Summary of the International Situation

Latest notices from Berlin are to the effect that the German cabinet has resigned but that temporarily President Ebert is to retain office.

Friday passed with various conflicting reports as to the situation in Germany surrounding the intentions of those in high office to sign or to leave unsigned the peace treaty of the allied and associated governments. The predominant opinion expressed in the numerous dispatches however, indicated that notwithstanding the fact that there was much opposition to them, the terms of the allies finally will be met, even if the signature of the treaty necessitated the restoration or even the removal of those at present in the high councils.

So confused is the situation it is impossible to obtain even a fair idea of conditions in Germany as they really exist, but there seems basis for the belief it is the intention of the Germans finally to acquiesce in the allied demands.

President Wilson has returned to Paris from his trip to Belgium and today with President Ebert, George and Clemenceau discussed both the Italian cabinet crisis and the German situation. It is reported from Rome that the Italian government has accepted the peace delegation in Paris and will accept a solution of the Dalmatian question arrived at by President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salls. If Your Back Hurts Or Headache Bothers.

If you must have meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salt occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that most foods uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker, then you suffer with a dull pain in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or stick headache, dizziness, your stomach is flat and is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine glazes cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, the kidneys and flush of the body's uric acid, take four ounces of Salls from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the body's uric acid, is pure and combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Salls is inexpensive, cannot be faked, and makes a delightful alternative lithia-water drink.

Italian Fire-Eater Plans Revolution

Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italy's fire-eater, is reported again on the war-path, this time against the present government in Italy. He denounces the story. It is to the effect that he has plotted to force parliament out and set up a military dictatorship with S onator, Ciaradino at the head, and that that he has back of him the War Veterans' Union.

SAVING ON SHIPS

To a public that is beginning to find war expenses rather oppressive, there is cheer and encouragement in the report of Chairman Hurley of the shipping board on the government's big shipping venture.

In the hands of big business men, the shipping board has produced and is producing results. The launching of a ship attracts no such attention now as it did when Germany was sinking merchantmen faster than the combined efforts of the world's ship builders could produce them.

The United States already has a great merchant marine. When completed, according to present plans it will include 2434 vessels aggregating nearly 14,000,000 dead weight tons. This represents new construction, in addition to the tonnage formerly under the American flag and that bought from other nations.

All this costs money. The total bill will be nearly $3,000,000,000. The most cheering thing about Chairman Hurley's report, however, is the revelation of how little actual loss there is likely to be. It appears that the board is now selling new ships in the open market for as much, and in some cases more than it cost to build them. This is surprising, in view of the high cost of construction under wartime conditions.

The older vessels naturally will bring less, and the dumping of a large amount of tonnage on the market will naturally tend to force down prices all along the line. Still, the loss at worst will not be more than a few hundred millions. This may be set down to war expenses which the nation rather expected to assume for the sake of the safety given by a big merchant fleet. Or it may be set down to investment for the sake of future trade and industrial expansion. In either event, Uncle Sam, despite the admitted failures and blunders of this vast enterprise, emerges with a pretty good record. Uncle has built for a great emergency the biggest fleet ever turned out to order in a given time, and it will all most pay for itself.

SALE OF EXPLOSIVES

There are mutterings of more bomb-throwing. The Fourth of July is hinted at as a time when this most venomous and cowardly of all attacks is to be made.

The only way to restrict this sort of thing is to control the sale of explosives. This has been done successfully in many localities where the "safe and sane" Fourth is observed. Children are not allowed explosive fireworks, because of the resultant accidents when they are used. Where such laws have been passed it is impossible for even the most noise-loving boy to purchase a pack of fire crackers. If it can be done in a small way to protect children it can be carried further.

When the provisioning of armies and starving nations meant rationing it was done. Neither millionaire nor merchant could purchase more than his allotted share of any commodity were it sugar, wheat or coal. The greedy one who did was haled into court, censured and fined. The same measures could be followed in controlling the sale of explosives when human lives are at stake, if undertaken on the same comprehensive scale.

