Summary of The International Situation

By the Associated Press. Paris, May 2.—The Belgian delegation to the peace conference is expressing dissatisfaction over the terms of the preliminary peace pact as they affect Belgium. None of the territorial claims of Belgium has been granted, except those for Metz, in the Rhineland Prussia, the population of which before the war was largely Walloon. Malmedy will be restored to Belgium. The territory on the left bank of the Scheidt river and Maasroff and the Limbourg peninsula are not mentioned in the terms.

Of the $500,000,000 already mentioned as an immediate financial indemnity for Belgium, more than half of the amount has already been placed to Belgium's credit in Allied countries as part payment of war loans. No provision has been made for the recall by Germany of the six billion marks which were left in Belgium and now lies in Belgium banks and vaults, bearing no interest and unproductive. The creation of the mark in Belgium is not permitted.

DEMAND RUMANIANS LEAVE BESSARABIA

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 2.—The Russian soviet government has sent an ultimatum to Rumania, demanding the evacuation of Bessarabia. Bessarabia is a former Russian province populated mostly by Rumanians and to which Rumania has laid claim. On the retirement of the Germans after the signing of the armistice Rumanian troops occupied Bessarabia.

Four or five weeks ago Russian Bolshevik troops after fighting reached the Dniester river, the eastern border of Bessarabia. A Bolshevik official statement on April 14 reported that the Rumanians had been defeated and were retreating from Bessarabia. The Russian ultimatum to Rumania may have been made in view of the successful Rumanian campaign against the communist government in Hungary.

Y. W. C. A. Sets on Shoe Reform

NEW YORK—The war workers of the Y. M. C. A. believe in starting their reconstruction program from the ground up.

They are going to start with the feet of American girls.

Through their hundreds of physical directors in every local association in the country, they will strive to give every girl a beautiful normal foot, which will defy "broken arches" and "flat feet" and improve her health and disposition.

The only answer to all foot problems is SHOES. The right shoe, the sensible shoe for every foot and every occasion.

The regulations for the blue uniform worn by war workers of the Y. shoes or boots with flat heels.

Harriet Wild, head of the division of physical education of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., is responsible for the new era in shoe-construction sense shoes which are guaranteed to make one walk with a spring at sixty-five, to protect one from corns, bunions, callouses, to make one's feet beautiful, your health perfect and thereby every shoe manufacturer convinced of it. She will soon launch a nation-wide campaign advocating that women-kind in general adopt some style of shoe which is plastic, has a straight inner board and flat, straight heel.

"Save the American people feet away from following fads and fashions," says Miss Wild, "and be directed by common sense and comfort!"

The Chinese are the only people I can think of who believe that the foot is beautiful and up and deformed. I have seen women in this country whose feet resemble those of a Chinese woman's which had been bound—old the result of high heels and long pointed toes. One can't call that type of shoe beautiful because either barbed wire or barbed wire would wear them. But it is a right torture to allow people to continue wearing that sort of thing so that when they are middle aged they have to hobble 'long instead of getting content out of walking.

Above is a picture of the new common sense shoe advocated by physical directors. The heel is broad and flat, the toe round, and the ankle properly supported.

"Intellectual people are responsible for the present style of shoes. Why should you expect women in general to wear sensible shoes when the intellectual women of the country array such slaves to fashion that they set the standard? We have freedom for the body now. It is no longer considered 'fashionable' nor 'respectable' for women to pinch their wrists in so that they cannot breathe. They have gone countless long enough to refuse to go back to styles which will make them acutely uncomfortable.

"The greatest difficulty in presenting people 'to wear' sensible shoes comes because they have been classed as 'rures or correctives' for so long. They should not be looked upon as a badge of illness in one's feet, but as the sign of normal, healthy feet. The human foot is beautiful. Therefore, 'flat feet' (right) first years by wearing the bare sole with water and pressing up a sheet of blotting paper, three or four inches of the rich garden soil.

Then we sowed seeds in that.

