in meaning, more or less, to the above, and the place of the actual voting places in said districts are as follows:

All electors at the election precinct residing within the proposed territory shall vote at the regular polling place in Twin Falls Precinct No. 6.

All electors at the election precinct residing in the proposed district shall vote at the regular polling place in Twin Falls Precinct No. 3.

"Line Will Hold" Says General Wood

Wants 5,000,000 Men Raised at Once—Says We Lack Enough Aviators on the Western Front

WASHINGTON, March 25.—"The British line will hold."
This was the assurance given by Major General Leonard Wood to the senate military affairs committee in executive session this afternoon. However, General Wood believed that the British had been compelled to fall back faster than they had expected, basing this supposition on the number of guns captured by the Germans. Referring to the "super-gun" which is reported to have shifted Paris from a distance of more than seventy miles, General Wood was inclined to be skeptical. It such a gun existed, he said, it was a Frank and would not be effective in actual hostilities.
An army of five million men must be raised by the United States was the positive declaration of General Wood, who has just returned from the front, before the senate military affairs committee in executive session this afternoon. Of this number from two to two and a half million must be sent to the front with the least possible delay.
General Wood told the committee that there was disappointment in Europe over results accomplished by the United States so far, but he attributed that to failure by the allied people to realize the state of unpreparedness the United States found itself in when the war was forced upon us.
It behooves the United States to get more men to France and as fast as possible, General Wood told the committee, for the allies are greatly outnumbered in man strength on the western front, he said. He declared that we have 1,000 aviators on the front, but not a single United States biplane machine. "The French have not enough fliers and the German airmen hold the supremacy of the air over the American lines, he said. Often they fly so low that the Americans are able to take "pot shots" at them with special revolver.
General Wood also recommended that training in open warfare be taken up in the cantonments here. "If by any chance the Germans should breakthrough, trench methods of warfare would not prove entirely effective, he believes.
The artillery situation is that, General Wood said, the French being in a position to furnish enough for the needs of the sectors which have been given over to the American troops.

ANGLO-FRENCH LINE UNBROKEN

evacuated by the French, the war office stated today.
The French firmly held the left bank of the Oise river, however, (Noyon lies north of the Oise river and it was in that district that the French took over a part of the British line to the west.)
Violent fighting was in progress all night along the Noyon-Chauny line. The Germans increased their attacks in the Noyon and Oise river sector, but suffered heavy losses as they massed columns under the fire of the French machine guns and artillery.
"The battle continued with great violence throughout the night, the Germans increasing their attacks along the whole of the Chauny-Noyon front," the official communique said.
"French infantry was officially supported by their artillery and air resistance to the German attacks greatly hampered the operations they attempted.
"The enemy suffered heavy losses all along the whole front.
"During the night the French evacuated Noyon but the movement was carried out in perfect order.
"We still firmly hold our positions on the left bank of the Oise river."

AMSTERDAM, March 25.—All of Germany's foremost leaders with the possible exception of Field Marshal von Mackensen, are now on the western front. German headquarters are said to be established temporarily at St. Quentin.

In addition to the Kaiser and the German crown prince, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, General von Ludendorff and a host of lesser generals are on the western front between the Aisne river and the North sea. Tanks, evidently copied from the British cars, are being used by the Germans in the fighting southwest of St. Quentin, said a despatch from Berlin today. It was stated that the German military authorities were delighted with the results achieved by their tanks.

LONDON, March 25.—The French have extended the portion of the line which they took over along the southern end of the battle zone. Field Marshal Haig reported that fresh French troops were arriving in the sectors of Guiseard and Neale, both of which are now in the hands of the Germans.
(The French war office announced on Monday that French troops had relieved the British on that part of the battle front lying in the Noyons sector. Noyons is about five miles south of the Guiseard-Neale district.) Violent infantry fighting and heavy bombardments continue along the fifty-mile battle front with the exception of the German pressure now centered in the district between Baupenne and the Oise river.

The Germans, using vast forces of troops, are trying to advance to the westward of Guiseard, along the road from Neale to Royo-towards Chaunes from Poronne and on the road from Baupenne to Poronne.

