AMBASSADOR SEES WILSON HOPE REVIVES

Italy's Representative in America Holds Conference With President.

INTERVIEW COMES LATE IN THE DAY

Newspapers in Rome Urge Government to Suez Territory Involved in the Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 3.—Count Marchetti, the Italian ambassador to the United States, had a conference late today with President Wilson. This is regarded as an indication that Italy is considering a resumption of her place at the peace conference.

Neither President Wilson nor the Italian ambassador made any statement regarding the subject under discussion. The interview was sought by Count Marchetti and took place after the regular conference between President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

MUST ANNEX TERRITORY

ROME, Friday, May 3.—Newspapers favorable to the government advised against the continuation of the peace conference of negotiations with the German delegates without the participation of Italy, because, they say, it violates the treaty between the nations making a separate peace. Tribuna says:

"The allies are pledged to us by a sacred treaty. They cannot sign a peace without us and they cannot make a separate peace without reason. President Wilson may be an idealist, but not at the point of imposing the shame of treason upon Great Britain and France.

The idea Nationalists make how the peace conference could declare the league of nations approved unconditionally last Monday when they suggested how the conference could absorb Kiaochow to Japan when Italy was not present, and how the conference can present the preliminaries of peace to the German delegates without Italy acting with them. The newspaper adds:

"The conference places itself outside the alliance of Italy. Italy must answer by the annexation of the territories she claims."

COAL MINING DISPUTE TESTS UP INDUSTRIAL AUSTRALIA

By the Associated Press.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 3.—The Australian government has decided to send all coal to the commonwealth as a result of an acute coal mining dispute in New South Wales, said a special dispatch received today by the Vancouver Province from Sydney, N. S. W.

An cessation of mine work with consequent coal famine and tie-up of industries is threatened by the dispute, the cable said. The acting prime minister declared prompt action necessary to protect Australia from a threatened catastrophe. Distributing agents have been appointed and coal prices fixed by the government.

Improvements in County During the Current Year Will Cost Four Million

An improvement campaign to cost nearly $4,000,000 is to be carried on in Twin Falls county during 1919. Already $2,622,675 of this gigantic development plan has been authorized while the remainder, $1,075,000, is contemplated, and reasonably well assured.

The following improvements have been authorized since January 1:

Twin Falls highway district	$1,250,000
Filer highway district	360,000
Owsley Ferry bridge and approaches	75,000
Hansen bridge and approaches	100,000
Shoshone Park memorial	200,000
Y. M. C. A. building	125,000
High school addition	150,000
Building permits granted since Jan. 1	137,675
Catholic church	25,000
Elks' home	200,000

Total authorized $2,622,675

Contemplated improvements include:

City improvement bonds, paving	$ 582,000
City improvement bonds, bridge	50,000
City improvement bonds, sewer	40,000
City improvement bonds, general	16,000
Rail paving plans	90,000
Residences, cities and towns, estimated	100,000
Business blocks, estimated	200,000

Total $1,075,000

Grand total $3,697,675

These figures will probably be increased, rather than diminished in the course of the year. Realization that there is little prospect of a drop in the cost of materials will start an extensive residence building campaign in this section, according to those who have been studying the situation. The shortage of houses here must be overcome, declare those who have been watching conditions, if for no other reason than that places must be provided for those that will be brought in here to do the work on the big program outlined above.

The building permits granted since the first of the year include those for the Boyd hospital, the Reed building and the changes at the Rogerson hotel.

FEARS COUNTY WILL FALL IN LOAN DRIVE

Hope Presence of Whippet Tank Here Will Arouse Citizens to Danger.

BLOCK CAPTAINS TO MEET AT 12:30 TODAY

Treasury Department Concerned Over Possibilities of Failure—Oregon Over Top.

Twin Falls county must either go over the top by Tuesday night or fear that we will fall in our efforts," declared C. D. Thomas, chairman of the Victory loan committee yesterday after reviewing the situation.

"We have completed the arrangements for the appearance of the whippet tank here on Monday. We hope this instrument of war will whip the people from the lethargy that they would exhibit were since the campaign has started.