First though, we put boards around the bed, just inside the sides of the hole, extending down about six inches. The top was sloping toward the sun. Old window sashes made a cover, over which we pulled pieces of old carpet on very cold nights. Nature around the outside of the boards acted as the heat.

In that way we started tomato plants, melons, cucumbers, cabbage, and all the plants which need a long season in which to mature—longer than the usual northern summer permits.

Men are entirely too much neglected in the average fashion column! Above, gentlemen, you observe an example of the new lightweight fad— for seasonal spring wear. In color it should match or harmonize with the business suit—and this season, it sports a stunning all-band and a slightly rolling trim.

As for straw hats there is the "boat-type" sketched' above, broad of brim and slightly higher of crown than last season. Hundreds of bales or in colors should harmonize with the scarf worn. Fashions not so far, but crowned, and wide and curling of brim.

MEXICAN NAUTS' MISTAKE CAUGHT SHOP-LIFTING.

Successful in their efforts in stealing a suit of clothes valued at $125 from the Treasury office in the neighborhood two Mexicans, Jose Gomez and Antonio Montz, to try their efforts again about 11:30. A suit valued at $85 was successfully purloined from the Idaho Department store, but the loss was noticed shortly after the men had departed from the store and a report was made to the sheriff's office.

In a short time the two men had been arrested and are now awaiting a hearing in justice court today.

According to witnesses of the theft, $85.00 was the plan of the two men to enter a store, one asking to look at something in the back of the shop. While Gomez, who is 32 years of age, was trying on a pair of slacks in the Treasury store, Montz secured the suit of clothes from the front of the store. A similar method was used at the Idaho Department store.

The arrests were made at the rooming house run by Joe Martinez at 359 Main street. The two men had borrowed the use of another Mexican's room and it was in this room that the suits were found. One of the gar-

"Sure it will," I agreed—"if we wait all the sun."

"Oh, no; all you have to do is to make a hobbed and a cold frame."

"What for?"

"To get an early start growing things," I explained.

"We got our garden books and consulted with neighbors who had gardened before. The hobbed and cold frame followed.

More Than 67,000 Men's Names On Muster Rolls While War Strength Is 27,500.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Only about thirty-five percent of the more than 27,500 men composing the 42nd (Rainbow) division, as it returned from France were members of the original division as organized at Camp Mills, N. Y. Practically all of these men, it was learned today, have been wounded, or otherwise incapacitated during the months of service. They had been returned from the hospitals and rest camps to the division and when it received orders to move, a special effort was made by the division staff to get together all the original Rainbow personnel who had survived the rigors of the campaign.

The intense activity of the division during the fighting is shown by the number of men who passed through its muster rolls during that period. This number is placed by officers of the division at approximately 6,000 men against the full war strength of 27,500. Toward the end of the fighting, however, many men sent for medical treatment were original members of the Rainbow division, who had recovered and returned to duty.

The last elements of the 42nd arrived yesterday at Newport News.

All corporations, joint stock capital and associations, foreign and domestic, engaged in business in this country, are subject to the law, unless specifically exempt. All corporations are held to be engaged in business and liable to the tax unless positive proof is submitted showing the omission or non-liability.

Special taxes, of which this is one, became due on the first day of July in each year, or on commencing business. The tax is payable in advance.

The tax does not apply to any corporation which was not engaged in business during any part of the fiscal year preceding the year for which the tax is due.

A corporation owning a railroad, controlled and operated by the government is exempt for a given taxable year only in case it does no business during such year.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, May 2.—(Eveas)—Ten persons were killed, sixteen seriously injured and a large number slightly wounded in disorders arising from demonstrations against the high cost of living in the province of Tarancon, April 28.

There were several clashes between gendarmes and civilians on the previous day, and in the evening the governor decided to order the troops to the scene. The following day, however, the merchants were selling provisions at the old prices. Crowds pillaged the stores and were charged by gendarmes.

Mrs. Joseph, with the linen in the automobile, which she drove herself, was shot at a private residence. When she returned to the street the machine and the linen were gone. The police advanced the theory that they had followed to Los Angeles by New York thieves.