We must come finally by education to the point where men of all nations see that the way of violence is not the way of freedom. But until that day comes, strict vigilance, carried to the remotest corner, prompt punishment of a severity commensurate with the crime, and depriving the violent man of the tools for his cruel trade are our only defense.

WHAT ALL MEN WANT

"What the blind want," says a devoted friend of the blind, who by the way is blind himself, "is not pity, but understanding, not resignation, but independence. Don't think of these men as blind. Just think of them as normal men that cannot see. Give a man something to do. That is all that makes happiness in life, whether a man has all his senses or only a few. Release the creative impulse, the creative energy, let him know that he can and is accomplishing something, and he is fixed."

The marvelous success which is crowning the work among the blind soldiers, is due to the recognition of just those principles. Every task that a blind man might try is tried, and it has been found possible to extend their range to a multitude of employments which until recently had been considered impossible. The result is a marvelous independence of their blindness, and a progress, in spite of their handicaps, which proves the wisdom of the theory. And so blind men in these days are happy, just because they have been given something to do and are doing it—because they have resumed their place among the producers of the world.

And truly enough, this is all that anybody needs to make him happy. The worker whose hours are filled with labor suited to his powers has no time for unhappiness, for crime, for unrest.

Whether a man be halt or blind, or in full possession of all his faculties, he is happy exactly in proportion as he uses what he has to set the world further upon its way. "Get work, get work!" It will help you more than what you work to get."

OUTDOOR CHURCH

The difficult problem of getting people to go to church in hot weather has been tackled in a new way by a group of Cleveland ministers. Recognizing that most people prefer to be out in the open air on Sunday morning rather than in a hot, stuffy building, they have taken church outdoors.

Twelve churches have combined in a service which is held in one of the parks. The park benches serve as pews. There is plenty of shade, and usually a breeze. One of the most interesting phases of this rather informal service is that there is always a fringe of men on the outskirts of the main body of worshippers, lying comfortably on the grass and smoking their pipes or cigars. The pastors, while not encouraging the use of tobacco by those seated on the benches, make no objection to the others smoking.

It doesn't seem to argue unqualified success when it takes twelve churches to assemble one fair-sized congregation, with all the attraction of outdoors and smoking privileges. Still, it seems like the foundation of a good plan, which may in time prove genuinely successful.

Certainly there need be no religious scruples against outdoor services. "The groves," as some poet wrote, "were God's first temples." Gothic church architecture is recognized as having been suggested and inspired by the over-arching branches of such natural temples: The old Druids who worshipped in forest, may be set down as "heathen," yet they undoubtedly had strong religious feeling, due in large part to their environment. Even today, many people maintain that they can experience a genuinely religious mood best outdoors, and especially under the trees.

KUDZU: New Forage Plant

By Robert H. Moulton.

FIRST FIELD GROWN IN THE UNITED STATES

CUTTING KUDZU

KUDZU WHEEL DEEP IN JUNE

AMONG the many scientific discoveries brought about by the war is the fact that in kudzu, a leguminous plant, this country possesses one of the hardiest and most valuable forage plants known. Indeed, this unique vine seems destined to become one of the leading sources of wealth in certain sections of the United States. Especially is this true of the southern states, where slow development of agriculture has been due in large measure to the lack of good nutritious pastures and of roughage that lasts throughout the entire year.

While kudzu is by no means a new plant, it was only a year ago that any extensive experiments were made with it; the number of farms on which it was grown was insignificant. In fact, it appears not to have been studiously cultivated anywhere until a Florida man made his accidental discovery that his live stock seemed to prefer it to any other kind of forage plant and that they waded fat upon it. As this was at a time when the high cost of live forced many farmers to reduce the daily allowance of their animals, he hastened to plant a number of acres to kudzu, with the most satisfactory results.