"We had hoped to have had the tank with us all day Monday but word was received tonight that the iron fighter was in a wreck on the way here and that it would be impossible to bring it here before on the train Monday. The tank will perform all afternoon and will then be taken to Buhl for an exhibition.

The change in the plans for the appearance of the tank here Monday instead of Tuesday was necessitated a change in the plans for a meeting of block captains which was called for Tuesday. The block captains are now asked to meet today at 12:30, immediately after church for an outline of the campaign under the guidance of E. L. McVicar.

ORIGON OVER THE TOP

PORTLAND, Ore., May 3.—Oregon, with a Victory loan quota of $28,747,650, exceeded its allotment tonight by 100 per cent. It is the first state on the Pacific coast to achieve the distinction of going "over the top" in the present loan campaign. Portland's quota of $14,748,325 was reached with an over-subscription of $55,314.

OUTLOOK DISCOURAGING

WASHINGTON, May 3.—In response to pressing inquiries today as to the treasury's attitude concerning the progress of the Victory loan drive, officials of the department were not plugging up fast as they had hoped when they arranged a loan "not comparatively small size." They said they were "a bit concerned" over the record of the past two weeks, but not to an extent that they were ready at this time to sound a note of positive alarm.

One of the most hopeful signs is that many individuals are buying Victory notes and indications are that the subscriptions tabulated to date include what is considered a rather small percentage of purchases by banks or big corporations.

A ruling by the internal revenue bureau today is expected to have a stimulating effect upon corporation subscriptions. This ruling was to the effect that Victory notes are admissible assets for invested capital in computing war profits and excess profit taxes.

"Cleveland" campaign managers reported that the total of Victory shares on May Day had stimulated Victory note sales on the part of many citizens as a protest against the rioters.

Anticipating a great flood of subscriptions in the last week of the Victory loan campaign, the Victory ship, now off the coast of Central America, and nearing the Panama canal, is preparing for the dash to New York.

Petitioners Urge King to Refuse to Sign Peace Treaty

By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, May 3.—A petition has been presented to King Albert by the national political committee, to be referred to the peace treaty. This committee represents 100,000 members and 300 communes.

The cabinet after a meeting with King Albert today lasting three hours, deferred decision on the peace treaty until its meeting Sunday with the Belgian delegation to the peace conference. The premier told the newspaper correspondents that the position was grave.

The National Belgians say that the cabinet has unambiguously decided to maintain Belgium's territorial and financial claims in the treaty.

Emile Vandervelde, minister of justice, after a long interview with King Albert, has left for Paris with the mission to transmit to the Belgian delegation instructions not to sign a treaty which does not contain a clause guaranteeing the economic future and military security of Belgium.

Summary of the International Situation

By the Associated Press.

The Italian question—again has come to the fore in peace conference circles as the time approaches for the peace treaty to be signed by the plenipotentiaries at Versailles.

Signs are increasing in Paris that strong efforts are being made there and in Rome to bring the Italian delegation back to the French capital in time for the signing of the German treaty, if possible, or at least in time for the handling of a treaty to the Austrian delegates who are expected to arrive shortly.

The outline of the new frontiers were presented to the council in a report by the special commission composed of Captain Andre Tarlier, representative of the United States, Mr. H. H. Haskins, on behalf of the United States, and Viscount Morley, for Great Britain.

ANXIOUS ABOUT COLONIES

LONDON, May 3.—The British Ministry of Foreign Affairs today, among the terms of the treaty to which the Germans will offer the most objection is that relating to the surrender of her colonies. They will say that the British Empire, including the United States, and Kaiserism be left to him, upon refusal will ask to be assigned some part of the future administration of the former German colonies. They will ask that, in any case, Germany should be allowed to purchase some of the colonies as a future date, should Portugal be willing to sell.