Merchant Fleets Will Be Nearly on Par Within Five Years, Peace Congress Experts Believe.

By LLOYD ALLEN, Special Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union.) ALBANY—America is starting out to become a big maritime power. With their great shipyards just coming into 100 per cent production, Americans can expect within five years or so, to best their flag flying over a fleet of merchant carriers nearly as large as the British fleet of merchant boats.

This prediction is made from figures and material supplied by the American shipping experts here in Paris and by estimates made by the British chamber of shipping in London, of which Lord Inchcape is the head. In 1921 the British will be in the lead. America will then have 10,000,000 tons of boats while the British will have 10,000,000 to 20,000,000. American expects to maintain her shipbuilding plants until she eventually has 20,000,000 tons of boats, substantial boats. That will require five years perhaps. Much will be heard about friction between the government and the British over this question of shipping, but it must be taken for granted that America is maintaining a pretty fair kind of an understanding with her British friends on the proposition.

From the British shipping interests there probably will come a long series of protests over the fact that America is leaping out as a powerful factor in the shipping business. But these protests, even though they be long and loud and very sincere, will not mean that America and Great Britain are at daggers' points over the matter of ships. America, without doubt, has her arguments with the British, but she will come up incidentally as the shipbuilding program grows—and through it, all one may expect to see is a policy that will be maintained if circumstances in the world and spirit to the fundamental policy of the American government on shipping affairs.

It is a policy that is being maintained if circumstances in the world and spirit to the fundamental policy of the American government on shipping affairs. This policy was first expounded by Benjamin Franklin, namely, that America should have enough ships to carry to and from all her ports and harbors. AMERICAN NEW MERCHANT SHIPS UNDERWAY AT HOWLAND ISLAND to a point where the American fleet is balancing the American factory and industrial resources. Plan Fleet of 20,000,000 Tons. Briefly, the American policy is to create a fleet of something like 10,000,000 tons by 1921 and 20,000,000 eventually. This will replace the ships in use and needed by the world at large and will put the American merchant marine on its feet.

Eventually we will try to operate a fleet of just a bit more than our rival of 60 per cent, since we expect to have a constantly growing South American trade that should be handled in American boats as much as possible.

While America is looking at the ship business on a sort of 10-year plan, the British view the whole situation from an entirely different point of view. They would not possibly operate on a policy that would at American ideals and plans for the future. The British, industrially and geographically, differ too much from America to permit them to follow a program similar to ours.

Here are the main points which the policies of the two countries differ on the authority of the best-informed American ship men here in Paris: America will operate her ships on a non-profit basis. The fleet will be considered, during the next few years, as an adjunct to American resources, a sort of a reserve force for the world.

While the Americans consider ships as a means toward an end—that is the building up of a foreign trade, the British will operate their ships for the profit that is made by ships. They are in the game to make money out of carrying tonnage across the seven seas—they have acquired the means of 77,000, and they intend holding their heritage.

We will both be great sea powers. Britain will endeavor to have all the tonnage she can; America will strive to keep up a first-class fleet that can transport 50 per cent of our imports and exports, which is our just share of the sea-traffic. And we will also take on, as the months pass and as the world gradually returns to the ways of peace, a goodly proportion of the South American trade, providing plans of the American officials do not go astray.

How will America and Britain solve the ships of their big shipping yards? What is the job ahead for American ship yards? What will the entry of American men in the world business of shipping? These questions represent some of the outstanding points of the whole situation.

British shipbuilders and owners, who are now protesting against continuation of government control, will build something like 3,000,000 tons of ships in the next two years, possibly more, in order to bring the British mercantile marine up to 10,000,000 tons, according to the British chamber of shipping in London.

It is expected that the American shipbuilders will be capable of turning out 11,000,000 tons in the next two years. If both programs are realized the world will have returned to better than a pre-war footing in the matter of ships. When the peace conference started, there was a world shortage of something like 6,000,000 tons. Some experts estimate the deficit at 9,000,000 tons.