Builds Up Poor Land.
It was not only as a feed for his farm animals that he discovered value in the plant, however. He found that, by reason of its power of extracting nitrogen from the air through the medium of the bacteria on its roots and adding this essential element to the soil, it quickly built up poor and worn-out land, making it fertile and productive. "In this respect he," Merson "is even superior to clover, alfalfa and other leguminous plants. Last season he made the best corn ever grown in Florida, averaging 82 bushels to the acre, on land that the season before had been planted to kudzu, and this without any fertilizer whatever. What made the experiment more interesting was the fact that this land previously never produced a good crop of any sort, being considered practically worthless.

All this came about as the result of a few vines which had been planted on the lower end of his home for ornamental purposes. Kudzu makes a beautiful growth, the leaves being of a dark green, and is one of the fastest growers known, producing a dense white vine that trails over the fence, the vines trailing over the top of a five-story building in only a few days in which it gets into impossible condition, something that is impossible if rains were frequent.

Again, all the legumes, with the exception of kudzu, are open to objection through dropping their leaves and shattering while curing and harvesting. And, it heavy rain on them, or

The three roots so dug up were thrown on a trash pile in one corner of the yard, with the idea that, since it wanted to run on the ground, it would grow and conceal the trash pile.

It not only did this the first season, but continued to re-grow until it covered all the adjoining fence, finally reaching the barn lot, where the family horse was kept. According to his owner, the horse literally wore his mane off reaching under the bars of the fence for the vine, while the night-hog and hogs continually broke through the fence to get it.

Becoming alarmed, lest the plant might be poisonous, the owner of the horse sent some of it to the department of agriculture for an opinion. On learning from this source that kudzu was not a poisonous growth, that very little, he began investigating and experimenting, with the result that he found by repeated analyses to contain an average of 17 per cent of protein, in one instance the percentage being 21.2. The average percentage of protein in alfalfa is 14.5 per cent. On a measured space 30 feet square he cut during one season at the rate of 11 tons cured hay of four cuttings. This, however, was an exceptionally fortunate season, there being no late frosts, and the first cutting was ready May 1. The second cutting was made June 11, the third the last of July, and the fourth early in September.

While it is not claimed that kudzu will make any cuttings every season, nor yield 11 tons per acre at a cutting, it is believed that a safe estimate is a yield of three to four cuttings, with a yield of two to four to six tons per acre, under favorable circumstances. And experiments have proved that it is perfectly hardy all over the United States, enduring the winters as far north as Nova Scotia.

Hardy in the South.
What is needed in the South especially, is a forage that stock can live and keep fat on the year around. There are many valuable cultivated crops that make immense yields, but their period of making life is short, making frequent plantings necessary in order to have a complete succession. The velvet bean, for instance, is an all-season crop, but it is not ready to feed until November. The cowpea, soy beans, and the various summer and winter mellets are good forage crops, but all must be planted in succession and cultivated for best results. Furthermore, in the case of crops that must be harvested before feeding, the farmer has only a few days in which to get it into favorable condition, something that is impossible if rains were frequent.

Again, all the legumes, with the exception of kudzu, are open to objection through dropping their leaves and shattering while curing and harvesting. And, it heavy rain on them, or any of the grasses, hay or fodders during the period of curing means serious injury if not complete ruin.

Many Hardy Qualities.

Kudzu, however, possesses none of these disadvantages. One planting lasts for many years and it may be cut or pastured at any time during the season, in north Florida, from about the middle of April until frost comes in March, when it was planted in Florida. And where there is a growth left in the ground, stock will feed on it all winter. Stock, in fact, have been known to eat the dead leaves and vines which have late and anti-weathered until March, when it was planted in Florida. In preference to the best hay that could be bought. The vines do not bloom or bear seed, and its roots penetrate the soil deeply, for which reason, they remain green, and full of life during the entire growing season. Accordingly, the hay can be cut any time when weather conditions are suitable for curing hay, as kudzu is not injured by waiting for good weather to cut and haul it as a hay crop. On the contrary, experience has shown that it is no more trouble to cut or handle than a heavy crop of red clover, Mexican clover, ensilage, or any other hay that makes a matted growth with its mass under to handle than either cowpea or velvet bean. Unlike the cowpea and velvet bean, kudzu is anchored to the ground every few inches, and so the vines cannot drag ahead of the mowing blade, as in the case of peas and beans.