A plea also will be made that the Suez area revert to Germany after a term of years. The delegates will propose any proposal to deprive them of sovereignty over the Kiel canal will be agreed that it shall be free to all world's commerce. They will oppose any so-called Polish corridor, which would be a barrier to the flow of traffic, transit both by rail and by the Vistula to Danzig and, while opposing any plan to deprive them of sovereignty over the city itself, will agree that portions of Danzig shall be reserved solely for Polish commerce.

AUSTRIANS ARE INVITED

PARIS, May 3.—The council of three, has invited the Austrian and Hungarian peace delegates to come to Versailles to discuss the terms of the peace treaty, pending the arrival of their respective countries. Their correspondent is informed.

PENCING THEMSELVES

VERMONT, May 3.—The "German quarter" of Versailles, claimed to prevent any of the Germans from straying off the section assigned them, began this morning. The barbed wire and the gates of next week with wire and set up on both sides the Rue de Reservoir, the area which is reserved for the Germans who the opposite side has been reserved for the British. Strict control will be maintained at all points to prevent the Germans from going outside bounds without authority.

TREATY NOT READY

LONDON, May 3.—It is not probable that the peace treaty will be ready for presentation to the German delegates until the end of the week. The British press correspondent, owing to the fact that several questions remain unsettled and also because the actual working document is taking more time than had been anticipated.

YOUTH ATTEMPTS TO KILL CLEMENCEAU; IS KNOWN ANARCHIST

PARIS, May 3.—(Havas)—Another attempt against Premier Clemenceau apparently has been frustrated by the arrest of a 19-year-old youth, who was seized near the entrance of M. Clemenceau's home. The youth, whose name is Corbellin, was carrying a satchel, and had in his possession anarchist literature. He declared that he did not want to kill the premier, but desired only to make a "gesture."

Corbellin was acquainted with Emile Comolles, who recently shot M. Clemenceau.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The comptroller of the treasury today declined to rule on the question, submitted to him by the State department, whether he should pay claims under charter contracts made some time ago with the provisional Russian government and the Russian volunteer fleet. Towers will maintain an altitude of from 1,000 to 2,000 feet. They believe the planes will not have to fly as high as would a land-contingent aviator in order to derive the greatest possible assistance from the winds.

Wind is one element of paramount importance to a successful flight according to Commander Charles F. Marvin, chief of the weather bureau. Extensive reports as to weather conditions have been gathered by the bureau and a friendly co-operation exists with the meteorological services of Canada and Great Britain and aviation authorities regarding the flight.

The past week has been one of great social activity. May brought the bustle of the flowers and the many nature loving hostesses took advantage of the wealth of blossoms to greet the coming of May with a fitting reception.

The clubs were not alone in their activities for in the afternoon a young woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, so we had among other festivities an announcement party.

May day brought with it a host of delightful dinners and luncheons. With the spring flowers to aid, the thoughts of the spring homecoming were for the time removed to a remote corner of the housewife's mind.

The coming week starts brightly with the many club meetings and great promise is made for many other festivities.

A party of young people, motored to Blue Lakes yesterday for a picnic. The party included Miss Lila Crane, Miss Elsie Baker, Raymond Larney and Moses Ayers.

The Morningdale club will meet at the home of Mrs. Otto Young for an all-day meeting next Wednesday. Mrs. Young will serve dinner for her guests at twelve o'clock. The day will be devoted to Red Cross sewing.

A meeting of the D. A. R. will be held at the home of Mrs. McBoheris tomorrow afternoon.

The Thursday Bridge club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. B. Johnson next Thursday afternoon.

Miss Patterson and Miss Shaw chaperoned the fifth class on a picnic last Friday evening to Shoshone Falls. A most wonderful time was had by all.

The annual dinner given by the Winesap club to their husbands was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilson last Thursday evening. The entire decorative scheme was of the gorgeous spring orchard blossoms. The many two-couple tables were artistically decked in the fragrant blossoms and were indeed a charming background for the elaborate four-course dinner served.

After the adjournment from the tables a clever farce was given by Mesdames W. E. Nixon, L. I. Breckenridge, M. E. Jannsen, E. A. Mann, J. M. Spackman and T. P. Werning. In addition an art exhibit was held where the guests were to recognize the portraits. Mrs. F. Kayler and J. M. Spackman carried off the honors of the contest.