One of the things we can expect from the American shipbuilders is a better lot of ships than the cramped forecabin from their few boats and are putting in quarters featuring comforts that were unknown in the old sailing days. Hereafter the business of being a sailor will not be the most thrilling job in the world during the war. The pay is going to be better—in the American boats and later in the foreign trade. It will be the same proposition as a business house (America) introducing industrial reforms and giving higher pay and improved working conditions. Virtually, the American (Great Britain and the other shipping powers) to maintain the same wage schedules and reforms in order to keep their employees satisfied.

DECADENT FICTION.

A former magazine editor now deemed to be a significant story of a well-written, well-known author's manuscript came into his hands and was read by three professional readers, all of whom reported to him that the story was so indecent as to be unprintable and "the public could never stand for it." The manuscript was accordingly returned to the editor.

That was back in 1905, eleven years afterward the editor in question is surprised to see it published by a same magazine he had been connected with. It was still a respectable magazine too. The editor explained to the magazine had not changed its readers had. "The public not stood for it but as it up and out stood."

Anyone familiar with the present fiction agrees that "the gradual incidence of taste on the part of the vast mass of magazine readers has only made readers less easily shocked, but also actually eager to brace these fleshpots."

What I say of this literature is the prevailing demand for and the "implication of taste" asked the retired editor. "What shall anyone say? A word covers it all—in a de-

Who is responsible? The writer in the "New York magazine" who has been "gradually feeding the public rotten sex stories" or they have demoralized its taste, editors defend themselves by saying that they have only been giving public what it wanted all along.

They take particular pains to explain they minister to the western by "western" meaning about things west of the Appalachians—that they like this sort of thing.

Good many westerners, however, quaintly repudiate the charge, saying that there has been a far decadence in the drama and American dramas as everybody who is mostly made to suit the day's taste.

Guillermo Zapata, "Mexican Atlas," bandit chief, once a lieutenant of Pancho Villa, and for years ruler of the state of Morelos and other Mexican territory close to Mexico City—Zapata is dead. Since the vast flash of this news, doubt has been cast as to its authenticity—but here are pictures that prove it.

One picture shows the bandit lying dead with a bullet-hole in his forehead; the other large picture shows the coffin being borne on the shoulders of ragged poor to the desolate little burial ground at Coahuila, a railroad town in Morelos, near where Zapata has had his headquarters.

These pictures were taken by a photographer for the Mexico City City newspaper, El Universal, and rushed to Mexico City on a special train by General Pablo Gonzalez to quell the doubt about Zapata's death. This is the first publication in the United States.

SIMPSON CRITICISM.

Admiral Sims in an address in Washington the other day took occasion to speak a word of warning concerning the growing tendency to exalt the conduct of the war and especially the conduct of army affairs on the field abroad.

He especially deplored an untidy, vague, complaint against "treating and like the brave sailor he spoke plainly and to the point about an equally brave soldier. Part of his speech follows:

"Perhaps had 2,000,000 men over there. No one of these men could see one-thousandth part of the operations. They ran across many disagreeable things, may have been charged ten times too much in a canteen, or perhaps a soldier of one of the allied armies with whom they had a row. They came back with all sorts of criticisms. These irritating and irresponsible reports are vague and nebulous. They say little and that much and the false impression which they create is largely due to the fears they arouse, not to the facts they impart."

As a matter of fact, it is not fair that any individual experience should ever be emphasized or trying, should be used as the measure of an undertaking so tremendous as this war.

Doublets' mistakes were made. Neither Sims nor anybody else denies that. But doubtless also there was a greater proportion of good management than ill, since the result was victory.

Anyone tempted to listen to or repeat derogatory remarks concerning the conduct of our armies or their commanders should would do well to consider Admiral Sims' suggestions. The complaint of the individual may be viewed in its true proportion to the magnitude of the problem. And the hearer should remember that whether gossipy criticism be aimed at the army or the Home Missionary society, its real harm consists in "the fear it arouses" rather than in the fact it imports.

