French and Belgian Quar- ters Incensed Over Pref- erence of Geneva—Pre- ferred Brussels.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, April 11.—The league of nations committee adopted its decision today in favor of the location of the permanent headquarters of the league in Geneva, and the French and Belgian quarters in Brussels.

PARIS, April 11.—Bitter criticism has been aroused in French and Belgian quarters over the choosing of Geneva as the capital of the league of nations.

"You will not dare to choose a city as the capital of the league of nations which incurs the enmity between France and Belgium," said the Belgian minister of foreign affairs.

Wilson Is Blamed.
The selection of Geneva as the seat of the league of nations was made despite the plea of Paul Hymans, Belgian minister of foreign affairs, who urged the league to have its headquarters in Brussels.

"Had I known, Paris, Rome or Washington were considered," said Mr. Hymans. "I would have had drawn with good grace."

Had I known, Paris, Rome or Washington were considered," said Mr. Hymans. "I would have had drawn with good grace."

When the vote was taken for Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Italy, with two votes each, and Belgium, France, and Poland each with one vote, the French and Belgian vote was cast for Brussels.

"The feeling of bitterness against Americans which previously had been indicated, became more pronounced today along the boulevard and in the chamber of deputies."

"17-YEAR LOUST" DUE IN THIS YEAR

MOST MYSTERIOUS INSECT KNOWN TO SCIENTISTS WILL INVADE LARGE PART OF THE UNITED STATES

(Figured by the U. S. Department of Agriculture)

The most interesting insect in the world, the periodical cicada, is going to sweep perhaps in very large numbers during the coming spring and early summer over large regions of the United States where this brood has not appeared before for 17 years and over other regions where another brood appeared only once. This insect, commonly referred to as the "17-year locust," is a name that is incorrect in at least two particulars. It is not a locust at all, that name being properly applied only to members of the grasshopper family. It is not a 17-year insect, for it has a 13-year period, but it is so long as to be called by the name of locust, however, that there is no hope of diverting it of that incorrect appellation, and in the regions where there is the longer period of recurrence it will continue to be known as the "17-year locust," and in the areas of the shorter recurrence period as the "13-year locust." This scientific nomenclature of periodical cicada, therefore, is the only one that exactly fits.

The statement that this is the most interesting insect in the world will hardly be questioned anywhere, and it is the most interesting because it is the most anomalous or, possibly, because it has always appeared to be so mysterious. The fact that it appears in countless numbers one year, then it does not appear again for half the average lifetime of human beings, and then suddenly appears again in countless numbers, is a fact that has long attracted the attention of the human mind and has won many enthusiasts about the world. When it is known that the insects spend the 13 or 17 years in slow development beneath the ground and emerge at almost exactly the same time, it is not surprising that the mystery of their life before they appear has attracted the attention of the human mind. One of the most interesting things in nature is that the life of some of the most common insects is so long that it is almost the same amount.

Every locust, it is in some sort, a year or two and it appears to have been a year or two, and has remained so with their civilized successors, notwithstanding the fact that the cicada has been known for thousands of years, and the appearance of the swarms are foretold by entomologists as accurately as swarms of locusts are foretold by entomologists. People are so fond of the cicada that they have collected it in the past, and it is so common that it is almost a pest. The cicada is a very long and some specimens attached to the dark bars of the flying wings. These bars are of varying lengths, and are in the shape of the letter W, but few people remember that through a period of 13 or 17 years, a great significance is attached to it at each recurrence. Some people have been known to announce that the W on the locust is a "W" for "war." Since this outbreak will come just at the conclusion of the great war, and when even the imagination of the rural prophet could hardly conceive of the locusts, it is not surprising that the cicada will apparently have a "W" on its wings. But do not do this, as it is not a "W" on its wings, but a "W" on its wings, and it is not a "W" on its wings, but a "W" on its wings.

Arrival of Vessels at Murmansk Expected to Stop Mutinies. American U. S. Troops.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 11.—Arrival of the American troops at Murmansk and Chibok at Murmansk, reported today in the Associated Press dispatch, is expected to bring to a close the situation among American troops in the Archangel region, a company of which ten days ago refused to go to the front until their arguments were presented by their officers. The vessel carrying the troops, the U. S. S. "Albatross," is expected to arrive in the Archangel region, and two companies of railway engineers, General Richardson and the engineers were ordered to Murmansk at the time it was decided to withdraw the entire Allied force in northern Russia and their arrival is expected to reassure the American troops and prevent any spread of the mutiny.

No further information as to the mutiny was heard today by the war department. It remains to be seen whether the mutiny will spread to other parts of the front. The mutiny was reported by the British press as a "mutiny" and not as a "rebellion" and no far as could be learned, the department had no additional advice. The specific purpose of the sending of the two additional companies of American railway engineers has been explained by Secretary Baker to the military committee of congress last February, was to keep open the railroad from Murmansk south to a point near the White Sea. This line, he said, was regarded as vital by the British for the movement of supplies or reinforcements.

TWIN FALLS IS CLEAN. Twin Falls is a clean city—clean morally, clean in civic life. There are those who transgress. These are to be found in all communities. But the temper and the will of the civic community is clean.

There is less disorder in Twin Falls than in any other city in the northwest. Yet Twin Falls is suffering from a spasm of the professionally perfect. Those who have beams in their own eyes are seeking to cast mud at their neighbors—for political effect.

These platitudinous agitators may arouse passion, may give the fair city a bad name outside, may drive away people and disgust those who remain.

But nevertheless, Twin Falls is a whole some and clean place in which to live. All the people of Twin Falls are not good. Neither are any of the people of Twin Falls perfect. But Twin Falls as a city is clean in its civic life, wholesome as a place in which to live and with the best city in all Idaho. And Twin Falls understands that we can not saw wood with a hammer.