NEW YORK—Geel Anybody would smile for $19,500.

That's the average yearly salary of these eight professional smilers from dear old Broadway—and lumped together the eight handsome young people pull down a jolly life $156,000 a year, just for looking pleasant.

At that, they are only required to smile four hours a day—with double time on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. It's a jolly life! Sure they can smile!

You've guessed it. The cheerful little ladies are stars of the Broadway shows. There is no place on the Broadway stage nowadays for the girl with the frown; Furthermore, the "Problem Play" is a thing of the past. Most of the managers keep an "accelerator" in the wings whose business it is to keep the company from the vice to chorus, smiling. Go behind the scenes any night and you will hear the "accelerator" busy prompting: "Watch your smile, girlie, watch your

My Garden

What and How to Profit From Small Plot in Back Yards.

To get early vegetables from one's garden one must get an early start. When my husband and I read that in our book of garden advice we thought it meant getting up extra early in the morning.

But that wasn't all it meant. "We must get things growing before it warms enough out of doors for them," I suggested.

"And get plants started in cold frames so they'll be ready to transplant by the time the first crop is starting in their rows," my husband went on.

"Sure," I agreed. So we—rather, he—made a cold frame, and filled window boxes and Sohny made a "lean-to" against a warm basement window out of glass, and thus we got an early start, not only in spring, but for later crops.

A cold frame is nothing but a cooled hotbed. It has four sides and a glass cover, although the cover may be of white cloth, which will let in the light and keep out cold winds.

The cover should slope toward the south to get the maximum of sun. Manure in the cold frame should not be fresh like that which furnishes the heat and soil foundation in hotbeds, but well rotted. If that is unobtainable rich garden soil, mixed with commercial fertilizer will do.

Sow seed rather thickly in hotbed or cold frame, thinning out as the seedlings come up. Thinnings may be transplanted into another part of the bed, or into window boxes or flower pots.

I took small boxes, filling them with rich earth and standing them in sunny windows inside the house and basement. In them I started tomatoes and other plants of semi-tropical nature which cannot be started in the garden, until all danger of frost passed.

Melons and cucumbers I started in berry boxes filled with earth, later on breaking the bottoms of the boxes and putting box and plant into the garden. The protection of the box shields against cutworms saved many of these plants especially susceptible to cutworm attacks.

WHEAT HARVEST TO EXCEED ALL RECORDS

900,000,000 Bushels in Government Forecast For Crop In United States.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Prediction of the department of agriculture for a wheat crop this year even larger than the record-breaking crop of 1914, was repeated today by the United States Chamber of Commerce in a report based on statistics obtained from all sections of the country.

The report stated that an average acre before entailed had been planted and a yield of 900,000,000 bushels was forecast.

"The condition of the winter wheat is so high as to be without precedent parallel to the report given in 1914, the plant came through the winter and the trying month of March unscathed and unharmed. In many sections of the west and southwest it was necessary to pasture it to livestock to keep down its rank growth. Reports of damage are mostly remarkable by their entire absence. More numerous than any other pest is the Egyptian fly and some stray predatory insects, but that is all. Unless some climatic catastrophe or some Egyptian fly and unexpected plague or insecta intervene, the yield will probably be 900,000,000 bushels, or more than the great harvest of 1914."

The report stated that one interesting side light of the situation was that about 25 per cent of the yield will be south of the Mason and Dixon line. Southern wheat which never before grew winter wheat this year have large acreage planted, it was said. Reports showed that the seeding of spring wheat had been delayed from ten days to two weeks by excessive rains, and a decrease of acreage compared with last year was expected.

SAD STATISTICS FOR NEWLY WED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By way of a warning effect the spring deluge of honeymooners descending upon the capital is larger than usual this year. Seeing the signs they term it, it is best not to quit them too closely about the public buildings, etc. after their return.