COMPLETE ATTACK ON LEAGUE LAWS

Argue Question Whether Non-Partisan Measures Are Unconstitutional—To Try Townley.

By the Associated Press
 FAIRGUE, N. D., May 2.—Argument on the motion to clarify the suit brought by 43 tax payers against state officials to prevent them from putting into operation certain laws of the Non-Partisan league industrial program, passed by the last session of the legislature, was completed this afternoon and Judge C. F. Amidon took the motion under advisement. The bill, in the suit, which was begun several weeks ago, contends that the industrial laws are unconstitutional. The laws include authorization and bond issues for a state bank, state owned grain elevators and other public utilities.

TOWNLEY TO BE TRIED
 ST. PAUL, Minn., May 2.—A. C. Townley, president of the national Non-Partisan league, and Joseph Gilbert, the league organizer, must stand trial on charges of disloyalty, the state supreme court ruled today. The decision of the Jackson county district court, overruling a demurrer brought by Townley and Gilbert, who sought to have the indictments quashed, was sustained.

Gilbert is charged with having used seditious language in an address at a meeting at Lakeland, Minn., Jan. 25, 1917. Gilbert's attorneys contend that Gilbert's remarks were not intended to be disloyal and were merely a discussion of various phases of economic conditions in the United States.

Sustaining the order overruling Gilbert's demurrer, the supreme court ruled that if Gilbert did utter the statements charged against him, the language would have tended to develop an impression that the United States did not have a just cause for entering the war and that such a tendency might have discouraged soldiers and interfered with the raising of war funds.

Townley's attorneys argued that the Non-Partisan league principles were aimed at profiteers and other enemies of the farmers and that there was no intention to incite to "civil war" or anti-government feeling.

The court ruled that the crime of

In an effort to awaken the people of Twin Falls county to the necessity of more liberal subscriptions, C. D. Thomas sent a call for help to the state headquarters. His request was answered by the promise to send a whippet tank here to "perform" and last evening Mr. Thomas received a telegram telling him to make arrangements for the scheduling of the tank in this territory.

The tank will first go to Buhl, arriving there at four o'clock Sunday afternoon. Remaining there until the next morning it will be taken to Burley. An exhibition will be had in the Cassia county metropolis until four o'clock after which the iron fighter will go to Rupert.

BATTERIES ARE NOT WORKED ENOUGH

Devils Should Be Working At Its Greatest Efficiency As Five Best Results Says Big Battery Makers

The consensus of opinion among the big battery makers is that American motorists are only getting about two-thirds of the service out of their batteries that they could have if these vitally important devices received the care and attention that they need. In the aggregate this waste amounts to many millions of dollars taken out of American motorists' pockets every year.

As a matter of fact, the care needed by the battery in winter differs little from that of summer, except that the engine always functions sluggishly heavy and there must be the best possible spark all the time or combustion "is faulty." And this "fault" is demanded by the battery not only brings added efficiency, but it serves to extend the life of the battery, thereby adding money to the owner's bank account. In brief, the care needed by the battery may be summed up as follows: It must be kept charged and the cells must be maintained to the proper level with distilled water. Not a very onerous task after all, especially when the immediate dividends returned "are considered. But to insure constant maintenance of the battery it is necessary that these simple operations should be carried out systematically and at stated intervals. The trouble with most owners is that they fill the battery up today, skip a week or two and then wonder why the battery begins to show early signs of deterioration.

The storage battery that is universally used in automobile service today is commonly known as the "lead type." This consists of a lead bar in which a not of vitriol is completely covered by a solution of sulphuric acid and water of a specific gravity of 1.30 at 70 degrees F. The plates are of two varieties, positive and negative, named according to the direction of current flow through them. The current being generated in the battery leaves by the positive plate and returns to the battery through the negative plates. The positive plates are in the form of grids, filled with a composition of lead, carrying in fact, among other things, the formula of the manufacturer, each one guarding his own formula as a trade secret.