LEAGUE CONSTITUTION CONSTITUTIONAL. One of the most impressive arguments made against the league of nations constitution is that it conflicts with the Constitution of the United States.

It is not right that those who should make the decision stay at home and then complain of the outcome.

There is something distinctly appealing in the chief's suggestion. Every Boy Scout and every Camp-Fire Girl would rejoice in such a day added to their red letter calendar.

The U. S. senate committee appointed to investigate Bolshevism propaganda in this country has had before it a great mass of "literature" authored by agents of the department of justice.

The collection is described as "documentary evidence of the indisputable spread of Bolshevism propaganda in the United States by well-paid emissaries of Lenin and Trotsky."

WILSON MUST DECIDE PRICE CONTROVERSY

Railroads and Industrial Board's Dispute is Bashed by Chief Executive.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 11.—The government's attempt to stabilize prices and stimulate industry through the industrial board of the department of commerce may wait on word from President Wilson.

Secretary Hatfield, after two conferences today with Chairman Peck of the board, Assistant Secretary Sweet, and Solicitor Thurman called the president's statement of the industrial board's refusal to accept new steel prices announced by the board, on the ground that they were too high. The secretary asked the president to indicate whether the board's statement at once or continue to show indifference at once or continue to exist until the president's return from Paris and a policy can be formulated.

Director General Hines also is understood to have called the president a statement of his work in the dispute and in a statement said the matter had come to the question of whether the railroad administration should advance prices believed to be excessive—a question which he had decided in the affirmative.

No request was made by Secretary Hatfield for a decision on the differences between Mr. Peck and Mr. Hines. The secretary emphatically said it was not and never had been the purpose of the board to force any government purchasing agency to accept the prices arranged by it. Until the president replies, the board will remain quiescent. No conference will be held with representatives of industries and no new prices on lumber, brick, cement and other commodities which have been under consideration will be announced.

Director General Hines in his statement tonight not only criticized the board's "insistence" that the railroad administration buy at the agreed prices, but also said that the board "has never proposed the prices as being prices below which the general public ought not to expect to buy during the rest of the calendar year." The director general said that Mr. Peck's alarm that the steel interests of the country might be subjected to "unwarrantable buying power" of the railroad administration was unwarranted. "After all," he said, "the statement, 'the matter comes down to the question of whether the railroad administration give official approval to a scale of steel prices which it believes are excessive, and I have to decide that question in the negative.'"

CROOKS AND FOOLS

The American people, called spendthrifts by the rest of the world, were taught the remarkable lesson of thrift in the four Liberty Loan campaigns which were held before the signing of the Armistice. Sixty million. Thirty million of persons who had never spent a penny in their lives are now holding Liberty Bonds bought on the installment plan. If you have bought a Liberty Bond, you are not the best investment in the world. Every day people who have paid hard earned money for their bonds are trading them for worthless pieces of paper at different rates. These stocks will never give them a cent of dividend. They are investing their money in a most foolish bubble. Don't let yourself be led astray by people earned yellow-back certificates that has no guarantee of value and is only supported by gilt-edged promises. Before you relinquish your Liberty bond be certain that you have a better investment. If you follow this rule you will probably keep your bond.

LEAGUE GETS LABOR PLANS FOR ACTION

Conference Report With Text of Covenant Are Submitted.

SEEK TO EQUALIZE WORLD'S WORK DAY

Peace Conference Asked to Incorporate Covenant in Final Peace Pact Adopted.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, April 11.—The report of the commission on international labor legislation containing a draft convention, creating a permanent organization for promoting international regulation of labor conditions, recommendations for an international labor conference and detailed labor terms to be inserted in the peace treaty was presented this afternoon at the plenary session of the peace conference.

The report aims to provide against the worst of labor conditions by permitting free competition after the war and a permanent international labor bureau and a regular international labor conference.

The commission appointed at the plenary session of the peace conference January 11 consisted of fifteen members, representing the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Cuba, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Thirty-five meetings were held and the report finished March 24.

At the plenary session on April 11, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, acted as general chairman.

The entire consideration of the conference centered in the matter that international labor legislation should not only be based on social justice.

Plans for Conference. The international labor conference is to meet at least once annually and consist of four representatives from each state, including two representing the government, one representing employers and one the workers. Each delegation may have two advisers, one of whom must be a woman. When questions affecting women are under discussion the voting shall be individual.

The procedure of the conference. Employers and employees must be able to express their views with complete freedom and frankness. If the conference is fully to be representative of all concerned with international labor legislation, it should be held in a neutral country.

The first meeting is recommended for next October at Washington. The program will embrace the principle of the eight-hour day and the 48-hour work prevention of unemployment.

The conference's program includes: (1) The establishment of a permanent international labor office in a neutral country; (2) the collection and distribution of information on the international adjustment of conditions of labor; (3) the study of the conditions which it is proposed to bring before the conference; the conduct of special investigations ordered by the conference; the preparation of agendas for the conference; the publication of the reports in the French, English and other languages and generally to act as a clearing house on matters of international labor.

This office is to be controlled by a governing body of twenty-four members, to be divided into two groups, selected by the governments, each elected by delegates at a conference representing employers and workers respectively.

Machinery also has been provided by which a standing committee should be authorized to make recommendations to the international labor office, which governing body may communicate with the state committees in connection with the preparation of correspondence and the publication of reports, which the committee probably would create representative of the world.

The governing body also has provided for the publication of the report of nations to appoint a commission of inquiry to investigate the reports and recommend appropriate legislation if desired.