Like an eye in his hat, William C. Hunt, with the title of chief statistician for population, is quite ready to destroy the illusion of the newly-weds. "He does nothing all day but juggle with a lot of figures with such results as these:

"About one marriage in every nine is terminated by divorce."

Then, he is likely to glare at you and your beloved with a look that seems to say "you look like No. 9 to me."

"The number of marriages in proportion to the population has increased since 1890," he says and you begin to hope to hear about some optimistic until he says—"but the divorce rate has increased much more rapidly."

The principal cause of divorce the percentage contributed by men to the total were: Desertion, 34.8 per cent; cruelty, 23.3 per cent; infidelity, 16.9 per cent; neglect to provide, 4.7 per cent; drunkenness, 2.4 per cent; combination of all other causes, 8.8 per cent; all other causes, 6.7 per cent.

"Desertion is the cause of 50 per cent of divorces granted to the husband and 30.8 per cent of those granted to the wife."

"Of only 37.1 per cent of the divorces were children reported. In 62 per cent no children were reported and in 11.2 per cent the records contained no data as to children. Children were reported in 37.8 per cent in which divorces were granted to the husband, no children in 53.7 per cent of the cases and in the remaining 18.5 per cent the records contained no data as to children. The corresponding per centages based upon divorces granted to wives were 42.2 per cent, 45.4 per cent and 8.2 per cent respectively."

"The marriage rate—105 per ten thousand population was a little more than nine times as great as the divorce, 112 per 100,000, and it may be said 'childish' if the 124,142 children from whose these figures are taken were to continue unchanged about one marriage in nine would be terminated by divorce."

Simplicity Marks the Birth of the League of Nations Covenant

PARIS, France—During the time when the league of nations covenant was being written meetings of 19 men were held in Col. House's room on the third floor of the Hotel Crillon, the workshop of the American commission to negotiate peace. There the commission on the league of nations drew up its covenant.

There is nothing particularly impressive about Room 351. It is the kind of reception room that may be found in many a French hotel. It is large, high and decorated in the rather elaborate style. But whatever its appearance may be while it is being used for every day purposes, it assumed a wholly different look during the meetings of the commission.

In the center of the room, a big round table covered with red cloth. Around the table, 19 chairs for the 19 members of the commission. Slightly behind yet scattered through this circle of seats, a number of other chairs for French and English translators. In the corners, three or four desks, and around the walls occasional chairs for any secretaries whom the members might care to bring with them. All in all, the table might have been laid for a meeting of the cabinet or an American board of directors.

In this room the commission met 10 times during 11 days. They came together in the morning, afternoon or evening at hours which would not conflict with the program of the peace conference itself whose work envisaged their own, or with that of the supreme war council, then engaged upon pressing questions relating to the renewal of the armistice.

NO TIME SET FOR DAY'S WORK

It might be figured out that the meetings averaged three hours in length; but it is hardly appropriate to speak of averages in this connection. No time was set by the commission for the termination of the days' work. There was a job to be done; and a man's own time was a secondary consideration. Nobody looked at the clock.

It appears inconceivable that a constitution of the league of nations could have been drawn in 30 hours. It was done, but the bald statement is misleading for it fails to take certain things into account. It says nothing for instance, of a single expedient by which the task of the commission was cut clearly in half.

Whether one spoke in English or in French, it made no difference. As he talked there might be heard the low hum of interpreters translating his remarks word by word and phrase by phrase.

Every moment of the 30 hours was made to work, and no time was lost in the slow but prevailing process of retranslation.

It falls likewise to reckon in all the thought which had previously been given to the subject. Each one of the statesmen who sat around the table had formulated definite ideas on the subject, and came to the conferences with an illuminated and active mind.

ABLE MEN AT TABLE

Lord Robert Cecil with his scholarly mind, his practical sense and his large vision was ably seconded in presenting the point of view of the British empire by General Smuts, the great Boer leader of other days, a member of the British war council and the author of a widely read pamphlet of the league idea. Leon Bourgeois, well advanced in years of service at the Hague conferences in the interests of peace, had with him Larnaude, dean of the faculty of law at the Paris School of Law. Orlando, Italy's vivid prime minister and an eminent jurist as well, had Senator Scialoja as his colleague in expressing the mind of the government at Rome; while Baron Makino, Japanese foreign minister, and Viscount Chinda, her ambassador at London, contributed the keen and quiet opinion of the far eastern country.