The average car owner probably does not realize that this storage battery works all the time. The operation that takes place in the battery consists of an internal reaction which is going on all the time. When the currents being used the reaction is intensified, but even when the battery is not being used the reaction is still going on. The operation within the battery takes the form of an action between the filling in the plates and the liquid solution or electrolyte, as it is commonly called. This is the reason why regular attention is so vitally necessary. Even if your battery has been lying idle for a month the chemical action has been going on inside it and care should be given to it or trouble follows.

The action between the electrolyte and the plates generates electric current and in doing so creates a certain amount of heat. This tends to hasten evaporation of the fluid. As the liquid level drops and part of the plates are exposed to the air the heating is accelerated and soon the grids are warped, the separators fall out, the lead compound crumbles and the circuits take place and soon the battery is entirely ruined.

One of the by-products of the chemical action in the battery is a substance known as lead sulphate, which is deposited on the plates. This substance takes the form of a white, soft, and as the deposit grows the electrolyte gets weaker. The fact is that the acid in the solution has been driven out in the form of lead sulphate on the plates. It happens also that the deposit of lead sulphate grows it in harder for the acid to act on the plates.

Thus the trouble from this source is cumulative. As the sulphate deposit grows the solution weakens, and also it becomes harder for the weakened solution to perform its function. The proper care of the battery consists primarily of a weekly inspection and test with a hydrometer. This is an instrument in the form of a big syringe inside which is a graduated scale. It is used in drawing some battery fluid up into the body of the device, where the cylinder floats in it and indicates the specific gravity. If this latter falls far below 1.280, say to 1.2600, the battery should be recharged without delay. When the gravity goes down to 1.15 or near that figure the battery is discharged, and if it is not attended to it will quickly be ruined. At the same time that the battery fluid is tested the cells should be roughed up by the indicated "level" with distilled water. This may be purchased in a drug shop or may be made by melting snow, and first-class garages generally have a supply on hand.

It will often be found that the specific gravity of the different cells of the battery differs "a fraction of a point. This variation is natural and need cause no alarm. If one of the cells develops a chronic tendency to show a lower level of fluid than its fellows, it may be assumed that the cell is cracked and must be replaced. In cases where some of the battery solution has been spilled, the amount must be made up by fresh mixed solution since both acid and water have been lost, but in replacing for evaporation only plain distilled water is needed.

On modern cars provision is made for charging the battery as the car runs. When no generator is installed it is necessary to have the battery recharged.

DEFEND ACTION IN PHONE RATE CASE

Government Claims Right to Fix Charges For Interstate Services As a War Measure.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Increase of interstate telephone toll rates by the postmaster general was defended in a brief filed by the government today in the supreme court in connection with pending appeals from South Dakota and Massachusetts courts. The state authorities in their appeals have contended the increased rates undue interference with the police powers. Arguments in the proceedings will be heard Monday.

The government brief declares the suits instituted by the South Dakota and Massachusetts authority to restrain the postmaster general from increasing the rates were in reality brought against the United States without its consent and should be dismissed. "The government also contends that in taking over control of the telephone systems of the country, the president 'placed them in the hands of the postmaster general' as his representative, under the broad power given him by the resolution to manage as he saw fit," and they thus were in effect added to the postal service and "became as much a part of the means of conveying news or communications as the mail."

"The regulation of rates," the brief said, "is an exercise of power in the assertion of a right to control a private business, affected with a public interest and subject to a public use, so as to subject the private property to the public service upon the payment of just compensation. To this end, in order that the private right may not be asserted to extort undue compensation for use, the power is exercised to regulate the price for use just as it might be to regulate the price for use of property itself if the same was being taken."

The brief denies that state police powers are "impaired or affected by not submitting the rates fixed by the officers of the United States to state control," because not only the police powers of the state do not affect rates made by the government itself, but the police power does not extend to such a subject.

"The public," the brief adds, "has noticed and fixed the rate when the public officer of the United States is concerned."

