ATTEMPTS TO DESTROY NEW HANSEN BRIDGE

Dynamite Placed in the Big Boiler Fails to Explode.

FORMER EMPLOYE IS UNDER SUSPICION

Sheriff Sprague and Deputies Scour South Idaho for Man Thought Responsible.

Sheriff D. Sprague and his force of deputies are scouring south Idaho for a former employe of the construction crew hanging the Hansen bridge. The man is wanted for an attempt to dynamite the big structure this week.

Two sticks of dynamite were thrown in a boiler with intentions of destruction.

I. W. W. is suspected.

The action followed the appearance around the works of a disgruntled former employe with a few bearings and troublesome disposition.

Had the dynamite exploded, it would have caused the death of a number of the men and heavy damage to the bridge.

The matter was reported to the sheriff's office Monday night. The matter was kept quiet to keep the same track of the alleged man could be found, but yesterday rumors of the new dynamite began to reach Twin Falls.

J. A. Murray, the engineer in charge of the construction of the bridge, stated that it was his opinion that the man might be crazy.

At the time the dynamite was placed in the boiler, the man was seen carrying his big boiler over his shoulder.

Every effort will be made by the sheriff's office to secure some track of the suspected man.

Where Does The Chronicle Get Its News Illustrations?

News illustrations in the columns of The Chronicle have attracted unusual attention within the past few days.

It is not an accident that The Chronicle is able to produce portraits of the crew of the ill-starred NC-4 with the story of her mishap, nor chance which gave us a portrait of the seaplane itself.

The Chronicle receives, in addition to leased wire Associated Press news service, the illustrated service and features of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, which is without a rival in its field.

When announcement was made that the big navy seaplanes would try for the flight across the Atlantic, Newspaper Enterprise Association quickly forwarded its newspaper portraits of all the seaplanes and their crews.

With these on hand The Chronicle was able to illustrate any development.

No other newspaper in Idaho is a subscriber to the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

INDUSTRIES BOARD RESIGNS IN BODY

Action of Railway Director by Asking Competition Ends On Steel, Closes Bank.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Governmental efforts to hasten the return of industry to normal peace time activity by stabilizing prices through the industrial board of the department of commerce came to an end today.

Following a final unsuccessful effort to bring the railroad administration and steel producers to an agreement on prices yesterday in New York, the resignations of Chairman George N. Peck of Moline, Ill., and the other six members of the board were accepted by Secretary Redfield.

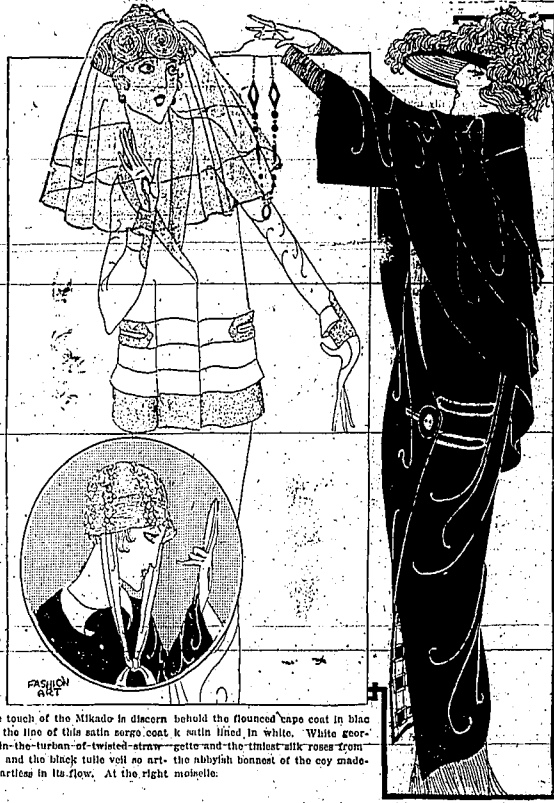

The resignations, rendered April 23 with the railroad administration first refused to accept the reduced steel prices arranged by the board on the ground that they were too high, had been held in abeyance.