Though these five powers were each represented by two members on the commission, its deliberations were not dominated by their views. There also, sat to the table Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister; Senator Pessoa, of Brazil; V. K. Wellington Koo, China's minister at Washington; Kramarz, prime minister of the Czechoslovak republic; Venizelos, prime minister of Greece; Dmowski, president of the Polish National committee; Jayve Batalah Reis, Portuguese minister to Petrograd; Diamandy, minister plenipotentiary of Rumania, and Vesnich, Serbian minister at Paris.

They included representatives of the far east, South America, and the oldest and newest states of Europe. This striking group of statesmen, so keenly interested that they presented an unbroken record of attendance at the meetings, contributed to the discussion a force and vision which rivalled that of the great powers.

NO SHIRKERS AT MEETING

The meetings were business-like to a degree. The members invariably came together on the hour, exchanged a word of greeting as they made their way to the seats, took the documents of the day out of their portfolios, and proceeded with the next article. Each of them found on the table before him all new papers upon which discussion might depend. Every day, as the commission made progress through the draft, there was laid at each place a revised copy indicating just what had been accomplished on the day before. If there were amendments to be proposed by any member, he saw to it that they were typewritten and distributed so that each of his colleagues might examine their merits in advance.

The meetings were marked by extreme simplicity. Diplomatic dress had disappeared with the diplomacy of the past.

Each man wore what was convenient—dinner coat, morning coat or business suit—and the business suit prevailed. There was none of that sense of the overwhelming significance of the task which is sometimes the death of the decision. They went about the matter in a commonplace way.

President Wilson presided over every meeting except the last.

The first meeting was very brief. The commission came together; the president spoke a few words and laid before them a draft plan which they agreed to use as the basis of discussion. So day after day the draft was held up to the light—and criticized and amplified. At the end of the eighth meeting, the first reading was completed.

Though the project emerged unchanged in principle, the draft had been altered in many details and there were before the commission various proposed amendments and changes in phraseology. It was decided to put the covenant into the hands of a drafting committee composed of MM. Larnaude, Lord Robert Cecil, Venizelos and Vesnich for a thorough overhauling.

U. S. SOLDIERS SET TYPE

Late the following evening their work was finished, and the printing press was busy all through the night so that the amended draft might be on the table the next morning. In addition to the satisfaction of a job well done, the American soldiers who set the type and corrected proof and ran the press, will treasure the letter of thanks which the president sent them before he sailed.

The second reading began on Thursday at 10 o'clock, but by 1, only the first seven articles had been finally adopted. Perhaps with the assurance that the thirteenth could not fail to mark another momentous event, the president excused himself and left to attend a critical meeting of the Supreme War Council that afternoon at the Quai d'Orsay.

The commission resumed their work at 3:30 in the afternoon under the leadership of Lord Robert Cecil. One by one they took up the remaining articles: one by one they were passed upon. At 7:49 Lord Robert, sitting low in his chair was holding the lapels of his coat, read the twenty-sixth article:

"Amendments to this covenant will take effect when ratified by the states whose representatives compose the executive council and by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the body of delegates."

"Is there any objection to this article?" He waited a moment. "If not, it is adopted. Gentlemen, our work is done. The president of the United States will report our conclusions to a plenary session of the conference tomorrow."

IRELAND AT PARIS.

A great deal of American sympathy attends the efforts of the American delegation now at Paris pleading the cause of Ireland. The "distressful case" still occupies a warm place in American hearts, though there is less enthusiasm about it than there was before the war. Most Americans, regardless of their racial origin, would frankly like to see home rule become a reality in Ireland. Many people would rejoice to see Ireland fully independent, fulfilling the aims of the present movement that is so strong in South Ireland, if there were assurance that independence would be attained amicably without inviting greater evils than those already existing.