The government contends that state public utility commissions were never authorized when created by the states nor since to deal with the rates of public utilities operated by governmental agencies.

RETURNERS CARE LINES

WASHINGTON, May 2.—American care lines taken over by the government in November were restored to private ownership and operation at midnight tonight by direction of President Wilson. The turn back was without formality. Since December Newsday's Charles D. Warner, former Western Union telegraph company, has been directing the cable service by appointment of the postmaster general.

Beginning tomorrow, however, Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Commercial Cable company, will manage his former duties with that company. Mr. Mackay was removed by the postmaster general because of his refusal to co-operate in government efforts to unify all transatlantic service.

Postmaster General Burdick today by telegram from Mr. Mackay requesting the return of the Postal company's land line. Mr. Burdick replied as follows:

"Replying to your telegram of yesterday and today you are advised by telegram to you of the first instant disposes of the matter so far as the postmaster general is concerned."

SEVEN DAYS LEFT; V LOAN FAR SHORT

Two-Thirds Yet To Be Raised in Single Week Means Hard Drive for Plank.

By the Associated Press. With only seven working days left, more than two-thirds of the Victory Liberty Loan remains to be subscribed. Treasury department figures tonight showed $1,437,247,500 less than one-third of the loan quota, pledged.

Individual subscriptions, nearly every reserve district were said to be running far short of those in previous loans, apparently indicating that the public was not awake to the necessity for raising the total $4,600,000,000 asked for in order to bring the loan back from temporary complete demobilization and care for those wounded in the service. Plank immediately were laid and telegrams sent to every state organization in the country to make the last seven working days of the campaign producing of sufficient individual subscriptions to put the loan "over the top" without calling on the financial institutions and tying up credit.

The St. Louis federal reserve district leads the country in having subscribed 52.5 per cent of its quota and two other western districts, Chicago and Minneapolis, ranked second and third, respectively. The southwest, or Dallas district was at the bottom when the latest tabulation of subscription was made.

The amounts subscribed by the federal reserve departments together with the percentage of its quota obtained by each district, as officially reported to the treasury tonight were as follows:

District	Quota	P.C.
St. Louis	$116,248,000	52.5
Chicago	$20,601,700	49.1
Minneapolis	15,070,050	47.8
Boston	15,822,300	42.1
Kansas City	6,890,900	35.8
Cleveland	70,337,050	32.4
Cincinnati	134,342,000	29.8
Philadelphia	97,484,000	25.9
New York	312,900,000	24.5

SPREAD DRAGNET FOR BOMB PLOTTERS

Acid Threatens to Cause Premature Explosion—Paper May Be Clue to Track Assassins.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 2.—Agents of the department of justice, postoffice inspectors and New York detectives under Inspector Favrot continued today their hunt for the anarchists who deposited in the mails more than a score of deadly bombs addressed to prominent men in all parts of the country, but no arrests have been made thus far.

Details of the progress made were not disclosed on the ground that unduly publicity might excite the reds to action. District Attorney Swann announced that he had received an anonymous communication suggesting that he investigate the actions of three men who have been prominent in socialist and I. W. W. activities. He indicated that he would act on the suggestion.

The bombs which have not yet been exploded were finally removed to the postoffice today when it was discovered that the acid in the plants designed to explode fulminate of mercury caps, was eating through the cork-throatening an explosion.

Official work of the case believes the federal authorities were made in this city. They expressed satisfaction at their success in finding the plant which manufactured the paper needed in a covering for the bombs. Only a small quantity of the paper has been distributed and it may be possible to trace the assassins by it.

It was said there appeared to be no connection between the bomb conspiracy and the finding of a quantity of explosives in a house in West 45th street raided by government agents seeking narcotics illegally held.

Demand that official action be taken to prevent a recurrence of demonstrations by soldiers and sailors who raided its offices yesterday was made today by the New York City in telegrams to Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

"We are informed that now further violence is being planned," the message said. "The names of the ring leaders were published in New York papers today. We demand, as citizens that you take immediate action to protect the lives of employees and property."