With the dissolution of the board, the natural forces of supply and demand will be left to readjust prices from war levels to those of peace.

Director General Rines announced yesterday that the railroad administration would return to the old system of competitive bidding by placing its orders.

Government officials declared they did not know whether the steel producers would keep in force the price schedule approved by the industrial board and which was the basis of all steel recently submitted for 25,000 tons of steel needed by the navy. It became known that when the legality of price agreements arranged by the board was submitted to Attorney General Palmer, he rendered an opinion that such action was not authorized by law, but did not declare that such an agreement would be illegal.

FASHIONS FROM THE FRENCH SALONS

The touch of the Mikado in discern behold the flounced cape coat in black set in the line of this satin serge coat & set in line in white. White front, in-the-turban-of-twisted-straw-gate-and-the-thinest-silk-roses from braid, and the black tulle veil no art the ablyish bonnet of the coy madly artless in its flow. At the right the models.

By BETTY BROWN.

...They're coming over, they'll soon go over" is the cheerful song of the American importers of French gowns, as they stand on the docks to meet the consignments of "imported models" which began traveling over way early in March—and some faster and faster. It is also the cheerful song of the French designers—as they stand on French docks to welcome with open arms the crowds of American buyers and customers who fly to Paris for fashions and wares as fast as passports permit.

The Franco-American alliance for the promotion of beautiful dress is again in rapport. There are minor skirmishes over the proper length and breadth of skirts but after all they must have our markets and we must have their ideas, their prestige, their Paris label.

New York is already rejoicing in some of the choicest creations of Callot, Renee, Worth, Lanvin, Jenny and Bulloz. A bit frenkish they seem to the conservative eye, but no matter if they are chic.

As revealed by the newest models the fashion tendencies are for dresses of soft-dull-blues, pinks and yellows, with oriental embroideries or gorgeous richness. The evening gowns are almost invariably black and brilliant with palettes and jet, with occasional touches of bead embroidery.

Jenny's concession to the American demand for long skirts is a daring compromise. The skirts of the gowns she creates are long—quite long enough—but they are transparent below the knees.

The Star of Tiredom

THE difference between Star Tires and average tires is vital differences—they far outweigh any dollars and cents consideration.

The extra labor cost in the making of Star Tires is in far bigger proportion than the little extra you pay for them. The extra cost of the materials used, and the extra labor that gives them greater strength is not to be measured by the little extra that Star Tires cost.

They are built to insure you a saving. Put a Star opposite the make-of-tire that has served you best. The result will remove all doubt.

Asks Return Of Three Children To His Custody

Appearance of Third Ex-Husband From California Complicates Unique Case.

Three Bull children, separated as the result of the death of their mother last fall, may be reunited and placed in the custody of their father, Mr. Roberts of California, if officials of the probate court can do so.

The case is one of the most unique that has appeared on the docket of the probate court in years.

The mother of the children had been married three times and in each case, the marriage had proven a failure and she had been divorced. Her first and second husbands were both named Roberts, although no relations existed between the two men. In all five children were born to Mrs. Roberts, a daughter to the first marriage and a son to the last marriage, and three children to the second husband named Roberts.

After her death the children passed into the hands of the probate court. Her first and second husbands were located. The oldest child, Agnes, age 14, was sent to the woman's first husband in Vancouver, Wash. The youngest child, a boy, Weldon, age three, years went to his father, while the children of the second union were given into the care of people in the Bull section.

Yesterday the father of these three children arrived in Twin Falls and immediately appealed to the probate officer for the return of his children to his custody. He declared that he had lost track of his former wife and children six years ago and that it was only within the past few weeks that he had become aware of their mother's death and the disposition of his children.

Legal complications may interfere with the return of the children to their father.

The three children whose father is now seeking their custody are John, a boy, and Odessa and Claudine, girls.