Kudzu should be prepared by means of the rooted plants, for when these plants are removed to new fields they carry with them the bacteria, on the inharities of their roots, which are necessary to inoculate the new soil in order to secure the best results. When the plant becomes well established it needs no further cultivation, being able to control native weeds and grasses without assistance. The roots are very many years, and do not require replanting after the first season.

The proper time for planting kudzu is two or three weeks in advance of corn planting, or a little earlier if one can get the ground ready. A full crop of corn may be grown on the same land during the first year by simply dropping the grains between the plants. Neither crop will interfere with the other, and both need about the same attention. The ground, however, should be left smooth and level until the last cultivation to permit easy rooting of the vines or runners and subsequent mowing for hay. After the first year the kudzu will not need any cultivation at all, as the vines will root at the joints.

Jess Big Enough to Wear Jack Dempsey Down

JACK HEMPLE
By FRID TURBYVILLE

WILLARD AND TURBYVILLE

TOLEDO, O., June 24.—Another little worry in the Dempsey camp is the possibility of Big Jess using his weight to wear down the challenger in the clinches. And that is a point that will have much to do in the choice of a referee.

"I will insist on a referee who is big enough and fearless enough to break the fighters promptly and Jess Willard from wearing down Dempsey," said Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager. "Of course Willard's great also would, soon wear Dempsey down if he were allowed to lean his weight on Jack in prolonged clinches.

"That is another point in favor of Matt Hinkel as referee for the big fight. Matt is almost as big as Willard and much bigger than Dempsey and no one ever accused Matt of being afraid to break 'em no matter how big they were. Matt is quite athletic himself, and keeps in physical trim the year round, tight or no tight. To illustrate the point one has but to gaze at Jack Hemple and Jess Willard in the ring to see where Kearns' precautions are warranted. When Big Jess are on his opponent the opponent is under some strain. Twenty or 30 seconds of this in a round and the challenger would be ready to retire about the end of the sixth or seventh.

Walter Monahan, weighing 215 trim the year round, tight or no tight, looks like a boy in the ring with Willard and Hemple looks like a baby's foot to gaze at Jess Willard and Jess Willard. But the referee can make a difference in the ring to see where Kearns' precautions are warranted. When Big Jess are on his opponent the opponent is under some strain. Twenty or 30 seconds of this in a round and the challenger would be ready to retire about the end of the sixth or seventh.

Alexander was a member of the Seattle team of the "floody" league for two years and is said to have lots of stuff.

"Buhl has secured two pitchers from the same organization while Piler and Durfy are also said to be dickering with "kiddes" from the coast.

HIGH COST OF RUNNING A ZOO IS GETTING HIGHER

LONDON, June 24.—There's a shortage of wild animals, too. The high cost of maintaining a zoo is getting higher. Record orders, especially from the United States, are pouring into a British syndicate. One was for 15 elephants, 15 lions, 15 leopards, 8 hippopotamuses, 8 rhinoceroses, 8 giraffes and numerous other animals. A giraffe now costs $6000, an elephant or rhinoceros $5000, each, a lion $2500 and a leopard $200. Freight rates are high, too. Passage for a giraffe from Africa to England, before the war $150, is now $750, while the rate for a leopard is $300, the same as the animal's market value.

call of the country's products, with articles of wearing apparel and luxuries most wanted, and the chief concern expressed being as to deliveries of goods, with prices to be paid a secondary matter. Even the great industrial lines that have hitherto lagged—iron, steel, and to a lesser extent, coal—showed buying increasing and output enlarging.

"Bank clearings—$8,857,868,000, a gain of 10 per cent over last week."