Great quantities of German artillery have been moved to the front to support the solid columns of infantry. In fact, the Germans, in their present drive, have established a new record in regard to the nearness with which the artillery is kept to the firing line.

Desperate fighting is reported in the district west of the Somme river between the Noyons heights and Peronne.

The German crown prince is in command of the German troops north of Peronne and it is evident from reports that the German war office that extraordinary efforts are being made to achieve a victory for his army in order to remove the bitter military reputation that resulted from the Verdun failure. The losses attending the attacks of the crown prince's army are said to be appalling.

The German tactics of sending the troops into the battle fire in massed formations has cost them staggering losses in the fighting which has continued night and day since the offensive opened last Thursday morning. A conservative estimate places the German casualties at between 300,000 and 350,000 men.

The Germans claim the capture of 45,000 allied prisoners of war, but even that number of prisoners on the western front fighting is out of proportion to German losses.

Tanks are playing the same important part in the battle of Picardy that they did in the battle of Cambrai. The reports of the British war office that fresh British divisions supported by numerous tanks were thrown into the fighting around Cambrai.

In Baupenne by the Germans wiped out small British salient which lay southeast of the city, so that now the battle line is a straight line from Combles northward to the Scarpe river.

A violent struggle is raging in the Combles sector, with the Germans trying to penetrate the British front in the direction of Albert.
The German war office claims that the British have been driven back in the Baupenne-Peronne district to the old positions which they occupied two years ago and that the German advance continues. However, the French are meeting with the utmost resistance and it is announced that fresh troops and new supplies of guns are on their way to reinforce the battle-weary heroes of Old England.

judging from the German claims, the Kaiser's army have advanced from 12 to 15 miles in certain districts of their offensive zone since the battle opened, six days ago. According to the German war office reports, the fighting was now being carried on north of the Oise river half way between Noyons and Chauny.

The German war office insists that the British have been driven back in the Baupenne-Peronne district to the old positions which they occupied two years ago and that the German advance continues. However, the French are meeting with the utmost resistance and it is announced that fresh troops and new supplies of guns are on their way to reinforce the battle-weary heroes of Old England.

Washington advices stated that General Pershing had reported that two regiments of American engineers are with the British armies engaged in the giant battle of Picardy. Three companies of the engineers were said to be working in the Crozat canal zone of the fighting, where the Germans reported a furious struggle raging yesterday.

The German advance at points where progress has been made, is slow considering the superior number of men and guns they have brought into the fray and the stupendous expenditure of ammunition. In the Crozat canal zone thousands of German guns go into action with their roar shaking the earth for miles as though an earthquake was raging.

It is held that Field Marshal Haig has made preparations for strong counter attacks and that the advanced German positions will soon be driven back, along with the British and French troops in the Guiseard district.

General Pershing advised that the British commander in chief of the front, indicating that the German forces which were started Monday morning continued far into the night. It has been the custom of the Germans in their present drive to use the heaviest troops throughout the day in a series of attacks, replacing them at night with fresh holdiers for a continuation of the attacks after darkness has fallen.

The British commander in chief said that the fighting over broad sectors of the front was "of the most severe description." This was especially so of the fighting to the north and south of Baupenne and south of Peronne.

In the Baupenne sector the Germans are fighting for elevated ground, while south of Peronne they are trying to establish their position on the Somme river.

It was south of Peronne that heavy British counter attacks succeeded in flinging the Germans from the western to the eastern bank on Sunday night.

Field Marshal Haig spoke of fresh German troops which had been brought up to the front, but their onslaught was met with gallant resistance by the brave British forces.

LONDON, March 25.—The critical point of the battle of Picardy is approaching.
A big reserve army is being held behind the allies rear and advices from the front indicate that a strong counter offensive against the Germans might be expected soon.

The English forces now hold strongly fortified positions all along the front and are in a strategic position to send their fresh troops into the fray at any time.

It is understood that there are American troops in the allied reserve army.

AMERICAN STAFF CONFIDENT

floors here say they are establishing new records. It is believed here that they must have put into use a new sort of gun of an extremely mobile type—immense as it is apparent from the reports that the artillery at all times almost on the heels of the infantry advance.