But granting all this, most of Ireland's American friends find it hard to see just what business Ireland has at Paris.

The Paris conference is a peace conference, engaged in winding up a war and settling the mutual affairs of the nations engaged in it. Ireland was not a participant in the war, except as Scotland and Wales were participants, and her part in it was much smaller than theirs. Ireland and Wales are represented at Paris by the British government, and Ireland is represented likewise. This is necessarily the case while the present governmental organization lasts.

The Irish question is not an international question. It is purely a domestic question with the British empire. Americans can very properly thank Lloyd-George, as head of the British government, to consider the Irish claims for self-government and "self-determination of peoples" a reality for Ireland. But on what grounds can the delegates bias a demand for an official hearing on the report of the peace conference? Ireland's status at Paris is hardly different from that of New York or California. If either of those states wanted to leave the Union, the peace conference would certainly pronounce a purely American problem, to be worked out here at home, desirably in harmony with the best judgment of mankind, but without any other foreign influence that that of scholastic sundon.

NOURISHING THE TWIG.

Thirty-three per cent of the little 14,000,000 of New York City are underweight. While this is a greater percentage probably than would be found in areas less congested, still what is one of New York's problems is to some degree the problem of every locality.

Nor can this question be lightly considered, for if these under-nourished little bodies are not built up and brought to normal before the age of 12 is reached, it is practically impossible ever to bring them to normal at all. Then society, having aimed gain, must pay its fine in the support of invalid citizens and frequently criminals, since the ill-nourished body so often harbors an ill-nourished conscience.

"Feed my lambs," said the Good Shepherd, and in these simple words laid down a law as applicable today as the day it was uttered. But just feeding is not enough. There must be education as to proper feeding, and much instruction as to the necessity of testing the results of feeding by frequent weighing, since it is the rise or fall of a little child's weight which is the true story of his life. Much progress has been made along these lines; but the figures quoted for New York, which abound in welfare organization and clinics, show only too plainly how backward the nation is in one of the most essential branches of special welfare work. The community which recognizes the necessity and attends to the feeding of its children and the aiding of their mothers, will be more than repaid, not only in the joy of kindness done, but in a new generation of healthy citizens, tending to be sound of principle because they are sound of body.

CARDINAL MERCEUR.

Cardinal Mercier, it is reported, will visit the United States. He wishes to come in person to express the thanks of his flock, for what America has done for them. He will probably be surprised when he does come, for like all heroes he does not know he is one, and doubtless the enthusiastic American expression of admiration for him and the brave people whom he represents will make him open his old wide eyes.

In speaking of his proposed visit the New York Times says:

"He will find himself one to whom thanks will be offered. America owes him its share of the debt which all mankind owes him as one who showed the world its way. This valiant priest recalls the best thing in the Middle Ages, when the Church never feared to speak out, at any cost, in behalf of the oppressed. He was one of the most potent voices in the world's awakening."

Truly there is no city or town of our country which would not feel itself proud to harbor as its guest this brave old Belgian priest who boldly rebuked the menacing Germans, and allowed neither fear nor danger to interfere with his industry to his people nor his lifting his voice to the world.

When women get the vote in Florida they are to be given the privilege of wearing trousers. Fight in line with the old masculine idea that anything in trousers is good enough to vote.

Those crowds parading the streets of Italian cities and howling anathemas at Wilson are the same crowds that shouted their heads-off-with-enthusiasm for Wilson when he visited Italy last winter. And Wilson stands for exactly the same principle now that he did then.

Outbursts of Everett True by Condo

Probably this Italian trouble is just another late frost, which scares everybody for fear the crops are ruined and then doesn't do any damage at all.

First base is generally regarded as an easy position. While it is true that first is easier than the other infield jobs, it is by no means a soft snap. A first baseman must be able to catch all kinds of throws—high, low or wide. He must be an expert fielder of bunts, a good thrower and fast on his feet. A tall rangy youth with a long reach generally makes the best of first basemen. Quite often it has proved an advantage to be left handed in this position as a scampy con throw to the other bases—without having to turn, thereby saving valuable seconds in making a play.