NEW YORK, June 20.—So far as today's stock market could be said to have any direct propelling force or definite factor, greater interest was involved in the trend of news from the water than in domestic developments.

Reports of the resignation of the German cabinet were in circulation before the opening and are believed to have accounted for the early irregularity.

"Although the turnover fell far short of the large total of recent weeks, dealings were unusually broad, embracing a greater variety of rails also, steels, equipments and specialties, notably the food group.

"Bills and motors and kindred accessories were less responsive to easy moderate accumulation, but buying of those issues became more extensive in the very active final hour.

Investment rails were only moderately strong, interest and activity in transportation centers around mine shares, particularly Texas and Florida, which made a gross recovery of nine points to the highest level since reorganization. Sales amounted to 1,300,000 shares.

Foreign bonds failed to reflect reported political changes abroad and domestic issues, including the liberty division, were merely sold. Total sales, per value aggregated, $3,400,000. Old United States bonds unchanged on call.

Final prices on liberty bonds today were: 3 1/2%, $99.32; first 4%, $94.90; second 4%, $94.18; third 4%, $95.10; fourth 4 1/2%, $92.30; Victory 3 1/2%, $100; Victory 4 1/2%, $98.86.

Grain

CHICAGO, June 20.—Reports that a new German cabinet would sign the peace treaty did a good deal today to lift the corn market to the highest level yet this season. However, shippers and industries then withdrew and prices closed weak at the same level as yesterday's finish, to half-cent lower, with July $1.81 to $1.81 1/2 and September $1.74 to $1.74 1/2. Oats lost a shade to 1/4c. In provisions, there were gains varying from 30c to 5c.

SEEK ACTION BY SENATE ON PEACE TREATY

Opponents of League Wish Decision Made Before Signing of Covenant.

ROOT AND KNOX IN CONFERENCE

Sherman's Effort to Bring Church Into Question Is Bitterly Attacked by Senator Ashurst.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—While the senate was thrashing over issues of the league of nations controversy today in one hour's session, a number of league opponents started a revival of sentiment for some definite action on the subject.

The debate, which several times ran into bitter passages, turned up a new issue when it was charged that the league would have a majority of Roman Catholic members who might be influenced to bring the whole civilized world under the domination of the papacy.

The discussion outside the senate chamber regarding the issue of the league opponents developed considerable difference of opinion among the leaders and failed to produce any definite plan of action.

Root Takes a Part.

In these discussions Elihu Root, former secretary of state, was a central figure, talking over the situation with Senator Knox, republican, Penn. "Buck" and other opposition leaders. Tonight Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee returned to the capital to take part in the conference.

Some senators thought the opposition would bring its plan to the point of action tomorrow so that senate could go on record before the peace negotiations end at Versailles Monday.

Expected to Go Over.

The more general prediction, however, was that the subject would go over into next week.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, replied declaring the inferences drawn were "monstrous" and would not be taken seriously by any sensible man.

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, contended the league was offering "the finest barrier against any humanity that has yet known."

"Consideration of opposition plans centered during the day around Senator Knox's resolution by which the senate would ask that it be permitted to pass on the peace terms without any change of reference to the present the league of nations. At first it had been hoped to get action on this proposal before Monday, but the best his supporters now believe possible is a tie vote.

LEAGUE APPROVED

Some people may think nothing to do with internal affairs. If the American people and American labor agree to this it becomes the law of the United States and it cannot be amended except by unanimous consent of all or on the field of battle.

He termed the covenant an instrument to set up a super-legislature in which one American labor representative, one American employer, and two representatives of the American government to compose the delegation from the United States.

All Right Under Wilson.

"We are not sure who is going to be the next president of the United States. That arrangement would be all right under Wilson, but what guarantees is there that labor won't be credited three to one under another president?" he asked.

Sheppard mentioned the thirteenth amendment to the American constitution and the question of the American League in Paris fought to have its principles incorporated in the league, but that "Barney of England ridiculed the idea by saying there is no slavery in Europe."