The German artillery now is being used out against the British forward positions east of Royo and Albert. Along this line the allied forces can be expected to hold, officials say, unless some unexpected disaster occurs.

A minority of officers here believe that the first German objective may have been gained and that they can now be expected to try to consolidate their captured positions and endeavor to hold them.

At the French and British embassies officials say that their dispatches indicate no very important changes. They are still, supremely confident that the British will fall of the offensive. All of today's messages emphasized the enormous German losses which are far out of proportion to the success gained.

This afternoon a very lengthy dispatch was received from General Haaker H. Bliss, chief of staff and the commanding general of the supreme war council at Versailles. This message reviewed at great length all of the developments along the western front. None of the information which it contained was made public.

Officers who were in position to know the contents of the message, while declining to be quoted, declared that it was very plain that while the situation was grave because of the British losses, the fall of the offensive, it was likewise even more plain that disaster was not here. All agreed that a turning point will be reached in the fall of the weight of the Anglo-French counter offensive will be manifest.

The termination of the world's greatest battle is still far from being in sight. All advices reaching here over night and today and indicated this fact. The German offensive, which has slackened in the face of the stubborn Anglo-French resistance, again was increasing in volume at certain points, these reports say. At other places the forces of the allies were holding on while endeavoring to move up badly needed supplies from the rear.

While only meager information was obtainable here as to the British plans for the defense officials said that the British lines will be held, but they will fall back there is to be no retreat, would be reached. The permanent position, it is known here, are held by enormous numbers of reserve forces, who have as yet had no part in the terrible struggle. These forces will be utilized as the proper time reports reaching here say, and it is expected that they will materially change the battle outlook.

General Pershing today regarding the participation of American forces in the struggle. Only two regiments of engineers—railway and forestry workers—are involved. There also are three companies of engineers in the vicinity of the Crozat canal, who, it is announced, have been in the thick of the fighting. Such information as the American commander in chief makes directly can be made public here. The confidential information showing the progress of the struggle which is received by him from the British and French commanders in chief is transmitted simply for the information of President Wilson, the acting secretary of war and the general staff. It is plain evidence from the general feeling of optimism which is in evidence at the White House and the war department that the news at least is reassuring. It is understood that all the reports emphasize that it will be entirely possible to hold the designated strategic line when it is reached regardless of the number of men which the Germans may throw into action.

The apparent heavy losses in men and guns which the British have sustained, if the German figures are accurate, and no one here is disposed to question them, is not a serious disaster, officials say. These men have had to be sacrificed by being ordered to hold certain advanced positions until actually overwhelmed. The guns were sacrificed in the same manner, the time gained for distributing the forces which had been withdrawn being worth more than either the men or the guns, the officers declared.

The developments in the west have done much to speed up the American war preparations. At every cantonment in the country where troops are assembled awaiting transfer overseas, the officers commanding are pushing their subordinates to the limit so that there can be no delay in getting them across.

Many of the divisions are now ready to take their places on the firing line and nothing will be allowed to interfere with their transfer overseas. Compulsory military training sentiment and plans for a greatly increased national army have been greatly advanced by the German offensive. The majority of senators and representatives are now seriously considering reversing their position which has been that the draft plans were big enough and are discussing further measures to give the nation more men, and still more men for the task confronting it, action during this time in the near future is confidently expected.

PEACE RESTS WITH AMERICA SAYS JAP
NEW YORK, March 25.—Peace rests with America and the coming of peace, through victory, depends upon how deeply America goes into the war, Lieutenant General Chikushi, head of the Japanese military mission declared here today on the eve of a tour of the west.
"As a soldier I cannot discuss peace without victory," he said. Japan, Chikushi said, is prepared to co-operate with America in every possible way.
General Chikushi planned to visit West Point today and depart tomorrow for Philadelphia, Chicago and several weeks' tour of many western cities.

DANCES JIGS AT 102
LACROSSE WITH, March 25.—Tom Edwards, of Viola, Crawford county, who is 102 years old, can dance a jig and hurl a chair with greater ease than most men of thirty. He attributes his longevity to the fact that, he never worries, has never drunk anything stronger than sweet cider and has never used tobacco. He confesses a weakness for candy.