THE CHILD LABOR DELEGAMA

Last year a law enacted by congress forbidding the employment of young children in factories, mills and mines, was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

The need of child-labor regulation was so widely recognized that congress, after getting, supposedly competent legal advice on the subject, set about to accomplish the purpose and by some other method. The result was a clause in the law revenue act levying a practically prohibitive tax on products manufactured by the labor of any children under 14, or of children under 16, working more than eight hours a day.

This measure has also been declared unconstitutional by a North Carolina court, the same court that originally quashed the previous law. It is probably a foregone conclusion that the supreme court will uphold his decision in this case as it did before.

At just about the same time that this decision was rendered, the peace conference at Paris announced a "bill of rights" for labor, adopted unanimously by a score of nations and intended to apply to all the world, containing this clause:

"No child should be permitted to be employed in industry or commerce before the age of 14."

This provision will be incorporated in the official peace treaty and furthered by the permanent international labor conference operating under the league of nations. Every civilized country in the world will have given its formal endorsement to the principle, and in every country where it does not yet prevail in practice an immediate effort will be made to provide the legal authority.

It will be strange indeed if the United States, which has taken a leading part in applying this enlightened principle to industry in other countries, should prove so stupid as to be unable to apply it at home.

What is a constitution for, if it forbids the safeguarding of the health and strength of the nation's children? What is law for, if it interferes with the proper application of a constitution which was intended to be righteous, benevolent and progressive, and which every patriotic American believes to be so? What is congress for, if it cannot devise a court-proof law to accomplish a reform in which hundreds of the nation's citizens are agreed?

POPID-THE IUD FLAG.

Advancing the next convalescence what to do is at present the leading—and possibly the most unproductive—American occupation. Nevertheless it seems well to tell congress that one of its numerous "first duties" should be the enactment of a law forbidding the use of the red flag in parades and other public demonstrations.

Some states and municipalities have already taken action along this line. But it is a matter for national handling, in order to insure the uniform application of the law everywhere and give no opportunity for misinterpretation or evasion.

It is not necessary to argue that there is a sacred principle involved. It may even be debatable whether it is right, as an abstract proposition, to prohibit the use of any party emblem, provided it is not used to the exclusion of the American flag. But everybody must realize that, as a purely practical proposition, the further flaunting of red flags in the present unsettled state of the world will do no good. The great, fervent patriotic American public will not stand for it.

CLEMENCEAU'S GYMNASTICS.

Premier Clemenceau takes a half-hour of physical exercise every morning. It is not taken haphazard, but is carefully studied out to involve all muscles and keep every part of the body flexible.

For years Clemenceau has not missed this morning drill, except during a few days immediately following the attempt to assassinate him.

Doubtless his amazing vitality is partly, if not largely, accounted for by the fact that he has never allowed his body to grow old and inactive. To this fact he probably owes also the prompt recovery which amazed and delighted a world horrified by the news that he had been the victim of an assassin's bullet.

This fine old patriot sets a good example in many ways, but none better than in taking time from his busy, over-crowded life with its pressing national problems, to keep his body as keen as he does his brain. It himself ascribes to his habit of daily exercise his indefatigable energy.

NEIGHBORHOOD FLAGOVENS.

Never was there such an incentive to community life in the open air now, when the daylight saving regime gives long hours of light at the close of the day.

Everybody wants to do something with his time, wants to be out of doors, and preferably with his fellow men. The great problem is to have a place where everybody can go and something for them to do when they get there. The neighborhood playground is one solution.

A few public spirited citizens can set the ball rolling. The community can be divided into committees to speed the work along and provide facilities of entertainment for different nights and afternoons, and to act as hosts to see that people meet and mingle. For location any park or open place will do. The school yard even is worth considering.

Tennis courts can be constructed easily almost anywhere. One neighborhood which organized a club of this kind provided the rubber and mothers made corking tennis players as well as the younger fry.

RAILROAD DRAINS HEAVY ON BANKS

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, May 9.—With a view to obtaining relief at the earliest possible moment from the burden of financing the railroads, bankers held a conference today with representatives of the association of railroad executives in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Company.