He also said propositions to incorporate the cardinal principles of the Beaman's act in the league covenant were voted down by British representatives and that after the American delegation had left Paris the word "inference" was inserted in the league. The labor part of an article of commerce or a commodity, thus changing the meaning of that section. He declared no American ideas had been left in the document.

Opposed by Sherman.

Mr. Compere delivered a long speech explaining his position fully. He told of the difficulties he had while chairman of the international commission of labor legislation, which drafted the labor covenant, saying he was opposed to the treaty on every question and that the principal objection came from the radical socialists.

President Compere said he always felt while in Paris that American labor could be sure of itself but that he insisted upon certain conditions being inserted in the labor covenant "to bring the light into the lives of workers in backward countries."

AMERICAN BREAK RECORDS IN INTER-ALLIED STROKEOUT

By the Associated Press.

COLOMBES, June 19.—Two world records made at the St. Louis games in 1904 were equaled by American athletes in the inter-allied strokeout today. Archie Hahn's long standing mark of 21.4 seconds for the 200 meter dash was tied by Lieutenant A. W. Padlock, University of California, while in the 200 meter low hurdle Sylvester, University of Missouri, held by a small margin his cousin, Robert Simpson, of the same college, who holds the world's record for the 120 yard hurdles. In this event Sylvester equaled the world's record of 24.3 seconds.

Eddie Trencher, Harvard, A. E. F. sprint champion, against a surprise by defeating Bill Butler, negro sprinter from Dubuque college, in the 100 meter dash. Butler, however, can't beat Henry, winning with 23 foot 3.4 inches the best time from Henry Worthington, American national champion.

HUNS SCURRY

It is a surprising factor, as an opponent has been regarded as an honored signing.

EDBERT TO REMAIN.

BERLIN, June 20.—The cabinet resigned at 2 o'clock this morning. President Ebert will remain in office pending the formation of a cabinet, which is a difficult task because nobody or any party wants to assume the responsibility of signing the peace treaty.

It is understood the national assembly tomorrow may vote a referendum of the entire people for Sunday June 22 at which signature of the terms will be submitted for ratification. It is claimed that this would have the huge vote of approval, since in the large area of war and want peace on any terms.

Between Herr Noack, the minister of defense, and Dr. Mueller, under-secretary of the war food bureau, the race for the premiership seems to be a strong one. Dr. Mueller seems to have the advantage on account of his greater adaptability in meeting the desires of the Independents.

The democrats, still fighting against signing, today expelled Baron von Richthofen from the peace committee because he favored signing the treaty.

TROOPS ARE DETAINED

JUJARI, June 20.—Troops destined for the Coast Grande district to guard Chinese colonies are being detained along the way by the necessity of repairing sections of the railroad destroyed by Villa forces, prior to their recent attack on this city, it was learned today. Repair crews are placing the railroad south in condition for use again and part of the troops bound for Coast Grande are guarding these workers, while the others are being held here.

Repairs Soon Made.

Repairs will be completed within two or three days, the officers said, so that such that trains can be run to within a short distance of the colony. The repair crew yesterday worked only two or three miles from Juarez, but today was making about eight miles south of here.

FEDERALS IN NORTH

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 20.—General Francisco Martinez, in command of 600 federal cavalry and infantry, is expected to reach Acua Prieta tomorrow afternoon from Hermosillo, via Nogales, to establish headquarters according to an official message received from Acua Prieta today. The arrival of this force and the establishment of garrisons at El Tiro, Nacozari will do much to relieve the uneasiness growing out of anticipation of possible Villa raids through the passes of the Sierra Madre mountains into the Bavispe river district. Citizen soldiers Jim Bavispe and Bascora, who have been keeping watch at Pulpito pass will be relieved by the regulars, it is understood.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Andrew Hansen, 25, and Nora L. Lowe, 16, both of Twin Falls. As the girl was under age the consent of the mother was filed.