With a left-handed batter at the plate play deep to cut down the hard smashes towards right field. For a right-handed hitter plays in close.

Like the catcher, the first baseman must be an expert on foul flies and short flies toward right field. Learn to touch the bag with either foot and to shift feet quickly to avoid collisions with the runner.

In fielding bunts work with the second and shortstop in covering second and first when the first baseman fields the ball.

With a man on first you must hold the runner close to the bag. Don't draw the pitcher into making too many throws to catch a runner napping, as it tires him out, but always be ready to catch the chip who wanders too far off the bag.

Get to the Captain—Cut this out and give it to the first baseman in your team.

SMITH SAYS:

"When the madam and I first began to talk about building our new home it seemed to us that we were assuming all the grief of the universe. We actually decided to make a start. Neither of us knew a thing about what was wanted."
"But when your architect submitted the first little color sketch, embodying all our preconceived notions of what our home should be, we actually felt like a heavy burden had been lifted from our minds."—Smith was followed by a set of working details which simplified the whole procedure which enabled us to keep track of everything as it progressed."

"Your advice regarding carpenters was certainly good, Mr. Undergraff," that each of men you recommended were go getters from the start, and they sure done us a good job."
"We're more than pleased with our new home, and when we get our new lawn and other outbuildings we'll certainly have a ranch to be proud of." The building our hard yard improvements we want them to correspond with the house, and make all of our buildings harmonize with our grounds." You will find our architects just an good on other farm buildings as they are on houses, Mr. Smith. "In that case I have no further worries."

MIKEY AT THE SHOW.

Mickey Opens for a Three Days' Run at the Idaho Theater Tomorrow.
Mickey is a sweet, wholesome, mischievous little girl raised by her foster father, an old miner, and her foster mother—a wise-but-plain Squaw in the mountain country far away from the glamour and chill of the city.

Later she is sent to the city "to make a lady of her," at the home of her aunt, a scheming, jealous hypocrite—and she doesn't find her aunt's ways with roses. But throughout, the old cheerful, high spirits of little Mickey prevail, and with her sheer happy perseverance she conquers what seem unbearable burdens and difficulties for the little wail. There are, wistful and pathetic touches in Mickey; as well as humor told with delicacy and a sure touch.

Miss Normand is always a charming comedienne, but she is at her very best in this part—in this vivid and appealing comedy drama with real living characters— told without squawk pie; battles or the seduction of the innocent heroine.

EMPLOYMENT SUNDAY WILL BE GENERALLY OBSERVED

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—"Employment Sunday" will be observed generally in all churches over the country tomorrow. From thousands of pulpits, appeals will be made for jobs for returning soldiers and sailors.
Qualification cards being received from the men by the federal employment service show that a much larger percentage of men returning from France must seek new employment than those who did not see foreign service.

The explanation was said to be that overseas men have been away much longer and have not been in touch with their former employers.

TO LIGHT WAY OF BIG AIRSHIPS AT NIGHT

Crusiers to Assist Planes in Making Trip Across the Atlantic From Newfoundland.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 3.—At 11 o'clock "some morning in Newfoundland" the navy's trans-Atlantic seaplane will start on their flight, not less than 12 1/2 hours in the azure, it was learned at the Rockaway Point naval station today.

This means that the three planes, the No. 1, 2 and 3 will leave at 11 o'clock the morning after they report from the Newfoundland. Sixty divers equipped with powerful searchlights, will sweep the heavens with continuous swiveling beams all night so that not a lighted star or darkness the air pilots can find their way, along a path of light, with a "lamp post" approximately every 50 miles.

For daylight reckoning, huge numbers will be painted on the decks and sides of the vessels, so that observers in the planes may check their course. Flying will be at a height of about 7,000 feet.

Estimates available today are that each machine will consume about 650 pounds of fuel, or that at the rate of one gallon per hour the planes may check their course. Flying will be at a height of about 7,000 feet.