The bankers made it clear that the drain upon their resources caused by the necessity of advancing funds to the railroads has become so great, they suggested that an organized effort be made to get the forthcoming congress to expedite legislation which will replenish the "sinking funds" of the railroad administration.

Bankers in cooperation with the war finance corporation have taken care of all the requirements of the railroads for May aggregating about one hundred and thirty-five million dollars. Of this total sixty million dollars was required May 1st. The balance is to be advanced in the course of a month. The banks furnished forty million, six hundred thousand dollars of the funds due May 1, of which amount thirty-four million dollars was secured by notes with collateral and the balance by unsecured notes.

RUTH LAUGHS AS JURY SAYS "NOT GUILTY"

Girl Had Confessed Poisoning Wife of Man She Loved.

WOMEN JURORS SOB; MISS GARRISON IS GAY

Will Go to Home for Feeble-Minded Under Orders of Court—Jury Acted Unanimously.

By the Associated Press.

BEATTIE, May 9.—(Ruth Garrison, the 15-year-old girl who confessed to the poisoning of Mrs. Grace G. Storer, her rival for the love of D. M. Storer, on March 24 last, was found not guilty today because of mental irresponsibility at the time of the crime.

The jury was given the case at 2:12 p. m. and returned with a verdict at 5 o'clock. Under instructions given by the court the jury returned affirmative answers to three of four points as follows: Whether the defendant committed the crime charged; whether the jury acquies her because of her insanity or mental irresponsibility at the time of the commission of the crime; whether her insanity or mental irresponsibility continues and exists at the time of the trial.

Under the state law the court would be compelled, as a result of the verdict, to sentence Miss Garrison to the state penitentiary at Walla Walla for treatment for the criminally insane, but as there are no accommodations at the penitentiary for women of this type, she will be transferred to the state hospital for feeble-minded.

Smiling, Miss Garrison received the verdict, then with a laugh she kissed her mother. Of the two women jury members one sobbed as the verdict was read and several of the male jurors cried. Many spectators were moved to tears. Miss Garrison, as she was led from the court room, was laughing gaily.

GALHOUN IS APPROACHING N. Y. HARBOR

Flood of Subscriptions Insures Victory Loan Success.

SHIP EXPECTED IN NEW YORK ON TIME

St. Louis District Is Over Its Quota and Still Going Strong for Big Showing.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The navy's Victory ship, the Calhoun, tonight was nearing New York, or the "harbor of Victory." Greatly increased subscriptions to the Victory Liberty loan, which covers her progress here, enabled the Calhoun during the last two days, to steam at her full speed of 35 knots and tonight the navy department reported the destroyer to be off the Virginia coast.

Nearly $1,200,000 remains to be subscribed to the Victory liberty loan in the single remaining day of the campaign. Sales intimated tonight by the treasury showed $3,314,870,000 already subscribed, or 73.66 per cent of the total required.

Returned 24 Hours Late.

The total of subscriptions announced tonight by the treasury represents campaign results of at least 24 hours earlier and subscriptions actually taken today, together with the first ten per cent financing payment, will not show in the official totals until tomorrow night, at that time when the campaign closed another half billion dollars, representing today's work, is expected by treasury officials. This would raise the total to approximately $4,000,000,000 and leave the remainder of the $4,500,000,000 loan to come from the final day's sales.

The increase today was $496,303,000 the largest of any day in the campaign.

Subscriptions Held In.

The flood of subscriptions today for the first time carried the percentage of quota for the Victory liberty loan ahead of the record in the fourth Liberty loan only 46.9 per cent of the country's quota had been subscribed.

For the third time in as many consecutive campaigns the St. Louis district achieved the honor of being the first to obtain its quota for the entire country. Latest reports from St. Louis tonight show the district with a percentage of 106.1 and it is said to be going strong for a big over-subscription.

TWIN FALLS ROUNDING TOO.

With prospects of the smaller districts going over the top today, members of the Twin Falls Victory loan committee, assisted by the Twin Falls Service Men's association, will arrive to bring the larger points close to their allotted quotas.