WANT BANKS AID IN FOREIGN TRADE

Legislation to Permit National Organizations to Participate in Promotion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Legislation to permit all national banks to become stockholders of corporations organized in promoting foreign trade will be recommended to congress tomorrow by the federal reserve board. An amendment to the federal reserve act will be suggested which will unlock perhaps $100,000,000 of capital for financing the tremendous enterprises which other nations claim to make in this country. By furnishing a basis for long-term credits to countries already heavily in debt to the United States, again by congress in accordance with the board's recommendation it is expected to hasten the normal conditions in Europe and at the same time contribute materially to the continued prosperity in America.

All day discussion with the executive committee of the federal advisory council proceeded the announcement.

At present, national banks are limited by law in their ownership of stock in other enterprises. A bank must have $1,000,000 in capital and in surplus in order to apply to the board for stock in a corporation organized in international or foreign banking, and may not invest more than 10% (ten) per cent of its capital and surplus.

6000 SWISS VOLUNTIERS IN FRENCH ARMY KILLED

GENEVA, June 20.—Swiss volunteers were among the bravest fighters in the French Foreign Legion. Official reports show that out of 10,000 Swiss officers and men enlisted 6000 were killed in France and 1500 were wounded or missing. At Verdun they refused to retreat though surrounded by Germans and suffered their heaviest losses there.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER IS AGAIN HEAD OF LABORITES

By the Associated Press.

BELMONT, Wash., June 20.—William Short of Seattle was overwhelmingly reelected president today of the Washington state federation of labor in convention here. His victory was regarded as a triumph of the conservative labor element over the so-called radicals and anti-congress faction.

RAT FUR MAY BECOME FASHION IN NEW COATS

LONDON, June 20.—Rat fur may figure largely in fashions for coats and trimmings for dresses and suits. The skins, further say, will give a lining better than may now be had in coats which cost from $200 to $300. Such a market for rat skins would help in the extermination of the rodent.

Cures New Yorkers

J.M. HICKSON

By J. H. DUCKWORTH

NEW YORK, June 20.—Strange claims for this modern Babylon are being witnessed at Trinity church. The lame, the halt and the blind are making pilgrimages daily to this old bulwark of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States, to be treated by James Moore Hickson, a practitioner from England, who heals the sick by the laying on of hands and by prayer as taught by Christ himself.

Among the "miracles" this modern healer is credited with, having performed in New York is the cure of two children, victims of the infantile paralysis.

FAVOR MORE MONEY FOR ARMY'S USE

Senate's Full Committee Approves Addition to the House Appropriations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Docket of the senate military sub-committee to provide for an army of 400,000 for the next fiscal year was upheld by the full committee tonight considering the army appropriation bill. With but minor changes in the more important appropriations as fixed by the subcommittee the full committee virtually completed tonight consideration of the entire bill. Chairman Wadsworth plans to report the measure to the senate tomorrow.

As the bill now stands it will provide for the appropriation of approximately $200,000,000 for military purposes compared to $181,000,000 carried in the house bill. Among appropriations allowed by the committee was one of $300,000 for post roads in Alaska, an increase of $200,000 over the house appropriation.

Provisions were also made for $100,000 for the purchase of Rockwell field, San Diego, California, for construction of old-fashioned cottages appropriations for bringing close-home bodies of American dead in France were eliminated. The house provision prohibiting the war department from purchasing real estate was modified so as to enable it to adjust existing contracts for land and acquire land previously leased upon which buildings for war purposes have been constructed. This provision affects about 1,000 contracts involving millions of dollars.

CAN "BIG BERTHA" FIRE SHELL TO THE SEARS?

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 20.—"Big Bertha" guns captured from the Germans may be used in scientific experiments. The Journal says plans have been made to use the big gun's propulsive power in a study of high atmosphere by means of a special projectile. At a 41-degree angle a "Bertha" can shoot 40,000 feet vertically. It can shoot almost 50 miles horizontally. Scientists planning the experiment are wondering what the other is like up there—"if terrestrial attraction exists or whether a projectile fired from it would continue on its way toward the stars.
